Throughout his career as a Democratic boss, McCooey was a staunch friend of Tammany Hall and when his death is seen by political observers as the end of Tammany's domination of the Democratic party in New York City. It is regarded almost certain that he would be succeeded by a leader, who is acknowledged by supporters of President Roosevelt and who will run the Brooklyn organization as a part of the Democratic State organization and not as an auxiliary to Tammany.

SWIM STARS' CHILD DIES

Son Born on Friday Last to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Young

Philadelphia, Jan. 22. —(AP) — The son born to Mrs. Eleanor Holm George W. Young, internationally known swimming champion, died early today in a hospital. The child was born last Friday.

Mrs. Young is the former Marguerite Eavior of this city, who threw open the Canadian National Exhibition women's swim marathon. Her husband, who lives in Toronto, first won fame by winning the Canadian Island Swim, later won the Canadian National Exhibition championship. They were married here in November, 1932.

PROBE FINDS STAFF LAXITY

Magistrate's Report of Newfoundland Inquiry Is Issued

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 22. —(CP Cable)—C. T. Anderson, appointed magistrate for the district of Ferryland today taken administrative control of the Anglican and Newfoundland Infirmary where Magistrate A. Walsh and six others were declared responsible conditions.

Magistrate Anderson, from extensive investigation into affairs of the institution, Magistrate Valentine Hanington, Chairman of the staff charges of laxity of duty, intoxication, gross, criminal negligence of drugs, lack of proper care for patients, improper and inadequate treatment in feeding of patients.

The report says that the male superintendent spent much of his time in the matron's room, staff nurse was "fond of drink and a night prowler," was also addicted to the Government with a reconstruction of the institution and the "present staff nurse, the day nurse, will make excellent so-called probation nurses".

Drunkenly Handled

Brandy and poisonous drugs were loosely handled, said the report, and the effects on the patients suffered if they were properly used. The kitchen staff was found to be slack, neglecting to visit certain parts of the building, and the cook on the Island's "most destitute charges, many of whom are senile or mentally deficient."

Goods belonging to the Dominion Government were found to be missing, found by the Magistrate to have been disposed of. Bed clothing was swore he had seen an attendant pilfering the purse of a dying patient. Inmates were alleged to have been left to die. "While attendants were in room only when ready for burial," while officials "were content" with a perfunctory visit of medicine and care of sick patients to the night watchman. The report declared.

Emphasizing the "disgraceful" treatment in feeding patients, the Magistrate declared that it was "a shame to economize on butter and "the blind had to feel very carefully to find which side was buttered."

"But," the report said, "like poor Lazarus, these patients never had anyone to whom they could complain."

Government authorities declined to comment on the report which is taken on Magistrate's findings and intimated any statement probably would come from the Public Works Department which controls "the Home."

MINISTER OF CROWN HELD FOR LARCENY

Hon. W. J. Walsh, of Newfoundland Released After Arrest

STAMPS TAKEN

Removed From Museum Systematically Since 1920

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 22—Hon. W. J. Walsh, minister of Agriculture and Mines in the Newfoundland cabinet, was arrested and charged with larceny in connection with the disappearance of part of the government's huge collection of foreign stamps.

He was taken immediately before a magistrate and freed on $4,000 bail.

The Minister is charged with appropriating to his own use Newfoundland Museum three bound volumes of unused stamps, valued at between $5,000 and $6,000. They were part of the government's $120,000 collection, about half of which has disappeared.

Investigations by detectives have been probing mysterious disappearance since the fire which destroyed weeks ago. The thefts, apparently, had been going on for a brief period extending from 1920, when the museum was closed.

Those of an undetermined value were taken also from the St. John's Post Office. The packages, collected from all part of the world for almost a half century, had been stored in the two buildings for safekeeping. Those in the museum were valued considerably by collectors, some of the stamps in the other building were in bulk and others had a large quantity were merely packaged.

Whole volumes of stamps were found recently to have vanished from the museum. Many of the post office volumes were stripped of their stamps. The packages, according to authorities, had been rifled and contents taken.

Investigators, dividing their time between the stamp thefts and a probe into a series of burglaries that were expected to make further arrests in the theft cases before long.

Three men were already under arrest in the other case, and one, Percy Fearn, was being given preliminary hearing on six charges. He and the accused were described as members of a "ring" which manufactured and sold counterfeit Newfoundland's costly air-mail issues.

One of the men arrested was said the world's most expensive serial issue—the $5.00 surcharge marking the Transcontinental Atlantic flight of General Italo Balbo and his Italian airmen, last year.

MOSAIC LAW IS INVOKED

Book of Deuteronomy Used in Divorce Suit in Germany

Berlin, Jan. 22 (AP)—An ancient Mosaic law was invoked today in a divorce proceedings between a Jewish couple and a Christian high school teacher.

The Jewish husband invoked the woman's divorce petition and based his findings on the book of Deuteronomy to give a divorcement letter according to the book of Deuteronomy.

The 24th chapter of Moses was quoted as follows: "When a man hath taken a wife and married her, and it come to pass that she find not favour in his eyes, because he hath found some uncleanness in her: then let him write her a bill of divorcement and give it in her hand, and send her out of his house."

German laws provide that in such cases statutes may be applicable in the principals' former religious faith, if desired.

The Jewish couple involved in the unusual case today are Polish-Russians. The court found that a Polish law governing Jewish marriages which dated back to 1836 applied. This law is based on the book of Deuteronomy.

EXCHANGE FOR MILK BOTTLES

Magistrate Makes Suggestion After Fining Milkman

Charged with filling other dairymen's milk bottles with milk for the purpose of sale, Henry Farnham, Canniffton, milk dealer, pleaded guilty and was fined $50.00 and costs by His Worship Magistrate Mikel in Monday morning's police court. The charge followed an investigation regarding the alleged trafficking of milk bottles in this city. B. C. Donnan, K.C., local Crown Attorney, prosecuted the case and related that he had sent out registered letters to all milk dealers regarding the filling of other dairymen's milk bottles, which he said in an indictable offence. The accused man assured the court that he had never taken another man's milk bottles purposely. The mix-up in milk bottles had occurred at grocery stores, he said.

His Worship suggested that a reciprocal exchange station where all local milk dealers could retrieve their bottles should be established. The matter has been before the police continuously for some years but no definite action has been taken as a result with the result that the first case of its kind resulted in a conviction today.

BIG BUSINESS "TIPPED OFF"

This Charge is Made by Senator Gerald Nye Against NRA

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—A charge by United States Senator Gerald Nye (R.-N.D.) that there are "stool pigeons" in the NRA who tip off big business concerns when little industrialists are exploited unfair trade practices is published today by the Washington Post.

Nye, who has been in controversy with Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, is quoted as asserting he is not through with his end of the battle and will have more to say later. The paper further quotes him:

"Experience has shown that the complainant has been assured by a compliance board that he would not be compromised in any way, if he has been only a matter of hours before his competitor knew the nature of the complaint and who made it. Life has been made that much more miserable for the independent business man.

"I fear independents are not going to have such confidence as will permit some of them to file complaints with compliance boards of the NRA."

OBITUARY

MRS. MARTHA DEVLIN DALE

Marmora, Jan. 22 (Special)— At 4.35 p.m. on Thursday, and about 10 weeks after the death of her son the late J. D. Dale, Mrs. Martha Dale, daughter of the late John Devlin, Liberal M.P., at the time of Confederation, passed away at the residence of Mrs. J. D. Dale in her Mowat-eighth year.

Deceased as a girl attended the original log school, the first public stone structure which when converted into a soup factory was later destroyed by fire. She was also a poor health for a number of years and had only confined to her room for the past three months.

She was a Methodist with deep religious convictions and one who had an intimate knowledge of the Bible. She is the last of her father's family to pass. Her wife and she was predeceased by all of her children; two sons and one daughter. A number of grandchildren survive her.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Dale left the residence of Mrs. Mitchell Dale on Tuesday at 2 p.m. and proceeded to St. Andrew's Church and Cemetery. Interment in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

LATE MRS. WILLIAM O'RAY

Frankford, Jan. 22 (Special) — Following an illness of two days' duration, Mrs. Catherine O'Ray, beloved wife of William O'Ray passed away Thursday last at her late residence in the 5th concession of Sidney township. The deceased lady was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Ryan, and was born in Ireland 48 years ago. She had been a resident of the township in which her death occurred for the past 18 months and had previously lived in Thurlow township, this village and the United States. The late Mrs. O'Ray was a member of St. Alphonsus Church of Wooler and the Holy Rosary, and many friends and neighbors throughout the countryside.

Surviving are her husband, and a son Francis at home; two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Quinn, of Wooler, B.C., and Mrs. William Long of Sayward, B.C., and three brothers, William Delargy at Vancouver, and John, Sydney and Daniel Delargy of Syracuse, N.Y.

Under direction of P. A. Windover of this village, the funeral service was held from her late residence this (Monday) morning at 10 o'clock, at St. Francis of Assisi, Frankford. There the Rev. A. C. Corbey of Wooler, celebrated mass at 10 o'clock, and was also present at the graveside in St. Francis of Assisi cemetery here.

Acting as bearers were Messrs. Charles McCauley, Charles Jandrew, Dennis Corrigan, Thomas Murphy, Fred Cox and John McCormick.

MRS. GEORGE W. CLARK

Sunday forenoon in the Belleville General Hospital, Mrs. Annie Clark, beloved wife of George William Clark, 30 Ridley Street, passed away following a brief illness. Born at Selby, 62 years ago, the daughter of the late William George Secsmith and Annie (English) Secsmith, of Viscount, Sask., the deceased had been a resident of this city for the past 30 years. She was a member of the Victoria Ave. Baptist Church and Lydia Lodge No. 350, I. O. D. E. In both church and fraternal activities she had taking great interest and her removal leaves an unfillable gap in those organizations. To the family remaining to mourn her loss the sympathy of a host of friends is extended.

Immediately surviving are the husband; the mother in Saskatchewan; two daughters, Mrs. Albert Fox of this city and Miss Vera at home; two brothers, William G. and Frank of this city, and Basil, and four sisters, Mrs. George Peck, Mrs. Wm. Crawford and Mrs. Grove Lee all of Toronto, and Mrs. Alex Alexander Baskerville of Winnipeg, Man.

MRS. FRED SWAIN

Mrs. Maggie Swain, beloved wife of Fred Swain of the 3rd. concession of Thurlow, passed away suddenly in the Belleville General Hospital Sunday. The daughter of the late Albert and Marguerite Latta, the deceased was born in Thurlow 61 years ago, and had resided in that township all her life. A member of the Bethany United Church, Mrs. Swain had a host of friends throughout the countryside who sincerely mourn her loss and whose sympathy goes to those bereaved in her passing.

Surviving are the husband; two brothers, Wilson and Albert Latta, of Thurlow township, and three sisters, Mrs. J. Richardson and Mrs. R. Cameron of Tweed and Percy Mott of this city.

FLOYD W. DANFORD

Floyd Wesley Danford, aged eight months old, of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Danford, Cedar Cottage, died suddenly in Belleville.

The child was given a piece of meat to suck and drew it into the throat, causing it to choke and suffocate immediately. It rushed hurriedly to the city, but the child passed shortly afterward; the meat having lodged in the lung.

LATE GEORGE ROOKS

NAPANEE— Death came very suddenly on Sunday last to a well known and highly esteemed resident of Clarksville (a suburb of Napanee) in the person of Mr. George Rooks, at the age of sixty-seven years. The deceased who had suffered from heart trouble for some time, was taken ill in the morning and passed away a few hours later. Mr. Rooks and Mrs. Abel Rooks the deceased was a native of Ameliasburg, and Hillcrest where he spent his early years. When a young man, having decided to go west, he left home and remained in the west until 1906, when he returned to Richmond, the following year he was united in marriage to Miss Anita Locke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Locke, North Fredericksburg. After a few years spent at his former home district, on the Shark Road, Mr. and Mrs. Rooks moved to Clarksville which had been their home ever since.

During the past few years the health of Mr. Rooks had not been of the very best, as she has been in invalid for some time. He was a man who was held in high esteem by his many friends.

Besides his wife he leaves to mourn his loss, two brothers, Henry Rooks, Bloomfield, and Albert Rooks, Pearson, Man.; also three sisters, Mrs. Wm. Hawley, Napanee, Mrs. Andrew Thompson, of Melita, Man., and Mrs. Robert Scott, of Frankford. He was a member of Napanee Lodge, A.F. & A.M. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon, at the family residence with interment at St. Mary's Cemetery.

Hydro Outlook is Called Very Bright

Toronto, Jan. 22—Possible reduction of Ontario Hydro rates will be studied this summer, Hon. J. R. Cooke said Saturday, when asked if his administration in Ont. of a possible $5,000,000 increase in the net reserves during 1933.

Rate drops are considered every year, he said, but he could not predict definitely when "the actual situation" is shown by the survey.

Last summer downward adjustments were given in some classes of service in a total of 50 municipalities.

"The outlook for the future is simply splendid," the Hydro chairman said. "Reduction of capital debt, however, must also be considered."

Modern Saturday Night Falls Short of Old Scots Standard

Rev. Dr. J. Semple Urges Mothers of Present Age to Learn Something of Character of Young Men Courting at The Cotter's Saturday Night" Chosen to Show Virtues and Toil of Scots Folk

"When we recover some of the ideals of the Scots, we shall go far towards doing away with London and others great before the face of God" declared the Rev. Dr. J. Semple, speaking in a Burns anniversary sermon on Sunday evening at Bridge Street United Church. Dr. Semple spent the greater portion of his time in emphasizing the elements in Robert Burns' "Cotter's Saturday Night" which were characteristic of the Scots of the poet's age and which have made the Scots folk "beloved at home, revered abroad."

The setting was thoroughly Scots, the hymns were "From the 23rd Psalms, "Unto the hills around do I lift up my longing eyes" (the last words by the Duke of Argyle); John Milton's "How lovely are Thy dwellings fair"; the scripture lesson the eighty-fourth Psalm, and "The Lord's My Shepherd, I'll Not Want" from the Scottish Psalter, while the organist played during the offering the Bank Dream, "Braes o' Bonnie Doon," and Mrs. (Dr.) Stobie sang "O Ah Johnnie" and Mr. Howard D. Bankier the "Land of the Leal."

Old Fashioned Simplicity and Frugality

An outstanding characteristic of the Scots, Dr. Semple pointed out, those who have received their education in Scotland, in home, school, university, church, was a principle dominant, that of honesty, instilled into their lives. "One of the things thrust upon us in the revelations in the Canadian public service of this day," affirmed the preacher, "is the need for a rebaptism with this old principle of honesty that the nation can be great which is not honest."

The virtue of simplicity and comparative frugal habits was extolled as another characteristic of the Scot. Many speak of oatmeal porridge and the Shorter Catechism as the main things in the life of the Scotch, and rightly so. Patience and courage under adverse circumstances also mark the Scot, said Dr. Semple who pledged the Scots blood on the western prairies of Canada. Affectionate hearts and reverential minds characterized the Scots.

Education

Dr. Semple regretted the great thirst of the Scot for education and learning, today that it is remarkable that there are more books in the homes of the common people than in the homes of any people in the world. A Scots minister is able to find work in almost any places men gifted for the pulpit but also men who can fill a chair in philosophy or education in a university. Edinburgh you will find more books in the shops and the workingmen than in the elect homes of Toronto and there are might say more bookshops in Edinburgh than in any other city in the world," Dr. Semple added.

Worship

The theme of the anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns he provided the minister with an apt theme and Dr. Semple chose the poet's "Cotter's Saturday night" as the finest picture of life among the lowly, ever portrayed by the pen or brush of man.

Dr. Semple took occasion to declare that until the present mother had such a preparation for the Sabbath as Scotland had in Burns' day, things would not be well. Saturday night was to the Sabbath of the Scot what preparatory service was to Sacrament Sunday—a time of anticipation. The circle was the family. In the poem of Burns the cotter exhorts his children to be obedient to their masters and to "fear the Lord always."

Soul Searching Scene

The courtship of the daughter was taken by Dr. Semple as an ideal. Before the laboring lad in love with her could spend an evening in the home of the maiden he sought as to the young man, whereat the minister exclaimed, "Would that modern today could inquire into the moral standing and the financial situation of the young men who come to their homes with their daughters. Many mothers would be fault for judges then to perform their duties when they are overwhelmed by the prominence of ill-selected manners."

Worship

The mother being satisfied, the oatmeal porridge and the milky cheese provide the meal, which is followed by the scene of worship, when the Scriptures are read thoughtfully and the father speaks of the prophet's seraphic fire or touches on fires via the New Testament. Then follows the prayer, thankful that his family is not broken by sin and in a vision he penetrates the vein of the unborn and sees the land united beyond after death. The guests depart after the evening in their last act of the night pray in the Scotch, and "You need not tell me tonight that we are not a praying people," he goes on on Saturday evenings in this modern world. "Are you ready to say we can do without that picture of the old Saturday night?" the preacher interrogated.

Glory of Commonplace

From this picture he drew a lesson of the need of a rebaptism with spiritual zeal, he told how the glory of the commonplace was emphasized by Burns, who looked on the human life occupants and the unaffected piety of the toiling poor. Reference to the "Cotter's Saturday Night" and Last Supper by an Italian artist who was not true to fact, for the artisted the scene with marbles and pictures in the area and a table set to this Dr. Semple showed how Rembandt recovered the beauty and simplicity of the Gospel narrative with the bare room of no adornments, with a few wooden stools, a white table cloth and a simple meal.

"How is the glory of commonplace being revealed today?" he asked. "Perhaps by the social worker in her great city, or those to speak to mothers, who aims to provide recreation and amusement to the children who would otherwise join the street gang. It is in the story of a great man who bears patiently his great illness, or is in a merchant trying to conduct his business honestly. We are so ready for the spectacular in dramatic and we want cries in everything."

Luther overshadowed others in the Reformation, but people should not forget that Gutenberg was the first German printer who was one of the greatest forces leading to the Reformation. Another instance of the commonplace is God entering into the lives of the people.

Christian Home

A lesson drawn was that of the Christian home with its peace and shelter from the cares and turmoil that Ruskin called a vestal temple watched from harm, a place of sweet simplicity, where tender understandings, prayers, eyes lit with the same joy or sorrow, and the same sorrows. Plain living and high thinking made the home what they were.

That Robert Burns had little use for the organized religion of his own day was explained by the state of religion in that age for many preachers were ignorant and dogmatic, just the type to stir Burns.

"Are we losing the home?" asked the minister. "During the war we sang 'Keep the homes fire burning' but great changes have come since then—divorces, homes going on the rocks, far too much driving today—young people can hardly stay at home. You watch them, their hands in their pockets, walking up and down, not knowing what to do to get their freedom."

Reading Lost Art

"The Scotch were fond of reading but today reading is becoming a lost art. Until we get back the Christian spirit in this city destitute assistance to eject the agitators from the camp."

According to the information received by the Ontario-Intelligencer this morning the agitators, three in number it is believed, will be forcibly removed from the camp upon the arrival of the provincial police. No news as to whether the disturbances would be a point where any property damage or injuries had resulted could be learned this morning owing to inadequate telephone service between Belleville and Deseronto.

Seen Through a Window

THIS IS THE MAN'S OWN STORY—

"I was walking along Front Street, window shopping, as my wife calls it. Quick A Robertson had a window with overcoats. Say, we caught me, a dark grey smart coat, looked just my size and what could a fellow do? I couldn't resist the temptation. I bought one for a new coat—the price knocked me for a row—$8.95. I've paid $25, $35, $45 for coats not half as much."

"I went right in and bought.

"Was it a Bargain?

"Even my wife was satisfied that I had actually saved at least $15.

"I have since found that Quick & Robertson can carry such an enormous stock to give a wide choice and variety that every year at this time they put on a clearance sale which is a sale, so as not to carry any Overcoats over the season."

And that immense stock means that every able man or boy can be fitted to perfection.

And SO-O-O-O, as Ed Wynn would say — get your overcoat now while they are going, going and will soon be gone as prices which will never again return in our lifetimes.

FEAR OUTBREAK AT ROAD CAMPS

Provincial Police Dispatched to Denbigh to Quell Trouble

Agitation for provincial management are alleged by the police to have broken out in the Northern Development Camps, particularly at Sunday. Information relating to the trouble was relayed to Inspector Gardner of Provincial Police at Belleville late Sunday afternoon following which Provincial Constables Kelly and Campbell were dispatched to the scene of the outbreak.

Although details relating to the agitation were rather meagre, reports from the camps are to the effect that agitators were heard orating regarding the possibility of a strike being called by the workers towards an increase in wages. Mr. Hood, the clerk at the camp north of Kaladar, was in direct telephonic communication with Inspector Gardner at this city during assistance to eject the agitators from the camp.

According to the information received by the Ontario-Intelligencer this morning the agitators, three in number it is believed, will be forcibly removed from the camp upon the arrival of the provincial police. No news as to whether the disturbances would be a point where any property damage or injuries had resulted could be learned this morning owing to inadequate telephone service between Belleville and Deseronto.

COMPLETES 30 YEARS AS COMPOSING ROOM FOREMAN

Charles H. Hardwick of Ontario Intelligencer Still Going Strong

Charles H. Hardwick of the Ontario Intelligencer staff, is rushing about the composing room of this paper, as its foreman, and setting Monday's paper's columns of type, his advertisements and its features in order, to feed to the awaiting press rooms. Thirty years ago Charlie returned his apron from the call "Reporter," to assume command of the old "Ontario" composing room, and 30 years ago today started his hustling there, which has in no way abated since.

Under the late T. S. Carman, proprietor of the "Ontario" he served five years as a printer, previous to his 13 months' employ with the Call "Reporter." In those days the late Harry Davis was editor, W. S. MacDiarmid, now of California, the rushing reporter, and H. G. MacDiarmid, at present residing in Toronto, foreman of the composing room. Mr. Carman, 30 years ago promoted Mr. MacDiarmid from his foremanship to the editorial desk and successfully repositioned Charlie Hardwick to return to Belleville and succeed Mr. MacDiarmid as chief composer.

Charlie has seen, in his 30 years of foremanship, a whole lot of changing conditions in the newspaper business, river ice runs, there have not gotten ahead of him. Abreast of the times always, he has never kept his portion of that paper "up to snuff" and the form under him on the jump.

Six editors have graced the paper's "sanctum sanctorum" since he started to work for the late T. S. Carman; the late Harry Davis, W. C. MacDiarmid, the late R. S. Bell, J. O. Herlihy, Tim Little and the present compant, Frank W. Rathman.

As intimated heretofore Charlie Hardwick is some hustler and from present indications will be for many years to come. It is with the kindliest of feelings that the proprietor and staff of this paper offer him congratulations and well wishes on this, the 30th, anniversary of his assuming the sovereignty of its composing room.

MANY ARE PRESENT AT EUCHRE AND DANCE

Held to Swell Cemetery Fund of Quinte Branch W M S

The cemetery board of the Quinte Branch Women's Institute was congrated with the men of the Shannonville Board, and held a very successful euchre and dance in the Orange Hall, Shannonville, on Wednesday night. Cards and dancing the large crowd gathered to aid in swelling the cemetery fund to carry on the work.

Twenty-eight tables of euchre were played under the supervision of Mr. W. Robertson, the genial host. The lucky prize winners being:

Ladies' first, Mrs. Harry Murphy; second, Mrs. Leonard Mumby; men's first, Mr. Arthur Wooden; second-Mr. Harry Gracey.

The tables were cleared away and Clayton Hubbs supplied the music for the splendid music for dancing. During the supper hour the ticket was drawn by Mr. Ketcheson for the door prize, a blindfold donated by Mrs. Ed. Clarke and won by Mr. Howard French, Marysville. Mrs. A. Horton sang some old Canadian airs, during intermission, which were enjoyed by all. Mrs. Horton was heartily applauded.

Dancing was continued until the small wee hours when all departed for home.

The members of the Cemetery Boards are very grateful to those who helped make the evening a success.

Why I Raise Chanteclers

(By W. A. Dempsey B.S.A., President Canadian Chanteclers Breeders' Association).

When a person decides to raise poultry, either as a business or as a hobby, it is necessary for him to carefully choose the breed and variety best suited to their interests and conditions, if they wish success.

Having read several newspaper and magazine articles praising the wonderful creation of one Reverend Wilfrid at La Trappe, and having beheld it for the first time at the World Poultry Congress, at Ottawa, I decided to add Chanteclers to our flock of bred-to-lay Barred Rocks and exhibition White Leghorns; such is the power of the press.

Now why did I change from a practically foolproof old standard breed to one of almost unknown quantities? The Canadian Chantecler is one of our newest breeds, and as such assures one an uncrowded market with a minimum of competition, for discriminators of the breed.

Not only does the breed mature fairly rapidly, but it also gives brollers and roasters of the highest quality, providing a ready and profitable market for your excess cockerels. The pullets have to be held back rather than pushed, to finish laying, and make steady layers, while the hens, at the end of the breeding season, will make roasts excelling by far any other dual purpose breed to say nothing of the lighter breeds. During a comparison of breeds for the past five years while acting as steward to the poultry department of the Royal Winter Fair, I have never had occasion to regret my change of breed, but have always had the largest hen and easy to handle; while not as yet making the egg records of some of the other breeds they will give satisfactory results under capable management and moderate breed egg production with careful breeding.

It was thought Mr. McIlraith, M.P., and Mr. Jacob Mallette, Secretary and a member of the Ontario Agricultural Commission, Toronto, that I made my first acquaintance with the Chanteclers. Although he was a member of the Commission, including ducks, geese and turkeys, the Chantecler was never given a coin does he lose an opportunity to extol her virtues.

Mrs. Kelly, another of our directors and a breeder of a large flock of Chanteclers, in whose favor she has converted her White Leghorns and Barred Rocks, gave me my first "cut." By this, you see that I have not had any excuse, I have enough faith in their breed to want to help others get started in it, also.

Remembering, that it is only a matter of a century, since Brother Wilfrid's first cross appeared, and consequently unfair for one to expect a breed so young to excel all others, I can honestly recommend to those who know how to breed, feed and rear the Chantecler, role of the lighter breeds. During a comproportion to European requirements.

ONE KILLED ONE INJURED

explosion came, due to faulty timing on their part. A home-made bomb which was found on the broken body of Dinardi when picked up was color to the theory. With his skull broken, and only an even chance for recovery, Cipolla, now in the Welland County Hospital, under police guard. He is held as a material witness, but police intimate that more serious charges may be preferred against him later.

Fire which followed the explosion did damage estimated at $10,000 to nearby buildings, and gave Port Colborne fire department a hard battle.

Felt for Miles

It was around 11 o'clock when the blast shook the town and numbed people from their homes in alarm. As far distant as Morgan's Point, six miles east, and Sherkston, four miles east, the shock was felt. Residents who were first on the scene of the demolition found the smashed, tiny home in flames, and Dinardi and Cipolla lying on the street. Cipolla was rushed to the hospital. Dinardi's skull also fractured, was picked up some 25 feet from the foundation of the building.

After a stubborn fight, the firemen got control of the flames, which had little to feed on, inasmuch as the residence was two storeys in height, and when the roof went in the sides collapsed. Furniture was scattered everywhere in bits and the walls and roof were flung in sections for 50 feet in every direction.

The house next door, a brick bungalow, owned and occupied by Mrs. E. N. Scott, suffered heavy damage. A hole 10 feet from the foundation was torn in one wall, and the house was cracked from the foundation from top to bottom. Mrs. Scott, asleep in the room in which the hole was blown, escaped with only a small cut on the hand. Every window in a vacant house across the street was blown out, while a small outbuilding adjoining the Scott's lumber yard, net door, was lifted forty feet. Seven windows in the east side public school, two long blocks away, were damaged.

Cipolla's pockets disgorged pictures and letters from Katie Dick, daughter of Mrs. Dick, owner of the destroyed home, with whom he is alleged to have been keeping company. Mrs. Dick with her family, Anna, Mae and Katie, and Jack, were attending a christening of Anna Dick's grandchild in Crowland at the time of the explosion, having left Port Colborne, according to their statements by police, about 6.30 in the evening. They returned at three in the morning to find the residence an utter ruin. Insurance totals for $4,000. Contents were covered to the extent of $1,500.

Investigations Begun

Chief of Police Fred Davies with Sergt. George McNeil, of the Ontario Provincial Police, Niagara Falls, Provincial Police Chief Inspector Bennett of St. Catharines, and Fire Chief H. J. Lambert are investigating the explosion and fire. A formal inquiry was opened by the fire marshal's department yesterday afternoon. A coroner's inquest under Coroner Geo. H. Hallett is also under way.

Mrs. Dick and family state they can shed no light on the explosion. They admit they keep dynamite. The police feel, it is said, that out of their investigation may come a solution to a series of such explosions and fires which have occurred in this district during the past few years.

HON. MR. HENRY TELLS METHOD

derwriters) was only .81 per cent., compared with .86 per cent. in June; and the net cost of flotation and interest was only .67 per cent.

"In the past year," he added with emphasis, "the cost of flotations in other provinces ranged anywhere from 1 per cent. to 2-1-2 per cent. Ontario was the only province where the cost was below 1 per cent."

Premier Bennett's speech in response to the Speech from the Throne, proposed by Lou Golden of Toronto, closed during the afternoon as representative of university groups on the federation committee, Mr. Golden urged that young Conservatives be utilized for work under that committee early next year, rather than merely working for votes in elections or following blindly in political party lines. They should be left free to study solutions to both present and future problems and act toward effecting such solutions, he felt.

The Prime Minister intermittently agreed, emphasizing to the extent of his address that "the youth of today are the trustees of posterity, and must discharge their duties to the state." In the Conservative party, he assured the gathering, freedom had always been extended to "any new and progressive idea for the good of the country."

Extolling the achievements of the party, and denouncing the destructive, impeding record of the Liberals, Mr. Bennett asserted that "those professing the Conservative faith have been responsible for this Dominion."

Turn to Conservatives

"In time of unrest and difficulty, the people have turned to this party to be established, amid cheers.

The Prime Minister scornfully held up the record of the Liberal party since Confederation, recalling Blake's opposition to the building of the C.P.R. and the bringing of British Columbia into the Dominion, declaring the people "not understand any man asking youth to affiliate with the Liberal party." Mr. Bennett pointed the contrast between Blake's stand and the legacy of debt, perpetual deficits and duplication of railway facilities left by the Liberals when they stepped down from power.

"For 20 years the country labored to undo the wrong done by the Liberal party in regard to preferential trade and reciprocal trade within the Empire," he declared, recalling Laurier's assertion in London that "what we give, we give your freely" and without hope of return. "In 1932 this situation was rectified, and preferential, reciprocal trading agreements with all parts of the Empire were negotiated.

"And to what has the Liberal party degenerated today? Who is their present leader today? It is quite evident to everyone. Their great leader is General Depression, but I say to you that General Depression and his cohorts are being beaten back. General improvement in conditions is noted everywhere, and it may come as a surprise to some of you to learn that this country is foremost in the ranks of those who have made General Depression to back on all fronts."

Comparison of prices of agricultural products in this country and the United States, where billions of dollars are being spent to restore normal conditions, showed that Canadian prices for butter, eggs, bacon, hogs, etc., were 40 to 70c higher than those received in the United States, he reported.

Distrust Sown

"And while those of Conservative faith have been working with high courage and unstinted effort to bring an even keel, what do we find on the Liberal side?" he asked. "We find mistrust, suspicion, confusion capitalized, distrust sown, efforts everywhere to tear down the faith of the people by teaching strange doctrines and the worship of strange gods.

"They are indulged in a campaign of reckless, harsh, unending criticism, fundamentally directed against our basic institutions and the foundations on which they are built. But this criticism and the false, unfair material from which it is woven will vanish as the sun rises for the morning sun when General Depression is finally beaten back. They will fold their tents and—what is it?—oh, yes, silently steal away. Yes, 'steal' is a good word."

At the outset of the provincial premier's address, Mr. Mosey suddenly referred to the possibility of a provincial election "sometime in the Spring—or Autumn." Briefly outlining the problems being dealt with by the various departments of the government, he declared that the ambition of the Hydro-Electric department was the total elimination of illiteracy in Ontario. The demand for the correspondence courses inaugurated for children in isolated communities grew larger every month, he said.

The $40,000,000 loan had been floated to absorb maturing short-term obligations, he said, and fundamentally to keep essential services up to the standards demanded by the people and to finance unemployment relief costs.

Huge St. Lawrence Waterway Project Long an International Controversy, May Bring Roosevelt's First Defeat

By Central Press Canadian

Toronto, Jan. 20.—Subject of two decades of bitter international controversy, the St. Lawrence waterway treaty between Canada and the United States went down in President Roosevelt's first major setback at congress' hands, judging from present indications, with the pact now in the Senate for ratification.

In his message pleading for ratification the president frankly decried sectionalism which opposed the treaty, saying thousands of jobs would be created, millions in transportation costs saved and cheap hydro-electric power generated.

Mentioning the Tennessee valley, Boulder dam and Columbia river projects, President Roosevelt said that cheaper great power area be created "so as to serve for a government yardstick" in rate making.

Since 1895 authorities have regarded the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence route as an incomparable system of transportation and power secured, tapping the fertile heart of the continent and bringing European ports hundreds of sea miles closer.

Few Canal Needed

From Duluth eastward, for 1, 200 miles to Montreal, stretches a vast network of waterway needing only a few canals to make it navigable throughout to all shipping.

Both nations have independently improved channels during the past, while politicians and special interests fought against surrendering their trade advantages. The Soo canal, and the magnificent costly Welland inland-ocean-lake-sea tonnage consideranly.

Former President Hoover, as secretary of commerce in the Coolidge administration in 1921, instituted an elaborate survey of the St. Lawrence scheme and terming it an economic necessity, said, "There is no more vital form of farm relief."

Long has been the dream of dozens of land-locked grain-growing states for cheaper transportation of their surplus basic

So vital did Canada deem such relief that during the years the project forced her into developing a huge wheat shipping point at Churchill, on Hudson Bay, where an extreme northern period of navigation of 75 miles.

Opponents of the seaway assert the huge costs, deeming $500,000,000 as inadequate, and insisting that the 27-foot channel which the plan calls for excludes 65 per cent of all tonnage, 35 per cent of all ships. Hundreds of millions will be needed for port facilities, the total debt burden out of all proportion to the economic utility of the waterway, they say.

Dredging Required

At present, except for the 48-mile international rapids stretch, the Lachine rapids and the Sault Ste. Marie, only route dredging is needed to complete the system. Argument over power sites was terminated with agreement to erect two power dams at the international section, one in each country to generate 2,000, 000 horsepower, equally divided the cost, paid by the United States.

The proposed course of the seaway is divided into six sections, the work done and that still to be accomplished being summarized as follows:

Duluth to Buffalo—section will be deepened to a 27-foot channel and a new lock constructed at the Soo.

Welland canal section finished two years ago.

Thousand Islands section is virtually complete with a 27-mile long channel dredged to treaty depths.

International rapids section, now the sole bone of contention, requires two power dams at Crysler and Barnhart Islands and 10 miles of locks and canals.

Soulanges' rapids section includes construction of the Lachine canal, 14 miles long, which the Dominion is rapidly completing a new lock to generate over a million horse-power. Several locks, too, are yet needed here for the canal to the south.

Montreal to mid section is virtually complete and already accommodates ocean traffic.

Total expense as tabulated by the treaty fixes United States at $272,000,000, Canada about two millions less, with both nations permitted credit for work already done.

Canadian Utilities

Almost as water-power conscious as the United States itself the Dominion has gone forward with a large dam at Soulanges on the St. Lawrence. Yet in Canada, too, private utility interests have consistently fought the waterways proposal.

Premier Taschereau of Quebec province, where Montreal finds its highly profitable shipping and docking interests threatened by the deep passage, termed it a "national crime."

United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, New York, Roosevelt's home state, has denounced the treaty calling its economic virtues doubtful in view of the present depression. North American wheat is finding the export trade more difficult in this period of "national self-sufficiency." Little else would be dredged over the waterway, and the channel is ice free, only four months a year, opponents of the pact declare.

Objections in the United States come from advocates of the Mississippi-Gulf route, eastern railways, and important shipping ports like New York and Buffalo, the latter similar to the virtual grain storage monopoly, New York exercises. Anti-American Hudson river-Erie barge canal plan, with its military secrecy, is said likely to be nullified by the treaty.

Take 2 Huge St Lawrence

Leaders and leaders of the St. Lawrence plan point to the billion dollar cost of the New York system, that it would completely lack water power developments and only a limited all shipping by reason of its small depth.

Chicago Opposed

The great lakes ports, viewing in the international project their existence into doubt, centers, have battled furiously except Chicago, the vital stands at the head of the Mississippi-Gulf route and is unwilling to restrict its drainage canal to the waters, and Buffalo.

Estimated savings on grain shipments have varied from two to eight cents per bushel, according to critics who oppose spending a half billion dollars to save a few millions in carrying costs. Enthusiasts fix the annual saving to move over the waterway at eighteen to twenty-five million, in answer to statement that 16,000,000 tons is the maximum now moving, being assuring grain freight.

TESTING WOOD AS FUEL

During the present winter with the money stringency still at work and the question of the use of national or at least British coal in preference to coal imported from a foreign country, Canadian coals are being given a test, Nova Scotia and Alberta products particularly. But wood is also being given a trial and there are some woodburners living in large homes in the city who stand out for united action on the part of the people in favor of the use of wood as a more reasonably priced fuel.

Experts at Ottawa have tested the heating units in wood finding that two pounds of seasoned firewood are generally required to furnish the amount of heat given by a pound of soft coal or lignite. A cord of seasoned hardwood weighs about two tons and can be bought at about eight or nine dollars in three lengths. This throws the price balance in favor of wood, but wood is less efficient in many homes because the heating appliances are not suited for coal. Coal can be more easily controlled than wood in these homes though in the city many furnaces are using wood and it is here that there is the real difficulty in maintaining fires and heat and that the cost of operation will mean quite a cut in the fuel bill.

The present winter should be able to provide some grounds for accuracy in reaching definite conclusions as to the merits of wood as a fuel.

One citizen who has gone over to wood-burning declares that in neglecting wood Canadians are wasting money and increasing extravagance, and sees real help to the farming community if wood is more generally used.

In the countryside the wood fires are most numerous, though near the city many farmers burn coal. In farmhouses farther away wood, which can be had for the work of feeling and cutting, is still the fuel.

EDUCATION

Those who furnish the money that education be given the young of Belleville have satisfaction in the fact that the money is not being wasted through the lack of attendance of scholars. The average daily attendance for the last year was 93.4 per cent. of registration. Not only is this a local record but it is believed to be a record for the province.

The rate of education per head was less by $4.07 during the past year, 1933, and is $17.00 lower than the average cost per pupil throughout the province, it is reported, during 1932, the last available returns of the year 1930 for the province.

The newly elected chairman of the Board of Education has pointed out in his address on his appointment, that the board must follow a course of rigid economies. Lt.-Col. Geen held out the hope that the experience of last year could at least be equalled or improved upon. In this manner he saw a way by which the harrassed taxpayer would be able to carry the load of taxation.

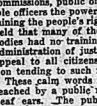
The Board of Education has grown to be a most important financial factor and at this time was it unimportant but in these days when more than ever education is to play a great part in the future and in days of changing conditions with the rapid progress in science and the methods in teaching, it is easily recognized that members of the Board of Education have great and worthwhile tasks upon which to exert their energies.

GOOD DAYS AHEAD

The British Postmaster General has been taking to task those grumpy ones who talk of the good old days of their youth and neglect the glorious advantages and pleasures of this age of opportunity. What is the use of complaining about conditions, when we have to live in them and the only way to make them better is to go to work and to forget to grumble! All the grumbling will not put one back in "Berkley Square" even if one wants to be back there where is very doubtful when it is realized what return to the past would be. One would think that the elder people would be delighted to watch for the latest developments in this present age and the days yet ahead, surely bringing to light miracles or what would have been thought miracles a few generations ago.

One of the most optimistic men in Ontario today is the Chief Justice of this province, Sir William Mulock, who knows the past, and now at the age of 90 years he realizes the glories of the present and future. There is no doubt that there is not among the "teen age" a person with so bright an outlook as this patriarch of the bench and public service. And yet there are others not near his age who see "blue."

To most the coming days are the most glorious in their possibilities. The very unrest shows that the need for changes is felt.



PEOPLE'S RIGHTS

Speaking from the serenity of age and a life experience in public life, Sir William Mulock on his ninetieth birthday pointed to a growing tendency of legislatures to encroach upon the liberties of the people in depriving them of the protection of the courts of justice and the conferring upon commissions, public officers and irresponsible officers the power of arbitrarily determining the people's rights. The aged jurist held that many of those serving on these bodies had no training in the law or the administration of justice and he made an appeal to all citizens to prevent legislation tending to such rule.

Certainly the world and the age rarely reached by a public man will not fall on deaf ears. The public will realize the importance of such a question which has been brought to its attention.

Sir William was not referring to any political party in particular, he said.

A LOAF OF BREAD

A lonely field set wide to sun and sky,
Brown furrows turned in crumbling rows to dry,
Anointed dawns to blaze above the land,
Staunch hearts to love to the soil and understand.

The high, black night set with a million stars,
The call of cattle at the milking bars,
The scud of rain above the stooling wheat,
The quivering waves of breathless noonday heat.

High winds that bear their clouds of chocking dust,
New virgin soil to feed its greedy lust.
A hundred odors woven in the air,
The rutted soil, the stubble brown and bare.

Old farmhouse kitchens warm with fire-light,
And swaying lanterns yellow in the night,
Old threshing crews and teams about the yard,
Frost in the morning glittering white and hard.

The crunch of wagons on the frozen road,
Horses straining with their golden load,
Men plodding weary miles to keep them warm,
The whining cry of wind before a storm.

It isn't only loaves of snowy bread,
It's life and death and blood and bone in red,
A hundred failures, sweat and toil and pain,
Seed time and harvest, sun and wind and rain.

Only a loaf of bread, baked white and sweet,
Set in a bakeshop window by the street.
Holding within its crust the golden span
Of all the struggles of the life of man.

FRED (BUN) COOK, hockey product of Kingston, is being sued for $100,000, as a result of execution done by his stick to a spectator. Bun is getting plenty publicity being in the $100,000 class, and says if judgment goes against him he will serve out his time at the rate of a dollar an hour which will only take him one hundred thousand days, plus costs. The plaintiff in the case is a lady, known as Peggy Lawton Rich, who while watching a game of hockey in Madison Square Garden two years ago, stopped Bun Cooks' hockey stick which accidentally flew out of his hand into the spectators' section. Mrs. Rich, former wife of Freddy Rich, well known orchestra leader, brought a similar suit against Madison Square Garden and the New York Rangers last winter, but it was dismissed. The hockey stick hit Mrs. Rich in the back of the head and that knock this hundred thousand dollar idea blossomed. She may not get much, if any, money, but it is pet plenty publicity and judging by the ordinary run of damage lawsuits over there, by public, or semi-public characters, the publicity part of it is valued the most.

SHOCKING AT TIME BUT WE SOON FORGET

Crime Which Horrified us Once Never Thought of Now

We forget very quickly. For instance, every year, and often, the whole country is shocked by some atrocious crime, whereupon we put our heads together and say something ought to be done to prevent a repetition of such an atrocity but Soon we become interested in other matters. In a few weeks we have forgotten all about it.

Do you recall how confounded we were at the Leopold-Loeb case? Do you remember how these two young men, educated and refined, of good families, deliberately set out to cold blooded, a helpless and inoffensive child?

What particular mental twist was the basic cause for, this horrible homicide is a matter for more intellectual purpose here. What demands emphasis, it does in the widespread abnormality which goes unrecognized until actual crime is committed.

We are a very placid people in many ways. We are also a careless people. We take such frightful chances.

We forget too readily. We wait too long before we are prepared to take action. Only when something unusually deadly occurs do we inquire whether a recurrence can also be prevented. And then, unhappily, as I mentioned previously, we let the matter slide and in the end adopt a do-nothing policy.

There may never be another crime just like the killing of the French boy. But most assuredly there have been some mighty ghastly ones since. He is not forgotten. Besides this, too, people are beginning to forget.

Specialists in mental diseases know full well that a large percentage of the population is suffering from disorders of one type or another that affect the mind and nervous system and that tend to lead to deeds of violence.

Not all insanity shows criminal tendencies. Some of the most mindedness nor every psychopathic state. Yet, as mentioned, every old state that are less pronounced than the above often reveal a potential actual danger. Often only careful examination will bring the facts to light. Many people, and this, too, people are beginning to forget.

This is an excellent innovation in new York. It should be encouraged. People who are examined along these lines should realize that no stigma is attached to such testing and examination. Only with any peculiarity of thinking and feeling exist, the subjects themselves will be benefited by the straightening out of the difficulty while there is still time.

Soft custard is readily digested and makes a palatable and pleasing light dessert after a heavy meal. It is specially to be recommended for those who are constipated or have any disease. One egg will serve for 1 cup of milk. Beat the egg and add 1 heaping tablespoonful of sugar. Scald the milk, pour over beaten egg and stir briskly. Cook in double boiler until it coats the spoon. Flavor with vanilla, lemon or nutmeg. Custard requires long, slow cooking. Overheating causes it to curdle and become watery. AWAIT WORD FROM BREMER

Believe Kidnapped Banker Has Been "Bumped Off"

St. Paul, Jan. 22—(AP)—Despair crushed waning hopes today for early release of Edward G. Bremer, kidnapped banker, as reports that the Bremer family determined to refuse to barter or bargain for his safe return unless they first receive assurance he is still alive.

A message from the kidnappers and signed by the 37-year-old Commercial State Bank president and owner, which would give such reassurance, was awaited all yesterday and the weekend hug was not forthcoming as the Fifth Hour passed without word from the abductors.

Blood, a shaky scrawl, a death threat and instructions where declaring Bremer had been "bumped off" were expected from the man who was seen last between 8.30 a.m. and 8.45 a.m., Jan. 17 when he left his eight year old daughter, Betty, at the exclusive Summit School for girls.

A suspicion that Bremer might be dead, close friends of the family said, lay to their determination to turn over no money for his freedom until they received a message signed by him.

Miss Louise Bremer, sister of the missing banker, voiced sentiments of the family, when she said "money doesn't mean anything" and added the ransom would be cheerfully paid in return for her brother's freedom.

Picton and Prince Edward County

By Our Own Correspondent

Mrs. George Hyderman

Picton, Jan. 22 (Special) — The death occurred in Prince Edward County Hospital on January 16th of Minnie Whitfield, wife of George Hyderman, in her forty-third year. Mrs. Hyderman was born in England, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hannah Whitfield. She came to Canada as a young woman, and had lived in Picton for twenty years. She had been ill for some months, but her death came as a shock to her friends. She leaves a family of eight children, a daughter, Lina, the eldest, and seven young boys. The deceased was a member of the Baptist Church. The funeral service was held at her late residence, Main street east, on Thursday, January 18th, at 10:30 a.m. Rev. J. R. McCormack conducting the service. Interment was made in Glenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Jane Haxie

There passed to her last rest, at the family home, Gladstone street, on Wednesday, January 17th, Jane Haxie, aged ninety-two years. Mrs. Haxie was born in the township of South Marysburgh, a daughter of Stephen Martin and his wife Catherine Sieves. She had made her home in Picton for the past eighteen years, previous to which she had lived for a time in Toronto. She is survived by a son, Leslie Hicks, with whom she made her home. The funeral service took place Friday, January 19th, at 2 p.m., at her late residence, with Rev. David Wren in charge of the service. Interment took place in the family plot in Glenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Calvin Rankin

The death occurred in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, on Monday, January 15th, of Minnie Harris, wife of the late Calvin Rankin, a former resident of Prince Edward County. Mrs. Rankin was a daughter of the late Ezekiel Harris of Picton, and had made her home for Toronto since the death of her husband. The body was brought to Picton on Tuesday afternoon for burial. Rev. S. M. Scott spoke comforting words to those mourning the loss of a kind mother, at the funeral service, which was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at 2 p.m. Many of Mrs. Rankin's relatives and friends were present to pay their last respects to the deceased. Interment was made in the Glenwood Cemetery.

Picton Seed House began work on the cleaning of peas and beans on Tuesday, giving employment to 20 men.

There is a prevalence of grippe which is keeping the doctors very busy.

Mr. George Sinden is seriously ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Miss Palmer.

Mr. Billy Lossee is confined to his home on Union street with 'flu.

Roy Jewell, a returned man, who had been gassed overseas, suffered a severe heart attack while at work cutting wood for the town on Tuesday.

Card Party

On Monday evening, January 15, a successful card party was held in the new Loyal Orange Lodge Hall on Elizabeth street. The newly acquired building has been overhauled and redecorated and now provides ample accommodation on the second floor for the many activities sponsored by the lodge. There are dressing rooms, ante-rooms, lodge room, cloak room, and kitchen, all well furnished. The lower flat of the building is now leased to the collegiate board, and provides a classroom for the teaching of motor mechanics. At some future date the lodge plans to use this flat as a hall for dancing.

Thirteen tables of euchre were in play on Monday evening with Mrs. Frank Quinn carrying off the first prize for the ladies, a potted cyclamen plant, and Mrs. Sanford Simmons, the second prize, a linen centre-piece. Mr. Percy Gowsell was the gentlemen's first prize and Mr. Nesbitt McKibbon the second prize. The door prizes were won by Charles Fullerton. Refreshments were served at the close of the game.

On Thursday afternoon the Ladies' Orange Lodge held a tea in the lodge room from three until seven. Afternoon tea was served at attractive appointed tables from the buffet table in charge of Mrs. Ed. Thurston, Mrs. Ivan Hawley and a similar centred each table. Many ladies patronized the affair which proved most enjoyable.

Mrs. Roy Covert was convenor in charge of the arrangements and was assisted by Mrs. Stan. May, Mrs. Frank Starr, Mrs. Ivan Hawley, Mrs. Thomas Jones and Mrs. Culmer.

Mrs. Alwilda Welsh was in charge of the tea. The beautiful quilt in blue bird design, on which tickets are being sold, was on display.

On Thursday evening the convocation was held by lodge members with Mr. Nesbitt McKibbon as guest of honor. The lodge wished to show their appreciation of Mr. McKibbon's untiring efforts in the work entailed by the purchase of the new building.

A quilting party was held at the home of Mrs. Alwilda Welsh on Wednesday, when a number of ladies joined in the evening by the Surprise Party. Then a most enjoyable time was spent.

JUMP

DOES PRINT "JUMP" BEFORE YOUR EYES?

If you wear bifocals of the ordinary kind, they are likely to cause a "jump of vision" as you switch from looking out at distant objects to reading your paper. You may become accustomed to this "jump" but it requires extra energy from your eyes. Today there is a new bifocal, better for distance and better for reading, that minimizes the "jump".

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 22, 1914.

At a recent open meeting of the Bank of Montreal Club, W. N. Ponton delivered a most interesting and instructive address illustrated with slides dating back to the year 1817, showing the many changes and great advancement made in this country. Among the relics of the past was a picture of Bishop Baldwin's first church.

Lord Strathcona, Canadian High Commissioner in England, died at his London home in London early yesterday morning.

The members of the staff of McIntosh Bros. to the number of twenty-five were entertained at the home of Miss Florence Broach one evening recently after a sleigh ride around the city.

As a result of a heavy fall of snow which began on Saturday and a strong wind many country roads were blocked and pedestrians found it very difficult to get about yesterday.

KAYE DON'S CAR COMES OUT FOR AIR

After nearly four years of inactivity the racing car owned by Kaye Don, Chernkai at Chester, Penn. Physicians expressed the belief that the baby is to be raced once more on the race tracks and speedways in England. It was gunned here to Alfa Field Southport racing driver, who will drive the "Silver Bullet" in an attempt to shatter the English speed record of 315 miles per hour at Southport, next March. The last appearance of the "Silver Bullet" was in the United States in 1930. Photo shows the car as it was turned over to Field in perfect condition, once more, ready for the assault on the present record.

Sound Progress Shown in Forty-Seventh Annual Report of Manufacturers Life

The Forty-Seventh Annual Report of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company for the year ending December 31st, 1933, submitted to Policyholders and Shareholders at the Annual Meeting held at Toronto on January 18th, indicates a year of sound progress.

Assets at December 31st now stand at $119,459,842. Of this amount Government, Government Guaranteed, Municipal, Public Utility and other bonds account for $89,209,494. First Mortgages on Improved Real Estate amounted to $31,024,135. Investments in Preferred and Common Stocks amounted to $1,224,155. Real Estates have been conservatively valued, being held in the Balance Sheet at ca value substantially less than that authorized by the Dominion Department of Insurance. New investments made during the year were confined to Government and high-grade Municipal bonds.

Payments to Policyholders and Beneficiaries again constituted a record and amounted to $10,022,911., an increase of $734,170 over 1932. Of such payments $4,602,286. was paid to living policyholders, including $2,575,919. in dividends on policies, while $4,420,625. was paid to beneficiaries of death claims.

Policy and Annuity Reserves were increased to $101,218,944., the same standard of valuation being used as in previous years. After making provision for depreciation in the value of the securities and other assets, special reserves and surplus funds, amounted to $8,701,036. Of this amount $5,012,250. constitutes a reserve for dividends to policyholders, $1,499,773. of which will be paid to policyholders during 1934, the same scale having been authorized as in 1933. The Contingency Reserve has been increased to $833,000., while the Surplus stands at $3,343,736., an increase of $145,736. over the corresponding figure for 1932.

Capita Cost for Pupils in Public Schools is Estimated at $56.40

This $407 Lower Than in 1932 and $17.00 Under Average of Prov.

2,382 REGISTERED

93.4 Per Cent Attendance is Achieved in 1933

It cost Belleville tax payers just $56.40 per head for each child attending public schools in the city during the year 1933. This is $4.07 less than it was then the cost during 1932, and is $17.00 lower than the average cost per pupil throughout the province, according to the last available returns given in 1930. The assessment of $56.40 is believed to be less than that of any other municipality.

Total administration cost for the year including $32,677.66 paid through the city council on debentures was placed at $119,282.96, according to the completed report of Mr. H. J. Chalk, public school inspector for South Hastings.

Gross registration for the year was placed at 2382, composed of 1345 boys and 1137 girls. The average registration by rooms was 1855.4. The reason for the difference between the average and gross registration is explained as follows.

The number who entered High School at the end of June.

The beginners who registered for the first time in September and January.

The transfers from other schools.

Perfect attendance for the year would have been 382,861. Actual attendance was 358,389 days, or 93.4 per cent. of perfect. Here again another year records a high mark for Belleville scholars. It is believed that this percentage will not be duplicated elsewhere in the province.

Fine Record

"The best record this city has ever had, I believe," stated Inspector Chalk.

During the year 1933, 155 children entered high school from rural institutions, at an average age of 13 years and 8 months. This is the usual age of the majority of entrance pupils. One hundred and forty-six pupils entered secondary schools.

Eighty-eight teachers were on the staff during the year, consisting of ten men and thirty-eight women teachers. Thirteen of these hold first class certificates, three second class certificates, one holds a kindergarten primary certificate.

The number of graduates of schools last year was placed at 89.5&1,118. The total government grant was $4,306.26.

It is indicated by the report that a steady trend toward higher education has been taking place among the local pupils, more and more of them are staying in school longer and are taking more varied subjects. The "white collar" class of workers in the community is growing and attendance is kept up. Whether or not the slack times are responsible for the pupils staying in school longer, the inspector was not prepared to state.

Among the varied subjects which are receiving more attention this year, classes in agriculture have attracted many. Industries courses, however, lead the field in local education.

LOST GOLD MINE IS FOUND IN WEST

Prospectors Are Lured Again Into the Canadian North

FORT SIMPSON, N. W. T., Jan. 21.—Gold once again has lured prospectors into the mysterious Nahanni District, 300 miles west of this place where many men have perished in search of the precious metal.

The party which completed a perilous trip by airplane and dogsled to Macmillan River reported the discovery of the lost McLeod gold mine, which was worked more than twenty-eight years ago. The party said they found remains of the old McLeod camp.

An old man, left in the mission at Fort Simpson, told how he rifled the coarse gold, but it is believed another old, high up in the frozen mountain recesses.

This 'Hospital-Tested' Remedy Is Needed By 'Tired' People

You may be one of those very numerous people who feel tired out, always exhausted, run-down, nervous. If so, the trouble probably is that there is not enough vital energy being created from the lungs for enough nourishment from the digestive organs to build body cells normally and to clear the system of poisons. In a word, you have "low blood count", and need a tested restorative. Thousands of people have this condition without knowing that it can be quickly and easily corrected.

Dr. William's Pink Pills is a "hospital-tested" blood builder that will benefit you as it has helped others. A recent "blood-test" clinic of 40 people at a leading Canadian hospital published scientific proof of the remarkable efficiency of these pills in restoring health, strength and vigor.

Among the 40 people who were volunteer, tested patients, was a young woman who was in a needy need of a blood-builder. Her blood count was low, the red corpuscles being not only too few in number but also too small in size. Her hemoglobin also was below normal. Although she didn't know it, Dr. William's Pink Pills had restored her blood stream to a normal, healthy condition. It is done in such for the other patients.

Your druggist has this "hospital-tested," proven blood-builder. Start your treatment to-day. At all druggists—50c a package.

Authentic report of this case, certified by the hospital pathologist, is on file.

DANGEROUS SITUATION IN FAR EAST BELIEF

Soviet Russia, Japan and United States Involved

PARIS, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Former Premier Edouard Herriot believes the United States is involved in a dangerous situation in the Far East along with Soviet Russian and Japan.

"Between the United States and Japan on the one hand and Japan and Soviet Union on the other," he wrote in the Agence Economique et financiere, "tension is unquestionable, and it certainly cannot be said that the situation is without danger. . . .

"The slightest incidents gave rise to the most grave political problem and therein lies the danger."

France isn't meddling in the present imbroglio," M. Herriot said, but is ready to offer her good offices.

ENRAGED GODS ARE BLAMED

Privacy Interrupted by Fliers Passing Over Peaks

New Delhi, India, Jan. 22.—(AP) —The gods were dwell in the eternal snows and rolling clouds of the Himalayas are credited by superstitious peoples with having arranged the earthquake, which shook India last week.

It was, they say, an act of vengeance for the violation of the God's privacy by impious flights of fliers, who peering into the recesses of the mountains, when they soared over lofty Mt. Everest last April.

The fissured earth, the ruined dwellings and the dead estimated unofficially at 15,00— all these, the superstitious insist, attest to the marvelous power of the outraged gods.

Worst damage was wrought between the line of flight of the Marquis of Clydesdale, Col. L. V. Stewart Blacker, and flight Lieutenant D. R. McIntyre, who became the first to conquer the world's highest mountain, the believers claim.

Latest reports from the devastated region in Nepal today supply no reliable returns as to the number of victims, but suggested that Katmandu, the capital, was destroyed. The Maharjah's palace is said to have been demolished, his daughter buried in the ruins.

The late Mr. Jarrett had been ill for some time but his passing came as a great shock as he had planned to visit Trenton for his health's sake.

Group "F" of St. George's Parochial Guild met at the home of Mrs. Fred Berry on Thursday for the annual election of the group officers.

Mrs. Berry was again chosen as group leader with Mrs. Bonter as treasurer. After the business of the group was finished a delightful lunch was served.

Ken Begin Doing Well

In Friday, January 12th's edition of the Detroit News appeared the first picture of Ken Begin, local hockey player of last year's intermediate team and now of Chicago.

Ken is playing with the "Blue Ribbons" in Emil Iverson's major league in the Big Four of the Chicago Amateur Hockey Association.

A good account of Ken's hockey career appears with the picture announcing the arrival of the Blue Ribbons in Detroit for a series with the Motor City teams. While in Detroit he was offered a chance to play with the W. D. Boyle's contented in Chicago. He was out of the game for six weeks when he fractured a bone in his foot. He played against Queen's University when his team defeated the students on their tour near the first of the year. He was in the line up game after his accident.

His many friends in Trenton are watching his rise with good wishes for his success.

CAMP CURFEW NOT WANTED

31 Camp Workers Quit Posts on This Account

Turkey Point, Ont., Jan. 21. — (CP)—Thirty-one men left the government relief camp here Saturday after an altercation with the manager which resulted from their refusal "to be treated like school kids". Provincial police from Simcoe were called to the camp, where 129 men were engaged, shortly after the trouble began. Some of the men were in the habit of going to Normandale in the evenings, returning to camp after 10 o'clock, the hour stipulated by the camp manager for their return. A notice was posted by the manager stating that no one would be allowed to leave the camp without his permission

Two men from Simcoe, reported to be ringleaders, then protested that they would not consent to be "treated like school children", and yesterday morning left camp. The manager is supposed to have told them to work or leave camp. Other men who arrived a little later they—decided on the latter course.

Soon after their departure one of the men at the camp complained that his overcoat and a sweater had been stolen. Police were watching the roads and searching the men as they came out.

Six of the men returned to the camp late today and were allowed to remain. Others, it is stated, have had apologized. The places of the other 25 are to be filled immediately.

OBITUARY

MRS. G. HOWARD CANNIFF

The death occurred, Saturday last at Bloomfield, Ont., of Mrs. Gertrude Isabel Canniff, beloved wife of G. Howard Canniff, Bloomfield, was a sister of the late Dr. Wylie J. Palmer, first superintendent of the Belleville General Hospital for Deaf and was a visitor in Belleville, where she has been a frequent visitor.

The remains are resting at the Ketcheson and Bonter Funeral Home until the time of the funeral, Tuesday afternoon.

LATE MRS. C. H. VANDERWATER

Former friends and neighbors of the deceased extend sympathizing friends of those left to mourn her loss in the Marsh Hill United Church Saturday afternoon to tender their last tribute of respect to the memory of one who had done much for the church and the community of Sidney. The funeral of the late Mrs. Hope (Vanderwater) Vanderwater, last Saturday afternoon, was one of the largest held in Sidney township in recent years. Representatives of the old 2nd Battalion (C.O.R.) and the King's Light Infantry were there to accord respect to the memory of the wife of a fellow officer and fellow commanding officer, and the Sidney floral tributes from societies and organizations were emblematic of the high esteem in which Mrs. Vanderwater during her lifetime was held. Under sad and kindly thoughts felt for those of her family remaining.

Rev. H. H. Mutton was the officiating clergyman at the service at the home, at the church and at the graveside in the Belleville cemetery, and a large number of friends were present. Among them were Mayor J. Connor, F. Pinkle, F. Campbell, L. J. Ketcheson, B. Mills and B. Bleecker.

CAMP SAME AS LEFT IN 1930

Little America Will Be Used as Post Again For Expedition

Admiral Byrd's Flagship, Bay of Whales, Antarctica, Jan. 21.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Jan. 20 (delayed)— The first ground-breaking activities and scenes of his first experiences in the deep Antarctic was Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd today.

Just as he left it, he and his men found the same camp buried in the snow and ice—a pot of frozen beans, the bunks and calendars on the walls, articles of clothing flung helter-skelter.

Admiral Byrd even found a fruitjar half-full of kerosene which had been left behind in 1930. It was the only thing that was missing.

The most highly hazardous, owing particularly it seemed yesterday, to the dangers accompanying the transportation by tractor of supplies from the flagship to Little America two and one-half miles distant.

Two tractors caught fire and were damaged before the flames could be extinguished. Another just missed plunging through soft ice.

SON OF GOVERNOR-GENERAL ESCAPES DEATH IN CRASH

Passenger With Lord Duncannon Thrown to Road And Killed

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP Cable) —Lord Duncannon, heir of the Earl and Countess of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, narrowly escaped serious injury in an automobile accident in Huntingdonshire. One of his companions was killed instantly.

The accident happened when Lord Duncannon's car apparently went into a skid on a sharp curve, turned several somersaults and threw the occupants out on the road.

Lord Duncannon and Lord Manderville who were driving a party of friends in two cars from the Manderville country estate near Brampton Park to visit Kimbolton Castle. Lord Duncannon was driving behind Lord Manderville at the time the accident occurred.

At the time of the accident Lord Duncannon was driving down a hill. His passengers were Comte Clauzel' mother of a fellow officer and fiancee commanding officer, and the Viscountess Hood, sister-in-law. NORTH BAY COUNCIL HAS REAL PROBLEM

Dismissal of Firemen Will Be Taken Up

North Bay, Ont., Jan. 22 (CP) — Friday, for a lengthy session, city council prepared today to discuss the action of Alderman McIlvenna, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Commission, in firing the city's firemen.

Every member of the fire department received the unwelcome news of his dismissal, to take effect at the end of the month, when a new organization scheme will be effected, according to the aldermen.

The meeting—scheduled for tonight—is expected to be a warm one Already critics of the Provincial Fredericton Fire Fighters' Act have stated the corporation would be prosecuted for failing to comply with the labor laws of Ontario, for the officials claim, the city has men working at the pumping station and forced the firemen to work long hours.

Fifteen labor unions have filed protests with the council.

Tonight, the council will decide just what steps will be taken when Alderman McIlvenna will be

RUT HURLS CAR TO DITCH

Stirling, Jan. 22—Four persons sustained a miraculous escape from death when a Paige sedan owned and operated by James Gordonier of Tabernacle on the Stirling-Belleville Highway less than one half a mile out of town about 7.30 p.m. on Friday turning completely over in the ditch. The car, which was travelling southward, was in a rut and in an effort to get the wheels out of it, the car shot for the ditch on the right side of the road. Brakes were applied speeding the car on its way through the fence ditch overland and striking the fence where the car turned over and then partially righted itself in the ditch, finally coming to the swamp directly in front of Percy Graigheed's residence. Mrs. Gordonier, two ladies and two men including the driver were unharmed except for minor lacerations and bruises while one lady suffered a fractured knee. The impact caused a broken windshield, badly damaged the car top and the right front wheel. The fence was completely carried away. On leaving the car the car missed a hydro pole by the matter of a foot or two. Provincial Constable Harry Wicket of Stirling was summoned to the scene and investigated the matter.

WILL FLYING WINGS BE THE FIRST "F AMILY 'PLANE?"

The "flying wing" seems to be well named. It has plenty of wing spread. The new air vehicle, now in Washington, D.C., by inspection by officials of the department of commerce, is the creation of Dr. C. L. Snyder, who is shown beside the craft. The aeroplane can, and probably will, be built to seat for about $700 and it may be the first aerial vehicle to be produced under mass production methods.

LESSON TWO
THE SIMPLE BATTERS
From Pancakes to Muffin Mixtures

IN our last lesson, we learned how to thicken a sauce by adding the right amount of starchy thickening material such as flour, cornstarch, etc., to the right way. In this lesson, we begin the study of flour mixtures which, when cooked, take solid form.

The easiest way to divide flour mixtures into their different classes, is to go by their consistency—that is to say, by the thickness of the different mixtures. This consistency or thickness depends upon the proportion of flour and liquid used.

There are two kinds of batters and two kinds of doughs. We will leave the doughs for the present and consider only the batters.

1. POUR BATTER has approximately 1 cup flour to 1 cup liquid. It is the thinnest of our flour mixtures (not counting gravies). Good examples of mixtures that are made in about this proportion are pancakes, waffles, fritters, popovers, Yorkshire pudding.

2. DROP BATTER has approximately 2 cups flour to 1 cup liquid. Good examples are muffins, cornbread and most cakes.

This is not a strict rule of proportion, but a general guide in the making of batters.

In this lesson, we will study the Pour Batters, and the simpler Drop Batters, which are those put together by the Muffin Method. We shall have a special lesson later on cake making, for the cake mixtures, which are also Drop Batters, are not quite so easily handled as the muffin-type mixtures, and of course you will want the whole book on cakes—the Easy-Way Cake Book, which this paper is making so readily available to its readers.

FOUR BATTERS

I have already given you a very general rule that describes a Pour Batter. It gets its name from the fact that it is thin enough to be poured. In general, it contains equal amounts of liquid and flour. We take 1 cup liquid as our base in describing these batters, and as this means that to 1 cup liquid we use 1 cup flour, 1 cup milk, buttermilk, water, molasses, eggs) we allow about 1 cup flour.

Let me point out here something about flours which every student should know:

Different types of flour are different from one another in more than just quality. One kind of flour will have more thickening power than another; one kind will have more gluten than another, or a stronger gluten. The general purpose the difference in results is not so noticeable, but proportions are so important in cake mixtures that we have definitely based our recipes on pastry flour in the lessons and in the Easy-Way Books all of the recipes are carefully balanced to give perfect results when a soft wheat or pastry flour is used.

Shortening has to be considered in this lesson for the first time—at least so far as this kind of flour mixtures is concerned.

It serves one main purpose—to give a tender texture to our finished batter or dough. It further adds richness and flavour.

There are different kinds of shortening that all contribute about the same amount of actual fat. Butter, a favourite shortening for some things (particularly for cakes) also gives a distinctive flavour to a mixture it goes into, but we must consider against this point the average higher cost of butter. Many cooks use part butter and part shortening.

Cream contains butter fat.

Lard is a very old and reliable shortening which may be used in some of the simple batters, and for the doughs. Of course, it is an animal fat.

Commercial shortening is usually pure white, fine in texture, neutral in flavour. Usually it is made of pure vegetable oil, and sometimes a mixture of vegetable and animal fats; thoroughly wholesome and digestible.

Liquid shortening may be any of these solid fats, melted, or a cooking oil.

When We Substitute Cream

Sometimes we have some cream, either sweet or sour, that we would like to put into a batter which calls only for milk.

We can substitute the cream, but because it has extra butter fat in it, we can take out part of the butter or other fat which is called for in our recipe.

Because of this extra fat (which we look on as a solid), there is less actual liquid in cream than in milk. So we work it out this way:

1 cup milk equals 2 tablespoonfuls fat, plus 1 cup milk.
1 cup 24% cream equals 4 2/3 tablespoonfuls fat, plus 2/3 cup milk.
1 cup 22% cream equals 4 1/3 tablespoonfuls fat, plus ⅔ cup milk.

How We Make Mixtures Light

The next ingredients we must consider are those that we call "lightening" or "leavening materials" which we put in a flour mixture to make it light.

These are the things we count on to give lightness to our flour mixtures:

AIR—In many of our batters, we get all the air we can into our mixtures. We sift our flour several times, so as to make it "light and airy". We beat eggs until they reach from 3 to 4 times their original bulk, due to the air which we beat into them. In cake making we use cell-walls of delicate egg. In the oven, this air (like any other gas) expands, and helps to make our muffins, cakes, etc., light.

STEAM—When some of the liquid in a flour mixture is changed by very strong heat into steam, there is expansion and the steam tries to push its way out to the surface—and of course as it does this, it carries some of the mixture up with it. This is another way of causing a flour mixture to "rise". Of course, this happens only when a mixture with a great deal of liquid is put into a very hot oven. Popovers, for example, which are made by the Pour Batter rule and go into the oven as a very thin batter, are given a very hot oven; steam is soon formed, and the popover rises—puffs away up, and gradually bakes firm in that position; that is why it is like an almost empty bubble of delicate, crisply-baked batter. Yorkshire pudding is another of the Pour Batters that counts largely on steam to make it light; the eggs in it also help lightness, but may add a custard-like character to the mixture, which is unique.

BAKING POWDER—This is the lightening agent or leavening material which we use most. It is very convenient to use. There is a very easy rule for you to remember about the amount of baking powder that is needed; if there are no eggs in the mixture:

1 teaspoons baking powder will lighten 1 cup of flour.

You can count on each egg with air beaten in which you add to the mixture, to do the work of ½ teaspoon baking powder, and so you can use that much less powder than you would otherwise need.

This is the way baking powder works: After it has been wet, unless the temperature is very low, it begins, rather slowly, to create gas. This gas makes a gentle effort to escape from the mixture, so it rises, and if the mixture is left standing, the gas forms little bubbles on the surface and escapes when they break. This is why we waste no time after we have added the baking powder in getting our batter either into the oven or into a uniformly cold refrigerator, and here, by the way, is one of the great boons of the modern electric or gas refrigerator. It maintains such steady cold temperatures that we are able to prepare many batters and doughs ahead of time and keep them chilled until the moment to bake them arrives. See what that does in providing hot biscuits at the hot hour—waffles for late supper, fresh-baked shortcake for dinner! Even, with some batters a cake to bake next day.

When a mixture containing baking powder is heated, gas is created, and it expands much more quickly; larger bubbles are formed, which are better able to force their way upwards. So when we heat our batter, hundreds upon hundreds of these little gas bubbles begin to work their way up in it, and they force the flour mixture upwards (we say then that our mixture is "rising"); it is just as though hundreds and hundreds of tiny popovers were "popping" at once (though more slowly). And all the time, the mixture is baking, so that soon it will begin to "set", to become delicately firm. When it has set sufficiently to hold its shape, in that puffed-up position it has been given by the materials that have made it light, we consider it "done". At once, we remove it from the heat. But if we take it out a little too soon, before the mixture has become strong enough to really support itself, it will shrink back, or as we say, "fall", and if we leave it too long, our finished product comes out more brown and dry than we want it. ■

BAKING SODA—This is another very familiar material for use in making a flour mixture light. It works something like baking powder; it helps to form a gas, and this gas forces its way up, carrying the batter with it.

The soda cannot work with ordinary liquid alone, as baking powder does. It has to have some acid in the mixture to work with it. So we usually use soda in a batter that we are wetting with an acid liquid like sour milk, buttermilk or molasses. There are other things that are a little acid, too, like brown sugar, cocoa, apples and fruits. Hot liquids, even though not acid, also act on baking soda.

We must be very careful to have exactly the right amount of soda to work with the acid in our mixture. If we use more soda than the acid can take care of, that "extra soda" will taste in the finished product; sometimes you can smell it off a muffin or a soda-scone—or you can see that it has made the mixture a little yellowish. So we are always careful to have no extra soda.

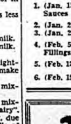
This is the rule for using soda:

1 cup sour milk, buttermilk or molasses will take care of ½ teaspoon soda.

The equivalent amount of acid in fruit juices, small amounts of vinegar, etc., will have to be estimated.

Making the Pour Batter

You have probably spoken yourself of a friend who has "a light touch with a cake". The explanation is very sound origin. It is a mistake to overwork a batter; either a cake batter (which comes in Lesson 9 and in such wide and fascinating variety in the Easy-Way Cake Book) or the simpler batters we are discussing in this lesson. Quick but thorough blending of the materials is our aim. I will reduce the work to a sort of formula for you:



1. See to the oven if it is to be used—it should generally be heating.
2. Get out ingredients required.
3. Grease pans or line with paper if necessary.
4. Measure, mix and sift dry ingredients.
5. Measure shortening and liquid.
6. Combine ingredients, usually adding mixed liquids to mixed dry ingredients.
8. Cook as required.

Weddings

McLAUGHLIN—BOWERMAN

The marriage was solemnized quietly at St. Michaels Church this morning of Miss Emily Pearl Bowerman and Mr. Michael James McLaughlin both of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Baker. Mr. and Mrs. George Bowerman were attendants at the wedding.

WILSON—IRVINE

NORTH BAY— Yellow daffodils, ferns and palms were used in artistic arrangement to decorate St. Andrew's United Church for a charming mid-winter wedding, Wednesday afternoon, January tenth, at five o'clock, when Margaret the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Irvine, 212 Cassell street, became the bride of Clinton Newton Wilson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs John Wilson, North Bay, Rev. G. S. Easton performed the ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives.

Donald Gibbs presided at the organ and played the wedding music as the groom entered with Rev. Easton. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and the bride was pretty in her modish gown of ivory satin made on graceful, flowing lines with court train. Her veil of tulle and lace, trimmed with pearls, was arranged in cap shape with a fine tulle bandeau veil and caught at the sides by festoons of orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies, smilax, Killarney roses and fern. The bridesmaid's smart frock was of peach suede lace over satin of the same shade and with it she wore a large picture hat of matching satin and lace and white suede lace gloves. Her bouquet was arranged in a shower of Carnation roses and fern. She also wore the gift of the bridegroom, a fine silver link bracelet set with brilliant and eminences. Arthur Winston and Wesley Irvine acted as ushers.

A reception for about 40 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, following the ceremony. Mrs. Irvine received, wearing a gown of blue crepe with silver metallic embroidery, matching shoes and hat. Assisting her daughter, Mrs. S. E. Broune, was in black crepe and metallic and small hat to match. The toasts to the bridal couple and to the bride's mother were proposed by Rev. Mr. Easton and that to the bridesmaid by S. E. Broune, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left the same evening for a trip to Ottawa, Buffalo and Montreal, and upon their return will take up residence in North Bay. The bride travelled in a three-piece ensemble of brown with accessories of brown with dark brown fur, small brown felt hat with circular veil and matching accessories. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a Canadian traveling bag. The bridesmaid a silver bracelet; to the soloist, a necklet set with minerals to the best man, a tuxedo cigarette case, and the ushers, billfolds. A host of beautiful and useful gifts were received by the young couple.

The groom is a nephew of the late chief Newton of this city.

MRS. G. A. REID IS HONORED

Is Elected Honorary President of Presbyterial

The annual meeting of Kingston Presbyterial W.M.S. was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Gananoque on Friday, Jan. 19th. Devotional exercises were conducted by members of Sand Hill and St. John's Auxiliaries.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of the President, who has been seriously ill, the afternoon and evening sessions were presided over by Mrs. Duff, Vice President. Special prayers were offered for the recovery of Mrs. Reid and many expressions of appreciation were voiced regarding her untiring services as President of the Presbyterial. A letter of greeting from Mrs. Reid was read which contained many messages of cheer and encouragement for the year 1934.

Delegates were warmly welcomed to Gananoque by Mrs. Darling and were entertained in the afternoon with a delightful piano solo by Mr. Law.

Important findings of the October Provincial Board meeting were brought to the attention of the Presbyterial, one special recommendation being that all members of the Society unite for prayer each morning at 9 o'clock.

Miss Fowler presented the Treasurer's report showing total receipts of $2,533.72, this amount being some short of the Presbyterial allocation.

Greetings and a fine address were given by Mrs. John Williams, Representative of the Provincial Board. Even in these times of depression there are many bright spots in the work of the Society, one in particular being the addition last year of seven senior auxiliaries, twenty Y. W. Auxiliaries, and twenty five Mission Bands.

Departmental reports were then heard showing a sure progress in all branches. Four new organizations were reported in Girls' Work. This department was much benefited by the recent visit of Miss Mary Hill, Girls' Work Secretary.

Key Woman's report showed the gratifying sum of $225.44 forwarded to the Special Campaign Fund.

Forty five delegates responded to the roll call and the afternoon session closed with the Doxology.

Delegates and their friends were entertained at supper by the members of Gananoque Auxiliary and a happy social hour enjoyed before the evening session.

Devotions were conducted at 7.30 by Gananoque Auxiliary after which Mrs. Duff was commissioned to send a message to Mrs. Reid in acknowledgment of her letter and expressing the earnest prayers of the meeting for a speedy and complete recovery to health.

Miss Eleanor Kidd was presented with a life membership certificate from Gananoque M.B.

Greetings from Presbytery were brought by Mr. Kidd, Minister of the church, who esteemed it an honor and privilege to pay tribute to the work of the W.M.S.

A very full and comprehensive report of the year's work was given by the Corresponding Secretary Mrs. Ranson of Belleville showing the high lights of each department. Present membership of Senior Auxiliaries in Kingston Presbyterial is 408.

Home Helper's Secretary, Mrs. Scott of Picton, was appointed delegate to the annual provincial meeting to be held in April at Hamilton.

A pleasing quartette was rendered by members of Gananoque choir.

The address of the evening was given by Mrs. Strachan, Council Treasurer. From the wealth of many years' experience in almost every department of W.M.S. work the speaker was able to give a very clear and concise summary of the work both in Canada and Overseas. A fully qualified nurse is urgently needed to fill the place left vacant by the recent death of Miss Mildred Suitar, dearly beloved missionary of India. Special encouraging features are Chinese work in Canada; Indian and hospital departments in the Canadian West.

An invitation from West Huntingdon to hold the summer meeting on June 19th was gratefully accepted.

Election of officers followed. Mrs. Duff was unanimously elected President for 1934 and installation services were conducted by Mrs. Strachan.

Meeting closed with the National Anthem and Benediction by Mr. Kidd.

Officers are:

Honorary President—Mrs. Geo. Reid, Belleville.

President—Mrs. Duff, Kingston.

Vice Presidents—Mrs. Bain, Gananoque; Miss Cameron, Camden East; Mrs. A. Fargey, Stirling.

Corresponding Sec.—Mrs. Percy Ranson, Belleville.

Recording Sec.—Miss E. S. Mowat, Kingston.

Treasurer—Miss A. S. Fowler, Kingston.

Department Secretaries

Glad Tidings—Mrs. Mackintosh, Madoc.

Home Helpers—Mrs. Scott, Picton.

Library and Literature—Mrs. Fargey, Belleville.

Life Membership—Mrs. Rutherford, Belleville.

Mission Band—Mrs. Jenkins, Madoc.

Assistant M. B.—Miss D. Druce, Kingston.

Press—Mrs. Cameron—Pittsburgh

Student—Mrs. Smith, Kingston

Welcome, Welfare—Mrs. Annoud, Kingston.

Y.W.C. and Girls' Work— Mrs. Penwarden, Kingston.

HOLLOWAY STREET CHURCH BOARD

The Holloway Street Church Mission Band was held in the Church Parlours, January 20, Ruth Oliphant presiding. The opening hymn was "There is a green hill far away". Prayer was offered by Evelyn Bowler, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The first psalm was recited by the Band. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Evelyn Bowler in the absence of Ruth Morden, secretary.

The following readings were given "Somebody Else" by Ruth Oliphant; "A Little Boy's Plea" by Alleen Bowler; "The Left Hand Penny, by Doreen Woodcock; "The Right Hand Penny", by Barbara Lloyd "Just for Fun" by Ethel Gordienere "The Dawdle Bird" by Margaret Simpson; "An Interrupted Picture", by Barbara Simmons; "The Quest of Lazy Lad", by Nadine Hall. The Leader gave the story of two Chinese boys from the Study Book and took charge of the closing exercises. Five new members were added to the membership.

U.S. NAVY AT TREATY LIMITS

Naval Supply Bill is Reported at Washington

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)— A United States navy near London treaty limits upon completion of its present program was pictured today by the House of Representatives' appropriation committee in reporting a $284,747,000 naval supply bill.

Taking issue with statements of Admiral William H. Standley, Chief of Naval Operations, that the condition of the fleet was not satisfactory, the committee reported construction under way which "upon completion, will bring us current with treaty limitations in all combatant categories, completely discounting overage tonnage."

The committee provided for an increase of 2,800 enlisted naval, and 1,000 marine personnel.

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—The United States House of Representatives appropriations committee considers a complete navy of such importance that today it voted to override Director Lewis W. Douglas and authorize $1,200,000 to start three new 6-inch gun cruisers in the next fiscal year.

WOULD ADOPT OWN CHILD

Woman Had Quarreled With Husband And Taken Child

Chicago, Jan. 22 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Kloiber, 18, had an idea but it didn't work.

She planned, the authorities said, to adopt her own 10 months old daughter, Mary Jane, as a foundling but, she was thwarted by the police.

As the story was told by her to police she quarrelled with her husband, who ordered her out of the house last Saturday after which she sneaked back to the place and took the baby. After wandering around all night she hailed a taxi cab driver in a park. "I've just found an abandoned baby," she told him. "Hurry to a hospital."

The driver hurried, but stopped enroute to pick up a policeman. The baby was left at the hospital and Mrs. Kloiber was taken to a police station, where she told the story.

"I decided to make people believe I found the baby in Grant Park. I knew it would get care and nobody else would claim it. In a couple of weeks, when I had a job, I would adopt Mary Jane, but you spoiled it."

WIDE ARSON RING AT WORK

Violent Explosion at Port Colborne May be Linked up

Toronto, Jan. 22 (CP)—Existence of a widespread arson ring, supported by a "black hand" society which he said had meted out death to at least one "squealer" and balked a five-year drive of provincial police and fire marshals was charged today by Ontario Fire Marshal E. P. Heaton to be operating in the Niagara Peninsula.

Mr. Heaton linked yesterday's violent explosion at Port Colborne, in which one person was killed, with a wave of terriorism which has blanketed Italian residents of the Niagara sector in silence. He said his men and police have been unable to break down the veil of terror and secure evidence.

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 22 (CP)—Beginning a new week, mining shares presented a generally firm appearance on the Standard Exchange today, secondary gold issues taking the leadership in volume and price appreciation. Base Metals and senior gold issues were more active with price adjustments mainly on the up side.

McIntyre gained 50 cents to $41, Dome 10 cents to $34.10, Pioneer 35 to 12.25, Bralorne 35 to 11.25 and Wright Hargreaves, Teck and Lake Shore were unchanged. Sylvanite advanced to 1.69, up 3 cents and Wayside to 47, up 7 cents.

Noranda was in fair demand at $35, up 50 cents and Nickel at 22.75 had a net gain of 5 cents.

Senior gold stocks made a half-hearted attempt to firm up in the morning session today but in the early afternoon Wright Hargreaves was offered down quite freely and early gains in the list were erased in a majority of cases. The two British Columbia issues, Bralorne and Pioneer were the strongest of the group, both retaining small gains.

A generally firm tone ruled in the base metal group, supported by the prospect of a copper production agreement in the United States.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 22 (AP)—Stocks and staples generally sailed in narrow channels today although there was little change apparent in the trading weather.

Equities were turned over in large volume during the early hours and the ticker tape occasionally lagged a bit. Inaugural gains of fractions to a point or more, however, failed to hold in the majority of instances. Bonds were fairly firm.

Canadian stocks moved in narrow channels. Shares of International Nickel, Dome, McIntyre and Canadian Pacific ruled a trifle lower to ¼ of a point higher. On the curb Hiram Walker firmed a major fraction but Lake Shore was only a bit better than steady.

Dominion Government 4's eased a shade while other maturities held steady. The Canadian dollar was ⅛ of a cent lower at 99 cents.

Shares of Houston Oil got up about 3 points, while Amerada, Seaboard and Standards of New Jersey and California were up 1 to 2.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 22.—While volume was smaller in today's morning session of the Toronto Stock Exchange, prices held firm with moderate buoyancy in the interlisted group. Distillery and Brewery shares split even on losses and gains but price variations were thin.

Distillers Seagram made the best showing of the Distillery group, advancing ¾ to 24¾ while Industrial Alcohol added ¼ on heavier volume and Walker's Common at 53¾ was off ¾. Brewers and Distillers at 2.75 was unchanged.

The market was strong in the early transactions, bolstered by a mild rally on the New York Board but when New York slowed down the bulk of the gains were lost. The Utility and Financial stocks held to the up side and distillery and brewery stocks dropped the morning gains except Canadian Industrial Alcohol which was holding around 20 this afternoon.

Nickel turned over in fair volume, getting up to 22.90 in the first hour but failing to hold. Smelters dropped a point to 134.

PRODUCE PRICES IN MONTREAL

Eggs continued last week to be the feature of the Montreal wholesale dairy and produce markets. In the previous week they had dropped six to eight cents per dozen, owing to mild weather and increased recovery practically identical with the preceding week's decline, advancing 6c to 7c per dozen. They finished the week with graded shipments arriving in l.c.l. lots being quoted generally 32c to 33c for grade A-large 30c to 31c for grade A-medium and 29c to 30c for grade A-pullets. Colder weather, heavy snowfalls and decreased arrivals, together with an increased demand that set in at the recent drop in prices, all combined to send the market sharply back to where it was a fortnight previous.

The butter market eased 1-2c per lb. during the week, under quieter demand, becoming 24 3-4c to 25c per lb., for No. 1 pasteurized regraded in carlots or l.c.l. lots. The cheese market firmed 1-4c, becoming 10 1-2c for current make Ontarios. The potato market was 5c to 10c higher at 90c to $1.10 per 80-lb bag.

The poultry market continued steady.

Receipts for the week, with comparisons were posted at the Board of Trade as follows:

	Eggs, Cases	Butter Boxes	Cheese Boxes
Last week ..	5,208	4,030	482
Week ago ..	6,321	4,588	433
Year ago ..	9,936	898	323

Apple Exports To United Kingdom

OTTAWA, January 22.—Exports of Canadian apples to the United Kingdom markets for the week ending January 18 were: 72,878 barrels and 81,149 boxes as compared with 77,167 barrels and 35,748 boxes the previous week, a decrease of 7 per cent. on barrels and increase of 127 per cent. on boxes. Seasonal exports during the present season to the same date are 1,779,684 barrels and 1,716,900 boxes as compared with 783,222 barrels and 1,507,204 boxes on the corresponding date last year, an increase of 128 per cent. on barrels and 14 per cent. on boxes.

CHEESE

Toronto, Jan. 22. — The Toronto wholesale cheese market was steady today with dealers buying large, colored, paraffined and government grades at 10¾c to 11c.

Wholesalers offered cheese to retailers at the following prices: New large, 12c; twins, 12¼c; triplets, 12½c; old large, 17½c; twins, 17¾c; triplets, 18c; medium large, 15½c; twins, 15¾c; triplets, 16c.

Produce Market

Toronto, Jan. 22. — Wholesale prices on produce delivered at Toronto as supplied by the United Farmers' Co-operative Co., here today, were:

Eggs, extras, 25c doz.; firsts, 23c doz.; pullet extras, 20c doz.; seconds (cracked), 18c doz.; churning cream, No. 1, 25c lb.; No. 2, 23c lb.; butter, No. 1 (solids) 24½c lb.; No. 2 (solids) 24c lb.

Ontario Cobbler Potatoes, per bag 85 cents.

Dealer's nominal price on hand-picked white beans, in carlots, F.O.B. at point of shipment, $1.02½ bushel.

Livestock

Toronto, Jan. 22 (CP)—A strong undertone prevailed in the cattle division of the Toronto Livestock Market today with salesmen asking higher prices on all grades. Early trading was slow under receipts of 1,520 head. Calves opened strong, hogs unsettled, sheep and lambs steady.

Receipts as reported by the Dominion Livestock branch were: Cattle 1520, calves 180, hogs 890, sheep and lambs 910

Truro, N.S., Jan. 22—(CP)—Senator John Stanfield was suddenly stricken with illness at his office today and taken to his home in an ambulance. Physicians described his condition as serious.

Red Wings First U. S. Club in N. H. L. to Defeat Leafs During the Present Season

Smythe Club Picks up But One Point in Two Games

Thoms Scores 100th Goal of Season For Leafs Against Hawks

(By the Canadian Press)

Fudgy Jack Adams capped his Detroit Red Wings on Detroit record hacks today and told them what goes there very. For the Wings he had joined that select company of hockey clubs that have broken Toronto Maple Leafs this season.

Montreal Canadiens and Ottawa Senators enjoyed membership together until last night, when Detroit became the first United States National Hockey League team to make a turnabout of the N.H.L. Garden.

Detroit's 4-2 win from Toronto was one of six games, that made the week-end the busiest the League has had since the schedule was cut in November. The wings split even on their two games, losing to Ottawa 5-4 at the Capital Saturday night and then picked up only one point in two engagements, tying Chicago 2-2 Saturday at Detroit.

Black Hawks had two ties, both with the same score, drawing 2-2 with Montreal Canadiens in Chicago Sunday. Canadiens defeated New York rangers 3-1 at Montreal Saturday and New York Americans beat Boston 4-3 in New York Sunday.

The net result of the battling was to leave Rangers, Chicago and Detroit tied for first place in the United States section, seven points up on Boston. The Canadian standing is unchanged.

Scores Twice In Overtime

Captain Herbie Lewis was Adams' star man in the attack on Toronto. After Joe Primeau and Buzz Boll had scored for Toronto in the first and scored for Toronto in the first and Frank Carson and Eddie Wiseman had tied it up in the third, Adams came through with two extra-session goals, that gave Wings the game.

On Saturday night Leafs had to come from behind to win in the end with Chicago. Mush March got the Hawks first goal before the game was three minutes old and Taffy Abel scored his fifth tally in three years to put the Hawks two up.

Charlie Conacher worked with Primeau to score Leafs' first goal in the second period and Bill Thoms brought the Queen Division's fans to their feet, total to 100 goals half way through the third.

Ottawa's band of young Niagara Falls amateurs brought the Senators victory over the Wings, Max Kaminsky had a goal and two assists and Jeff Hackfield, Scotty Bowman and Jerry Shannon helped.

Senators came from behind twice in the first period to catch up but the Wings added a third goal to go into the middle frame one up. Although Detroit scored another in the second session, Ottawa were able to shove two past Wilf Cude, Sid Howe got the winning tally in the third period.

Rangers Beaten

Chicago looked to have a safe margin, when Johnny Gottselig and Doc Romnes gave them markers in the first period of their game with Maroons. Jimmy Ward and Hooley Smith went on a rampage in the third, however, and both scored. Ward assisting Smith on the latter's goal as well.

Rangers were in the lead twice against Canadiens Saturday night, but they couldn't make their second margin safe. Wilder Lockeshelle and Jack Riley stood out for the Habitants, who were still without Georges Mantha or Larochelle scored two goals and got two assists while Riley had a goal and three assists.

The game produced the speediest hockey seen in Montreal this season. Aurel Joliat, Canadiens' veteran, would not be shut out by the brilliance of the younger Canadiens and scored two goals, one of them in the third period marker, that won the game. Larochelle and Riley were both in on that play with him.

Americans had to beat Boston in a climb out of the Canadian division cellar into which they were put by Ottawa's win. They made sure their stay in their old spot would not last more than 24 hours by soundly trimming the Bruins.

The teams battled at a 1-1 deadlock through the latter part of the first period and all through the second. Then Ronnie Martin broke through with Americans' second and Eddie Burke and Bob Gracie followed him with goals. Lloyd Gross, former American, had scored for Bruins in the first period and Lloyd Cook had tied it up. Peggy Kessell's diminutive Boston crew got their second goal near the end of the game.

FALLS DOWNED BY VARSITY

Toronto, Jan. 22—(CP)—Niagara Falls Canadians of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association today were feeling the absence of Walter Kaleficlash who left the Simon-Purves to play with Ottawa Senators in the National Hockey League. Without the clever Kalefi, Canadians dropped to eighth, Falls lost a close game to Varsity, on the bottom rung of the standings.

The students sprinted the fourth place Cataracts by handling them a 3-2 defeat with defenceman Emile Bay bouncing in two of Varsity's markers. Cataracts tied the score twice but Normie McClelland sizzled the issue in Varsity's favor in the period.

TECS WIN AND LOSE TO BISONS, STARS

Jean Pusie Drops Long Penalty For Fielders

By The Canadian Press

London Tecs today stood as the run-men of the International Professional Hockey League, Bumped around in one of the roughest league games ever witnessed in Fort Erie Saturday night, when they dropped a 3-2 game to Buffalo Bisons, to come back to the wars the day night to another win over the second-place Hamilton D.A.C.

Jean Pusie, burly former star of Canada Professional League, played the hero role in the Tecs' 3-2 win at the Capital Saturday night and Tecs picked up only one point in two engagements, tying Chicago 2-2 Saturday at Detroit.

Black Hawks had two ties, both with the same score, drawing 2-2 with Montreal Canadiens in Chicago Sunday. Canadiens defeated New York rangers 3-1 at Montreal Saturday and New York Americans beat Boston 4-3 in New York Sunday.

The net result of the battling was to leave Rangers, Chicago and Detroit tied for first place in the United States section, seven points up on Boston. The Canadian standing is unchanged.

Scores Twice In Overtime

Captain Herbie Lewis was Adams' star man in the attack on Toronto. After Joe Primeau and Buzz Boll had scored for Toronto in the first and scored for Toronto and Frank Carson and Eddie Wiseman had tied it up in the third, Adams came through with two extra-session goals, that gave Wings the game.

On Saturday night Leafs had to come from behind to win in the end with Chicago. Mush March got the Hawks first goal before the game was three minutes old and Taffy Abel scored his fifth tally in three years to put the Hawks two up.

Charlie Conacher worked with Primeau to score Leafs' first goal in the second period and Bill Thoms brought the Queen Division's fans to their feet, total to 100 goals half way through the third.

Ottawa's band of young Niagara Falls amateurs brought the Senators victory over the Wings, Max Kaminsky had a goal and two assists and Jeff Hackfield, Scotty Bowman and Jerry Shannon helped.

Senators came from behind twice in the first period to catch up but the Wings added a third goal to go into the middle frame one up. Although Detroit scored another in the second session, Ottawa were able to shove two past Wilf Cude, Sid Howe got the winning tally in the third period.

Rangers Beaten

Chicago looked to have a safe margin, when Johnny Gottselig and Doc Romnes gave them markers in the first period of their game with Maroons. Jimmy Ward and Hooley Smith went on a rampage in the third, however, and both scored. Ward assisting Smith on the latter's goal as well.

Rangers were in the lead twice against Canadiens Saturday night, but they couldn't make their second margin safe. Wilder Lockeshelle and Jack Riley stood out for the Habitants, who were still without Georges Mantha. Larochelle scored two goals and got two assists while Riley had a goal and three assists.

The game produced the speediest hockey seen in Montreal this season. Aurel Joliat, Canadiens' veteran, would not be shut out by the brilliance of the younger Canadiens and scored two goals, one of them in the third period marker, that won the game. Larochelle and Riley were both in on that play with him.

Americans had to beat Boston to climb out of the Canadian division cellar into which they were put by Ottawa's win. They made sure their stay in their old spot would not last more than 24 hours by soundly trimming the Bruins.

The teams battled at a 1-1 deadlock through the latter part of the first period and all through the second. Then Ronnie Martin broke through with Americans' second and Eddie Burke and Bob Gracie followed him with goals. Lloyd Gross, former American, had scored for Bruins in the first period and Lloyd Cook had tied it up. Peggy Kessell's diminutive Boston crew got their second goal near the end of the game.

FALLS DOWNED BY VARSITY

Toronto, Jan. 22—(CP)—Niagara Falls Canadians of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association today were feeling the absence of Walter Kalefi-lash who left the Simon-Purves to play with Ottawa Senators in the National Hockey League. Without the clever Kalefi, Canadians dropped to eighth, Falls lost a close game to Varsity, on the bottom rung of the standings.

The students garnished the fourth place Cataracts by handling them a 3-2 defeat with defenceman Emile Bay bouncing in two of Varsity's markers. Cataracts tied the score twice but Normie McClelland sizzled the issue in Varsity's favor in the period.

DAY BY DAY

Harry M. Moore, past president of the Toronto Hockey Club, takes us to task rubbing to our statement, that corresponding dates stand taken by the Trenton club in the matter of playing O.H.A. games that conflict with games being played in the Kingston City League. We wish to inform Mr. Moore that our stand in the matter is right and if our past faith, following what we considered authentic information, deems two championships in the group.

We confess that we were not present at the group meeting and therefore accepted the word of those who were. Mr. Moore points out that Belleville asked exemption from O.H.A. competition for the first week in January and not one game in the second week, which was granted. He admits, however, that Belleville D.A.C. was satisfied they agreed not to use Tice, Sherry, Bradd, Nicoll and Red McDonald.

We are in receipt of a letter from a Mr. R. Stewart of Belleville in reference to our remarks in the Intelligencer re Ulster Stadium League. The latter will be dealt with in a future issue of this newspaper. We now understand that Pat Conacher has resigned as president of the loop. For Mr. Stewart's information, we would be within bounds to watch carefully the reports of the Ulster Stadium League that will appear from time to time, be published in not only Toronto newspapers but in the Belleville throughout the province.

Freak from their victory over the Campbellford Maroons the Trenton Golden Hawks will play Trenton tonight where they can better their chances of downing Benny Bowen's black and white clad youth from along the shores of the Trent. Friday night the L'Heureux-coached outfit can display all their wares at Friday night, they should have little difficulty in "bringing home the bacon" this evening. The "others" carried plenty of speed against the Maroons while their combination plays and back-checking left little to be desired on the defensive end. A win tonight would bring the locals into a first-place tie with the leading Maroons.

On Sunday thousands of skaters took advantage of the excellent skating facilities on the river, bay and nearby ponds. Numerous hockey games were organized, especially on the river and bay. A fierce game was played there as was down the bay before a brisk wind. Skiers were also in the neighborhood of Oak Hill and other well known ski-ing haunts. Adele as well as Jack are keen on winter and their day of rest to enjoy the winter pastimes in the great Canadian outdoors.

The members of the local Skating Club enjoyed an afternoon's recreation at the arena with fully one hundred gliding gracefully over the fine sheet of ice provided. The club members interested in figure and fancy skating devoted their time to a serious practice as they are scheduled to appear at a carnival in Belleville on Wednesday night. Singles, doubles and trios will be entered by the lovers of skating at Tweed. The carnival cold wave has been a marked asset to the ice-makers at the arena, where an excellent sheet of ice for skaters and curlers is presented in skating.

Strange as it may seem the local members of hockey clubs around the hey team always seem to play better hockey away from home than they do on their own ice. This may be credited to the fact that the team that plays on strange ice still team has played over 50 per cent. of their games away from the road where they are not afforded the support of the fans that are present to see the locals at their best they should make a special effort to be present at the session on Tuesday night when the Trenton Golden Hawks appear in the third game of the present play-off series.

All of the members of the Clubs Service Corps will turn out with the Brockville Macedonians when they defeated Perth 11-5. They certainly gave a fine display. Tice, Sherry, Nicoll and Red McDonald, for the island town aggregation, all taking a prominent part in the victory. Eddie Hanson, who had laid away at the arena tonight and packs instantaneous shot from the ice. Skipper Thomas expects at least two more players to journey to be present this evening. The best kids journey to Trenton on Wednesday night.

Zion Hill and Cannifton Win in Centre Loop at Stirling

Stirling, Jan. 22—(Special)— The Bethel lads met the Zion Hill Sixers in a Centre League fixture in the local arena on Friday night and turned in the best hockey performance of any two teams in the entire league this season. It was a great exhibition of hockey that saw the Zion Hill just managing to nose out Bethel in the last minute of the game, 3-2 score.

The Zion Hill boys have a great team with no weak spots in their line-up and it looks now as if they will find their way into the play-offs. The players are all matured men and well seasoned players in contrast to the fid lins of the Bethel team.

Bethel looked much better than in previous performances and the new Hadgins-Cranston defense was a weeking in great style with Bills in the Bethel net performing in a stellar game. The forward line of Twigg and Ray shg Earl Dickey as usual found themselves into a regular lathey in that, attempts to score but Beeley in the Zion Hill goal showed that he knew how to handle his job of standing the nets. The Bethel goalie was calling upon to make easily three times as many as the Zion goal tender and it was absolutely superb the way he handled the shots.

The Play

In the first period, the Zion forward line pressed their opponents hard and early in the frame rattled the Bethel defence with combination. The play was fast with lots of close checking but before the period ended Earl Dickey of Bethel got away on a solo rush to make a beautiful shot beating the Zion goalie for the only Bethel tally of the game.

With the score 1 all, the second frame was fast and furious and it was in this stanza that Cranston Jerry Bethel defence man showed how he could step into it and help him and Hudgins score goals of credit for keeping the period scoreless. The Zionites pressed the play and the way that Ellis laid handled the shots was just nobody's business. They got plenty chances for the Zion defence different times but failed to score, shooting wide of the net. The frame ended scoreless.

The third frame was much the same as the two previous ones, looking as if the battle would end in a tie game but Orley Parks of the Zion boys stipped one past Ellis in the last minute of the game to turn in a 2-1 win for his team.

Cannifton Inds. all dolled up for the occasion in new yellow and blue sweaters stepping into the local keyhouse on Friday night and handed the Minto boys a severe drubbing when they came out on the long end of an 8-2 score.

And what a game. Minto's lanky man, Redd, was suffering from a sprained wrist while Gibson, centre-ice player for the losers was nursing a real cold, but Cannifton, in spite of the opponents disabilities were merciless and the puck had no sooner been faced off at centre ice than Wilfred Gibson, centre for Cannifton was tallying again for Cannifton. Reid and Jarrell took a trip to the cooler early in the second for the Empson later on. The period ended 2-0 for Cannifton.

The third and final stanza was not too hot for Minto. Johnson and Simpson each scored twice on Heagle of Minto to register an 8-2 count. Minto however not quite vanquishing came through for the final say when Jack Gibson, on a solo play, scored the second goal of the period for Minto. Play was Cannifton nets. The play ended with the final score 8-2 for Cannifton. Cannifton was forced to a new arrangement of the lineup and as the results show it certainly proved effective. Minto was decidedly outplayed throughout.

JOHN JOHNSON ICE AND BIKE CHAMPION DIES

Record For Four Races On The Blades Still Stands

Minneapolis, Jan. 22—John S. Johnson, bicycle and ice skating champion of more than thirty years ago, died today on the ice for six, seven, eight, nine and ten miles still stand, don't Johnson's record of a decade ago.

From 1894 to 1899 Johnson held set the American and Canadian records in cycling. In 1894, in a ten-mile race at Montreal, he broke up speed records from one mile to ten. His times for the first nine miles were bettered, but once skated 100 yards in eight seconds with a standing start, in the that he could beat the best mark ever set by a sprinter for the same distance.

While at his peak as a skater, Johnson was champion of the United States, holding every world's record from 100 yards to five miles, including or firing starts. He went to Europe in 1896, and defeated the leading riders of England, France, Italy, The Netherlands and the Scandinavian countries. He also competed in skating races and took part in a Marathon from Montreal to Lachine.

BURT SHOTTON TO BE COACH OF REDS

Bob O'Farrell Appointed Manager Asks For Player

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 22 (AP) Burt Shotton, Philadelphia's former dean of managers, will be coach of the Redland club during the 1934 season, the Redland club announced today.

For a time, the former St. Louis pilot's candidacy had been mentioned prominently as likely to succeed Bob O'Farrell, another St. Louis product, who was fired by the Phillies. Then Bob O'Farrell, another St. Louis product, was named to the post here, and Shotton was deposed at the helm of the Phillies by Jimmy Wilson, whom he had traded to the Cardinals years before.

Shotton's choice was that of Jimmy MacPhail, general manager of the Reds.

THE BIG SEVEN

Young Chuck Conacher, wonder goal getter of the Toronto Maple Leafs right wing makes opposing goalies tremble, is still leading the parade in the National Hockey League so far as points are concerned with the pocket hard-earned the imposing total of 19 goals and nine assists, and his 28 points are three higher than collected by Howie Morenz, Montreal Canadiens' flashy Frankie Boucher of Rangers is fighting hard, however, and has 25 points.

Five Original Members of N. Y. Rangers to be Honored

With Team When Organized in 1926 and Complete 400 Games

Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, Jan. 22.—(CP)—A celebration unparalleled in National Hockey League history will be observed with much ballyhoo and splash at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. New York Rangers will present the team with a regular league match and, when they skate out against the Ottawa skaters, will be establishing all sorts of records their supporters confidently believe will never be equalled.

Five players who have competed the Rangers have engaged in league, playoff and exhibition games the team has played since the beginning of the 1926-27 season.

Frederick M. Kerr, chairman Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, President of the Garden, Lester Patrick, vice-president and manager of the Blue Shirts, Lou Gehrig, captain of the New York Yankees and other celebrities will take the ice for the opening of the evening, congratulate the team and present Manager Murdoch, Bill Cook, Ching Johnson, Frank Boucher and Bun Cook with souvenirs in recognition of their consistent and faithful service.

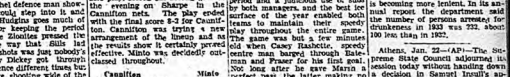
The five players are puck juggles of the Rangers, now manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, signed back in '26, when he was slated to be Ranger manager.



In addition Murdoch will be recipient of a diamond studded signet ring for his "world's endurance record" of competing in 600 consecutive contests. Gehrig, holder of major league baseball's consecutive string of 1347 games will present Murdoch with his separate prize.

Bun Cook, Canada-to-Broadway Cook from line scoring record, that stands at over 200 points since the Rangers entered the league will be presented with gold wrist watch souvenirs will receive trophies from Col. Kilpatrick who will also present Beeley, manager and Harry Westerby the team's trainer since 1926 with souvenirs.

Patrick, who has served 23 years straight as a coach of major league hockey teams from coast to coast, may yield to the demands of his fans and don the goalies' pads to brush aside a few practice shots with the puck. Lester claims he has not missed a game, league, playoff or exhibition and his team has played, in 15 consecutive seasons.

SAFETY BOOTS SAVE INJURIES TO TOES

Montreal, Jan. 20—Toes seem to be particularly prone to injury to factory workers and, strangely, the injuries are confined mostly to trackmen those engaged in maintaining the track. This interesting information is culled from a report of the Safety Council of the Canadian National Railways, which has issued that in a working year, 344 employees lost 7,133 working days by reason of being heavy weights on their toes. The monetary loss is equivalent to approximately $25,000. Weights of the objects causing the injuries range all the way to 800 pounds. As a preventative, the Safety Council recommends a safety boot with steel protected toe cap. This type of boot has succeeded in saving toes even when an iron weighing 650 pounds has fallen on the workmans' foot.

Leafs' 100th Goal Ties Black Hawks

The Maple Leaf Hockey Club set Toronto's Centennial Year under way auspicously by scoring their 100th goal of the season, the counter being registered by William Thoms on his 743rd attempt of the season.

If the rest of the centennial ceremonies are half as welcome as William's goal, it is going to be quite a year, for the marker saved the limping Leafs from suffering defeat by the Chicago Hawks, who had leaped into an early lead despite the fact that they used only their 45th and 46th goals of the season for the purpose.

When Taffy Abel floated the length of the rink for the second of three, however, Irvin's Bandaged Band finally shook off their stiffness and Paul Thompson's checking and went into the century demonstration mentioned above.

The occasion was attended by the largest crowd of the year, over 13,000 fans being on hand in spite of the gasoline war.

LOVE'S LOTTERY

— by —

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

"Geoffrey sat a bit back of Cicily his eyes on the nape of her neck where the hair curled so deliciously. He had his own thoughts about it. They made him move and dare to take a hand in the game. The music's chair, to press it against her bare shoulder. She turned her face to him the softness and warmth of it made him set his strong teeth on the lower lip.

"The contralto was caroling "Ici Dans Dicht" and as it is—somewhere as a considerable distance were cows that were reluctant to be herded. It covered —this reverberating enchantment. His whisper: "Will I ever have ..... more than ten minutes— alone with you? You look crazy for you—Cicily. You don't know how ....."

"Darling!" she whispered. He drew a sharp breath, shifted his position, sat back and said in a voice of steel: "Cecil!"

He could not—for the moment—even look at her.

"That's a ghost," Cicily said, rising. "I want you to meet us in Bagdad."

"What is she?"

"Why you said—you never had been there. Miranda adores her, she—"

"Yes," he admitted, regretting having spoken quite so much of truth.

"In some ways...really, we hardly ever each other."

"I know you!" he contradicted.

She shook her head, saying, "No. There were days when I—I—we—when you can, you see," she explained, "and a man in love—learns to know a woman by kissing her. He learns, instead, his mouth for her or his distaste of her. I went those days to the limit of the order of feel that which we haven't had time to feel here. And so to know, and finimately, Cecil, that which we really love!"

"I love you!" he broke out.

"The thing that we have and must keep, for we'll go without needing the interruption."Is more than the want of it but now you see it once in a great, great while in older people who have grown more reserved at both time and you know there isn't any chill in their twilight. I want that quality—that asset—strengthened it's a sort of wordless companionship. And you know, deep-sea fishes lose eyes because they swim in the dark; we can't keep that which we have unless you will give it to some of the energy and freshness that you still now only to business. ...And it will as if you were about a paper," Geoff!" She smiled up at him.

"I know—I agreed. Promising and for once, without warning to her smile "Not any dear—there are a lot of affairs here that I must attend to myself. I can't take my fingers from them for even an instant. Now you take that matter of the zipper contract."

"I don't care to take it, thank you," she broke in. "I've never yet returned any of your offerings, Geoff, but if you send me that, I would."

For a moment they studied each other.

"There hasn't been, for three or four years, any moment when you were free, has there, Geoff "

"Well—no. I'd be cheated, his brown tightening.

"And you suggested that we spend our honeymoon in the Adirondacks because you could fly to New York if there were a crisis and because you could conduct your business 'as usual' over the telephone—"

"Yes, I did," he agreed and angrily. "Cicily, I'm thinking, I can't possibly get away to meet you and Miss Ella in London, and you will have to be as nice about it as you can be, dear! I didn't quite going to be reasonable!"

She was "reasonable" in his eyes, she had begun to realize, when she accepted without question every decision that he made. "Geoff!" she said, "I'll never love another man, long whether I can't happy knowing you." I don't know. That personal part would not matter, but I know I can't make you happy unless I am happy. Maybe Ella Alden is cool and, and he is right!"

He said nothing, but he was certain that in front of her answered, he would be happy—quite happy—despite her "funny ideas" about which with time, he comforted himself, would wear away. Of course he would change his life for the whim of a woman, to become a sort of lap dog! And—married—there would grow absorbed in such matters as she would have to "swing" entirely; the management of the house, of rearing of children so on.

"Cecil," he said slowly and in a child and a leader voice. "I've had a hard decision to make. Can we abandon this discussion?"

"I suppose it might as well. Geoffrey," she answered, heavily. He thought she looked "a little like a little nicer about it"; he said so. She said nothing. Had he looked at her he could have seen that her eyes brimmed.

CHAPTER 8

The world is a stage, of course, and few people can maintain the steady playing of light comedy. In Geoffrey's office a dull drama was going on in which Miss Marks played the jealous woman, little Miss Miggs, the role of heroine, and Jimmy Duggan the hero who loved the heroine.

And that dramas influence large audiences, is known the voices of the players.In Geoffrey's office had already reached Cicily Eden and their further, as yet, unspoken lines were to make deepest indent in her.

Jimmy Duggan was not conceited but he knew what was the matter and why the frost-bitten Miss Marks was "taking it out on" the girl the collective office called "Little Miggs." Early in Jimmy's career in the office of Geoffrey Field, Miss Marks had asked him to her apartment where, after a dinner and two good dinners, prattling the while, with a lightness that masked real disease, of how pleasant it was to work for one, she had overwrought and the boasties of domesticity and of how dear mother, who had depended so upon her, had always said that she was born to be a wife and to make their comfort and, as she murmured, with a honeyed smile, "I live to wait the homecoming of my boy, tired man!" Jimmy "got out," as stifled and he drew away.

Together he was busy; but Miss Marks, who had been reared in the stern school of "Business is business" was forever biding him that two tickets for this or that. "Will you go to Jones' opening?" whether he could——?

It took a few more months to mute her wistful voice, and then she had only pouted when Jimmy spoke where one is restless and where one feels that one's self-respect would not "come-to-his senses." He'd never amount to anything unless he took care of himself. A good deal of how he would care for the girl, and of "the little home in here a garden." And he didn't consider Miss Marks' aloofness unreasonable. She'd begun to "pick on little Miggs." Then the choice of the mail her changed and Jimmy saw a vivid scarlet— and —clouds on the horizon. Miss Marks' had influence! she had been with Mr. Field for years, and matters in the outer office went as she wanted them to go. Jimmy's eyes grew older than they should have grown, and little Miss Miggs learned when Miss Marks as much as glanced her way.

On the day of Cicily Eden's sailing Miss Marks had that which women call a headache when they are unwilling to acknowledge a heartache. She hid seen Jimmy, at the information desk, cover "that Miggs' girl's hand" with his, to keep it covered.

After she had twice had to ask Geoffrey about an order he had given, he looked at her searchingly. "Feeling badly?" he asked and a bit metallically. He was said for efficiency. He was always tried when he found he did not get that for which he paid.

"I have—a frightful headache," she confessed and in a voice he had not known could be here, a voice that quivered.

"Um," he murmured he added. "Too bad; suppose you run off this afternoon. Rest up. I can get some one in here from the outer office. By the way, Miss Marks, you ordered flowers, books and magazines sent to Miss Eden's ship?

"Yes. I entered everything you told me to order, Mr. Field."

"Very well."

"I'd advise your using Miss Fiske this afternoon. She is very efficient."

He made no answer. He did not intend to use Miss Fiske, a scrawny anemic girl who would disturb his dictation by her nervous and hysterical nervousness. He had used her before at Miss Marks' recommendation.

Geoffrey reached the dock but a few minutes before the signal for the sailing was given. He'd meant to get down before, he explained, but he'd had a unusually hard, full morning. Things had piled up.

"I'm afraid you hurried frightfully," Cicily said with an anxious look up at him.

"I never have enough time!" he stated, with nervous impatience.

"You could have," she said. "Every one has the same amount of time given to him he determines the quantity by his use of it."

"Don't, dear!" he appealed miserably.

She laughed "I won't," she promised—"now." She slipped her arm through his to press it against her side, and then, leading him a bit from the group who surrounded Miss Ella, waving her ironsette, chirping nothings, she spoke again: "I've been in our cabin. Your offerings are perfect, Geoff."

"I'm so glad you like them, dear, so—" he answered tenderly.

"Geoff," she said in an undertone, "you'll never know how I love you. I'm quite crazy about you. I have loved you so long—or I thought I had. Now I fear that love was merely a preface. Will you think about me a great deal?"

"Won't I—!"

"I think of you—all the time—leaving you is tearing my heart to bits! Will you send me an occasional letter this evening?"

"Yes—you're going to write me each day?"

"If—you'll take time to read my letters," she whispered, her eyes downcast.

"Cicily!" he murmured reproachfully.

"I'll—you'll take time to read my letters, darling, and I will write, of course, each day, dearest. And truly, will you send me an ocean letter today, Geoff? I shall be—awaiting you so—out there at sea!"

"Pet!" Miss Ella called. Blinded by the rise of emotion that came from kissing Cicily, deafened by it, he stood, staring stupidly at Cicily traveling the gangplank behind Miss Ella, who had, in a fat little "coo" him not to reckon how much it had paid.

He must remember to send Cicily that cocoa butter, he reflected. He hoped, married and settled down, that it would become "seasoned."

Soothing Pacific he must not forget that. His memories and thoughts of Cicily were mixed, and loved up; he was "at it" again, chin hard, muscles tense.

Miss Marks, who had been lingering over "leaving" this "good ship shape" (and watching "that Miggs girl and Mr. Duggan"), was leaving Geoffrey's office. Geoffrey had and he had the uncomfortable feeling had an outburst of tears was "funny" of her unusual repression. "My head is hurting me," he explained, and unsteadily.

"I'm afraid," he said, "I've been working pretty hard lately, Miss Marks. Perhaps—"

"Oh, I don't mind," she answered wanly. "Business is my life. Yesterday one of the salesgirls said—of me whether I'd noticed the lilacs in the florist's window that we pass going out and actually—I'd passed them day after day without a thought of them—or seeing them! Looked right at them, as you look and never saw them—and be—because my mind is always on work not what was going to do—"

For a moment Geoffrey remembered the deep-sea fish and their lack of eyes of which Cicily had spoken.

"That makes you the most efficient secretary I've ever had," he said, "and I'm not joking, Miss Marks," he commented approvingly and a bit loudly; he had no wish to permit himself question—nor to be soften, of foolishly by Cicily's suggestions. He had watched too many men ruining themselves and every chance they had by their futile attempts to cover too much ground. Take Wilson Young, for instance! The deplorable blur to when Cicily was so absurdly devoted he spoke of would a woman of art, music, and he read poetry— Geoffrey's lips curled.

CHAPTER 9

"Luther," Geoffrey said to a freckle-faced boy, as Miss Marks stepped into the elevator, "who gave distance on the wire?"

Miss Marks had complained of a headache—making no mention of a headache — and, seeing Jimmy Duggan's look as he leaned over Miss Miggs at the information desk, Geoffrey had said, "Yes, I will," Luther replied, "Miss Miggs is a' dyin' for the doctor."

"Send her in," Geoffrey ordered. Luther, delivering his summons, said merely, "Somebody we know's going to be pretty sorry tomorrow for what he's been saying. You're it!" And he nodded toward the inner office.

Losing color, little Miggs stood up; she had waited a good while for the chance. She hoped, and with reason, that Jimmy Duggan would not see her hands shake.

"Look over there, please, Miss Miggs, and did you say your name is " Geoffrey began.

"Miggs," she answered in a weak, uncertain voice.

Geoff bit the reminders. "There was something—she," he said slowly. "I'm in a considerable fix—the ocean letter. "Jot down 'Ocean letter,' he ordered. "Now print it down ... her hands weren't shaking so much now. Perhaps he hadn't noticed how they did at first.

The hours flew. At four he said, "What else?"

"Ocean letter," she prompted.

H. W. SABINE HEADS MEN'S ASSOCIATION

Bishop Lyons Pays Official Visit to Marmora Parish

Marmora—At the meeting of St. Andrew's Men's Association in the Church Hall, Mr. E. A. Elliott gave a very interesting and instructive address dealing with the discovery of Cobalt and Northern Ontario mines and the smelling of the ores at Deloro, explaining the many processes through which the ore passes to separate the various minerals. The election of officers resulted in the re-election of last year's officers as follows:—President H. W. Sabine, Vice-Pres. E. A. Elliott, Secretary, Ralph Noel, Treasurer, Herb Bonter.

The Association members were divided into four groups with Messrs. W. A. Sanderson, W. L. Noble, R. R. Cranston and F. H. Walls as captains. Each group will be responsible for the meeting for one month.

Bishop Lyons

Right Rev. John Lyons D. D. Lord Bishop of Ontario, made his pastoral visit to Marmora on Sunday. The Bishop was celebrant at Holy Communion at 8 a. m. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell assisting.

At Matins, His Lordship addressed the large congregation upon the words, "What think ye of Christ?"

In his striking address he called upon the congregation to sustain their faithfulness to the work of the church and wished all prosperity in the year so newly entered.

Decorations of daffodils and carnations adorned the sanctuary.

Girls' Hockey Team

The girls of the Marmora Continuation School have formed a hockey team, under the direction and coaching of Mr. R. R. Cranston, principal. After the girls get going they will challenge some near-by town such as Tweed Girls' Team, to play them. Good-luck girls, you will receive all kinds of support"!

MEN'S CLUB

The regular meeting of St. Pauls' Men's Club was held on Wednesday evening with a good attendance. The program of the evening consisted of selections by an instrumental trio (H. Heavmann, M. Kouri and J. Kelly) a further talk on "Early English Church History" by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell and songs by Messrs. L. Baker and J. Kelly. Choice refreshments were served at the close.

Ice Cutting Begins

Ice-cutting has started for the season and there is no worry about getting good fol this year. It is about 18 inches thick, of excellent quality and getting thicker again now. William and Till Neal, sons of Mrs. Thos. Neal are cutting at Mud Lake. They are cutting about 100 cakes daily and Arthur is hauling them to the village. The sleighing is also exceptionally good just now.

Re-elect Chairman

Marmora Public School Board met last evening with following members: F. R. Tweed, Dr. R. E. Lumsden, Thos. E. Neal, P. Sopha, J. W. Hicker and L. R. Keadle. F. Sweet was re-elected chairman for 1934 and will again be a member of the Continuation School Board. Dr. Lumsden was also appointed to the C. S. Board. Mrs. Mae Lecard was appointed Sec. Treasurer for another year.

LITTLE GIRL GETS BIG START IN LIFE

A daughter weighing 18 1-2 lb in that city and pointed out that pounds was born to Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Shandell at Chester, Penn., Physicians expressing the belief that the baby is the largest ever born at 9 months old child. The picture shows Thomas Chernoskal, father, and Anna weighing 18 1-2 pounds on scales.

THE LADIES ALL GO FOR MAHATMA

Eddie Cantor, Ruth Etting and Alan Mowbray in his fourth annual musical comedy "Roman Scandals" now at the Belle.

When Mahatma Gandhi visited Bezwada, India, to hold a meeting of his followers, he was greeted by this huge crowd of women, proving that the aged leader has lost none of his popularity with the women-folk. With Gandhi, whose visit to this part of southern India was the first since his release from jail, is shown Srimati Durga Bai who was responsible for leading the first disobedience campaign and who also underwent imprisonment.

"Facing The Music," with Stanley Lupino and Nancy Bourne now at the Capitol Theatre.

SCHOOL HOCKEY

Albert College Intercollegiate hockey team visited the O.S.D. on Saturday afternoon and came home with the short end of a 6-2 score. Much of the credit goes to the O.S.D. defense of Thompson and Richardson who repeatedly turned back Albert threats. Meloche and Meyette on the front line starred offensively and with Kowalewcza form a fast combination. Coach Morris men were on the ice as a complete team for the first time. Dunnington from Sudbury; Johnston from South Mountain, and the versatile McFarlane, will form one of the fastest forward lines in the local league. Saturday Day on defense worked hard and is sure to land a berth for the opening game.

O.S.D.—Goal, Eddinion; defense, Thompson and Richardson; centre, Meyette; wings, Meloche and Kowalewcz; subs, Haist, Lethbridge, Thorburn, Bonnett.

Program of Public Works Inquiry

Direct Relief Will be Cut Off As Soon as Possible

Toronto, Jan. 20 (CP)— Insured of direct relief Ontario will have an extensive Public Works programme, Premier George S. Henry announced today following from the Inter-Provincial Conference at Ottawa.

"We will carry on as before with unemployment relief," he said, "and the Federal Government will cooperate with us to the fullest extent. Direct relief will be cut down as rapidly as possible, and in its place will be an extensive program of indirect relief through Public Works programmes. In the land settlement scheme, the amount advanced to each family is increased from $600 to $700 by an arrangement whereby the Federal Government contributes an additional amount."

AT THE CAPITOL

"FACING THE MUSIC"

Pictures at the Capitol Theatre, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday this week will enjoy a riot of delicious mirth and merriment "Facing The Music," a comedy with an operatic background and music by Gounod and Noel Gay. What atreat in store for music lovers!

The story provides Stanley with a role after his own heart and he will be seen as a persistent young man who having made up his mind to "marry the girl" goes through fire and water to gain her consent.

A full symphony orchestra of over thirty performers conducted by Harry Acres provides an accompaniment, and a resplendent opera house interior including stage, fins, proscenium and auditorium forms one of the most realistic settings ever built in a studio.

A fair successor to the screen is Nancy Burne who plays opposite Stanley Lupino. Not the least enjoyable feature of this unusually joyous and unique production is the song-and-dance team being Noel Gay and Stanley Lupino entitled "I've Found the Right Girl."

Here's fun, fast and furious ... beautiful music rendered by glorious voices... see a performance of "Facing The Music" (the immortal opera) with Lupino creating a million laughs as a Chorus man and a musician;

Monday and Tuesday gift nites "Royal Princess Dinnerware." Come early to make sure of a good seat!

AT THE BELLE

"ROMAN SCANDALS" ONE LONG HOWL—

EDDIE'S IMMENSE

The very idea of Eddie Cantor scurrying madly about amid the decadent magnificence of ancient Rome is so funny in itself that we found ourselves smiling in anticipation before we hit the Belle Theatre where "Roman Scandals", the wildeyed comedians latest screen musical began at four-day run on Saturday.

"When we got there we unbent and roared" said one patron, so will you....straight through the length of the funniest picture Cantor has ever made.

George S. Kaufman and Robert Sherwood, two of Broadway's ace comedy writers, turned out a story that is built around Cantor's brilliant particular brand of nit-wittedness and gives the diminutive star a million golden opportunities to do his stuff and do it up brown....not to mention black.... for of course Eddie gets his inevitable chance to apply the burnt cork for a sequence.

Al Dubin, Harry Warren and Irving Wolfe Gilbert wrote some swell song numbers for the picture as Eddie's "Keep Young and Beautiful", "Build a little Home" and "Carry on Love", and the plaintive lament "No More Love" flush Eddy sings in the sumptuous Slave Market scene, which has been magnificently staged, will stick in your head for weeks after you've seen the picture. These are bound to be hits.

Eddie's aveil in the banquet scene in which he figures as royal food taster, just when there's a plot afoot to poison the Emperor and in the torture chamber scene, when Eddie's writhing up puts the Emperor in stitches.

The thundering chariot race which forms the film's grand finale is one of the funniest scenes ever conceived and filmed. Busby Berkely did a beautiful job of staging the dancing and production numbers. "Roman Scandals" is a great treat, and should not be missed.

PROBABILITIES

Strong west to northwest winds; fair and somewhat colder tonight and part of Wednesday, then milder again.

Strikers Refusing to Return to Work Ejected from Highway Camp

Taken to Kaladar From Denbigh, Told by Police To Move on

TROUBLE IN CAMP

Fifty Men Satisfied, Return to Their Work

Fifteen workers were ejected from the Highway Relief Camp No. 4 C. I. near Denbigh yesterday by the provincial police following alleged disturbances on Saturday and Sunday when numerous workers refused to assume their duties Saturday morning.

The disturbance culminated in an alleged organized refusal of the workers to resume their duties on Saturday morning when ordered by Mr. James Southgate of Hamilton, Ont., camp superintendent, who also demanding an increase in wages and better working conditions at the camp weather. Feeling ran rather high from 9 until 11 a.m. Saturday when the workers congregated in a large bunk house where it is said Southgate and other officials were holding a meeting and drafted certain rules which they demanded be adhered to out by their employers. At 11 a.m. Foreman Whalen of the camp entered the bunk house where the meeting was held and instructed the men to return to their duties with the promise of a full day's pay if they returned by their usual schedule. Forty of the fifty-five men in the camp at once returned to work.

Trouble Over Table.

Again on Sunday, however, another disturbance developed when some remaining strikers allegedly refused to allow a minister, who was endeavoring to hold a weekly Sunday religious service, to use a table that had been procured from their bunk house. It was following this outbreak that the officials of the camp summoned the provincial police to restore order.

On Saturday when the camp foreman dismissed the fifteen workers they refused to leave the camp, claiming that according to an earlier provincial statute they could not be "fired" on Saturday, Upon the arrival of Provincial Constables Kelly and Campbell on Sunday morning, however, the strikers were dismissed and paid in full their wages. Thirteen of the fifteen were ejected to Kaladar whence they were instructed to proceed to their respective homes. The two remaining asked to be allowed to remain in the camp, which was out avail.

Southgate, according to his own statement to the provincial police, had attended meetings at Hamilton and other points.

Men Satisfied.

The remaining men in the camp, interviewed by the Ontario Intelligencer by telephone last night, definitely stated that no complaints were registered with the camp officials and that they received but the disturbance had started when some strikers took a joke despite the orations. The two men said that they had a full day's pay today and had procured transportation from Denbigh with the two local provincial police.

Camp No. 4 C. I. Relief Project Camp No. 4 C. I. are but clearing trees and shrubs for the widening of the Kaladar-Denbigh highway When the police officers vacated the camp Monday morning peace and order had been restored, all employees being satisfied with their lot.

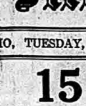
Served Township, County and Province in Many Capacities

After an illness that he had endured for a number of months, William Halstead Nugent, clerk for the County of Hastings, passed away early this (Tuesday) afternoon at his late residence, 224 Church St. Known prominently in the city, county, and throughout Ontario, the death of Mr. Nugent removes one of Hastings' foremost citizens and one whose activities embraced many interests. His passing will be deeply regretted by hundreds of personal friends whose sympathy goes to the widow, son, sisters and brother left to mourn a devoted-in-life member of their family.

Born on Christmas day 1871 near Coe Hill in Hastings, he was the first male child born in that township, and was the son of the late Thomas and Jane (Halstead) Nugent. Mr. Nugent resided at Coe Hill until 1889 when he went to Michigan and lived at Saginaw and Bay City for a number of years. In 1893 he returned to Coe Hill, and the following year was married to Miss Frances Virginia, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Clark of Montreal, who survives. Shortly after his return he became clerk of the township, a position he held for 40 years, when he became Clerk of the County. He was formerly clerk of Wollaston for thirteen years and its Reeve from 1906 to 1916 during which time he served on the county council. In the latter mentioned year he was Warden of Hastings. During his term of office in each office he served on various important committees, and his judgment and valuable advice was ever at the appreciated service of his fellow committeemen and brother councillors. As occupant of the office of clerk of the county, he has been a lower of strength to the whole county for certain that gas, causing nausea was chlorine certain that he occupied an unique position during his term of office.



The late Mr. Nugent was a past president, and at the time of his death an executive member of the Ontario Municipal Association; a past president of the Good Roads Association of Ontario and a member of his executive; a member of the Ontario Association of Workmen Board of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties for the past mentioned capacity, he strove for the development of the high natural richness and wealth of his native county; he devoted his attention to the resources of Hastings and was ever enthusiastic in the development particularly in the development of its minerals. He was author of "Over the Hills of Hastings."

Mr. Nugent was a member of Christ Church and a staunch Conservative in politics; at one time he was president of the Hastings County Conservative Association. He was a life member of Belleville Lodge No. 46, A.F. and A.M.; a member of Masonic Chapter, No. 34, R.A.M., and Hastings Preceptory of this city and one of its Past Preceptors. He took into the Masonic Order and serving on the Masonic Board of Belleville as its representative. He was a member of Poeboro L.O.L. No. 3, and Royal Black Preceptory No. 5 of that village; he was also a member of the Belleville Rotary.

Conscientiously and thoroughly, after thoughtful consideration, the late Mr. Nugent carried through any task or duty allotted to him or duty attributable to his earnestness and forethought is much of the advancement of Hastings during the county in recent years. A man of kindly and charitable disposition, he was ever a warm friendship throughout the length and breadth of the land. All his late Halstead Nugent was an estimable citizen and the city of Belleville and Hastings County at large will sincerely mourn his passing.

Surviving are his widow, son Mr. William T. of Trenton, chief inspector, permit department, Ontario Liquor Control Board; a brother, R. A. of Waverley Hills Gold mines sales manager of the General Motors of Los Angeles; and six sisters, Mrs. (Dr.) Frank Cochems of Belleville, Cal.; Mrs. Archie Campbell, in Ralph, Mich.; Mrs. R. Hoffman, Escanaba, Mich.; Mrs. Frank McDougal at Kenogmie Park, and Mrs Warren Preston and Mrs. Herbert Bush of Frankford. A son, Thomas Clarke Nugent predeceased at Regina in 1913 and last year two sisters and a brother passed away.

COUNTY CLERK DIES

William H. Nugent's long career closed by death early Tuesday afternoon.

"GAS MAN" IS BEING SOUGHT

Near Capture, When Seen by Three Residents of Community

Pincastle, Va., Jan. 23 (AP)—Thrice again the skulking "gas man" has struck and fled.

In three forays last night the "gas man"—so called because he has attacked nearly a score of homes in this region with gas during the last month—came nearer to capture than at any time heretofore. It was the first time, in fact, that he has been distinctly seen.

All the homes passed last night are in Carvin's Cove, near here. One of the homes was that of Forrest Wilson, who saw the lone culprit and gave chase, firing at him. Other homes attacked were those of Grover C. Riley, and Ed. Reedy. The "gas man" visits occurred between 8 and 9 o'clock.

The attacks last night came after a night visit Monday night with Howard Crawford the victim.

The gas has been attempting to catch the marauder took stock of his crime and found them about as follows:

1. The attacks nearly always occur around 8 o'clock at night and invariably at houses where there are no telephones.

2. In two instances the imprint of a woman's shoe has been found.

3. Physicians called in to treat the victims several times suspected that the gas used was chlorine

DEAD PEER'S HOUSE ROBBED

Medals, Coins and Jewels of Late Lord Halifax Stolen

Doncaster, England, Jan. 23. — Shortly after the body of the Earl and Viscount Halifax, venerated Anglican layleader, had been removed from Ickleton Hall for today's funeral, thieves broke into the mansion and escaped with a number of medals, Indian coins and pieces of jewelry.

The theft was discovered shortly before the funeral was held. Many cases of heirlooms had been taken from the library, which had been open on the lawn, where many articles were found strewn about. The valuables stolen included the Field Viscount Halifax when he was Secretary of War for India.

The funeral service was held in the Parish Church closely adjacent to the historic Halifax family seat and the attendance was so large that the church could not accommodate everyone. Interment took place in the family vault.

The solemn requiem mass early in the day was followed by the service of absolution for the dead, conducted by the Reverend Canon Hudson, while Rt. Rev. Leonard Burrows, Bishop of Hertford, conducted the committal service.

WHOLESALERS MEET STEVENS

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—A delegation representing Ontario wholesale grocers will waited upon Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce today, it is at the conclusion of the interview, Mr. Stevens said that he could not make any statement on the matters discussed.

SARNIA MAYOR INJURED

Sarnia, Ont., Jan. 22. — Mayor Gordon Hodgins is in hospital today as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident. While returning to his home from London early today the mayor's car got out of control on highway seven about four miles east of the city and went into the ditch. Mr. Hodgins suffered injury to his arm and neck but was resting comfortably today.

4 DIE WHEN GASOLINE IS PUT IN STOVE

Father May Die as Result of Burns

LONELY SPOT

Explosion in Which Mother and Children Lost Lives Discovered Today

Canton, Ga., Jan. 23 (AP)— An explosion of gasoline today had taken four lives and another hung in the balance.

The dead: Mrs. Rufus Cochrane and her three children, Milton, five, Julia, nine, and Elizabeth three.

The other children escaped with Rufus Cochrane, the father, lay burned in a hospital. Physicians gave him no chance to recover.

The nearest neighbor to the Cochrane's lived three miles away and it was not until today that the tragedy became known.

PRINCESS AT FIRST CIRCUS

Seven Year Old Daughter of Duke Delighted With Clown

LONDON, Jan. 23.—(CP) Cable—Seven-year-old Princess Elizabeth saw her first circus this afternoon and jumped gleefully at the sight of so many horses in the stables at Olympia. It was the first she had ever year at this time.

The princess with her parents the Duke and Duchess of York was welcomed by Lord Lonsdale, famous sporting peer. The visit had been kept a close secret but the little princess had immediately recognized by the rest of the audience and given a boisterous welcome.

Elizabeth's happiest moment came when, reminded that England's oldest clown—he is well past 80 years of age—came to the royal box and presented his familiar "dead bird" poker which the princess laughingly grasped. The red paint didn't fool her.

MAGISTRATE IS SUSPENDED

Action Follows Recent Investigation at Cornwall

Toronto, Jan. 23 (CP)—Magistrate J. C. Millman of Cornwall has been suspended indefinitely effective Jan. 12, according to J. A. Humphries, K.C., Deputy Attorney-General in the Attorney General's Office.

The suspension was understood to follow an investigation recently conducted into the Magistrate's activities by Col W. W. Denison, Inspector of Legal Offices who acted on instructions from the Attorney General. The specific reason for the suspension, however, is not known. Deputy Magistrate McDonald is carrying on in his place, it is learned.

Mr. Millman represented Stormont for several years as a Conservative in the Ontario Legislature.

FOUR CHARGES LAID AGAINST DR. W. PRATT

Inquest Into Death of Girl Will Proceed February 8

$10,000 BAIL

Inquiry Into Deaths Over a Period of Years Made

Smith's Falls, Ont., Jan. 23—(CP) Dr. Wilbur Pratt, 75-year-old Smith's Falls physician, was held in jail today on four charges of abortion as police continued an inquiry into illegal operations they believe have been performed in the district over a period of years.

Dr. Pratt will appear in police court Thursday. His arrest prevented his attendance at the inquest into the death in childbirth of Miss Eva McLean, his aged housekeeper, who died Dec. 31 from burns received in a fire at Dr. Pratt's home.

Evidence was taken at the inquest, which was adjourned until February 8, so that Dr. Norman Frankish, Provincial Medico-Legal expert, can be present at the post-mortem examinations, may give evidence.

Interest in the arrest of Dr. Pratt last Friday and the probe into his professional career is at a high pitch here and the Town Hall Council Chamber was jammed last night for the inquest session.

Dr. Pratt was first charged on two counts and two further charges were laid yesterday. He appeared this morning when he was informed who set bail of $10,000 which Dr. Pratt has not been able to raise.

LADY GIBSON DIES AT 85

Native of Brockville Widow of Former Lieut. Governor of Ontario

Hamilton, Jan. 23 (CP)—Lady Gibson, widow of Sir John Gibson, former Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, died at her home, Riverendale, early today in her 85th year.

Formerly Miss Elizabeth Malloch, daughter of the late Judge Malloch, Brockville, Lady Gibson was born in Brockville, Ont., and married Sir John Gibson in 1881.

Active for years in welfare leadership in many local organizations, including the Hamilton Health Association of which she was a founder and governors, and in the local Council of Women, Lady Gibson was noted for her benevolence. As chatelaine of Government House, Toronto, from 1908 to 1914, she was one of the Provincial capital's most gracious hostesses. Her receptions, particularly in late years, Lady Gibson had been a prominent worker in the work of the organizations to which she belonged. Her personal gifts of patronage were given to every worthwhile cause.

Death was until a short time ago a familiar figure at the annual meetings of the Women's Missionary Society.

Lady Gibson was one of the oldest members of Central Presbyterian Church and a member of the Ladies' Aid Society of that church.

Three children survive, Lieut.-Col. Thomas Gibson, K.C., M.P., Bank of Hamilton; Mrs. Robert S. Waldie of Toronto, and Miss Eugenia E. Gibson, at home. Three sons predeceased their mother, Lieut. Percival Gibson in the 48th. Highlanders, who was killed in action in 1915 near Armentieres; A. Hope Gibson, who fell a victim to the influenza epidemic in 1920, and John Gordon Gibson, who died shortly after taking his B.A. at Toronto University.

FINDS SISTER AFTER 34 YEARS

Separated as Parents Die When Both Quite Young

YORKTON, Sask., Jan. 22.—(CP) —A search of 34 years by Harold W. Gough, Sarnio, Ont., for his sister, Mrs. J. F. Lowes, had ended successfully today.

Separated when their parents died while they were quite young, the brother and sister were adopted and taken to different homes. Despite interruptions, Gough carried on his search for his sister as best he could.

A letter to the Yorkton police and publication of her description in newspapers brought the search to successful conclusion. Early this year Gough wrote the Yorkton police asking aid, saying he believed she had resided in this district 20 years ago.

And Mrs. Lowes, still residing here, saw the notice in the news paper. Communication was made by police and Gough was informed his sister had been found. Whether they will meet soon could not be stated by police, who closed their part of the search, when Gough was notified.

DEATH MAY REMAIN UNSOLVED MYSTERY

Dr. Wynekoop is in Grave Ill Health and Ailes

Chicago, Jan. 23 (AP)—There was a growing belief in some quarters today that the death of Rheta Wynekoop will forever remain an unsolved mystery.

The possibility of a quick legal decision on the question of the guilt or innocence of Hugo Wynekoop-Jr., son of Alice Wynekoop having been dissipated for the time being there were many persons, both in and out of the criminal court who believed the elderly defendants would never again face the ordeal of a trial.

"It's just like freezing her," Burdine Gardner, of Indianapolis, father of the dead Rheta, said in commenting on yesterday's decision by Judge Joseph B. David to declare a mistrial because of the possibility that Dr. Wynekoop would fall dead before the eyes of the jury.

Just Kisses Swapped with Police Patrol, Wagon Driver Says Woman

Chicago, Jan. 23 (AP)—There are kisses and there are kisses, but the kind that Mrs. Nellie Stack Blackledge, former collector of internal revenue, testified in court that she exchanged with a police patrol wagon driver were—just kisses.

She was the first witness on trial in Mrs. Norman E. Nottingham's $100,000 suit against her for alienation of the affections of Policeman Nottingham, and later Attorney Murphy O. Tate, counsel for the plaintiff, said he hoped to wind up the case today.

Attorney Tate took advantage of the new Civil Practices Act which permits calling of the defendant for cross-examination without being bound by her testimony, and he had her step down from the stand for more than an hour yesterday.

"Well, just what kind of kisses" she was asked.

"Well, not exactly," came the response.

"Did they come under the category of platonic kisses?"

"I wouldn't quite say that."

"Well, just what kind?"

"Oh, just kisses."

As the 45-year-old widow gave her testimony Mrs. Nottingham, the mother of a seven year old daughter, sat watching her, and the police man himself was an interested listener.

ELECTION TO PRECEDE SALE BEER, WINE

House Will Pass The Legislation at Coming Session

UP TO LIBERALS

Freer Sale Would Come Into Effect of Gov't. Returned

Toronto, Jan. 23—Any new policy which the Henry Government may have under advisement as to freer beer and wine sale in this province will certainly not be made operative before the next general election, the Mail and Empire was reliably informed.

There is a probability, however, that legislation providing for the long-forecast "loosening up" of the present law will be passed this session, and left for proclamation after the election, in the event of the present administration being returned to power.

In any event, the McQuibban-led Liberal group in the Legislature will, it is rumored, surrender as one of its first difficulties of the session, a definite move on the part of the Government to have it commit itself on the beer and wine question. There is no sign of liberty legislation or, at least, through the medium of some members, the Liberals will be put "on the spot," so to speak, and compelled to register their views as to whether they favor or disfavor a more moderate measure than the Drury statute now in respect of beer and wine.

City and District News

BELLEVILLE BOYS ENJOY CAMP

Synonymous with reports of unrest in the northern road camps where Belleville men are employed on road construction in the district of Denbigh comes a letter from a former resident of the city, Cecil Stirling, addressed to his father, Mr. Wm. Styles, 15 St. Paul Street.

"In spite of many reports to the contrary, the majority of Belleville boys are well satisfied with conditions here," the writer states. "So far we have had good cars; the food is good, working conditions are not too hard."

Similar letters have also been received by local relatives of other men, who are now quartered in that district.

TWO ROBINS ARE SEEN IN CITY

Blithe and cheerful in the warm spring-like air Tuesday morning, two robins were seen twittering among the dripping branches of a large maple tree in North Front Street in plain view of the many S.o'clock workers on their way to downtown offices. This is the second time robins have been sighted in their native haunts during the past few days, and the third or fourth time other robins have been seen elsewhere in the city.

MAYOR INVITED TO TAKE PART

Mayor Geo. O. Tice has received a letter from Mayor Wenige of London, Ont., inviting him to take part in a conference to be held in that city on January 25. A date tentatively named, later to be changed for necessary reasons for the convenience of the majority of those wishing to attend, The meeting is being held primarily as a means to further solve the unemployment problem. In view of certain events at Ottawa, the letter points out, it is likely that the Federal Government will entertain suggestions at this time for further solve the problem. At the meeting it is expected that a general program will be drawn up to submit to Premier Bennett. Mayor Tice will refer the matter to the city council.

EXTRA WORKERS ON THE CITY JOBS

Whilst ice cleared catch trains their main police attack, dozens of extra men were employed by the Department of Public Works today in an effort to drain some of the surplus water from the residential streets which had been running a.wide deep earlier in the morning. Assistance in the thawing out process of the frozen catch basins, it is expected that the fire hydrants will be employed as a steam sprayer to melt the ice.

BLUE COAL SOLD BY RIERDON COAL CO.

"Blue Coal", as advertised in Friday's paper, is sold exclusively in Belleville by Rierdon Coal Co., the business office at 30A East Bridge Street, phone 168. Incorrectly the name of another firm was attached to Friday's adv., instead of the Rierdon Coal Co., local agents.

Golden Jubilee of S. A. Corps

The golden Jubilee of the Local Corps of the Salvation Army is to be celebrated in the city with a special four-day series of public gatherings, from Saturday to Tuesday, February 3-6.

It has been announced at the Citadel that Commissioner Bruce Friedrich from Toronto, will conduct the jubilee campaign. The guest-Commissioner has risen from the Canadian ranks of the Army to the highest position and has been warmly acclaimed throughout the Dominion.

A public event of great importance to be held on Jubilee Sunday will be a citizens' mass meeting under the presidency of his Worship Mayor Tice, in the afternoon at a convenient hour. A special lecture will be given by the visiting commissioner. Fuller announcements will be made in the Sunday notices of that date.

Playing With Toronto Orchestra

Further distinction has come to Mr. "Ab" Adams, one of Belleville's most popular and versatile musicians who has accepted a position with the nationally known orchestra of Luigi Romanelli, Toronto. Mr. Adams has been playing with the orchestra since the heart of The Motor Show in that city.

LEARN HOW TO KILL NOT HOW TO BE FRIENDS

Clifton Springs Rotary International Executive Tells How to Cure The World's Grouch

"How to live with folks," was the subject of an interesting address before the Rotary Club Monday by Lloyd Little, of Clifton Springs, N.Y., a committee member of Rotary International. International relations was his theme, and how best to get along with folks who differ from us in various ways. Rotarian Little is a past president of Rotarian and has taken an active interest in all phases of Rotary for several years, having attended international conventions as well as district conferences. He is a pleasing speaker with a free and fluent delivery and a pleasing personality—in addition he has a message worth while. He was introduced by District Governor Dr. Grant Bird, of Oshawa, and at the conclusion of his fine address Rotarian Little was accorded a hearty expressed by past president J. O. Herity.

More attention is paid to perfecting the art of killing people, and to military preparedness than to encouraging the enlightenment, said the speaker.

"Am I my brother's keeper," rang from the lips of Cain in the early days of old and has echoed ever since, as the excuse for standoffishness and indifference all around.

The Chinese built a wall around their country to keep other people out, as they did not wish to mingle with other peoples, but it is impossible to shut out the world and live a selfish separate life, the world's shrinking steadily and has become very small, due to scientific discoveries which has produced radio, automobiles, planes, fast rail transportation, fleet ships, newspapers and the like which has created easy communication.

"The world has shrunk to a mere neighborhood of peoples and still we have need in selfishness and suspicion," said the speaker. "We know how to kill people, but we haven't learned how to live with folks in neighborliness and friendship."

Rotary has pointed the way to good fellowship, community, nation-al and international peace, he asserted told of a community of two thousand persons with sixty-seven organizations, and as many sharp divisions, no community spirit, no civic betterment because they could not get together on any one thing. A Rotary Club was organized and in due time a common ground was found for a few of the more human divisions of the community to meet on common ground. It was realized that a waterworks system was impossible and fire protection provided, which had not been possible before due to the division of opinion in the community.

Rotary has also had its effect in international affairs on the side of peace, and to see representatives of nations with nearly every barrier in peace and good fellowship at Rotary International conventions was to vision the near approach of peace on earth and good will to men.

Enemies Then, Friends Now.

An Austrian Rotarian delegate speaking at the Dallas, Texas, Rotary International convention said that ten years previously most of the men in that Rotary assembly were his enemies and were then his friends. All that Austrian people wanted, said he, was peace, and protection for their wives and children; they wanted friendship and fellowship and the right to live and work and have their being without the shadow of war ever hovering over them.

Rotary is reaching out, making contacts all over the world, working for peace and progress, to the end that this old world will be better to live in.

80 RETAILERS AT BANQUET

Two Speakers From Toronto Address New Organization

The meeting of the Belleville Branch of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, Monday evening, took the form of a dinner in the Y.M.C.A. banquet hall. Some 80 members were in attendance and a profitable as well as an enjoyable time resulted. Mr. H. Frame of the parent organization, with headquarters in Toronto, and Mr. Jupp of the Broadview Merchants' Association of Toronto, were guests of the local body, and delivered enlightening addresses during the course of the evening. Mr. Jim Bankier was the splendid soloist for the affair, with Mrs. Percy Mearman and Messrs. Harry Moorman, J. A. Thomson, Alfred Evans and Jim Bankier added much to the enjoyment of the occasion. Mr. Leo B. Higgs acted as accompanist. Mr. Jack McIntosh, president of the local branch, was in the chair and Mr. R. J. Wray assisting, and Mr. J. E. Logan acted as secretary for the night in the absence of Mr. Will Doyle.

Mr. Jupp spoke on various activities of his association and what it had done in stimulating business and fellowship among its members, and what might be done along those lines in Belleville. A discussion followed Mr. Jupp's remarks.

Vice-president R. J. Wray addressed the meeting on membership drives, saying that the Y.M.C.A. Publicity Committee, of which he is a member, had a drive of a similar nature on foot and would be glad to assist in any way possible.

The meeting went on record as being favorable to Daylight Saving and a motion prefalled to make the regular meeting the first Monday in every month a luncheon affair.

A "special grievance committee" composed of Messrs. J. E. Logan, chairman; Clarke, H. Wray, L. Lewis and G. Tyndall, was named to act in certain emergencies and bring certain cases to the notice of the proper authorities.

Mr. Frame's address was along merchandising and organization lines and he made many worthw. e suggestions. His talk was open for discussion and a number of questions were asked by members of the local branch. He elucidated his points most clearly and his replies were heartily received by the fourth of the branch here.

It was a harmonious meeting throughout and the large attendance evinced the awakened interest taken in the Belleville Branch of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada.

LATE SIMON ELLIOTT

Many friends and neighbors were present Monday afternoon in attendance at the funeral of the late Simon Elliott, which was held from his late residence in the 1st Concession, Thurlington, to the Thomasburg United Church. There a short funeral service was conducted by the Rev. R. J. Merrian who also officiated at the graveside in the Thomasburg cemetery. Pallbearers were Mrs. Merriam were the Rev. H. N. Mutton of Harold, the Rev. Mr. Hill of Roslin and the Rev. Mr. Platt. The flowers were Messrs. A. Townsend, W. Cadman, H. Carter, L. Searles, L. Wilson and S. Dunning.

BILLA C. SALISBURY

Following a short illness, Billa Coleman Salisbury, passed away early this (Tuesday) morning at his late residence in the 3rd concession of Thurlow. The deceased was born at Moira 79 years ago, the son of the late Sir. and Mrs. Jacob Salisbury. A year ago Mr. Salisbury suffered a stroke from which he never fully recovered but his fatal sickness lasted two days. For 50 years he had resided where his death occurred the past 8 months, and previously had lived and farmed in the 8th concession of Thurlow. He was a member of Bethel Methodist and a man well known and respected throughout the lower townships of Hastings county.

Surviving are the widow; two sons Edgar of Stirling and Robert at home; two daughters, Mrs. E. Sills of Foxboro, and Mrs. S. H. Conger at Stirling; two brothers, Walter in Madoc and Eli of Berkeley, California; and one sister Mrs. Alice Dee of Gilead, Ont.

The late Mrs. Deacon was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Deegan, was born in Belleville and had spent all her life here. She was a devout member of St. Michael's Church, the Catholic Women's League and Altar and Benevolent Societies. To the members of the bereaved family goes the sympathy of a host of friends in this and nearby communities.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Leo Hoskins of Lindsay, three sons James and Frank of the city and Fred of Windsor, and two sisters, Mrs. M. R. Doyle, Grower St., and Mrs. J. E. McCarthy of Toronto.

VEHICULAR TRAFFIC IS SLOWED DOWN BY RAIN

While lowering clouds still threatened over the district, citizens slipped and slithered to work on Tuesday morning over ice-coated walks running ankle deep with water, the result of a heavy downfall of rain throughout the night Monday. Catch basins in the business section had to carry off the heavy rains, and flooded streets were dotted with pools of water, while employees of the city works department labored strenuously throughout the day to drain off. Vehicular traffic also moved at a crawl, particularly the city over the slippery film of water, which lay in the ice formations. In spite of the large quantities of sand and cinders distributed on hills and intersections passage for cars and trucks was still treacherous. Department of public works officials eyed weather forecasts apprehensively, fully alive to the many troubles, "fair and cooler" weather is promised.

POLICE COURT

Activities proved rather serene in local police circles during the week, no arrests being registered. Automobile accidents were at the minimum, there being only the rain and fog made no motor accidents were reported. The only charge laid by the Motorcycle Patrol operating in this district during the week.

Twenty one transients were driven by the police stations last night seeking a night's shelter owing to the inclement weather.

But one case was heard in the police court this morning, that arising out of the unfortunate driver's motor truck. The matter was finally settled with the defendant paying the deferred payments.

Regular Meeting is Held in Y.M.C.A. Parlors

The January meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held in the Y.M.C.A. parlor, January 19th, with Mrs. Denton and Mrs. Argue in charge.

It was the opening meeting of the New Year. What makes the New Year new? One day is very much like another and one year is very much like another. We change 1933 to 1934 and things go on the same. It is what happens in our minds that makes the New Year. We think about it and plan for it, we resolve and we hope. Again this year gain a sense of living truly new. Religion can transform life by the renewing of our minds. It works from within and we give Christ a chance in our inner life this year? He can make all things new.

Mrs. (Rev.) Crone- Flint, Mich., in charge of the Devotional Period, She read Hebrews, 11th chapter and stressed the need of faith in our labour of love while the outlook looked dark. Mr. Christ is our great leader and the "Liquor Traffic shall not ultimately triumph." We must have an optimistic view of our work. Pessimism means lack of prayer and faith in God.

Mrs. Hall sang very sweetly, "Dear Lord, Forgive."

Reference was made to Mrs. Letitia Youmans, who after visiting crusade meetings in the U. S. returned to her home town full of zeal and organized in Picton, the sixty years ago, a W.C.T.U. In 1875 she organized the first Toronto Union with only 31 members. In 1877 there were 3625 members. The five years she was leader of the Provincial Union; she travelled in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, organizing societies and delivering many eloquent addresses. She worked bravely amid many discouragements and awful opposition.

Mrs. (Dr.) Baker led in prayer for the great success of the work, locally and provincially.

The report for 1933 of the Scientific Temperance Contest in Sunday Schools of Belleville and surrounding places was given by Mrs. (Dr.) Moore:

Shannonville, 2 papers; Belleville R.S., 3 papers; Zion, 23 papers. All received certificates and prizes were awarded: First, £75; second, £50; third, 75c.

Mrs. Irene Ketchem: Don Sills; Floyd Ray.

10 and 11 years—Phyllis Beatty; Jean Sills; Gerald Tumuno.

Intermediate—Edith King; June Ray; Marion Brough.

Senior—Olive Searles; Gerrard McEvoy.

A communication was read from Mrs. C. W. Carter, Napanee, the County Supt. of Anti-Narcotics. One item was "Young people who are desirous of breaking the tobacco habit should eat freely of fruits, oranges, peaches, pears or other sweet-acid fruits. They will find in time the craving for tobacco will disappear."

A prominent Christian worker in Montreal says: "In Montreal you are not allowed to buy a loaf of bread or tin of salmon or fat anything of that nature after 6.30 p.m., but beer can be bought up to 11 o'clock, and the streets resound to the rattle of bottles conveyed by men are delivering on their bicycles.

"It really looks as if we shall have to revive the old Temperance societies or something along similar lines to counteract the effect of but a new note has to be sounded, and it must start with the children."

There are two subject about which Temperance workers need to do much thinking:

First—Public opinion which seeks revenue first and social welfare second, must be changed; also study to provide some substitute for the social drinking which so many apparently enjoy. Even those social drinkers who desire alcohol or is human companionship the value Quebec and the Maritime Provinces the liquor problem may not be solved by banishing drink, but by building up worthier social enjoyments.

As a matter of fact, young people in ice cream parlors always appear to be much more radiantly happy than seasoned topers in beer parlors.

DRAMA CLUBS PRESENT PLAYS

Zion, Jan. 23—Miss Olive Searles attended the concert given in Bridge Street Church Belleville last night.

FOOT DISORDERS
The bones of the foot consists of the tarsal, metatarsal and the phalangos of the toes. The tarsal bones are seven in number and the metatarsal, five.
The foot is arched in form and is prevented from falling flat by powerful ligaments. These ligaments remain strong so long as they receive their normal supply of life force from the nerves but if the nerve supply is diminished by a substation the ligaments become flaccid and allow the arch to fall. A falling arch of the foot causes a tension on other important nerves and muscles. In healing this condition it is necessary to correct the subluxation to free the nerves as well as adjust the bones of the foot.

CHURCH MEETINGS

CHRIST CHURCH VESTRY

Christ Church Vestry meeting was held in the Parish Hall, January 22, at 8:15 p.m. The meeting was opened with a representative attendance of the congregation, by the Rector, Rev. G. G. Wright, who compiled the chair and who in his opening remarks expressed his appreciation of the good will and co-operation given him by the officers and members of the congregation in managing the business of the Parish during the past year, which had made possible the closing of the year's business in such a satisfactory manner.

Mr. S. T. Leggot was appointed Vestry Clerk, and the business of the evening was taken up. Mr. Mark Vanner presented the Warden's statement, which in view of the trying times, was satisfactory.

Reports Given

The report of Christ Church Guild was presented by Mrs. Wright in the absence of the Guild Secretary.

Mrs. Trump presented the report of St. George's Guild.

The Altar Guild report was presented by Mr. Wright.

Christ Church Sunday School report by Mr. Vanner.

St. George's Sunday School by Mr. Wright.

Christ Church choir report was presented by the choir president, Mr. Trump.

Women's Auxiliary by Mrs. H. Scott.

Girls' Auxiliary by Mrs. Kells.

Junior Auxiliary by Mrs. Vandervoort.

Babies' Branch of the W.A. by Mrs. Leggot.

A.Y.P.A. by Miss E. Coulter.

Warden's Report

Mr. T. H. Marshall made a report as St. George's Warden, and explained the splendid work being done by St. George's.

The reports of the various organizations showed them to be in very healthy condition and making progress in spite of trying times.

Mr. Vanner as retiring Warden expressed his appreciation of the support given him during the past year.

The Vestry gratefully acknowledged the presentation of a new Altar Rock from the Girls' Auxiliary, and also the presentation of a new Prayer Book, for the Prayer desk by Mrs. Neale in memory of her late husband, John Neale.

A very hearty expression of appreciation was passed by the Vestry for the services of Mr. Cyril Wale as organist and choirmaster, particularly in regard to the splendid work he is doing in building up a boys' choir.

Mr. C. Bishop, Jr., was unanimously elected People's Warden, succeeding Mr. Harold Bateman, who was appointed Rector's Warden.

Mr. T. H. Marshall was elected Warden of St. George's.

Mr. O. H. Scott was re-elected as lay delegate to Synod.

The executive committee was elected as follows:—Messrs. Dan Stewart, J. B. Ivey, Wm. Adams, D. Cleland, Capt. Knudson, S. T. Leggott, R. Bone, W. A. Ewing, J. Sargent, F. G. Chamberlain, Everett Smith, M. Vanner.

The ex-officio members of the executive committee are as follows: —The Rector, Rev. G. G. Wright, Mr. Bateman, Rector's Warden; Mr. Bishop, People's Warden, Messrs. G. B. Smith, G. A. Stokes, and O. H. Scott, lay delegates to Synod.

The thanks of the meeting was tendered Mr. Mark Vanner, retiring warden for his services during the past two years.

At the close of the business meeting the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary served a light lunch and a social hour was spent before the meeting adjourned.

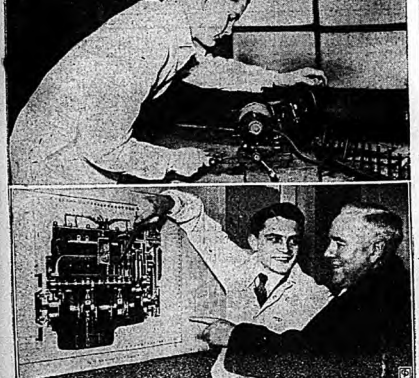
CONDITION OF SENATOR FORKE QUITE GRAVE

Suffered Heart Attack Early This Year

Winnipeg, Jan. 23 (CP)—Senator Robert Forke, "the pioneer of Pipestone," was fighting for life in hospital here today. Despite his gallant struggle, physicians feared he could not recover.

Stricken with a heart attack New Year's Eve, Senator Forke was removed to hospital. His condition at the time was not considered serious but it gradually became worse. For the past few days he had hovered between life and death.

Scores of friends who knew him when he farmed in the Pipestone district, and later when he went to the House of Commons and (since 1929 to the Senate have maintained close contact with the hospital for word of his progress.



The courageous spirit and healthy life lived on a prairie farm since he quit Scotland's shores are big factors in the fight for life which the former leader of the Progressive group in the House of Commons is making.

TRAFFIC INCREASES ON ALL RAILWAYS

Partly Due to Falling Off of Travel on Highways

Increased traffic, both passenger and freight has come to the railways of this district during the past month or so following the falling off in bus and transport traffic over the highways. According to one official of a local line, who was questioned today, while recent weeks of unseasonable weather have contributed to the gain of the railways, the increase in traffic has also been the normal result of better business conditions throughout the country.

A VOLUME OF POETRY

Mrs. Helen B. Anderson, of Melville, well known writer whose poems have found their way into numerous newspapers and whose work is a constant flow of verse, has had issued from the Writers' Studio at Toronto a volume of her work, "Under Country Skies." It is a small volume of twenty-two songs and is dedicated to the memory of her late husband.

Mrs. Anderson is one of the most sustained artists in verse, both in volume and quality. She has a fine sense of rhythm and her subjects are the homely commonplace subjects of rural life and the appeal of nature. Her work seems effortless, her choice of diction is what a lover of Anglo Saxon delights to find, it is simple and yet it is apt. The first of the poems in this versebook is "The First Ploughing", which presents an accustomed scene in rural life, wherein she reads more than the non-poetic soul can see. Here, for instance, is a line which stamps her insight into nature, "The damp dark mould a mist of incense flings." Other lines in this same poem read, "With patient step they haul the sturdy plough and turn their furrows from the winter's dream." The poem ends with the sturdy yeoman's outlook on life:

"Firm in the faith in which his fathers trod—
That seeding time and harvest shall not fail—
The ploughman's promise from his fathers' God."

The poetess has a dainty sense of touch as she approaches the hepaticas, one of the poems being given to that flower:

"Tho' April winds are wailing, and April rains are falling,
Tho' frost lays icy fingers upon the leafy mould,
Hepaticas are waking, for now the spring is calling,
And they face the April tempest, all unmindful of the cold."

Birds, flowers, nature the weaver, the spring festival of Easter with its symbolism of the life beyond the grave, the recollection of a day far off called "A Tryst with Youth", the pictures of snowtime, Christmas, and The New Year make this a real treasury.

The mystic association which other rare spirits have felt with nature finds this expression in the poem "I Wonder." Speaking of "the last unbroken sleep," the poetess asks

"Shall I who loved the grass, the stars, the wind, Unmindful be of these joys left behind."

The sincerity of this follower of the art of Sappho is evident in every line she writes. There is no striving for thought and for expression because she is sincere. Mrs. Anderson is an apt portrayer of the rural life in Ontario today in intimate touch with nature and her fellow beings, one who is a true harp on which the music of life in rural Ontario finds ideal expression.

"Under Country Skies" is meeting with a hearty response, the public showing an appreciation of Mrs. Anderson's work. She has written so much verse which has won her a wide reception as a sincere worker with thought, imagination and words, that the reception of the present volume is no surprise.

WAR HORSE DIES

So intimately have the horse and the soldier, particularly the general commanding, been associated from time immemorial that it was no surprise to readers the other day to find the story of the death of the late Sir Arthur Currie's charger which he rode in France, chronicled in the pages of the newspapers.

It was there because it was news of the first importance on account of the sympathetic vibration within the heart of the average man where an animal or pet is concerned and of the charger's association with a great war hero.

Sir Walter Scott's love of his dogs will live as long as the name of the writer of the Waverley novels is remembered.

Indeed a man might almost divide his life by the horses or dogs he his possessed, for a horse and a dog live a considerable age and that age means that many more years' life added to their master's age.

Some might decry this attention to dogs and animals though the man who makes pets of his animals is generally loved by his children for his kindness and generosity to them, while the man who won't make pets of animals quite often fails to make an impression upon children or adults.

Motives are better than actions. Men drift into crime. Of evil they do more than they contemplate and of good they contemplate more than they do. —Bouvee.

The future destiny of the child is always the work of the mother—Napoleon.

Nature's loving proxy, the watchful mother.—Bulwer.

DANGER

(By Carley Watson Halsey in the Rotarian)

They tell me that life has dangers,
That those who are prudent and wise,
Stay close to the tried and beaten track
Of custom and compromise.
They want me to sit by the fire,
Of caution, and leisure, and ease.
They think it's the place to be happy,
They know it's the place that will please
The soul of a civilized member
Of that impotent brotherhood
That looks upon easy living
As life's first and life's greatest good.

But I cannot sit by the fire,
Nor lout in a nice easy chair.
I know that the joys of living
Come only to those who will dare
To crash through the gates of safety,
And to prowl through the forest wild,
And shake off the robe of protection,
That they wore as a pampered child.
Out amid the struggles and dangers,
Where a man has to fight to live.
With difficult tasks to master,
Where men learn to take and to give.

For all that is worth having,
Must be won by the chances we take,
Chances that sometimes beat us,
Chances that sometimes break.
So, let me grapple with fortune,
For I'd rather die in the fight,
Than sit out my days by the fire,
Of safety's poor, flickering light.
Yes I would struggle and battle,
But always be generous and fair;
For what is life without danger?
And who wants to die in a chair?

TALKING ABOUT OURSEL'S AGAIN, we are pleased to report that a number of readers of this column, after reading the review of "THE FIRST COLUMN" of this g.f.j. entitled Oddities and Brevities, have expressed appreciation of the large amount of interesting world news compressed in that column. It is well named Oddities and Brevities, for it is oddities in the news briefly stated.

x x x x

ANOTHER COLUMN of great general interest, judging from expressions of appreciation from our readers, referred to before in this column, written by Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D., famous authority on Health and Psychology. (Editorial Page). Dr. Bisch's articles cover a wide variety of subjects, and each one is interesting and valuable. As an illustration of his versatility, a recent article in this paper discussed the freedom of the young ladies of the day and the possibility that ere long man's last and greatest prerogative, proposing marriage, would be taken from him, the girls taking the initiative. (Just imagine what would happen then, to have the right to propose marriage added to the other lures of her sex—what chance would mere mortal man have?) Sez he:

"Nowadays, however, women are chafing under this ancient restraint. We have a right to love; why have we not also the right to show such love, and to make the proper advances in order to consummate it? they reason."

Dr. Bisch goes as far as to state that some young girls, even now, court the men, and do not hesitate to express their love, if such there be. He also says that hundreds of women would like to be free to follow this procedure, and all in all he makes an interesting article out of it. Dr. Bisch ends his column with a daily diet hint which is valuable. Missing his daily column is like missing a meal, only worse, you miss something which may not come your way again in the realm of knowledge.

OTHER THINGS OF INTEREST in the making of a newspaper will be discussed in this column from time to time. For instance do you know how many employees are on the payroll, and what the payroll amounts to in a year, all spent in Belleville? Listen in later.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S NEW DEAL DOLLAR may be worth sixty cents, or even less, but a certain silver dollar of the mintage of 1804 is worth $2,500, and if he could spread a few of those around they would be more acceptable than the 60-cent or less dollar.

She—"Now what are you stopping for?" He (as car comes to halt)—"I've lost my bearings."

She—"Well, at least you are original. Most fellows run out of gas!"

"Did your last employer give you a reference?"

"Yes; but it doesn't seem to be any good."

"What does he say?"

"He said I was one of the best men the firm ever turned out."

Scientist Claims Cure For Tuberculosis

An almost unknown Italian physician, Dr. L. Andreatti, is seen here treating volunteer patients with his new serum, with which he hopes to end the destruction by tuberculosis. The clinic is conducted in a new hospital wing at Rome that is under military protection against all outsiders, including all members of the hospital staff, unless approval by Dr. Andreatti. The patients, 40 of them, all extreme cases and all volunteers are undergoing a 90-day treatment which includes intravenous injections of a new medicant, and dieting and discipline similar to that imposed on such patients in all hospitals. It was a personal interview between Mussolini and Dr. Andreatti that launched the experiments. Il Duce was sceptical. The doctor was earnest and sincere. He claimed a treatment that not only would cure tuberculosis, but would destroy the germ outright, and when he offered to demonstrate its efficacy in a 90-day trial and with serious cases and to submit himself for punishment if any of his patients died, the head of the Italian state decided to give him his chance to demonstrate. Dr. Andreatti reserved to himself the right to withhold the secret of his injection medicant until he could arrange for its distribution commercially on a large scale. The doctor claims sweeping results from its use. He declares that it will cure not only tuberculosis, but all forms of diseases by destroying germ life.

Mr. W. W. Power, who for some time has been acting as advance agent for the Kilties Band of Belleville, is spending a few days in the city en route to England where he will arrange the band's tour through England, Ireland and Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Daggett of Buffalo, N.Y., are visiting relatives in the city.

Mrs. Morley Stne entertained a number of her friends last evening at her home on Everett street.

Miss Hattie Taylor of Corbyville is visiting friends in Toronto.

Last night in the fastest and most exciting hockey game ever seen in Belleville the local Red and White boys defeated Peterboro by a score of 1 to 0. At half time neither team had scored and it was very close to the end of the second half when McMillan made another successful run and just when he was about to be checked by Howell he passed the puck to Burrows and zip it went into the net and Belleville was in the lead. Excitement ran high now and the game was fast and furious, but Peterboro failed to score and the Red and White boys were the victors, and were carried off the ice upon the shoulders of their admirers. The following composed the Belleville team: Winchester, McMillan, Brown, Burrows, Marks, McGuire, Kennedy. Peterboro's team was made up of the following: Mercer, Howell, Cavanah, H. Armstrong, Graham, Whitecroft and R. Armstrong. Chaucer Elliott, the referee, said that either Belleville or Peterboro could defeat any of the senior teams in Eastern Ontario. There are few teams in Canada that could defeat the Belleville team with McGuire in proper condition. Last night he was not fully recovered from an attack of the grip.

The thrilling military drama "Not Guilty" will be the attraction which will open the new opera house tomorrow evening. The play will be presented by officers and members of the 15th Battalion, A.L.I. and as it has been in rehearsal for some time it will be produced in grand style. The members of the corps are requested to attend in uniform. From present indications the house will be packed.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was starting to be comfertable after supper and ma said, Mr. and Mrs. Hews want us to play a little bridge with them tonite and I practically gave them my werd that we'd be over, although of course I wouldn't say for sure until I'd consulted you naturelly.

Yee gods more bridge, pop said, and ma said, But Willyum, what could relax the mind more than bridge?

A good sound sleep started early and finished late, pop said. Besides most minds are too relaxed already, what they need is a little tuffening up, a little less trumping and a little more solid reading, and little less grand slamming and a little more intelligent discussion of current copicks, he said.

Well now Willyum I bleeve you're quite rite, ma said. I dont deny that bridge is more social than it is mental, especially the way most people play it, as if their branes were a forrin substance as far as cards are concerned, and I just bleeve I'll take you at your werd and stay home tonite and have you clear up a few questions for me that I admit I have ony a hazy grasp on. For instants there's the general question of inflation and deflation. That's one mist in my mind that I'm sure you can dispel for me by a half hour or so of serious explination, and from that we'll go on to the generel difference between fassism, hitlerism, socialism and communism, and after that if we have any time you can cleer up my cloudy conception of the situation in the far east, I mean China and Russia and Japan and just what it is they want and just what it is they dont want, ma said.

Quite, but I'm afraid we wont have any time, pop said, I mean after all, perhaps it wouldn't be very polite to dissapoint the Hewses.

Well, all rite, Willyum, whatever you say, I'm sure, ma said.

And she went in her room and I heard her laughing to herself in front of the mirror while she was putting on her hat.

Proberly proving she didn't think anything was a matter with her brane anyways.

NERVOUSNESS A TERM VERY LOOSELY USED

Covers a Variety of Conditions Real And Imaginary

(By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.) Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

People slip quite easily into nervousness, and before they know it, the nervousness has become a habit. We should, therefore, watch our nerve reactions. We should constantly be on the alert that our apparently insignificant mental and emotional maladjustments do not become so definitely fixed that they undermine and change our whole personality, affecting our happiness and success for the future.

Nervousness is a blanket term, anyway, which is very loosely used, and which covers a variety of conditions. A much better term is the one which medical men and psychologists employ. It is called a "neurosis".

A neurosis is a very definite entity. It is a functional nerve condition that has no organic basis. In a neurosis the nerve cells and fibres are all intact and able to perform the work intended for them to do. The reason they do not succeed is because usually they are depleted. They are no longer able to manufacture a sufficient amount of nerve energy. Nerve energy is also wasted. It is distributed to wrong places. The sum total result is malfunctioning of the nerves of one kin or another.

Now this malfunctioning of nerves is perceived by the sufferer as symptoms. One person is keyed up and excitable. Everything as he says, "gets on his nerves". Another complains, of excessice fatigue. Anxiety, fears, doubts, obsessions, suspiciousness, a feeling of impending danger, restlessness, self-depreciation, loss of interest, chronic worry—any one or more of these—and there are others—may be symptoms.

If a person only occasionally shows a malfunctioning of nerves we do not say he has a neurosis. We say simply that he is neurotic—that is, he has a tendency to develop a neurosis.

Neuroses are on the increase. Neuratic symptoms even more so. Every-day life is becoming more and more complicated, intense and depleting. Often the nervous system is subjected to terrific strain.

On the other hand, one may also fall into the habit of being restless fearsome of worrying no end and of losing interest. Under such conditions one often finds refuge and a certain comfort in the neurotic symptom.

Loss of interest may however, be an excuse for laziness and nothing more! When you lose interest you usually do not want to do the thing which fails to rouse you and the loss of interest is a kind of excuse. Sometimes a little conscious and deliberate straight thinking will soon make it clear to the neurotic why he suffers as he does.

Often, of course, the real causative explanations are hidden deep down in the unconscious mind and cannot be so readily traced. The point however, is to watch the neurotic manifestations to recognize them for what they really are and to try to remove them as soon as possible. If we did this, there would be fewer neurotics. Nervousness would not so quickly become a habit.

DR. BISCH'S DAILY DIET HINT

Although fat, as such, is often beneficial to a child's growth, it must be remembered that fat is hard to digest and that, therefore, it should be given only in small quantities. This applies not only to the fat of meat, let us say, but also to oils of all kinds—olive oil, cod liver oil and the like. The same applies even to rich milk, cream and butter. Children who bear fat particularly badly should never eat it three times a day.

Now Needle-Threading Latest Freak Stunt

The latest thing in freak stunts in the United States is needle-threading. From marathon, chair-rocking, flag-pole sitting to needle-threading is either raising or lowering the standard, depending on your point of-view. At any rate the hands above belong to Howard Duke Norton, 21, of Alameda, Calif., who claims to have threaded 55 threads of No. 40 thread through the eye of a No. 5 needle. No sooner had his record been published, however, than M. V. Ryder of Tacoma announced that he had put 75 threads through—a needle—though he didn't say what size. It all started when a New York tailor said he could put 18 through. Above shows the needle and the 55 threads. Count 'em, if you don't believe it.

Increase in Hydro Reserves

Toronto Globe in a leading Editorial on Monday made the following reference to a recent address by Hon. J. R. Cooke, Chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, delivered at Galt:—

"It is not a new story that Hon. J. R. Cooke relates in his Galt address calling attention to the increases in Hydro net reserves in the depression years. It is nevertheless, a continued story of perennial interest to the people of Ontario.

"A new chapter that will command equal attention is forecast in the remark of the Hydro Chairman that the Commission expects to show an increase for the year of some $5,000,000 in its net reserves. Mr. Cooke in his review of the four years of the depression period points with satisfaction to a total gain of $35,000,000 in net reserves.

"Mr. Cooke does well to speak again of the growth of municipal equities. Such reminders will have a heartening effect, and they will bear repetition. Whether they are fully satisfactory to the public or not, they testify again in the basic soundness of the public-ownership principle; and accentuate the need of constant watchfulness in guarding it against the intrigues of the politicians. Few bright spots have stood out against the back-ground of depression. Has any other equalled in radiance the lamp lighted by Sir Adam Beck?

"Mr. Cooke comments again on what he refers to as a charge that "the Commission does not give out information." The Chairman several times recently has given assurance of the purpose of the Commissioners to keep the public informed of Hydro activities, and The Globe has congratulated him upon this determination. It was gratifying that there was to be a departure from the obscurantism to which must be ascribed most of the difficulties that have beset the Hydro. Intelligent and constructive criticism is essential to the continued well-being of the publicly owned utility."

BRIDAL COUPLE PRESENTED WITH HANDSOME GIFT

Mr. and Mrs Albert Harvey Honored by Friends

Eldorado—The regular meeting of Eldorado and Union Y. P. S. was held in the basement of Ivers United Church on the evening of Jan. 17th. The president Miss Violet McCann opened the meeting. Miss Reta McCann read part of the Scripture lesson and Miss Edith Holland read the second part. The roll call showed seventeen on the 2nd side and thirteen on the white side. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. E. Trumpour. The citizenship convener Mr. Cecil Robinson then took charge. Mr. C. Robinson took the devotional part followed by a solo by Mrs. Leslie Robinson entitled "When You Know Him".

Mr. Trumpour then very ably gave the topic as a discussion, "What is your attitude to personal devotions?" This was a very helpful and inspiring address. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. Mr. Robinson put on a spelling match, the sides being spelled backwards, owing to the lateness of the hour the match was not finished.

On Monday evening, a large number of young and old people of this district invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey to tendered his daughter and her husband Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey a shower. The evening was spent in listening to the radio and in games. About ten-thirty Mrs. J. R. Trumpour called the guests to order and asked Miss Violet McCann to read the following address and Mr. Bob Blakley presented the newlyweds with an underspun mantel clock, after which Mr. and Mrs. Harvey very ably thanked those present for the gift and wished one and all to come and visit them often. Everyone joined in singing "For they are jolly good fellows" and a dainty lunch was then served by the ladies.

The Address

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Harvey,—

This gathering has been with It, by special despatch, the goodwill and sanction of your friends and happiness throughout life's changing way must be.

We wish at this time, Mrs. Harvey, to express our appreciation of the kindliness that you have always manifested in the activities of church and community.

In your cheery, interested way, you have given generously of your talents and time.

You have portrayed in your life among us this saying, "Kindness is more to be received and have to pass along in order to make it live." You have your kindly influence in many ways. You recalled, Mrs. Harvey, that after several years' absence, our community may again welcome you to your former place and friend. In a very lucid way you have proved that the "old tried and yard kipling was wrong, when he wrote, "East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet"! But we do hope that many happy years, for Easterner and Westerner may be yours.

Just to assure you of our esteem, we ask you to accept this gift in the spirit of friendship which accompanies it.

Signed on behalf of your many friends,

Elvin Gordon, Violet McCann, Bob Blakley, Elmer Chambers.

Hydro Cash Reserves Grow Five Millions Hon. J.R. Cooke Predicts

Chairman Addresses Kiwanis Club at Galt

(Toronto Globe)

Galt, Jan. 19—"While reports for 1933 are not yet compiled, I venture to think that reserves will, at that even in this fourth year of depression, the municipalities and the Hydro Power Commission will increase their cash reserves over $5,000,000," declared Ontario Hydro Electric Commission Chairman, Hon. J. Robert Cooke, in addressing the Galt Kiwanis Club upon the subject of "Hydro Advancement Throughout the Province, and Particularly in Galt and its Immediate Municipal Neighbors."

The Hydro Chairman's forecast of the increase in reserves is not reserves during the year just concluded was accompanied by a summary of Hydro progress in the municipalities of Galt, Ayr, Drumbo, Guelph, Harpurhey, Kitchener, Paris, Preston and Waterloo. Their rates, he said, had declined from 3.8 and 12 cents per kilowatt-hour paid by consumers prior to Hydro, to 1.8, 1.7 and 3 cents per kilowatt-hour under Hydro, while at the same time they had piled up immense reserves.

Civic Officials Present

Surrounding the Hydro Chieftain at the meeting were not only the municipal officials of the Galt Kiwanis Club, but Public Utilities Commissioners from Paris, Waterloo, Preston, Hespeler and Galt. The Mayor of Galt and eight Aldermen constituted the audience. Harvey Hawke, Galt Public Utilities Commissioner, introduced the Hydro Chairman, with references to his unique experience of having been accorded endorsation by both the Liberals and Conservatives of a riding of North Bruce at one election, while A. B. Scott, Manager of the Galt Public Utilities, moved the vote of thanks.

After giving the financial fact that half of the cost to consumers of Hydro power is made up of money value to the Community, that municipal equities were growing, Hon. Mr. Cooke proceeded:

Enviable Position

"What does the future mean under these conditions If the cost of the money invested is actually over 50 per cent. of your power costs, do you ever think of the enviable position that will be yours in this Province in regard to industry when the power cost is totally repaid? My own conviction is there is no place in the world that will be in a more enviable position as location for industry than in this Province within a time comes about in the not distant future. It is a time well worth looking forward to.

"Any program of action can best be judged by how it has worked over a series of years and by its results. And this is the only method by which the Hydro Power Commission is asking you to judge its activities. For four years of stress there has not been a single

Promotion Service

The Sunday School of Stone Church held a Promotion Day Service on Sunday Jan. 7th. Birthday cards were sent to each family and the birthdays in each were observed at Sunday School.

The Superintendent Mr. W. Holmes opened the service in the usual manner and delivered a very inspirational talk to the school. As the Young People's class sang the Promotion hymn "Open Wide the Gates" the children of the three small classes filed out by the gates which were opened by Gerge Noles.

Diplomas were presented to each pupil according to grade.

The pupils went to their respective classes for lessons. Primary, Miss M. Lloyd, Primary, Miss Peggy Jury, Miss R. Woods received the primary children in the absence of Miss Jury.

AID TO CANADIAN MEAT EXPORTERS

Prevents Condemnation of Water Vapor on Frozen Meats

Ottawa, Jan. 23—Completion by the Canadian Pacific Railways of a special chamber at the Port of London for use in the loading of Canadian chilled and frozen meat products was announced Monday by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

The chamber, which is of 30,000 cubic feet capacity is designed to prevent the condensation of water vapor on frozen and chilled meat products when these are being removed from the cool air chambers of ocean transports.

Moisture is being taken to place the new facilities at the disposal of Canadian exporters. The construction of the chamber is expected to result in a considerable saving in both the appearance and quality of Canadian meat products passing through the chamber on their way to the United Kingdom market.

Preliminary tests of the chamber were applied with satisfactory results in Mr. Stevens' presence when he was in London a few weeks ago, and Dr. Howlett has now reported that arrangements arranged for by the Department of Agriculture, with frozen beef, pork, chickens and chilled beef indicate that the new plant is satisfactory in every way and can be recommended for use on both chilled and frozen products. It is expected that the cost of operation of the plant will be a small proportion of the saving effected by the plant and its products passing through it.

DON'T BE CONFUSED BY MISLEADING CLAIMS

Be Sure You Get Genuine Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Bran has proved so successful in relieving common constipation that some overzealous manufacturers of products having only a fractional quantity of bran, have claimed that this minimum bran content is sufficient to relieve you.

You may have tried some of these part-bran products—and have been disappointed. Now you know why that they do not furnish the amount of bran you need.

It's the "bulk" or fiber in bran that helps correct common constipation. And "bulk" is similar to that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the intestinal wastes.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" in the most delightful concentrated form. It also furnishes vitamin B, iron and the bran of wheat. It has won millions of friends because it overcomes common constipation in the most delightful way.

It is all bran just as the name implies—with nothing added except the flavoring of Malt, Sugar and Salt.

When you buy a bran cereal for the relief of constipation, read the name on the package. The foods are there! Make sure by getting Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—in the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario, Canada.

May Embarrass Liberals

This reported government manoeuvre in the Provincial House, it is said, to embarrass the Liberal part- to a great extent. The well planned and determined attempt was made by Arthur Slaght, K.C., Liberal member for Sudbury West, and others to jam a beer and wine policy of the Provincial Liberal management committee. The attempt failed, however, chiefly to the opposition of "dry" Liberal members of the Legislature, including Dr. Mcconkey, William Newman, North Victoria and Chas. Bowman, Hamilton, who say the Conservatives say it would be interesting to see how pure and other M.P.P.'s now stand with regard to beer and wine—especially since they are to be questioned on the leadership of W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., and have been elected by the management of Provincial Leader Mitchell Hepburn on the platform of opposition to beer, he is "not for prohibition."

Should the Liberal group, in the event of a general election, vote in favor of free beer and wine by a growing feelings that the party as a whole now hopes, in the next election, to be able to stick to the 1930 convention platform with regard to liquor—in effect, say nothing, do nothing, and, generally speaking, keep the "wet" issue out of the campaign, if humanly possible.

Progressive leader Harry C. Nixon is another one-time ardent opponent of beer, who, it is said, will find any Conservative wine and beer legislation or resolution at the next House a tough obstacle to surmount. At one time last year, Mr. Nixon, sitted closely with the Hepburn cause, was prepared, it is said, to support any beer and wine proposal that Mr. Hepburn might make. Now he has changed his mind, it is reported. But whether he can get T. K. Slack, Dufferin D. M. Ross, North Oxford, C. J. Taylor, North Grey, and W. G. Medd, South Huron—his four Progressive House supporters—to champion his point of view—or the farmermen's, for that matter—when the time comes, is another proposition.

Of late, much has been rumored about Government plans regarding preparation of the forecast beer and wine legislation. Stories of lawyers working industriously over phraseology of the bill are pretty well "pooh-poohed" at Queen's Park, where it is said, it has been stated that the Attorney-General's department is only "heads of drafting," and undoubtedly will do so—whatever may be required in order that the L.C.A. to give effect to a new policy.

Whenever this amending bill comes down, it will, it is understood, provide for repairing, remodeling, etc., of the present liquor control act, and the passing of the present liquor law. Another section at the existing act which would likely be stricken out is that dealing with permits, for under any new system of beer and wine legislation, would probably not be required. There is no need, it is understood, for any legislation to permit Ontario newspaper and magazine advertising of wines and beers. That power is already vested in the Liquor Control Board under the commandship of Stewart McClenaghan. Any time the Province wants to Again advertising, all it has to do is say the word.

Foolish to Start Operation

Even the Liberals are being reconciled, these say, into belief that the Henry Government would pass new legislation this session and place it in operation before the election "the government." The Mail and Empire was informed last night "would be foolish enough to do that if they are counting on beer and wine as campaign ammunition, why distance themselves of it before the fight opens?

By passing legislation at this session of the House, and leaving it subject to approval by the Government, it is goes to the country late in June and is successful in its appeal, could put the new system operatin, probably, by August 1. However, were it not to reveal its true colors until the eve of a June election, the implementation for the new policy could be enacted until the 1933 session of the House. And the latter would mean that in June of 1935, before the freer sale took effect.

GRIDDLE CAKES OR PANCAKES (with sweet milk)

2 cups flour	1¼ cups milk
3½ teaspoons baking powder	1 egg
½ teaspoon salt	2 tablespoons shortening

To follow rules: Sift and measure flour, sift flour, baking powder and salt together into a bowl. Beat the egg until light, add the milk and melted shortening and mix well with the flour until all lumps have disappeared. This makes quite a sturdy pancake, substantial and satisfying. For thinner, more delicate pancakes, add more milk.

Heat a griddle or heavy frying pan, grease lightly, and pour on the batter in spoonfuls; allow to cook until the bottom becomes golden brown, the edges begin to crisp, and bubbles appear and break on the surface. Using an egg-turner, turn the cakes neatly and brown on the other side. Serve in a very hot dish (since sudden cooling makes them heavy), with butter, syrup, honey, lemon and sugar, or brown sugar.

GRIDDLE CAKES (with sour milk)

2 cups flour	2 cups sour milk
½ teaspoon salt	1 egg
1 teaspoon soda	2 tablespoons shortening

Sift dry ingredients together; combine with liquids according to rule. VARIATIONS—Add to either pancake batter 1 cup cooked corn, or diced cold chicken and corn; or sweetbread or chicken and fried mushrooms. Or use 1 cup whole wheat flour in place of 1 cup white flour, for whole wheat cakes. For thinner pancakes, add some sweet milk rather than increase the sour milk very much, because we would not add more soda and the additional "unemployed acid" might effect the cakes' flavour.

PREPARED FLOUR PANCAKES

Add enough milk, or even water, to prepared flour to make a thin batter, and cook as directed for the Griddle Cake batter I have given you.

For a richer pancake, use a beaten egg as part of the liquid. (Nice for dessert pancakes.)

Because batter made with some prepared flours becomes thicker by standing, more liquid may be added to keep each batch of pancakes thin enough.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING

The genuine old Yorkshire Pudding is a good example of batter raised by the clustering of a large amount of liquid into steam. Sift 2 cups flour with ½ teaspoon salt. Beat 2 eggs very light, combine with 2 cups milk and gradually stir into flour mixture until very smooth. Beat hard several minutes. Pour about 1 inch deep into a strongly-heated, shallow baking pan, containing a little hot dripping from the roasting pan; bake 30 to 45 minutes, basting after it is well risen with some hot fat, from the pan in which beef is roasting.

Here is a modernized version, less a custard-like batter than the first one; sift together 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon baking powder; add 1 cup milk and 2 well-beaten egg yolks; fold in 2 whites, beaten stiff. Bake same as first mixture, or in greased gem pans.

DROP BATTERS BY MUFFIN METHOD

The Drop Batters, as I have explained, are only about half as thin as the Pour Batters.

A Drop Batter gets its name because it is just the right thickness to drop nicely from a spoon.

We have two methods of mixing a Drop Batter:

1. The Muffin Method—
   (a) Mix dry ingredients.
   (b) Mix liquids.
   (c) Combine them quickly.

This is the simplest method we have of mixing a batter.

Frankly we feel that these muffins are better hot from the oven; cold ones may be split and toasted.

2. The other method is the one that we follow for cakes that have shortening in them; we shall not discuss that method in this lesson, it is so important it requires a lesson to itself.

We shall now look at Muffin Batters, which are very closely related to Pour Batters. We use the same kind of ingredients for them, expect these ingredients to do the same work, and put them together in much the same way.

The difference lies in the thickness of the batters, and in the method of cooking.

For muffins, we use not only white flour, but also whole wheat flour, graham flour, rye flour, cornmeal, rolled oats, coarse grains like some of the interesting mixed breakfast cereals, any kind of cooked cereal—all of these can be worked into different muffin batters, once you understand muffin-making in a general way.

Here are the rules for mixing an ordinary muffin mixture together:

1. Sift flour, measure it, mix the other fine dry ingredients with it and sift them together into mixing bowl.
2. Mix in any coarse meal which should not be sifted—cornmeal, whole wheat flour, bran, etc.
3. Mix the liquids—milk, beaten egg and melted shortening.
4. Make a well in the centre of the dry ingredients and pour the liquids into it.
5. With as few strokes as possible, combine the liquids and the dry materials. Leave the batter very rough—don't beat it or try to make it smooth. Add the flavouring while mixing. This is a very quick way to mix a batter—and perhaps it seems too casual to be successful; but blending muffin ingredients too carefully, when they are mixed this way, will only spoil the texture of the muffins.
6. Turn into greased muffin pans, making them 2/3 full and bake at about 400° F. in a hot oven, about 20 to 25 minutes. (Time depends on exact mixture and on size of muffins, which may be very tiny or large "gem" size).

By the way, I like to bake my finer muffins in little paper cake-cups that I buy in packages of a hundred. It is a good plan to set a paper cup in each pan—no greasing will be required and the pans will not need washing afterwards: also the paper cups keep muffins and cakes fresher. To bake many at once, however, just place paper cups closely on a large baking sheet or flat pan.

PLAIN MUFFINS

2 cups flour	3 tablespoons sugar
3½ teaspoons baking powder	1 egg
½ teaspoon salt	¼ cup milk
	2 tablespoons melted shortening

Combine according to general muffin method. Bake at 400° F.

RICH MUFFINS

¼ cup butter	¾ cup milk
¼ cup sugar	2 cups flour
1 egg	3½ teaspoons baking powder
	½ teaspoon salt
	3 teaspoons baking powder

Combine according to muffin method, or by cake method after you have learned it. These muffins have a slightly different texture if made according to the cake method, which will come to you in Lesson 9. When you have learned both methods, try them out and compare them.

VARIATIONS OF MUFFINS

WHOLE WHEAT MUFFINS—Substitute 1 cup whole wheat flour for 1 cup white pastry flour in plain muffins; increase sugar to 4 tablespoons.

FRUIT MUFFINS—Add ½ cup washed and dried currants, raisins, or chopped dates to plain or rich type muffins; add to dry ingredients before mixing in wet ingredients.

SAVORY MUFFINS—Reduce shortening and sugar in plain white muffins to 1 tablespoon each; add ½ cup diced cooked ham or chopped cooked bacon to dry ingredients, before adding the wet.

CHEESE MUFFINS—Reduce sugar in plain white muffins to 2 tablespoons; cut shortening to 1 tablespoon and add ½ cup grated, sharp cheese to the dry ingredients before mixing in the wet.

PEANUT BUTTER MUFFINS—In plain white muffins or rich white muffins, use only 2 tablespoons shortening and add ½ cup peanut butter to the wet ingredients before mixing with dry ingredients.

FRESH FRUIT MUFFINS—Add ½ cup washed, dried blueberries, raspberries, strawberries or pitted red cherries to the dry ingredients before stirring in the wet ingredients.

BRAN MUFFINS

2 cups flour	1 egg
3½ teaspoons baking powder	3 tablespoons molasses
½ teaspoon salt	1 cup milk
¼ cup sugar	1/3 cup melted shortening
1½ cups bran	½ cup stoned, chopped dates
1/3 cup chopped walnuts

Combine according to Muffin Method, adding fruit and nuts to dry ingredients and the molasses to beaten egg. Bake in a moderate oven, 375° F., 30 to 35 minutes. These muffins are very rich and sweet).

These muffins are given a different texture which makes them especially delicious, even when cold, if they are combined according to the cake method, which we shall give you in Lesson 9.

NUT BREAD

2 cups flour	1 cup milk
3½ teaspoons baking powder	1 egg
½ teaspoon salt	2 tablespoons melted fat
1/3 cup sugar	¾ cup chopped nutmeats

or ½ cup chopped dates, figs, prunes, raisins or currants.

Mix by Muffin Method, adding stoned fruit—or a combination of the two, if you like—to the dry ingredients. Turn into greased pans, let stand 20 minutes, then bake in a slow oven 300° F., 45 to 60 minutes.

As hinted at the beginning of this lesson, the simpler muffin mixtures are only at their best served hot. For serving cold, I advise you to use cake batter, perhaps another useful cup-cake mixtures as you will find in the Easy-Way Cake Book.

SMITH—TURNBULL

A lovely wedding took place at 7.15 p.m. on Friday, January 12th, at All Saints' Anglican Church, Toronto, when Agnes Napier, Reg.N., daughter of Mr. Alexander Turnbull and the late Mrs. Turnbull of Glasgow, Scotland, was married to Mr. George Charles Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith of London, England. The Rev. Wm. Prior, B.A., officiated at the ceremony. The church was prettily decorated with Christmas decorations and palms for the occasion. The wedding music was played by the organist, Mr. P. Clements Carter.

The bride, a former resident of Belleville, was given in marriage by Mr. B. R. Gardiner, also late of Belleville. The bride looked charming in a powder blue lace and net gown with white accessories, and wore the gift of the groom, an amethyst necklace and ring to match, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Jessie Mitchell, was gowned in a model of Burgundy velvet with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and baby's breath. Mr. Samuel Craig acted as best man. After the reception which was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. B. McCrae, the happy couple left for a short trip and will make their home on Woodington Ave., Toronto.

Bride-Elect is Guest of Honor at Jolly Shower

Miss Myrtle Holway, popular bride-elect, was the guest of honour at a delightfully arranged party and entertainment held last evening at the home of Miss Lillian Spracklett, 11 Porm Street. The party was a complete surprise to Miss Holway and was attended by over thirty guests. Euchre was played during the earlier part of the evening. The prizes were won by Miss Lillian Spracklett, first; Miss Helen Hogan, second; Charles Moon, men's first; Ernest Conway, second.

The feature of the evening's programme was a Mock Wedding, the "ceremony" being performed under a lovely arch of green and pink with the traditional white bells. Miss Phoebe Donaldson was pianist and as the "groom", (Charles Moon), the "bride", (Miss Lillian Spracklett), and the "preacher", (Carl Taylor), took their places, the pianist played the "Lost Chord." The "flower-girls" were Helen Hogan and Lillian Spracklett, and the "ring-bearer" carrying a huge curtain ring was Billy Holway. As the strains of the wedding march the demure "bride" Charlie Allen, the "bridesmaid", Clarence Armstrong, and the "father", Art Seymour appeared. The "bride" received a host of fine taking part were very amusing.

The "bride and groom" presented a prize-load of gifts to Miss Holway, and a wicker basket brought in by the bridesmaid also contained gifts. These were opened beneath the arch and Miss Holway received many lovely gifts. A delicious lunch was served after which bagatelle and dancing were enjoyed. Games at bagatelle were (high) Nora Lynch and Art Seymour, (low) Mrs. Bill Holway.

ENDEAVOURERS S. S. CLASS MEETS

West Huntingdon—The Endeavours Sunday School class of the United Church held their regular monthly meeting at Mr. Sandy McCurdy's home on Tuesday evening. The program which was a New Years one was prepared by Mrs. Sandy McCurdy and was as follows: Prayer by Mrs. Foster Wilson. Roll call was responded to by each member giving a class thought the new year. Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Howard Cooke who explained the lesson. The new president, Mrs. Clayton Wright gave a short address. Mrs. Melville Donnan gave some good advice on "How we can help our class," urging all to live up to the class motto. Messrs Elmer Post and Sandy McCurdy gave an excellent duet. A New Year reading was given by Mr. Arthur Wilson, a visitor. A short business period followed this in which the duties of the class were undertaken care of. Prayer by Arthur Wilson closed this very helpful meeting. A delicious lunch was served, prepared two contests were enjoyed.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Sandy McCurdy for their hospitality.

Mr. Elmer Post attended the motor show at Toronto on Wednesday.

Mr. Donald Haggarty sold his fine team of grey horses for a handsome sum to Mr. Munro of Madoc.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 23 (CP)—Base metal and silver shares firmed up moderately following a first hour lag ushered on the broadened Exchange but the gold groups lagged, the high grade issues showing minor fractional recessions at noon.

In a similar vein in the morning session Dome recorded a loss of 25 cents to 21.50 while Hollinger was unchanged at 13.15, McIntyre was up 75 cents to 41.50, Pioneer up 5 cents to 10.60, Teck-Hughes up 5 to 6.00, Wright Hargreaves off 5 to 6.60, Sherritt Gordon down nothing at 8.80.

Base Metal Corporation scored an advance of 4 to 1.75 and Pickle Crow Gold was up 6, Noranda 15, and Nickel down 20 cents to 22.60.

Base metal issues held their ground and even registered gains in spots but the senior golds showed remaining almost stationary in slow trading and silver shares drifted down moderately this afternoon.

Only a few sales of the leaders, Lake Shore, Hollinger, Teck-Hughes were bounded with Dome down a point. Other active issues in cent, Hollinger, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves were unchanged.

The firm market for copper helped the base metal group though the nickel issues were definitely off a point.

Stocks were a bit irregular in the afternoon, giving ground in some instances, gaining moderately.

Small shares of fractions to around a point include Allied Mylamaque, Bidgood Kirkland, American Can, U.S. Smelting, Douglas Aircraft, and American Commercial Alcohol.

Irregularity marked dealings in Canadian issues on the big board. Dome and McIntyre eased fractions, while International Nickel held about steady. Hiram Walker and Lake Shore were Lake Shore Mines was a shade improved in the curb market. Dome Mines investment was gained 3-8 of a point while the 5s closed a trifle. The Canadian dollar was off 1-8 of a cent higher at 99.18 3-4 cents.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 23—(CP)—The Toronto stock exchange board was well spotted with recessions by noon today as a result of the lag which were selling during the morning than the gains held in a number of issues in prices. Some stop-loss orders were touched off in the morning hour as the first half hour and the price ragged to 51 1-2 for a loss of 2 points.

Other distillery issues surrendered only small fractions while senior golds were dropping 1-4 to 22 1-2 and Electrical Dividend on the big Brewing Corporation shares were offered at 19 3-4 by a ban of 1-4 and Consolidated at 19 1-2 off 1-2.

All the interlisted leaders drifted moderately lower, under the influence of the New York market. Nickel, New York Board, International Nickel lost 1-8 to 22 1-8 while Canadian Nickel, C.P.R. 3-8 and Port A 1-4. Steelers eased back one to 13.35.

The market was in a dopey state almost throughout the first three hours with a little effort being seen in the distillery and brewery issues which were inclined to weaken to drift down fractions to 2 points.

Trading picked up moderately after noon and the distillery issues recovered fully in some cases. Both Canadian Breweries and Hiram Walker Gesagram were on the up side this afternoon, and Distillers Corporation off only 1-2 point compared with 2 points in the morning session.

Base metal interlisted shares wiped out or reducing their losses, including C.P.R., Nickel and Brazilian. C.P.R. extended its loss.

British Dairy Prices

Ottawa, Jan. 23—Butter showed some improvement in the week's grocery shortage of receipts from New Zealand, the first official breakdown market last week, according to a report from the Department of Agriculture today. Cheese was reported weak.

Quotations: Butter—New Zealand, 67 shillings per cwt. (15.05 cents per lb); Australian, 65 shillings per, cwt. (14.58 cents per lb). Cheese: New Zealand white, 60 shillings per cwt. (9.45 cents per lb); colored, 62 shillings anpence per cwt. (9.57 cents per lb.); Canadian, 60 to 62 shillings per cwt. (10.63 cents per lb.).

MARKED ADVANCE IN HOG PRICES

Hogs sold Monday in Montreal at $8.60 per 100 pounds, which was an increase of 25 cents during the week-end, and more than double the price prevailing a year ago, being, in fact, the highest price at which hogs have sold at Montreal since August, 1931. Hogs, however, shipped approximately 73,000,000 pounds or more than double the quantity marketed, but sales at these prices are highest since the summer of 1930.

SAYS BURIAL WAS SECRET

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 23.—(CP) Mrs. Harry Stenson, Windsor, and Charles Hayward, Windsor, in custody of Windsor police, were in connection with an alleged secret burial of an infant born in Detroit last November, in a Windsor back yard.

Authorities here informed the Attorney General's department at Toronto and an order has been made for the exhumation of the body which is expected to be made Wednesday.

According to Police Mrs. Stenson, whose husband is Harry Stenson, is the mother of the child and last November the youngest, Karen, aged five months, disappeared from sight. The cause of death is not known but that the burial took place in the Windsor area is definite, authorities said. At the present time the police have not received any violence connected with the case but are trying to clear up the unauthorized burial.

"ORIGINAL" STILL LIVES

Hollywood, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Her striking beauty undimmed by the passing of more than a decade, Marion Harrison Fisher's original "Girl of the Golden West" lives modestly here surrounded by mementoes of other years.

She is Mrs. Frederick Montague, a widow since 1919. Twenty-four years ago, when she first met the noted artist in a San Francisco Hotel, she was 17-year-old Maurine Rasmussen.

Her skin was tanned by California winds, Jas. tawny hair long braids hung about her sun-browned throat, a big picture-hat tilted back upon her head, but under Fisher's eagle pencil she became "The Girl of the Golden West".

INJURIES IN GAME, FATAL

Andy Ritchie of Atlantic Sea Gulls Dies From Peritonitis

Atlantic City, N.J., Jan. 23 (CP)— The hockey career of Andy Ritchie was ended today by death.

The 24 year old wing man, a product of Toronto teams, succumbed last night as the result of an unnatural accident he suffered while playing with Atlantic City Sea Gulls in an exhibition game here January 12.

During a rush he collided with an opposing defenceman and one of his skates cut a gash in his back as he went down, a leg underneath him. However, it was an abdominal injury apparently suffered at the same time but which caused no trouble at first, that caused his death.

After the back wound had healed in the City Hospital to which he was removed after his last game, he was seized with pains, at first believed to be from an infected appendix. Later diagnosis proved the abdominal wall had been bruised and tissues torn.

Traumic peritonitis set in and despite the attention of leading specialists here a transfusion performed with blood donated by a team-mate, he succumbed after a long, courageous fight.

KINGS and QUEENS of BLADEDOM TO VIE FOR NORTH AMERICAN HONORS

The cream of Canadian and American speed skating talent congregate in Toronto Feb. 6 and 7 for the North American championships. The meet, which will assume front point of importance anything ever staged in Canadian racing circles, will attract the best artists available. Canada should fare well in the minor events and the senior ladies' section, but lack class, since the departure to Europe of Alex Hurg of London and Frank Stack of Winnipeg. Above are pictured several of the outstanding competitors who will abandon the U.S. "circuit" for a spell to journey to Toronto for the championships at women's division. The close-up in Maple Leaf Gardens. Left to right, Rosemarie Brady of Detroit, who for several years has been a thorn in the side of Lela Brooks, Canada's leading aspirant to the honors. Next is Cecil Dillon, present holder of the title for boys under eighteen, and then is teen Lela Brooks, on whom Canada pins her maloy hopes in the ladies' division. The centre shows Jack Shea, who won the 500 and 1,500 metres events at the 1932 Olympics. Shea is a graduate of Dartmouth U, and will represent the States in the forthcoming meet. Hettie Prack, shown ready to answer the report of the starter's gun, is next in line. Prack is one of Canada's leading threats for senior honors, although he is not conceded a great chance of whipping such stars as the States will have on hand. On the extreme right is Eddie Schroeder, who was a member of the U.S. Olympic team along with Shea. He did very well and has earned himself a trip to Europe last season.

B.C.I. CAGERS WIN 2 GAMES

Both Senior And Junior Squads From Trenton Defeated

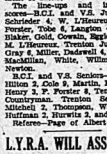
Interscholastic basketball was ushered into this city last evening at the local Collegiate gymnasium when the B.C.I. and V.S. cagers won a twin bill from the Trenton H.S. basketball squads with the local boys at the top by a 31 to 2 score while the tri-colored juniors managed to squeeze out an 18 to 16 score. Both games in the two quintettes in first place in the Bay of Quinte group of C.O.S.S.A. basketball.

In the senior game the Laughlin coached cagers experienced little difficulty in downing their Trenton rivals, never being pressed at any stage of the game. The score of 22 to 8 almost indicates the play that was at all times predominated by the locals. Owing to the inferior opposition the play of the tri-color did not impress the fans in any great extent. The junior tilt, however, proved a close one, Trenton when the local kids were forced to the limit to down their yellow and black clad rivals and were forced to eke out a win in the final moments of battle.

The line-ups and individual scores: B.C.I. and V.S. Juniors—Schrieder 4; W. L'Heureux 4; G. Forster, Total 8. Trenton—Kines, Blaker, Gold, Cowan, Eggleton and M. L'Heureux. Trenton Juniors—Gray 8, Miller, Russell 6, Kines, MacMillan, White, Williams and Newton.

B.C.I. and V.S. Seniors—Ostrom, Hilton 3, Cole 9, Martin, Faulkner, Henry 3, P. Forster 8, Temple and Countryman. Trenton Seniors—Mitchell 2, Brownell, Walker 2, Huffman 2, Hurwitz 2, and Pot.

Referee—Pay of Albert College.



L.Y.R.A. WILL ASSIST LOCAL YACHT CLUB

Letter Received From President of That Organization Here

Solidly behind the efforts of a group of Belleville men to form a local yachting and racing association, members of the Kingston Lake Yacht Racing Association have promised every assistance in the promotion of the scheme. In a communication received by Secretary Mr. Thomas Mason of this city from Mr. Jay Grant, President of the Lake Yacht Racing Association, Kingston, every wish for success in the new venture was given.

"Since the old Bay of Quinte Yacht Club became inactive, I have felt what a pity it was that no one was carrying on the traditions of that historic Club, it was one of the two clubs to race for the Interpete for the America's Cup", stated the Kingston President in the letter.

"Any time we are able to assist in any manner we shall be most pleased to do so," added the writer.

Dohertys Climb Into Second Place by Defeating Trenton 3-2 in Overtime Tussle

"Pete" Morgan Scores Winning Goal in Last Minute

PLAY RAGGED

Small Ice Surface Bothers Style of Hockey Played by The "Oilmen"

Trenton, Jan. 23 (Special)—Failing utterly to display their many chances the local Intermediates went down to defeat at the hands of the Belleville Doherty A. C. team by a 3-2 count after the teams battled for seventy minutes at the local arena last night.

Pete Morgan batted in a loose puck in the last half of the overtime to win from the locals.

This win puts the Doherty A. C. up with Stratford and Trenton owns while the locals are practically out of the running unless a miracle happens.

Roy Smith opened hostilities when he beat Buskard for the first tally soon after the opening. Smith drew a penalty when he tripped Covert as he raced in on goal. Play was nip and tuck with the man short Carl Morgan and Covert combining with Johnson and Powers but failed to netted Belleville's counter.

Belleville forwards combined and raced down on the local net but they could not beat Joe who did everything but eat the puck to keep it out.

Hilmer called in but Smith gave him a rough bump and earned his second penalty. "Pinky" Johnson passed the puck out to Roy Smith at centre who drifted one in to beat Buskard but Bucko was off his feet side and the goal wasn't allowed. Pete Morgan raced in soon only to miss a wide open net. The period closed with Johnson and Rosenpilot each testing Buskard with two shots apiece but could not beat the wire.

Belleville Goes One Up.

Carl Morgan put Clare Patterson lads one ahead when he scored on a pass from Pete Morgan but a minute later the score was evened when Norm Johnson shot one by on a pretty passing attack. Powers and Hilmer drew a rest for tripping Harry Covert.

Doug. Powers was robbed of a tallly by an hot shot one that hit the post and bounced out. Both clubs are red hot and bounced the other post with it but could not touching it.

Barney York went off for repairs to his skate and Hilmer drew a rest.

Belleville were two short when Harry Morgan and Doug. Powers drew a penalty for bouncing a couple of local lads off the boards.

Covert and Carl Morgan went in on an open drive only to miss. Rosenpilot ended the period in the penalty box when he tripped Covert.

Overtime.

In the third frame both teams missed all kinds of chances but Doug Gould getting the most work to do. Hilmer sailed in fast but was stopped by York and had to be revived before Referee Liddle could start play. Bohan had a little mix-up that called for a rest for the pair. The period ended scoreless 2-2.

Rosenpilot tested Buskard off the face of the draw but Powers drives were bearing down heavy with Roy Smith whimsing in shots that just missed the goal. After the teams changed ends the play was evenly divided and a tie game looked inevitable. Carl Morgan was tripping Bohan but the locals could not get that extra point to win, meant.

With only a minute left the play was centred around the local net when a loose puck bounced from behind the net to Pete Morgan who was coming in and only had to shove it in the open side to win 3-2.

For Belleville Carl and Pete Morgan looked best. The locals all put up a real fight with Joe Gould bearing the brunt. Smith and York looked better on defence and handed out some heavy body checks. The first line of Johnson, Powers, and Rosenpilot was always up while the Morgans and Miller on the second line worked hard and combined to speed to perfection. "Pinky" Utroski played his first game of the season and looked on the forward line and the defence. He made many rushes but failed to play any combination when it often would have been disastrous for his mates.

Trenton has yet to register a win but have not been disgraced, they have played but for one season it cannot be put into winning form. Clarence Thompson looked the ball in a very satisfactory manner.

Trenton—Goal, Gould; defence, York and Smith; centre, Johnson; wings, Powers and Rosenpilot; alternates, Bohan, Miller, Bowen and Utroski.

Belleville — Goal, Buskard; defence, Hilmer and Higby; centre, Covert; wings, P. Morgan and C. Morgan; alternates, H. Morgan, St. Denis, McGuire and Weir.

Referee—C. E. Thompson, Toronto.

Summary.

—First Period—

1—Trenton...Smith 6.00
2—Belleville...C. Morgan (Covert) 1.50

—Second Period—

3—Belleville...C. Morgan (P. Morgan) 2.50

—Overtime—

5—Belleville...P. Morgan 8.50

Penalties—First period, Smith 2; H. Morgan; second period, Johnson, Powers, St. Denis, Rosenpilot; third period, Weir, Bohan; overtime, St. Denis.

WALTER KALBFLEISCH

Having already hooked three outstanding stars from Niagara Falls Falls O.H.A. ring Bowman, Jerry Shannon and Max Kaminsky, Ottawa's Senators finally bagged more big game when they signed Walter Kalbfleisch, star winger, who languished team last year not win any laurels this year, but just watch 'em go next year, if they stick together.

PRE-GAME PREDICTIONS

(By the Canadian Press)

Lester Patrick and his New York Rangers, holders of many records they may add one to add a distinction to the team any day, are trotting them out for an airing at Madison Square Garden tonight to impress fans, and, incidentally, Ottawa Senators, their opponents of the evening.

The Blueshirts will be playing their 400th game league, playoff and exhibition—since they entered the National Hockey League in 1926 and the occasion will be Murray Murdock, who hasn't missed one of them.

Four others are cast in stellar roles for the intrigue and battle. The Cook Brothers, Bill and Bun, Frank Boucher, and Ching Johnson, original members of the team with Murdock, are to be honored for the numerous records they have set up in almost eight seasons of play.

While the Rangers are being glorified at New York, six other N.H.L. get into action this evening, tonight.

Montreal's improved Maroons tangle with Leafs at Toronto in the only all-Canadian game on the schedule.

At Chicago Canadiens play Black Hawks and Detroit take on Bruins in Boston. Chicago, Rangers and Red Wings all are tied for the top spot in the United States division standing.

REFEREES SPOIL MASTER MINDING

Leaf Goal Undefended When Detroit Clinched Pastime

TORONTO, Jan. 23. — (CP) — Dick Irvin is convinced there's no the master minding of referees going to spoil it all. The Toronto Maple Leaf hockey coach told the day of a tat of strategy that misfired in the Toronto-Detroit National Hockey League game Sunday night, because, he contended, a whistle sounded when it should have been silent.

Red Wings were leading 3-2 in overtime and Irvin had five men on defence, a move designed to bring to tie the score. He noticed Referee Hainsworth, in charge of goal, hadn't been bothered by a Detroit player, but referee-in-chief motioned him off the ice, putting Charlie Conacher into the play.

One of Conacher's shots put Leaf sweaters around the Detroit net and, concluding the goal was in the bag, the ice, blew his whistle, Irvin charged down the ice to protest the wings were unaware the Toronto net was unguarded.

Toronto kept six men driving at Wilf Cude and the wings now jockeyed to get the rubber. Irvin called and finally Herbie Lewis succeeded, shooting the puck over the boards to the other end into the Toronto net. It was 4-2 for Detroit and made their victory certain, besides doing things to Irvin's mastcr-mind.

KI-Y LOOP

In a spirited midget series game the Maple Leafs downed the Canadian midgets in a Ki-Y League fixture by the score of 3 to 2 and the Belleville Arena last evening. The two teams battled at practically even terms all during the hour's play with the Leafs forging to the front in the second period. Despite the fact that the Canadians staged frequent poor plays in the final stanza they could not score.

The line-ups: Canadians: Batchelder, Mitts, Ingram, Boyton, Booth, Langsbeer, Parliament and Cronk. Maple Leafs: Clarke, Jones, Wills, Mems, Graham, Weller and Lyall.

Referee—Liddle.

Murray Murdock Ready to be Honored by Gotham Fans

Just Lucky to Have Taken Part in 400 Consecutive Games

New York, Jan. 22. — Hero worshipping Gotham today had found a stors in a scheduled National Hockey League match. It will be the 400th game for the world champions as a unit but for Murray the game marks the occasion for much celebrating. It will be the 400th consecutive game for the Winnipeg Manitoba graduate has played. He will be honored and feted before and after the game tonight and Lou Ehrlig, first baseman of New York Yankees, holder of baseball's endurance title, will present him with a diamond signet ring.

Just Lucky.

All this hullabaloo, however, means just about next to nothing to the ex-Winnipeg Maroon player who is more or less surprised such a fuss should be made over it.

"Why I never thought anything about a run record. I was just lucky to get in the game. I'm just one of the Rangers and myself until I saw it in the papers," he said. "There is nothing particularly remarkable about it. I was just lucky. Once, in the last game of the season I hurt my shoulder so bad I could not use it for two weeks. Another time I caught the flu and was laid up for nearly a week but I'd just happened at a time when there was a lull in the schedule and we were rolling up at Quebec. I got better in time for the next game.

"No, I don't deserve any credit for it. We Rangers don't like to have to write more about Bun and Bill Cook, Frank Boucher, Ching Johnson, those fellows, having only a few more marks."

After hailing the other four members of the Ranger "originals", playing signed up at the same time when the blueshirts were formed in 1926, Murdock paid the commendable shown by the Ranger players and manager Lester Patrick had meant more to him than any honors won in his four years.

Never Contemplated Career.

"As a matter of fact," he proceeded, "I never contemplated this sort of a career when I graduated. I was and still am a certified chartered accountant. I planned to follow that work but after coming here after me to sign up and I finally gave in. Right now, if times were better, I think I would go back to that work.

It developed that the Winnipeg statistician wouldn't have to look far for a desk in Wall Street's financial canyons. He has worked there in the summers before but believes taking a position at this time is not indicated. Besides there is the one who needs the job more"—out on the Fresh Air Meadows playground.

Life in the American metropolis have proved enjoyable to the Ranger star and forward, wife, a former Ann Edmonton, Alta., girl also likes the big town. They have a six-year-old daughter.

Hubbell Says Livelier Ball Will Not Make Great Change

Star Southpaw of Giants Looking For Good Season

Mecker, Okla., Jan. 23 (CP)—It just wouldn't be right; in the opinion of Carl Hubbell, veteran southpaw of Mecker, to say anything about the 1934 contract the New York Giants gave him, or to venture any predictions as to how many games he personally might win next season.

The tall, slim pecan farmer opined, however, the Giants would repeat and that his pitching delivery would work with the New American League ball, which will be used this season.

Just now, Hubbell is more interested in baseball. The team he manager tackles another one directed by Pepper Martin, St. Louis Cardinal third baseman, at Oklahoma City tonight and both Carl and Pepper are anxious to win.

Hubbell doesn't play but suits up and takes practice shots before each game, with another unique delivery—the "pepper" pitch.

The pitcher will forsake the ball field Wednesday for a journey to New York to receive the "most valuable player" award of the Baseball Writers' Association at a banquet, Feb. 7.

As to the new ball, Hubbell says: "We didn't get to use it enough during the world's series for me to be able to say just what we'll be able to do with it over a season's span, but I don't think it will make it "great deal of difference."

He said he did notice that his screw ball broke just a bit more sharply, although its curve was not quite so great as with the National League ball.

"The big difference is in bunting," he said. "After using the slower ball all season, it was hard to keep from bunting the livelier ball right into infielders' hands. It seemed to make infield plays quicker."

DAY BY DAY

Recently when queerie regarding the possibilities of placing a senior baseball team in the C. O. B. A. next season, places like Cobourg, Picton, Napanee and Oshawa formed thumbs down on the project. Perhaps their stand in the matter is due to the fact that financing a senior club is much greater than putting up the "where-with-all" to field an intermediate team. If such be the case then it must be granted that it costs more to operate a senior club than a Ki-Y or intermediate team, other organizations have branched such difficulties by the old chestnut—"play-off series".

It has now been suggested by these in the vicinity that an effort will be made to promote at least more clubs for C.O.B.L. competition for 1934 with two centres east and west, playing an interlocking schedule and a play-off series in each section as well as a final series between the sectional winners. By so doing six of the eight clubs in competition will be included in the play-off series thereby sufficient finances would be forthcoming to meet the extra operating expenses for the season. There is undoubtedly has its merits. In other words the proposed play-off system would be identical to that now in vogue in the National Hockey League.

In order to stimulate the interest of baseball in the smaller villages an intermediate "B" series was inject into the C.O.B.A. some years ago with subsequent success. We are not at liberty to divulge from whence our information came but, perchance, that a similar series may be forthcoming in the senior category, next season. Just why the O.B.A.A. proposes to have a senior "A" and senior "B" series we cannot say but, apparently the powers to be have considered it wise in the case this legislation goes through at the annual meeting of the O. B.A.A. an entirely different picture will be presented in the baseball circles reigning themselves under the banner of the O.B.A.A.

Whether or not the O.B.A.A. will designate the category a baseball club shall participate in or not is a matter pertaining to announcements relating to the augural meeting so as to properly intelligently discuss the said proposition. Perhaps by that time the powers that be will have come to a decision one way or the other and the O.B.A.A. will be forthcoming.

When Lou Gehrig, initial sacker of the New York Yankees, surprised "Deacon" Scott's record of 1,307 consecutive major league baseball games last summer nosh was said regarding his accomplishments. "Columbia Lou" has now increased his 1,308 consecutive baseball games and providing he is able to complete the entire 1934 season he will increase by 154 that record to over 1,500 major league games. For the evening would be the return again, for maybe a minute or so, of the hero of 1928, this time fending off Ottawa's invasion.

The suggestors, however, reckoned without Gehrig.

"I'll stay right on the bench," he said today. "Right where I belong. I will manage, but the goal tending will lend—all night long. I'm over 30 years of age. Is someone trying to get me killed?"

More. Of course Joe Gould, in the Trenton nets, repeatedly stood between the "oilmen" and what looked like sure scores. If there were any stars the two goaltenders were about the only ones to play up to form. The locals seemed at sea on the small ice surface and travelled in circles. Pete Morgan's last minute tally surely spelled finis to the hopes of ever the locals into sole possession of second place.

The Trentonians conceived a novel way in which to outfit their players. Visiting local merchants about town purchased one set of, placing their names on the backs of the jerseys for advertising. We went up to visit our old friend, Jack Laughlin, but was refused to mind the nets for Belleville back in the last days of Grantor Arnott and Daw Whalen. Much to our surprise a notice was posted on the Trenton dressing room door, reading—No newspaper reporters allowed." Evidently West didn't get her popularity all that way, eh?

The locals were far below their Campbellford appearance, maybe they were saving themselves for tonight's tilt in Kingston. In addition it might be well to mention the fact that the local defencemen would do well to pass the puck rather than to rush the earlier stages of the game this was very noticeable and noticeable than after Coach L'Heureux shocked the boys up on that point.

Letters to the Sports Editor

Sports Editor of the Ontario Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:

Kindly in your paper of Friday, Jan. 19, in your Current Sport Day by Day about the baseball situation you say "a resolution has been sent to the Ulster Stadium League last year to extend its league to a four team basis." I might say here that I was present at the annual meeting of the league but Mr. Townsend was the only delegate present. I still the President and instead of five teams being in the league there were only teams and they operated with great success and they only charged 15 cents to see a single game under the O.B.A. rules and 25 cents to see a double header. I might say here that the Ulster Stadium and baseball games last summer mush was said regarding his accomplishments. "Columbia Lou" has now increased his 1,308 consecutive baseball games and providing he is able to complete the entire 1934 season he will increase by 154 that record to over 1,500 major league games. For the evening would be the return again, for maybe a minute or so, of the hero of 1928, this time fending off Ottawa's invasion."

The suggestors, however, reckoned without Gehrig.

"I'll stay right on the bench," he said today. "Right where I belong. I will manage, but the goal tending will lend—all night long. I'm over 30 years of age. Is someone trying to get me killed?"

LOVE'S LOTTERY

by —

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

"Oh, yes, take it, please. Miss Migs.....I need hardly say, I think, that I regard all office transactions as confidential."

"Oh, of course, Mr. Field."

He wandered over to the ticker to run the tape through his nervous fingers. "My dearest," he began. "My God!" he broke off suddenly. "Well, I never expected this!" Miss Migs waited. "Where'd I get?" he questioned at the tape unctuously, and while still studying the tape: "My dearest—Miss Migs—read study.

"Oh, yes. My dearest: Missing you horribly....here's another drop too, Jimmy. Don't take this, Miss Marks —ah, I mean Migs— where was I? What have I got down now?

"My dearest: Missing you horribly.....

"Oh, yes....My dearest: Missing you horribly. I—ah—have thought of you all day say—ah, don't take that Miss Migs—"

The telephone rang: "I think he is here," said Miss Migs, whose discretion could be perfect. Geoffrey took the telephone.

"Miss Migs—" he said, rising suddenly to put on his coat, "I have to rush off. Never thought this would happen. You'll have to—that is—I mean, will you write the proper sort of —ah—cousin letter? You know what I want. Make it kind and strong—a good—I don't have to know what I want. Sorry to keep you, but—"

"It's all right, I'm glad to do it, Mr. Field," she answered intensely. He rushed out, the door slammed after him.

Just as earlier that day, before Cicily's ship was well away from the pier, he again had the sense of deserting his post and of betraying Cicily; he tried to reason himself out of the feeling by himself again. It was nonsense that Miss Migs would write a better message than could he. "She wouldn't blame me if she could understand my day," he thought. "I have to make compromise, like all the rest. Would forgive me if I didn't send that letter —and —"

The elevator had taken him down swiftly and into a mood of weather like building. He would have to wait, he realized, frowning, until the fierce slanting fall of the rain abated a bit. He looked at his watch; already late he was. Of course Todd would wait for him. Todd had to but every minute was precious, every minute! He fumed during his deferment.

A little wisp of a faded stenographer, bedraggled and pathetic so as to accent depression, chest flat, shoulders stooped, stood by him with a companion.

"Ain't them flowers swell?" she questioned timidly yet tenderly. "My God, wouldn't I like to be in the country now!"

"Yeh, it'd be swell in the country," her companion conceded, drearily, and then both cheered a bit and giggled a little. "They ain't no use of us waiting," she stated, her eyes now on the gray, sleeting rain; "it ain't going to get no better—"

He watched them out. Then he turned to the window, crowded with the faces of other fleeing. Miss Marks had called lunch. He wondered whether he had ever said any lunch to Cicily. They were pretty flowers, he took up his watch, looked at it, frowned. But he had no time waiting. He reminded himself sternly to permit himself to "wander", bold about flowers, and—

At length he saw a taxicab to stop it, while others who had waited longer made he murmured imprecations. "Sorry," he said curtly as he pushed aside an older man who had reached it before he had. "but I'll have to have this; I'm in frightful haste—"

He barked his direction; slammed the door; leaned forward to say an urgent, "Hurry!" He sat back a moment and again he leaned forward, to add, "Five dollars for you if you make it in five minutes!"

The taxicab started the ordered pace with a rabbit leap; Geoffrey relaxed, a little. There was not much, he decided, complaining that money could not get. If, indeed, there was anything it could not get. And some day, through his patiently repeated harpings on it, Cicily would realize the importance of money. He had never thought of teaching her of love in the same slow, gentle way.....that cinderella. He would have to have regarded as "pasty" and the variety of thought that would have been indulged by such as Althea Blanchard. A bewildering old dodo who had retired!

Meantime the wheels of the taxi force called "The Big Guy's Slaughter-house," was a good deal of excitement. Miss Marks' being of, the job permitted a freedom, which was entirely unusual, and had the force been but a few years younger they would have thrown erasers, chewed wads of paper and other articles which can be converted into symbols of the holiday spirit.

At 3, it was, Jimmy Dorgan, wandered into "The Slaughter-house" to pitch insidently on the edge of his desk. And after he had looked long at Miss Migger the while his eyes grew soft and hungry, he coughed and choke, "Whatcha lickin' out?" he asked.*

"You'd never believe it, Jimmy," she answered, turning toward him. "I'm writing a message for him, to his fiancee!"

"What!"

"I think it's just awful, Jimmy!" She turned back to her machine.

"Well, I'll say!" he agreed heartily.

She stared rather blankly at the page. It wasn't exactly any of Old Bleaker, the dean of the office employees, next entered to settle in his chair, and to repeat Jimmy's question. And what he was answer of his comment was made by a fervent. "I'll be damned!"

"He got as far as 'My dearest: missing you horribly,' but there he stopped and I don't know what to put next—" Little Migs confessed, writhing in her slow agony. Finally they looking at her, drew a deep, tremulous breath.

"For glim's sake, any lunch," he stated too tenderly.

"I couldn't either. He never thought of it."

"I'll wait Luther out for something," said Jimmy, as he touched the left corner of his desk. Then he appeared, whistling through his teeth, which to the initiate, meant heartbreaking love.

"Hey—what's the row?" he questioned.

"Miss Migs wants some chocolate don't you?" Jimmy's head nodded. She nodded. "And some chicken sandwiches." Again Jimmy nodded. "And keep your big paws out of 'em too, you darned fresh mug!"

"Ah, shut your trap!" Luther invited with utter good nature; then as he had the rest, he said, "Say, Mig, say, whatcha doin'?"

And she told him, with a gentleness that was made by the fact that Luther had got for her the chance to prove that she could take dictation.

Luther considered the situation; been very harrowing," he commented at length, "Ain't that kinda rare? Geoffrey's got a girl, we all know that. Ma, I'd lay down any day to be in Geoffrey's shoes. A good guy or not that ain't no way to treat a lady. Look her, Migs. Whatcha got to say, mentally?"

Jimmy made a lunge toward Luther, murmuring the fact Old Luther was "a fresh brat." "I don't want everybody calling Miss Migger sweetheart," he explained, but no one paid heed to the interruption.

"I just-don't know what to say," little Migs admitted with a despairing sigh as she sat back in the "correct pose" chair. "I haven't no real fitnur," she seconded. "for I know how I'd feel—if I was in her place I mean, but—"

She's a looker too," said Luther, "I never seen no better. And she—I've seen a few!"

"Say," said Mr. Bleaker, "if I did anything like that to my old woman, she'd make me look like a sieved myself with a barbed wire fence in the dark! Wow!" he ended jollingly, after which he raised his feet to rest them upon the pure, unsoiled, top of Miss Migger's desk. "Geoffrey's desk,' And—that he added, which seemed a fact, but which was changed, by the alchemy of time and circumstance, into the form of darkest tragedy. And Miss Migs, giggling, with a quick motion of agile fingers put his words in crude typing and on paper.

CHAPTER 10

"The Brains of the office," Old Bleaker chuckled, was trying to think up a message for you, dearie. Geoff has made off at two thirty-five and a quarter to get his neck over another financial rope, and he's left us the job. He loves you when he has nothing else to do, but not as he loves bulling the market. The Caitch did get as far as dictating 'My-dearest-missing-you-horribly' but there he stopped, threw over the job, and where do we go from here? Yours with love and kisses, Geoffrey.' Old Bleaker, Jimmy and the office boy—"

This seemed, to the group, a distinct way of ending a letter. Miss Migger giggled until her little face was a uniform, delicate pink and Jimmy who too had been laughing forgot his laughter from watching her.

Luther had disappeared, whistling through his teeth, and he now returned. Now he reappeared with a betrayingly hungry glance, but she said, firmly, "I'm going to finish the real one before I eat—how do you suppose he looks in her? Straight, or kind of veiled with chiffon?"

WORKED ONLY ONE WEEK IN TWO

Sciatica Kept Him At Home

It is the wife who sends us this information about her husband's trouble. She writes:—"For some time past, my husband has been able to work only one week in two, on account of sciatica. He suffered so much from it that he could scarcely move for the pain. We tried many things, but without result. Then we saw in the papers an account of the good results that had been obtained from Kruschen and we decided to give them a trial. For twelve months past, my husband has been taking his little dose' of Kruschen every morning. Now, he has no more trouble with the sciatica, and is working regularly."(Mrs.) M.

Doctors estimate that one-half of rheumatic sufferers from some partial constipation. This condition results in an unsuspected volume of waste matter, which poisons the blood and produces sciatica, as well as many of the nuisance aches and pains from which people suffer. Kruschen keeps the organs of elimination in perfect trim, so that every particle of poisonous waste material is expelled gently, regularly and completely.

BOY SPEEDING TO HIS HOME BY RAILWAY

Parents Found in East Windsor After Long Search

CHANGED NAME

Road Horse Over 400 Miles But Stopped at Border

Lotellier, Man., Jan. 23—(CP) A homesick 13-year-old boy who attempted to ride a horse from Willow Bunch, Sask., to East Windsor, Ont., and had urged his steed on for 400 miles, was on his way to his parents today by railway train.

Norman Cass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Cass, of East Windsor, set out from his uncle's farm near Willow Bunch on Nov. 13 last for his Ontario home and had travelled to this little Manitoba border village before he was halted by Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers.

Young Cass, fearful he would be sent back to his uncle's farm, said his name was Roland Rainville, that he had been taken West three years ago by an uncle who had deserted him. He had worked on farms in Saskatchewan, he said, but because of the drought had not been able to collect wages and had taken a horse and dog for his pay. His story of a journey over the cold prairies in cold November and December stirred the hearts of kindly French-Canadian folk and he has been well taken care of. Efforts were made to find his parents in Windsor, which he gave as his home, but the fact he used the name Rainville made this difficult.

Changed His Name

Finally Mr. and Mrs. Cass heard of the boy at Letellier, a check was made, and they found "Roland Rainville" was their lost man. Arrangements were made last night through railway officials to send him to his parents immediately.

The Cass's knew nothing of their son's disappearance from his uncle's home until a few days ago, when they received a letter informing them he had left with a horse and dog. Royal Canadian Mounted Police stopped the boy through Saskatchewan and Manitoba but the change in his name threw them off the trail.

Norman related here, that he had been given shelter along his route from Willow Bunch by kindly farmers and had been provided with food. He happened to say, that he had an uncle living in East Windsor, Ont., and gave his name as Say Cousing and gave his name as Lawrence Riberdy. Windsor authorities quickly found the address and informed them of their son's whereabouts.

Today Mrs. Cass told of the boy's disappearing in 1931, that he is allowed to make the trip to the western farm with his uncle and expected to bring him back in two years.

"That would have been last fall," he said, "but because of the drought and crop failure the uncle did not have the money so Norman just started home by himself. Got homesick to stay any longer, I guess.

TWO ORPHANAGE BOYS KILLED BY BLAST

130 Tons of Dynamite Explodes and Rocks City, Seven Miles Away

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, Jan. 23—(AP)—Two 17-year-old boys are dead and 30 suffering from injuries today as a result of the explosion of about 130 tons of dynamite in a commercial warehouse near an orphanage on Governador Island.

The island is in the bay about seven miles north of Rio De Janeiro, and the city was shaken by the blast late yesterday. Hundreds of windows were broken.

About 700 boys living in the orphanage escaped uninjured.

FRUIT-A-TIVES RID HIM OF INDIGESTION MAN SAYS IN SWORN STATEMENT!

INDIGESTION suffered! To help you, Joseph Seacrow voluntarily made a solemn declaration of the facts to give you positive proof of what Fruit-a-tives did for him. He says:—

Mr. Sea Seacrow, Belleville, Ont.

"I do Solemnly Declare that for a long time I suffered badly from indigestion. Everything I ate would continued to get worse. A friend of mine recommended Fruit-a-tives. After taking them, it was not long before I was entirely well, and could eat anything without pain or after effects."

Sam Seacrow

A strong statement in the above effect was made before A. Gray, J.P., at Toronto, October 30th, 1933. Dated at Toronto, Oct. 30th, 1933.

5,512 VISITS MADE BY V.O.N. IN YEAR REPORTS NURSE

365 Given Free Care And 449 Nursed Back to Health

WHAT ORDER STANDS FOR

The ninth annual report of the Victorian Order of Nurses for Belleville, submitted to the annual meeting of that body last evening by Miss Germaine Dumais, nurse-in-charge, showed that during the past year a total of 5,512 visits were made throughout the city and district. Of this number, 365 children were nursed back to health. This latter total was made up of 265 who received free care, and given to new mothers who would otherwise have received care quite independent of their needs.

At the Child Welfare Conference held each Friday afternoon in the city hall, 327 babies and pre-school children were weighed, and 127 babies were referred to their physicians.

There were 1,798 con nursing visits made, 377 of these visits being made to infants and children under school age, where mothers were often unable to attend conference. It is here, that the nurse comes in contact with the child of from two to six years, known as pre-school age, that most of a child's life which receives the least attention, the mother being so busy with the young baby has no time to give the attention of the pre-school child, and these children get along either growing abnormally or developing various defects. In many cases these defects are not corrected until the child enters school.

356 Natal Visits Made

There were 356 visits made to 113 expectant mothers, 79 confinements and 20 emergency confinements, of which were eight calls, 675 visits to mothers and 660 to new borns, 1 pair of twins, 1 still born and 20 premature births. In all other cases, 139 post natal welfare visits were made to mothers and 618 visits made principally to infants under two months. These visits were made to mothers confined at homes or in hospitals. Our work seems to be progressing, since we had 322 more visits than last year.

166 visits were made to Consultation school from January to December, 1933, 1,000 were inspected each week, 33 defects being corrected. We assisted Dr. Faulkner in giving toxoid to 110 children. We also assisted Dr. Trunk in giving the complete immunizing dose of toxoid to 1,700 school children of the city."

"I would like to express my thanks to the Central office at Ottawa, and Miss Hamilton for their kind advice. To Miss Percy, whose visits have been very helpful and instructive; Dr. G. B. Cronk, Medical Health Officer, and the Belleville Hospital Sisterhood for their unfailing co-operation and courtesy. To Miss Bailey who resigned the first of July, and was appointed as supervisor at Belleville; also to Miss Mary Webster, Reg. N. for her good service while I was specially engaged to the Hospital for sterilizing our dressings; Mrs. Lester, vice-President of the city, for the free toilettes given to mothers, and to Mr. Hollister, Chief Scout, at the city hall, who answer our calls and will those who in any way help to make our work a success."

Respectfully submitted,
Germaine Dumais,
Nurse-in-Charge.

REG. MONCRIEF HEADS V. O. N.

Annual Meeting of Body Held in "V" , With Many Present

With Past President Fred W. Smythe presiding, the annual election of officers in connection with the Victorian Order of Nurses was carried out in the Y.M.C.A. room last evening. Officers installed for the current year are as follows:

Honorary President—Mayor Geo. C. Tice.

Past President—Fred W. Smythe.

President—Mr. Reg. Moncrief.

1st Vice President—Mr. T. D. Hunter.

2nd Vice President— Mrs. T. Holland.

Treasurer—Miss E. Moncrieff.

Secretary—Miss Hamilton.

Executive Committee has been named, and at the regular meeting of that body which will follow various chairman and remaining committees will be installed.

In a brief address to members present upon the opening of the meeting, Past President Fred Smythe before calling for nominations for president and other officers urged the various committees of the organization to co-operate with the job, and carry on in the same faithful manner characteristic of their past tenure of office.

Thanks Extended

"It has been a pleasure to preside over this Board during the past year," declared the Past President. "We have had perhaps one of the finest years in the history of the Board. Business has been good, and we have been able to carry on a very successful year with considerable confidence and hope."

Extending appreciation for the help and effort that each member had displayed during the past year in making his term of office easier, Mr. Smythe thanked each and every one of the Past President. Particular reference, however, was paid the sterling work of Miss Dumais and Miss Webster, nurses of the Order, and the most capable executives he had so quietly carried on.

Retired to the chair following his election as president for the coming term, Mr. Moncrief thanked the members for the honor accorded him, and assured those present that he would do his best to carry on the work as president.

"Following the lead of the initiative committees and the reading of report, I would suggest that the Treasurer's report submitted by her duly audited, be received. This report was thrown open to an informal discussion. Among the new officers present was Mayor Geo. Benjamin Tice, city council appointee, to that body.

MIX BUCKLEY'S WITH HONEY FOR THE KIDDIES' COUGHS OR COLDS

When kiddies need it most is the very time they "just won't take medicine" but they will take BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE cleverly if mixed with equal parts of honey.

How lucky this is for you because there's nothing half so good for children's coughs or colds as this fine old Canadian remedy. At the first sign of a cold, give the children Buckley's with honey, and you'll be amazed and delighted to see the immediate relief. You can give BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE with perfect confidence to the youngest child. It's so safe—so sure. With their colds as with yours It Ads Like a Flash—A single sip proves it. Play safe. Refuse substitutes. Buckley's Mixture is sold everywhere.

Directors of P. E. Hospital Will Resign in Body Jan. 30

Control Will Revert to Those Signing Original Agreement

At their Wednesday night meeting the Board of Directors of Prince Edward County Hospital resigned in a body, the resignations to take effect on January 30th.

The legal situation resulting from such action, as explained to the Intelligencer by Solicitor F. L. Ward, is that control of the Hospital reverts to those who signed the original incorporation papers. As was on January 19, 1914, just 20 years ago, that this agreement of incorporation was drawn up and signed by about one hundred public-spirited citizens, who undertook to provide Prince Edward County with Hospital facilities.

Special Meeting

That body of ladies and gentlemen, or rather the survivors of them (for some have passed away), have been summoned to attend a "special general meeting of the legally qualified members or subscribers of the Prince Edward County Hospital," which will be held on January 30th to elect a new Board of Directors, and to take action on "disposition of certain securities."

It is said that the disposition in mind is the selling of securities now owned by the Hospital, which do not come under the definition of trust investments, and re-investing the funds in gilt-edged securities.

Return Donations

At the Wednesday night meeting, the Board of Directors moved to have donations returned to those recently given in response to an appeal for public subscriptions, and this is being done forthwith. The Loyalist understands. A list of these donations is under-noted.

Hospital Open

Meanwhile Prince Edward County Hospital remains open. The staff was recently re-engaged until tuesday, the following "notice to quit" of a couple of weeks ago.

Those who have constituted the Hospital Board and who resigned as a body Wednesday night are the following:

Messrs. Rev. S. M. Scott, G. M. Hicks, F. B. Bristol, A. J. Downing, Colin Carter, E. A. Pearse, H. Vincent, N. D. Gilbert, D. W. Gullett, Fred Newman, Dr. C. A. Pubiow, Dr Morley Currie, Dr. S. AT THE BELLE

"Roman Scandals" Is Funny

"Roman Scandals," Eddie Cantor's fourth annual screen musical comedy now at the Belle Capitol, is an exceptionally heavy patronage.

Ruth Etting, Gloria Stuart, Verree Teasdale, Willie Howard, Edward Arnold, Verree Teasdale, and this year's crop of Goldwyn girls are all to be seen in the new Cantor carnival of fun. George Kaufman and Robert Sherwood wrote "Roman Scandals" as a successor to Eddie's "The Kid From Spain" of last year.

Eddie is seen as a wistful, brave, American lad from West Rome, who finds himself in the Rome of the Caesars and involved in breath-taking adventures among the beautiful slave girls, the thundering chariot races and the conspiracies of the Imperial court.

As a screenplay "Roman Scandals" demands more of Cantor than anything he has done, as well as eight talking pictures. His role is a humorous, bewildering story alert, mates between the simplest human comedy and the wildest nightmare of fantasy.

The gorgeous Goldwyn girls keep things with their dancing feet in Eddie's new tuneful songs that include "Keep Young and Beautiful," "Build a Little Home" and "Tax on Love," all written by Al Dubin and Harry Warren, except the last on which Warren collaborated with Wolfe Gilbert. Busby Berkely staged the dances. Frank Tuttle's excellent direction is reliable throughout.

The enjoyment of the Cantor musical is enhanced by the exhibition of a funny "Popeye the Sailor" cartoon, Hollywood on Parade, and the catchy melody — clever comedy — short dialogue.

AT THE CAPITOL

"FACING THE MUSIC"

A brilliantly conceived and originally staged comedy starring Shannon Lapinio, now at the Capitol theatre. Entitled "Facing the Music," this should have a special appeal to followers of all ages and tastes.

The story, in the main, concerns the adventures of a young man (Lapinio) who is left penniless when he discovers she is not his real father. Prima Donna's niece, but he is thrown out; he disguises himself as her chauffeur, but carries on untimely discovery, and even volunteers to take the place of the soldier's chorus for "Faust," but all to no effect. Eventually he manages to worm himself into the good graces of the prima donna's niece, and as her publicity agent arranges a stunt by which she shall wed and have control of the Jewels during the singing of "The Jewel Song."

"Facing the Music" contains uproarious situations— interludes of catchy melody and clever comedy.

BREMER WILL SOON RETURN

St. Paul, Jan. 23 (AP)—All signs pointed today toward a speedy release by kidnappers of Edward G. Bremer as safety St. Paul banker entered his 36 hours.

Friends of the missing man had received assurances, they said, from underworld sources, that he is still alive, and a heavy police guard was maintained at the home of Mrs. Adolph Bremer, as preparations were apparently being made for a final contact with the abductors of the 37-year-old president of the Commercial State Bank.

The $200,000 ransom, in old $5, $10 and $20 bills, not numbered consecutively, has been ready for delivery two days. These developments came swiftly in the face of statements issued by the elder Bremer, police, and Walter Hagen, a friend that new contact with them had been established with the gang.

PERMISSION TO KILL MAN SAYS WITNESS

Wrote That He Deserved to be Killed Says Accused

TAKEN TO WOODS

Believed Man Had Pistol And Was Forcing Attentions

New York, Jan. 24 (CP)—Mrs. Millie Prince, on trial for murder, today told the jury Charles Wolfert, she had the special permission of Wolfert himself.

"He took a card from his pocket," the testimony of her self-defense, "and asked me how to spell 'deserve.' I told him." Then he wrote on the card and signed it to me. He had written:

"Millie Prince, you can kill me. I deserve it."

He said a few minutes later, in his body were 19 stab wounds from a knife Mrs. Prince carried in her handbag and a bullet in his head had bought for her as a souvenir of their trip to Miami.

Mrs. Prince, 31 years old and mother of a 10 year old boy, told in considerable detail of the conversation that led to the slaying of her 57 year old admirer. He had "pursued" her for five years, she testified, accusing him of cruelty.

Compelled to Go

On September 6, Mrs. Prince said, he confronted her on the street and compelled her to go to a hospital place not far away, she obeyed his command in the belief that his continued ability to annoy her depended on it.

A strange feature of the conversation was the reference in letters Wolfert's death was that, despite its tragic portent, it was carried on according to Mrs. Prince's testimony most formally. She was "Mrs. Prince" and he was "Mr. Wolfert."

"He said, 'Mrs. Prince, I'll kill you,' and I said: 'Mr. Wolfert, how could you?' and he replied:

"He grabbed me and kissed me, and he said, 'I'll take you away, you rat. Your kisses are poison.'

"He picked up a rock and said: 'I could smash your head in, Mrs. Prince, with this rock.' I said: 'If I had any brains at all I wouldn't be here.'"

Law Is Severe.

The belief that organization of a national lottery sponsored by the Dominion government, with the proceeds divided pro rata among the provinces, would bring millions of dollars into the Dominion seemed to have appealed to Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, who admitted the present lottery laws to be too severe.

Answer to his lottery scheme had been voiced, Premier Taschereau asserted, but the Dominion Minister did not concur in his views, perhaps representations could be made to the Criminal Code to allow Quebec to conduct its own lottery.

FIVE BELIEVED DEAD IN WESTERN BLIZZARD

Three Children Lost, On Way Home From School

Winnipeg, Jan. 24.—Breaking of dawn today saw search parties daring swirling snow and biting winds as a dying blizzard was believed to have left five dead in its wake.

Sweeping down from the north, the storm began its destructive career a long warm spell in trap three children in Dauphin, Man., and a mother and her son in Saskatchewan. All five were sought without success by searching parties yesterday.

The children were Mary, 14, Vernon, 10, and Gordon, 8, daughters and son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hirtle of Dauphin, Man., and the Hanna district. The father struggled home against a blinding storm for his three children, lost as they walked three miles from school to their home.

Returning from a visit to friends in Zealandia, Mrs. Mary Gordon and her son John, 21, were believed to have died between their railway station and their farm home. They left the station during a warm spell and the storm was at its height and are believed to have been driven from the trail to perish.

U.S. NAVY BILL CARRIES

Washington, Jan. 24.—(CP)— The administration bill carrying $284,747,000 for the Navy next year was passed today by the house of representatives, 323 to 83.

High navy officials today pictured the administration fleet placed "on a business basis," as a result of the bill, which they termed "a sincere response by Congress" to the Vinson Bigger Navy Bill.

Chorus Girls Against Dancing Master Saying Grid Stars Not Good Dancers

Hollywood, Jan. 24 (CP)—Hollywood chorus girls are 100 per cent for Arthur Murray, the dancing master who says that anyone can learn to dance by coming to cresting and teaching new steps. But when he advocates dancing as a way to a girl's heart, instead of the more glamorous method of peaking for football to the chests of thousands, then, they say, he's all wrong.

At least that's the consensus of thirty beauties who dance for the movies, and they said so after hearing Murray's recent statement in trade.

New York that grid heroes are clumsy oxen on the dance floor.

And who should know better than this particular group of chorus girls, for within the last two months they have danced with the many-muscled gridders of the victorious Columbia University team, the All-East eleven and members of the Chicago Bears professional outfit.

In fact says the girls, the trained flexibility of a hip-jerking side-stepping halfback is more rhythmic than that of a chorus man, whose greatest ability is his chief stock in trade.

QUEBEC MAY HOLD LOTTERY

Premier Taschereau Gives Notice of Legislation to House

Quebec, Jan. 24.—Seeing no valid reason why the Provincial Government should be tied to the Dominion parliament in respect to the organization of lotteries, Premier L. A. Taschereau told the Legislative Assembly here that "perhaps" the Quebec government would organize a lottery of its own for charitable and educational purposes.

If indications were given that such was the will of the House, legislation to this effect would be tabled, he declared.

The Premier hoped that the forthcoming Dominion-Provincial conference an amendment to the criminal code would permit this province to hold a lottery if it saw fit.

ALL-STARS TO PLAY BENEFIT FOR BAILEY

Board of Governors of N. H. L. Take Note Today

DATE UNSETTLED

Every Club Will Have Player Representatives on Team

New York, Jan. 24.—The board of governors of the National Hockey League today voted to stage a benefit hockey game between Toronto Maple Leafs and an all-star team selected from among the other clubs in the circuit in Toronto at a date to be selected, all the proceeds to go to Irvin (Ace) Bailey, injured player.

Bailey suffered a skull fracture in a game at Boston on December 12 which will keep him out of hockey for at least two years and perhaps for life.

The players for the all-star team, two from each club, will be selected by the league's board of control consisting of President Frank Calder, managing director Frank Patrick, and Tom Arnold of Montreal.

It was further decided at the meeting them to Toronto for the game and all clubs' facilities are being extended free of charge so that Bailey will receive the entire proceeds.

WM. S. TRASK MANAGER DIES

Belleville Industrialist Passes Away At Kingston

Following an illness of some four months' duration, William S. Trask, late manager of the American Hardware Corporation of Canada, Ltd., here, passed away this (Wednesday) forenoon in the Kingston General Hospital where he had been a patient the past month. He was taken ill October last past after his return to the city from visiting the parent plant of his company at New Britain Connecticut.

Mr. Trask came to Belleville three years ago last April, as manager for his firm when it had purchased the Springer Hardware plant from the late Mr. Springer. His residence here he had made many personal as well as business friends and his passing is sincerely regretted by them as well as by other employees of the plant over which he presided. Mr. Trask not only contributed to the welfare of Belleville but into its social life, and became prominently associated with the Rotary activities. He took a most sincere interest in the Belleville Rotary Club and was constantly on the green with business premises. He was a member of the American Legion, a member of the Masonic Order in New Britain and the R.P.O.E., No. 537, of that city.

Surviving are a daughter, Miss Harold F. Smith of New Britain; a sister, Mrs. William Shelton also of New Britain; a brother, Frederick Geo.ge Trask in New York City

The remains arrived in the city this (Wednesday) afternoon and will rest at the Tickell and Rowney funeral home, 69 Victoria Ave., until removal to the 2.55 C.N.R. train Thursday.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 24 (AP) —Mrs. Harriett McIntyre, 83, grand daughter of Lieut. John Smith, died here today. Lieut. Smith, an aide-de-camp to General Brock, was killed in the Battle of Queenston Heights, saw the general killed.

Toronto Traveller's Ankle Is Injured

H. L. Lucas, traveller of Toronto, who injured his ankle Monday evening, is a patient in Belleville General Hospital, as a result of his fall. He had been first taken to Dr. Robertson's surgery, where an X-ray revealed a fracture of the ankle. He was then taken to the hospital.

Inquiry at the Belleville General Hospital by the reporter was met by the denial that anyone of that name had been a patient or is a patient in the hospital or that a fracture had been reduced.

Dr. Charles Adams later stated the man was still in the hospital.

Mr. Lucas' ankle is in a cast and he is resting easily.

WELLAND GIRL GIVEN YEAR

Charge Reduced From Murder to Concealment of Birth

TORONTO, Jan. 24.—(CP)— Agnes Fox, Welland, found guilty of concealing the birth of her child after being tried on a charge of murder, was sentenced today to one year in the reformatory by Mr. Justice A. C. Kingstone.

The sentence brings to a close a trial, which was featured by the Crown's refusal to use an alleged confession, which, it is said, Miss Fox was reported to have told of strangling her new-born child with a cord tied around its neck. Crown counsel also refused to accept the "confession" as evidence, when he found fault with the manner in which it had been "taken" from the accused. Police officers of Toronto and Welland, Ont., were present when Miss Fox made the confession.

Counsel for the defence, Agnes Fox was made soon after children playing with a dog found the newborn baby in which she had been living found in a shallow grave in a field not far from under a building. A cord was tied about its neck and evidence presented by the pathologist during the hearing indicated, that the child had died from strangulation, that strangulation and hemorrhage.

10 YEAR BAN MOOSE KILLING

Hastings County Council Concurs in Peterboro Action

Hastings County Council at their morning session on Wednesday unanimously endorsed the by-law resolution forwarded by the Peterboro Fish and Game Protective Association that the killing of moose be prohibited in Hastings County for a period of ten years. It was pointed out in the resolution from the Peterboro Association that animals represented one of the featured attractions of Hastings County tourist business and that their indiscriminate killing by authority of the Ontario Government was interfering with the policy of natural conservation.

The animals, explained the letter from Peterboro, were first liberated and were found in large numbers in Peterboro, Haliburton and Hastings Counties, but have drifted into these districts from Algonquin Park.

The letter was read by Mr. Bronson and seconded by F. N. Marrett, Tweed, and carried.

"Too much of this shooting will cause in the county", remarked Mr. Bronson, when the motion was carried.

A resolution to that effect will be sent to the Department of Game and Fisheries.

REFORMATION FROM CRIME

Rev. J. J. Clancy Tells K. of C. Members of Prison Life

At an open meeting of the Belleville Council Knights of Columbus held in the Separate school auditorium on prison life was given by Rev. J. J. Clancy, chaplain in charge of Kingston Penitentiary. The speaker was introduced by Rev. H. J. Madden.

Father Clancy was the first Catholic chaplain appointed to this penitentiary. Describing the day's routine of a prisoner he explained the work done by those confined. Rehabilitation, he said, is the hope to be obeyed and their exodus from prison.

The speaker discussed at length the question of the cause of crime, lastly, the most effective means of reforming criminals and prevent, ing criminal tendencies. The vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Grand Knight Thomas Cuthbertson and passed on by Grand Knight Terry Scanlan.

RELIEF FRAUDS BEING CHECKED

Four Arrests Effected as Police Open Dive in Toronto

Toronto, Jan. 24 (CP)—Four arrests have been effected and two more are wanted in Toronto as police opened a drive in co-operation with Civic Welfare Department officials to clean up relief frauds.

Appearing at the divisional court office in the Central Relief building today A. O. Smith and Clifford Chris'ina Abondo, alias Defoe, were arrested at their home and charged with making false statements. Warrants were issued for Joseph and Peter Abondo, charged with obtaining relief through fraudulent declarations.

Union Waiters Do Not Like Way Chef is Handled

New York, Jan. 24—(AP) — M. Andre Fourgeaud, a chef cooked up quite a stew for the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel last night.

The Union to which M. Fourgeaud belongs—The Amalgamated Food Workers Union—took exception to the hotel's action in discharging Fourgeaud, and called a strike. The hotel employs 1,000 persons, of 600 waiters, bus boys, cooks and helpers was particularly affected by the hotel's refusal to point, being the dinner hour.

Nevertheless, many persons had spread napkins across their laps in the hotel's several dining rooms at the moment the workers went out. After patiently waiting for as much as an hour, many became richelieu and string beans panache, they were sadly inquiring whether it was certain that Andre didn't work there any more.

Two Axes Fall

The management by this time had been led with few axes—Lucien Bonnet, the manager of Oscar, the waiter who without getting very far, and finally (with the customers fleeing) Fourgeaud and Langtiel relieved the customers to seek their dinners elsewhere.

Some customers had already consuming down to pepper and salt, and the drama of celery, but the hotel magnanimously charged this up to profit and loss.

Union representatives said they disapproved of the hotel's attitude toward their organization, and so they pursued they would go right along with the strike.

Furthermore, they added, they intended spreading the strike to other hotels and calling out 10,000 more and good health unto all their friends.

JOHN MINARD DIES AT 109

Had No Theories on How To Live a Long Life

Ingersoll, Ont., Jan. 24 (CP)— John Minard, last of the Oxford township, died this morning in his 109th year. He was a native of Ireland and spent his entire life here and was reckoned the oldest pioneer in the province.

Death came to him after a brief illness. The deceased used to have eaten a hearty Christmas dinner and was active enough to walk about until early this month.

He had no fixed theories on how to live a long life. After the township council of which he was frequently a member had been formed, but he offered no suggestions. He was an industrious man and followed farming as well. Four years ago he was photographed with a group of other West Oxford home.

Of a family of 11 children nine are living today.

Union Waiters Do Not Like Way Chef is Handled

New York, Jan. 24—(AP) — M. Andre Fourgeaud, a chef cooked up quite a stew for the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel last night.

The Union to which M. Fourgeaud belongs—The Amalgamated Food Workers Union—took exception to the hotel's action in discharging Fourgeaud, and called a strike. The hotel employs 1,000 persons, of 600 waiters, bus boys, cooks and helpers was particularly affected by the hotel's refusal to point, being the dinner hour.

Nevertheless, many persons had spread napkins across their laps in the hotel's several dining rooms at the moment the workers went out. After patiently waiting for as much as an hour, many became richelieu and string beans panache, they were sadly inquiring whether it was certain that Andre didn't work there any more.

Two Axes Fall

The management by this time had been led with few axes—Lucien Bonnet, the manager of Oscar, the waiter who without getting very far, and finally (with the customers fleeing) Fourgeaud and Langtiel relieved the customers to seek their dinners elsewhere.

Some customers had already consuming down to pepper and salt, and the drama of celery, but the hotel magnanimously charged this up to profit and loss.

Union representatives said they disapproved of the hotel's attitude toward their organization, and so they pursued they would go right along with the strike.

Furthermore, they added, they intended spreading the strike to other hotels and calling out 10,000 more and good health unto all their friends. While they were over, turning furniture, the waiters tried to ride, removed a roll of bills and attempted to toss it behind the bar. No one appreciated and the money was grabbed.

Behind the Door

They dashed to the door and as they were about to shoot, they would like to cut your throat with a butcher knife. "Don't you get up in five minutes."

An hour later the two men were in the home of Mrs. A. White when they reached the home of Chester Cowell, where they lived and compelled the occupants to direct them to London where they notified the police.

Johnston and McNeill believe that the two men passed and they think four men took part one of them staying in a car outside. The bandits left the home in the house knew of McNeill's roll.

The police were all in American bills purchased from the bank by McNeill before the robbers were exchange investment. He had shown the roll to a number before coming to live with Johnston at the New Year. Some of the bills had been held for several years.

McNeill says he had talked with ate-economist several weeks ago and for some reason, the man had mentioned the fact that he had known the man.

Provincial Police are still bunkin for the robbers. Neighbours questioned knew nothing of the attack or the loot.

Gesture Betrays Where Money is Hid When Hot Pokers to Feet Fail

Three Masked Men Enter Paper Hanger's Home at London

ROLL IS TOSSED

Burley Robbers See Move To Hide Money and Grab Bills

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 2. —(CP) —Defiant of hot irons applied to the soles of his feet by three burly robbers, Charles McNeill, 60-year-old paper hanger refused to tell last night where he had hidden $350 in savings. But he was betrayed by a gesture when he tried to toss the money behind a bureau.

McNeill fired with Amos Johnston of Byron, 72-year-old farmer in a semi-brick and rather lonely house on the 5th Concession, London Township, near a road leading to Pendield. The two men were dozing in their chairs at midnight when a knock came to the door. Johnston called "come in".

Three men all wearing masks and with coal collars turned up threw the door open and immediately seized Johnston. They threw him to the floor and brutally beat his face They knocked off and smashed his spectacles. One of them pulled a cord from his pocket and tightly bound the man's hands and then his legs. His legs were bound with neckties. A quilt was thrown over his head.

McNeill Awakes

It was not until McNeill, who had been sleeping on a couch, woke with a start and asked: "What's the matter?" that the robbers discovered his presence. They evidently discovered they had made a mistake in their victim for they immediately left Johnston bound, demanded the money which they declared they knew he had hidden.

McNeill despite the strength of his attackers put up a game fight and beaten. They tied his feet and when McNeill refused to tell where he had hidden his money they threatened him.

They then took irons, were placed in the wood fire and heated.

"We'll make you talk," one shouted and applied the iron to McNeill's feet. It was not hot enough to burn but it left a red welt.

When McNeill still refused to talk the irons were again heated and applied and began a search. They tore the mattress from the stove that had removed from their victims. Pictures were pulled from the wall and from their frames. While they were overturning furniture, Johnston managed to untie his feet, removed a roll of bills and attempted to toss it behind the bureau. He was discovered and the money was grabbed.

FIVE YEAR OLD HELPS WORKERS

A rather amusing sight was witnessed by many local business men on route to their daily labors, at the corner of Bridge and Front Sts., early this morning when a small child was seen diligently laboring along with the men clearing the streets of ice for the Public Works Department.

The little fellow not over five summers young, laboriously shovelled the smaller pieces of ice that had been broken by the men at work, as far into the middle of the street as his strength would allow. Many a passing citizen stopped and gave the lad words of encouragement but he unchalalantly ignored the majority of questions hurled in his direction, so interested was he in his endeavours.

The kiddie had a small shovel of his own and manipulated it in a manner that would put to shame many who daily use such implements. Practically all morning the little fellow kept up his vigil of trying to clear all of the ice from the vicinity of the corner of Bridge and Front streets. His labors should at least warrant a monstrous appetite for the noon-day meal.

WARN OWNERS TO LOCK GARAGE DOORS

Residents in certain sections of the East Hill wish to warn their neighbors against leaving their garage doors unlocked. The thaws and freezings of recent weeks have left many entrances to garages in such shape that doors are nearly impossible to open and locked. Two residents on East Bridge Street have lost gasoline from their cars in the past two weeks. Their warning is thoughtful and apparently timely.

HAPPILY WED FOR 61 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. John Bryant of Thurlow Honored by Friends

Plainfield, Jan. 24 (Special)—On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bryant, who live on the eighth at Thurlow with their youngest daughter, Mrs. Arthur Casey, passed their 61st wedding anniversary. Mrs. Bryant, who is Melissa Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Reed of Pomfret, is eighty-nine years of age on Wednesday and has been in failing health for some years never living been very strong, although quite active and a life long worker in the Methodist Church, of which she was a member.

Mr. Bryant was born Clophill, Bedfordshire, England, on Aug. 23, 1848 and came to Canada arriving in Belleville when he was twenty-one years of age. His first job was on a farm in Prince Edward County with Mr. George Cunningham. The same summer Mr. Bryant went to Pomfret where he worked five years in a mill. He also engaged in threshing for twenty-four consecutive seasons. He erected a home in the village where he and Mrs. Bryant lived for some fifty years before coming to live with their daughter some four years ago. Mr. Bryant helped to paint his own house and from that went out to engage in that work, having painted practically all the buildings in Pomfret village. He has been a life long Conservative and cast only one Liberal vote in his long lifetime. He is fond of reading and each day pursues the Bible that was presented to him by the members of his Sunday School class in Clophill over seventy-five years ago. He has a wonderful memory and delights in recalling events of other days.

The aged and happy couple were married by Rev. John Ellis, Methodist minister of Cannifton. They have two daughters, Mrs. William Cornelius of Toronto and Mrs. Arthur Casey of Thurlow; five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

JOHN S. MOORE DIES AT WORK

Had Planned to Apply For Medical Examination

Fifteen minutes before "the time he had arranged to leave work on Zwick's Island in order to go to consult a doctor, John Stephen Moore, 37, was taken with an interval hemorrhage on Tuesday afternoon and died before the ambulance could reach the island. His home is on Grier street.

Moore was at work carrying gravel on a shovel to a low place of the ground when he was stricken. Jos. Cruil, foreman, "Scotty" Wilson, George Giffen, John Matthews, and Norman Glasper, his associates carried him into the building about one hundred feet away, and gave him what aid they could but he died within a few minutes.

Worker Gets Help

There being no car at the island, Mr. John Kane, one of the workers was taken on his bridge road, caught a car and hurried to the city police station and gave the alarm for the ambulance. Plain Clothes Officer Fred Izard and Constable H. Taylor drove to the scene reaching the island 15 minutes after the accident occurred, but Moore had passed away. Word was immediately sent to Coroner Dr. Cronk, who came and viewed the body and found an inquest not necessary. Later Undertaker removed the body to Bellerville.

Moore it is said had arranged with his foreman to leave the work at four-thirty o'clock, as he still was not feeling very well and wanted to consult a doctor. At fourfifteen he was taken with the fatal hemorrhage.

Medical Examination

All relief workers who complain or intimate that they are unable to carry on with the work allotted to them are immediately despatched to the Medical Officer of Health for the city for a physical examination. It was stated at the office of the Central Relief Bureau today.

The late John Stephen Moore had never stated to relief officers that he had been otherwise than healthy and able to do his share of work. He had not applied for a physical examination, and was one of the oldest workers on Zwick's shifts. He had not missed his shifts and was always present when his name was called, stated officials of the Bureau.

News of his death came as a shock to the officers on Tuesday. Mr. Warden Soules, relief clerk, had visited the island and had observed Mr. Moore working. He appeared then to be in fair health, and was carrying on with the job along with the other men.

W'th Works Department

According to City Engineer Chas. A. Mott, the late Mr. Moore had been one of the oldest workers under the system of relief work, and had been employed steadily before work on the island, storm sewer construction. Prior to that he had been given odd jobs by the public works department. "As far as I know he had never made a complaint when he was unable to work and he always seemed willing and anxious to do his share," stated Mr. Mott.

"Mr. Moore had intended to apply for a physical examination the same day he died," stated Mr. J. S. Henderson, a fellow worker, who felt a little ill that day and the day before, and he was given one of the lightest jobs on the island." added Mr. Henderson. The job Mr. Moore was engaged in was shovelling gravel from a bank and carrying it a few paces on a shovel to fill in a low spot in the ground.

"Although he put in the day he told companions on the work that he didn't feel so good, and when he came off the shift he intended to go to the doctor and have an examination made that day."

"I knew Mr. Moore as one of the best workers on the job, but I never heard him complain of being unable to carry on. . . . He's been with the work since we first started on the job, before, and never ever missed a shift."

ELDORADO DOWNED

Eldorado, Jan. 24 (Special) — For the second time within a week the Queensboro pucksters downed the Eldorado aggregation here on Saturday night by a 7 to 3 score in a regular Central Ontario fixture. Despite the fact that the homesters carried the play for the greater portion the good work of Baker in the visitors' goal repeatedly kept the Eldorado marksmen from the score sheet.

Rollins, Hayton and Thompson led the scorers for the winners, while Hunter and Thompson looked best for the losing team.

Quensboro — Goal, Baker; defence, Love and Graves; centre, Hayton; wings, Thompson and Rollins; subs, Sager, Courtney, Greenman.

Eldorado — Goal, Empey; defence, Hunter and Shaw; centre, Vallieres; wings, Chambers and Shewfelt; subs, Dale, Bailey, Mcadam.

CANADA LIFE ASSETS GROW BY MILLIONS

Past Year Strengthens Immensely Position of Company

Commenting that a continuance of the Company's strength was shown in the balance sheet, Leighton McCarthy, President, in submitting the 61th annual report of the Canada Life Assurance Company to the Annual Meeting on Thursday, January 18th, stated "that the year's work as a whole has strengthened immensely the fabric of your company and permits us to look to the future with optimism, and a vision of greater progress."

An increase of $8,956,646 during the year is shown by the Assets, which now total $226,843,892.

The Company continued its policy of "safety first" and wrote down securities by $2,253,807 to meet uncertainties created by the world wide depression. The report indicates that the Company's already large holdings of Government, Government Guaranteed and Municipal Bonds were increased from a total of $56,260,178 to $67,509,201.

New Assurances issued during the year, including reinstatements, amounted to $56,346,317. The new Paid-for Assurances included revivals and increases of policies, including dividend additions, totalling $57,082,617.

Assurances in force at the 31st December, 1933, amounted to $652,658,334 after deducting death losses, matured endowments and other terminations.

Payments of $28,058,226 were made during the year under the Company's contracts, in settlement of death claims, matured endowments, dividends, annuities and cash values for surrendered policies. Of this amount $19,886,582 was paid to living policyholders. Included in this sum is $1,900,000 for payments on annuity contracts, and $3,900,000 for dividends to policyholders.

Special tribute was paid by the General Manager, A. MacNutt, K.C., to the "Field Forces of life Insurance on this continent" for the great amount of business written in the interest of the Company and gradually reducing the loan. Such substantial amount, from the policyholders of the Company is a sure investment at six percent and will continue to rebuilds for him his emergency fund."

FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF EVANGEL TEMPLE

Evan F. Slater of Oshawa, is Speaker at Service

Sunday was a real day of blessing at the Evangel Temple. The second service opened at 11 a.m. Many testified as to the many blessings, they had received during the past year, whilst at the Temple. Evan F. Slater of Oshawa, delivered a very interesting message. Again in the evening many assembled in the Temple and a real good service was enjoyed by all present on account of the presence of God. Evan F. Slater preached again a very impressive message. Many young people as well as others told of the wonderful change that had come into their lives as they had come to the Temple and accepted Christ as their own personal Saviour. Pastor J. C. Kleinfelder gave a letter of appreciation for the splendid cooperation, unity and loving fellowship of the ever growing congregation working hand in hand

LT.-COL. E. A. GEEN

Lieut. Colonel E. A. Geen, V.D., O.C. Argyll Light Infantry, who last week was elected chairman of the Board of Education.

In Ontario alone in 1932, while 19[illegible] had been reported up to September 30th, 1932. The figures of drowning fatalities for the entire Dominion was set at 989 for that year 1932, a figure that could have been considerably lowered if many had previously learned to swim.

Assisted by the four members of the local Y.M.C.A. swimming class Mr. Morden gave demonstrations of the Schaefer method of resuscitation, while such features as saving a drowning person in deep water, the proper manner of approach to a drowning person were also given. The various styles of swimming and diving were the features of the evening as well as being of an educational medium. Thirteen different illustrated methods were given during the program.

Miss Jean Morden sang two solos while Frank Hitchon delighted the club with two solos during the evening. Norman Alec Cordon accompanying.

RALPH MORDEN IS SPEAKER

Gives Address on Swimming to Y's Men And Later Demonstration

"Swimming is a national necessity," pointed out Ralph Morden, physical instructor of the local Y.M.C.A. last evening at the regular meeting of the Y's Men's Club when the art of swimming and life saving was the topic spoken on by Mr. Morden. Following the address the Y's Men were taken to the gracious Y.M.C.A. swimming pool where actual demonstrations of swimming, life saving and diving were given by four advanced pupils of the Y.M.C.A. swimming classes. Misses Marion Madean, Margaret Redfern, Messrs. "Jim" Andrews, and "Bucky" Calcher giving the splendid demonstrations that were thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

In his address Mr. Morden reviewed the early days of swimming and compared these methods to the modern manner in which man has so rapidly conquered the fears of drowning, by swimming and life saving. Mr. Morden pointed out that swimming was one of the best methods of physical training known, as every muscle of the body received a portion of exercise and developed a body building the same and sickly, that could not be procured in other exercises so widely advertised.

Lessen Drownings

Swimming and life saving also supply a medium to lessen drownings on which Mr. Morden quoted some statistics that proved astounding, when it was learned that nearly 350 fatalities were reported

GEO. E. JORDAN NEW WARDEN OF COUNTY

Reeve of Hungerford is Elected to Office After 5 Years' Service

ECONOMY PLEA

Council Adjourns Early Due to Untimely Demise of County Clerk

George E. Jordan, Reeve of Hungerford township, was elected Warden of Hastings County for the year 1934 by unanimous vote of the members of Hastings County Council at their initial session of the year at Shire Hall on Tuesday afternoon. Moved by W. N. Gilroy, Reeve of Wollaston, after a single nomination was seconded by Judson A. Gunter, Reeve of Bangor Village, to be carried by a standing vote. The honors of Wardenship which he receives culminates the fifth term of office as Reeve in the Hastings County Council, and two years as township councillor. He succeeds ex-Warden Walter Whytock, who held that office in 1933.

Following his declaration, and investment with the robes and chain of office by acting county clerk James Haggerty, who escorted him to the chair, Warden Jordan then thanked his nominator and seconder, and voiced his appreciation for the confidence that had been shown. He addressed the county councillors briefly.

"This must be an economy year," then all our efforts must be concentrated on the task of relieving the ratepayer from some of the burden he has borne during the past few years. To the chairmen of all committees I address the request that they curtail all expenditures to the limit and try and help in the reduction of costs. I can only hope that in this matter I will be given the same support and help that has been given my predecessor in office in the past and that I receive the same co-operation that has always been apparent in this council."

A pall of gloom had been cast over the session by the untimely death of Mr. W. J. Hamilton, county clerk, and on behalf of the council which he had served a sincere expression of sorrow was in order.

There wasn't much to be said at this time, and in the coming activities of Hastings County Council, actions will speak louder than words, intimated the new Warden.

Session Brief

The initial session on Tuesday afternoon was brief. Previous to the investiture of his Warden, a motion was made by Reeve W. H. Ketcheson of Sidney township, and seconded by Reeve Wm. Vert of Stirling Village, Warden Waller Whytock take the chair and preside over the half-hour's business. In assuming the chair the ex-Warden explained the unusual circumstances.

"This is an unusual procedure but all last year I adopted unusual procedure," he stated. "The best clerk any county ever had met his end all know, passed away today and there will be a big hole in his office to fill. It has put us all out of joint for the time being and those of us who were associated intimately with what he has meant to the county as a whole will feel his loss in a much greater degree."

Ex-Warden Whytock introduced two new members, Cameron Wallbridge, Reeve of Madoc Village, and Reeve Wm. Ellis of Marmora Village members.

On a motion of Mr. E. C. McCaffe, Reeve of Deseronto, seconded by W. J. Davis, Reeve of Bangor, Mr. J. Haggerty was appointed county clerk pro tem.

Eric Wills's appointment of Mr. Haggerty to the seat of county clerk, and the applause on the motion of Reeve McCaffe, seconded by Reeve James Spencer of Tudor and Cashel, a motion to adjourn, in deference to the lamentable death of Mr. W. J. Hamilton, was carried. A suitable remembrance from members of the Council to the family will also be tendered the bereaved family, along with an expression of sincere sympathy from the County Council.

THE NEW WARDEN

Geo. E. Jordan, who was elected as Warden of Hastings County for the year 1934 has had considerable varied experience in municipal life to guide him in the new office curving to the coming year. For the past five consecutive years he has held office in Hastings County Council as Reeve of Hungerford Township, and for two years prior to that was a member of Hungerford Township Council.

Born in Richmond Township, Lennox and Addington, he is the son of Edward and Margaret Jordan, and was one of four brothers and five sisters. Both parents still reside in Richmond township, a short distance north of Napanee, and the immediate family also live throughout this central section. Mr. Jordan has resided in Hungerford township since 1911.

During his term of office in Hastings County Council, the new Warden has held chairmanships on committees too numerous to mention. One of his most active posts during the few past years has been on the Old Age Pension committee, one of the most trying offices.

The new Warden is capable of an immense amount of work, and is counted on to fill the office in that capacity. His stand on economy and co-operation is unquestioned, and that is well known by fellow councillors and all those who have had the pleasure and honor as Warden of the county for the year 1934 will be fortunate indeed if they speak louder than words" has become a by-word in one county. County Councillors who now stand ready to support him on that platform.

WILL SPEAK ON PEACE GARDEN

Sponsored by the Belleville Horticultural Society, a banquet is to be held Tuesday evening next, in the New General Hotel, which will be open to the public as well as to members of the Society. Mrs. H. A. Moore of Islington, who has drawn plans for the Peace Garden at Prince's Island beautification, is to be the speaker of the evening, and during her presentation the possibilities of the island, will speak also on "Ornamental Gardening" and the "Peace Garden Monument."

CONSERVATIVE CLUB OF THURLOW TO MEET

J. Earl Lawson, M.P., for West York Will be Speaker

The Thurlow Conservative Club will hold its annual banquet in the Canniffon Orange Hall, Wednesday evening next. Both federal and provincial cabinet ministers as well as outstanding parliamentarians from various parts of Canada, have been speakers before the members of the Thurlow organization and Monday night, Mr. J. Earl Lawson, M.P., for West York, will be the guest speaker of the evening. With Mr. Lawson, Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P., and J. L. Ralston, K.C., M.P., will also address the gathering.

Wardens Elected

Wardens elected yesterday for this immediate district were as follows:

Hastings

George H. Jordan, Reeve of Hungerford Township, defeated W. N. Gilroy, Reeve of Wollaston Township and Henry Larkin, Reeve of Tyendinaga Township. This is his fifth turn in the County Council. George E. Jordan was born in Richmond Township of Lennox and Addington.

Prince Edward

Picton, Jan. 24.—Amos McDonald Reeve of Hallowell Township, was elected Warden of Prince Edward County yesterday. All members of the County Council were nominated for the office, but withdrew in favor of Reeve McDonald.

Lennox and Addington

Napanee, Jan. 24.—Gordon L. Hazlett, Reeve of Bath, was unanimously chosen Warden for Lennox and Addington at the inaugural session held on Monday afternoon. Mr. Hazlett has served eight years in the Council at Bath and is entering upon his first year in the County Council. He is a farmer and a Past Master of Maple Leaf Masonic Lodge, Bath. He is one of the youngest men ever to occupy the position of Warden.

Frontenac

Kingston, Jan. 24.—Reeve Canvoy O. Drader of the Township of Storrington is the choice of the members of the County of Frontenac Council for the office of Warden for the 1934 January session. Warden Drader is the first Reeve of Storrington to be elected Warden and he elected Warden for forty-one years; he was the first one from Clark's Mills to serve as Reeve of his Township.

Peterborough

Peterborough, Jan. 24.—Reeve Percy Davidson of Asphodel Township, was unanimously elected Warden of Peterborough County for the sessions of the Peterborough County Council at the new County Building presided over by Reeve Chris Steenburgh of Belmont and Methuen. There were no other nominations. Reeve Percy Davidson succeeds Reeve Thomas Dummer in the County Council in the session of 1931 and 1932, and now beginning his third term as the Reeve of Asphodel.

A. B. Loney Elected Chairman Frankford Public School Board

Frankford H. S. Team Defeats Stirling in Interesting Game

Frankford, Jan. 24.—At a meeting of the school board on Wednesday last Mr. A. B. Loney was appointed chairman of the board for 1934 and Mr. E. A. Bell was appointed secretary-treasurer in place of Mr. Bell who this year was made a member of the board in place of Mr. Ketcheson who has removed outside the school area. Otherwise the board is re-organized the same members as last year, Mr. C. B. Patrick was appointed school attendance officer for January.

At a recent meeting of the village council Mr. Jas. Lockwood was appointed night constable and will be available for some duties.

Hockey Game.

Frankford Continuation School with only a few seconds to go in an inter-school hockey game on Friday night tied the score and won in the overtime period by a score of 2-1. Stirling High School, the opponents team, though short some of their regular men, kept in the lead almost throughout the game and forced the Frankford sextet to put forth their best effort of the season. The spectators showed keen interest in the game and were proud of the efforts of these rising hockey players.

Stirling scored first in the first period when Brenda beat Lawrence for an early goal. Loney later evened this up. Frankford gave their best exhibition of hockey of the season during the second period. A Rodgers and D. Rodgers of Stirling each scored one while Frankford scored two, Loney and Dafoe. The game and particularly the third frame was marked by several brace offences all of which earned three minutes penalties. The four referees left to play Dafoe repeatedly charged the Stirling goal and was rewarded with a goal only when a referee intervened. Loney and Dafoe while O'Malley handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

Stirling—Goal, Bill Morton; defence, Jones and Holmes; forwards, A. Rodgers, D. Rodgers, L. Brooks.

Frankford — Goal, Lawrence; defence, Bogdet and Loney; forwards, McGillivray, Dafoe, Lockwood; subs, F. Loney, E. Dafoe, E. Finnigan.

ELDERLY PAIR TORTURED BY TWO BANDITS

Hot Irons Used to Force Men to Hand Over $300

SEARCH DISTRICT

Naked Body of One Seared While Other Helpless to Aid

London, Ont., Jan. 24 (CP)—Ontario Provincial Police today searched the district around Hyde Park for three unidentified men said to have obtained $300 from Allen Johnson, 70 year old London township resident, by torturing him with hot irons.

The search was launched last night by Inspector T. W. Coombes of London, after he had informed neighbors of the aged man had told city police had been tortured and robbed. Coumes rushed immediately to the scene with several constables.

The story neighbors told was that three men entered Johnson's home, overpowered him and his companion named McNeill and sought to learn where Johnson had hidden his savings. Johnson, they said, at first refused to reveal where his money was placed. Then the men threatened sly struck him in the face breaking his plates and cutting them.

On his continued refusal, the ruffians poured hot coals on the enraged, stripped Johnson of his upper garments, heated irons in the stove and seared the naked body while McNeill looked on, helpless to aid his friend.

Finally, they said, Johnson broke down and revealed where his savings were cached. He was said to be suffering from painful burns while he and McNeill were described as suffering from shock.

PAINTINGS ARE SAVED

Valued at $50,000, Are Carried From House By Friends

Toronto, Jan. 24 (CP)—Oil paintings and miniatures said to be worth $50,000 were carried safely from the burning home of Joshua Smith, their painter, after fire had broken out in the basement.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their 17-year-old son, James escaped through the front door and Mrs. A. Beggs, servant, by the back entrance. Mrs. Smith, unaided, her dog, "Danny," an Irish Terrier.

Police and firemen carried the paintings from Mr. Smith's studio and from other rooms in the house, removing many from the frames.

Estimate of the damage was not available immediately, but a considerable amount of valuable furniture was said to have been destroyed.

ALL OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED

St. Andrew's Church at Roslin Holds Meeting

Roslin, Jan. 24.—The congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held their annual meeting in the church on Tuesday evening, January 23rd with a good attendance.

Rev. D. C. Hill acted as chairman and Mrs. Hill as secretary for the meeting.

Meeting was opened with devotional exercises conducted by the pastor.

The various reports were given. Election of officers followed resulting in all the old officers being re-elected.

At the conclusion of the business meeting all repaired to the vestry and thoroughly enjoyed an oyster supper and social gathering.

Mr. H. Sayers and Mr. and Mrs. J. Knight entertained fifteen of their relatives and friends at the home of the latter on Wednesday evening, January 13, in honor of Mr. Sayers' birthday. Cards were merrily celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ish, Dr. and Mrs. Bleecker and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grey were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Grey on Wednesday evening.

The annual meeting of the United church was held in the church on Wednesday evening with a good attendance.

DEATH TOLL NOW AT 25,000

Months Will be Required to Estimate Total in Quake

Calcutta, Jan. 24.—An appaling toll beyond any previously limited may be reached in India's earthquake dead, it was indicated today as the Rajah of Monghyr said deaths in Monghyr alone have reached 25,000.

It will be months, he added, before ruins can be searched to reveal the incalculable bodies buried by the earthquake last week which shook the region during the important Hindu festival of Ekhil Pitri. The Rajah predicted two generations will pass before the devastated areas can be rebuilt.

The district of Monghyr is in northeastern India in the Bagalpur division of Bihar and Orissa. It has an area of 3,527 square miles, is divided by the Ganges. To the north of the Sacred River is a flat, closely cultivated country, subject to periodic floods. To the south, the country is dry and less fertile; irrigation is necessary.)

An unusual engineer was quoted today as having declared after a survey for the nawab of Monghyr and Muzaffarpur might as well be erased from the map.

Authorities generally appear anxious to conceal the true proportions of the disaster, but nothing can hide the fact that in India's history has been an exceptionally grim year. Here is what Sir Frederick Treves, Bart., says about it in his book "The Cradle of the Deep."

"There can hardly be a spot that, for its size has played a more stirring part in the history of arms or in the chronicles of the British navy

BEAUTY AND BLOODSHED IN THE DAYS OF YORE

One of the most beautiful and dainty islands called on by the Steamship "Lady" lines is that of St. Lucia, in the British West Indies. Its greatest length is only 27 miles but its history has been an exceptionally stirring one. Here it was Sir Frederick Treves, Bart., says about it in his book "The Cradle of the Deep."

"There can hardly be a spot that, for its size has played a more stirring part in the history of arms or in the chronicles of the British navy and army. There is no dot of land that has been so strenuously fought for, as this too fair island. St. Lucia is the Helen of the West Indies. She has been the cause of more bloodshedding than was ever provoked by Helen of Troy. Seven times was it held by the English, and seven times by the French. For no less than 150 years it was the arena of the most bitter and deadly strife. Whenever war broke out between England and France, the call was at once rang out in the West was ever the same: 'To St. Lucia! To St. Lucia!'"

LARGER CHEESE FACTORIES NEEDED IN EASTERN ONTARIO

Geo. H. Barr Dairy Instructor Submits Year's Report

From the annual report of Geo. H. Barr, chief dairy instructor for Ontario, the following figures are gleaned for the cheese industry. Averages are given throughout, first for the entire province and then for the eastern and western portions of it with Toronto the dividing line.

For Ontario there was an average of 35 patrons to each cheese factory; the average number of cows to a factory was 365 with a little more than 10 cows averaged to each patron. The factories produced an average of 105,869 lbs. of cheese, the average value of cheese per cow was $29, the average to each patron $291 and to each factory about $10,350.

The averages for Eastern Ontario running in the same order as given for the province, were: cheese factories 33, cows 348 and 10, pounds per factory 96,764, value of cheese per cow $27, per patron $281, and per factory $9054. And for Western Ontario in like order, patrons 56, cows 339 and 9, pounds per factory 114,668, value of cheese per cow $35, per patron $358, and per factory $14,003.

As has been pointed out by authoritative speakers at dairy meetings the past several years there is a need for larger factories, centrally located to reduce the cost of production of cheese. The figures from Barr's report bear this out as a comparison between the eastern and western parts of the province will show.

LATE W. H. NUGENT

William H. Nugent, county clerk, whose death occurred yesterday after a long illness, was an outstanding authority on municipal problems and law. His long service in his own municipality of Wollaston where he was born and afterwards as a member of the Hastings County Council and later as clerk, gave him an experience which made it possible for him to make a large contribution to the study of municipal problems.

As clerk he served Hastings long and faithfully, and as an official of provincial organizations of Good Roads and the Municipal Association he served the province of Ontario well.

Mr. Nugent always had the natural possibilities of Hastings before him and was an ardent advocate of publicity on behalf of the mineral and other natural resources of this county.

He will be greatly missed as he was one of the links which cemented the city and rural interests.

His plucky fight against a long illness borne with patience was the admiration of his many friends and his death at the comparatively early age of sixty-two years will be regretted throughout Hastings, this district, and the province.

INFLUENCE OF MOTOR CAR

Those who see new cities growing up or at least suburbs developing should give a little of the credit to the motorcar which has made it possible for the smaller cities to no account and in the larger cities has made possible speeding to appointments and offices. Mayor Rinfret of Montreal declared at the opening of the motor show in Montreal that overcrowding in the large cities was prevented by the car and that the constant progress in planning and carrying out of municipal works of expansion must be credited to the automobile.

Those who recall days not so long past know that the same progress has been marked in the country districts. There would not be the fine roads there are across the province for the fine country roads were it not for the motorcar which has reduced time in travel and brought produce from the far-away to the best markets. And the city dweller can make his way into the country.

The motorcar is the index of prosperity and development. Engineers have made the motorcar safe for travel and indeed through their product have started a transformation of living conditions which will not end until far greater changes have been accomplished than have yet been seen.

Beautification of cities and towns owes much to the car. There was a time when some side streets did not have the neat appearance they have today because it was not necessary for the owners to have their grounds and dwellings and old barns looking spick and span because so many persons did not see them as today. Those who motor imbibe new ideas and seeking well kept lawns strive to emulate them. The car brings back not only goods from the city but a handful of ideas to be transplanted in the smaller centres.

FEWER WITH BIG INCOMES

Rather a ticklish problem is facing the taxers. The rich who played a great part in bearing the tax burdens in the United States are reducing. That is their numbers are reducing. Where there were 513 persons a couple of years ago in the United States with a million income a year, there are but 204 liable to tax with that income.

This means the huge sources of taxes from the wealthy will fall off and unless the taken from the harder will become heavier and heavier on those who pay taxes until the recovery is well on the way.

Councils are pulling in their belts to make money to be put into the hands which are held down by uncontrollable expenditure, the controllable being a small amount of the annual expenditures.

Peterborough Examiner speaking of the "soak the millionaire" policy, says that those who have such a plan had better get to work as the day is not far off when they will not have so great a chance owing to the mortality among those with the million dollar annual income. Individual taxpayers last year numbered twenty who admitted an income of a million dollars or more. The total income of this group amounted to $35,239,566, and of this the U. S. government took $15,534,321. The ultra-rich are dwindling fast in the million dollar income class.

I think it must be somewhere be written, that the virtues of the mothers shall be visited on their children as well as the sins of the fathers.—Dickens.

GOOD-BYE

I shall not be upon the quay
Amid the noisy crowd
Of those who surge around and cry
That precious word aloud.

For we have said good-bye among
The heather on the hill,
Where summer peace was everywhere,
And all the birds were still.

And so, when friends press close around
With eager, outstretched hand,
I shall be there upon our hill,
But you will understand.

DIED, PREMATURELY, radioed to death, "The Last Round-up", immediate cause of death, sung by Will Rogers, cowboy humorist philosopher, Sunday evening in radio broadcast. Incidentally Will claimed an alibi, but a conviction must be recorded against him,—passing the buck to George will not wash. Incidentally Will cleared up the meaning of "little dogie" in the song, "move along little dogie, move along." A dogie is a calf, says Will, and he knows for he nursed hundreds of them. Dogie and deacon are not far removed, so perhaps that's where we got the name "deacon skin". Incidentally again, Will said that he should not be taken seriously, his mission in life being only to entertain and amuse. His suggestion that ex-Presidents should be given important jobs in the government and their knowledge of national affairs was taken seriously by many, says he. Surely they did not suppose that a suggestion with Will as merit would be taken seriously by Congress.

FARMERS HAVE BEEN HAVING a tough break all over the world, but the South African farmer who found a huge diamond on his farm once sunk his hoe-doo, if any. He sold the diamond for $350,000, bought a frock coat and a silk hat, and decided to farm on a larger scale than ever, with special attention to diamonds. The native boy who helped him find the wonderful gem will be installed on the farm with his family with liberty to do what he pleases.

BE PLEASANT BUT FIRM IN CONVICTIONS

Strong Personality Not Influenced by Whims of Others

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D., Famous Authority on Health and Psychology.

Copyright 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.).

If you cannot please everybody it does not follow, of course, that you must try to please anybody.

The possessor of a sweet, amiable, obliging disposition has a distinct asset. Such a personality readily wins friends and will undoubtedly carry its owner far. That, and always trying to give way to the wishes of everybody are quite different. The latter is the very antithesis of personality.

Trying to please everybody makes an individual soft and spineless and is one of the best ways of losing friends. We should be affable, but strong in our convictions. We should be polite, but never willing, for the sake of politeness, to give up a principle.

Upstanding, sturdy character is always respected. Strong forceful personality never commands the playthings of the whims of other people.

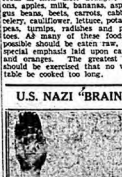
Genuine friendship is always well worth trying to win. But you must not try it through trying to please. Sometimes friendship is won that way, but it never lasts. Your friends like you and stick by you through thick and thin because of what you are, not because of your bowing and scraping and homage that you pay to them.

We must not, however, assume that a determination not to please everybody implies a rude, rough and aloofness. Tact is always desired, and justly so. A boorish person is regularly avoided. A grouch gets on everybody's nerves. A know-it-all bores to extinction.

At times such as these swing the pendulum of personal independence too far in the opposite direction.

It has been said that an individual should be judged by the enemies, rather than by the friends, that he makes.

The idea is worth thinking over. It means that friends are kind and forgiving and overlook faults—all of which an enemy never does. If a man or woman numbers among his enemies shady types of persons, the chances are that that man or woman is not a shady type himself.



But, although pleasantness can be overdone, a little of it every day and profusely distributed would certainly make this world of ours a happier place to live in. Be pleasant as a matter of routine, but never overdo it. Watch your pleasantness the same as you would watch your unpleasantness.

Make pleasantness automatic. It will pay you in the long run, and how well it works! It makes the hard road of life smoother for you. It attracts attention and makes you desirable. It doesn't exaggerate your pleasantness. Try to keep to the proverbial middle of the road.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Persons who wish to overcome acidity should stress the following foods in their diet: Oranges, lemons, apples, milk, bananas, asparagus beans, beets, carrots, cabbage, celery, cauliflower, lettuce, potatoes, peas, turnips, radishes and potatoes. Although all of these foods as possible should be eaten raw, with special emphasis laid upon carrots and oranges. The greatest care should be exercised that no vegetable be cooked too long.

LOOKING BACKWARD

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 24th., 1914

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Taylor who have been visiting friends in the city and vicinity, have gone to Toronto where they will spend a short time with Mrs. Taylor's mother, Mrs. Campbell, before returning to their home in Wapakoneta, Ohio.

Mrs. C. F. Anderson and Master George Anderson of Carrol, Manitoba, who are visiting Mrs. Anderson's mother, Mrs. G. Leslie, Bridge street, left today accompanied by her sister, Mrs. E. D. Swales to visit their brother, Mr. A. E. Leslie, Brighton.

One of the fastest games of hockey ever played here took place last night when the Belleville intermediates defeated Peterboro by a score of 2 to 2. The rink was crowded to the doors, over 1,600 people being present. Shortly after eight o'clock the doors were closed and a large crowd turned away. All the local players played the game of their lives. The following composed the Belleville team: Brotherhood, T. Brant, Goyer, Dunning, Whalen, Symons, B. Brant.

30 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 24TH, 1834.

If the water in Front Street, sidewalks had frozen last night there would have been good skating along the main thoroughfare.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the city council it was decided to recommend to the council that a grant of $1,000. be made to the public library this year. The money is to be paid in ten monthly instalments.

The hockey match at the rink tonight between the Belleville Bankers and the Kingston Bankers promises to be a fast game. The local cash handlers will line up as follows:

Some idea of the interest attached to hockey in Ontario may be gathered from the fact that people came from as far east as Brockville and as far west as Toronto in this city recently when Belleville defeated Peterboro.

JANY. 26TH, 1894.

Skaters and those who engage in ice boating have at present an excellent an unlimited field for the enjoyment of these sports on the Bay. Ice has assured the agency for the White Star line of steamships between Belleville and Liverpool.

It is something new for the river to be open in many places here the end of January but such is the case at present and the area of open water is extended.

Mr. F. R. Bingham is home from a trip to the coast. He will leave shortly for South Africa to look after interests he has there.

Mr. Wm. Cornelius of this city and Mrs. Bryan of Sidney left today for England.

The Bay City and the Quintes will play a match on the rink Thursday evening.

Capt. Nellie of this city attended the Salvation Army ball held in Belleville at Kingston yesterday. She sang and delivered an address.

Mr. Thos. Watkin, cheese buyer, will leave shortly for Montreal to buy stock and remain for several months.

A meeting of law students was held recently in the offices of Bell and Bigger for the purpose of organizing an association. Mr. George Anderson occupied the chair and when he was called upon during the meeting Mr. S. J. Young, B.A., took the chair. Committees were appointed to draft a constitution and to secure a place for holding meetings. Mr. Young for the next meeting which will be held in the office of Clark & Williams.

HISTORY OF KIWANIS TOLD

Isaac McNabb is Chief Speaker on 19th Anniversary

Isaac P. McNabb, former lieutenant governor and now executive member of Kiwanis International was the principal speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon at the Queen's on on Tuesday, the occasion being the nineteenth birthday of the Kiwanis club. President Eddie Shapiro was in the chair with Cliff Barrager as song leader and Claude Tice as sergeant-at-arms. Frank Domenico, chairman of the dance committee, explained to the members that considerable progress had been made, the invitations being nearly ready for mailing and solicited the members to give in any names. Hugh would desire an invitation to one of the smartest dances to be given in this city this season. The date of February 13 has been selected which is near Valentine Day and some extra features are being provided.

J. O. Herity asked all members to attend the business men's course of lectures to be given under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce by professors of Queen's University on subjects vital to the business world. The first lecture on "Modern Merchandising" will be given by Dr. W. A. MacKinnon on February 6. A lively discussion was participated over the matter but the decision was left for the decision of the directors to report at another meeting. The boosters of the day was Chester Smith, only bachelor member of the club, who was introduced by George Griffin. Chester was born in Cannington and educated in Toronto and chose science and agriculture as his profession and is now connected with the entomological laboratory in this city.

President Paid History.

The speaker of the day, introduced by past president Jack McIntosh as "Mr. Kiwanis" and his address was expressed by P. C. MacLaurin, stated that the history of Kiwanis in Belleville Club and congratulated the president on the splendid year he had and hoped the year would be satisfactory and would be a big one. Appreciation was the keynote. Mr. McNabb reviewed the work of Kiwanis from its start on January 13, 1915 in Detroit and has spread to every city in the United States and Canada. When the club was first started no one knew the purpose or the extent, that it would grow but to-day no one today has any doubt as to the future of Kiwania," said the speaker. "The question was the first president of the Detroit club and the goodwill established at that time has continued through the years. The growth of Kiwanis has been amazing and a short introduction said Mr. McNabb and he traced the history and the great growth up to the present time, there were 1800 clubs with a membership of slightly under 90,000. Asking what was the secret, the speaker stated that it was the mechanics and Kiwanis business. "The clubs were always run on practical business lines and the basics of the club was not based on sentiment but it did not overlook but on service to mankind. "It is remarkable how the club has stood up," said Mr. McNabb, "and the history of the club was never better at present." The secret of stability is the fact that the club believes in practical rather than in material values stated the speaker. Kiwanis is a practical business and believed that the Kiwanis Club would go on to greater heights for the benefit of the community in which it was located.

SAW SERVICE IN TWO WARS

Major General Charles Johnston Married by Military Men

Montreal, Jan. 24.—(CP)—Military men throughout Canada today mourned the death of Major-General Charles Johnston, C.M.G., former officer commanding Military District No. 1, London, Ont., and Military District No. 4, Montreal, who died in Hospital here last night.

He was born here and attended Royal Military College, Kingston, graduating in 1893. He joined the permanent forces and at outbreak of the South African War went to South Africa with the Royal Canadian Regiment. He was appointed Staff Director of railways for the South Africa Field Force and during the Great War he held various engineering commands.

Major-General Armstrong was badly injured in a motor car accident in France and he carried the effects of the accident for the rest of his life. He was brought to the hospital here several weeks ago after he had taken ill at his home.

FIREMEN ARE SURE OF JOBS

North Bay Council Tangle is Straightened Out

North Bay, Ont., Jan. 24.—(CP)—Dispute between North Bay City Council and the Fire, Water and Light Committee appeared ended today and the city's Fire Brigade seemed assured of their jobs.

The Council met last night to discuss the committee's report, declared unsatisfactory, and to appoint the right to "administer" the departments under its jurisdiction. A motion arose on the suspension of a letter the committee sent out dismissing members of the fire department, bringing to the city fathers letters of protest from various labor organizations and one threat of prosecution for breach of labor laws.

The resolution deleting the clause under which the committee considered it had a right to dismiss the firemen assured the men their jobs were safe for the time being. It allowed the committee authority to report to Council plans for complete reorganization of the force.

BUFFALO ADAPTED TO REINDEER CLIMATE

Three buffalo, two cows and one bull, from Buffalo National Park, Wainwright, Alberta, and shipped by Canadian National Steamships to Adelaide, Australia, in 1929 have succeeded in adapting themselves to the reversal of seasons. During the Canadian winter, the Australian summer, the Canadian buffalo arrived at their destination in the height of the Australian summer while they had still to cast their winter coats. There was some speculation as to whether they would manage to alternate their change of coat to suit the reversed climatic conditions, but only have they done so but a calf born in Australia promptly developed into an exceptionally fine bull.

LIBERALS TO FACE ISSUE

Stand on Freer Beer Will be Discussed at Meeting

Toronto, Jan. 24—The McQuibban Liberal group will meet with Provincial Leader Mitchell Hepburn before the end of the week; it is understood, to decide what line of action they will take on the B.P.P.'s if, as expected, they should be challenged by the Conservative government to show their position with regard to freer sale of beer in the Province of Ontario.

That the question has to be faced determinedly and soon was admitted last night by party officials close to the leader when the "Brain Trust"—an advisory force that has been organizing to assist House Leader McQuibban in his anti-government campaign during the forthcoming session.

Yesterday Liberal committee rooms at Parliament Buildings throbbed with the click of typewriters and the hum of talk as the several new "Brain Trust" aides, including Hartley Dewart, McMurrich, who has been engaged in a legal capacity, got down to the political policy, and Nelson Parliament, former Drury Government speaker, appointed chief of publicity, parcelled up and down keeping a watchful eye on proceedings.

Dr. McQuibban, who has been in the city for the past two weeks, was reinforced last night by Charles A. Robertson, new party chief, who came to assist the House leader in the coming debatory battle.

Interesting facts about present position of the Canada Life

Some salient features brought out in the addresses of Mr. Leighton McCarthy, President, and Mr. A. N. Mitchell, General Manager:

IT IS interesting to note that for the four years of the depression this Company paid out to its beneficiaries and policyholders a total of $106,042,245, or approximately $73,000 per day.

We continue our tradition of Safety First. When the world's financial structure was again shaken by the events which led up to the closing of all the banks in the United States, in March, it was a great satisfaction to the Directors of this Company to feel that their policy was one of strict conservation and the building and maintenance of reserves.

The total assets are $226,842,892, an increase of $9,956,646. We have increased still further our holdings of Government, Government-guaranteed and Municipal bonds, from $56,369,178 last year to $67,509,801 this year, or an increase of $11,140,623.

During the years 1930 to 1933 the Company's assets have increased by $53,075,224.

The diversification and distribution of the $226,842,892 of assets of the Canada Life is shown by the following statement:

	% of total ledger assets
Cash, Government and Municipal Bonds—
Canada, U.S. and Great Britain	31.9
Other Government Bonds	0.4
Public Utility Bonds	11.8
Railroad Bonds	1.0
Newspaper Company Bonds	0.6
Realty Company Bonds	1.5
Other Corporation Bonds	1.6
Preferred Stocks	2.2
Stocks of Canadian Banks and Trust Companies	1.5
Other Common Stocks	0.2
Mortgages	25.8
Policy Loans	16.3

The surplus funds and special reserves of the Company, after writing down securities, amount to $8,072,910. The surplus funds include provision for payment of dividends to policyholders amounting to $2,235,000 and $3,624,314 of unassigned surplus; the latter being an increase of $70,109. Reserves for special contingencies have been maintained at $2,000,000.

Our total net income from all sources was $47,597,925. The Company has made payments during the last year of $28,058,026 in settlement of death claims, matured endowments, dividends, annuities and cash values for surrendered policies. Of this amount, $19,886,562 was paid to living policyholders.

Using first year premiums collected as a measuring rod, our 1933 figures for new monies received for insurances and annuities combined are ahead of 1932 results by over $30,000. The field forces of the Company may feel very proud of having accomplished this splendid achievement in the face of such difficult conditions.

Among the many cheering developments of the year was the repayment on account of policy loans of $3,700,000. In the last quarter of 1933 these repayments were fifty per cent greater than during the last quarter of 1932.

St. John's A. Y. P. A. Honors Popular Stirling Couple

Girl Guides Group to Receive First Aid Instruction

Stirling—Nearly one hundred members of St. John's Church, the choir and A.Y.P.A gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Coombes (nee Alice Morgan) on Friday evening for a surprise party and shower. An enjoyable evening was spent in games and dancing and at 11 o'clock, Rev. A. S. McConnell, pastor of the young people called the gathering to order and presented them with an occasional chair and read table on behalf of the congregation of St. John's Church. The A.Y.P.A. and choir presented Mr. and Mrs. Coombes with a miscellaneous shower. The gifts were beautiful and numerous, ranging from china, cut glass and silverware to linen. The following is the address read by Rev. Mr. McConnell:

St. John's Church,
Stirling, Ont.
January 19, 1934

Dear Reg and Alice:

On this occasion when we meet to honor, and after your recent wedding, we wish to express in some small way our appreciation of your membership in St. John's Church. By your willingness to assist in all our activities and your interest especially in the choir and the A. Y. P. A., we know that your first thoughts are for the church. We feel pleased to know that you are leaving this district but that you will still remain staunch members of St. John's Church.

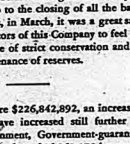
Your friends in the congregation, realizing your keen interest in the church, wishing to show their appreciation for your faithful services and at the same time, leave with you some little remembrance of this important event in your lives, wish you to accept this gift.

You can be assured that with them go the sincerest wishes for your future welfare, and the hope that God's richest blessings may be with you as you go through life.

Signed on behalf of the congregation of St. John's Church, Stirling.

A. S. McConnell, rector.

The young couple replied fittingly and after the beautiful gifts were inspected, lunch was served and a social time was spent in dancing and games. The gathering dispersed at midnight wishing Mr. and Mrs. Coombes "bon voyage" through life.



Girl Guides

The Girl Guides met as usual in the auditorium of the High School on Friday evening with Miss K. Mundy in charge. The meeting opened with the Guide prayer. Songs and games constituted the program. Letters to The Editor

THE SICK DOG

Editor Ontario Intelligencer:

It is the duty of the medical profession and veterinary also to prevent sickness as well as to cure it. In Asiatic countries the doctor is paid a nominal fee yearly to keep the people well, the people realize that an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure. This spell of warm weather is a breeder of sickness in the dog. What because the dog runs around hunting something to eat till he gets sopping wet and begins to chill, he then makes for the barn and the first but Madam meets him at the door and says: "You can't come in in your filthy state," so the poor dog has to lie on the bare cold floor of the woodshed or barn or dog house till chilled through and through. This brings on a bad cold which eventually terminates in distemper.

Now take notice—I have owned two or more dogs all my life and never have I had one with distemper and further I have never given one a shot of preventive distemper serum. When people bring their dogs to me to get a shot of serum I am very glad to accommodate them because I as a veterinary have got to live and if I did not do it the other fellow would besides there is nothing really wrong about it. Now how have my dogs always escaped distemper without the serum? simply through the care I give them and the way I feed them also by the clothes. When my dog gets wet and comes to be let in the house is taken in a warm bed near the furnace or behind the kitchen range and covered with an old coat or quilt and in a few minutes he is warm and dry and lies down to curl up he is perfectly dry and feels fine in every way.

Next his food is three-fourths his natural food, the bones being the result being a strong vigorous and healthy dog. he is fed all he can eat twice a day at noon or dinner time and supper. He will never goes to bed hungry and gets a good night's sleep and rest. In all my experience with my dogs I have never had a real sick dog, all they ever had was a dose of castor oil occasionally if I notice a tendency to constipation.

Yours truly,
The Veterinary.

PLAY GIVEN BY THE GUILD OF STIRLING

"Rest Cure" is Riot of Fun And Well Attended

ST. PAUL'S Y.P.S.

John Conley, Old Resident of Village Dies on Tuesday

Stirling, Jan. 24 (Special)— An interesting and entertaining play "The Rest Cure" was presented on Monday evening in the church parlours under the auspices of St. Andrew's Guild. The play, which was under the direction of Mrs. H. W. Mackechnie and the Guild President, Mrs. H. Disbrowe, was most humorous providing plenty of laughs for an appreciative audience. The scene was that of a room in a rest home, where the nurses are discussing the new patient, a fiery type author who is being admitted to the hospital in a serious condition for a month of complete rest and quiet. He enters with his wife who, after seeing him comfortably established in bed returns home. The scenes, that follow are a riot of fun, the nervous author complaining of every noise until the final scene finds him escaping from the rest-home with the help of a hospital maid since the matron of the home is out and the nurses will not allow him his release. William Dermody as the nervous patient played his role splendidly while Lenora Ward as the poetic hospital maid was a perfect foil for him. Trenelda Eggleton and Marjorie Bowerman as the nurses and Helen Ward cast as the author's wife all played their different parts splendidly.

Mr. W. L. Anderson acted as chairman for the evening and the fine programme was in charge of Mrs. R. Bowerman. Miss Jean Fine in attendance of members and visitors at the meeting. Readings were given on the program consisted of a talk "Rocks and Stones" by Mrs. Bowerman, a reading "Sermon on the Rocks" by Mrs. Ward and a reading "Along With Others." Life is a pretty "fair affair" for one cannot be contented with his fellow men and our ultimate success is in him. Life depends in a great measure on our adaptability to our environments character. The lack of congeniality and conservation of ideals is the reason for so many matrimonial ventures going on the rocks and there is no doubt verce courts. So our lives are just what we make them.

Mrs. F. Koffend sang a pleasing solo "An Evening Prayer" with Mrs. Woodward at the piano. Other features of the entertainment were readings by Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. R. W. McIlwaith; a duet "My Sweetheart, Come Kisser" by Mrs. Roy Eggleton contralto and Mrs. A. S. Mitchell soprano with Mrs. Koffend at the piano; a vocal solo "Mary of Argyle" by Mr. Arthur Dudley with Mrs. R. W. Williams at the piano.

St. Paul's Sunday evening service was in charge of the men of the congregation. The choir was classified the special music consisting of the Sunday service in order to give the male choir and a trio by Messrs. Hugh Dempsey, Ross Bowerman and Hildebrandt. The guest speaker was Mr. Harry Rowland a vice president of the Ontario School for the Deaf, Belleville, who gave an illustrated address entitled "The book "Cry Havoc" by Nichols.

The annual meeting and banquet of the Ministerial Association was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Koffeng on Monday afternoon. Group discussions were led by Rev. A. S. McConnell of Stirling who took for his subject "The Art of Preaching." Following the meeting a delightful repast was served by the ladies of Rawdon with Mr. Gilford Baker. Those present included Rev. E. J. Bell, Rev. A. S. Stirling Rev. and Mrs. Hunter of Madoc, Rev. A. H. Hildebrandt of Rawdon, Rev. and Mrs. Mellow of Ivanhoe, Rev. and Mrs. Rivers of Madoc, Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Koffend of Stirling and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lonibord, Rawdon.

Mr. S. A. Hatton spent the week end in Toronto with his daughter, Miss Aleatha and son, Clifford.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Dobbie, Joyce belle and Barbara, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. P. C. McGuire, Belleville.

St. Paul's Y.P.S.

At the regular Sunday evening meeting of St. Paul's Y.P.S., the President, Harry Rowland presided conducting the devotional period as well with Mrs. Rowland as the Scriptural reading. Miss Marion Jones was in charge of the remaining program which was of an excellent one. This opened with two solos by Mrs. Koffend "Whispering Faith" by Sir Thomas White and "The Land of Beginning Again" by Louisa Fletcher. An outstanding feature of the evening was the reading of the second edition of "The Rest Cure" by the Young People's paper by Mrs. B. A. Patterson, the editor. The paper was prepared under the departments, society and personal, editorial, lost and found, the Biggest Moment in My Life, church items of interest, coming events, Wise and Otherwise, poetry, suggestions and the Quilting Bee. Much the poem by Edgar A. Guest. "The Making of a Friend". The final number was a piano solo, Delicious refreshments were served by the ladies of the community assisting the hostess, coffee. Silver collection amounted to five dollars.

Hidden away beneath your fur coat should be a frock of cheerful hue, nice enough for Southern resort wear should you go there. A new model is a frock in turquoise blue novelty crepe, done in a two-piece effect. The bodice has insets of pleating tucks at either side and a large scarf of turquoise blue crepe has navy blue lines. The belt closes with a navy enamel clasp set with a turquoise colored stones.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

By Beatrice Fairfax
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage
(Copyright 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Donald is a young professional man, an engineer if you must know. He writes that he's becoming more hard-boiled every year, and he sees nothing ahead but the life of a lame-cat bachelor, eternally grateful when some married friend invites him to dinner and the children of the house dutifully call him "Uncle."

Donald has been engaged twice but, as he says, "managed to sidestep the wedding march." The first girl, Kitty, was lovely to look upon, but had an explosive temperament was given to typhoons of tears over anything went wrong, and to sunbursts of smiles when she got her way. "These smiles are Dolsall's, not mine.

When Donald put her head on Donald's shoulder and promise to be good, and she threw tantrums and cry when she didn't have her own way. Donald thought he had his glimpse of Heaven. But in the next minute she'd open the gates of the other place, when she smashed a house 65 miles from his office, which poor railroad connection at that.

She wanted a house in that particular town because most of the members of her bridge club lived there. In consequence of this, no wedding march was played for Donald and Kitty. But let him tell of his affair with Harriet, the next girl, in his own words:

"After Kitty and I broke up, I believe I would have fallen for a lady cannibal—race-ring, hair-furred up with thigh bones and all—as I was so lonesome and unhappy. Along came Harriet, as sympathetic-date as tomorrow's newspaper.

"At first it was wonderful to have such a darkest, lastrunless girl, one who took everything 'on the chin' and who had the most advanced views. Her feelings were never hurt when I accidentally or misunderstood. Nothing made her cry. She was that kind.

"Well, after a while all this hard, brittle stuff began to get on my nerves, and I wondered how she would feel about children, so I put the question to her. She said: 'Children are delightful—other people's children, I mean. I'll never consider having any of my own; they'd spoil too much of a thing it's one's freedom. Suppose I should want to quit myself, there might be the question of pesky kids'.

"I thought maybe she was joking, and I said, 'If you feel like that, perhaps we'd better quit now.'

"Quite all right with me, did she? And she broke off my ring as unconcernedly as if it had been a set of pinochle.

"Since the Harriet episode, I've been going to friends' houses and playing 'uncle' to the kids. But really, Miss Fairfax, I'm not the uncle type. I want a human girl for my wife, a bungalow with a garden, and kids who'll call me something besides 'uncle'."

Donald."

Please let me remind you that as one swallow doesn't make a summer, two girls—one a "fit-thrower" and the other hard-boiled as a picnic egg—do not comprise the entire set.

The trouble with you men who write me letters like Donald's and I get a-plenty—is that you don't take the right place for the right girls, and you don't look long enough.

You go to a party, or set out for blind date, and become fascinated by the first pretty girl with an attractive and amusing line of chatter.

Take observation of a girl from the background. How does she live? Who are her friends? What are her tastes? How does she spend her money? But did any man, whose emotions were touched, ever think wisely and warningly?

"Twixt Family and In-Laws

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am to be married next August. A long time was going over to do till the unexpected happened. My fiancee's parents want us to live with them for the first six months after our marriage, by which time their property will be cleared. My parents wanted at one time to build a house for us to live next door, but we said: "We wish to get away." So this was a surprise.

Now his parents ask us to live at their home and we say "Yes" when my parents found this out, they say: "Why don't you live with your home if I want to live with my fiancee's folks. We intended to be together in end three boys through college, but say they are unable to help us financially and I cannot expect for six months unless we come to live with them.

His parents don't treat me at all as if I were going to be one of the family, because I have found out from others that his grandmother doesn't care for me, and most naturally they listen to her.

M.

Between your family and your prospective in-laws, you seem to have almost a Romeo and Juliet complication on your hands. And my very earnest advice to you is to side-step future trouble by not living with either family, even if you have to put off your marriage for a year or two.

You have made that the boy's grandmother—unless she's made of money and her family worships it which can be the high hope for her grandson's marriage. Anyway, don't be rushed into any decision.

GO TO SCHOOL WITH MECCA & MUSTARD
Busy Mother of 6 writes—
"Just a line from a busy mother with six little ones, all subject to chest colds and bronchitis. After trying so many other things, I found just marvellous results with a Mecca and Mustard Poultice. It loosened up the cough and breathing was much easier. The little ones love with it on and there is never any danger of taking fresh cold, as after the old-fashioned Mustard Poultice.
Surely this is a heart-felt appreciation of Mecca. If your family is suffering from colds on Chest, Bronchial Troubles, Flu, Grippe, Lumbago, Chills and Aches, use Mecca, with Mustard.

James Conley

The death occurred on Tuesday morning, January 23rd. of James Conley, a lifelong and highly respected resident of Stirling, who passed away at his home here following a lengthy illness. The late Mr. Conley who was 87 years of age had been in ill health for a number of years.

Deceased was born in Stirling, the son of the late Jeremiah Conley and Elisabeth Green Conley and had conducted a business as contractor for his entire lifetime in Stirling, with his predecessor twelve years ago. Surviving are one son, Bert, and a daughter, Bessie at home. Stirling. Three sisters and a brother also survive and are: Mrs. Hiram Bey of Belleville; Mrs. Frank Hanna of Belleville; Mrs. Albert Wannamaker, Stirling, and Jerome Conley of Combermere.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2.30 from his late residence with services conducted by Rev. A. S. McConnell in the event of Rev. E. W. Rowland's continued illness. Interment, Stirling cemetery.

STRENGTH, SECURITY, LIBERALITY

NEW BUSINESS in 1933 reached the substantial total of $24,245,253. Evidence of the continued satisfaction and confidence of the Company's existing policyholders was demonstrated by their purchase of over 35% of this total.

According to the Company's stringent valuation methods, the assets aggregated $46,758,032 and the liabilities $41,157,978. The resulting Surplus of $5,600,055 reflects the splendid strength of the Company and the security afforded its policyholders.

In keeping with the Company's record for conservatism, the Invested Assets on which the Company earned 5.36% show the following well-balanced diversification and high quality: 12.8% Government Guaranteed and Municipal Bonds; 24.7% First Mortgages; 19.2% Policy Loans; 9.1% Corporation Bonds; 2.2% Bank, Loan, Trust and Investment Co. Stocks; 3.0% Preferred Stocks; 4.0% Real Estate and Sundry Assets; etc.; less than 1/10 of 1% Common Stocks.

Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries in 1933 reached the record figure of $5,996,924, bringing the total paid since commencement of business to over $70,000,000. Dividends paid to policyholders in 1933 totalled $1,431,116, the highest amount in the Company's history. Since the North American Life is a purely Mutual Company, all dividends are paid to its policyholders.

The Company's strength and security are indicated not only by the conservative values at which its investments are held but also by the resultant ratio of $114.00 of assets for every $100.00 in liabilities.

Liberal and fair treatment of the Company's policyholders throughout its 53 years of successful operation, together with the outstanding principle, and the success which it has met with, not only during the past year but throughout its long career, has justified this course.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 24.—(CP)—Outside of a good number of the International Nickel, the Toronto Stock Exchange had a dull time to-day. The volume of business to transact in today's early session was rather generally firm to strong however. Ford A and the distillery shares turned over in considerable quantity with the best prices registered in the first half hour.

The interlisted leaders, including C.P.R., Fort A and Brazilian were higher at the end of the second hour, Nickel touched 22.00 and held at $22 for a gain of 6 cents. Walkers Common and Industrial Alcohol were the most active of the liquor group. Walkers lost 3-8 to 52 3-4 and Alcohol was up 1-4 to 28. The Distillers Seagram, at 24 1-8 was unchanged and Brewers and Distillers lost up 10 at 2.75.

Distillery stocks worked lower around mid-day and prices were pared down considerably. In the case of Walkers Class A, a number of stop-loss orders were touched off and the issue was subject to 50 before the selling drive and later the price partly recovered. Industrial Acceptance made a point and Industrial Alcohol 3-8.

International Nickel was the market feature, going through the mill in heavy trading at prices ranging up to 23.30 during the first three hours. Smelters was active around 139.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 24.—(CP)—An early suggestion of a rally on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day failed to get the end of the first hour and by noon prices were back to the level at which they closed yesterday with a few exceptions. Trading was in special demand and the price stood at $23 for a gain of 15 cents at noon.

Lake Shore lost 25 cents to 43.50, Pioneer 15 cents to 11.80 and McIntyre 10 cents to $40 while Dome was up 15 cents to 23.15, Wright Hargreaves 10 cents to 6.95 and Hollinger 5 cents to 9.05.

Nickel was the only active issue of the Base Metal group, Noranda dropped back to 34.50 for a loss of 25 cents in broken lot trading.

Selective buying was apparent in today's operations and recessions and gains appeared in all groups. Heavy orders for International Nickel were reported, from outside points and a price advance of 25 cents was bounded by early afternoon. Other senior golds generally played the laggard while silver stocks held their ground and some of the other Base Metal stocks fell back.

Noranda weakened to 34.50 on small turnover, and recessions of a few cents each were registered in Base Metals Corporation, Sherritt and Falconbridge. Lake Shore, Pioneer and McIntyre drifted down 10 to 30 cents.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 24.—(CP)—Stocks gained some rather bright skies today and prices generally looked toward higher levels.

Trading activity in equities exhibited a broadening trend and the renewed demand for those equities which are usually favored during periods of devaluation, government spending and a revival in the basic ores and industry over a broad front.

Narrow movements characterized trading in Canadian Securities. Shares of Canadian Pacific, McIntyre and International Nickel were among the favored. Gains ranged on the curb Lake Shore Mines eased a point while Hudson Bay showed no change. Dominion Government issues, 1949-52 and some other denominations were about even. The Canadian dollar was off 1-32 of a cent higher at 99.31 1-4.

Bonds were fairly steady, the governments billion dollar financing terms being in line with expectations. Foreign issues were fractions in share trading, such issues as Saxon Pr, N.Y. Central, Norfolk and Western and Delaware Hudson showed gains of 1 to more than 2 points. Industrial Rayon advanced 1 1-4, while Auburn Auto, Case, Chrysler, Liggett & Myers and a number of others were up 1 or more.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

"WHITE WOMAN" AND "HORSE PLAY" AT CAPITOL THEATRE

Stuart Walker, who has been the leading exponent of the repertory theatre in America and Europe, and who is now a director at the Paramount studio, has produced another piece of delightful screen entertainment in "White Woman," the drama of which Charles Laughton, Carole Lombard, Charles Bickford and Kent Taylor.

Dramatic in its theme, the story revolves around Laughton, Lombard and Kent Taylor. Shunned by society, which has misinterpreted the reason for her husband's suicide, Carole seeks a livelihood as entertainer in a cheap dive on the edge of the Malay jungles.

There she is seen by Laughton, brutal trader and supreme overlord of the river. To escape his unwanted deportation, she accompanies him to his homeland there, far up the river.

Here she meets his "company"—four woman-starved white men who haven't seen a white woman in ten years. Surrounded by slinking, treacherous natives and hostile men, they live from day to day and the law, she meets fear-stricken Kent Taylor, a British army deserter.

A strange romance ties this strange group together, highlighted by native wars, suicides and murder, each delay bringing Carole closer to death and happiness.

The picture is excellent, and Walker's direction shows restraint in the handling of many difficult moments on the film. Each player turns in a splendid account of himself.

You all remember the excellent performance Charles Laughton gave in "Henry VIII", now see him equally as good in an entirely different role.

"Horse Play".

Feature number two on this program is an hilarious comedy entitled "Horse Play" featuring the well known favorite comedian, Slim Summerville.

It is possible for a man to love his horse more than he does his sweetheart? Does Kipling's statement, "A woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke" hold equally true for other proud possessors of man?

These are questions evoked by the story of "Horse Play", Director Frederick's hilarious production for Universal, starring Slim Summerville and Andy Devine in a comedy whose action is carried from the plains of Montana to the dreariness of an English farm in the Sussex Sherwood Forest outside London.

Slim owns a horse named Ania Ann, by name. He loves her. Alas, he loves Ania Ann more than his neighboring ranch. But Slim is a bashful wooer and can think of no more logical way to express his heart's flame than by presenting Angelica with a gift equivalent to the blood of his heart—Cynthia Ann, herself.

The hilarious situations that follow upon the bank of Slim's attempt to get Cynthia Ann overseas to Angelica and his timely frustration of a chabotical scheme to steal the girl, will delight even the most blase comedy fan.

AT THE BELLE

"Conquering Sex" Romantic

Francis Marion's latest romantic story for Metro Goldwyn Mayer, "The Conquering Sex" featuring Myrna Loy, Otto Kruger, Walter Huston and the new "It" girl on the screen, the greatest screen "find" since Clara Bow, is announced as the feature attraction at the Belle Thursday and Friday, matinee daily.

Romance...music...fun... and at times a keen perception combine to make this a "surprise" picture.

Helen Mann, noted photoplay critic of the Toronto Daily Telegram, in reviewing the picture during the sensational engagement at Loew's Theatre, Toronto speaks of it: "The Conquering Sex' is the following glowing terms: "The best picture of this kit of 1934, and we'll bet a little into 1935, too, just to make it more emphatic."

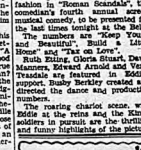
It is no longer news that Myrna Loy has turned out to be one of the most interesting and charming of the cinema's feminine stars, and in her current role of a night club singer she again more than ever proves her worth.

The Belle current News with its important, happenings is screen form.

"The Wronged Him Right" a funny and clever Novelette will be offered on the same program.

"Treasure" Gifts

"Treasure" night will be staged at the Belleville Capitol Theatre at 2 p.m. Two valuable gifts of Community Silver Service Treasure Ware will be given away. These delightful gifts are entirely different to any so far given away, and will make a welcome addition to any home.



Eddie Canter Leaving

Eddie Canter, the clever lively new song hits in his, inimitable manner in "Parade Sensational" the comedian's fourth annual screen appearance, opens to be presented for the last times tonight at the Belle.

The numbers are "Keep Young and Beautiful," "Build a Little Home" and "Tax on Love".

Ruth Etting, Glenn Stuart, David Manners, Edward Arnold and Verne Teasdale are featured in Eddie's support. Busby Berkley created and directed the dance and production numbers.

The roaring clarinet scenes with Eddie as Private Pete in the King's soldiers in pursuit are the thrilling and funny highlights of the picture.

Cities Service Wins Title of Kingston Hockey Loop for 2nd Year in Succession by 3-2

Defeat Hemlocks in Fast Game Before Large Crowd

CUP PRESENTED

'Oilmen' Had More Punch And Too Much Experience For Opponents

For the second year in succession, the Cities Service hockey team of this city won the Kingston City hockey loop, on Tuesday night in the Limestone City, tacking on a 3-2 defeat to Hemlock Dairy, in a game that was packed with thrills from the half-way mark and viewed by one of the largest crowds ever to witness a hockey tussle in that city, the attendance being 3200. At the conclusion of the pastime, Art ...ston, president of the league with his officials and the two teams with their officials gathered in the centre of the Arena and the cup was presented to Capt. Les Tice, who gratefully received the trophy for his team mates.

The "Oilmen" proved their calibre against a partisan crowd by taking the series in three games, the first one being a tie. Hemlocks' vision of another tie went aglimmering late in the last period when Joe Smith, the referee, refused to allow a goal that would have knotted the count. The goal umpire flashed the red light but Joe figured he was a little previous as the rubber hit the goal post and bounced out. Fortunately Smith was on top of the play and had the courage to call it as the play was seen and an orchid for Joe. The Green and White squad had a little edge on the Blues in the series, their defence being much sounder; they packed a little more speed on the front line and their experience was noted especially in the pinches. To Les Tice must go the credit for stopping the onward rush of the losers for he stood between defeat and victory on more than one occasion last night.

Too Much Hockey

Both teams showed the effects of too much hockey and the play was ragged and listless in the first frame and well into the second, although the Cities Service team picked up a goal on the most brilliant play of the night six minutes after the game commenced. In the third period the boys had all the kinks out of their systems and they turned it on plenty and the fans were given a number of chances to shout encouragement. Picking stars in a game such as last night would not be fair, but the palm should go to Les Tice and "Pete" Morgan, although the right winger did not bulge the hemp. Tice was impregnable in the net, while Pete made the play for two of the goals in the last frame and on both he made no mistake. He missed some chances but was good going both ways. Roy Covert and Nicoll played stellar games at centre, while the defence was sound with Bradd overshadowing McDonald and Sherry slightly. He helped himself to a goal and used his head when the going was tough. Peterson was head and shoulders over his team-mates and was used extensively in the bid for the pastime but he was closely marked by Harry and Carl Morgan and was held to one counter. He had the speed of the field.

The game was comparatively clean although nineteen penalties were handed out of which Hemlocks drew seven. The offences were all minor and there was not at anytime any semblance of open warfare breaking out. The referees ruled with an iron hand and some of the penalties on both sides could have been overlooked but the bell ringers were not taking any chances.

"Oilmen" Always on Top

Belleville had the first open shot on the twine and Peterson missed the open net which drew a groan from the fans. Then came the nice play of the evening. Red MacDonald secured at his blue line and coming to the defence shot, not for the net, but at the boards and Nicoll sweeping in fast took the rebound to beat Goswell from close range. The play was lightning fast and everyone had to admit it was a smart effort. MacDonald was thru' only to be tripped and penalties followed thick and fast due to the heat of battle. The score was tied after the midway mark of the second frame when the "Oilmen" with two men in the penalty box were unable to cope with the ganging methods used by the Hemlocks and Peterson netted a passout from the boards by Wilson. The play was even this period, although the Hemlocks had the more shots on goal. Both teams were overworked due to their team-mates going to the "jug."

Opening the third frame the Cities Service carried the play to the opposition and soon had them hemmed in behind their own blue line. Bentley was ruled off and how the "Oilmen" missed the net will always remain a mystery for the rubber hit every part of the goal but the open space. Then came the break. Pete Morgan secured from behind his own blue line and took centre and evading the opposition moved in fast. Covert raced across and Pete swung to his right and swept a rink wide pass to Covert and Goswell was beaten cold by a clean hard shot. Forty-five seconds later "Pete" again played the hero role by shoving out a pass to Bradd, who was camped near the goal mouth and through a maze of sticks and legs the puck was netted. Hemlocks then went on a rampage and did everything but score, but Tice was the stumbling block. He kicked, batted and threw rubber out until a faceoff occurred near the goal. Patterson flipped the rubber into the twine and then came the disputed goal. Thurlby was the marksman but Smith claimed the puck hit the goal post and would not allow the goal and as there were about three minutes to play, the "Oilmen" protected their one-goal lead and captured the hockey title.

The line up:

Cities Service—Goal, Tice; defence, Bradd and Sherry; centre, Covert; wings, P. Morgan and C. Morgan; subs, MacDonald, McDonald, H. Morgan and Nicoll.

Hemlocks—Goal, Goswell; defence, Murray and Bentley; centre, Matheson; wings, Patterson and Peterson; subs, Thurlby, Card, Wilson, Roberts.

STUDENTS WIN ANOTHER

(By the Canadian Press)

Although it might be a little late to obtain a top berth, Varsity is bound some place, even if it is only on a journey that will juggle Senior Ontario Hockey Association standings. Today the startling students had climbed over Kitchener into second last position by defeating Port Colborne Sailors last night 5-2 while Torontos clung to second place by defeating Niagara Falls 5-4.

KI-Y LOOP

Two games of hockey were played in the Ki-Y League at the Arena last evening, when the Young Canadians bowed to the Rough Riders by the score of 7 to 0 in a juvenile series game with the Nationals battling the Maple Leafs to a scoreless draw in a midget fixture.

For sixty minutes the midget game raged with neither team being able to bulge the twine. The Leafs claimed a counter in the second period, when Ridley rifled a long shot. The puck apparently did not enter the net as the official in charge ruled. The game was cleanly contested.

The line-ups for the midget game — Nationals, — Thompson, Sherry, Rowe, Ling, Scott, Keegan, Bishop and Wright. Maple Leafs—Moncrief, Logue, Clare, Ridley, Marchand Diamond and Bird.

Referee Don Lee.

The juvenile game saw a walkaway for the Rough Riders over the Young Canadians. The Riders scored two goals in the initial frame and added two more in the second canto only to come back and bag three in the last period to out-play and outscore their Canadian rivals 7 to 0. Carson in the winner's nets proved a stumbling block to the Canadian marksmen.

The line-ups—Young Canadians —Hainnette, J. McKenna, Stone, Knott, Rushlow, R. McKenna, Westlake, Goyer and Rushlow. Rough Riders — Carson, Cooper, Tapp, Doran, A. Rowbotham, Amo, Voisin, V. Rowbotham, Parks, O'Neil and Reynolds.

Referee—Cliff Howie.

N. H. L. STARS

Harvey Jackson, Toronto, scored three goals and assisted in another against Maroons.

Jack Riley, Canadiens, played effectively in Habitants' win from the Americans and scored a goal.

Herb Lewis, Detroit, got two of Wings' markers in Boston.

Frank Boucher and Bill Cook of the Rangers, picked up seven scoring points in their celebration game.

THE BIG SEVEN

Leaders in the National Hockey League's scoring race went on another rampage last night, and when the smoke cleared, young Charlie Conacher, who patrols the right boards for Toronto, had added five points to his already imposing total to pile up a still higher lead for the entire league. Conacher now has scored 21 goals and 12 assists to bring his total scoring points to 33. Little Joe Primeau of Toronto and Frank Boucher of Rangers were still fighting it out for second place and are tied with 28 points.

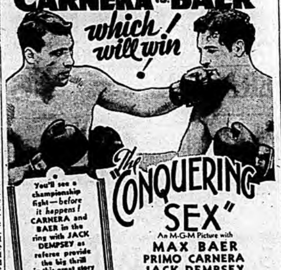
Free Tickets to be Awarded for Best Opinion on Sport Picture Fight

Primo Carnera vs. Max Baer!

There's a card, ladies and gentlemen—which would win?

A lot of people believe that Max Baer would belt the ears off Carnera, if he could get "Da Preem" into the ring with him. Others are just as convinced that the giant would wear Baer down and then dispose of him. Some noted fight critics think Primo is giving the well known run-around to Max and that he never will fight him.

But they have fought! And recently. If you don't believe it, you can see the motion pictures of that fight at the Belle Theatre (tomorrow (Thursday or Friday), for on that day is the opening of "The Conquering Sex", featuring both these men as well as Jack Dempsey and a host of other ring notables.



After seeing the fight sequence between Carnera and Baer, a famous columnist said this:

"After you've seen the first five rounds you are convinced that Carnera could take Baer any time he wanted to—but after you see the next five rounds you come away thinking that Max could kick the pants off the Italian if and when they fight for the championship."

What do you think? This newspaper will award five pairs of guest tickets on Tuesday to those readers who write the best letters of one hundred words on this subject: Tell which you think would win, and why? To do this you must see the picture. After you see the big fight sequence, then write your letter, naming the winner, and mail your letters to the Prize Fight Contest Editor, care of the sports department of this newspaper.

All letters must be in by Monday. The winners will be announced on Tuesday and guest tickets, which will entitle winners to see Walter Winchell's "Broadway Through a Keyhole", which comes to the Belle on Tuesday, will be distributed.

Current Sport

DAY BY DAY

Practically every evening between the hours of 5 and 7 p.m. the various teams in the local Ki-Y league hold sway at the local arena. Although these future hockey players are still in their teens it is surprising just how agile they can be and more surprising how quick they adapt themselves to new fangled rules and methods of playing the game. The fans could do worse with their time than to drop around and witness one or two of these games a week.

Just for example—did it ever occur to the rank and file of the sport-loving fans that the large majority of the local members of both local O.H.A. teams got their start in the Ki-Y League. All of the D.A.C. roster except Alex Weir, Rube Buskard and Roy Covert saw their first organised hockey in the Ki-Y loop while practically all of the local juniors received their early training in the same organization. The Ki-Y groups have had rather an up-hill fight for many years but the result of their pioneer service is being reaped today.

The league is sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. and the local Kiwanis Club with J. E. Shortt as secretary. The league provides the goal-keepers' equipment, such as pads, sticks, etc., while the other members of the teams naturally are called upon to provide their own paraphernalia, the league also sees that competent referees are on hand to officiate. These kids tie into the game in a manner that merits a far better attendance than has been afforded them in past years.

The scoring averages for the local intermediates to date show Carl Morgan leading the pack with three scoring points to his credit. Carl has bagged two goals and gave Alex Weir a pass for another local counter. Weir follows in line with two goals while "Pete" Morgan has two points along with Roy Covert, each having scored a goal and given a pass for another Belleville counter. Apparently the "green and white" are improving with age as they scored one goal their first game against Campbellford, two goals the next versus the same team and three the next tilt against Trenton. According to the statistics the locals should run in four goals against Cobourg here on Friday night, that is if they continue to add one goal per game to their previous number.

On Friday night of this week an opening meeting of all interested in the formation of a Belleville Yachting or Boating Club is being held at the Y.M.C.A. Tommy Mason, local aquatic enthusiast, has taken it upon himself to acquire information and data regarding the formation and inauguration of such an organization and will present his collected communication at this meeting. Every boat owner, as well as those merely interested in the welfare of aquatics, is invited to attend this meeting and voice opinions relating to the possibilities of such an organization. In years past the Bay of Quinte Yacht Racing Association was once recognised as one of the premier yacht associations in America and there is no reason why a similar organization could not be revived again in Belleville. The rejuvenation of sailing and other aquatics was quite marked locally last season through the efforts of the South End A. C. With such a foundation all interested should put their united shoulders to the wheel and assure the rejuvenation of yachting in the Bay of Quinte. Later a proposed Bay of Quinte Yacht Club will hold a meeting with delegates being invited from Napanee, Deseronto, Picton, Trenton, Belleville and other points along the bay. In the meantime, however, Friday night's conclave will deal with the situation locally only.

"Repealers"—"Champions again".

Before 3,000 rabid hostile fans the Belleville Cities Service clearly demonstrated their ability last evening when they proved themselves moneyed hockey players of the highest calibre. Elwood Dudley's charges went out in front in the initial frame and never were headed, proving beyond a shadow of a doubt their superiority. "Congratulations "oilmen".

Down in Kingston Referee Joe Smith is anything but a hero today due to the fact that he lived up to his convictions and called 'em as he saw 'em, before a crowd that desired a win at any cost. To win the Kingston City League two seasons in succession is a feat well worth note as the "going" down in that loop is about as tough as can be found in any hockey organization. True enough the Limestone City fans were against the locals to a man but the league officials realize the fact that the locals "made" the Kingston loop just what it is today, a successful organization.

The season's grind has been long and tedious but the crowning glory came last night in victory. A large number of local fans accompanied the team eastward and saw the locals play a brand of hockey they never seem able to play at home. As was pointed out in this column recently—the locals invariably play better hockey away from the home crowds. Why? Merely because they seldom see their home ice. All followers of the locals were proud of their team last night and the demonstration of joyousness that terminated only adds to the laurels of the team Les Tice starred for last night. "Again we say—"Congratulations, boys".

3 STARS OF LAST NIGHT'S GAME

Maroons' Faces Red on Red Light Night

The Maple Leafs spent a quiet evening in the home last night and with hardly anyone to bother them put in the time polishing up their records.

In other words, the visit of the Montreal Hockey Club was not like the arrival in these parts of the old Maroons, when a lot of the checking had to be done by the constabulary. The present draft of Brigadier Gerard's troops, while hot enough on the attack, were playing defence by ear, and Goalkeeper Kerr had more narrow escapes than Bill Tell, Jr.

The customers, however had something to cheer about as the red light twinkled merrily. The Leafs did everything but make the puck disappear altogether, while almost a dozen goals were just missed by the Montreal Club, sometimes called Hooley for short.

By The Canadian Press

Sharpshooters with one eye on their scoring averages and the other on next year's contracts are making life more difficult every day for the peddled figures, that guard goalmouths in the National Hockey League.

Netminders had one of their most bewildering evenings of the season last night, when 31 hard-driven pucks pounded in the nose twine behind them. So many goals in four games was another answer of the sort and one that every effort is made to the contention goals are becoming scarce.

Toronto Maple Leafs, leaders in almost everything in the big time these days, were in the van again with an eight-goal scoring splurge against Montreal, whose tenth was enough to win them most games.

A greater challenge to Leaf supremacy than any other team in the league, this sextet, Montreal Canadiens were almost as prolific as their rivals as they hoisted New York Americans' ruth toward a playoff position with a 6-2 lacing. Playing their 400th game in eight seasons, Rangers made five goals theirs contribution to the night's scoring evenings and their New York celebration. Ottawa Senators, behaving as schoolers should as a party, got only two goals and little attention.

Detroit in Tie

Although they were able to beat Tiny Thompson three times, Detroit made the most of them, holding Boston to a single counter and going into a tie for United States division leadership, with the New Yorkers, Chicago, idle, dropped back two points.

Almost everyone but George Hainsworth and Dave Kerr got in the scoring lists in the 12-goal game at Toronto by Charlie Conacher, leading sharpshooter of the league, held his star spot with two goals and three assists, Harry Jackson, Leaf left winger, got three goals and an assist.

The game, attended by 7,500, second smallest crowd of the season, produced good hockey only at times. Leafs scored once in the first period, a goal to Maroons' one in the second and picked up five in the final session while the Montrealers were snaring three.

Maroons were unlucky at times and Hooley Smith particularly missing several easy scoring chances. Toronto had little difficulty sifting through their defence and gave Kerr a tough evening of it.

Besides Jackson and Conacher, Toronto's scorers were Harold Cotton, Andy Blair and Joe Primeau. Russell Blinco, Gordon Brydson, Earl Robinson and Hooley Smith, got markers for the Montrealers.

Canadiens at Montreal made their hold on second place in the Canadian division more solid, they now are four points up on Maroons. Penalties hurt Americans' chances, four Habitant goals being scored when they had an edge in man power.

In the first period the Maroon rearlet, through Johnny Gagnon and Aurel Joliat, scored two goals in 30 seconds, wiping out an early advantage Ronny Martin had given the Americans in the first period when the New Yorkers were a man short Canadiens scored twice in less than a minute Joe Lamb and Jack Riley getting credit.

Armand Mondou got two more before the game ended and Eddie Burke also scored for Americans, second in that frame. The officials imposed only three penalties.

Seven Fouls for Line

The five original New York Rangers for whom the celebration was held at Madison Square Garden last night took a leading part in the hockey as well as the ceremonies. Bill Cook and Frank Boucher each got two goals and Boucher added two assists and Cook one. Bill's two markers came in the only period when Albert Leduc was in the penalty box and clinched the game for Rangers.

The other veterans of eight seasons, Murrey Murdoch, Bun Cook and Ching Johnson performed in their usual steady way. Dee Rooke got both Ottawa's goals and Vic Ripley scored the other one for Rangers.

Captain Herbie Lewis, of Detroit was the big shot in the Wing win at Boston. After Conacy Weiland had scored in the first period he made it 2-0 in the middle frame Boston threatened with Nels Stewart's goal in the third and Lewis came right back with another marker to put the game away.

MADOC LEADS CENTRAL LOOP

Defeat Grills' Garage by 2-1 Score in Fast Clean Game

Madoc, Jan. 24.—(Special)—By virtue of a well earned win over Grills' Garage in the Tri-Towners took the lead in the Central Hastings League. Despite the rainy weather, the ice was in good condition and the game was fast and clean. On the play Madoc deserved the win by a wider margin than 1 goal. Alex and Henderson both missed practically sure goals when having only the goalie to beat, they failed to score. Referee Barrett of Belleville handled the game in a masterly fashion and handed out ten penalties with Belleville collecting the majority. Wass, Henderson and Alex were the best for Madoc with the goalie making some fine stops. The defence was off-colour but managed to stave off the rushes. Final score: Canning boys and "Hap" Day worked effectively for their garagemen. Hap Day, who is poking in Belleville's lone goal, from a scramble in front of the net.

The score:

BUSHER JACKSON GI VES MATES A BATTLE

HARVEY "BUSHER" JACKSON

Here is the member of the Toronto Leafs' Big Line who, according to hockey experts, is the most valuable player, on the team. At last Joe Simpson of the New York Americans thinks so, when he was asked who was the best all-round player in the N.H.L. and named Joliat picks Jackson as the most aggressive, speedy and best back-checking left winger in hockey. And Joliat is no slouch himself. Neither is Bun Cook of the New York Rangers. Combined with Conacher and Primeau this trio completes the most feared and dangerous forward line in hockeydom. They are the first three players to win goals and assists in the league along with Frank Boucher of the Rangers.

RETAILERS OF TRENTON TALK BYLAWS

Transient Traders and Junk Dealers Are Themes

Trenton, Jan. 24 (Special)— One of the largest gatherings of Trenton merchants ever to assemble in the town gathered last evening in the Town Hall at the first meeting of the Trenton Branch of the Retail Merchants' Association since the branch was formed here last month.

President William McClung presided with Mr. L. Jones, provincial organizer of the R.M.A., of C. being the speaker in the absence of Mr. George S. Houghan, executive secretary. He was unable to attend owing to business in Ottawa.

Mr. Jones explained to the members how the organization was gaining strength and its recognition with the Dominion Government as well as with the Manufacturers' Association.

President McClung asked the members to any questions put on from like a little chat at home, about suggestions for future meetings and that Mr. Jones would endeavor to get anything he could pertaining to the workings of the association in other towns.

The present bylaw on "the transient trader" and "junk dealer" were discussed. Mr. Jones was asked to forward copies of these bylaws and by other towns or recommended by the parent body.

The Trenton branch were in favor of the present $10.00 fee for a transient trader's license with no easing off of this amount, as has been suggested in the town.

It was moved by Mark Tripp and seconded by Geo. Graham "that each member's name be tabulated at each meeting."

Vice-president N. J. McNair favored a membership committee of two to act with the treasurer, Mark Tripp, in collecting fees from signed members, who have not paid. It was left with Mr. Tripp to call on his assistants and he chose George Colby and Ken Grant.

Mr. Jones told the men of the banquet held in Belleville the night before when two speakers from Toronto spoke to the gathering and suggested the local branch do likewise.

It was moved by Ken Couch, seconded by George Riley, "that the local branch meet once a month on the third Thursday. This motion was carried.

Mr. C. O. Graham of the Riverside Dairy thought the present bylaw-law didn't give the dealers in town enough protection and asked this be taken up by the association.

Benny Herman asked, "Who do we lay complaints before?"

This question brought up the matter of a grievance committee and it was decided that N. J. McNair and Ed. Simmons act with the secretary, Robert Lamore, as a grievance committee.

Peddling was discussed, especially those who take orders and then deliver by mail. It was the members that nothing could be done under the present bylaw but it was being brought up at the next session of the legislature.

George Riley thought a dinner was a good idea to get together and have speakers.

It was carried that a dinner be held on Thursday, March 1st, to say "if proper arrangements and speakers can be secured."

The following telegram from Geo. S. Houghan in Ottawa was read: "Am sending you retailers in favor of eliminating unfair trade practices Trade and Commerce Act including covering fake advertising, the best bureau they can render to their own interests and to association of which they are members. Love to Steve Gerrie and Bennett, supporting Stevens' act on these questions and also communicate their views to member of their constituency."

President Bennett referred to as Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce and Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.

The local branch favored complying with Mr. Houghan's request.

The Trenton branch have established a Co-operative Bureau which will be discussed at the next meeting.

Mr. J. McNair suggested these so-called collectors that call nearly every day on the local merchants to collect old accounts, be O.K.'d by the association.

The meeting was most beneficial and educating and clearly showed the enthusiasm shown by the Trenton retailers by their attendance which was surprising.

Personals.

Miss Ruby Jones entertained a number of her lady friends at a delightful bridge last evening.

Miss Stanton Bowen won first honors with Mrs. Archie Bowen winning the consolation.

Each girl was given a pretty favor in the form of a small vase with a rose bud.

POLICE COURT

Not a single arrest was made by the local police during the past 24 hours, everything being of a peaceful nature about the city. No automobile accidents were reported in the city or on the local highway traffic officer.

Constable Arnott found a bicycle parked on Front street about 2 a.m. today. It had apparently been taken for a "joy ride" and left at the most convenient opportunity. The wheel was claimed by its owner this morning at the police station.

A youthful resident of Stirling appeared before His Worship, Magistrate Millet, on a rather serious charge which he admitted. The boy was given an opportunity to prove his sincerity when his case was enlarged for one month, bail being set at $1,000.00.

Fifteen transients presented themselves at the police sergeant's desk last evening requiring a night's lodging.

LOVE'S LOTTERY

— by —

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

"Say—does a man of his sort ever do anything but take shortcuts?" old Bleaker demanded. "Make it strong and yet decent. We don't want the boy arrested. And it can be done."

"I wish you'd do it, I can't seem to see how you get at it—" Miss Miggs said in her soft, hesitant and appealing way.

Old Bleaker swelled as he dictated a more than fair message a far better message than Cicily would ever have had from Geoffrey, who could give energy only to "the things that count!"

Jimmy Duggan remarked that Mr. Bleaker must have been a "hot number" in his youth and Mr. Bleaker admitted that he had been around a little after the curfew rang, and as he spoke Jimmy slipped into his pocket the original message that had been signed by the office force. He wanted to show it to his friend Henry, who worked in an office on the seventeenth floor. After that, old Bleaker arose, speaking of going home in order to spray his roses which were beginning to take in boarders. He left, Luther wandered out, and Jimmy and little Miggsey were alone. She felt his concentration,—upon her—and the nature of it and she flushed as she covered Miss Marks' machine somewhat awkwardly.

"Mr. Duggan, would you send this ocean letter for me?" she asked. "I don't know how to do those things and he told me to send it."

"Say —what wouldn't I do for you?" He questioned tenderly.

And—speaking—staring down at her, he picked up the second message to slip it into the same pocket that held the first.

"Um—hum—What are you doing tonight " he questioned after a synthetic cough.

"Oh, nothing much" she answered.

"How about supper down at the village?" asked Jimmy.

"That's very kind of you, Mr. Duggan—"

"Say—if I'm kind in being kind to you—S. Parkes Cadman is a bootlegger!"

Eyes fixed unwaveringly on her, he moved to stand beside her chair, and a few moments later Jimmy Duggan said, "Papa going to buy his baby a big hunk of ice set in tin, huh?"

And little Miggs breathed out, "I —guess so!"

Luther drank the chilled chocolate and he ate the chicken sandwiches. And he grinned in his widest and most engaging way as he used the back of the one freckled hand for a napkin.. That stuff about all the world loving a lover was all right. "You can—easy," he decided, "if you're hungry!"

Jimmy Duggan trod lightly and through a roseate haze as he quit the office. In two more hours he would be with her again——her and now——gosh!——and his! He closed his eyes for a moment, and bumped into a portly gentleman who resented Jimmy's sleep-walking and said so, bringing Jimmy back—at least partially—to earth.

Then he saw his friend Henry.

"Hen!" he called. Hen neared him. "Say, look here," Jimmy began, "I've got an ocean letter I want sent and I gotta get my hair trimmed and—I want my nails fixed. Will you send it, Hen?"

Hen said he would. Jimmy pressed upon his friend; Hen, one of the message he had rammed into his pocket——and a ten-dollar bill. "You can give me the change tomorrow," he called, making off.

Henry too was in a hurry—or he became so—as he remembered an errand that he had failed to do that day, for his wife, who craved "blue candles, the tall ones, that do not drip". Henry hailed a friend. "Burke," he called "I'm in one little hell of a hurry. I want this sent—ocean letter—" (He gave to his friend the message and ten dollars) "I'll get the change tomorrow," he added.

An hour later when Jimmy emptied his pockets, preparatory to transferring their contents to "the gray", he came across the second message and he went white. Suddenly he remembered stuffing into his pocket old Bleaker's attempt at humor—which did not now seem quite so amusing.

Of course——Henry might have sent—the right one. And of course if Henry read it as the words were counted—as he doubtless would——he'd not send it. But—he might as well look. He looked. It was the serious message he had kept—the one starting, with "My dearest, missing you horribly—"

He located Henry an hour later. Henry answered smoothly. He had relegated the sending of the message to a friend, because he'd remembered an important errand he must do. By now the message had started, the fellow being perfectly trustworthy. Jimmy stood, chewing his nails in the narrow, mean, dark hall of his boarding place. Old Bleaker, Little Miggs, himself, Luther, all of 'em—sacked, if the girl told!

His knees went weak and the paradise to which Miss Miggs' shy "Yes" had led him, receded.

"Oh!" he whimpered weakly. "Oh!"

Jimmy had Miss Cicily Eden's name and the ship on which she had sailed he saw it through a haze upon the messabe he should have sent. He would have to appeal to her mercy. He sat down by the corner of his yellow oak bureau, feet twisted around the rungs of a chair, as on the back of a laundry list, in an unsteady —erratically unsteady —hand he wrote, a fervent appeal for clemency. "Gosh, if you're not as hard as nails," he muttered, his eyes suddenly moist and stinging, "you'll have a heart!" The paper was wet from his palm, which, though, cold dripped.

He signed his message with his full name and then, shaking, he descended the two flights of stairs in the hallway that always smelled of yesterday's dinner, and the unaired carpet.

The sun was out, the late, thickened, golden sun, as he stepped into the narrow, beauty-grudging street; but in his heavy heart was November.

If Miss Eden was not merciful—and maybe she would not be, not knowing how much difference it would make—if not!

"Oh, God!" he thought: Luther supporting his mother; Old;;;;;;;;;; supporting his mother; Old Bleaker too old to start, anew; he himself wanting to support a wife!

Cicily read the first message with entire bafflement. Was Geoff trying to be funny? She hadn't always understood his humor. No woman ever quite understands the full gamut of a man's humor.

Jimmy's plea for mercy came to her a half hour later.

She read it, to know that Geoff's kind words had been false, and not more than coronets, and that her simple faith was but a ridiculous part of his cheating her in the past.

She had loved him very much, she realized, as she felt a sweep of faintness.

CHAPTER 11

Cicily dropped to her bed in her cabin, to lie there, in the dress she had worn at dinner. She stared at the ceiling. After a bit she salvaged, from beneath her pillow, the two messages, and suddenly ——— and because she was all that she was —she forgot herself to think of the four souls who had done a thing that any group, wanting amusement, might do .She would wireless this James Duggan person immediately, she decided; he was probably very worried. Had Geoff ever written her any messages himself or had—this girl sent them—all? Probably—she had.

She knew, staring wide-eyed at the ceiling, that she had had a tremendous pride and that her heart had been a haven for a rarely great love, and that both pride and love were now rolling in the dust. And she knew, too, that it was not fair no love as great as hers should be treated thus. Not every man was loved as was Geoffrey.

She sat up, perhaps twenty minutes later, to feel a sweep of dizziness, and she struggled from the bed. In the sitting room that she shared with Miss Ella, she went to settle before a small desk and to take from it a wireless blank. Her hands were strangely heavy and she found writing difficult.....All that afternoon she had been haunted by Geoff's last kiss, which had been, she thought a revelation of his love of her, and——so very sweet. Well she had been a fool; and that was all! She swallowed a dry swallow that hurt going down.

She wrote, slowly: "I promise never to tell. Please don't let anyone worry. I am really so sorry you were all so worried. C. E."

It did not quite satisfy her, but she knew it would have to go. She was feeling really— ill. She made her way, rather unsteadily, back to her bed.

Miss Ella, who had been playing bridge, came in. "Such a pleasant evening, darling!" she said. "So sorry you wouldn't play. Are you ill, dear?" she ended with, sudden and real concern.

"A little, Cicily answered. Her eyes filled suddenly her aunt loved her; her aunt would never cheat her. One had to lose something to know its value, as a philosopher had said.

"Shall I ring for the stewardess, darling?"

Cicily shook her head she wanted only to be alone. "If you'd help me a little, Aunt—" she said. Miss Ella was touched and pleased.

"I'm ashamed to bother you so—I'm really feeling quite—odd."

"And usually so good a sailor, dearest———"

Her clothes were on the floor and she was tucked in. Miss Ella leaned down to kiss Cicily. For a moment Cicily clung to her. "We make rather a nice team," she said a bit unsteadily, "don't we? I thing we can be—very happy together!"

Miss Ella murmured something of a trio and "dear Geoffrey", kissed her niece again, touched off the lights and paddled away.

As the sky turned to a dull silver Cicily felt the tears slipping down her cheeks.

Jimmy was naturally straightforward ("absurdly honest", Miss Marks had often thought and with an approach to scorn, since "absurd honesty" did not, invariably, add to business success) and he told Old Bleaker, Little Miggs and Luther of what he had done. "But I guess it's all right," he ended wanly, as he showed them Cicily Eden's response.

"You don't know how I've felt—" he added, "and because of you all!"

"It wasn't your fault!" said little Miss Miggs loudly, and her eyes on him worshipped him. Old Bleaker, who had gone a yellow white, read Cicily Eden's wireless message three full and slow times.

"She's all right," he said heavily.

"Zowie! The boss is going to get his walking papers," Luther prophesied.

"It was—just noble of you to tell us, Jimmy!" said little Miggs.

They felt, the quartette, weighted by thankfulness and humbled by the memory of their transgression for which they might have had to pay so heavily. But, as the days wore on their sense of ease returned. "I guess it's going to be all right, honey," said Jimmy to Little Miggs, who, arm through his, wandered the park with him.

"I guess," she agreed. She added, "Jimmy, you're wonderful. So many men would have acted different from what you did about this—"

"I wrote her, thanking her," said Jimmy. "Gosh, I'd swing for her."

"She certainly must be a lovely lady," Little Miggs agreed warmly.

But the matter was not right; Miss Marks had listened in, slyly, as the history was being retailed by Jimmy. She had happened to be at that moment in the outer office and behind a large file, and there she had hidden, silent and tense, during her moments of eavesdropping.

If Jim Duggan were engaged to "that Miss Miggs", as she suspected he might be, she would teach them all a lesson, she decided. She put it not quite thus; at moments it is more comfortable to deceive oneself. "Perhaps I ought to tell," she thought piously, "in duty to Mr. Field!"

Geoffrey found her unusually efficient that day. But he was glad that the small Miss Miggs had written for him his message to Cicily he had read it over several times and he felt sting of shame and a great admiration. It was a darned good message, he realized, the sort Cicily deserved, the kind that would please her and the variety he would write her—himself —if he had time.

That night, leaving his office, he paused by Miss Migg's desk upon which stood the gold-lettered placard marked "Information".

"Miss Miggs—I'm very much pleased with that message of mine I had to let you finish—" he began; then he flushed slowly. He hated a liar. He smiled—not quite easily; "The one you wrote, I mean," he amended.

She had gone white and she had turned her face from him and toward the switchboard.

"I'm ——glad to do whatever—— I can——" he heard her murmur, unsteadily.

"I'm in a horrible hurry, Miss Miggs.... .. I hate relegating this, but I haven't had a second——Will you write a cable to London and to Miss Eden, for me? I miss her, I —well you know——"

She drew a sharp breath. "Oh,—Mr. Field!" she begged.

"I think I don't ——understand, Miss Miggs " his brows were drawn.

"Of—course, Mr. Field—" she whispered weakly.

"Miss Marks is really quite pleasant to me lately, Little Miggs told Jimmy a week later.

"She seems to be very pleased about something lately," he agreed. Then they forgot Miss Marks. They were considering houses; rather "A little house with enough ground around it for a garden—" Of such fabric heaven is made——and the dreams that are borrowed of heaven.

Cicily wrote Geoffrey before she left the ship, and very carefully; she didn't want him to be "really hurt", having learned, herself, what it means to be "really hurt".

She chose an afternoon when Miss Ella was absorbed with bridge; Miss Ella's travels and shifting scenes were no more for her than a back-drop for her passion. Cicily spent the long afternoon writing and rewriting, and dabbing her eyes with a small, pink handkerchief which became a damp, old-rose wad—tears having a way of darkening fabrics as well as hours.

When she had finished, she read, carefully:

"Dear Geoffrey:—

You know I told you- I was afraid we were not suited, and we're not. I've had a very quiet trip and when one isn't diverted one thinks a lot. Frankly, Geoffrey, I can't go on as we are, for I know it's a mistake." (She had wept very hard at this point thinking, "I love you! I love you so! I will never love anyone else!") "I know I'm not the right person for you and from a good many reasons. I hope you will be very happy and I shall always hope that; but I'm going to ask you not to write me, nor to think that you can, with seeing me, change my mind. That is made up and our engagement is over. You will never know how it has hurt me to write this. If you could you would know how irrevocable that is. I hope you will be happy always, Geoff.

"Cicily".

"I hope," said Miss Ella that evening, patting Cicily's hand, "that in London, we can get the roses back to those cheeks, pet!"

Cicily turned her hand until she could cling to her aunt's.

"Oh, we'll have a lovely trip, I know!" she managed to say, but her voice would break.

CHAPTER 12

When Geoffrey got the letter he smiled down at the envelope for some moments. He had missed Cicily——"absurdly", he felt. He had thought of the space as being one in which he could "keep at it, undiverted" and "get a lot out of the way," and now—only a long two weeks after her start—his hands were trembling because he had her first letter, and because he thought he couldn't stand it the whole time, and would cable her that he would join her. He had thought, again and again, "I have no business to do it —" and he had believed it but the new pull was stronger than he had dreamed any pull beside work could be.

He slipped the letter into his pocket. He would not read it in his office. He was aware of Luther's watching him Luther had brought in the mail. And of Miss Marks' glancing keenly at him and then —almost guiltily—away. He'd probably made an ass of himself by the way he'd looked at the letter, he decided.

TILLIE THE TOILER

BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

How long they had been rowing, Jason Gridley could not guess. Nor did he know if they had passed the danger zone. No one had either eaten or slept since the boat had reached this stretch of the river. The Korsars paid little attention to the right bank. But upon the dark and gloomy left bank they centered their nervous, watchful gaze. Gridley was ready to drop from exhaustion when a cry, vibrant with excitement, arose from the bow.

"There they are!" shouted the man and instantly all was excitement aboard the boat. "Keep to the oars!" cried their leader, "our best chance is to run through them." A horde of creatures swam out upon the placid river, man-like creatures riding upon giant lizards, which darted through the water with incredible speed. Thoar shuddered. "They are the Horibs," he whispered. "It is better to die than to fall into their clutches."

The heavy boat shot straight toward the hideous horde. It was almost upon the leading Horib when one man fired his antique weapon. As the loud report shattered the river's silence, the Horibs separated and a moment later they were racing along on either side of the craft. The Korsar's arquebuses shot many Horibs and the enemy constantly darted close to hurl a spear and then dive beneath the surface.

Presently one succeeded in casting a leather rope over a cleat in the gunwhale. Instantly several Horibs seized it and headed their mounts toward the river's bank. Exhausted and without weapons, Jason and Thoar lay in the bottom of the boat, almost past caring whate fate befell them. On all sides arquebuses still roared amid screams and curses. And above all arose the shrill, hissing screech that seemed to be the war cry of the Horibs.

RIOT BREAKS OUT, DEPUTIES SHAKE FISTS

Deputy Herriot Raises Confusion By His Threat

WAVES OF SHOUTS

Warning Given to Premier to Defend Himself in Scandal

Paris, Jan. 23.—A warning that Premier Camille Chautemps himself and three members of his endangered cabinet would be named in documents on the Stavisky scandal, was served there today by Deputy Philippe Henriot.

Henriot advised the Premier, Georges Bonnet, Minister of Finance; Eugene Raynaldy, Minister of Justice; and M. Laurent-Eynac, Minister of Commerce, to be ready to defend themselves before the Chamber of Deputies.

The nature of the documents in the Stavisky case, which shook France with the collapse of the Bayonne Municipal Pawnshop, was not disclosed.

The Chamber was thrown into confusion by announcement of the Deputy's action.

Shouting wildly and banging their desks, government supporters drowned out Henriot's voice.

For more than half an hour the Deputies shouted epithets, shook their fists at each other and pelted to Herriot first subjected Chautemps to questioning on his career in past Parliament, in law and when his friends were.

Calmly facing the waves of shouts that were raised, Henriot managed to penetrate the din long enough for a few sentences over the roars of anger.

Then he talked to Raynaldy, who hopped up and down, waving his arms, and directed his back at the inquisitive Deputy.

Government opponents applauded Henriot and tried to outshout the Chautemps' backers.

VISITS PAID TO ASYLUM

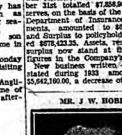
First Report of Canadian Press in Error as to Doctor's Visit

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 23—(CP Cable)—"It cannot be a great shock to me to learn that the Minister of Public Works had never visited the place officially," Magistrate A. Valcher declared in his report following an investigation into the poor asylum ring, Newfoundland lunacy.

A previous Canadian Press report quoted the Magistrate as alleging the visiting physician had neglected to visit certain parts of the asylum. This was incorrect. Magistrate Valcher commented as follows upon the physician's work:

"By section 260 the physician's duties are defined that he has the care of the health of all the inmates, and it is his duty to prescribe and provide medicine and treatment as well as to see that every inmate has due and proper care, treatment and nourishment. He is ale, required to see that proper hygienic and sanitary equipment is provided for the asylum and is kept in a clean and sanitary condition.

"It is now something opposite to learn from the present visiting physician that he has never seen this section."



The Canadian Press regrets its participation in the publication of the statements in question.

CONTINENTAL LIFE HAS INCREASED INCOME

Toronto, January 24th.—Increased business in force and assets, reserves and surplus are features of the annual report of the Continental Life Insurance Company, presented by the Company's President, John B. Laidlaw at the Annual Meeting held today.

Net life insurance in force for the year was $1,819,988.90. Assets at December 31st totalled $14,626,240.62. Reserves, on the basis of the Dominion Government of Insurance requirements, amounted to $6,859,362.00, while the Capital and Surplus totalled $678,423.25. Assets, reserves and surplus now stand at the highest figures in the Company's history.

New business written and reinsured during 1933 amounted to $5,942,100.00, a decrease of less than

MR. J. W. HOBBS

President of The Continental Life Insurance Company of Toronto, who presented the report of directors at the 24th annual meeting of shareholders and policyholders.

15% as compared with 1932. Total life insurance in force now amounts to $25,184,825.00. Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries during the year, including dividends, death claims and matured policies, amounted to $1,001,038.31, an increase of $87,657.00 over 1932.

Policy loans are low.

In speaking of the Company's assets Mr. Hobbs said "You will observe the slight decrease in the amount of first mortgages on real estate and the policy loans, and the increase in bonds and debentures, nearly all of which are issues of Dominion, Provincial or Municipal Government."

Continuing Mr. Hobbs said: "Commencing the second half of 1933, there seemed to be marked indications of better times approaching and we have experienced in the insurance business to a greater degree near the year's end. For the year 1934, I confidently look for a further improvement in business. There is a notable increase in the interest and confidence in Canada, and Bank clearings, Raw commodities, Grain prices, almost without exception show increases in unit values. Factory workings are also commencing to show an increase. All these factors combined point towards better times."

For the first month of 1934 the Company's business is reported to be much improved. There has been a marked increase in new business written with very satisfactory increase, the first year premium income.

Quebec Liquor Plan in Part Considered by Ontario Government

No Definite System Yet Decided Upon Says Henry

HOTEL QUESTION

Old Licencing Days Style Not to be Revived in Ontario

Toronto, Jan. 25 (CP)—The question of adopting certain portions of the Quebec liquor system and applying them in Ontario is being considered by the government, Premier George S. Henry told the Canadian Press today. "The question is merely being considered," he added emphatically, "and no definite system has yet been decided upon."

Premier Henry reiterated a statement made Tuesday to the effect that there would be "freer distribution of beer in Ontario," following the forthcoming legislative session.

Asked if hotels would be licenced to sell beer, the Premier again repeated that, as yet, it was impossible to say. In any event, however, that will certainly not return to the system of the old licensing days. He will maintain control of distribution.

$50,740,800 FOR RELIEF FUND

All to be Spent Upon Buildings—$17,560,000 For Ontario

Toronto, Jan. 25.—Initial expenditure of $50,740,800 in eight provinces of which Ontario and Quebec received the largest portions, and of which "substantially all will be spent in the construction of provincial and municipal buildings" is the principles of the "moderate plan of public relief work" which Rt. Hon. Richard B. Bennett, K.C., M.P., said in a statement issued by the South Poplar has elected him as their candidate, Eldest daughter of the Prime Minister.

The plan, it was stated, represents the work of the Conservative authorities scattered across Canada, in conference at the headquarters in Toronto. Ministry of time and effort were put into by the Premier and his colleagues in the summer committee of the National Conservative Association of Canada. It was submitted to the prime ministers of the provinces and his approval.

Under its proposals, division of the total will be on a uniform basis, announced by provinces; British Columbia, $3,640,000; Alberta, $2,210,000; Saskatchewan, $3,975,970; Manitoba, $4,484,000; Ontario, $17,560,000; Quebec, $13,358,000; Nova Brunswick $2,075,000; Prince Edward Island, no assortment as yet; Nova Scotia, $2,423,700.

Touching Tribute Paid by Men to Memory of Dead Associate

Two hundred relief workers on Kirkey's Island, struggling for the bare necessities of life, with a magnificent gesture of unselfishness, contributed into their co-worker's pocket on Wednesday afternoon and by donations which totalled $20 collected and raised the sums of fifty dollars for a bereaved widow and family of a fellow worker who died on the job on Tuesday. Four foremen on the work in the same spirit that actuated the men in their charge have provided sufficient funds for a handsome wreath of flowers. The donations have been presented Mrs. John S. Moore whose husband passed away at work so unexpectedly.

Eager to show their sympathy for the bereaved family, fellow workers of the late Mr. Moore, although hard pressed themselves, were unable to get alone on the small pay for which they work, but were busy in lumping in contributing to the fund. Actuated by the same spirit, each one of the men gladly tendered their small donations to show in just a small measure how deep their sympathy was. The money has been turned in to the city treasurer and is being held for the family.

"It is the most touching appreciation I have ever witnessed," stated Foreman George O. Tice today, simply but when he learned of the action of the workers.

DOG SAVES LIFE OF MAN FROM BURNING

Welland, Ont., Jan. 25—(CP) Only faithfulness and presence of mind of a collie dog at the home of Mrs. Cecil Yokom, Cook's Mills, just recovering from pneumonia, saved the life last night of Mrs. Yokom's son, William, when her home burned to the ground.

William was asleep and Mrs. Yokom and two other sons were away in the evening. Awakened still weak from the effects of illness the dog crawled upstairs and aroused him.

House and furniture were a total loss, running to several thousand dollars.

WAR VETERAN HAS RETURNED

Wife Suing For $5,000 War Risk Insurance on Life

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan., 25.—(AP)—After an absence of 15 years James Zorland Robertson, Oklahoma's "Enoch Arden" has returned—for one action—to collect $5,000 in insurance on his life.

Robertson, who adopted the name of John Maxwell, when he began his new life, was found through newspaper records in a Boston, Naval Hospital, serving as chief pharmacist's mate.

Robertson reported killed in action in France, Robertson didn't bother coming after his discharge from the army. He enlisted in the navy under the name Maxwell.

Will G. Beardslee, assistant to the Attorney General in Charge of War Risk Insurance Litigation, said the Department of Justice was seeking to learn if there had been "fraud or collusion" in the attempt to collect Robertson's former wife's insurance.

The former wife, Mrs. Nora Dewmace, was at her home at Stillwater, Oklahoma, Beardslee said.

A sister of Robertson, Mrs. Ella Haven of Medford, Ore., was the action to see him but he showed her no recognition. He refused to talk to the press. He has two nieces, two nieces, daughters of Mrs. Haven.

TOURISTS TO CANADA LESS THAN IN 1932

900,000 Fewer Motor Cars Reported by Department

TRADE AS HIGH

Canadians Entering The U. S. Greater Than Previous Year

Ottawa, Jan. 25—Touring motorists from the United States were not as numerous in Canada last year as a year ago. Figures just compiled by the Department of National Revenue from returns of Customs Officers at border points show 900,000 fewer motor cars from the United States entered Canada in 1933 than in 1932.

Despite the decline the number was large enough to maintain the value of Canada's tourist trade at high levels. Altogether 3,302,506 tourist cars entered Canada last year. Of these 2,230,000 entered for periods up to 24 hours; 862,500 for periods up to sixty days and 191,000 for periods up to six months. In 1932, the figures were: Up to 24 hours, 3,070,000; up to 60 days, 1,032,000; up to six months, 201,000.

Despite the decline in the number of foreign tourists entering Canada, during the years, there was an increase in the number of Canadian automobiles entering the United States, for the purpose of entry for touring purposes in the United States. In the year 1933 there were left for the other side of the line, compared with 376,827 in 1932.

Windsor, including the outport of Walkerville, led all Canadian ports of entry in the number of foreign automobiles entered during the year, being for 173,790. Port Erie was second with 771,280 and Niagara Falls third with 501,000. Windsor and Walkerville also led all other ports in the number of permits issued for the 60-day period, with 188,978.

May Remain For Week's Time Because of Fracture.

Mr. H. L. Lucas, traveller, of Toronto, who fractured his ankle in a fall and was taken to the General Hospital, Belleville, is still a patient in the institution. It was stated this afternoon by his doctor that he would be confined there for some days yet.

As reported in yesterday's paper a fracture case was admitted to the Belleville Hospital on Monday evening but those in charge of the office were apparently unaware of the fact until Wednesday afternoon.

It was only after repeated details to the press enquiries that A check-up was made by those in charge and the gentleman was found quite unaware of the fact that his absence was causing a stir.

This is but a comedy of errors but just suppose the gentleman took a sudden notion to leave. He would be told at the office that he had been in the hospital and would have to pay for something in the way of services but he received. He was augmented by this statement can't left in the institution.

However, as Mr. Lucas has to stay in the hospital for a week, he will be "Listed" as among those present.

FISHERMEN FOUND SAFE

Men Adrift on Ice Floe Reach Island And Are Rescued

Bay Port, Mich., Jan. 22. — Two fishermen who had been missing since a breaking ice floe carried them out into Saginaw Bay late yesterday, were found safe on Charity Island, about five miles from shore.

Tom Smith, Linden, 60, and Ray Clark, 25, said the floe on which they were trapped, while trying to save their shanties, was swept against the island.

Two other fishermen, Herman Sellers and Thomas Quinn, of Bay City, were not reported missing the day, but no fears were felt for their safety.

Two automobiles and scores of fishing shanties carried into the bay with the floe ice.

JAPANESE PROTEST IS MADE OVER ARTICLE

Article Written by Mussolini Under Fire.

Rome, Jan. 25 (AP)—Diplomatic circles said today that a Japanese protest had been presented by Count Aoki to Premier Mussolini on the Far East and also against a speech by Marquis Giuseppe Medici Del Vascello in the Chamber of Deputies, which was interpreted in Japan as the foreign office within a few days.

Mussolini's article aroused official interest. The foreign office itself disclaimed knowledge that a protest was pending.

In their statements, both Mussolini and Marquis Del Vasco've mentioned the "yellow peril." Del Vascello declared that "the yellow pan, inspired by race hatred, will turn tomorrow on the white man."

BANDIT FAILS TO SHOOT AT PENROSE

Brave Service Station Man Cannot Prevent Theft

Smithville, Ont., Jan. 25 (CP)—His face covered with a dark cloth and a gun in his hand, a bandit held Joseph Penrose's gasoline station on No. 20 Highway at midnight but the drawn revolver directed to Penrose who was alone.

Penrose ordered, but Penrose refused. The bandit did not shoot. He took the cash register and scooped up $20 in bills, backed to the door, jumped into a car and drove rapidly away.

Penrose rushed to the door and fired two shots at the fleeing bandit but did not appeared in the darkness when he got down.

The speech foreshadowed legislation amending the Excise Act, possibly to reduce the gallonage tax on liquor, the Companies Act, probably to consolidate it on a Dominion-wide basis with the aid of the provinces, the Judges Act and the Elections Act.

Better Business

"Throughout the speech were reflected hopes for better times and improved business conditions. There was "sound reason for believing that the world is gradually returning to economic stability," there being reflected in Canada "by increasing trade, improving revenues, increasing employment and a more confident outlook upon the future." Canada retained fifth position among the world exporters in 1933, the speech said. Its Ottawa trade agreements, now in operation a full year.

The world wheat agreement, designed to remove burdensome surplus from the market and regulate average prices, was hailed in words of the speech indicated. There was no reference to the late Lawrence Wheeler treaty, now before the United States Senate for ratification.

Unemployment Setting

Overseas sales failed to dampen the brilliant setting of the formal opening. Crowds gathered early on Parliament Hill to watch the Governor-General and his cavalry escort arrive at the buildings. Inside the Senate Chamber, brilliantly-gowned women set off the sombre red walls while the uniforms of air, land and sea forces were in contrast to the drab black and white coats of the legislators who gathered in orderly disorder on the floor of the hall.

The House will adjourn until tomorrow, when the address in reply to the speech of the session will begin. The first order will be the debate on the address, the first motion to concur moved by Samuel Cobalt, North, Dominion Conservative by H. J. Barber, Conn., Fraser Valley.

KING'S OWN ENGLISH BEST

Shaw Assails Oxford Accent And Extols King George's

(By George Hamblelon, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Jan. 25 (Cable) — If King George delivered a single broadcast in an "Oxford accent" his subjects would rise up that very day and proclaim a republic, declares George Bernard Shaw in a letter to The Times today.

The letter closes a battle over English "as she is spoke" which for many weeks has torn the learned professors of the British Broadcasting Commission's Committee over which Bernard Shaw has been the central thing by issuing another list of the pronunciations recommended for announcers.

Should Conduit Street in the best of the West End, Shaw argues, why Cundit or shouldn't it? And so on down the list. Unfortunate stylistic editorial. Indignant readers wrote indignant letters. The Times published caustic solaces for scraps of Latin and bits of Greek. Shaw's letter is the last word in the storm that is given to consonants.

"The broadcasting by declaring the King's own English is literally the best English, and slams at the Oxford accent. "An Oxford accent," Shaw writes, "is considered by the graduates of that university to be the perfection of correct speech. Unfortunately over large and densely populated districts of Britain it irritates and makes the hair on the point of switching off and infuriates some others to the point of throwing their missiles because they cannot smash the talker"

Chimney Roofed Over and House Fills with Volumes of Smoke

There was just one thing the newcomers, firemen clanged to the Dundas street station in a standard response call, when fire broke out at 23 West Bridge Street to fight a fire they believed had ruthlessly destroyed the home they had purchased only yesterday forced to do so by the smoke and flames that filled the house until they fled. They few-flames were seen. A hardy fireman got to look at the roof top to see if a fire was started in the familyin the attic the cause of the smoke was discovered.

Clouds of black heavy smoke A previous tenant, stated Chief Ellis, had covered pouring out from a defective chimney, had at one time put over the opening caused by the chimney, leaving it to burn out. Only smoke damage was occasioned.

ELECTS TRIAL ON THEFT CHARGE

Leo Green, of Deseronto, elected trial by judge when arraigned before Magistrate Palmer in the Deseronto police court yesterday charged with breaking, entering and theft. Green was arrested at the Trenton Airport sometime ago by the Provincial Police being suspected of certain robberies in Toronto that had previously been committed. Nothing but cigars, tobacco and other small articles were taken. R. C. Deacon, K.C., prosecuted.

BOAT OWNERS MEET TO DECIDE CLUB

Held for the purpose of deciding whether or not sufficient members may be secured from a list of well over one hundred Belleville boat owners, and almost as many sportsmen from adjoining municipalities in this district, to enable a yacht club to function, a meeting of all interested parties will be held in the Y.M.C.A. rooms on Friday evening. It is expected that a large representation will be on hand from Trenton, Deseronto, Picton and other outside points. The meeting is an open one at which the formation of a mooted club will be discussed.

NEW SLATE BELT MAY BE MINED

With a new belt of what is claimed to be a valuable deposit of slate near Madoc recently, quarrying of this mineral may be commenced on a large scale in the spring. Some Per years this industry has been at a virtual standstill in the district. A charter is said to have already been obtained by a company to mine the deposit.

WOOD IS BEST REEVES STATE

"Gimme Wood Every Time" Comments Councillor

Wood is the best fuel, it was revealed in a little informal discussion of Hastings County Councillors just before they bade farewell to the council chamber for the Thursday morning session.

"Give me the wood every time," unequivocally stated Reeve James Sprackett of Tudor and Cashel where the tall trees grow. "There's more heat in wood than any other fuel that I know of."

"Wood's the best," repeated the Reeve. "A man keeps warm cutting it down in the first place — and after it is cut down and cut up, he gets further heated up when it's burning."

BEAR WAKENED IN HAYSTACK

Young Black Cub Roused by Pitch-Fork

A little last spring's black cub bear is dead today in the H. G. Green butcher shop. The little fellow, which evidently had lost his mother during the fall shooting season, had cocked himself away on a haystack on the Green farm at Northbrook, a mile to rate for the winter. Gradually the haystack diminished with the winter feeding of cattle, and the farmer one day the first of the week in procuring fodder, jabbed his pitch fork into the sleeping cub. The little chap it is related put up a worthy scrap, but succumbed to the yeoman's attack and was dispatched from his lairs world of trials and tribulation.

VERNON WEIR HEADS CLUB

Inspector Gardner Tells of Northern Ontario To Men's Club

The annual meeting of the Men's Club of St. Andrew's Church was held January 23rd in conjunction with the regular monthly meeting. The election of officers for the coming year was held with the following results: President, Mr. Vernon Weir; first vice-president, Mr. J. Baird; second vice-president, Mr. W. Carmichael; secretary, Dr. Jack Marshall; treasurer, Mr. D. Wright. Executive, Messrs. P. Rannels, Chas. Wood, Johnson, Jack Arden, Greer Roberts; attendance committee, Messrs. W. J. Campbell, Dave Pinson; membership committee, Messrs. Norman Wilkinson, Neil Reynolds; music committee, Prof. Wheatley; house committee, T. Weir's S. S. No. 1.

The speaker of the evening, Inspector Gardner of the Ontario Provincial Police was introduced by the retiring president, Mr. J. Worthington. Mr. Gardner gave an account of some of his experiences in Northern Ontario. The talk was one of the most interesting the club has had during the past year.

Master Warren Williamson, Chief Ranger of the Young Canadian Rangers of St. Andrew's Church, presided over the initiation of the Glen Ross Parliament, which was held in St. Andrew's College, and the following Christmas week. During the evening Mr. Andrews favored the members with two solos.

SKATING CLUB PERFORMS AT TWEED ARENA

Skaters And Band Delight Large Crowd at Tweed

Twenty members of the Belleville Skating Club accompanied by the Belleville Citizens' Band, motored to Tweed last evening, to present a program at Tweed Arena. A very large crowd attended and the spectacle were delighted with the fine performances. The skaters were warmly applauded and their skill highly praised. The ice was in excellent condition and the music of the band added to the enjoyment of the evening.

Directed by Stanley Wilbur, figure and fancy skating numbers were given, those taking part being skilled in smart skating. Among the numbers included Gordon and Chris Davies in a "double mystery" number; Clare Ridley and Elmer Ferguson in a special; a waltz by Gordon Davies; Waltz and ten step by Lillian Pyrchcki, Stanley Wilbur, Olivia Davies, Blake Weese, Phyllis Rawson, Gordon Davies, T. Mayhold, James Ferguson, Elmer Ferguson, Clare Ridley. An outstanding number was that of Jean Ridley and Elwood Bruce. Jack Murphy gave a performance of jumping, clearing five barrels, while Elwood Bruce gave a display of the fifteen minutes while Jack was on the ice.

After skating, the Club was entertained by the rink management at a delicious supper in Jerry Quinn's Confectionery, Tweed. The installation of the management was expressed in addresses of the Liberal-eating evening's entertainment closed at midnight.

Fatal Explosion Probe Reveals Car Movements

Port Colborne, Ont., Jan. 25—Police investigating the fatal blast of last Saturday night are in possession of definite information that a car, the green in colour, had left the scene just prior to the terrific explosion. They also knowledge that such a car was owned by authorities are redoubling their efforts to locate the vehicle. Investigators disclosed the fact that early this month Jack Dick, son of Mrs. Mary Dick, the owner of the car, had taken out insurance for additional $1,000 policy on furniture alleged to have belonged to him. With the disclosure of the additional $1,000 policy the insurance now totals $6,500, of which $4,500 was on the building and the balance on the contents.

TWO MILL ROAD RATE FOR 1934

County Council Adopts Report of Road Chairman

A recommendation for the report of the Roads and Bridges committee submitted by Chairman Jas. A. Moore, that a two mill rate for roads in the County of Hastings for the year 1934 be approved was adopted without comment at the forenoon meeting session of Hastings County Council. The following is the report submitted:

"To His Honour the Warden and the Members of the County Council, Gentlemen:

"Your Committee on Roads and Bridges submit for your consideration and approval the estimated expenditures for 1934 on the County Road system. They were by following the December Session, Auditors from the Accountants staff of the Department of Highways audited the road pay sheets and accounts for 1933 and found them correct, then checked with the Ledger and the Treasurer's Cash Account. This showed the various expenditures as were given to each member of the Council at the December Session.

"We are recommending that we continue this year with a 2-mill rate and that it be distributed according to the County boundaries and classifications, which are on a separate sheet and a copy given to each member of the Council.

"In 1931 with the Province of King's Highway the County's share of the expenditures was $32,535.00. In 1933 with the mileage increased by 134 miles, the County's share of the expenditures, which the County pays this year is $32,500.00.: In the same period the County's expenditures on the County System have been reduced from 4 to 2 mills. This has been done without very materially depreciating the service to the public.

We had local cooperation in 1933 with the various Reeves and with almost the same Council back, we feel confident, that the same cooperation will continue for 1934. We are endeavouring to keep as much labour as possible to assist each Township in connection with local unemployment by keeping as large a percentage as possible of the expenditure in local labour. In 1933 less than 12 per cent. of the expenditures went for materials manufactured outside the County. We expect to continue on that basis for 1934.

In the working out of the estimates the action taken by Council in the $25,000.00 granted in the December session in connection with the Bridge at Foxboro, Hulkanszynski was held for some days by police for questioning in connection with the death but released when he had a satisfactory alibi.

Characteristic Pomp as Federal Parliament Opens Fifth Session

With all the usual pomp and circumstance of Canada's Federal parliament opens today in Ottawa. The layout shows the Governor-General, who as the King's representative in Canada, read the speech from the throne. TOP CENTRE is seen the Parliament buildings in their winter setting. TOP RIGHT is Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, who faces what will probably be the last session of his present government. LOWER RIGHT is Rt. Hon. W. L. M. King, leader of his Majesty's loyal opposition. LOWER CENTRE is a scene typical of the House of Commons after the usual pomp and ceremony has been dispensed with, showing the members getting down to hard work.

Long Session Seen as Federal House Opens Last Term

Government Can Legally Hold Office Until 1935

OPTIMISTIC

Inflation For Public Works is Seen For Session

(By Wilfrid Eggleston)

Central Press Canadian Writer

Ottawa, Jan. 25—Parliament Hill glitters today with the pomp and ceremony of opening day. With guns booming, the cavities filling the air with bell-clear flashing and regimental marches, his Excellency arrives at the foot of the magnificent Peace Tower to open the fifth and probably the last—session of the seventeenth parliament.

Faced with momentous issues, parliament meets in a happier atmosphere than for four years. The threat of almost hopeless depression which hung like a pall on recent ceremonies of this kind is now pierced by more hopeful auguries. The era of deflation, retrenchment, "the dole," is giving way to another upward march. The program of the coming session reflects this altered spirit."

Ottawa today is a fascinating mixture of the old and the new. Age-old traditions cling to the speech from the throne, the stately gentleman usher of the black rod, the ostentatious gold mace which the sergeant-at-arms carries. But beneath the gaelish ceremony are modern problems pressing for settlement. This fuss and flurry, as the more radical term it, is the signal for the massive legislative mill to start grinding out its statutes. Anxious men and women, the chosen representatives of seven million Canadians, are gathered at the capital to grapple with unemployment, trade collapse, monetary tangles.

The speech from the Throne calls attention to the spectacular improvement in Canadian and world conditions since parliament last met and announces the intention to introduce legislation calling for the creation of a central bank. It promises constructive measures to deal with unemployment and business depression.

May Create Central Bank

Constructive measures of importance to every living Canadian are to be considered in this important session. The ten Canadian banks which are knocking on the doors of the royal chamber ten years of official life in the renewal of their charters. These will be granted no doubt, but important amendments may be made to the banking law of the country.

A financial reform of first importance is planned in the creation of a central bank, which will have the monopoly, so it is supposed, of the right to make and issue paper money. It will be the governor of the economic steam engine which controls the trade and commerce of the fifth greatest trading nation in the world. There will be many a weary hour of discussion in committee in the House of Commons and in the Senate, before the Earl of Bessborough gives royal assent to the measure.

Depending on the fate of the measure in the United States Senate, the St. Lawrence waterway treaty will be up for ratification in the Canadian parliament. This will be one of the most far-reaching projects ever considered by Ottawa —far greater in its financial cost and commercial scope than the Welland canal, or similar schemes. The Rhodes budget address, one of the highlights of the session, will be brighter than a year ago, but still far from rosy. No new taxes are expected, but a total deficit of 110 millions is expected. Half of this represents the failure of the Canadian National to meet its interest charges, 20 millions is due to unemployment relief costs, 23 millions is the shortage on ordinary account for the current fiscal year, about 30 millions less than the finance minister anticipated a year ago, but December and January income has been highly promising and the minister of finance may be able, with some confidence to predict a balanced budget by 1935.

Mild Inflation

A hundred million dollar public works project, designed to take the unemployed of Canada so far as possible off relief, and into the payroll line again, will, if business conditions continue to improve, be launched by the Federal Government in the spring. The most interesting new feature is the way it is to be financed. A note issue will be printed on the basis of gold already held—a mild form of inflation.

The House of Commons meets today because of several former members and one official. The cabinet appears before the galleries with a vacant chair to represent the front bench where Hon. E. B. Ryckman attended the department of National Revenue. The mace carried a year ago by Col. J. G. Gill, this year is borne by Lieut. Williams, the sergeant-at-arms, having passed away a few days earlier.

Three new members will be introduced to the House, coming in on the area of St. Hon. Mackenzie King and Hon. Ernest Lapointe. All three are Liberals. They come from such distant points as Mackenzie, Sask., Rimouski, Quebec, and Restigouche-Madawaska. One of them, Aime Boucher, has been in the House before, but was unseated on charges of election irregularities.

St. Lawrence Issue

The Senate has been stricken by death even more heavily than the Commons. Fourteen senators have died in the past year. Seven new members have been appointed, and in the course of the next few days will be introduced to their colleagues the "honorable members" of the red chamber.

Besides such front-page issues as central banks and St. Lawrence waterways, the coming session will deal with such legislation as a revision of the Excise Act, some clarification of the powers of the tariff board, a few changes in the tariff schedules, amendments to the companies Act.

There may be—though the likelihood is not great—it was—a bill introduced to create unemployment insurance for Canada—four-party arrangement by which the federal treasury, the provinces, the employer and the employee would contribute.

A drive for regulatory or compulsory marketing, which would include a wheat board, is being made upon Ottawa from many sections, and members have arrived at the capital full of ideas on the subject. The principal object would be to look up the prices of agricultural products, by direct control, and the general pattern would be that followed by the Agricultural Marketing Acts, in Great Britain. Plenty of opposition is in store for legislation along these lines.

Titles Debate

Titles will provide perhaps the most colourful and exciting debate of all, with the question being raised as to whether or not Premier Bennett's action in advising the King was not a flouting of the expressed will of the Canadian people, through the parliament of 1919.

Reciprocity with the United States again comes before the people, with William Duff, M.P., of Antigonish-Guysboro firing the opening gun. A Canadian flag, sponsored by C. H. McIntosh and C. H. Dickie, will also be debated.

What may overshadow some of these vital issues in the actual session will be party controversy. There is talk that this is the last session before a general election, although the government does not need to appeal to the people before 1935. The eve of an election is always a signal for the beating of party drums. Efforts will be made to frame an appeal; talk will be plentiful; and the session may last six months or more!

BOARD LOSES TWO MEMBERS

County Mothers' Allowance Board Regret Deaths

Hastings County Mothers' Allowance Board has been doubly bereaved inside of a week. Chairman Alex Ellis today, on behalf of the two other remaining members of the committee, Councillor Montgomery of Stirling, and Mrs. Simeon Fox of Madoc, expressed the sorrow of the board in the deaths of two members, Mrs. Charles H. Vanderwater and County Clerk W. H. Nugent.

"Our local board is greatly broken up by the death of Mrs. Vanderwater, our highly esteemed secretary. This is the second death within one week, Mr. Charles H. Vanderwater, our vice-chairman, passed away last week. Now our secretary, Mr. William H. Nugent who has been a member of the board, ever since it organization, has gone. Both these members were important officers, always giving of their best in the interest of those who found it necessary to come to the Mothers' Allowance Committee for assistance. It is with difficult to find successors to fill their places. Their cherished memories will long live with those of us who remain on the board."

Detailed Report Accepted by Members of the Council

Express Regrets at Deaths of Mrs. Vanderwater and W. H. Nugent

The following annual report of the Mothers' Allowance Local Board of Hastings County, read by chairman of the Board, Mr. Alex Moore, was adopted by Hasting County Council on Wednesday afternoon.

For your information I beg to advise that the Local Board have held six meetings during the year, commencing November 1st, 1932, and ending October 31st, 1933, all meetings having been held at the office of the County Clerk, Shire Hall, in the City of Belleville, on the first Monday of each month or some day especially fixed by the members of the Board. Meetings are only held when there are applications to consider or other important business to be dealt with by the Board.

The members comprising the board during the past 12 months being Mrs. Chas. Vanderwater, latterly deceased; Mrs. Simeon Fox; Mr. Thomas Montgomery, and the late Mr. W. H. Nugent, county clerk and Mr. Alex. Moore.

The members of the local board have, at all times made an honest endeavour to administer in the intent of the Act of Hastings and of the Province of Ontario, the affairs of the Mothers' Allowance Act, at the same time having due regard and sympathetic consideration for the welfare of those who had occasion to make application to the board for assistance.

Believing that a detailed statement of the number of cases dealt with by the Board during the year above-mentioned would be of interest to you, I hereby submit a complete list, both of applications received and granted, as follows:

Nationality by Birth— Canadian, 49 (87.50 per cent); other British 8 (7.7); Foreign 5 (4.85), Total 103 (100 per cent).

Disbursements

The total amount disbursed in Hastings County during the year was $32,168.00, fifty per cent. of which is chargeable to the municipality; an increase from the previous year of $3783.00. Amount disbursed 1st. Nov. 1920 to 31st. Oct., 1932, $296,230.00. Amount disbursed 1st. Nov. 1932 to 31st. Oct. 1933, $32,-168.00. Total disbursements to 31st Oct. 1933, $328,310.00.

It is with great sorrow and sincern regret that we record the very sudden death of Mrs. Charles H. Vanderwater, who was a member of the Mothers' Allowances Local Board of Hastings County. The late Mrs. Vanderwater has been a faithful member of the local board for about 14 years and always attentive to her duties. Her wise counsel and loving sympathy will be hard to fill. Her kindly and sympathetic consideration for the needy cases that came before the board for assistance from time to time, will be sadly missed, as well as her unfailing interest in the welfare of the children of a noble mother and loving wife.

The sympathy of the board is extended to the sorrowing family in their bereavement in the loss of a noble mother and loving wife.

It is with great sorrow that the local board deeply deplore the passing of their very highly esteemed secretary, Mr. Wm. H. Nugent, whose death took place January 23, 1934, and after the majority of details report was written. The late Mr. Nugent was appointed a member of the Mothers' Allowances Local Board of Hastings County in the year 1920, and was chairman for two years, when he was chosen secretary, which office he held however since. The members of the Mothers' Allowances Local Board in the highest regard and lament very much the loss sustained by the passing of their beloved friend and co-worker. He was a very efficient secretary and greatly appreciated by his associates. Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to the bereft family in the loss of a kind and loving husband and father.

With the aid of Mr. Nugent's very efficient secretary and his wise counsel which we have appreciated from time to time during his prolonged illness, he have carried on the business of the Local Board as usual.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

ALEX. MOORE,
Chairman

CHURCH MEETINGS

St. Andrew's.

A most successful congregation meeting was held by St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Tuesday night at the conclusion of the monthly meeting of the men's club, the same being held in the auditorium of the church. Kenneth S. Hill, the secretary, took the meeting which was presided over by Dr. J. A. Seymour, pastor of the church. Reports from the various societies of the church showed splendidd progress during the year and the expenses of the year were met out of the current revenue. A. R. Cameron, C. Delisle and Robert Goudy, retiring members from the Board of Management were re-appointed to the board and in addition, R. R. Silver, Leroy Hanson and Norman Williamson were elected. Alex Moore and Edgar Rutherford will act as auditors for the year. The board of management will meet in the near future and elect from that body the officers for the ensuing year.

THESE POST-WAR DAYS

Bishop Seager speaking before the London Rotary Club referred to post-war changes in the social order. He acknowledged the great debt of the British people to Puritanism from which many of the great virtues of the Victorians were derived but its system of limitations and inhibitions, he said had been shattered by the war though the underlying principles of morality remain the same and are expressing themselves in different and broader forms.

The bishop made a telling statement when he said that the word morality was tied up in most minds with sex, whereas it is much wider than that, it is the science of human relationships. The post-war acceptance of this view of morality it is which is influencing so profoundly the social, economic and political structure today. Views of the duty, scope and function of government are changing and the sphere of government is expanding.

According to the London Advertiser, "in the extension of governmental paternalism his Lordship sees grave dangers that call for vigilance, and difficulties demanding study and education." Bishop Seager "did not pass judgment on these new developments but pleaded for a firmer grasp of moral principles so that these would infuse, shape and control the changing social and industrial organism."

AIR-CONDITIONING OF HOMES

More attention is being paid this winter to weather than for some years past, first because of the wide variety of weather conditions which vary from day to day and then from the prevalence of colds and coughs. The condition of health is banned by some authorities as too much light and cloudy weather for the early part of the month of January.

Woodstock Sentinel Review claims that modern house construction is under criticism from heating engineers who claim that the old style of life in the kitchen with the roaring kettle on the range or box stove was healthier than the modern life because the hotwater heaters dry out the house and all the moisture of the atmosphere, the breathing air being made such as to irritate the delicate membranes and to encourage the attack of germs. The result is the need of air-conditioning study and exploration. The paper suggests an educative course for householders in the interests of the race.

CHANGE IN BODY STRUCTURE

Residents of the United States are interested in the experiments which have been carried on by Dr. E. A. Hooton of Harvard in making 125 measurements each of 3,100 visitors to the Hall of Science of the Century of Progress. The measurements are the most valuable collection of Middle West population on record.

According to Dr. Hooton the United States people are still strongly Nordic "predominently a long-headed, narrow-nosed, fair-skinned, brown-haired people with eyes neither blue nor gray, but mixed with brown pigment on a light background. But there are also in the U. S. tall Nordic-headed, round headed and dark long-headed Nordic-Mediterranean taller than were their Italian, Spanish and Greek ancestors."

New York Times takes objection to this deduction on the grounds that there are no pure racial types and that hence the measurements of Dr. Hooton are worthless until genetics has advanced so that the findings can be applied to the human race. All that the Times will admit is that "we can safely conclude that Americans are changing, thanks to intermarriage and environment. But this is probably true of Europeans and probably of Asiatics and Africans."

OVERSEAS SETTLEMENT

Canada will follow with peculiar interest the debate likely to develop on a motion which is to be submitted in the British House of Commons next Tuesday favorable to steps being taken to consider schemes for what is termed the redistribution of the population of the Empire, and proposing that, as a preliminary action, the Government of the United Kingdom shall consult the Dominions and Colonies with a view to the promotion of organized Empire settlement. This does not mean that an attempt is about to be made to resume Empire migration on a large scale and at an early date. Certainly there can be no serious advocacy of the immediate immigration of large numbers of people from Great Britain into Canada . . . . A chartered company or corporation, sustained by a committee of Empire interests which has been studying the question for the past two years, would be responsible for transporting the new settlers, clearing land for them and marketing their produce. The cost of settling a family in Canada, it is estimated, would be about $5,000."—The Montreal Gazette.

A WINTER'S DAY

(On Reading an Account of the Sunny South)

Who would live
Where sunbeams give?
It's winter in the Northland
Who would choose
A torrid cruise
And semi-tropic shades?
It's winter in the Northland
And it's great to be alive!

Here are clouds
That shade like shrouds
With the laughter of the skies:
Here are drifts
With many rifts
Where man their might defies.
Canada in winter-time
Is good enough for me!

Sheltered nooks,
Covered brooks,
Muffled waterfalls:
Sleigh-bells jingling,
Cheeks a-tingling,
A chickadee's sharp calls.
It's glorious to be abroad
Upon a winter's day!

"PIKE'S PEAK OR BUST" was a popular expression in the late 'eighties and in the Gay 'Nineties, but is not heard very often now. New York Herald Tribune revives the ancient shibboleth with a story of primitive transportation methods of 80 years ago, asserting that "Pike's Peak or Bust" wiped out a two million dollar haulage firm.

x x x

Russell, Majors and Waddell, of Leavenworth, Kansas, were giants of the transportation business in 1850, hauling supplies across the Western plains. Its long wagon trains started from Leavenworth where they connected with Missouri river freight boats, and wound their ways slowly to all the settlements of the great west.

x x

This was the West of the bad white man and the bad Indian, the bad Indians being largely the result of the bad white man, very bad rum, and loose morals generally. Government contracts held by the firm ran into millions for carrying supplies to army posts, while the freight of private individuals amounted to thousands of tons each year.

x

At times they utilized as many as 6,000 teamsters and 45,000 oxen to keep their freight moving. Acres of wagons, mountains of extra axletrees, herds of oxen, an investment of approximately $2,000,000, tremendous for those early days.

x

In 1858 gold was discovered near Pike's Peak in the uninhabited mountainous region of Western Kansas, many miles from either the Oregon or Santa Fe trails. The stampede was soon on with "Pike's Peak or Bust" as the prevailing slogan.

x

In a few months 25,000 people had gone into the hills around "Denver Town," one of the first settlements. The Rocky Mountain News was established by a printer from Omaha named William Byers, a Masonic lodge was started and civilization had arrived at Pike's Peak, all except suitable transportation facilities with the outside world.

x

Russell, Majors and Waddell started a passenger and freight service into the new camp, and in two years the two million dollar company was bankrupt, the last of their resources being taken over by the Central Overland California and Pike's Peak Express and the famous Pony Express to California.

Russell, Majors and Weddell were good business men, hardly westerners with the broad outlook of the great open spaces—they just took in too much territory and in including Pike's Peak or Bust in their reportory got more bust than anything else.

Encountering a Chelsea pensioner of advanced years, a small boy asked his father what he was.

"'Im," replied the father, "why, 'e's one of them coves wot fought in the Crimea War—abaht 'undred year ago, or thereabouts."

The youngster looked hard at the Pensioner. Then—with wonder in his eyes —"Strewth, ain't 'e took care of 'is uniform?"

"Sorry I gave you the wrong number," said the polite telephone operator.

"Don't mention it," answered the man who had made up his mind not to lose his temper. "I'm sure that the number you gave me was much better than the number I asked for. Only it just happened I wasn't able to use it."

SHY PEOPLE ARE GREATLY HANDICAPPED

Many Gifted Men And Women Suffer From Shyness

(By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D. Famous Authority on Health and Psychology)

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The sufferings that the shy individual endures, whether the latter be man, woman or child, would fill volumes.

Do what he will, this sufferer sees himself utterly hopeless and helpless. His reason tells him it is absurd to be so self-conscious. He knows that his legs won't give way when entering a room with the eyes of others turned upon him. He makes up his mind that he will fight his fears to a finish, come what may.

And yet, despite even a conviction of superiority over those with whom he comes in contact, beads of perspiration start on the brow, his knees tremble, his throat becomes dry and parched, and he experiences the sickest kind of sinking feeling in the pit of the stomach.

Scores and scores of capable and even gifted men and women have been handicapped in life by the cause of shyness they have actually become wretched in their achievements and manner. And on top of it they have developed all sorts of inferiority ideas. Shyness has made individuals, really social by nature, shun the very thing they would a dread contagious disease. It has prevented them in the business world from displaying their real capabilities and thus receiving the rightful recognition and due. It has checked the budding of love and has made of marriage a nightmare.

And curiously enough, many of our boldest and apparently least shy persons are suffering in the form of shyness just the same, only that they are hiding it with an exaggerated brazenness and impudence to cover up the real weakness which is tormenting them underneath. Cold, frigid natures are likewise often disguised by their very shyness, but a defense to cover up deep-rooted shyness. They accentuate themselves from others by appearing austere and indifferent. But underneath they feel quite differently. They want to mix with others and be like them. They yearn for human contacts like everybody else. Yet they are afraid to place themselves in positions where their shyness will come to the fore and embarrass them.

Shy individuals should go in for dancing lessons, boxing, fencing and all sorts of sports where stress is laid upon freedom, control and grace of muscular movements. The better able a person is to make his muscles respond at will the less shy he is likely to be.

Practice in elocution also helps, also daily drill in writing, so that self-confidence develops in expressing one's thoughts. The habit of good manners for all occasions is likewise to be recommended. The reading of books or seeing plays and pictures in which social relationships are stressed, will also prove beneficial. Shyness is a condition—and undoubtedly more important—that is due to the glandular of one's own emotional makeup.

Shyness always starts in childhood. Something occurred then. Perhaps a physical condition can be detected, that made the boy or girl feel guilty and ashamed. In the light of adults experience and perspective these shocks seem trivial and absurd. In childhood, however, little transgressions assume tremendous proportions.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Although the administration of Insulin helps the Diabetic to assimilables him to take more carbohydrate (starch and sugar) in his daily diet, this does not mean that he can eat as much starch and sugar as he pleases. The patient who relies on Insulin alone is making a dangerous error. Dietary carelessness should never be practiced even in mid cases of the disorder.

The Bond of Commerce

The man who opened a Savings Account with this Bank three years ago was given a receipt for the amount in his pass-book. His savings, plus interest, were available whenever he wished to have them.

To-day, if the money has not been withdrawn, his account is worth more than face value. Interest has been added and, owing to the fall in the price of retail goods, his money has a purchasing power at least 15 per cent greater than three years ago.

Fortunate is he who has kept his money in this Bank! Yet the advantage he has enjoyed are open to all who so far have missed them.

There is safely and profit for those who deposit their savings at any one of the 700 branches of this Bank.

Reduction of Capita Cost for Secondary Education Sought by County Council Resolution Passed Asking Department to Limit Costs

HEAVY BURDEN

Belleville Congratulated on Low Cost of Their School

The following motion by Phillip Cary, Reeve of Hastings and seconded by W. J. Davis, Reeve of Bangor, et al, at the Wednesday session of Hastings County Council was referred to the Committee on By-laws.

"Whereas the cost of secondary education has become a burden on the Counties

And whereas there is a tendency on the part of High and Continuation Schools to increase the cost of education to County pupils

"Be it therefore resolved that we, the County Council of the County of Hastings here assembled, do humbly petition the Department of Education of the Province of Ontario to so amend the High and Continuation Schools Act to limit the liability in respect of per capita cost of county pupils, that it shall not be in excess of the sum of $100 for pupils attending High Schools $75.00 for pupils attending Continuation Schools, and $125.00 for pupils attending Vocational Schools."

"And that copies of this petition be forwarded to the Hon. Geo.-S. Henry, Minister of Education and our members of the Legislature,

"Belleville," stated the Reeve, in commenting upon the petition, "is a perfect example of the economies that can be effected in schools. This city has one of the lowest costs per capita in the Province and the citizens should be proud of it."

The following list showing the cost to Hastings for pupils during the year 1933 was submitted by Reeve Carr to Council.

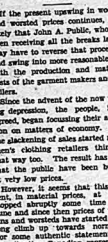
"ALL-BRAN WILL ALWAYS BE A PART OF MY DIET"

Delicious Cereal Corrected His Constipation

If you suffer from constipation, read this fine letter:

"I have been troubled for years with constipation. During this time, I have tried almost every one known remedy. Then some one recommended eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and the proper results followed immediately.

"Since eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN each morning, there has been a general improvement in my health without the ill effects that I formerly experienced when taking laxatives. I know Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will always be a part of my diet." Name given. If ill, read directions furnished upon request.



Research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this better—and safer than relying on patent medicines?

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to relieve ordinary constipation. But in severe, stubborn cases, if not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Be sure to ask for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. In the red-and-green packages. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

MUST WE PAY MORE FOR CLOTHES?

Woollens Going Up And Up

If the present upswing in woollen and worsted prices continues, it is feared that those of the public, who has been receiving all the breaks lately, may have to reverse that procedure and swing into reasonable step with the rise in production and material costs of the garment makers and retailers.

Since the advent of the now waning depression, the people, it is agreed, began focusing their attention on the matter of economy. Soon the slackening of sales started many men's clothing retailers thinking that way too. The result has been that the public have been buying at very low prices.

However, it seems that this destruction, in material prices, at least, has been stopped abruptly and there is a rise and drive in prices of woollens and worsteds have started their long climb up towards normalcy. For some authentic statements on the manufacturing situation representatives of domestic and Old Country mills were queried recently and the information is that there is a decided upward trend in material costs and a prospect of higher retail prices in the future.

One representative of a domestic mill, when interviewed said that there had been an increase of from 10 to 15 per cent in worsteds and in some cases even 20 per cent. He said that this representative stated, "that retail prices will have to rise 10 per cent to present compared to cost of material and the smaller will have to absorb his prices."

Another representative stated that the situation was very decidedly upwards in trend and will remain so. His last just withdrawn marked a 15 per cent. increase over June prices and the new list is expected to exceed that on its upward way. Canadian woollen mills say that they can cover orders at existing prices for the present but the public is expected to become brisk as many citizens feel they have postponed buying long enough and are anxious to replace clothing that have made service for several seasons. This is reflected in the increased demand for raw wool in England, Canada, Germany, and other large producers of fabrics. Also a representative of several old country mills comes still further reconfirmation of rising woollen prices. He, too, sets the upturn at last June. Demand has increased, he says, and mills are busy and the rise of prices is unmistakably reflected in recent sales quotations. The average advance, he has estimated by this representative, has been about 50 per cent. in woollens and 35 per cent. in worsteds since the stated period.

So there you have it. Reconstruction is parallies and John A. Public is, if he desires to be well dressed, will soon have to take more out of the pay envelope or savings account. Despite these predictions the rise in prices is said to be a healthy sign and the difficulty of securing even five minutes with any mill representatives seems to be another healthy sign of oncoming better times.

Grant Also Increased

After some discussion over the relative advantages of various committees and the saving which could be effected by taking out the children's aid inspectorate, a motion with a new company in preference to the Globe Concrete Co. Ltd., which had been handling the business of the County since the formation of Mr. Geo. Bush and seconded by J. D. Pennock, when put to Mr. the Globe Concrete Company was granted the renewal of the insurance by the vote of 15 to 13 for the year. A representative of the Canadian Company has been offered the year's contract at a price of $728.00.

A $100 grant will be made the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. This is an annual grant as made that institution.

A while past two dog friendless and alone in poverty on the Indian Reserve near Deseronto were found by the resident in reams of correspondence between Mr. E. Tyrell, M.P., and Ottawa officials with the correspondence being relayed to the Canadian Company that is to enforce the provisions of the County Council and the Belleville Board of Belleving, that payment rested with the government. As in case of the death of the Indian Agent Mr. Tunmon was appealed to in the matter.

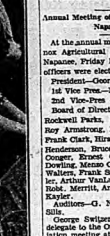
Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies do not quickly and permanently relieve Piles?

Why nothing does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cluse of Piles is internal?



That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel — the veins flabby from loss of tone?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy that combines astringent and restorative principles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt, known as the HEMO-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEMO-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation. It tones the veins. It drives out the thick impure blood. Heals and relieves. Satisfy or money back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in the city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Dr. Leonhardt's HEMO-ROID offers sufferer to try HEM-ROID with positive assurance of money-back if it does not end their Piles no matter how stubborn the case.

RECUPERATING STAR

BETTE DAVIS

Pronounced out of danger by her physicians, pretty Bette Davis, film star, is now seriously ill as the result of over-exposure to a sun lamp, will be able to resume her motion picture work soon.

Ottawa and the Indian Agent were adamant in their refusal to accept the charge. The matter was left in reams of correspondence will be dealt with in Ways and Means.

The correspondence between Mr. Caeser, Provincial Entomologist, and Ottawa officials regard to the appoint a corn borer inspector. An appeal had been sent out by the Canadian Canners plants of this district for an inspector.

Ottawa should do a corn borer inspector. He is very necessary". Writes Mr. Caeser to Mr. Melville of Deseronto. "Many thousands of dollars are paid out in this district to farmers for their produce, and it is they who will suffer if we let this lapse."

Wes Gray, Reeve of Thurlow: "Why should we have one, when I understand Prince Edward County didn't have one last year, and are not expected to this year?"

Deputy Reeve Percy Denyer: "As I understand it, Prince Edward has millions of little parasites hopping around there, so I'm told. They are living in the stalks, and farmers are busy harvesting, cutting them down and plowing them under as we have been doing here."

The matter was referred to the Ways and Means.

Delegates Named

Three delegates from the County Council, Warden Geo. Jordan, Reeve Jas. Moore, Chairman of Roads and Bridges, Simeon Fox, Roads Superintendent, and County Treasurer Wm. H. Haggerty have been named to attend the Good Roads Association Convention, to be held in Toronto in February. The date of membership fee to that Association was also paid.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and pop was taking a walk before supper and we came to a big store with a big sine in the window, saying, New, Modern, Up-to-Date Lightning Shave Tablets. Put one on your shaving brush and whisk it an instant before use. Before you can say Jack Robinson, the bristles that sprout like spuds on an ideer, pop said. As a charter member of the anti-safety razor association I think I better look into that he said.

So we went in the drug store, pop going to the man, I'm from Missouri send me a package of your Lightning Shave Tablets.

Well sir, it's a grate buy, you cant lose, the man said, and pop said, I always like to be shown.

Not this time, not on Lightning Shave Tablets, for the simple reason that an iron clad garantee goes with each and every package, the man said, or in other words, you try a tablet and if for any reason you're not satisfied you simply rapp up the rest of the package and send it to the man and he will send you back your money.

Being a little man with partly bald head, and pop said, Now that's just too bad, that just puts a permanent crimp in the deal.

Why, pop, I dont understand the man said, and pop said, Why, I've been using a shaving cabinet in connection with the same line in the window, and we went in and pop said to the man, I'll take a package of Lightning Shave Tablets if you can give them to me in a little ideence.

Okay, the man said. Being the only thing he said and this morning pop tried to shave his face with one of the tablets and when he had dropped off of his brush about 5 times he threw the rest of the package on the top shelf of his medicine cabinet and shaved himself in the regular way.

MAYOR HODGINS OF SARNIA TAKES POSITION

Only 26 Years Old and Youngest Mayor of Sarnia

Sarnia, Ont., Jan. 25.—(CP)—Plans for the funeral of Mayor Gordon Hodgins, who committed suicide by poisoning, were under way here today. Shortly after he had returned from the hospital, where he had been treated for injuries in an automobile crash, the body of the 26-year-old chief magistrate was found on his bed.

Mayor Hodgins was 26 years old, one of the youngest mayors ever elected here. For many years he had been employed as Chief Engineer and Operator at the Imperial Oil Refinery, and was President of the Imperial Athletic Association.

Magistrate Mikel Not Entitled to Extra Pay Says County Solicitor

Hastings County Councillors will take no action on the matter of the request of Magistrate W. C. Mikel, K.C., of this city, regarding payment for the hearing of prosecutions under the Provincial Police Act, it was announced by County Solicitor C. A. Payne, regarding By-law No. 949 providing for salary to Mr. Mikel for trying prosecutions under a By-law of any municipality in the County.

The following was submitted by Mr. Payne, 1933.

"I have considered the above mentioned By-law and in my opinion, as part of the duty of Police Magistrate, Mr. Mikel is required to hear, try and determine prosecutions under the Canadian Criminal Code, the Statutes of the Province of Ontario, as well as prosecutions under the By-law of any municipality of the County. This appears in Section 8, Sub-section 4 of the Police Magistrate's Act Revised Statutes of the Ontario, Chapter 119.

"I therefore doubt if Mikel is paid a salary as County Police Magistrate, as well as Police Magistrate in and for the City of Belleville, and I feel that the Corporation of the County of Hastings is under no obligation to pay Mr. Mikel any salary for hearing prosecutions under any municipal By-law of the County, or of the municipalities of the County," stated Mr. Mikel is recompensed for his services as such by the salary received him by the Province of Ontario as County Police Magistrate. Apparently, however, the County may be when they enacted By-law 949 on the 11th of January '32, to recompense him for the additional services, and apparently such By-law was revoked and cancelled by Paragraph 4 of By-law No. 1053.

"If Mr. Mikel was so notified of the revoking of the By-law No. 949 in respect to recompensing him for his services for trying such prosecutions under By-laws of the municipality, I do not see that Mr. Mikel has any claim against the municipality, as I believe that payment for such services could be discontinued by the County at any time they saw fit, if Mr. Mikel was not notified, however, I shall have to undertake to defend it if he could recover any part or portion of such salary."

It was moved by Reeve W. N. Ellis of Wollaston and seconded by Reeve R. C. Brett of Limerick Township, that Mr. Mikel be so notified.

Weddings

SMITH—HOLWAY

A pretty wedding was solemnized at Tabernacle United Church Parsonage this afternoon, when Myrtle Isabel, daughter of Mr. A. H. Holway and the late Mrs. Holway, became the bride of Mr. Kenneth Smith, son of Mr. Herbert Smith of Sharbot Lake, and the late Mrs. Smith. Rev. I. B. Naylor performed the ceremony at two-thirty.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was a charming picture in her frock of ashes of roses crepe trimmed with touches of brown. Her hat was a brown straw model. Miss Lillian Sowdcrl was bridesmaid and wore a frock of black and green with hat to match.

Mr. Arthur Seymour was groomsman.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Harold Holway, Victoria Avenue. The guests, about twenty-five in number, were received by the bride and groom and Mrs. Holway who wore Cairo blue crepe. Pink and white were used in the decorations and the bride's table was centred with pink roses.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Smith left on a wedding trip to eastern points, the bride travelling in a brown tweed ensemble When they return they will reside at 322 Pinter Avenue.

AUTO AND PLANE BUILT IN ONE

Seattle, Jan. 25—Aircraft that will fold its wings, and travel along highways was described here by its creator, Prof. John W. Miller, Associate Professor of Aeronautical Engineering at the University of Washington, as a possible fore-runner of a combined motor car and airplane.

Miller said the automobile-airplane was so designed that the engine power could be applied to its wheels, making possible its use to travel along highways to and from airports. He said he had driven it as much as 50 miles in this manner. The wings are telescoped.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE REGENT
"THE CONQUERING SEX"
AT THE BELLE THEATRE

Of interest in connection with the showing today and Friday at the Belle Theatre of "The Conquering Sex", Metro Goldwyn Mayer's latest screen triumph, is the fact that the picture marks Myrna Loy's first leading appearance before the camera and microphone.

With the exception of a brief sequence in "Love Me Tonight" in which she hummed a tune, the glamorous Myrna has not been seen in singing role in pictures.

Miss Loy last starred with Warner Baxter in "Penthouse" has recently established herself as one of the most popular and outstanding of the screen's feminine stars.

The picture is notable for its abundance of human, catchy music, its and thickly studded laughs and serves to introduce to Belleville screen fans the latest screen surprise star, a handsome boy, a fine actor he brings to the screen a new conception of "romantic lover", and adds to it all the charm of a healthy, bubbling personality. Some say he is the most exciting discovery since Rudolph Valentino.

Tonight is "treasure" night at the Belle, when ten valuable gifts of Fireside Furniture and Hardware Ware will be given away free at 9 p.m. Coupons dispalrs up to 8 p.m. tonight are eligible to receive one of these beautiful gifts.

"Alice In Wonderland"

The most spectacular version of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" comes to the Belle Saturday. Produced by Paramount, the fantastic settings, unusual makeup and novelty of the treatment and the fast moving story all go to make the picture one of the outstanding hits of the season. Alice is there in the person of Charlotte Henry; as are the Duchess, the King and Queen of Hearts, the White Rabbit, the Cheshire Cat, the White Knight and Humpty Dumpty. The picture boasts the greatest cast ever assembled. Dorothy Wick appears on the same program in "Cradle Song".

AT THE CAPITOL
"WHITE WOMAN"
AND
"HORSE PLAY"

One woman among slinking treacherous Malay natives and ruthless, woman-starved white men, is the situation in which Claudette Lombard, motion picture actress, finds herself in "White Woman", Paramount picture, coming today to the Capitol Theatre.

Directed by Stuart Walker, well known stock director and producer, the picture co-stars Charles Laughton, Charles Bickford, Kent Taylor, Dorothy Stickney, Carl Stockdale, Clarence Muse, Jane Darwell, Olaf Hytten and Lucien Prival, all of the screen's leading colored actors.

Shunned by society, the victim of malicious gossip, Miss Lombard seeks livelihood as entertainer in a questionable Malay dive. Coveted by Laughton, coarse overlord of the plantation, she commands the love of the old housebeat, far in the jungle, from which he takes refuge in drink and finally marries him.

Thrown into this "mad stop from hell" by the white woman in a rendevous of broken rene-gades, chained to the brutal overseerdheless, fights with all her womanly instincts to redeem Miss Taylor, young, handsome member of Laughton's staff.

And the strange romance between this lone white woman and the half-caste girl who has lost his soul in this legion of the damned, furnishes the substance of the story.

Slim Summerville

The comedy is "Horse Play". Universally latest laugh-provoker, co-starring Slim Summerville and Andy Devine, teamed together for the first time, is supported by a cast which includes such stellar names as Leila Hyams, playing the feminine lead, and Guy Kibbee, Una O'Connor, David Torrence, Lucille Gleason, the White Rabbit, the Reefs and Ferdinand Gottschalk.

The story of "Horse Play" cannot be aptly called the "tale" of a horse, but through the many upheavings of Slim and Andy, two western cowboys, the animal is finally presented with royal splendor —through a maze of roaring circumstances which do not include the apple of Slim's bashful eye.

The locale is laid in the dust-clouded reaches of a Montana ranch in the fog-drenched streets of London and an English baronial estate and depicts the career of an American girl, a horse and a love-smitten cowboy—all of whom are precipitated into many an amusing situation.

The rousing farce was directed by Edward Sedgwick.

It's a long time since Belleville ever saw such an excellent double bill at popular prices.

S. S. Contest Losers Entertain Their Opponents at Banquet

Is Superintendent For Twenty-Sixth Term

IS HONORED

C. F. Wessels Presented With Gift By School

Wooler—Six months ago the Sunday School, adults and intermediates entered in a competition based on attendance, the losing side was to tender a banquet to the whole school. The result of the competition was that the adults won by ten. The Intermediates sponsored a banquet in United Church parlors on Wednesday evening, January 17. One hundred and forty people gathered around the tables and after the sumptuous meal—singing was engaged in by all. Rev. A. Poulter acted as chairman, duties of receiving reports and election of officers for 1934.

Superintendent C. F. Wessels who will be entering upon the 26th year as head, thanking people strongly but the unanimous vote overwhelmingly he consented to accept this office for 1934. Assistant, Secretary, Mrs. Edgar Garnard Richards; Treasurer, Douglas Fox; Supt. of Cradle Roll, Mrs. A. Poulter; Supt. of Missionary Work, Mrs. Chas. McColl; Supt. of Temperance, Mrs. Fred Cowan; Pianist, Mrs. C. F. Wessels; Librarians, Raymond Thacker—Teachers for classes not organized— Boys' Class, C. F. Wessels; Girls' Class, Vera Cunnia; Primary Class, Mrs. Read; Beginner's, Mrs. Ervon Scott with assistant, Mrs. Pulman; Vera Coutts and Edith Austin favored with a vocal duet followed by vocal solo by Eva Ireland and a piano duet by Mrs. L. H. Rowe and Mrs. Marion Bell. The next was an address read by Mrs. S. L. Terrill to the superintendent C. F. Wessels.

Wooler, Jan. 17, 1934

Mr. C. F. Wessels,
Dear Superintendent:

Whereas members of the Sunday School have gathered here tonight for the sequesting table as a result of the keen competition of attendance during the past five months and it has been evident that our Superintendent believed that no life is wasted in the Great Worker's hand; the gem too poor for polish itself; we grind to brighten others; the blue of heaven is larger than the mind.

We are not indulging in vain flattery when we say we have watched your interest unfold with double interest because we have watched you grow from the young boys. You have always been a good sport and a good friend ever since we first kindly deed. Therefore we take this opportunity to express the joy we have in our fellowship with you in Sunday School work. When as Superintendent you have shown the the superintendent seem trivial and unappreciated or unnoticed.

A common place sun in a common place sky
Makes up a common place day
And the moon and the stars are common place things
And the flowers that bloom and the brooks that sing
But God-who studies each separate thing
Out of the common place things make His wonderful whole.

We would ask you to accept this little gift, and as you use it may it remind you of the respect and esteem in which your are held by the Sunday School.

Presentation

Clarke McColl made the presentation of a set of military brushes. The evening continued with the congregation singing "Auld Lang Syne" Officers were encouraging and appointment of officers for 1934. Mrs. Percy Whaley beautifully expressed the appreciation of the Staff and Mrs. Poulter in the church and community and fitting special words with the young people and junior congregation. Mr. F. A. Dorland seconding Mr. Whaley's words and the congregation rose to their feet singing "For they are jolly good fellows". A dialogue "Jelly for the Minister" was very ably put on by Misses O. Elford, Eva Masters and Anne Bell. The orchestra closed the meeting with a selection and then God Save The King.

W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada held its eighth annual meeting of the Cobourg Presbyterial at St. Paul's Church, Warkworth on April 18, 1934. Morning session opened at 9.30 and the Worship Service conducted by Castleton ladies. A Courtesy Committee was named, Mrs. (Rev.) Terrill of Grafton, Mrs. (Rev.) Boyce of Brighton and Mrs. Hannigan of Campbellford. Mrs. Barringer of Warkworth welcomed the delegates to their town and church. We think we are merely auxiliary members but we are a wonderful body of women banded together in God's service to send the Gospel by our prayer and service to the non-Christian hands. Again we welcome you and may you be warm and comfortable throughout these sessions. Mrs. Thompson replied that we were warm in more ways than one. We send conventions we need inspirations and we appreciate the kind words of welcome. Report of Executive meeting was given by A. M. Smale. Report of Correspondence Secretary, Mrs. Harry Pringall. Smithfield; Treasurer's Statement, Mrs. J. C. Field, Cobourg. Dedicatory Prayer by Mrs. Atkinson, Dartford; Secretary of C. Stewardship, Mrs. Ferguson, Salem brook; Secretary of Work of Young Women, Mrs. Jas. Bond of Grafton.

The banner went to the girls of Campbellford, Mission Band and Baby Band—Mrs. Rutherford, Verpontville.

The banner goes to Baltimore and Bethesda, each six months literature, Mrs. J. J. Way (Wooler) suggestions for conducting missionary reading, contest in the Presbyterial, and many books and leaflets were on table for distribution.

Associate Helpers: Mrs. A. E. Lewis, Wooler. An offer which seems difficult to fill in the local auxiliary, but we find talented women wherever we go them something to do and this work is a comfort to the aged.

Supply Work: J. G. Waite, Colborne, the amount in this presbyterial year were valued $1248.69. Quiet hall hour, Mrs. C. W. Barrett, Brighton.

Memorium service in afternoon conducted by Mrs. Mears, Port Hope. Reports from C.G.I.T.'s, Mintowe, Grafton, Missionary Monthly and World Friends. Mrs. Rose Maitland, Brighton, Stranger's Secretary, Mrs. Bedell, Brighton. Press, Mrs. Gray, Garden Hill. Temperance, Mrs. Thompson, Cobourg. Prohibition is not dead, the dam is broken but will be repaired again.

Miss Annie Allen, Tokio, Japan, was introduced and gave a talk on "Our Missionary Work in Japan."

The President, Mrs. Ashton, Campbellford, in her address left us this thought—we all believe in prayer, some have money and some have not, some have talent and some have not, but every one has a life to live.

Report of nominating committee and election of officers followed for 1934.

POLICE COURT

Charged with keeping liquor for sale Frank High of this city was sentenced to serve three months in the common jail when arraigned before Magistrate Mikel. High pleaded guilty to the charge, asking to be deported at the termination of his jail term.

The sentence includes two months for keeping for sale and an additional two months for not disclosing to the court from whence the liquor was procured, owing to the fact High does not possess an individual liquor permit.

The arrest followed a police raid by the local police, assisted by the provincial police, on the High residence at an early hour this morning, when six bottles of rye whiskey and a thirty-six quarts of beer were found cached under the bedroom floor. The liquor was ordered confiscated by His Worship.

The information in the case came after a commercial traveller had complained to the police of having "robbed" of $31.00. This traveller informed the night sergeant that he accompanied by a local woman he had purchased liquor from High. After taking the woman in question home he mixed his money, the complaint said following.

SEARCH FOR TWO AIRMEN

Fort Bragg, N.C., Jan. 22—The Coast Guardsmen and aeroplane pilots were scrambling today for two men missing since the ice on Sagittar Bay broke up, trapping several score fishermen.

The ice was dotted with fishing shacks and the rescuers believed it began to break up before a strong southwesterly wind yesterday. All but two of the fishermen made their way to the mainland, which many of the cars were parked, and which adhered to the mainland.

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 25—The high-priced gold shares were given a mild shake down in the early session of the Standard Mining Exchange today, while secondary gold issues, base metals and silvers also weakened moderately. The session was one of slow trading, except in a few penny stocks.

Active trading in International Nickle in the first hour eased up before noon and the price drifted down from $23.20 to $22.90 for a net loss of 10 cents. Noranda held a small gain at $34.15 and Base Metals Corporation was off 2.

Hollinger and Teck Hughes were the most active of the senior gold group, the former selling down to $11.75, off 40 cents and Teck dropped 10 cents to $5.90. Dome lost 25 to $32.75, Lake Shore 25 to $42.75, Pioneer 70 to 11.35 and Wright Hargreaves held unchanged at 6.85.

NEW YORK FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 25—(AP)— Financial markets, while somewhat spiritless today, did not appear to be especially dispirited.

Stocks followed a rather dull routine in the early hours and prices of some of the recently buoyant leaders were disposed to ease a trifle under intermittent profit taking flurries. There was nothing unusually heavy.

Shares of some of the motor and automobile accessory companies moved up moderately in response to prognostications of better business. Such issues as American Telephone, U.S. Steel, American Can, Consolidated Gas, Du Pont, N. Y. Central Union Pacific, Santa Fee and Westinghouse yielded small portions of their recent gains. The metals were hesitant and the utilities lagged a bit.

Canadian securities moved on a fairly level keel today. Shares of McIntyre, Dome, Canadian Pacific and International Nickel ruled unchanged to a trifle lower. On the curb Hiram Walker firmed a point but Lake Shore Mines eased a bit. Dominion government 4 1-2s edged a shade higher and other maturities were unchanged. The Canadian dollar remained unchanged from yesterday at 99.12 1-2 cents.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 25. — Volume was confined mainly to the Distillery shares and Brewing Corporation, Ford "A" and Imperial Oil in today's morning operations on the Toronto Stock Exchange and prices were inclined to firm up.

Ford "A" came out in substantial blocks at 19½ for a gain of ¼. International Nickel was active and higher in early trading but in the second hour buying fell off and the price eased to $22.90, off 10 cents. Brazilian at 13 and C.P.R. at 16¼ were unchanged.

Walker's Common took the lead for volume and at noon the price was holding at 50¾ for a gain of ⅝, after hitting 51¾. Industrial Alcohol was unchanged at 19 and Distillers Seagrams at 23¼ was up 1-4 Brewers and Distillers dropped back 10 cents to $2.65.

PRODUCE PRICES IN MONTREAL

Fresh egg prices at Montreal, which held steady Monday and Tuesday at last week's closing levels, dropped 3c per dozen yesterday in carlot or l.c.l. lots. Graded shipments became 30-31c for grade A-large, 28-29c; for grade A-medium, and 26-27c for grade A-pullets. Receipts continued heavier, totaling 1,545 cases, against 745 cases a week ago. In the first three days of this week egg receipts have aggregated 3,442 cases, compared with 1,780 cases in the same three days last week, being just double. "B" eggs or storage grades, are practically off the market now, practically all trading being in fresh eggs.

The butter market was firm at 24 3-4c to 25c per lb. for No. 1 pasteurized regraded in carlots or l.c.l. lots. Receipts were 491 boxes. The cheese market held steady at 10 1-2c for current make Ontarios. Receipts 39 boxes.

The potato market is quoted as follows: Number of cars on track including broken 53. Supplies liberal demand moderate, market steady. N. B. Mountains, 80 lbs. No. 1, $1.05 to $1.15; 15-lbs. fancy, 27c; Quebec whites, 80 lbs. No. 1 95c to $1.; P.E.I. Mountains, 90 lbs. No. 1, $1.20 to $1.30.

"Torch Singer" May Try Stage Comeback

Philadelphia, Jan. 25 (AP) — Libby Holman, "torch singer" who was widowed by the bullet which killed Z. Smith Reynolds, heir to tobacco millions, is studying dramatics for what is believed to be an intended Broadway comeback.

In a select class of 12 pupils, she is treading the path which has been beaten to the door of the Hedgerow Theatre, in the beautiful little Rose Valley 25 miles outside Philadelphia.

ANOTHER RUNA WAY ROMANCE?

MARGARET SULLAVAN AND JED HARRIS

Hollywood is all agog at persistent reports that Margaret Sullavan, film star, and Jed Harris, New York theatrical producer, have become Mr. and Mrs. by the elopment route. Miss Sullavan's absence from Hollywood and Harris' mysterious departure from Broadway started rumors.

STUDENT SHOT THROUGH FACE

Madrid, Jan. 25—(AP)—Antonio Zarraca, director of the Students' Federation, was shot through the face today in a clash between students at the Medical College clinic.

Students of the Conservative and Liberal elements battled as the result of the suspension of classes by authorities. Civil guards finally dispersed them.

Twenty students were arrested after another gun battle—this without casualties—at the Castellana Teachers College.

PAIR SENT TO TRIAL

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 25 (CP) — John Carson and Harold Cunningham arrested recently in Toronto and brought to Hamilton, were this morning committed for trial on a charge of holding up the staff of the Westdale Branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here on Aug. 2 last. About $2,000 was secured in the robbery. Two other men are at present serving terms for their part in the affair.

IN MEMORIAM

CARR—In loving memory of a loving husband and father, Charles Carr, who passed away Jan. 25, 1931.

Three years have passed how swift
time flies,
Love's sweetest memory never dies;
I miss your help, your cheerful
way,
With you I spent my happiest day.
I miss you when I need a friend,
On you I always could depend.
You cheered my life, you soothed
my pain,
God grant some day, we will meet
again,
Where parting is no more.

Thanksgiving Date Discussed

In an attempt to have a fixed date for Thanksgiving Day, a resolution from the County Council of Wellington County was received by Hastings County Council on Wednesday morning asking concurrence to the fixing of the last Monday of November as that day.

"Too slow to Christmas," demurred members of the County Council when the resolution was read.

"It should be the last Monday in October," stated Reeve Phillip Carr of Newton. We can't have a date that unless we ask them to change the date."

"Let us set the date, and have the governments ask the best one for from the resolutions sent in by the county councils," suggested W. J. Leslie, Reeve of Bangor.

"Let's have it in Indian Summer time when the people have the best to enjoy himself in the open," stated Reeve Carr.

It was moved by W. N. Gilroy, seconded by Phillip Carr, and amended that the date be changed to the last Monday in October, and that the resolution read as such.

LADIES' AID HAS SOCIAL EVENING

Ram's Bravery Alone Saves His Life

17 Ewes and 18 Lambs Destroyed by Dogs

STONEY CREEK, Ont., Jan. 24. —(CP)—For the third time in the past six months, sheep killers raided the flock of Robert Kerr, who lives near here, last night, killing all but a Shropshire ram. Three times he had withstood the onslaught of the dogs, coming through unscathed. In all 17 ewes and 18 lambs were destroyed. "Had the ram not shown fight he would have gone down too," declared Mr. Kerr.

The BIG REASON why OLD DUTCH CLEANSER costs less to use

It's very simple. These illustrations show how entirely different Old Dutch is from ordinary, gritty cleansers . . . and it's this difference that makes it cost less to use. You get a fall package containing billions of active little cleansers; tiny, flat-shaped particles that cover much more surface, go much further and do so much more actual cleaning per penny of cost.

Old Dutch is the only cleanser made of pure "seismotite" scientifically recognized as the safest, most efficient and most economical cleaning material. Try it and you'll quickly discover that it saves you money, time and labour, that it cleans quicker, doesn't clog drains, is odorless and removes odors. There is no substitute for the quality and economy of Old Dutch Cleanser.

Springbrook Lodge Marks Birthday of I. O. O. F. Founder

Two Hundred Attend Oyster Supper, Program

Bonarlaw, Jan. 24 (Special)—At the request of Mr. W. H. Heath, District Deputy Grand Master, Independent Order of Oddfellows, for this district, Springbrook Lodge No. 429 held an oyster supper and social evening in the Orange Hall at Springbrook, Friday evening, Jan. 19, to mark the birthday of Thomas Wylie, the founder of the order.

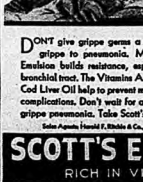
The supper was served from 6:30 p.m. to 8.00 p.m. and proved to be a sumptuous feast. The ladies provided many good things and great praise was given Mr. John Morrison who cooked the oysters just right.

Over two hundred persons partook of the supper after which they attended a short informal program in the Dance Hall. The guest speakers were Rev. Canon W. G. Swayne, Rector of St. Mark's Church, Bonarlaw, and Mr. R. T. Dunlop, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Stirling. Mr. Swayne gave great praise to the Order pointing out the many benefits of becoming an Oddfellow. Mr. Dunlop in a very masterly way pointed out the various ways in which the world, and particularly our country, are in a much better condition than they were a year ago. We have every reason to be optimistic.

Musical numbers were contributed as follows: Duet, "Who's to Blame" by Mr. and Mrs. Sid Mason; duet by the little son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Ketcheson: duet, "Have You Ever Been Lonely" by Miss Laura Mason and Mr. J. F. Baker; comic song and encore by J. F. Baker.

Mr. W. J. Barlow, Noble Grand of Springbrook Lodge, acted as chairman in a very capable manner.

After the concert, music was furnished by an orchestra composed of Clarence McKeown, violin; Maurice Bell, banjo, and Miss K. Doyle, piano and round and square dancing was indulged in.



COUNTY POLICE COURT

Charles McCaw, Tudor township, was sentenced to serve two months in the common jail at hard labor after pleading guilty to a charge of assault causing actual bodily harm when arraigned before Magistrate Ketcheson in Belleville this morning.

The charge arose following McCaw's arrest at the termination of a fistic encounter during which McCaw is alleged to have struck a woman. The incident occurred after McCaw had been knocked down by a neighbor with whom he was quarreling. Upon rising McCaw hit the lady at his adversary swinging at random. It is said a woman spectator was struck by McCaw and injured.

The accused man was reprimanded by His Worship for his actions. B. C. Donnan, K.C., local crown attorney, conducted the prosecution and asked for the maximum penalty by Mr. and Mrs. Sid Mason; duet in the case.

ONLY A STEP FROM GRIPPE TO PNEUMONIA

DON'T give grippe germs a chance! It's but a step from grippe to pneumonia. Millions have found Scott's Emulsion builds resistance, especially to diseases of the bronchial tract. The Vitamins A and D in Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil help to prevent many a case of grippe . . . and complications. Don't wait for a cold to become grippe, or grippe pneumonia. Take Scott's Emulsion regularly now.

LOAFS WITHOUT LUMPS BRING HONOR TO COOK

New Dishes With Piquant Flavor Deserve Medal

By KATHERINE BAKER

For buffet or bridge lunches, the new loaf salads are delicious. They belong to the class of cooking for which the French might give the chef the accolade of a big chest; banner and medal would tell all the world that he was a genius. But something Canadian cooks may yet have a similar honor. In the meantime, guests will feel like giving the hostess a dozen medals when she serves a molded chicken loaf or jellied ham and celery.

There is a hint of onion, raw and minced the way men like it, in these new salads. They may be served in slices from the loaf or molded for salads.

Molded Chicken Loaf

1 package quick-setting lemon jelly powder.
1-2 cup stuffed olives, finely chopped.
1 cup chicken cut in small pieces
1 cup celery, finely chopped.
1 pimento finely chopped
1 teaspoon scraped onion
Dash of Worcestershire sauce.
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 3-4 cups fresh chicken stock free from fat
1 cup pecans coarsely chopped
1 green pepper finely chopped
3 tablespoons vinegar.
Dash of Worcestershire sauce.

Dissolve jelly powder in warm chicken stock. Add the remaining ingredients. When jelly is slightly thickened, fold in chicken mixture. Turn into loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve in slices. Or mold in ring mold, and serve as salad garnished with mayonnaise. Serves 8.

Jellied ham and celery make a little bit of good ham go a long way in a fine loaf.

1 package quick setting lime jelly powder.
1-2 teaspoon salt.
1 cup cooking ham, finely chopped
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 1-4 cups warm water
1-4 cup vinegar
1-2 cup celery finely chopped
2 sweet pickles finely chopped.

Dissolve jelly powder in warm water. Add vinegar, and salt. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in ham, celery, onion and pickles. Pour into loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmould. Serve in slices. Garnish with crisp water cress. Serves 10.

Mr. Will Stapley was on the sick list the past week.

ANOTHER HOLLYWOOD ROMANCE SHATTERED

Johnny Weissmuller and Lupe Velez al Parting of Ways.

Hollywood, Jan. 24 (AP)—The Examiner said today that Johnny Weissmuller, swimmer-actor, and Lupe Velez, Mexican film actress, who were married secretly last June, 10, in Las Vegas, Nev., had decided on a separation.

"I guess it's Hollywood," the actress was quoted. "It's no use, Johnny and I, we fight, we fight, we fight. It's fifty-fifty. I don't put the blame on him. I don't put the blame on myself . We just cannot get along together."

The couple had given no prior indication that their marriage was approaching difficulties, having been seen in public together constantly. Found at the ringside of a prize fight last night, the actress said she didn't believe she would "take Johnny back." Weissmuller said nothing.

MORE TAXES ARE PAID IN

Better Tone Felt in Various Parts of County

Hastings County Treasurer James Haggerty told The Ontario Intelligencer today that the tax collections for the year 1933 were slightly better than those for the preceding year.

Warden George Jordan told the reporter that the chief improvement was in the increase in the price of hogs, and added that conditions among farmers were not yet too rosy, although greater confidence is apparent throughout the country.

Reeve James Sprackett of Tudor, painted a brighter picture of the lumbering industry with the prospect of advance in prices during the present year. Pulpwood has already been cleared out of the district and higher prices are expected.

Belleville Juniors Win 5-4 in Trenton to Head Group and Appear Headed for Title

Eddie Thomas Had Locals Clicking And Won Breezing

SPOIL CHANCES

Losers Continually Going Over Line Ahead of The Play

Trenton, Jan. 25—(Special)—Eddie Thomas and his Belleville Juniors invaded Trenton last night and left with a win 5-4 to put the red and white on top of the local Junior O.H.A. group. It also handed the second old days to see Eddie back at the helm of the Belleville team.

The locals were defeated but not beaten as they couldn't stand the pace, but they didn't have the finishing and the nets and collectively and individually were the blue line ahead of the play. Jack Kidd was the work shredder at this, although he played a good game but many times when men were coming up nicely only to have the play stopped for this infraction of the rules.

Eddie has a nice working team with a good goalie in Sinfield and the same can be said of the defence with Sarah and "Bob" Greer, ang not much choice among the six for forwards.

The locals were without the services of Mitchell on defence but "Shrimp" Jones filled the bill especially in the first frame when he broke up many plays, when the puck and what not, and by the whole team worked forward trying to get that elusive first tally.

The visitors opened hostilities after the locals had testog Sinfield a couple of times without success. Shaw Hollingsworth made a nice end solo to score, Bruce Burtt got very little to show for his work in stealing and charging, which was considerable.

Ray Fox evened matters when he beat Sinfield on a pass out from Jack Kidd. Trenton got the lead again on for his second counter a minute later. Harvey got a beauty 5-4 for the visitors when he let a long drive from side centre to beat Cole fool well.

Burtt and Greer were banished to the bench before the period for a little rough house in the corner.

Second Period

The locals opened the second period again playing wonderful hockey and Jarrdag, tallied to start the ball rolling, unassisted, to get it against black and white.

Lael was going in on an open net when McElrath tripped him for a rest. The locals began to bear down half way through the period and for the remainder of the game were constantly bombarding the Belleville Fox netting his second counter on a pass from Thompson. Fox, Kidd and Thompson, continually steamed in but could not score. Several times the puck was stopped at the blue line for overhanding when all looking headed for a score.

Bibley drew a rest and later Thompson, when he threw his stick. High sailed in twice to miss an open net. The locals were playing fire up and Greer was penalized, when he charged Lael who was rounding the defence. When the ball sounded Trenton was racing in on the local net.

Barrage Gets Another

"Oy" Barrieau did the same as the period before when he beat Cole fool from a face off near the end of the opening bell.

For the remainder of the period the locals kept Thomas' lads busy with five men up. Fox notched his tieing goal when he took a pass in front of the net from "Flitch" Sinfield in the corner. Winning the puck Fox shot at the net and missed by an inch but it went to Kidd on the side and out in front of Sinfield when Jack Kidd skated it in for the locals' fourth.

Ostirell made some fine saves in the last, when he was on the ice with no one to beat.

The winning of Trenton junior squad of 1931-32 was again out but has slowed up considerably for want of practice.

Second Line Best

The second line of Kidd and Thompson and the third combination which often Trenton Bowie Burtt and Greer, were the best bet to win the Belleville combination with Bibley and Jones.

When the locals got with the play Trenton was unable to get a shot at the combination that first finish they will be hard to beat in this group.

Cheers, thompson, handled the ball in a clever manner and he is about to become continuity for the blue line drive.

Trenton first penalty Jarrdag Thompson and Lael, 2 minutes each; Greer and Burtt; 5l. lavoies, Fox, Kidd, Jones and Bibley.

Belleville—Cool Sinfield; defence: McElrath and Jones; forwards: Jarrdag, Fox and Bibley.

Trenton—Kidd (Pox) 1.00
Penalties—1st period, Greer, (3); Greer, 2nd period—McElrath, Ebbler, Thompson, Greer. 3rd period —Lael, Harvey.

COBOURG TEAM HERE FRIDAY

Many Players on Team Familiar to Fans of City

Although Belleville hockey clubs were at one time included in the Lake Shore section of Intermediate O.H.A. hockey it is many years since Cobourg and Belleville have been grouped together in O.H.A. competition. For the first time in many years a Cobourg hockey team will meet a local intermediate club in O.H.A. competition, when the Cobourg Waverleys cross sticks with the Belleville Bee Hive combination at the Belleville arena on Friday night.

The Waverleys boast of a hard-checking rugged team of rough and ready hockey players who give the fans plenty of excitement from the start of the game until the final song is sounded. Many players on the Cobourg line-up have been seen locally including Archie Campbell, who performed in the Belleville intermediate ranks, Percy "Hoot" Gibson of baseball fame, Max Gerald), the ace-forward master, and Wesley Day, who played both baseball and hockey in Dekon as well as Intermediate to local sport lovers. McCoubrey is considered to be the best defence and the average goal - keeper while Captain Stapley and Day have proven themselves a tough defence to penetrate thus far in the season. Forwards Ed-Belleville and Hastings County packsters already mentioned. Freeborn and Gerald, the latter are veterans on the forward line.

As far the Belleville Intermediates they face the acid test on Friday night as they must win to keep the Cobourg rivals in order to keep pace with the league leading Peterborough Admanac. Manager Patterson has left out the Montreal game hoping that recently downed the Maroons and the Trenton Intermediates, the popularity of which are members of the recently crowned champions of the Kingston City League, Coach Lt'Heureux has been centering his activities on the perfecting of combination in the new forward passing rule in vogue thus assuring the fans of a wide-open game of hockey.

As has been the custom in the O.H.A. thus far this season the identity of the referee for Friday night's game will not be known until that official arrives at the arena.

DEACON A. C. HEADS LOOP

The local Deacon A. C. basketball team moved into first position in the Y.M.C.A. league of the O.A.B.A. circles, when they downed the strong R.M.C. Jrs. 42-14 on Kingston last night by the score of 24 to 4 at the Deacon home floor. The Deacons latze dropped a closely fought cage game to the Cadet intermediates by the score of 23-14.

The Deacon Juniors set up a defence, that proved practically better perfect when they kept the Cadets Juniors from the scoring sheet in the second half, they scoring but two points in the first few minutes of the minutes. Moffatt and Mackay being the only Cadet eagers to shoot basket during the second half.

The local Laughlin-coached juniors showed too much speed and combination for their R.M.C. rivals and romped home with a score of their 24 points in the first half. Ley Cop, Cheetor, their diminutive defenceman, the Deacons swept the floor repeatedly in the first minutes. Moffatt and Mackay being the only Cadet eagers to shoot basket during the second half.

The rinking affair saw a spirited game when the local "Y" team held the Cadets to an 8 to 6 score for the first half only to have the R.M.C. cagers use their power plays on their large spacious playing floor and win 23-14. Steine ran wild for the first minutes to count ten big points for the Cadets in the second half and practically assure them of victory. Farley Faulkner, Smith and V. Pope led the local team. The first thirty tightens the Cadets' grip on first place in the Y.M.C.A. intermediate group as they have not lost a game to date.

The intermediate line-up—Belleville "Y"—P. Faulkner, 6, Smith 3 Page 4, V. White 1, Wickerson, West, Davison, Calber, McIver, and Atkins.

Hemlocks Protest Last Game Won by 'Oilmen' in Kingston

Claim Referee Joe Smith Erred in Not Allowing Goal

Official information was received by the officers and executive of the Belleville Cities Service Hockey Club, that last night, the affect that the Belleville—Hemlock game of Tuesday night had been officially protested by the officers of the defeated Hemlock Daisy team. The report was forwarded to Manager Dailey by Secretary Herb Thompson of the Kingston City League and stated, that the grounds of protest were against the rulings of the officials in disallowing a goal after the goal umpire had declared the goal scored by the Hemlocks in the third period. Had the goal been allowing the score would have tied three all.

As was pointed out this morning by Manager Dudley and coach Kincaid, the local Cities Service team was forced to disallow the goal as referee Joe Smith, who officiated in Kingston this season, was not in the position to allow the winning three and skating over the goal. The local executive feel, that the matter should have close attention as members of the recently crowned champions of the Kingston City League, Coach L'Heureux has been centering his activities on the perfecting of combination in the new forward passing rule in vogue thus assuring the fans of a wide-open game of hockey.

As has been the custom in the O.H.A. thus far this season the identity of the referee for Friday night's game will not be known until that official arrives at the arena.

SYRACUSE IS GOING STRONG

Only Three Points Behind Top Notch Olympics of Detroit

Cleveland, Jan. 25 (CP)—Syracuse today was only three points behind the top-notch Detroit Olympics of the International Hockey League after a 2.1 victory last night against Cleveland Indians, a win that left the Indians still in the cellar with London Tecumsehs.

The scoreless periods in which the Indians did their utmost to break a hard-luck streak were capped by a third stanza in which they clicked quickly, only to be outscored by the Syracusans after they appeared to have the game sewed up.

NATIONALS DOWN A POINT

Kitchener, Ont., Jan. 25 (CP) — One point behind second-place Toronto Lyons, Kitchener Nationals today were pointed in a great rush for top place in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association warp. The Nats last night took advantage of Kitchener, cellar occupants, to gather a couple more points by a 2-0 victory.

Goaler Stein and Garney Lage, right wing star of Nats, were the heroes of the night. Stein was in front of all Kitchener shots and Lage tripped about the ice with a great display of stickhandling and skating.

BOTH GAMES ARE TIED IN CENTRE LOOP

West Huntingdon And Cannifton Play 3-3 Tie in First Game

ICE HEAVY

Evergreen And Bethel Battle to 1-1 Tie in Slow Game

The Centre League double-header on Tuesday night opened with the West Huntingdon vs Cannifton tilt ending in a 3-3 score. The game was a fast one as could be expected when the first and second place teams in the league met.

Scoring in the first period was opened when Bill Johnson of Cannifton, stick-handled his way through the defense to beat the uncontested Sarles for the first counter of the game. Judd McGowan, husky defenseman for Huntingdon evened the score when on a solo flight up the ice, he outsmarted the Cannifton defense and tucked it away in front of the blue line. Mott of Huntingdon added to the scoring when shortly after McGowan had tallied, he took a pass from same down the ice shaking right around the defense and on to score in the net. Cannifton nets who hadn't a chance on the shot, brought the count to three all when a penalty was given Proot for tripping Bleekman, Wright for upsetting Johnson and Hall for interrupting Post.

Cannifton tied the score in the second frame when in the first few minutes of the period, Johnson, following scoring ace of the Cannifton lads beat Sarles for the second time. Play became incresingly faster and although each side had numerous chances at different times, no further counters were registered in the frame.

The third and final frame opened with Bleekman, Huntingdon ace, in the penalty cupolar Mott. The lanky star was also sent to the showers for the remainder of the game, shaking his stick at Empson.

Cannifton took the lead when Bill Hanna bolted the twine for the third time, after Johnson had made that the argument between Coach Carmichael of Cannifton and Coach Carmichael of Cannifton and Coach Wallace, came in. Nothing came of it and the play was resumed. Huntingdon missed a great chance to score on an open net. The score was again tied when Bill Wright of West Huntington, following a rebound shot on the Cannifton net-minder, Sharpe. The game wound up with a three all score. Scoring West Huntington Wright, Mott and Hall. Cannifton on top of the heap with Johnson, Hanna and Empson. There seems little doubt but that there will be a play-off for the play-offs unless Zion Hill steps in to reverse the order of things.

Lineups:

Huntingdon—Sharpe, goal; McQuair, Carmichael, defence;

Cannifton—Sarles, goal; Bill Hanna, Carmichael, Jim Jarrell, Bill Johnson, Bleekman, Watts subs; Johnson, Empson 2, Hanna, goal; Judd McGowan, Elmer Post, defence; Mott, Wright, Hall, forwards; S. Kerby, wivers; Fred Murray, M. Murray, Ed. Johnson, Dan Cook, E. Murray, subs.

Referee—Earl Wallace.

Evergreen 1—Bethel 1

In the second encounter that of Evergreen vs Bethel, the teams distinguished themselves by playing scientific not in it with the exception of the odd bit of nervous game. There was plenty of chopping and checking but failed to get going to work out any sort of combination play.

Earl Dickey tallied for Bethel in the first period in this frame that Dick Crathern, defenseman on the Bethel line-up shot from out cheek which kept him out of the game until the second period. Eddie Sadler goalie of Evergreen were Bethel's worry, turning aside shot after shot terrifically. The second frame was scoreless but both teams had numerous chances to score.

The final period opened with Maurice Bethel and Earl Dickey taking a trip to the penalty box. The lone score of the game was notched by Don Rodgers, centre player to make the trip to the centre ice. In the last few minutes of the play, Bethel's goalie, Ross Green up but failed to break the one to one tie.

Line-ups:—

Evergreen—Walters Rodgers, goal; B. Sadler, C. McGee, defense; Don Rodgers, centre; M. McGee, Percy Gibbens, wings; Mott, Morgan, subs.

Bethel—Ross Green, goal; R. Hudgins, D. Cranston, defense; R. Dickey, centre; Earl Dickey, Maurice Bethel, wings; Chambers, Ketcheson, McAvoy, Kennedy, subs.

Referee—Earl Wallace.

A dance was held in the Sizzling Community Hall on Wednesday evening and was under the auspices of St. James' Church. Music was supplied by Chas. Allan, Maurice Bell and Empson in made the scene. The petite a wickey flower basket was won by Mr. Dan Cook. Despite the attendance was not as large as usual but an enjoyable evening was spent.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. Ed. Salisbury in the death of his father, Mr. B. C. Salisbury of Thurlow.

Miss Annie Maloney, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis in the Belleville General Hospital is reported to be in an improved state of health.

PRE-GAME PREDICTIONS

(By the Canadian Press)

A quiet little man who soon will play his 500th game of big league hockey and I still among the half dozen brightest stars of the game leads Montreal Canadiens into Madison Square Garden as National Hockey League game that means a lot to both teams.

Aurel Joliat will try the sharp shot that has kept him up with the scoring leaders, on Charlie Gardiner, league shutout king, and Lorne Chabot in the nimble goal when the battleground will be in Ottawa.

Americans, the leaping team in the league at the moment, can be forgiven a slump from the in first time this season by defeating Red Wings in New York. A win tonight will put Coach Conacher providing the Geraldron drop another game to the Hawks.

Detroit must win to keep pace with Maroons. A fast latter take a fall out of Senators.

RECREATION

In the Ladies' League played at the Recreation alleys last night some good bowling was done. Miss Mitchell with a new 1934 record when she hit the maples for 283 177 226—686. Miss H. Smith had a game to Belleville as a junior from Deseronto.

Repeatedly we hear the cry from other clubs around this section of the good relating to Belleville's imports. As a matter of fact the local club has more "home brews" than the great majority of the self-same clubs to raise the howl. How many clubs in Eastern Ontario can place a team, the calibre of the local club, on the ice and have its roster made up entirely of players born and brought up within in the immediate community? Very few, if any, we'd imagine.

Naturally Skipper Patterson is quite proud of his made-in-Belleville hockey team and feels that following their recent achievement of winning the Kingston City League the local crowd should see a bumper crowd on Friday night when the Cobourg Waverleys make their initial appearance of the O.H.A. season in Belleville. Last night the Waverleys drew a good attendance to local post-season games as they always play a wide open rugged style of hockey. Of course if the Belleville lose on Friday they will have little or no chance to overtake the group leading Campbellford Maroons while a loss for the Waverleys would eliminate their chances of finishing in second position. Naturally the Belleville boys will be out to run the Waverleys' Wilson's scoring interference with the Kingston City League in any manner possible. Belleville's District pre-season lead could be lost on one single game by taking to teams as far west as Port Hope or Cobourg. Undoubtedly, Madore, who should also be included while Picton, Trenton and Campbellford cannot be counted in. Of course an artificial ice plant is the only solution to the local organization could be considered.

Then again those at the head of the league need not think that they could duplicate the Junior Kingston crowds in a single season as it took the Limestone City several years to attain their present proportions. Belleville's project over less realization in Belleville the very first item of business to consider is the appointing of a competent executive composed of neutral men. One of the features of the Kingston City League is the fair-minded manner in which President-Casterson and Secretary Thompson handle the affairs of the organization. They do not listen to every club's petty grievance nor do they show any partiality and lastly they back their referees to the hilt, after seeing that these officials are competent in the first place.

Providing an artificial ice plant is returned to the local arena such a league would eventually prove a success. It is understood that the question will be placed before the various clubs in the Central Ontario district at the termination of the O.H.A. playing season by some locally interested sportsmen. If such a league eventually is realized it might also be well to backout a junior squad, with four teams entered from Belleville. By so doing plenty of material could be developed for the local junior O. H.A. club at that season. There are many other favorable points in such an organization of which we will have more to say at a later date.

Eddie Thomas' kids moved into sole possession of first place in the local junior group by virtue of a 5-4 win last evening in Trenton. The local kids went out in front in the initial frame, never to be headed despite the belief hombardment laid down by Bennie Thomas' kins in the third period. "Steve" McElrath's two goals, one in each effort, were worthy of note as was Sinfield's work in the local net the last frame.

The Trentonians loudly protested Saturday's second counter when McElrath shot while failing to the ice. They claimed the puck never crossed the blue but both the goal umpire and Referee Thompson ruled otherwise. On the other hand the homesters really have no kick coming as Fox's fourth goal was anything but legitimate. Fox was in after his own rebound with the rubber carroming into the net off his knee. Apparently the boys have run out of verbal ammunition as everything was very peaceful last night.

The hero for the home team last night was undoubtedly Ray Fox, their star winger. Ray led Sinfield for the whole four Trenton goals. As the situation now stands the Belleville and Trenton will eventually end up in the championship berth. Cobourg used a far better style of combination hockey last night, however, and they should take a lot of beating on their home ice. Anything ability was anything but good. A little more practice in this art and they should take a lot of beating on their home ice. However, Skipper Thomas shifted his players somewhat but still failed to attain what three forwards teamed the best.

The Deacon A. C. juniors are in first place in the junior group of O.A.B.A. circles today following their decisive victory over R.M.C. last night. The local "Y" cage team did not fare quite so well, though.

BY DAY

Manager Walter Patterson stepped us the other day to point out the fact that every member of the Belleville D.A.C. intermediates is a native of Hastings county. As a matter of fact every member of the local team is a Belleville product, except Roy Covert, who hails from Belleville as a junior from Deseronto.

Repeatedly we hear the cry from other clubs around this section of the good relating to Belleville's imports. As a matter of fact the local club has more "home brews" than the great majority of the self-same clubs to raise the howl. SCORE OF THE CHARLIE CONACHER GOAL SCORER

CHARLIE CONACHER

All the glory in the Conacher family goes no; belong to the Big Charlie of the famous Kid Line with the Toronto Maple Leafs is certainly taking his share. This season, Charlie returns to the form that made him the outstanding right-winger in hockey two and three years ago. The old shot that whistles when it leaves his stick, is dead on this year and as a result, Chuck is leading the league in goal scoring. Possessing a shot that makes goaltenders dunk, it is no wonder he leads the league. Add to this the fact that he is one of the fastest skaters in the game and you have a fast—a gong back-checker and fair stick-handler, and you have the tough combination to beat.

The forward line of Conacher, Primeau and Jackson is one of the most feared in hockey—even to Bill Cook of the famous Cook-Boucher-Cook line of the New York Rangers. The three Leafs have just about everything that goes to make up a perfect hockey machine.

In the Ladies' League played at the Recreation alleys last night some good bowling was done. Miss Mitchell with a new 1934 record when she hit the maples for 283 177 226—686. Miss H. Smith had a game to Belleville as a junior from Deseronto.

Repeatedly we hear the cry from other clubs around this section of the good relating to Belleville's imports. As a matter of fact the local club has more "home brews" than the great majority of the self-same clubs to raise the howl. How many clubs in Eastern Ontario can place a team, the calibre of the local club, on the ice and have its roster made up entirely of players born and brought up within in the immediate community? Very few, if any, we'd imagine.

Naturally Skipper Patterson is quite proud of his made-in-Belleville hockey team and feels that following their recent achievement of winning the Kingston City League the local crowd should see a bumper crowd on Friday night when the Cobourg Waverleys make their initial appearance of the O.H.A. season in Belleville. Last night the Waverleys drew a good attendance to local post-season games as they always play a wide open rugged style of hockey. Of course if the Belleville lose on Friday they will have little or no chance to overtake the group leading Campbellford Maroons while a loss for the Waverleys would eliminate their chances of finishing in second position. Naturally the Belleville boys will be out to run the Waverleys' Wilson's scoring interference with the Kingston City League in any manner possible. Belleville's District pre-season lead could be lost on one single game by taking to teams as far west as Port Hope or Cobourg. Undoubtedly, Madore, who should also be included while Picton, Trenton and Campbellford cannot be counted in. Of course an artificial ice plant is the only solution to the local organization could be considered.

Then again those at the head of the league need not think that they could duplicate the Junior Kingston crowds in a single season as it took the Limestone City several years to attain their present proportions. Belleville's project over less realization in Belleville the very first item of business to consider is the appointing of a competent executive composed of neutral men. One of

PASTEURIZING TO BE FORCED

Report Says Henry Gov't to Demand Treatment of All Milk

Toronto, Jan. 25—Drastic new legislation for the purification of Ontario-consumed milk; safeguarding of the farmer-producer's interests; exercise of greater governmental supervision; and improvement, generally, of prices, is reported to be now before the Henry Cabinet for approval, and is likely to be brought down early in the forthcoming session of the Legislature.

This legislation provides, it is said, for compulsory pasteurization in all cities; issuance by the government of certificates of approval to producers; licensing and bonding of distributors to protect farmers against loss, and a rigid inspection by government inspectors of producing and distributing plants to replace the existing municipal inspection.

Compulsory pasteurization for the cities is being launched, it is understood, chiefly at the request of the various producers' associations in the province, and on the advice of such centres as have had milk wars and milk supply problems on their hands during the last two years. Many petitions, also representative of the farmers' point of view, have been received at Queen's Park from individuals for adoption of such policy.

Under present law, every municipality has the right to compel pasteurization, if it sees fit. Under the impending new legislation, the law will be altered to read: "Every municipality outside of cities." In other words, the municipalities will be tried first in the largest centres of population, and will later, it is expected, be extended to towns and villages. Municipalities seen received at Queen's Park is said to feel that this compulsory pasteurization will tend to eliminate "bootlegged milk" will produce a finer quality milk throughout the province with an attendant increased demand for it, and a subsequent improvement in health.

CHURCH MEETINGS

Bridge Street United Church

Bridge Street United church congregation at annual meeting held in the church parlors on Wednesday evening formally accepted the constitution and government as outlined in the manual of the United Church. Since the United Church was consummated in 1925, the Bridge Street congregation has continued its official board and has had no change in its administration. Under the decision of the United Church it is necessary to elect two bodies of men from the membership of the church, one to be termed "the session" and the other "the committee of stewards." The session consists of the minister in charge, and ministers and elders, if any, specially chosen by the congregation and set apart to have the spiritual interests of the church. The committee of stewards has charge of the temporal and financial affairs of the church and are elected by the church.

Under motion of Mr. P. S Deacon, recording secretary, seconded by H. W. Ackerman, congregation adopted and approved the "session" and the "committee of stewards."

"Faces of Memory"

Rev. Dr. James Endicott, minister, presided. Rev. Enos Farnsworth conducted the opening session. "The Church's One Foundation" was sung and after Scripture reading and prayer, Rev. Dr. Semple conducted a brief service, "Faces Kept in Memory" of those who had died during the past year. Rev. W. D. P. Wilson, Mr. Frank Martin, Mrs. Pringle, Mrs. Young, Mr. Cory, Mr. Burrows, Mrs. Dickens, Mr. Hanson, Mr. Ridley, Mrs. Vermilyea, Mrs. Wallbridge, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Robins and Mrs. Wallace.

The minister repeated the lines "We cannot say and we will not say that they are dead, they are just away.

With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,

They have wandered into an unknown land

And left us dreaming how very far It needs must be, for they linger there.

"And, you, O you, who the widest years

For the old time step and the glad familiar

Think of them faring on as dear In the love of there as-the-love of here

Thinking of them faring on. I say They are not dead. They are just away.

A moment of silence succeeded the reading of the names of the congregation's dead and the poem.

In his pastoral letter Dr. Semple said:

"The Call of The New Year"

"We can widen and deepen the acquaintanceship and co-operation with our present membership. It is one thing to increase our Church Family by a rapid accession of new comers; it is another to integrate these and draw out from each one the personal abilities represented in him. I fear that we are not doing this as well as we should. The saying attributed to John Wesley that he preferred two full pews to six to work than do the work of ten men, we should take to heart. People are far more challenged by what they are asked to do than by what they are expected passively to receive. Granted that many come to our services to get something, they will not be so vitally interested in their quest if they be not asked for service. A church's expressional activities and its corrective opportunities must go together. Expanding ourselves with the new members. Invite them into your fellowships, personal and social, and share with them as far and as far as you can the organizational responsibilities of the church. Let no one of our societies be satisfied until it has discovered some new human material to weave into its fabric. This is something we can do this year; it is crucially important that we should do it; it is sometime in which we all can have a hand.

"This church ought to help grown people, as well as children, to know what is known about the Bible, to face current doubts honestly and to discover what they really think about God, Prayer, Immortality, to train themselves for parenthood and to get at the facts about such subjects as Missions, International Peace, Church Unity, Canadian Family Problems and Industrial Reform.

"A large congregation does not in itself make a church; it only supplies the materials. Some of the best work we dream of doing will be by limited groups, where capable skilled leadership people who wish to know are given opportunity to think their way through to intelligent conclusions on matters that have passed them.

Our Financial Policy

"Regular, systematic, and conscientious use of Offering Envelopes by all contributors will enable us to meet our obligations promptly.

"The envelope system makes it possible for us to give without strain to the current expenses of the church and The Missionary and Maintenance Fund, and reminds us to keep our pledges. The weekly use of envelopes by all members is the most effective method of financing our church. Let us make 1934 a year of progress along all lines. Telephone the church secretary for envelopes.

"May God, in His kind Providence, fold His mantle of love about you: may heaven's richest blessing abide in every home."

Total Givings

The total givings of the church totalled about $15,000 of which over $5,000 was for missions.

Reports were read as follows: Sunday School by Superintendent J. E. Short; Y.P.S. by Mr. Franklin Taylor, and Kindred Interests, Women's Missionary Society by Mrs. Leigh; Auxiliary by Mrs. Farnsworth for Mrs. Bishop; Mission Circle by Mrs. Leigh, and Mission Band by Miss Procter; the Women's Association by Mrs. Gilbert; the Choir by Mr. Fred Rogers, and Mr. and M. report by Mr. George F. Stewart, and report of the treasurer by Mr. H. W. Ackerman and Mr. W. B. Deacon.

During the evening Mr. V. P. Hunt, Mrs. C. E. Ellis and Mrs. G. F. E. Houston contributed music. Mr. Morley Sparling spoke in appreciation of the work of the choir under Prof. Smith's direction, and W. B. Deacon spoke on the future of the church.

Letters were read from Dr. Powell of Calgary; Dr. Avery of Regina; Rev. Bert Howard of Arcola; Rev. William Banks and others in appreciation of gifts and the congregation to the west at Christmas time.

A resolution was carried praising the excellent services of Mr. Ackerman as treasurer of the church.

Under motion of Mr. Howard Clarke, seconded by Mr. Clifford Ellis, the members of the Official Board placed on record their very great appreciation of the splendid service that has been rendered by the minister, the Rev. Dr. James Semple during the past few months. "By your initiative," said the statement, "several new organizations have been formed, such as the Young People's Society, the Parade Hour after the evening service, The Rover Rangers, and Tuxis Square groups, and the C.G.I.T. Every department of our church has felt the success of their undertaking.

Rev. Robert Hall, Minister of the congregation, occupied the chair, and after Scripture reading followed by prayer, called upon Mr. J. B. Findlay, Clerk of the Session, to present the Session Report.

The Session expressed their appreciation of the loyal support and co-operation of the entire congregation through these trying days. Twenty-two members have been added to the roll making a total membership of 425.

At this time, the congregation elected George Wishart as chairman and Newton Thompson as secretary of the evening.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved, after which the church then called for the report of the secretary and treasurer of the various church organizations.

Their reports clearly indicated the finances of the church to be in a sound condition despite the continued cry of "hard times." Great activity in the Sunday School and among the young people of the church indicates splendid progress. The Church Aims Society continues to be a strong bulwark. Hearty words of appreciation were voiced for the untiring efforts of the Minister, Rev. Hall, as well as the splendid services of Miss Leona Riggs and the organist, Mr. Alec Goodson.

The following members were elected to the Board of Managers: Dr. Kinnear, Jamieson Bane, E. J. Catcher, Geo. Wishart and Arthur Hill.

A hearty vote of thanks from the ladies present to the men of the congregation for the sumptuous repast which had been served brought to a close a most enjoyable and profitable evening.

"We also wish to express our appreciation of your fine social qualities of your effective, helpful and sympathetic pastoral relations with every member of our congregation, for the earnest spiritual quality of your messages, for your marked public gifts.

"We wish to extend to you and Mrs. Semple our assurance of our love and esteem and our unlimited confidence in you as our leader, while is shared by every member and adherent of our church.

The congregational meeting was largely attended.

The annual Congregational Meeting of John Street United Church was held Wednesday evening in the spacious auditorium. At 6.30 p.m., about 250 members and adherents of the church sat down to a supper which was furnished and served by the men of the congregation. Great credit is due Mr. P. G. LOVE'S LOTTERY

by

Katherine Haviland-Taylor

He reached his rooms at five and, in a deep shaft by a window, read Cicily's letter. With it read and carefully the first time slowly and then the second, frowning the while.

She had always realized how much she "knew" her own mind she made decisions, to abide by them. Yet now she wasn't positive. She simply could not.....possible.

Memory had betrayed her so about him and he had loved her fiercely and completely.

"I can't—stand it!" he thought, seeing life without her—by God, he spoke aloud! his words rang hollowly in the still room.

On a table near his chair stood her last portrait, smiling at him. He fondled it, eased it out quite clearly because of the film that was over his eyes. He rose to his feet and crossed the room with unsteady hands. If she were here in his touch—he could get her back to—sense! And—not gently! And then—better to be dead than to be dead of his cost he'd never try and—confront her.

Again he read the letter. No hope here! Both!

He would cable her, no—telephone her! Perhaps she would it now he is London? He motioned his lips. He could get her now, perhaps. He stood a telephone cabinette he heard the ring of the house below. Then that was answered it and he waited.

Miss Marks, the servant said was below she had a very important message for him. She must speak with Mr. Field—as soon as was possible.

She had come at times before to warn him of some business crisis Geoffrey said, wanting to see her to come up, Harris.

The chat with Cicily, of course, would have to be a bit deferred he could ask time to talk with her until he knew "what was up". Something might demand his immediate attention.

Miss Marks was not quite steady going upward. She I am doing the right thing for Mr. Field," she thought.....And as she thought it, she saw Jimmy Duggan bending over the information desk and—knew that when he thought no one saw, to leave a kiss on "Little Miggs" smooth hair.

"Yes, Miss Marks—?" Geoffrey questioned shortly, as she entered the room.

He looked very tired.

"I came to see you, Mr. Field, about—"

"Sit down—please—first. Miss Marks—"

She sank to a stiff chair. He was waiting she felt her lips dry.

Then she plunged, telling her story rapidly and not quite coherently. She saw the color draining from his face; she saw his gripped hands tighten until his knuckles were white....He was looking down at them and not at her.

"Let us get this matter straight, Miss Marks." He pronounced it. "You say you were behind the files and thought you had best listen?"

"Yes, Mr. Field."

"That does not add any prettiness to the story," he commented and chilly. She flushed hard.

"My every interest has been yours," she stated.

He remembered the little girl called Miggs, who had grown white as he asked her to write another message for him. And the coved message for him. And the coved way in which Luther had watched him as he received Cicily's letter that day.....and Duggan's recent apparent, almost boisterous wish to please. And old Bleaker whom he had called to come up without expressing the nature of his summons and who had come shuffling, unsteadily.

"What would you suggest that I do, Miss Marks?" he questioned.

"Discharge every one of them, Mr. Field! I don't see how you could do!"

"You know Luther supports his mother—"

"That I feel does not excuse thievery in your office!" she answered hotly.

"Possibly not"—he spoke slowly. "There seems to have been, Miss Marks, a great deal of pilfering and spying in my office."

He remembered her open pursuit of Jimmy Duggan, a pursuit so obvious that even he had noticed it and with this came, from the day before, Luther's confidence: "Duggan and Little Miggs are goin' to be married one of these days, but she's goin' to keep on workin' till they get their house paid for some ....She thinks differently, Mr. Field—"

Miss Marks' loyalty was clouded by her plans which had gone wrong. He was, he reflected, sick of greed, of his own greed for—time —the time in which to do business and that made his tragedy. For Cicily's tragedy, he had, at this moment, no thought—self-preservation was ever first with him.

"Miss Marks"—he said—wearily. "You told me not long ago that you could get a position with Mr. Leanthumin people; do you suppose that is still vacant?"

Her mouth and eyes were both open as she sat before him, dumb. "I don't understand—" she said at length and acidly, after a hard gulp.

"Probably you don't. I—I—I don't quite—myself—understand my feelings of loyalty to you—to have watched your treatment of Miss Miggs, a very child. You have recommended to me, for my use during your two absences, certain such stenographers as are patiently inefficient—leisurely and s' grudging. For the next fellow his chance I won't want near me. What do you think would happen to Mr. Bleaker, if I turned him off "

She bristled.

"You know he supports a wife and—and children." Geoffrey went on as she did not answer. "Nice girls, two of them going through normal school, and getting ready to teach and—and—I'm not sure I'm right in him out? He's useful to me but I doubt whether he'd be useful to any one else. If I discharged him his girls would have to go into shops."

"My interests were yours," she said, "and your employees," she stated, voice shaking wildly.

"A good deal of my interest is given to the people who work with me and for me," he said—but you don't know that. I'm not excusing what has happened. Although, I think it was my fault. I doubt whether I, in a club could write a love letter that any man without laughing over it! I had not seen Miss Miggs—for days. Do you? However, I am sure—sure of but one thing and that is—that you love better you your self than you do the Morganthrums. I thank you for all your good work. Miss Marks, but my mind is made, fetion fails, I'll help you to something else.

He did then, that which he had never done in his life—turned his back to rise and so indicate that he wished a feeling of dismissal. Miss Marks too, rose shaking. He heard then—whimperings and he knew that he would be for her so quite a working to be capable of and he listened dull and unmoved as a fairly weak smile faintly etched on his secretary's thin lips.

How that message must have struck Cicily! Her first letter—her faith, to him! His eyes stung. Of course it was over. She would never forgive him. "Why—why—" he thought drearily. Somewhere in the world she would be for her to see who would —immediately— realize her, to appreciate her and to devote to her—all that she so deserved.

Miss Marks flounced out, tossing her head, a sneering smile on her thin lips.

He watched her dully.

He would not—call London now. What use? Cicily—Cicily—loved him, of course. Cicily—hazed him! He stooped to the floor by the window to cover his eyes with his hands. He felt her letter crying in the pocket against his heart; she had been—very gentle. His breast ache, perhaps. He would have been a whit less crippling, appalling, numbness, if she had not been gentle.

Hoped he would be—happy. She would not have known that he could not be happy without her. They had—from him—got Little Miggs, Old Bleaker, Jimmy and the office boy!

At a clock tolled seven, Geoffrey's man, Harris, asked whether he would dine at home. Geoffrey turned and looked at him. "What say, Harris?" he questioned mournfully. Harris repeated his query. "I hear a slowed, number. Yes, I think so, Harris, yes—"

"And—will you be in town this week—end, Mr. Field?"

"This week-end Yes—"

Harris departed, deeply troubled. Harris never altered his master to be so "forged-like" and Harris had lived long enough to know that when folk change character, "all in a second, as one might say," some bad job has been sustained. Alone, Geoffrey took up the packet of his long room; to the end of it, back again, over and over—

Monday morning—day after tomorrow—he would have to search his file for carrots to tell Cicily that he knew; that he would, forgiving ask their loyalty hereafter; that he would not, knowing he did it, ask them to betray him—and again.

He rained by the table on which stood Cicily's last portrait; sensitively and disquietingly Cicily vibrant, as she seemed ready to speak....He could almost see her eyes seek her arms and—turn toward him. He had felt her to be emotionally generous, and—with a shaky, gratitude — often he had felt her to be—she had always answered with a quick, hearty, "I am not generous, I am back to hate Harr" I could not pretend to love you less, Geoff, without lying like—Sapphira! I adore you! I love you! I love you being kissed by you!—"

He turned away from the portrait.

If she knew his suffering she would forgive him; but perhaps she feared more suffering through him? And perhaps he had hurt her so much that she thought only of her pain.....

An our later, Harris hovered over his chair, saying that the dining-rooms were "especially good, Sir—" Geoffrey felt as if he could not. "Sorry Harris," he said rising, "I'm a bit off. Bring me—if you like to the living room, please—a lot of it and strong—"

On Monday morning Little Miggs wept as she sat in Geoffrey's office chair. She had always considered hard and Old Bleaker grew red of nose and bleu lipped—reddened more often. Luther whistled through his teeth and had even quit that—but at that when his old man had been brought in. "Done up for time," he had said, with a grimace head of the family.

Luther's whistling through his teeth had its significance; each of us has his own manner of provocative coloring.

Geoffrey did not say much. He told simply, of his knowing what had happened, and he added his affair, loyalty and he added his promise—none too steadily audible—of not asking from any employee again —a compromise.

"If we hunt this up," Jimmy had written, "you'll never know how we will feel, for he's a king!"

That had not appealed; she did not want to think of Geoffrey as a king nor to think of him—at all. And—she did think of him despite her ardent wish to keep from doing so, almost each moment in which she was awake. She was not doing "quite well either," and that, these moments were many.

Miss Ella was worried because London had not brought "the roses" of her dreams to cheeks. "You don't seem to care about anything, my pet," she ventured, "and—"

"I'm not quite happy, Aunty. I'll tell—you about it soon, but —not now—"

"You haven't heard from Geoffrey, have you sweet?"

"No."

"Love's little quarrels," murmured Miss Ella, "and how they swerved on rapture, and always, after the storm, pet, sunshine again! Darling, will you look at that woman across the way; a Worst model but a red-haired woman should never wear gray; however, as I said, there is always a glad tomorrow, and after all, pale—Lucy Smithers—she has on tan shoes; too; snake, are they not, darling? But—tan and grey! And doubtless Geoffrey has been absorbed by his affairs, which must be many; no woman can understand business, as my father and dear dear grandfather used to say so often, and always when my mother and your grandmother asked for money to find he was 'short', as he called it, and so doubt, pet. Next month from now you will be laughing at this little mood, and with Geoffrey, and shall we lunch?"

Miss Ella and Cicily had a wide acquaintance in London. They spent a three-days week-end by the Thames and another and even colder week-end at a place in Scotland. Several young men followed Cicily with hungry eyes, but she kept them far.

Often she thought, "I'm only half alive, thank God!" she dreaded that moment when she should know all.

All the tender words that she had had from Geoff, written by—

The thought followed her persistently in her dreams. It was for her the shadow that hid the sun.

In Paris, four weeks later, she had to tell Miss Ella. Miss Ella listened and wept. Cicily did not cry. The habit of tearing tears had broken her. "I should rather like," she said, "to take the Balkans, if you will, Aunty. We've never been there. They say they're charming. I think —it might help—"

"Just as you like, darling!" Miss Ella answered, and with all heart, yet she could not help but look scarred, that they would "pick up a few nice people, who can play decent bridge" and that there would be no revolutions, or anything "of the nature" and that the hotels would have good cuisines and Amerikan baths.

However if Cicily had wished it, Miss Ella would have gone to the ends of the midnight sun, to camp in an igloo, and gone with a smile.

They traveled; Miss Ella bought strips of peasant embroidery, pottery, china that looked as if it had been decorated by a five-year-old in the acute stages of St. Vitus dance, and—never mentioned Jimmy. She was acutely aware of a new lady only when the plumbing or the cuisine did not suit her, or when there was nothing to buy.

Geoffrey came crashing into Cicily's thoughts through the music, absent and sullen doorways. Now it was a frock he had liked (which she promptly refused to an unasked and ecstatic chambermaid); again it was some jaded dancer's business man who peered dully on all that he saw and who might be

By Russ Westover.

BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Only a handful of the crew were alive when the Horths left their mounts and swarmed over the boat's sides. Cutlasses, knives and squeezers did their deadly work, but still the slimy creatures came. When the battle was over, just three Korsars survived. These, with Jason and Thoar, were bound and taken ashore. Then began a thing so gruesome that the American could not look upon it, for the Horths were flesh eaters and cannibal creatures.

After awhile the Horths prepared to depart. Giving strange whistling hisses they called their hideous mounts who came trooping from the plain and the surrounding forest. Jason could hardly cease watching the frightful things. As Thoar had been, Jason astounded when the first heard a Horth speak Pellucidar's language, so now was Jason Gridley when one addressed him, saying: "Stand up. I am going to remove your bonds. Then follow me."

Gridley went with the creature through the midst of the snapping, hissing horde, down to the shore. His who was leading, thrashed his way through the mass of slimy bodies until he reached a certain one. "Get up," he said, motioning Jason to mount the horrid thing. "Sit well forward on his neck." Jason was muffled under the hide of the Gorobor. The feel of its cold, clammy, rough hide against his naked legs sent a chilly shudder up his spine.

The Horth mounted behind him and presently the strange cavalcade marched down dark corridors overhung with vegetation. Once Jason attempted to talk with the creature behind him. "What are you going to do with us?" he questioned. The Horth made a sound resembling a chuckle, but it came from a throat devoid of human throat. "First you will be fed upon age to fatten you," it said. "After that, wait and see!" The last didn't sound good to Gridley of the U.S.A.

Mrs. C. Dunham Chosen Pres. of Wellman's Womens Institute

Rabbits Ruin Lawn And Rose Bushes at Rawdon Home

Rawdon—On Thursday, January 18th, Mrs. Dunham entertained Wellman's Women's Institute and eighteen were in attendance. The President, Mrs. Charles Dunham, called the roll call which was answered with "Good books to read". The Misses Miss and Luella Draney sang "Cow Boy Jack". Miss Lulu Hoover gave a solo entitled "Home". Readings were given by Miss Gladys Pauley on "Vanity" and Mrs. Carl Clancy "Gossip-town". Mr. Howard Wallace delighted with several musical selections on the player piano. Rev. Fred Joblin ably discussed the topic "Be the day or the subject What the voter should know about civics". Plans were made for an "at home" to be held in February. The programme was prepared by Mesdames Dunham and Clancy. The hostess served the guests apples and candy.

The officers for 1934 are:

EXPERIMENTS IN WIND RESISTANCE

Montreal, Jan. 24—Wind tunnel experiments sponsored by the Canadian National Railways may lead to a new type of steam locomotive, having lessened wind resistance, smarter design and clearer vision from the engine cab. The smoke ejected from a locomotive of the present type tends to sweep downward, at times impairing the outlook of the driver. This is due to the eddying wind which forms over the cab and tender. This would render side guards, smoke deflectors and the placing of devices around the smoke stack unnecessary.

JAP WAR CHIEF

GENERAL SENJURO HAYASHI

Following resignation of General Sadao Araki as Japanese minister of war, General Senjuro Hayashi, inspector general of military education, has been appointed to the important cabinet post. While a grim soldier and a staunch patriot, the new war minister is believed to be much more conservative than his predecessor.

DRASTIC CUT IN FEDERAL ESTIMATES

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Nanaimo, B. C., Jan. 26—(CP)—This is a story of Steve White, local commercial traveller, and lady luck.

Steve on a recent visit to Quesnel Cove, purchased three tickets on a organ to be raffled for charity. "He won't want the organ," someone said. "He has no use for it."

They drew again. The ticket once more bore Steve's name. Once more he a discarded. Finally there was a discarded, Finally they drew the third ticket. And the third ticket was White's again.

He claimed the organ, and brought it to Nanaimo in the remains seat of his car. He intends he says, to go in for serenading and raffles in a big way. He is keeping the organ for his mascot.

Woodstock, Ont., Jan. 26—(CP)—Pleading guilty to a charge of theft, Norris Brewer of Plattsville told the court he had walked into an unlocked house and stolen a perambulator for his brother's baby. Norval and Lois Brother Blanche entered guilty pleas in answer to a series of other theft charges. Sentence in all cases was suspended.

Chatham, Ont., Jan. 26—(CP)—With faces pressed against the dusty windows of a railway locomotive cab, Anne and Olga Metalnick ask and four respectively, arrived at the city after an interesting, uncontrolled, all the way from Prague Czechoslovakia. Beyond arrangements made by W. E. Ripple, Canadian National Railway ticket agent, that the children be fed long the way, they journeyed independently.

London, Ont., Jan. 26—(CP)—"If we only had medicine" explained 74-year-old Isaac Stewart when he appeared here. Magistrate T. W. Scandrett on a charge of permitting cattle to stray. He had found three cagey bottles and the animals with them. "Other medicine" when they visited Steward's home. There, also he indicated, was a corpse in the house, was interested they told the court, so the case was dismissed.

Helena, Mont., Jan. 26—(CP) The appearance of two tiny grasshoppers in central Montana has given farmers here there will be no "hopper" plague this summer. Mild weather has caused the premature hatching? The farmers are agreed that there will be mild were weather before spring which will be fatal to the grasshoppers.

Clarion, Pa., Jan. 26—(CP)—A Benjamin Franklin stove, a relief worker painting the inside of the court house, slipped from a scaffold and fell through a hole in the tile floor below, dropping through in narrow space between the steel rails.

Fellow workers took him to a physician. Other physicians were called in to study the case. They scratched their heads and announced.

"We can't find a thing wrong with him."

Puzzled how he felt, Cyphert unhesitatingly asserted he was "all right."

London, Jan. 26—(AP)— Lord Baden-Powell, 77 year old founder of the Boy Scout movement, was reported to be "holding his own" today in hospital where he underwent two operations earlier this week. Physicians said he passed a fair night.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 26—(CP)—Hermann Goering, formerly of Toronto, appeared in court today charged with keeping a common betting house. Magistrate Fraser reserved decision until tomorrow morning when 16 other local men, charged with being frequenters of the place will appear. The 17 men were arrested Saturday last in a raid by city police. A thereby thick door, allegedly used to keep out the police, was an exhibit in the case today.

3 CHILDREN BURNED IN HOUSE FIRE

One Child Carried to Safety by Maid - Servant

PARENTS AWAY

Bodies Found Later, One Burned Beyond Recognition

Shawinigan Falls, Que., Jan. 26 (CP)—Three young children of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boule were burned to death as fire destroyed their small frame home on the outskirts of the city late tonight.

The dead are Julienne Boule, two; Joseph Boule, four, and Bernard Boule, six. Another child, Marie Blanche Boule, seven, was carried to safety by Lea Bergeron, the maid-servant. Mr. and Mrs. Boule were out for the evening.

When the blaze had left the house to visit friends in the city, Mlle Bergeron went to bed. Only an hour later she was aroused by the acrid smell of smoke. The servant called the children and ran to the front door. The front door of the house had been nailed shut for the winter and she was unable to escape that way. Miss Bergeron picked up Marie Blanche, the eldest child, and dashed through a wall of flame to the front door which the fire had apparently started. The servant and Marie Blanche struggled through the blazing kitchen and escaped to the yard. The other children were trapped in the house.

PRECEDENCE IS REGULATED

Discussion Follows Departure of Cardinal From Ottawa

Ottawa, Jan. 26 (CP)—Absence of Cardinal J. M. Rodrigue Villeneuve from the ceremonies connected with the opening of Parliament after it had previously been announced he would attend is understood here to have been the result of a ruling by the State Department as to precedence.

The Cardinal, it is stated, would be the last to insist on his right to precedence, but the personal representative of the Pope in Canada. It is known that the Secretary of State's Department considered the matter very carefully but Hon. C. H. Cahan today declined to comment on it.

Precedence is regulated by a table established by royal proclamation shortly after confederation. It has not been altered from time to time since.

The Cardinal is in Montreal today visiting his parents.

Toronto, Jan. 26 (CP)—A protest against the presence of political affairs or government administrators in connection with the ceremonies at the opening of Canada's Parliament, The Toronto Daily Star says today, it was solved—or at least smoothed—by the absence of Mgr. Rodrigue Villeneuve, Archbishop of Quebec, left for his home city without attending the opening ceremonies, unable to agree with Monsignor Cesare Sebastiano Montalini, delegate to Canada, as to who stood first in precedence. Ottawa and the government had declined to make a decision.

For 35 years, the paper says, since the Vatican first sent a delegate to Canada, that delegate has taken rank after Cabinet Ministers in the order of precedence. If he ranked as Nuncio, that is, if Canada had a Minister to the Vatican, his position in the diplomatic corps would be automatic. As Papal delegate, it became a matter of taste.

When it was announced Cardinal Villeneuve would be in Ottawa on that date, he was naturally invited in the Speech from the Throne opening. The order of precedence then called into question. The incident decided the question be left to the church dignitaries themselves. Cardinal Villeneuve, returning to Quebec, sent regrets.

Jumbo's Death Spot Marked by Highway Sign

St. Thomas, Ont., Jan. 26.—The scene of the death of Barnum and Bailey's famous Jumbo has been marked by the erection by the Ontario Department of Highways of a large sign at the city's entrance on number three highway.

The sign points directly to the spot on the Canadian National Railways where the largest elephant in captivity, bought by Barnum from the London zoo, was killed by a Grand Trunk freight train as he was about to be loaded on a circus train the night of Sept. 15, 1885.

Elgin Historical Society is responsible for the erection of this sign. It bears the marking of historic spots in Elgin County.

DR. McQUIBBAN IN NEW OFFICE

Feverish Activity in Offices of New Leader

Special to The Intelligencer,

Toronto, Jan. 26—An atmosphere of feverish activity pervades the offices of the leader of the Provincial Opposition at the Parliament Buildings here. Dr. G. A. McQuibban, M.L.A., for Prince Edward-Lennox-Addington, Wellington, and newly chosen House leader of the Conservative Party, has just moved into his new offices and with him came a staff of stenographers, a statistical expert, together with C. A. Robertson, new Liberal Whip, and Miss Thelma Wilson, his secretary organizer.

Reference books are thumbed and typewriters click from morning until night as the staff collects data for the vigorous assault on policies of the present government which will be launched in the Legislature next week. Their aim is to have a complete mass of information available for every Liberal member on the subject he has been selected to speak upon. Particular attention is being given to the opening of the initial speech by Dr. McQuibban, to be given on the debate on the speech from the throne. According to Liberal spokesmen, this will be a powerful indictment of the Henry government and all its works.

Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., provincial Liberal leader, will be at Dr. McQuibban's headquarters frequently during the session, it is stated. Making the trip from Ottawa at intervals of once a week, he will keep in close touch with the offensive being launched by his lieutenants. No longer will Tory jibes about "remote control" leadership be applicable in this connection. In the offices of Premier G. S. Henry, parliamentary drafts of the speech from the throne are being gone over and other preparations for the forthcoming parliamentary slaughter from the Opposition are being perfected in an atmosphere of complete confidence.

BYRD BUILDS 15 FOOT ROAD

Used to Carry Supplies From Ship to Little America

Admiral Byrd's Flagship, Bay of Whales, Antarctica, Jan. 26 (via Wireless) (CP)—Add road-building to the accomplishments of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's second Antarctic Expedition.

Behind him are 123 miles of men and dogs and the heavy tread of tractors, a 15-foot highway has been shaped over the four and a half miles across the frozen floor of the Bay of Whales to the edge of the barrier on the run to Little America.

Over this smooth road moves an endless night-and-day transport of 15 dog teams pulling sledges heaped with supplies, three tractors hauling sledges bearing gasoline.

Added to this train, a monopane of 10 tractor sledges is now carrying food supplies to the camp from which the stores are taken off the flagship.

95 CTS. WEEK PER INMATE REFUGE COST

Lowest Rate on Record is 19 Cents Below 1932 Figure

87 INMATES

Five Years Ago Cost Was $3.25 Per Week Per Inmate

Cost per week per inmate at the Hastings County Home of Refuge and Industrial Farm for 1933 was 95 cents, approximately 19 cents below the previous year. It is revealed by the report of the board of management submitted at the Friday session of Hastings County Council.

Total expenditures for the year were as $11,894.25.

Steady increase of cost per inmate each year is indicated by the following figures showing cost per week per year:

1931	$1.64
1930	$2.41
1929	$2.90
1928	$3.12
1927	$3.25
1926	$2.37
1925	$2.57
1924	$2.64

At the present time a total registration of 87 inmates are recorded—comprised of 49 men and 38 women. Average age of inmates has increased to 99 years. In the previous year 44 men and 27 women were registered. Deaths in the institution in 1933 totalled 6, six men and two women.

The Bluebird Visitors

Six hundred visitors entered the Home during the past year, which for the previous year a total of 650 were registered.

Thurlow led the list of admittances with 60 persons, followed by that township during the year. Rawdon was a close second with 9, while 7 from Sidney were also admitted. Montague and Herschel accounted for 6 each. Value of farm land in the county the past year was listed at $1,253.35.

Provisions consumed on the table during 1933 totalled $2,633. Clothing the previous year, $4,699.88. Dispersed in Relief.

"It will be noted," stated chairman Fred Wannamaker, K.C., "the report of Marmora and Lake, "that the costs this year are considerably less than in previous years, and much credit is due Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson for the efficient manner in which the Home is conducted. At all times the Home and the surroundings are clean and well cared for and the inmates appear contented and well content."

Although the total costs of the Home have been kept at a minimum this year, it is expected that the following year will be necessary during the coming years, added the footnote.

"An excellent report by the superintendent and matron should be commended," he said, "the manner in which they are attempting to keep down expenses without curtailing." E. C. Metcalfe as the report was adopted by the council.

In the report of the Board of Management of the Industrial Farm, supplies on hand at the present time are given as: Carried Fruit $100.00; Groceries $150.00; Potatoes $75.00; Vegetables (canned) $200.00; Meat $250.00; Wood $227.00; Drugs $60.00; Tobacco $50.00.

FALSE-FACE TORN FROM WELFARE ISLAND PENITENTIARY

Conditions Reek With Gang Rule and Narcotic Addicts

New York, Jan. 26—A mild mannered streamer from Chillicothe, O., tore the false-face from Welfare Island penitentiary today and showed a scandalized New York "the worst prison in the world."

Austin H. MacCormick, Mayor LaGuardia's appointee, appointed as commissioner of corrections for New York City, has only been in town a fortnight from Chillicothe where he was in acting charge of the federal reformatory. No one had anticipated, so soon at least, such a coup as he stirred yesterday.

His descent upon the island prison yesterday was so well planned that neither the 1,700 prisoners nor Warden Lewis E. Lawes learned of it in advance.

Commissioner MacCormick expressed astonishment, at conditions he found and after finding it reeking with gang rule, narcotic addicts and ultra viciousness he called "the worst prison in the world."

"Welfare Island?" commented one of the members of the Commissioner's visiting party" "A better name would be 'devil's island'".

Some of the conditions uncovered by the commissioner and described by him as "almost beyond belief" were:

The prison population was virtually under the thumbs of two gangster inmates.

SENTENCED FOR BURIAL

Illegal Burial of Babe's Body in Rock Under Bam Punished

TORONTO, Jan. 26—(CP)—Alec Baker, Toronto, pleaded guilty in women's police court today to a charge of illegally disposing of a body and was sentenced by Magistrate Margaret Patterson to six months in Reformatory.

The charge against Baker was laid following the finding of a body of a new-born, baby concealed in a rock pile on the farm of William Agnes Fox, of Thorold Township, Welland County, and Fox, charged with the same case, was convicted of concealment of birth Tuesday and sentenced to one year in the Reformatory.

MRS. C. S. HYMAN DIES

Toronto, Jan. 26—(CP)—Mrs. Charles S. Hyman, widow of the late Hon. Charles S. Hyman, minister of labour in the Ferguson government died at St. Joseph's Hospital here today after a brief illness of one week.

APPOINT ENGINEER

Brockville, Ont., Jan. 26— W. Stanley Cole of Elgin, has been appointed town engineer of Brockville with additional supervision over the distribution of Telfer. A graduate of McGill University, he served overseas as captain in the Canadian Engineers from 1916 to 1918.

Dean Inge Overshadowed In Raiment by All Other Dignitaries Present

London, Jan. 26 (AP)—Dean Inge's clothes came in for severe comment in the "Tailor & Cutter" in dealing with the private view of the Royal Academy Exhibition of British art.

"One writes more in sorrow than criticism, that Dean Inge was overshadowed in raiment by all other church dignitaries present," says the paper. "His apples only to the strictly clerical kit, which might almost be termed the vesture of decay. The nap was crushed, his gaiters wobbly, while no benediction can be given to his overcoat.

"But it was astonishing to find the Dean had gone gay about the neck when adopting a lay academy. He took the temperated atmosphere of Burlington House in a muffled scarf of many colors."

Estimates Reduced 17 Millions by Paring to Bone in All Branches

Cadet Appropriation is to be Reduced Fifty Per Cent

PLANES REPLACED

Deepening of River Canal Taxes Additional Million And Half

Ottawa, Jan. 26 —Drastic reductions in most branches of government with increases in only two, and a total decrease of about $17,000,000 from the current year's estimates, were revealed in main estimates for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1935, tabled in the House of Commons this afternoon.

In bringing down the main estimates so early in the parliamentary session, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, created a precedent. This is in general keeping with the government's intention to place on the important business before the House as early as possible.

The grand total of estimated expenditure for the fiscal year 1934-35 is $343,648,772, as compared with $360,738,210 during the current fiscal year, a reduction of $17,089,837.

The two increased items are under the headings of Defence and Public Works. Aviation gets an additional $286,000 for the replacement of flying machines that have been worn out, while the Marine Department of Public Works will get an additional $1,495,550 for deepening the Welland Canal and Ship Canal.

National Defence as a whole, however, and Public Works, as both decreased, the former by $3,-668 and the latter by $3,205,331.

Costs Pared to Bone

All decreases were accomplished by paring administrative costs to the bone and cutting capital expenditures. It is understood that the proposed Trans-Canada Highway programme, if carried out, will be financed in the supplementary estimates to be brought down later in the session, but that apart from that item, it decided upon and unemployment relief, the main estimates will cover the entire expenditure for the year.

Outstanding decreases in the summary are shown as follows:

Agriculture $1,000,000; Interest $2,980,953; National Health $921,000; Pensions $797,000; Trade and Commerce $900,000; National Revenue $1,000,000; Immigration $1,000; Miscellaneous $722,000; Civil Government $150,000.

Interest on the public debt (including sinking fund) is reduced $2,980,953 mainly today and yesterday with rising temperature, uncertainties.

Salary Cut Remains

Ottawa, Jan. 26—(CP)—The 10 per cent salary reduction for civil servants, members of the House of Commons and Senators, will be continued during the fiscal year 1934-35 today when the estimates for the financial year opening in April were tabled in the House of Commons.

A decrease of 50 percent in the Cadet appropriation for training in Canada will be made this year by the Dominion government.

WESTERN WINS DEBATE

London, Ont., Jan. 26—Western's debaters, Jack Dampier and Angus Dampier and Angela Arnott won the first round of the Inter-City debate it was announced today.

Debating with Toronto University which took affirmative on "resolved that it would not be possible to abolish capitalism" in Collegiate rooms, city, was the ballot.

TWO SLEDDERS STRIKE POLE

Deseronto Brothers, Injured, Treated by Belleville Doctors

Ralph Mitchell, aged 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Mitchell of Deseronto, sustained a severely fractured left leg when the bob-sleigh on which he and his brother were riding skidded and crashed in a telegraph pole in Deseronto late yesterday afternoon. Both lads were brought to the surgery of Dr. J. J. Roberston where the injured boy was given and X-rays of the injured limb taken.

Ralph sustained bruises and cuts about the chest and head as well as the fractured limb. He was taken to the Belleville General Hospital, where the fracture was reduced by Dr. Robertson and Adams.

The accident happened as the boys were coasting down a steep hill on Dundas street in Deseronto apparently the bob-sleigh, upon which they were riding, became unmanageable, skidding into the telephone pole. The younger brother who was also riding escaped with bruises and a general shaking up.

ROYALPATRON OF EXPLORERS

Prince Lends Name to P. S. Society to Develop Explorers

(By Thomas T. Champion)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Jan. 26 (CP)—The Prince of Wales has become Chief Patron of the Polish Schools Exploring Society, which last year organized an expedition to Spitzbergen Island.

When Sir Lionel Halsey announced the Prince's decision at a lecture on the expedition by Sqn.-Commander Murray Levick, he added that the Prince had been keen for some time during the past year to become patron of the society.

Commander Levick mentioned the Spitzbergen expedition to New-foundland this year, saying this expedition should do a great deal more than the last. It was remarkable that we cannot get geographic facts from public sources though we can get two experts from Washington.

Capt. W. J. Pearce said that people were asserting that the school boy nowadays was anti. "If those pessimists had been with the last expedition they would be sure how that the British Empire is the safe hands."

SAN SALVADOR RECOGNIZED

Washington, Jan. 26—The United States today recognized the government of San Salvador headed by President Maximiliano Martines.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Jan. 26 (CP)—Synopsis —High pressure and cold weather covers Eastern Ontario and Quebec, and it is becoming colder in the Maritimes. A deep depression is centred off the Labrador coast with its attendant disturbance moving westward from the Great Lakes. Light falls have fallen in many districts, though the weather has been for the most part fair in all provinces east of Alberta.

Northern Ontario—Southeast and south winds, mostly today and Saturday with rising temperature, uncertainties.

Ottawa and Upper St. Lawrence Valleys—Light southerly winds and Saturday with snowflurries, milder on Saturday.

Lower St. Lawrence—Fresh southerly to westerly winds; partly cloudy and cold, followed by rising temperature and light snow.

Kenora and Lake Shore—Fresh to strong southwest and west winds; partly cloudy and milder, local snowflurries.

Manitoba—Fresh to strong westerly over southern fair and milder.

Saskatchewan—Partly cloudy and continued mild with local snowflurries.

Alberta—Mostly fair and mild.

City and District News

CATERPILLAR IS SEEN ON WALK

Spring is fluttering its airy wings right around the corner in this district. Among the certain signs that the end of winter is about over was observed by Mrs. Jas. Seaman, Foster Avenue, who had a flaming, calendar-crawling slowly around the yard of her home in the bright sunshine this afternoon. It was fat and contented looking, and quite all appearances of being here for good.

DORMITORIES ARE NEARLY FINISHED

New dormitories of the Ontario School for the Deaf will soon be ready for occupancy, it was stated by workmen now employed there driving the buildings the final touches.

At present many men are busy at fresco work and finish plastering is being carried on. All actual plastering which was carried on, was by contract work by Hamilton and Son, of Hamilton, with a large number of Belleville plasterers and helpers also now been finished.

HEADQUARTERS WILL BE IN THIS CITY

It is with pleasure, this paper takes a correction, at the corner of its news items of Wednesday. It was stated there that Mr. S. L. Cox, who had been appointed secretary-manager of the Ontario Cheese Factory Patrons' Association would probably move to Toronto and have his headquarters in that city. Mr. Cox returned from Toronto last evening, and this morning, that headquarters of the association would be established in his city, and he would retain his residence here.

EXCELSIOR'S ASSETS GROW

Annual Report of This Insurance Company Encouraging

The forty-fourth annual report of the Excelsior Life Insurance Company was presented at the annual meeting by First Vice-President James Leith Scott, in the absence of President Alex. Paskin, K.C. The report is a most encouraging one. Insurance issued and revived, totalled $14,758,583 for the year, while the total insurance in force at the close of 1933 amounted to $90,052,-416.48.

The total income for the year was $3,561,260.07, of which the sum of $2,930,944.77 represents net premium income.

"The mortality experience continued to be most favorable, being well below the expected.

"The assets for security of policyholders now total $18,860,934.88, an increase during the year of $1,-722.25. At the close of the year, the assets were made up of the following:

21.35% first mortgages on improved real estate; 47.35% bonds and debentures; 21.92% loans on company's policies; 7.07% cash in banks (under the Head Office Building); 1.19% preferred stocks; .21% common stocks; .45% cash, etc.

In an interview with A. C. Galbraith, General Manager of the Excelsior Life, he stated that material progress had been made during the year in agency department methods, which will progressively be reflected in the amount and quality of new business written by the company. The field organization generally has been strengthened during the past year and their representatives are in a better position than at any time in the past, as under a skilled and competent Life Insurance service.

The opinions of Major Galbraith are strongly supported by Mr. W. Salisbury, District Representative of the company at Belleville who looks forward with confidence to a successful year in 1934.

SETTLEMENT SOON

Brownsville, Pa., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Early settlement of the Isabella "Cadaver" mine strike appeared today as 17 per cent state trooping the mine through a line of cheering pickets and the Western Coal Company prepared to accede to other demands of the miners.

This is Hastings County Council

— By J. D. —

Hastings County Councillors are prompt, and, with meaning. But, once proceeds swiftly, directly. Questions are straightforward. There is no dallying. Seldom is he at loss, at even this early date for point of procedure.

Jedgen Ganter "Dean"

Each morning of body must have a "Dean." It is to "Jud" Gunter, Reeve of Sidney Township, that newer members of the Council look for advice on small technical or knotty point. To them he represents the final port of authority. Slow in speech, but with a turbulent tone of voice that brooks little interference, while on his feet, the hardy veteran of many a hard-won victory for his constituents in the back hauls, has his plan of campaign well planned before the first assault is made. Generally it is a surprise attack that carries the point. Judson A. Gunter has served for 16 years on the County Council. In 1919 he served one term as Warden. He is also ranked in years by just one other member on the Council, James A. Moore, Reeve of Seeley, with a total of 23 years as County Councillor.

For years, James Moore has borne the brunt of the work connected with the chairmanship of the Road, and Bridges Committee. His experience in this work has given many a new aspirant member cause for thought.

In the right direction on that committee. It is seldom that Mr. Moore engages in lengthy speech. But at his finger tips he has the command of a particular business that would take reams of closely typewritten pages to cover. Quick, offhide, at times, questions that would stump others, are answered to filing cabinets to find the right answer are often produced by the veteran chairman. When suggestions that extra expenditures are needed for certain sections of roads are given, there is careful consideration of the recommendation by the members.

Chairman of Finance

As Reeve of Sidney, A. L. Burke, has years experience in finance. Due to his credit six years in County Council, Astute and quick in manner and speech, Mr. Burke has also won the record of being valuable on the various committees to which he has been assigned. His aptitude for following closely the governing rules of the body has won him distinction among the members.

George Rush, Deputy Reeve of Sidney, is serving his second year as councillor and has been the righthand man of the Reeve of Sidney.

As Reeve of Thurlow, Wesley Ketcheson has served long term as councillor. Vigorous and active in upholding the office, Mr. Gray is assisted by Deputy Reeve Earl Dexter, now serving his second term.

Henry Farrell, Reeve of Tyendinaga, and an aspirant for the office of Warden this term, now serving his fourth year in Council, is assisted by Samuel Sharman, Deputy Reeve, who is serving his third year.

The Township of Rawdon is represented by George Thompson, now on his second year, as Reeve, and is assisted by Deputy Reeve Fred Carr who has also the same length of time to his credit on the Council. Both men are vigorous in affairs of their township, and during the past term have been successful in passing several resolutions through Council.

Replacing Wm. Morton, Reeve of Huntingdon, Robert Woods is serving his first term from that township.

As Deputy Reeve of Hungerford Township, J'Alton Clarke is now on his fifth year. He is one of the youngest members on the County Council and is noted for his brisk speech and ready manner in questions when on the floor.

Representing Marmora and Lake, Lindsey Neal, Reeve, is serving his first term.

Frank Reynolds, Reeve of Madoc township, is serving his third year. Deputy Reeve Spickett, Reeve of Tudor and Cashel, is just one year ahead of Mr. Reynolds, and is now on his fifth year of service.

Deputy Reeve Thompson, J. Churcher, in his third year, has earned the reputation of being one of the north country's best speakers. With a clearly prepared campaign of speech mapped out before taking the floor, Mr. Churcher generally holds the attention of one to a well thought out finish.

Representing Elzevir Township, Israel McKenzie is serving his third term, polling one of the largest votes ever given to a candidate there this year.

Ivan Thurston, Reeve of Montegle and Herschel, finds the job of navigating the waters of one of the most of the furthermost townships anything but easy, but with the years he preces each year upon the county councillors the fact, that the "poorest municipality" is not going to be allowed to be treated like the more heavily assessed municipalities to the south. Generally it is a struggle for this plucky township. It has gone to gain his point on the matter of grants for roads and bridges, usually manages. This is his ninth year as councillor.

Deputy Reeve Tufft with Mr. Anderson, for improvements in his township, Representing Reeve W. J. Davis of Bangor, et al. For the third time he is back again to the board. Also one of the younger members. Mr. Davis has the faculty of being able to say what's what in a few but clear manner.

Reeve Anderson, Jas. Penrock, Reeve of Carlow, has been administering the affairs of his township in a manner that has left little to be desired during the past years. Also three, Reeve Davis, Reeve Pennock and Reeve Jas. Bronson, who represents Dungannon, Huntingdon, Marmora and Lake, have been a majority of action and thought, that is rewarded in the progress and the forwardness in action. It is from this side of the county that the majority of the new resolutions presented to the Council by Reeve Bronson is now serving his seventh term as councillor.

Reeve Ketcheson's record of ser., vice behind him as Reeve of Limer., ick Township, is a long one. Also then north side of the room surveys the affairs of his ward in a quiet manner arising only at times to look over some proposed legislation, or to voice his sentiments on some needed reform. His infrequent addresses to the House of Assembly are brief, when the occasion does arise for them.

Good Behavior

W. N. Gilmour, Reeve of Wollaston, also slated for Wardenship this year has gained by his many years' experience as councillor a grasp of affairs which is invaluable in the meetings of the Council. Master of business inequalities, which crop up from time to time, his grasp on past occasions to pour oil on troubled waters, Mr. Gilmour knows out the executive wrinkles.

Replacing Reeve Walter Whytock, as Reeve of Madoc Village, Campbell Wallbridge, distinguished himself during his first year in office.

There are few points, which escape the attention of Reeve W. H. Sayers, Reeve of Tweed Village, now serving his third term. From the south-east corner of the room where the Reeve has good command of the situation from all sides, he may be odd... "they shall not pass"..... unless the same has received the nod of by some other representative in very necessary manner to be put over.

With more than 25 years, including two terms as Warden, to his credit as councillor, R. N. McVeit, Reeve of Marmora Village, has become an old hand matter of caring for his own constituents, and a valuable asset on expenditure elsewhere. With a good command of the English language, the Marmora Reeve can state his case quickly and briefly, and generally to advantage.

Deloro Village is now in run itself pretty nearly and the presence of S. B. Wright, Reeve of that village, for the past many years is not necessary as frequently as that of other councillors. But his presence is attended by Mr. Wright, but by long distance telephone he is able to keep up with developments in council as they occur, and is always ready to present himself, when occasion demands. In past occasions he has shown himself a very able and forceful speaker, capable of carrying his points.

The council's most aggressive member, Reeve Ernest F. Deerenzio, is leader of various committees and is ever alert to the county's needs. He is serving for the second term as Deerenzio's representative.

Representing Frankford Village, J. F. Ford, Reeve, has already distinguished himself as a councillor for the second term, by his readiness to take part in discussions. Reeve Fron Mr. Ford has come several times prominently before the Council presented to the Council.

Expert Revived by Drs. Porte Marshall And Dunfield

Dr. Porte Marshall, son of Dr. and Mrs. Porte Marshall of this city, who is on the staff of the Doyle Clinic at Windsor, took a prominent part recently in the resuscitation of E. G. Greggs, a welding expert of Cleveland, Ohio, who was overcome by fumes caused by the action of carbon tetrachloride upon on break as he was applying pure tin to the inside surface of a vat at the Ford-Ish American Brewery at Windsor. When Greggs was dragged from the vat an emergency call was sent for the rescue squad of the Windsor fire department and inhalators to administer a reviving mixture of oxygen and carbon dioxide. Dr. Marshall, who was on duty at accident and under the direction of Dr. Marshall Dr. Dunfield, the oxygen was administered. Later Greggs was removed to Grace Hospital where he was kept under observation by Dr. Marshall and Dr. Dunfield.

The manager of the Welding Appliance Company of Detroit for which company the man was doing the work, was the one to drag him from the vat and he also is a Port Windsor Fire Department he exercised appreciation of the expert manner in which the work of resuscitation was handled by the Drs. Marshall and Dunfield, and the perfection of their technic was due, Capt. Keech, Dr. Marshall and Dr. Dunfield. He was attracted much interested attention in Windsor.

FOOT DISORDERS
The bones of the foot consist of the tarsal, metatarsal and the phalanges of the toes. The tarsal bones are seven in number and the metatarsal five.
The foot is arched in form and is prevented from falling flat by powerful ligaments. These ligaments will remain strong so long as they receive their normal supply of life force from the nerves, but if the nerve supply is diminished in any way the ligaments become flaccid and allow the arch to fall. A falling arch of the foot causes a tension on other important nerves and blood vessels in the leg. It is necessary to correct the subluxation to free the nerves as well as adjust the arch of the foot.

Another survived by seven brothers, Isadore of Niagara Falls, Peter of Detroit, Joseph Marmora, one sister, Mrs. Sam Moffatt of Marmora, Mrs. Ann Darrah, who passed away in Marmora Township in her 100th year.

The funeral was held on Tuesday morning, Requiem Mass at the Immaculate Conception Church with Father J. J. Kesley officiating.

Interment followed in the adjoining cemetery.

LATE PATRICK JOSEPH FLYNN

MARMORA, Jan. 26.—Patrick Joseph Flynn passed away Monday morning at his residence, about one mile south of the Trent River on the Campbellford Road), after a lingering illness, in the way of 63 years.

The deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Flynn of Marmora. He is survived by his wife, (formerly Nora Ann Ruggles), four sisters, Mrs. J. McCoulligh, of Toronto; Mrs. Madden of Peterboro; Mrs. Warren and Mrs. O'Sullivan of Marmora; also five brothers, James of Deloraine, Manitoba, David of Bowmore, William, Edward and John of Marmora.

The funeral proceeded from his late residence to Immaculate Conception Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, where Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father J. J. Kesley P.P. Interment was made in Roman Catholic Cemetery.

POLICE COURT

Fifteen transients were afforded a warm night's shelter at the police station last evening, after leaving the city at an early hour this morning. No automobile accidents were reported in the city or on the highways by the Motorcycle Officer in this district. Motoring on the highways has increased slightly owing to the clearing of the roads of the ice and snow.

But one case was presented before His Worship Magistrate Mikel, in Friday morning's police court. Owing to the non-appearance of a

Tweed United Church Reviews Successful and Active Year

W. E. Tummon, M.P. Presents Board's Financial Report

Tweed, Jan. -- —The annual congregational meeting of Tweed United Church was held in the church parlours on Tuesday evening with an attendance of nearly one hundred. Supper was served at seven o'clock. At the conclusion of the supper the pastor, Rev. R. R. Nicholson called the meeting to order and opened it with a hymn and prayer. On motion S. H. Connor was chosen as secretary of the meeting. Reports of the various organizations of the church were received.

Sunday School

The report of the Sunday School was given by Mr. W. S. Gordon. Mr. Gordon said that he had been superintendent of the school since 1903, and traced its growth and development since that date. He read the minutes of the annual meeting of 1903 and noted that of the officers and teachers of the school of that date only four remained; Miss J. Wright, Mrs. W. S. Gordon, Mr. J. G. Frost and himself. He spoke of the faithful services rendered during 21 years of a former secretary Mr. W. D. Davis of Toronto.

He referred to his own father who had been superintendent of Lodgeroom Sunday School for nearly 65 years.

Mr. W. J. McCutcheon reported receipts of $254.40 in the school and a balance on hand of $4.65 after all expenses were paid. The average attendance of teachers and officers during the year was 149 a slight decrease from the previous year.

The report of the Women's Adult Bible class was given by Miss Mary Logan, secretary who paid tribute to the excellent services of their teacher, Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P. who rarely missed a Sunday. She also made reference to the excellent leadership of the president, Mrs. W. H. Hicks who retired at the end of the year. The average attendance of the class was 22.

The report of the Men's Adult Bible class by the secretary, Mr. W. H. Craig showed good work being done although the attendance was often discouragingly small.

Mrs. W. S. Gordon reporting the activities of the C.G.I.T. group stated that there were many girls who had shown a deep interest in the work, but that it was hard to secure leaders to undertake the work during the present year. That difficulty had been overcome however, and four leaders had been chosen at the annual Sunday School meeting on Monday evening, Mrs. W. S. Gordon, Miss I. Morton, Miss F. Blaney and Miss I. Campbell.

Meetings of the Tuxis and Trail Ranger groups are held regularly and Dr. M. G. Dales is giving a series of ten talks on first aid to the latter group. Increased interest and a resultant increase in the attendance of the Young People's Society was noted.

W.M.S. Report

Mrs. C. H. Kerr, secretary of the W.M.S. stated that there were a membership of 82 in the society of whom 23 were life members. In June the 43rd anniversary was celebrated with visitors from Bethel, Lodgeroom, Thomasburg, Sulphide, and Actinolite, as well as members of the society in other churches of Tweed. During the year $422 had been raised and forwarded to the branch treasurer.

The Mission Band had an average attendance of 20, and 2 additional life members were added during the year. Mrs. H. Grier reported a considerable sum raised by the Band. The Baby Band has 33 members including 5 life members according to a report given by Mrs. A. McTaggart.

One of the most important and effective organizations of the Church is the Women's Association with every officer including its efficient president Mrs. M. Drinkwater, who reported an average attendance of 30 at its meetings. The financial report by Mrs. S. B. McGee its treasurer showed $718.78 raised during the year with expenditures of $526.67 leaving a balance of $192.11.

Music Committee

Mr. Gordon, chairman of the Music Committee, in reporting for the choir, expressed on behalf of the congregation their sincere sympathy to Mrs. S. H. Connor who had suffered the loss of her father. He paid tribute to Mrs. Connor's faithful services in the choir. Mr. Gordon complimented the choir on hte very excellent music which it is rendering. The leader, Mr. S. H. Connor, expressed the thanks of the choir for the appreciation of the congregation and referred to the fact that during the year the church had suffered the loss of its organist, Mrs. J. G. Frost, whom ill health had forced to give up her position at the organ, which she filled so efficiently for 25 years.

The treasurer of the M. and M. Fund, Mr. A. W. McGuire reported receipts of $685.16 a slight decrease from 1932, but expected that this amount would come in before the end of the month.

W. E. Tummon

The most important organization of the church from the standpoint of church finances, the Board of Stewards, is fortunate in having at its head, Mr. W. E. Tummon. In making the financial report, Mr. Tummon referred to the trying times through which the church in common with other organizations and individuals, had been passing during the past two or three years. During the year the church had raised for its current expenses $3245.54. The expenses were $2989.75 leaving a credit balance on the year's operations, a previous debit balance had resulted in a net debt of $341.93. This debt has been completely wiped out by a contribution of $200 from the W.A. and oversubscribed list of $204.35, so that the church is now entirely out of debt and has a surplus of $62.42.

The Pastor's report showed 165 families and 675 persons under pastoral oversight. During the year there had been 19 baptisms and 20 funerals, six of which were of members of the church. Resident members numbered 294 and non-resident 32.

Officers Elected

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Members of session for four years: Messrs. F. B. Foster, A. C Barnett and J. G. Frost.

Members of Board of Stewards: Messrs. W. E. Tummon, L. Elliott, G. A. Meiklejohn, W. H. Craig, R. W. Sullivan, T. C. Graham, M. Patterson, A. B. Allen, W. H. Sayers, Dr. A. C. Locke.

Mr. W. E. Tummon was re-elected chairman of the Anniversary Committee, a position which he has filled so well for the past several years.

A motion was passed placing on record the church's appreciation of the exellent services of Rev. Nicholson and inviting him to continue as Pastor for the coming year.

Present Play

An amusing play "How the Story Grew" was given by the W.A. The cast of characters consisted of Mrs. M. Drinkwater, Mrs. Ardenne, Mrs. H Purdy, Mrs. C. Bartlett, Mrs. H. Grier, Mrs. W. H. Richardson, Mrs. C. Kleinsteuber, Miss C. Meiklejohn.

An amusing song composed almost entirely by the members of the Women's Association was also sung by them, entitled "The Ladies' Aid."

FASHIONING WORSHIP LAWS

LONDON, Jan. 25.— (CP Cable) —The necessity of the Church of England obtaining freedom to fashion the laws of worship according to the ends of today was stressed by the Archbishop of York, Most Rev. William Temple, today in addressing the convocation of York.

His Grace was speaking in reference to the long-standing protest by Lord Hugh Cecil against the dean and the Bishop of Liverpool for permitting Unitarian ministers to give addresses in Liverpool Cathedral. Lord Cecil carried his case to the Archbishop of York but a decision is not expected until June.

"The whole episode," His Grace told the Convocation today, "illustrates the extreme danger of the division, approximating to disruption, which the church is placed in by its present inability to revise its laws and canons.

"The publicity given the occurrences in Liverpool Cathedral has involved the risk of causing ill-informed persons to doubt the firmness of the Church's adherence to the catholic faith of Christendom in Jesus Christ as the Very God".

OBITUARY

LATE BILLA C. SALISBURY

Largely attended by friends and neighbors, the funeral of the late Billa Coleman Salisbury was held Thursday afternoon from his late residence in the 3rd concession of Thurlow to the Cannifton United Church. The sacred edifice was filled with residents of the countryside who had congregated to accord their last tribute of respect to the memory of an old and esteemed friend. The Rev. W. R. Merrick conducted the service during which the choir sang most appropriately "When Peace Like a River". Mr. Merrick also officiated at the graveside in Elmwood Cemetery.

The bearers were Messrs. A. Holgate, B. Bedell, M. Jones, E. Sills, W. Lidster and W. Caldwell.

WILLIAM S. TRASK

The 2.40 C.N.R. train Thursday afternoon bore away from Belleville the remains of William S. Trask, late manager of the American Hardware Corporation of Canada Ltd., to eventually find a resting place in Seymour, Connecticut, the town of the late Mr. Trask's birth.

Wednesday evening and Thursday many friends, and representatives of clubs with which Mr. Trask had connected himself here, visited the Tickell and Browne Funeral Home, 60 Victoria Avenue, in token of respect to the memory of the deceased, while the many floral tributes from personal friends and organizations evinced still further the admiration in which Mr. Trask had been held in Belleville during his three years' residence here.

Thursday afternoon the plant of which he had been manager was closed, and its officials and employees accompanied the remains to the station. Representatives of clubs and organizations and many friends also accorded this tribute of respect.

WHEN SHE LOST 28 lbs.

She Gained Energy

This young woman's method of reducing overweight is evidently as beneficial as it is effective, and a letter she writes is therefore worthy of publication:—

"I am 24 years of age; height 5 ft. 5½ ins.; and a short time ago my weight was 28 lbs. above normal. I was listless and without energy. Now after taking Kruschen Salts regularly I have lost 28 lbs in weight, and have much more vitality. Also I have a very good complexion and I do not have face blemishes of any kind. Surely this must be due to my having pure blood, and I attribute the fact to my taking Kruschen Salts."—(Miss) M.S.

Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which would otherwise be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

DAMON WELLS

Picton, Jan. 26 (Special) — The many friends in Picton, of Mr. Damon Wells, of Bloomfield, were shocked to hear of his sudden passing, on Monday, due to a heart attack. Mr. Wells was at his work as a butcher, when death came instantly.

Damon Wells was born at Goderich, Ontario, thirty-seven years ago, a son of Thomas Wells, C.N.R. station agent at Bloomfield, and his late wife, Mary E. Godfrey Wells. He had bought a butcher shop, and had resided in Bloomfield for the past three years. Previous to that he had been an electrician, in the employ of Picton Public Utilities, and had resided in Picton. He is survived by his wife, who before her marriage was Ruth Palen, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Palen of Waupoos, and two very young children, a boy and a girl. His father, a sister living in Brighton, and two brothers living in the United States, also survive.

Mr. Wells had a pleasing personality, and had many friends. He was the manager of the Bloomfield hockey team.

He was a Presbyterian in religion, and a member of the Masonic lodge, under whose auspices the funeral was held at his late residence, Bloomfield, on Wednesday at 1 p.m. Rev. S. M. Scott of Picton conducted the service, and interment was made in Mount Hope cemetery, Brighton.

Personals

Miss Gertie Bigg, after a month's illness, has resumed her position in the office of the Canadian Canners, Main Street. Her mother, Mrs. Bigg, has not improved in health. She has lost the use of her hands and feet, Miss Head of Milford is assisting Miss Dora Rose in caring for her.

Mrs. Harry Huff supplied for Miss Bigg, during her illness in the Canadian Canner's office.

A Picton merchant and a clerk in a local hotel appeared in police court last week on a charge of selling cigarettes to a minor. The charge was laid by the mother of a young local lad, who claimed he had purchased a ten cent package from the merchant and a five cent package from the hotel clerk. The clerk had a police officer examine his stock of cigarettes, and proved that the hotel does not carry the five cent packages. The charge against him was dropped. The merchant paid a fine and costs.

Mr. E. A. Pearce left Picton on Saturday on the first lap of his journey to England, where he will visit his daughter, Miss Priscilla Pearce who is taking post graduate work there.

Mr. Victor Croks has been employed at the Seed House during the busy season there.

ELECT WARDENS FOR ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, ROSLIN

Annual Vestry Meeting of Congregation is Held

Roslin—The annual meeting of St. John's Anglican Church, Moneymore, was held in the church on Monday evening, January 22nd at 8 p.m. when the rector Rev. F. C. Beaze, occupied the chair. Miss Rosamond Burley acted as Vestry Clerk. The minutes of the last year's meeting were adopted unanimously by the congregation, after which the people's warden read his report which was very satisfactory. This was folowed by the rector's Warden's report. The Rector in his report thanked the wardens and all organizations who had worked so hard during the past year including the Ladies' Guild in beautifying the interior of the church.

After listening to various reports the Rector called on Mr. Stanley Weir to act as Rector's Warden for another year, having held this office for seven years past, and whose work has proven very satisfactory. Mr. Stanley Weir kindly accepted this office with the Rector's good will, and in which it is hoped the congregation will give every support. The Rector then asked for the election for People's Warden, and Mr Joseph Coulter was again elected by the congregation by an unanimous vote. Mr. John Carleton and Mr. Ernest Coulter were chosen again to act as auditors for the ensuing year, and Miss Rosamond Burley as organist and vestry clerk.

Mrs. H. B. Herrington spent the weekend with friends in Toronto.

Mrs. James Way has returned home after spending a short time with her daughter Mrs. B. Houston in Belleville.

River Valley Study Group Has Meeting

8th Sidney—Mr. and Mrs. Roy Irvin spent a few days last week at the home of her mother, Mrs. McCullough.

Mr. Harry Morrow spent the week end in Toronto and attended the banquet held for the young Conservatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bush, Adeline and Marjorie spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh.

The January meeting of the River Valley Study Group was held at the home of Mrs. Alex Bush with a fine attendance. Mr. Rowland was present and installed the officers for the coming year. A good program was arranged by Mrs. Robert Bush and Mrs. W. H. Hanna. The February meeting with be held at the home of Mrs. Sarah Rosebush, Mrs. Mary Vandervoort and Mrs. John Sager to prepare the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bush and family and Mr. Wm. Heasman visited Mr. Fred Heasman in Belleville Hospital on Sunday afternoon. We are pleased to hear that Fred is gaining nicely.

The members of St. John's Church, Stirling gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reg Coombes last Friday evening and presented them with an occasional chair and end table and also a miscellaneous shower.

TWO WOMEN SAW SCUFFLE

Number of Car Used by Kidnappers Obtained by The Police

St. Paul, Jan. 25 (AP)— Two unnamed eye witnesses, both women, who espied the kidnappers of Edward C. Bremer, when they seized the wealthy St. Paul banker, Jan. 17 and spirited him away, today supplied the ploice with clues, that might lead to ultimate apprehension of the gang.

One of the women it was understood witnessed the actual abduction from about 20 feet near where Bremer's automobile was halted near the Summit Girls' School after he had left his eight-year-old daughter, Betty.

She related a story of a brief scuffle in the Bremer car as he apparently resisted the kidnappers, who have demanded $200,000 ransom. His automobile later was found, the interior splotched with with blood.

The second witness was reported to have obtained the license number of the gang's car.

HARD WINTER FOR THE DEER

Reeve Brett Thinks Banning of Dogs For Hunting Good Thing

Although deer have been more plentiful than ever, and a few moose have been sighted even as far down as Bass and Salmon lakes, this winter, for the first time in years, no wolves have been sighted in that district, stated Reeve R. C. Brett, sage and naturalist of Limerick Township, when questioned today.

"Deer have had a hard winter so far", stated Reeve Brett. "The snow has been deep and the crust heavy for their small hooves. It would have been an ideal hunting ground for wolves through that district this year, but they have been scarcer this season than I can ever remember.

In previous years their hunting call had been heard as far down as Millbridge and many of te grey shapes were seen regularly haunting the settled districts throughout Limerick. This year they've kept well back and heard only seldom. Coupled with this fact it is also revealed that fewer hunters are active this year, even with the attractive bounty on the animals.

A few lordly moose have been seen ambling to and fro across the frozen lakes, and appear well fed and comparatively tame. One was sighted on Salmon Lake during the early part of this week.

"The best thing this country has ever done was the banning of dogs in the bush", stated Reeve Brett who has had years of experience with the wild life of the northern sections.

"And one of the best acts this council did this session was concurring in the ten year ban on moose shooting. That is one attraction we now have for tourists from south of the border.

Veteran of Great War Truck Victim

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 25 (CP) — J. Grant Henderson, native of Ottawa and resident in Hamilton for some years before coming here, died in hospital of injuries received when struck by a truck on Dec. 27. He served during the Great War as a captain in the Canadian forces. Active in Masonic circles, funeral services will be held in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, Masonic Temple, tomorrow afternoon and the body taken to Hamilton for interment.

Little Benny's Note Book

After supper pop started to lite a cigar and look comfortable, and ma said, Maud Hews called up and said they'd be home this evening in case we cared to drop around, what would you say to a little bridge, Willyum?

I'd say I prefer not, I've had a hard day at the office, pop said, and ma said, But Willyum, nothing is more relaxing to the brane than bridge.

I bleeve you're rite, in fact I shouldn't be serprised to hear that the latest statistics prove that 33 and a therd per cent of the inmates of the werld's insane asylums are suffering from complete and permanent relaxation of the brane, caused by bridge, pop said, and ma said, O, you can prove anything by statistics, but you cant deny with a clear conscience that bridge is the strongest social force in the werld today, it brings more people together than any other single attraction.

Quite true, and it separates even more than it brings together, pop said. For every divorce granted for desertion and infidelity there are 10 granted for cruelty and non support of trumps at the bridge table, he said, and ma said, But Willyum, after all what would people do if they couldn't play bridge. I mean, after all?

They would quarrel decently and respectably at home the way they did in the good old days, pop said, and ma said, But Willyum do you axually mean you'd rather go to the movies tonite than to the Hewses?

That's a new idea but it's the lesser of 2 evils, at least I can go to sleep there if necessary, pop said, and ma said, O Willyum that will be perfeck, we'll go to the Mawsoleum, and just as an appropriate coincidence there's an added attraction there tonite showing a bridge hand between Professor Bintz and Mr. Guggenweiler in slow motion.

Yee gods, pop said.

Meening what was a use.

AN EMANCIPATOR

Once again the anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns has passed, his songs have been sung in countless assemblies of Scots the world over, and they have been heard by means of one of the latest of man's inventions, the radio. He has been the subject of sermons from pulpits, he has been the binding force of happy gatherings. Where there are sparkling eyes and happy faces, where there are sympathy, happiness, and love of one another, the influence of Burns can be traced.

As time progresses, the wonder of Burns grows. No one can understand the workings of human genius, its laws are so little known, and probably never will be really fully explored, for it probably is not in the nature of life that man should be able to say: This man is to be the greatest of world song writers, even though he be born among lowly but honest Scots folk. And that was just what he was born to be, we now know.

Burns was happily gifted by nature—he was of full manhood, intensely human; a lover of the race, to whom the cares of the cottage among the Scots hills was one of the noblest sights in all experience. In him beat the rhythm of music in dong. So much a man was he that he found what most men fail to find, the glory of the commonplace. Of all men who have lived to win a name in song Burns is the one who is perfectly natural. Folk song is usually nameless, the melody and words are used by many folks who without thought of fame pour into their songs in their own lives and at their festivals. Now Burns is the first and only "named" folksong writer that has been known. And of course he owned a debt to the nation's songs but others owe a debt to them and still there is no second Burns.

Burns' love of manhood and his peasant birth gave him a sane view of life which the child born with the proverbial spoon in his mouth cannot have. He had sympathetic and he saw that what counted was manhood and womanhood. His song "A Man's a Man for a' That" is a death-less song of human emancipation from fetches, and unnatural bonds of society for in it the measurement of worth by wealth was given a blow from which it will never recover.

Burns' tenderness made him the most natural of all men. It was not sentimentality, it was love, which made him give so much of himself for others. His charity overflowed into the animal world. His songs of the lower stages of creation are the expression of a civilization not yet reached on this earth. He loved life wherever he saw it. Burns is one of the great emancipators of the human heart and society.

His keen mind and his naturalness made him revolt against hypocrisy especially among those who set themselves up as ministers of the people. He put the selfish hypocrite and the mean and vulgar man on the rack for their betterment. He could write with a pen dipped in acid but there was reserved for those diseased minds and spirits who had ostracised themselves from society and a poet's love by their cruel and brutal attitude towards common humanity.

No honest man, no lover of human kind but loves Burns for his great humanity; it is only the mean man and the hypocrite who would shun the white light and the stings of the poet's arrows as he aims straight at the hypocrite's heart.

He was the joy of any gathering and his toil and work are caught up in the deathless songs which go by his name.

Scotland should be the proudest nation on earth as the motherland of the world's greatest writer of song.

Burns lived and died and yet he leads modern civilization. He is the trumpet voice which sings to battle against human wrongs. Some of the least regarded and unaffected men and women of today, even the children of this generation, are close to the spirit of the poet master, who pierced with his vision the clouds hiding great days yet to be, perhaps hundreds of years in the distance and in ages yet unborn, when

"Man to man the world o'er Shall brothers be for a' that."

Ah me! the world is full of meetings such as this,—a thrill, a voiceless challenge and reply, and sudden partings after!—Willis.

It is impious for a good man to be sad. —Young.

Memory is the receptacle and sheath of all knowledge.—Cicero.

In youth we learn how little we can do for ourselves; in age how little we can do for others. The wisdom of experience is incommunicable.—Isabel Paterson.

No thoroughly occupied man was ever yet very miserable.—Landon.

AWAY BACK WHEN SAILING was the leading sport in the Bay of Quinte district and Massassaga Point was the rendevouz for fresh water sailors and others out for the fresh air and a good time with good eats and a snort or two on the side, a party of young businessmen set sail in one of the trim yachts which adorned the harbor in those days. On board a substantial supply of provisions and eats and pleasant drinks during the voyage. A stop was made at Massassaga where it was proposed to make a short stay in a cot.

Another yacht from Belleville hove to and made fast to the dock close alongside the first craft. The captain and crew of the shipmates, too, of the first craft were busy looking over the cottage the crew of the second yacht proceeded to transfer the supplies of the first craft to their's. Returning, the absence of supplies was noted and a conference held. Demand for the missing supplies met with a surly, defiant, and even threatening refusal, backed up by the presence of a noted middleweight pugilist then making Belleville his headquarters. Finally one of the crew of the despoiled yacht drew a large sailor's knife, stepped on the bow of the second yacht, gathered the hallards in one hand and with the knife in the other threatened to sever them, and thus destroy the usefulness of the craft for some hours.

This raised a very belligerent demonstration on the part of the pugilist and his friends, but the man with the knife said that the first move of a hostile nature would result in the destruction of the hallards. Finally the pugilist and his companions capitulated and returned the supplies to the first boat, admitting defeat with as good grace as they could muster. Such was the tale on the outgoing reporter by a Front Street business man, who twenty, thirty years ago was one of a merry crew of Belleville young men who spent all their leisure time in the glorious sport of sailing.

RINGING DOWN THE AGES is the shame of human brotherhood.—Cain's sneering, selfish remark, "Am I my brother's keeper?" after he had slain the lad in a fit of jealous rage. "Am I my brother's keeper?" is just as pertinent a question today as it was in the dawn of creation. That's what makes us wonder who is the keeper of that ragged, restless army of young men, wandering up and down the land, looking for work, and refusing to stay idle where it is not.

"Oh, Mr. Plumpton," she exclaimed, soulfully, "have you ever felt a dim, uneasy sense of oppression as if mere weight of life were a burden too heavy to be borne by the chained spirit panting with psychic longings to be free?"

"I invariably have such a feeling at Christmas-time," was the callous response; "but I have always attributed it to pudding!"

"Say, old man, what happened to that parrot of yours that was such a great talker?"

"Oh, I married, you know, and it died of a broken heart!"

"Jealousy, I suppose."

"Well, no, not exactly. It couldn't stand the competition."

An elderly lady was asked which she thought were happier, people who were married or people who were not.

"Well, I don't know," she said. "Sometimes I think there are as many is that ain't as ain't that is.

Two friends were discussing radio programs.

"Do you think children understand and appreciate these bedtime stories?" inquired one.

"I'm sure I don't know," answered the other. "I noticed, however, that little Helen went to sleep very nicely on a hash receipt last night."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 26, 1914

An interesting game of hockey was played at the arena last night between teams representing the printers and the employees of the Bell Telephone Company which resulted in victory for the telephone boys, the score which was was large exact figures not for publication) the play was fast throughout, but the telephone employes were much heavier than the typesetters and therefore they won. Following is the line-up of the two teams and the positions they were supposed to play: Printers—goal, Buchanan; defence, Cookson and Clancy; rover, Mason; centre, Bales; wings, Riggs and Shorrit. Bell Telephone—goal, Doolittle; defence, Bright and Baddley; rover, Alford; centre, Carron; wings, McBride and Walker. The telephone management must have tampered with one of the printers as in the excitement, he scored for the telephone team. The ambulance was not needed, but some of the players whistled that they were dizzy after the game. "Reddy" Service was penalty time-keeper and "Red" let the telephone players out before they could do any harm. They conferred the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

At a meeting of the city council the proposed grant of $1,000 to the public library was reduced to $500.

Mr. George Empey, who for many years was a resident of this city being engaged in the tailoring business, died yesterday at Loraine, Ohio, aged 71 years. He had a large circle of friends in this city and was most highly respected.

The members of Holloway St. Church League gathered at the parsonage last evening and spent an enjoyable social time with their pastor and his wife, Rev. T. and Mrs. Real. A feature of the evening was the presentation to the esteemed president, Miss Martin, of an address and a handsome bouquet. The presentation being made on behalf of the league by Miss Sarah McCrudden.

The concert given by Camp Hoo Hoo Reuss of Scotland, in the city hall last evening on the anniversary of Burns' birthday was one of the best that has ever been given in this city. Mr. Thomas Stewart on taking the chair welcomed those present in his own true "bonny Scotch way," and then introduced Bro. Wm. Smeaton, deputy grand chief, who gave a short, interesting address on the history of the society. Bro. W. N. Ponton gave a very cleverly prepared paper on "Robert Burns," which was much appreciated by the audience and Bro. Dr. George Wright gave an address on "The Heroes of Scotland" with which the only fault to be found was that it was too short. The various other items on the programme as rendered by Messrs. John McIntosh, Alf. Gillen, Geo. Pass, Wm. McLean, Frank Lewis, A. Milne, Mrs. Cole Campbell, Mrs. Jos. Wallace, W. H. Campbell, Miss Maggie Paisener, Miss Jessie Brignall and Miss Wilson did much credit to the performers, and were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Cole Campbell was the accompanist.

Mr. James Little was in Peterboro yesterday on business.

The saw mill known as the "Stinson Mill" on the Cannifton flood was destroyed by fire on Thursday night. The mill which was one of the best on the river was operated recently by James H. Jordan and was valued at $3,000.

A telegram this morning the thermometer registered 8 degrees below zero. Yesterday morning at the same hour the temperature was 36 degrees below zero. It was the coldest day on record since December 8th, 1882, the thermometer was as low in the morning, but the average of the day was about 6 degrees above zero, while yesterday the average was 12°, below zero. Between these dates the lowest temperature recorded was 2 degrees below zero.

It should have been stated in our account of the opening of the new opera house that the plans were prepared and specifications and details made by Ald. T. Hanley who also superintended the work of construction. The plans were based in part only on a set prepared by Mr. J. D. Evans.

Letters to The Editor

NEW BELLEVILLE DEPOT

To the Editor of the Ontario Intelligencer:

Sir:

It will be noted in Thursday morning's Toronto papers, that the Dominion Government contemplates the expenditure of the sum of seventeen million in Canada, principally for the construction of public buildings.

If our citizens join together in a strong effort it may be possible to procure the erection of a new up-to-date depot in which would be included offices for the railway employees and officials. The old stone building erected nearly three-quarters of a century ago was a splendid structure for a village and the frame building subsequently erected to house the clerks and officials was all right in its day.

The new depot could be constructed of cement from the Hastings district, faced up on the outside with granite from the Coe Hill quarries, and finished inside with marble from the Bancroft quarries, thus making a continuous advertisement for the natural resources of the County of Hastings which would, no doubt, ultimately result in increasing business for the railway. The construction of such a depot would not only give employment to persons in the City of Belleville but also to men residing in different parts of the County. The raw material as well as the labour are at hand.

"Ask and thou shalt receive." Belleville is the centre of the Bay of Quinte District which is recognized as the cradle land of Canada having supplied more of the great leaders of Canada than any other section, including the Right Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald; the Hon. Sir Mackenzie Bowell; the Hon. Sir Richard Cartwright; the Hon. Sir Oliver Mowat; the Right Hon. Sir Gilbert Parker; the Hon. Sir Redmond Roblin, former Premier of Manitoba; the Hon. Major-General Sir Sam Hughes, who was a resident and school teacher of West Belleville; the Hon. Lewis Wallbridge; the Hon. Hector Howell, and the Hon. Frank Philpott, two Chief Justices and a Judge of Manitoba; the Hon. R. C. Clute, Judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario; the Hon. J. R. Cooke, of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario and others.

EXPANSION OF MONTREAL CO.

Lallemand's Yeast Now Available to General Public

Back of many successful businesses, there is often an interesting story and in an interview Mr. Fred Lallemand Jr., outlined something of the story of the remarkable growth of the Fred A. Lallemand Company, a story bound up with the history of Canadian industry. In 1853, the Company until just now has sold its yeast only to bakers, confectioners, etc. Its business has grown steadily as this trade appreciated the purity, the uniform high quality of Lallemand's Yeast, the splendid system of distribution built up to ensure quick delivery, its reputation—fresh—in perfect condition. Operations were extended right across Canada, from the Atlantic to the Rocky Mountains.

As the years went by, Mr. Lallemand said, the Company witnessed a growing appreciation on the part of the public of the health-building properties of fresh yeast. Vitamins became an absorbing subject of study and of talk—they were found to explain the extraordinary curative powers of certain "products" and fresh yeast was found to contain vitamins B, C and D in greatest richness.

The Fred A. Lallemand Company, knowing that their fresh yeast could be of very great service to the public, finally decided to place it within reach of all. Mr. Lallemand explained how Lallemand's fresh yeast is now packaged in small cakes and distributed to grocers and druggists where it can be bought.

Mr. Lallemand added that fresh yeast is a very attractive product. It is composed of living organisms. Its production and distribution offer an interesting, delicate task—one calling for much skill, knowledge and organizing ability.

EARLY SIGNS POINTING TO TUBERCULOSIS

Hope For Recovery Lies in Early Treatment of Disease

Tuberculosis is not the dread disease it used to be a decade ago, yet it still takes a yearly toll of thousands of human beings and continues to be a menace that we must combat with every means possible.

The thing to do, of course, is never to be afraid to find out whether or not tuberculosis is in the making when suspicious signs and symptoms exist. In its early recognition and treatment of the disease lies the real hope of the sufferer.

If people by far and large would recognize the possibilities of the first suspicious symptoms, and ask for a thorough examination at the very first suggestion of a disease, the death rate would be cut down to almost negligible proportions.

A cough that persists and cannot be cured should always be the patient to the doctor. The sputum may or may not contain tuberculosis bacilli. But the lungs themselves may yield the necessary evidence through a shadow becomes evident on slight exertion.

Pain in the chest may be present or absent.

Often the individual feels tired all the time no matter what he does to overcome the feeling. He may become chronically tired from over-work, to be sure—but tuberculosis frequently becomes evident on slight exertion.

An afternoon rise in temperature is a significant symptom. To determine this symptom accurately it is best to take the temperature every hour of the waking day, and for several consecutive days as a stretch. Night sweats are not infrequent. The individual awakens to find himself bathed in perspiration. In this connection one must bear in mind the possibility of too heavy bed coverings, especially during winter. Most people sleep too warm. This makes them restless, and frequent moving about may be heavy bed coverings, especially during winter. Most people sleep too mistaken on slight exertion.

Marked and rather sudden loss of weight should be considered in relation to tuberculosis. A healthy person may vary in weight from month to month but a loss of ten pounds or more within a short time is a different matter.

The early indications of possible tuberculosis which I have mentioned refer particularly to lung infections. Tuberculosis, however, may attack almost any organ and tissue of the body. In those other forms there are symptoms directly referable to the parts involved, whether it be the bones, the joints, the kidneys, the throat, the digestive canal, the brain or whatever.

Tuberculosis of the stomach is rare, although during the last century it may give the first hint of lung trouble.

The object of all tuberculosis treatment should be the checking of the process and the healing of the organ that is attacked. When that occurs the case is spoken of as an "arrested case." Scores and scores of arrested cases are living evidence of this conclusion.

DAILY DIET HINT

In order to gain weight it is necessary to eat a variety of foods and to maintain a daily balance. Therefore it is unwise to increase on eggs and milk, for instance, while at the same time cutting down on meats, vegetables and fruit. A good plan is to eat three hearty meals daily but to drink a glass of milk with cream during the middle of the afternoon and another before retiring. To each, a raw egg may be added.

Icebreaker Montcalm Will Endeavor to Reach Isolated Ports

North Sydney, N. The stout little vessel, laden with relief supplies and other necessities, was ready to sail at daybreak for Ingonish as the northeast coast of the island.

At Ingonish the Montcalm will attempt to burst its way through solid ice, hooking entrance to the many little coves along Bonne Bay to land supplies for scattered fishing communities, cut off from all communication for many days. In all, reports said, residents had only sufficient flour to last until the end of the week.

Annual Get-together of County and City is Most Successful

MUSICAL PROGRAM

Warden Jordan of County Presented With a Fountain Pen

The Hotel Quinte had as guests last night, 140 men, prominent in the municipal affairs of this county and city and in the business and professional life of both, when the City Council of Belleville and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce were again banqueted to the Warden and County Councillors of Hastings. Last evening's gathering marked the "46th "Get-Together" which the County Council has been accorded and enjoyed the hospitality of the two Belleville organizations. Privileged indeed this courtesy to those who are responsible for affairs of Hastings County, for the fourteenth consecutive year, the cooperative effort of City Council and Chamber of Commerce was appreciated to the full not only by those in whose honor it had been arranged but by all who attended. Mr. A. O. Hertig, secretary and manager of the Chamber of Commerce had been designated much of the task of preparating for the success of the excellent program he had provided men with the approval of all and was the subject of laudatory commendation at the close of a truly enjoyable evening. It was a truly "get-together" night and hoped for spirit of mutual interest between rural and urban residents of the county was realized. Previous dinners of a like nature have been successful, but Thursday night's courteous gesture by city dwellers to those of the county was the finest yet attained.

Mayor Yeales Toastmaster

To the Chief Magistrate of Belleville was accorded the honour of presiding over the greater portion of the evening's activities; his first of which was the presentation of the gavel to the new Warden of the County of Hastings, this memento having been a Mayor Yeales' term by Mr. W. C. Springer, the newly elected president of the Chamber of Commerce.

In a few well chosen words Mr. Springer, the newly elected president of the Chamber of my regards said Mr. Dolan in handing Warden Jordan the pen. "May the receipts you write with this pen be the cheques you sign with it throughout the year."

Mr. Jordan expressed his thanks for Mr. Dolan's thoughtfulness.

The dinner was opened with the singing of "O Canada" and invocation by the Rev. Robert Hall. Following the loyal pledge to "The King", the Chairman, Mayor Yeales made his address of welcome. The Chief Magistrate of the city, in so doing said in part:

"Warden, members of the County Council, and Ladies and Gentlemen,—

"For the third time it is my privilege to welcome here as our guests the warden and members of the County Council and the county officials. In all my busy round of duties as chief magistrate of the city, I do not know of any activity connected with my office that I consider so much of an honour and a privilege, as well as so much of a pleasure, pleasure, as it is to bid welcome to this unique annual gathering the men who have received of from the various municipalities in the County of Hastings, the highest honour their fellow citizens have it in their power to bestow.

"This harmony and goodwill created by these "Get-Together" banquets has been a great force for good. I only wish some similar movement could be made effective among the members of the great family of nations and we would not then have the exhibition of ill-will and hatred which now seriously threaten the peace of the world.

"We deeply sympathize with the County Council in the faithful and trustworthy official through the death of Mr. Nugent. He was one of the most valuable and conscientious county clerks in the whole province of Ontario. Such a citizen indeed hard to replace. To the family and friends we tender our most sincere sympathy."

Central Ontario Commerce Association

"The papers all over the country are discussing the work of Central Ontario Commerce Crusaders' our new way trade plan.

"The British mining companies as an initial friendly gesture will assist in marketing 1,000 boxes of Ontario Cheese, 5 hundred of canned goods and 3 carloads of apples.

"The Scotch Anthracite Company of Montreal had a representative in Belleville, to see in this week and offer the same measure of cooperation as the Welsh mining companies.

"I do not wish to prolong my remarks at this time any further than to express the hope that the County may this year enter upon a period of increased prosperity and that the year 1934 may be notable because of expanding revenues, augmented incomes and general employment for all who are now out of work."

Toast to Principal Speaker

Mr. E. V. Illsley, former president of the Chamber of Commerce and manager of the Bank of Commerce proposed the principal toast of the evening, that of "Our Educational Institutions" to which Dr. W. A. Fyfe, Principal of Queen's University replied. "This is a difficult but enviable task that has been given me" said Mr. Illsley in moving this toast. "The Chamber of Commerce have showed their confidence in Queen's University by arranging with that institution to have professors come to this city to give a series of lectures to the business men and more particularly to the young men and from it they may become better acquainted with business methods. It is to be hoped, that all employers of labor will see that their sons receive a similar type of this splendid opportunity."

The Mayor and City Council with the Chamber of Commerce have developed in the past years probably one of the finest functions held in this Province and probably in the Dominion, continued the speaker, that of entertaining those who come from the county and who legislate on their behalf, at this annual get-together. It is men who do their duty from quarter to quarter as legislators for this county with of the finest type and it is deplored that a number of positions deserved probably for publicity has given to the Toronto press, and not deserved by being made hungry for it. The Chamber of Commerce considers it their nourishment and adjust the diet is the one, who is serving best. The representatives of this district are alike in an obvious falsehood of Hastings County, the finest cities or tawdri alike or absorb knowledge and the their hunger for knowledge can be stimulated by the right selection.

Characteristics of Good School

Principal Fyfe's address dealing on a good school, questioned Dr. Fyfe, "That that has the best teachers?" Not the best academic teaching and little left to the student to find out for himself. The ideal teaching in school is as painful to the victim as was the terrible feeding of the suffragettes in English gaols some years ago. Scholars today are too anxious that they be taught rather than learn. A good school is one with healthy environment where a scholar may develop gradually and naturally, not be forced before them. One that will well look after the physical and mental needs and development.

At this point in his address the doctor told of "good teachers he had known." A good teacher he aired up as "one who stimulates the maximum of interest in his pupils." An art teacher he knew said, "he can't teach anybody anything." Yet he had attained the most favorable results he left his pupils free to find out for themselves, he had made his boys keen to discover themselves. Keen to find nourishment. Another teacher of geography had divided the class into groups each studying some particular subject of the country under review. At the end of the first term a spokesman for each of the groups got up and told what had been found out about their particular subject. Considerable discussed as one subject touched into that studied by another and so on their interest was stimulated. The boys came to feel for the first time what he had to say. Their interest had been aroused and the came home to him as an authority. That had been his method rather than to give an hour after hour trying to lecture the lessons into their minds.

"It is essential that every school to learn how to learn."

Training for Study

The university provides further standard study for examination. Some thrive on university diet, others don't. I see no any difference. Some are not primarily interested in learning, they sit in a class room so many hours each day and at the end of the session emerge with so many credits to their name. That's not good for direction, it's forcible feeding and leaving food of that cannot be digested.

Ideal Education

The study of the ideal professor, was the theme of the next part of the greatest interests in his life. Another was to stir up in the youngster mind an ambition to carve out a career he had gone. This desire was to stir up such an interest in the young scholar would go through the hard grind with him. "Come along and work with me if not so prepared, stay at home with me for awhile, their hearts to discovery have the true qualities that make greatness and ability of finding them. Many had the gift of imparting to them the power of logic. How very badly we need for the world those two qualities."

Lack of Leaders

Dr. Fyfe said he was born and educated at the "Golden Age" Victoria" period still held sway, when all was simple and there was no byways and sign posts of those days had been blown up by the war. We lack leaders at the present time because those who should be leaders are dead. The burden of all rests on Europe and Africa. Men who should have been dominant at the present time lie dead owing to wars.

Changing Conditions

New ways of thinking, hard for one to sympathize with have developed, they are young and I old. The young think of war when I was young brought up a necessary and splendid thing. The young of today in the University of it, when I was young war was an inevitable event, today it is not thought so. Patriotism when I was young was an unquenchable fire today it is viewed by some as a disease and "national item" has crept in. The subject of today thinks not only of his own safety but of others. In my younger days, peace plenty and everything cheap was the rule, now the blades of grass grow where one grew before. Now it is the reverse of everything and make prices go up. Men have different and peculiar.

"The rising generation have three fundamental standards, "economic efficiency," "social justice" and "individual liberty" No country has all three, some may have one or two but none all three. That great quality to help them in universal disinterestedness directed Goodness and action is disinterestedness in the highest degree. The student soleb in the interest of truth. The past 100 years the great benefactors of the race have been men that are disinterestedly disinterested save for his love for learning the good provider who has qualities of liberty stimulates curiosity in the minds of the rising generation, and enables the settles minds of his pupils.

In England the school or university do not think of what is learned now but the warfare it will have on the future. The school I want to see is a benevolent school not a finishing one. The students of today are different than I am. The future is better for them. They can build a benefire with any of my favorite thoughts. I will view them strolling with a good deal of satisfaction but I have still tried to serve my generation rightly as an educator. Dr. Fyfe concluded his address by saying, "If I have rendered any service for your hospitality? I am glad to do so."

A Appreciative Expressed

Dr. George H. Stobie vouched for the appreciation of the gathering for Dr. Fyfe's address in a happily worded speech. He had read and admired the frank, outspoken things Dr. Fyfe had said since coming to Canada. "We enjoy seeing ourselves as others see us" said Dr. Stobie. Dr. Fyfe had spoken out of the public mind. Reform of our educational system was needed and progressive. Plain living and high thinking was needed in Canada, concluded Dr. Stobie. We need to be taught how to employ our hours to get satisfaction out of life. We need to do something for ourselves not have it done by us.

For this enlightening entertaining and splendid address Dr. Fyfe had delivered, Dr. Stobie tendered him the thanks of his audience.

In proposing the toast "The County of Hastings and County Council," Alderman Harry Hill to whom had been assigned that pleasurable duty said:

In rising to propose this important toast, I realize how incapable I am of doing it adequate justice.

Because of the fact, that the greater portion of my life was spent out in the county it is perhaps appropriate that I should be called upon to discharge this duty.

Hastings stands as many complimentary things about the County and about the members of the County Council, who have honored us by their presence here tonight. Any county municipality is indeed fortunate that has so capable a body of legislators to take charge of its affairs and guide its course through these extremely difficult years.

Our county, so vast in its geographical extent, so varied in natural resources, so notable in its scenic attractions, so fortunate in the character and high quality of its citizenship, would require infinitely greater gifts of eloquence than I possess, to begin to express adequately appreciation, and extol the many splendid gifts of nature and man has so lavishly placed in a home so replete in opportunity, in a home capable of ambition and aspiration.

Suffice it to say, on behalf of the city Council and the Chamber of Commerce, we are delighted to meet our County friends with us once more. I personally express the belief, that the extent to which these get-together functions at the beginning of every year is one that should always be maintained.

Warden Jordan's Address

Warden Jordan, Reeve of the Township of Hungerford, in replying to the honor accorded him and his fellow councillors said:

"On this occasion when representatives of the County of Hastings and leaders men in the City of Belleville and district are forethered I can only say that on behalf of members of Hastings' County Council which I represent, some of the appreciation we feel in being invited to this 14th annual "Get-together."

"When I took office this year as Warden I said then, that actions during this coming year shall speak louder than words. That I hope will be the policy of the Council for all throughout the coming twelve months.

"This year governing bodies of both cities and counties delay a new era of hope and confidence. It may be an easier year than past years, which have been trying ones for all concerned. Conditions even now appear better than for some time. Slowly but surely, the country is emerging from a period of slackness that has had no equal. Em-

Only the Ford gives you a V·8 engine

unless you pay $4000 or more

THE finest motor cars in Canada use V-type engines. You cannot buy any of these—except Ford V-8—for less than $4000. That's something to think about when you buy a motor car. Only in the Ford V-8 do you get fine car performance at a low price.

It takes eight cylinders to give you eight-cylinder performance. It's less than an eight in cylinders, it's less than an eight in speed, power, smoothness and motoring enjoyment.

This isn't a matter of words or claims, but is definite, demonstrable fact. It is something you see by watching any New Ford V-8, and by driving it yourself. No other low-price car—and few cars at any price—can out-perform it in traffic, on hills and on the road.

This 1934 Ford V-8 leads also in economy. The new dual carburetor gives exceptional gasoline mileage at all speeds. Non-waterfilling thermostats and thermostatic intake manifold best control increase the efficiency of the engine by enabling it to warm up quickly and maintain the correct operating temperature. And don't forget that you get extra inches of room in the Ford because of the compact design of the V-8 engine. It takes up less space in the hood and thereby permits more space to be used for the body. You can't beat this 1934 Ford V-8 for comfort.

Kidneys Gave No Rest

WHEN pain over kidneys or bladder irregularities keep you getting up at night; if tired and nervous, despondent, head aching, you think kidneys may not be working as they should to filter the blood and keep you full of health and vitality. Drink plenty of pure water and get Dr. Hamilton's Pills at any druggist. Mrs. Mary Mrs. Minda Foster of 7 Trident St., Toronto, Can., said: "I was suffering from weak kidneys. I was unable to get a full night's rest, rising sometimes four or five times. I got Dodd's Kidney Pills and they soon made me feel fine. Now I sleep fine, work with pleasure, have my back, I need better at night and many find more energy."

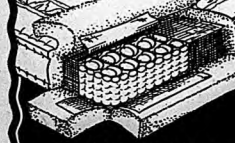
3 DESPERADOES ARE CAPTURED

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 26.—John Dillinger, mid-western desperado, and three henchmen were drawn into a police net and captured late yesterday.

Officers working swiftly and calmly found the trap unprepared for battle. Not a shot was fired although two of the four attempted the use of pistols.

A hotel fire, the keen eyes of two firemen and a remarkable memory of a policeman for a "sort voice" were responsible for the arrest of the quartette wanted for a long series of crimes, including murder, robbery, prison breaking and jail delivery.

Dillinger himself calmly surrendered under the threat of levelled guns and admitted his identity after his asserted followers were taken into custody one by one. They are Charles Kaley, Russell Clark and Harry Pierpont.



Offered Fight.

Clark offered fight as he was surprised with a woman companion in an apartment but the crash of a police weapon across his head ended the brief battle. Pierpont, accused of the slaying of Sheriff Jesse Sarber of Lima, Ohio, in a raid on the jail there to free Dillinger, whipped out two pistols after he was brought to police headquarters but was quickly disarmed.

Three women, companions of the outlaw chief and his lieutenants also were arrested. One, captured with Pierpont, was tentatively identified as Mary Kinder, wanted for murder in East Chicago, Ind., another who at first claimed to be Dillinger's wife, later told officers she was Anna Martin and unmarried. The third, Opal Long, was arrested with Clark.

Makley, Clark and Pierpont were among ten convicts who escaped from the Michigan City, Ind., prison last September 26, shortly before Dillinger was freed in his daring jail delivery at Lima. Three of the escaped convicts, Joseph Fox, Joseph Burns and John Hamilton have not been captured. Detectives express belief they may be in Arizona.

AT THE REGENT

"Alice in Wonderland" and "The Cradle Song"

Paramount's picturisation of Lewis Carroll's beloved fantasy "Alice in Wonderland," at the Belle this morrow (Saturday) and Monday, matinee daily.

Follwing Carroll's original story more closely than any picture has followed its original novel in years, "Alice in Wonderland" has little Charlotte Henry, girl who won the coveted role from among more than 7000 candidates in an international search that lasted more than five months and covered every English-speaking country in the world, playing the "Alice" part.

Directed by Norman McLeod, the picture has many important names, players and stars appearing in the cast. They are Richard Arlen, Roscoe Ates, Gary Cooper, Leon Errol, Louise Fazenda, W. C. Fields, Skeets Gallagher, Cary Grant, Raymond Hatton, Edward Everett Horton, Roscoe Karns, Baby LeRoy, Mae Marsh, Polly Moran, Jack Oakie, Edna May Oliver, May Robson, Charlie Ruggles, Alison Skipworth, Ned Sparks and Ford Sterling.

Following the original classic as it does, the story of the picture is practically identical with that of Carroll's book. Alice goes to sleep, walks through a looking-glass, where everything is upside down, and later meets all the unusual people, which, for generations, have lived merely within the covers of the book.

"The Cradle Song"

The charming role of the school teacher in "Maedchen in Uniform", a role which brought fame to Dorothea Wieck, German screen actress, has its counterpart in the role of Sister Angela, which is played by Dorothea Wieck in "Cradle Song," also second picture to be shown on the same program.

"Cradle Song" is from the famous stage play of the same name by G. M. Martinez Sierra, performed in almost every civilized country of the world. The screen adaptation was prepared by Mare Connelly, author of "The Green Pastures," the Pulitzer Prize play which made dramatic history.

In the cast are Evelyn Venable, Ernst Deutsch, Sir Guy Standing, Louise Dresser, and Gail Patrick.

The Belle Theatre management will be exhibited on the same program.

On Saturday afternoon only, the further adventures of "The Three Musketeers" will be exhibited.

"The Conquering Sex," the new Metro Goldwyn picture now on view at the Belle Theatre is the best of its type pictures like to review.

First, because the story is by Francis Marion, is like everything else in the picture of championship stuff, featured in the picture are Myrna Loy, Otto Kruger and Walter Huston. It will be presented tonight for the last night.

AT THE CAPITOL

"White Woman" and "Horse Play"

Last night's crowds at the Capitol Theatre were most enthusiastic in their appreciation of the excellent double bill now being shown until Saturday.

"White Woman," a story of a lone white woman thrown into a "hell-hole" in the Malay Jungles with treacherous natives and "women-starved" white men as her only companions, will be shown again today at the Capitol Theatre.

The audience at Thursday's performances almost went into hysterics over the amusing antics of Slim Summerville and Andy Devine in what appears to be the funniest, craziest comedy of the new year. If audience reaction means anything this picture is not a high mark for future comedy.

"Horse Play" is a perfect medium for the drollery of the well known film Summerville. Andy Devine cast as his cowboy pal, rises to the occasion proving the perfect foil.

It's a crazy nightmare of fun!

Child Learns To Tell Lies

(By LISA GRENELLE)

So many children lie—even nice, well brought up children lie. It seems as if fib-telling were almost inherited with children. On the contrary, most children are instinctively truthful.

But there are reasons why children lie. Quite simple, obvious reasons.

They lie, in the first place, because they fear their parents lie. Sounds shocking, doesn't it? Most parents do lie at times, not serious lies; usually fast conveniest little white ones. No harm in them at all in themselves. In fact some of them are really useful and kind lies, told to spare someone's feelings.

But Janie and Jimmie, hearing them, put them down as "lies" with, not any "white" in front. To them a lie is a lie—just something that isn't so. They don't know how to distinguish between a white, justifiable lie, and a dishonest, black one.

Yet wasn't it an awful shock when you first caught Janie in a fib, or when his father told you that Jimmie had lied to him?

Copy the Parents

But do you ever notice how Janie and Jimmie felt when they heard you tell Mrs. Smith over the telephone that you couldn't come to her party because you were sick? Although the children knew you were perfectly well? To you that was, of course, a justifiable lie. You simply very well tell Mrs. Smith you just didn't want to come to her party could you? Of course not. Yet the fib Janie let out the day Jimmie told, you may be sure, were justified in their minds by your own white lies.

And Janie and Jimmie discover, before they're very young, that on occasional little white fib does away with a lot of fuss and scolding, stops questions and keeps things peaceful and quiet. So they fib to avoid unpleasantness, to avoid questions—to have their own way and all the same time avoid punishment. And they justify lying, because they heard you do it.

It's also a mistake to corner your child into telling untruths. Your discovering is almost sure to bring forth the instinctive, naturally frightened reaction the child may be. To feel cornered has a bad reaction on everyone, it would seem. It almost certainly has on me. Even the sensitive dog is apt to snap if shoved in a corner. Just so cornering your child, the primitive instinct of fear in all of us, a panicky, primitive fear of which there is no reason attached. Any child, any man, will lie if you make him feel cornered.

Fear Is Another Cause

So don't put your child "on the spot". Get the truth out of him gently, easily. Guide him into it. Or, best of all, put it up to him. Tell him you know he's been naughty, tell him the truth, but ask him—if he can't tell you the truth to whom can he tell it? Don't try to frighten him into telling the truth, for fear will prevent him from telling it. It is much more apt to bring forth the truth.

And never lie to your child. If he asks a question you do not wish to answer, refuse to answer it. Neither lie to him or to him. He will never believe you again, or have any confidence in you. While a refusal to answer the question may irritate him, it will not destroy his confidence in you and your integrity.

Rumor:—r that children lie mostly through fear—fear of consequences, of not being understood, of being laughed at, or told on. These causes may be eliminated through a closer relationship between parent and child.

EXPANSION OF RURAL HYDRO

Hon. Robert Cooke is Speaker at London Gathering

London, Ont., Jan. 26.—The spread of rural Hydro in Ontario under the bonus system of the provincial government was revealed last night by Hon. Robert Cooke, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, in an address at the annual banquet tendered by the London Chamber of Commerce to the Middlesex County councillors.

During the four past depression years the rural power load has expanded 60 per cent. but topping even that record is a growth of 69 per cent. in consumption in the London rural power district. Ten years ago, rural Hydro required only one half of one per cent. of the total distributed under the H.E.P.C., but today the quantity supplied for Ontario's 60,000 farm and rural users is equal to the combined consumption of Woodstock, Owen Sound, Welland, St. Thomas, Kingston, Belleville, East Windsor and Chatham.

As examples of what has been done to lessen the cost and increase the availability of Hydro in the rural parts, Mr. Cooke showed that Delaware village ten years ago paid ten cents a kilowatt for domestic power, yet to-day the rate is only 4.7 cents and the village has a surplus of $8,000.

"Small Factory."

Every little home, he said, had become almost "a full factory" in its use of electric appliances.

Ontario's policy was one-sixth the domestic rate paid before Hydro came.

"Do not these results prove that the principle of public ownership is better than the principle of private ownership, which diverts the profits to dividends?" he asked.

In five years, he said, London hopes to have its debt free of debt.

Recalling the appointment during the Drury administration of a committee to study water powers, Mr. Cooke said J. G. Leibhirsge, U.F.O. member, was largely responsible for that results in legislation fell short of their recommendations. Nevertheless the government undertook to bonus construction of rural distribution lines, with the result that the use of electricity had spread through rural districts in a manner without precedent in history.

Mr. Cooke produced figures from the American states, showing the tremendous drift of farming populations to urban centres because rural life had been beset with many difficulties, a lack of secondary educational facilities, but particularly because the standard of service was not available in the country as in the city.

"If we are to retain our native population upon the farms, the government must be generous in assisting not only the construction of highways but in encouraging the distribution of electric light and power," he concluded.

Just eleven years ago the first $425,000 was set aside in Ontario for rural power. Next came legislation providing for a $10,000,000 fund for loans for farm installations. Subsequently these were fixed, with the result that in the ten years three miles of rural Hydro lines had been constructed in Ontario for every working day that has since passed.

Today $20,000,000 is invested in rural power, of which the government has contributed $10,000,000, and with 60 per cent. of his investment paid up the rural user stands today on a par with the city power consumer. Rural consumers number 60,000, despite the depression only $1,500 of arrears are now standing on the books of rural hydro.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Cooke on motion of Lieut.-Col. J. Innes Carling and Melville W. Rouse.

LUPE AND TARZAN COULDN'T TAKE IT

CHARLOTTE HENRY, in "Alice in Wonderland," at the Belle Theatre, Saturday (Double bill).

One day the news comes from Hollywood that Lupe Veles and hubby Johnny Weismuller are so much in love with each other that they are having a contest to see who can give the other the most presents. They also contested to see who could get the most items on their respective cars. Maybe one of them got jealous—at any rate their romance has now gone the way of movie romances, which means straight to the divorce courts. Bo hum! Life would indeed be dull without a few divorces to liven up the front pages. Lupe says she and Tarzan just can't get along. How sad!

PROVINCIAL GOVT. BONDS

The recent Province of Ontario 4½% bond issue was taken up by investors in a few hours. The Province of Quebec, whose credit is equally good, will probably be in the market any day now with a new issue. Orders should be telephoned in to us promptly, to ensure being filled. We also recommend the bonds of the Western Provinces which can still be purchased to yield over 6% interest.

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 26—(CP)—The floating supply of stock was apparently low today, and prices firmed up on a small volume of trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange, the board showing 32 gains and 10 recessions at noon.

Bank shares came out in substantial blocks and prices were up 1 to 4 points. Commerce gained 4, Montreal 2, Royal 3 1-2 and Toronto 2 1-2.

Volume was fair in the distillery group and the minimum gains came out for Canadian Industrial Alcohol and Distillers Seagram while the Walkers issues were unchanged. In the interlisted group Smelters gained a point to 135 and Ford A at 20 was unchanged.

The market displayed rising tendencies from the opening, bank, oil, brewery, food and steel issues chalking up fractional gains and points or more in some cases.

..Early in the afternoon trading in the distillery stocks picked up and advances up to nearly a point were recorded. Walkers Common had the best volume and price advance. A little profit-taking in Ford A was apparent but the price held at 20, unchanged during the first three hours.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 26—(AP)—Financial markets looked and listened today but displayed new indications of participating in either a bearish or bullish demonstration. .. .. ..

Stocks were quite active in the first hour and a number of specialties were turned over for gains of a point or more. Irregularity later developed as some traders decided to cash in profits. Although most of the leaders recorded minor losses, none was especially soft. The volume dwindled appreciably on the declines. Bonds were fairly steady.

The tobacco shares, including Liggett & Myers B, American Tobacco B and Reynolds B, stood out with gains of fractions to a point or more. Allied Chemical got up more than 2 and Goodyear, Moto Meter, Electric Auto-Lite, Nash, Case, International Harvester and some others improved.

Canadian stocks yielded a bit on light offerings. Shares of Dome, McIntyre, Canadian Pacific and International Nickel eased 1-4 to 3-4 of a point. On the curb Lake Shore Mines lost a point and Hiram Walker showed a fractional recession. Dominion Government bonds ranged from unchanged to 1-4 point lower. The Canadian dollar was unchanged from yesterday at 99 cents.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 26.—Penny shares again had the spotlight on the Standard Mining Exchange today with Hollinger, Sylvanite and Eldorado also showing fair turnover. Some of the senior gold group did not appear in the morning grading and Nickel and Noranda came out sparingly. Prices held firm over the board.

Hollinger firmed up 10 cents to $12.00, Lake Shore 50 cents to $42.75, Pioneer was unchanged at $11.50, and Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves remained unchanged. Both International Nickel and Noranda dropped back 15 cents and Hudson Bay, in a broken-lot transaction, weakened 25 cents to $9.25. Other Base Metal shares remained steady.

Trading continued in substantial volume in all groups but the senior golds today, but the market gave no definite indication of a general trend. Dome was off 75 cents this afternoon and Lake Shore was up 75 cents and Hollinger and Pioneer also moved in opposite directions.

Base Metal issues slowed down and prices were barely steady this afternoon and the silvers, despite another drop in the price of metal, held small gains at the end of the third hour.

EXPORTS GAIN IN DECEMBER

U. S. Favorable Trade Balance in Month of December

Washington, Jan. 26. — Another large export gain in December was shown by Department of Commerce figures today to have given the United States a favorable trade balance of $59,000,000 in that month and a favorable balance for the year 1933 of $226,000,000.

Both exports and imports increased in value during December. Exports amounted to $192,000,000 compared with $184,000,000 in November while December imports totalled $97,000,000 compared with $104,000,000 in November.

Exports in 1933 were valued at $1,675,000,000 compared with $1,611,000,000 in 1932. Export prices averaged slightly higher than in 1932 and the volume of shipments also was slightly larger.

Imports in 1933 were valued at $1,449,000,000 compared with $1,322,000,000 in 1932, a gain of 9.6 per cent. Import prices averaged approximately the same as in 1932 while the quantity of goods received from abroad increased about 10 per cent.

Despite the increase in 1933 exports over 1932, the 1933 favorable trade balance was smaller than in 1932 owing to the large increase in imports.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Jan. 26 (CP)—Swinging upwards since last March, interrupted only by the usual fall decline, hogs climaxed their advance on the Toronto Livestock Market this week by gaining 75 to 85 cents and selling higher than at any time since July, 1931. The outlook for future prices is uncertain, depending chiefly on the strength of the British bacon market.

Offerings on all classes of livestock were moderate this week, owing partly to bad road conditions in some sections of the Province. Cattle prices were up from 15 to 25 cents in spots with bulls dropping 25 cents as the export demand fell off.

THREE CARLOADS OF HOLSTEINS SHIPPED

A car load of pure bred Holsteins were shipped by the Scott Brothers on Thursday to Waterbury, Vermont, the same being purchased in this immediate vicinity. Another carload will go forward on Monday and another later in the week. These cattle are all from purely accredited herds in the district and according to Mr. Scott are select stock. The price of cattle is also on the increase from last year and if the same demand for Canadian cattle is continued by American breeders, cattle will be scarce in this community," said Mr. Scott.

INCREASE IN FREIGHT HAUL

Total Cars Handled is Highest For Period in Four Years

Fort Erie, Ont., Jan. 26 —Freight haulage over the Fort Erie-Windsor division of the Michigan Central Railway was increasing rapidly and nearing a post-depression high set last June, terminal officials here stated today.

The number of loaded cars coming from the United States roads for haulage over this route to points in Canada and the Western States exceeded the total during any period in the last four years, it was stated. Two extra road crews and seven switch engines were needed to clear traffic in the Fort Erie yards recently owing to the increased haulage.

Passenger lists also had increased since the new year, records at this point of entry showed.

BURNS' NIGHT IS CELEBRATED

Under the auspices of Camp Rob Roy No. 43 Sons of Scotland, the anniversary of Robert Burns was honored on Thursday night in the I.O.O.F. temple with a euchre and dance. There was a large crowd in attendance, 29 tables of euchre being in play and the prize winners were ladies, Mrs. Eaves, Mrs. Osborne and Mrs. Davidson, while the gents were W. Logan, D. White, and J. T. Clarke. Dancing was enjoyed to music supplied by Norman Meldrum, Grace Lehman and F. Parsons. The spot dance was won by Mr. and Mrs. Eaves, the prizes for the evening being donated by Mackenzie Robertson, Jack McIntosh and Alex. Bremner.

PIPE-MADE BOMB BURSTS

Elizabeth, N.J., Jan. 26.—(AP)—A bomb believed to have been fashioned from a piece of four-inch pipe exploded on a rear porch at the home of Thomas Shill early today. The concussion wrecked the porch, damaged the kitchen and also one of two cars in a garage in the rear. Windows in the building and those in several adjacent houses were shattered.

Mrs. Rose Shill and the couple's two-year-old son, Harvey, asleep on the second floor, escaped injury. Shill was not at home. Police were unable to learn a motive for the bombing. The blast, which awakened everyone in the neighborhood, was heard about a mile away.

SAYS LIBERAL PARTY READY

J. J. Duffus Addresses Central Ontario Liberals

PORT HOPE, Jan. 26.—"It matters not when the Prime Minister of Ontario calls an election, we are ready to fight and get results," proclaimed J. J. Duffus, of Peterboro, president of the Central Ontario Liberal Association, at the organization meeting here of a local branch of the Twentieth Century Liberal Association.

The speaker scored the Ontario administration and said: "If things go on, we might just as well hand the country back to the Indians."

The meeting, which was well attended, was sponsored by the Durham County Liberal Association, with S. B. Hathaway, the president, in charge.

Keith Long was chosen president. Other 1934 officers are: Honorary president, S. B. Hathaway; secretary, H. E. Len Hume; executive, Mrs. M. S. Hawkins, Joseph Lajoie, J. H. Stephens and James Ball.

An executive meeting will be held next week for the purpose of drafting the year's program of activities.

Mr. Duffus commended the work of the Twentieth Century Liberal Clubs in various sections of Ontario, and added that the work was of great benefit to the senior body. In Central Ontario, embracing eleven ridings, complete organization had been carried out, and a candidate would be selected in every constituency but one by next week.

John Wilson, past president of the Ontario branch of the Twentieth Century Association, appealed to the younger people to take an active interest in public affairs. He paid tribute to the leadership of Mitchell Hepburn, M.P., provincial leader, and told of the progress which the various Twentieth Century branches were making in Ontario.

IN MEMORIAM

CARR—In loving memory of a loving husband and father, Charles Carr, who passed away Jan. 25, 1931.

Three years have passed how swift
time flies,
Love's sweetest memory never dies;
I miss your help, your cheerful
way,
With you I spent my happiest day.
I miss you when I need a friend,
On you I always could depend.
You cheered my life, you soothed
my pain,
God grant some day, we will meet
again,
Where parting is no more.

Without King Clancy Leafs Smothered by Maroons in Biggest Upset of the Year

Hainsworth Beaten Six Times Without a Reply

CANADIENS LOSE

Rangers Strengthen Position by Downing Senators 6-3

By The Canadian Press

Hockey's latest puzzler was laid down for solution today as Toronto Leafs contemplated their worst defeat of the season, suffered at the hands of a team they had beaten three times before.

Fans and experts wondered just how good Toronto Leafs would be without their dynamic defenceman, the sparkplug of the National Hockey League champions, King Clancy.

Last night Clancy missed his first game since Toronto bought him from Ottawa three years ago for $35,000 and two players, the highest price ever paid for a hockey star. Lacking the inspiration only a Clancy can give, the Leafs were beaten 6-0 by Montreal Maroons.

Their famous "kid line" of Harvey Jackson, Joe Primeau and Charlie Conacher failed to score a goal on Dave Kerr, who played one of the best games he has shown this season. Bailey Northcott, who seems headed for a late season drive that will regain him the star rating he won last year, sifted through the Clancyless Toronto defence for three goals.

Dave Trottier, Russell Blinco and Stew Evans also were able to beat George Hainsworth, and, with the exception of Clancy, it was the same team that defeated them 8-4 in Toronto on Tuesday.

With Clancy and Hec Kilrea already out of the game, Leafs lost the services of Buzz Boll, who injured a shoulder. He probably will be out of action for two weeks but Clancy may return when Detroit play at Toronto Saturday.

Maroons also lost a player, Glen Brydson injuring his hand. It necessitated the recall of Wally Kilrea from Windsor Bulldogs.

Another incident of the game was the first penalty shot of the season this season. He got it for tripping Jimmy Ward, a candidate for the Lady Byng Trophy for clean play. Primeau has two minutes against his record, the same time as Frank Boucher, of Rangers.

Hawks Win

The Leaf's defeat was the sensation of a night that looked other bright spots. Montreal Canadiens bowed to Chicago 2-1 in the Windy City, Americans held Detroit to a 1-1 tie in New York and Rangers gave Rangers leadership of the American division by one point over Detroit.

Paul Thompson was the hero of the Chicago battle with an overtime goal, that gave Black Hawks their win. Leo Lamoureux had scoring for Canadiens in the second beat Grazen 6-3 at the capital. This after a scoreless first, and Tommy Cook had evened it up in the third.

The Habitants outplayed the Chicagoans until late in the third period. They threw the Chicagoans off balance for all but six minutes of the offensive playing time, refusing them a chance to get set for dangerous attack.

The Cook-Boucher-Cook line that has been counted out so often lately were right in their old time form as Ottawa. Bun Cook got three goals. Bill had an assist and Frank Boucher two. Ott Heller, Butch Keeling and Cecil Dillon were the other Ranger marksmen.

Senators matched the invaders at a wide-open attacking game but were unable to cover up properly and left Bill Beveridge at the New York shapshooters' mercy. The New Yorkers were never headed, getting two goals in the first period, one in the second and three in the third.

Jerry Shannon got two for the Rangers and Dave Trottier picked off the other.

Detroit and Americans packed all the sting in the overtime session of their 1-1 game at Madison Square Gardens. Only a fist fight in the first period between Red Dutton and Happy Emms enlivened the proceedings until the extra time when Sooner Wellund took Herbie Lewis' pass to beat Roy Worters.

Lloyd Klein gave the Americans the tie split in points with a goal five minutes later, Bill Brydge assisting.

THE BIG SEVEN

(By the Canadian Press)

Toronto's famous Kid Line was held scoreless last night, but leadership in scoring points for the entire National Hockey League still rests on the broad shoulders of Charlie Conacher of the Leafs. Frankie Boucher of Rangers, who has 14 assists and 10 goals on his credit has a total of 30 points, three less than Conacher. Joe Primeau of Toronto is still in third place with 28.

TWEED SLIPS OVER WIN

Campbellford Juniors Are Defeated in Tidy Tussle 7-1

Tweed, Jan. 26 (Special)—Campbellford's Juniors were the fast representatives in the Trent Valley League and ran into town on Tuesday night about 8.30 to show Sam Curry's fans how good the Campbellford lassies could be played. The local lads gave them a perfect lesson on scientific hockey and, when the smoke of battle had cleared away about 90 minutes later, had overwhelmed the visitors by a score of 7 to 1. The ice was good and the "power town" team reinforced by three members of the intermediate team that had hard to beat. The good game but from the start they were outclassed and would have gone home without a tally but for the gallantry and pluck of Captain Tom's make-up. Cotton went on a scoring rampage, netting three of his team's goals. He just couldn't resist the temptation to fire the puck at his net as soon as possession he picked his own net as a target and Campbellford's goal was filled with cries.

LaFontaine scored on a long shot early in the first period and Casey Rashotte secured the second marker, unbelievable but kept the visitors under control for the balance of the period and took time out to check several attacks on McCutcheon's citadel. He could not penetrate the defense.

Three goals were added in the second period on the right side of the ledger, Cotton securing two and Maguire the other sandwiched in between. Then Cotton in attempting to clear during an attack by the visitors drove the puck into his own net.

The third period was a repetition of the first with Cotton and Shanoon being the marksmen. In addition to the scorers, Arber and LaFontaine played well on the defense and Marsh on the front line. Jerry Quinn handled the bell.

The line-up

Campbellford—Goal, R. Oddie; defense, K. Oddie, Millan; centre, Bush; wings, Lambert, Holmes, Hobbs, Pentiff, McArthur, Bush, Couch.

Tweed—Goal, McCutcheon; defense, La Fontaine, Arber; centre, Rashotte; wings, Maguire and Cotton; subs, Marsh, Shanque, W. Leal, H. Leal.

RHODES ACES VISIT CITY

Will Play "Y" and Deacon A. C. Gagers Exhibition Tilts

When the Rhodes Aces, a high calibre intermediate basketball team from Peterboro, arrive with two teams at the Y.M.C.A. Gym, the basketball fans will be given an opportunity of comparing the relative merit of the basketball as played by the Queen City Teams and that of the local aggregations. The Aces are strong intermediate finalists in Toronto last year, losing out in the playdowns by only 4 points will engage both the "Y" Intermediates and the Deacon A.C. Quins in a twin exhibition at the Campbell St. court tomorrow evening. In spite of the fact that the Y. team has not been able to lock up first in the league played to date, they showed great improvement in their game in Peterboro mid-week and they are looking forward to their game with the Rhodes team whom they expect to take in, to camp.

The Deacon A.C. team, although of junior age, are a smart performing quintet and on their showing to date in the current season, they should be able to make it an interesting battle for any team of intermediate rating. They will engage in the second game of the evening following which there will be an hour of dancing open to players and supporters of the teams.

MADOC SQUAD SCORES WIN

Defeat Stirling 2-1 in Trent Valley Loop Fixture

Stirling, Jan. 26 (Special)—Madoc Juniors journeyed to Stirling to meet the local juniors in their second fixture of the Trent Valley League on Wednesday evening and took the slim end of a 2 to 1 score, the local boys gave the northerners a real run for their money and made them earn their win. Stirling forced the play throughout the opening period but the frame when Madoc resorted to long shots to maintain their one goal lead.

The game opened with the play fast and rather even. Stirling's forward line closed right in on the Madoc net and Nickie had to pull made some great saves warding off danger. Ken West of Madoc responded the first counter early in the period and scored the only goal of the initial stanza. Both teams checked closely and the period ended up with a 1-0 count for the visitors.

Stirling came back in the second with Jobbin, after several unsuccessful attempts, skating around the visitors' defence to tally on Nickie. Murray on the local forward line had wonderful chances to score and shortly after Stirling's counter, Armstrong on a pass from Embury bulged the twine to be disallowed for an offside play. Penalties were handed out to Ken Davis of Madoc for tripping and to Munro of the locals for the puck infraction.

The final period saw the play become fast and furious with both teams pressing their opponents hard. Nickie in the Madoc nets deserved plenty of credit for his team's win as he made many seemingly impossible saves. Robinson and Jobbin for the locals had their combination working well but couldn't seem to beat the invincible Nickie. It was a shame the way the local lads missed so many wonderful chances to even the count with their tardiness in following up the shot for the rebound. The visitors were well backed by the spectators when they resorted to shooting the puck up the ice in an effort to defend their one-goal lead and although the local lads worked hard, the Madoc boys had Harris, Ingram and Embury rendered with the score 2-1 for Madoc. Alexander of Madoc played a nice game in the last few minutes of the game.

The Stirling team has certainly picked up since Bill Whitby has taken over the reins and it is no mean battle that they gave the visitors. Outstanding for Madoc were Embury, Airey, West and Nickie, while Jobbin and Robinson were the tall to the Stirling aces in the persons of Madoc — Goal, Nickie; defence, West and Embury; centre, Airey; wings, Armstrong and Alexander; subs, Embury, Hill, Ross and Hallinan.

Stirling—Goal, Sprenkli; defence, Fraser and Armstrong; centre, Jamison; wings, Jobbin and Munro; subs, Ingram, Hartman, Kirby and Dafoe.

Current Sport

DAY BY DAY

Undoubtedly the most astounding sport news thus far this year broke yesterday when it was officially announced, that the Hemlock Dairy Hockey League, Tuesday night's Belleville victory in the Kingston City League was "based as they say" on a referee's decision. We have heard incidents when a boner game was perpetrated regarding infringements of the rules, but, on the question of the scoring of a goal the referee's decision is always the last word in any well organized hockey league.

The protest is on the grounds, that Referee Joe Smith erroneously allowed a goal signalled by the goal umpire in favor of the Hemlock Dairy team, and on top of the play and definitely stated that had sounded his bell before the puck had entered the cage. This alone should settle all disputes as the other official "Punch" Derry agreed with his partner on the subject. After the game on Tuesday the Hemlock players, collectively and individually, congratulated the locals on their win. No mention of a protest even being suggested. According to local hockey sponsors they are prone to believe that the protest is far from being originated by the Hemlock team. It must be remembered that over 3,000 attended the play-off games in the Kingston City League, while less than 200 witnessed an O.H.A. fixture in Peterboro's Harry Arena last week.

Manager Elwood Dudley was in the city yesterday and stated there is no truth in the rumors of Joe "Climen" returning to Kingston during the season. Joe is playing some games in the Kingston loop this season. The team that won the Kingston League in a manner that was unbecoming to sportsmanship, and the Kingston City League officials will be given a chance to make constitution regarding protests over referee's decisions, which are, after all, final in such matters as goals being scored. If the officials in charge had committed any infringements against the rules there would surely be ample grounds for a protest but, as the protest rests it is purely based on the question of whether the bell sounded before the puck was in the net or not. On the other hand nothing is said about the fact that the goal scored, that self-same night by the locals, was the result of the puck being shot and catapulted right back into Kingston territory by the referees. If, W. H. Patterson called Referee Joe Smith's attention to the fact that Derry said he had not heard the bell, and he, himself, had seen it, so as to be impartial, the Belleville hockey circles the fans feel, that President Patterson might uphold his referees' decisions to the limit. Of course if they want the league cup down in Kingston perhaps the locals could be endured to hand over the same, that was graciously presented them when the fairly won it last Tuesday.

Thus far this season the local Cities Service team have played 3 hockey games. They won the first four and lost but one, that being to the Gananoque club. Games to include Kingston City League and exhibition. Another feat accomplished by them is the fact that not once have their opponents scored more than two goals against them. A very creditable record. As for their record versus the Islanders it reads three wins and, two the Dairymen never having been beaten.

With the O.H.A. season practically half over there is little time to concentrate on pre-season games of any time. For instance the local Belleville amateur city league champions play at home versus the Cobourg Waverleys tonight while on the return game being played in Cobourg on Monday. Later in the week the Trenton intermediates come to town, only to be followed by the group play-offs. Incidentally both the local intermediates and the Waverleys second tonight's game to elevate the group standing. First the Waverleys want to have it out with the Maroons, while the Warwick boys want to keep pace with the second place Belleville team. Both clubs will be at full strength.

Regarding the protested play of Tuesday night's game in Belleville the sport columnist in the Kingston City says: "In the heat of argument after the game with Belleville taking the honor by a single goal, one of the hockey fans who do not confine their praise of the referee to Joe Smith last night agreed that the goal was scored on the play coming into the nets and that many believed the bell did not ring until the puck was deposited behind Bill Whitby. It did not rule that the goal had not been scored, but that the bell rang my bell before the shot was made and the question of the puck entering the net does not enter into the decision. Of course we (the referee) [illegible] instructed to disregard all possible situations where there appeared to be any danger of [illegible] time. The result was that a rang our bells whenever a bunch of players were around the nets, this particular play there was [illegible] Belleville blue-line milling about, and I [illegible] that the bell sounded after that Thurby scored a g[illegible] the goal-judge failed to g[illegible] light. That caused the [illegible] satisfaction, when I refused to [illegible] the goal."

Lallemand's fresh Yeast cakes

for constipation...

TO ALL those who are suffering from constipation and the troubles which are so often caused by constipation—headaches, loss of appetite, indigestion, under-weights, that tired feeling, pimples and boils—the news that Lallemand's fresh Yeast is now available is good news indeed. For Lallemand's fresh Yeast is a fine natural corrective for constipation—one that costs less because the size of the cakes is so large, more than 1/3 larger than the usual old size. Taken regularly, it gives the muscles of the intestines more exercise to grow strong on, exercise which results in regular movement of the bowels, and wrong over-constipation with its usual depressing and irritating symptoms.

Simple Directions

If you suffer from constipation, and really wish to feel strong and well again, try Lallemand's Yeast. It can be taken by all ages, from about 5 years up. From one to two cakes should be taken daily, before or between meals, plain or spread on bread, or dissolved in about a third of a glass of water or milk.

Lallemand's name a guarantee of high quality

Lallemand's have been making food and health products for many years. Every step, including daily delivery to grocers and druggists, is taken that science and experience can suggest as a means of placing fresh yeast, of the highest quality, in perfect condition, where you can buy it. Remember that the yeast which is recommended by medical authorities is composed of thousands of living organisms, and that experiments have shown that yeast in which these organisms have been killed is of little good.

Another important reason why Lallemand's fresh Yeast is so effective in building up strength and health is that it is very rich in vitamins B, G and D.

So take Lallemand's Yeast regularly, to insure that clogged intestines won't poison your system, and to get a good supply of vitamins.

Look for this Lallemand green tin—it contains Lallemand's fresh Yeast—at your grocer, druggist and soda fountain.

LOVE'S LOTTERY

by

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

Amusements school! happenings! where and what shared with mesh in the past; stray intervals of devotional tenderness; cosy hours the dark as she lay sleepless during the long night watches. Only she said: words she had said. She was beginning to wonder how she could stress which had drifted her since the coming of "that stranger" and the awakening made a nightmare of her days.

Miss Ella was sorely troubled; Cicely thought too frequently, "I don't know how I'm going on!"

But she went on as humans do, wanting to or not.

CHAPTER 14

The autumn came and Miss Ella made a timid suggestion about Italy. Hilda Blake's wife, a year Florence, and Hilda Blake played "escalled bridge". "Dear, dear Florence!" murmured Miss Ella, with a sigh.

"I think it would be pleasant." Cicely agreed with care, knowing that Miss Ella found to be "deeply troubling" if she contradicted her at once to deal way.

Then dear, dear Florence!" said Miss Ella, with the Arno, threading as a silver ribbon between the hills, and the cypresses, and although it is not the fashionable church, and I can't for the life of me remember the name of the one that is fashionable, this is no matter. Florence always has a group of amusing friends near; and I can't think of anything so as the dead black of the cypresses against the golden sky, besides the opera, which is always entertaining, but one should never hurry to take coffee with one's friends those dear little cakes! Ah—Florence!"

"Yes, dear," murmured Cicely patiently, as Miss Ella paused to sigh.

"The Baglioni, I presume," Miss Ella went on, "and we'll try to get two little sitting rooms with a view; also, one bedroom! And do you remember the green macaroni? How those artist lassi cost. Or Hilda may put us up——" As Miss Ella opened her mouth to stop in the air necessary to climbing the next conversational fence, Cicely hurried. Sometimes she had to do broke in. Sometimes she had to do this; she grew oddly tired. "I'm so sorry, but dear Hilda, I don't want to visit anyone," she put in definitely.

"It doesn't matter to me, darling! Hilda is quite as yet as. Ah, Hilda is a nice frock. Turn around, dear!"

Wearily, Cicely turned.

Hilda Blake had rented for the season a villa perched upon the hill that rises from Florence to Fiesole, the latter that small aristocracy of hill towns which, for hundreds upon hundreds of long years, has looked down upon grim Florence.

Hilda Blake was the stereotyped woman of many hands, who travels—for years, to meet "amusing people" for bridge appointed a new back drop, to escape that disconcerting moment when with nothing "to do" she might have to think.

Hilda had known Miss Ella and Cicely in the States during a short interval when she "did" the theatre, dances, a dude ranch, Los Angeles, Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Chicago and every in-between. Hilda was alarmed by the change in Cicely.

She sat, the day after Miss Ella's and Cicely's arrival, with Miss Ella upon a terrace which overlooked the magical city whose golden glory from steps which had been arranged out by patient laborers from the steep hillside. Beyond this gentle green and in a cup, lay Florence; an expanse of rose, the color of the inside of an oyster shell, which were retained by cypresses and clumps of lower green. And in the cup was, too, a twisting line of mercury, shivering and twinkling in the Arno. Florence walked as Dante watched her walking.

Below, close to Hilda Blake, and in a basket chair, echoed her friend's words, "so interesting!" she questioned, "My dear Hilda, it is starkly inspired to have done what you have done. She stopped a few days in Paris. I bought her the loveliest model of the season! She thanked me—as if had presented her with a turnip.... And by the by do you French make anything else? We motored, as you know, as far as Avignon, and what is there to do? Several young men and very attractive young men were so ready to divert her, but she would have none of them! Isn't that a shimming car coming up the hill?"

She paused to peer through her lorgnette at the lane which thread-ed upward and toward them and as she studied the long, gleaming car.

"Poison; for poison Miss," Hilda said, in her blunt, short way, "has always been the door with me. Some men must divert her."

"Easy to say, Hilda; but is a slumming car—and where is the man? We met the Earl of Powys-thorpe——, that who would, you know, at least in my day, have inherited several castles, a fabulous great estate, and plenty of money if he had not—unfortunately for the English; brave fine people, but how weary one grows of cabbage! Yet she should have none of him. Each time he joined her she would look—and well she does, Hilda, does not encourage a man. He felt it. He said to me, after she had gone this perhaps thirty-five, or twenty-five times, 'I don't think your niece finds me so devilish attractive Miss Ella.....' and what could I say? .....that motor is coming toward your gate, Hilda."

"I'll attend to with her," said Hilda who was flat-footed, despite her penchant for unveiling her short, shoes, and who was wont to deal truth which killed or cured.

"It can do no harm," Miss Ella whispered nearly as the hum that swung inside the gate set to its scrunching, crunching halting.

The man who stepped from the car that had caused violation of Hilda Blake's gate was a noticeably tall man with a thatch of thick, bright and steely gray eyes. He was judged to be forty years of age; he was forty-five and his wife was twenty and his heart was often frightened. He had an immense mobility for enjoying the unusual in a new role, or the new experience found there; and he made new friends with that same lack of fervor with which "touring" Mid-West Americans make them.

"Hilda, dear!" he said, as he had felt that no man could be more delightfully sincere, almost protective than he. He had no use, he loved adoration, and had the money with which to wander.

His convenience was light; he had served well with the men he commanded in the Dardanelles, and somehow had served and was now serving others as it should.

Hilda Blake, who did to an extent to Miss Ella as Miss Ella made her ogle, was still wrinkled, despite the habit of mirth, stood out around Sir Terrill's eyes. She was going to be amusing. He liked eager American and raw Americans; not jaded experienced ones who might have lived always in London and knew that there was a difference in the pronunciation of that aunt who is a relative and the one that, with others, makes humanicky homes up on the lawn.

"Sit down, Terry, give us an account of yourself," Hilda ordered.

"Thanks awfully," he murmured, dropping to a chair.

"What are your plans?" question-ed Hilda, who lived by a time-sense.

"Haven't any. Frightful sort of person, really, I drift—"

"I hope you're going to stay here a few days, Terry. I have a darling girl here who's not been well and you might amuse her—"

"I'm not always so keen about amusing young ladies," he confessed, "and especially when the amusement I provide makes them laugh with their young friends at my departing heel rings, hollowly on their floors."

"Oh, never that!" Miss Ella broke in, too tenderly and as she leaned toward him.

The dear old girl loved a Lord, he saw. He grinned amiably at her as he fumbled for his monocle. Frightfully effective, people, certain Americans. So frankly after their gold. He would and run if the girl weren't rather by way of being a beauty on occasion. He could of course, and easily—meantime the Hilda's was warm and the view enchanting; and he sensed that comfort which comes from an air in which floats perfume and silk, and the honesty that was his made him admit that he enjoyed it.

"And how delightful that you happened in!" Miss Ella was saying. "I had been watching your car crawl the hill in the hope it would stop at this gate—"

"Now really?" Sir Terrill murmured.

"I spoke of it to Hilda, did I not, dear? And here you are—"

As the Americans themselves said, Terrill confessed, she was a "fast worker."

"Where's the beauty in distress? The Hilde sick girl?" he asked.

"My niece!" said Miss Ella, "and so unfortunate! She wandered—a bit back—and off to the Ronne theatre at Fiesole—She has not told way of going several times to one play where the usual visitor goes it once, you know?"

"Yes?" he queried, grinning again.

"But she'll be here shortly for tea.... Say poor little girl!"

Why? he wondered. Why particularly poor? He brought out his case for cigarettes, and Miss Ella's heart leaped as she saw his crest stamped upon the leather, and subdivide she saw it—that same crest carved in the corner of Cicily's cobweb handkerchief. "And you still smoke," she murmured, "including the sheets!"

But, came shifting thought, he might be married!

CHAPTER 15

A dusky-skinned servant moved a table near the group and another brought a wicker tray laden with tea things. Cicely appeared. Her walk had always made the people in the tea-room look around at least twice. Sir Terrill Brown-Thorpe did more than this; he looked at her, once, to forget, to stop his looking.

He had never seen so lovely. She so languid a young creature, he decided. He rose as she neared the group. Then he knew Hilda pre-senting him and, felt in his, a cloth small hand, and he saw Cicily's dark but graceful nod.

She settled and he eyed her rather more circumspectly but quite as circumspectly—both an oval face as he decided, must have launched the thousand ships; such eyes must have been further set; his poems in prison. Villon had known such eyes to chant of them profane-ly, and Cleopatra wrapped in them, glanced as a gift to a king that must have carried something of this almost the difference.

Well, this trip would be better than most he reflected; he would try to make her forget the thing that had carried her so many worlds away from the world her fact followed.

"You like the Roman theatre?" he asked.

"I do not know.....it has its fascination..... one does not always the yesterday, but the person who entertains rather than one gets away from it."

"Um...." he murmured. She evidently thought. He rose to take from Hilda Blake the cup she held to be Cicily's.....and then, eyes narrowing a little, he saw Yolande Boscacon and his party threaded their way up this hill and away from the second Florentine villa, the doomed died in the streets of Fiesole—and then called the plague .....Today , and only a few hours ago he was the world in four turns will measure time—we take tea here.... And now the old shade eyes are peering at us across that bedpan!"

"Who did you say?" questioned Miss Ella quickly.

"Boscacon, darling," Cicily answered gently, but she smiled. "The gentleman who, with his friends, wrote the ribald 'Decameron'."

"They had not such a rotten wife—end as that," Terrill put in. "It'd far rather write another 'Decameron' than to witness those lousy home-made dramas one has to nowadays. Lady Margaret Isenglass mounting her horse and shewing a shocking lot of bow-leg, you know—and—"

Cicily laughed. Miss Ella's eyes filled.....More than anything, and it had been more than a good game of bridge, Cicily's peace and happiness mattered to her. And in the depths of Cicily's spontaneous mirth she felt the impulse of a fresh tomorrow.

"My darling, what a life for you!" she thought. Court; distinguished people gathered at Sir Terrill's shooting box in Scotland.....Members of Parliament breakfasting with Cicily.....All this and more arose to make the mirage of the future a beautiful dream.

A week later Cicily paused on the balcony, against the wall of the two storied station in Hilda's villa, before Cicily was Terry and—looking up.

"You don't have to leave me thirty-five or fifty times," he said. Oh too had heard that story of the Earl of Powysthorpe. "To make me know how you feel. I'm quite—as you say, 'on'."

"Don't be foolish!" she answered. "You know you're darling—"

She did like him. He saw objects and thoughts of happiness and the thought of a future; they liked the same books, and the same jokes; smiled or chuckled, made their lips upward turn. Again and again their glances had met, to cling as Hilda and Miss Ella had some difference here and, for starting a lisk, ended in whispers, with chairs drawn close. His mind was the mind she had dreamed of finding in the man she loved.....But—she loved Geoffrey, who would always be there his life way of living—loved Geoffrey still, and she knew it; and she only liked Terry; she was equally certain of that.

"The whole moment is rufned," Terry confided, dramatically, still holding her. "By your shutting the fact that you like me. If you would confide it—in a whisper and on a moonlight night—I would feel better. You are a clumsy child.

Cicely, from cool and don't be all day at it, dear!"

His calling her, "my dear", "dear" or "child" reassured her; and over and over again he had told her that he was forty-five. No end fit. to be sure; strong as the Bank of England, but—enough. He had her father—and so she need not turn away, need not? And she had agreed that she need not turn away and she did not. And she found with her face to him instead of her back to him, that the view was prettier.

In her own room she wandered to the window that looked toward Fiesole. The week had done a great deal for her, she realized, and that she was closer to "really sane" than she had been since "it" happened.

Seven days before Hilda had begun it by saying, "Why don't you come here to stay? Your aunt worries me a little.....Terry's coming; he won't bother you, but if you like, he'll amuse you; he's a darling.....And if you refuse to come I shall have to send you a sneraldo little pig!"

Cicily had not refused, but she hoped she could keep from showing to everyone how much she disliked the change from the small hotel which lay to the other side of the Arno and below the Piazza Michel Angelo.

That night she wandered to the terrace expecting Sir Terrill to follow her and ready to be still. He did not follow her. He played bridge all the next day with Miss Ella and Hilda and a theatrical guest from Florence. They all grew rather loud over the dummy hand that was the only time in that day that Cicily was aware of Terry's presence. That evening he sat down at the piano to play and to sing most beautifully. One little song that he sang clung to Cicily:

"But one short life is yours my sweet"

Why aloud it then, by trying "To take a dream and the real meet?

Those kisses, ever crying,

Who will not take the love that's dear;

But who, instead, weep tear on tear The while fate world is dying."

The while.....their world..... is dying!

On the third day—having, in his manner, blown his trumpet persistently, the trumpet which was to crumble this modern wall of Jericho called "Cicily"—he asked her, not all eagerly, whether she "cared to live up to the Roman theatre" with him?

"I think—not"—she drawled.

After what seemed an interminable period of time to Jason Gridley, the queer cavaleade emerged from the gloomy forest. Then he saw the enormous pan shimmering upon a broad lake. As they approached, the American beheld about its shores throngs of Horibs. None of them seemed to display the lightest interest in the prisoners brought before them. Jason, Terrill, Tarzan, and three Korsars shared a similar fate with Thoar; from their mounts.

They were led along the edge of the lake toward a slightly higher bank. Jason was horrified at the thing which happened next. The Horib in charge of Thoar suddenly clapped his fishy hand tightly over the captive's nose and throat. Then he drew head first into the water, carrying his victim with him. An instant later, three other Horibs drew Jason and three Korsars shared a similar fate with Thoar. Now Jason Gridley alone remained.

With a superhuman effort Jason sought to tear himself free from the clutches of his captor. The evil, clammy hands held him tightly. One of them was suddenly clapped over his mouth and nose and an instant later he felt the warm waters of the lake close about him. Still he struggled to free himself as the Horib carried him swiftly beneath the surface. Presently he felt slimy mud beneath him along which his body was dragged.

Jason's lungs cried out for air, his senses reeled and for a moment all went black before his eyes. Then the hand was removed from his mouth, and gasping for air, he realized he was not drowned. Instead, he was lying upon a bed of mud inhaling air and not water. It was hard to breathe in the hole. He felt a clammy body scrape against his, and then another and another. There was a sound of splashing, gurgling water and then—utter silence.

PROBABLY SHIRE HALL WILL BE RE-DECORATED

"I think this place needs a good going over by an interior decorator, and a few other workmen to help him", stated Mr. C. Metcalfe, Reeve of Descronto As he strolled into the Councillors' chambers at Shire Hall on Thursday to commence the late afternoon session of Hastings County Council.

The Reeve stood back and silently surveyed the walls and ceiling of the room.

In the outer chamber, huge gaps in the wall paper yawn, and the flapping edges of the covering curl like a distress flag flying" according to the Reeve. In the large assembly room glittering raindrops from the leaky roof above have left a dark brown stain on the ceiling, and wide cracks on the surface show, where the plaster has pulled away, threatening to drop and disclose cement processes at some near date. Not even the shining gold leaf trusses of the large pictures of old-time Wardens can brighten the interior of the faded rooms.

"Can't get any inspiration for good work in these surroundings", stated Reeve Metcalfe.

"Something ought to be done" chorused fellow Reeves who were also invited to inspect the condition.

UNKNOWN DESTINATION

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 26.—(AP) Samuel Insull has chartered a hydrosteamship and ordered it held ready for a flight to an unknown destination, it was rumored here today.

With the circulation of this unconfirmed report, it also was rumored that his destination, if such a flight is undertaken possibly would be Abyssinia.

Superintendent of Fairs in Ontario Points Out What is Needed for Successful Fair

J. A. Carroll, Newly Appointed Addresses Delegates in City

AGAINST GAMBLING

Takes up at Length, The Question of Government Grants

Some forty delegates and visitors were in attendance Thursday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Central Onta Fairs Association held in the Council Chamber of the City Hall. Aside from the selection of dates for the fairs of this district, the election of officers for 1934, and the usual routine of the annual meeting, those attending were privileged to hear a most interesting address from Mr. J. A. Carroll, the new Superintendent of Fairs for Ontario as successor to late W. H. Hegler, and to permit the presence of delegates at his funeral.

Alderman W. A. Woodley, in the unavoidable absence of Mayor Ellis, welcomed the visitors to the city. He spoke of the value of fairs in respect to the memory of the late Mr. Hegler, and to permit the presence of delegates at his funeral.

Alderman W. A. Woodley, in the unavoidable absence of Mayor Ellis, welcomed the visitors to the city. He spoke of the value of fairs in respect to the memory of the late Mr. Hegler, and to permit the presence of delegates at his funeral.

President G. W. Varcoe of Rosseau, was chairman and his address was brief. The minutes of the last annual meeting held in this city January 26th, 1933, were presented by the secretary-treasurer, Mr. J. Lewis Hay of Campbellford, and met with the unanimous approval of those present. The appointment of the auditors was met by Mr. A. O'Donnell and met with like endorsation. First vice-president F. A. Aylsworth and 2nd Representative J. Lockie of No. 2 District made brief addresses. The latter made brief reference to the late Mr. H. H. Kelly, president of the Belleville Fair Board.

Mr. J. Garbutt was called on to make a few remarks as the oldest member of the Fair Board present. For over half a century Mr. Garbutt had acted in that capacity. He, however, declined as he said, what he could say about fairs could not be done in three minutes or a half hour.

In committee of the whole the dates for the fairs were chosen and endorsed. The date of the Marmora Fair being the only one undecided upon, and are given later in this report.

New Officers Elected

As the result of the election of officers, F. A. Aylsworth of Warkworth, was the unanimous choice for president of the Association for 1934. Mr. Aylsworth was first vice-president during 1933. Mr. R. H. Keirhetson, of Belleville, was the first vice-president elected and Mr. F. R. Henderson of Napanee, was named second vice-president. Mr. J. Lewis Hay, secretary, treasurer for the committee and the same officials will check up on the affairs of the association for 1934.

New President Speaks

The incoming president addressed the meeting and after thanking his fellow members for the honor done him, stated that there be a worthy representation from Central Ontario at the convention in Toronto of the Association of Fairs and Exhibitions on January 8th, and 9th next. This section of the province has not had a member on the executive for some time, continued he. "We have good men in our organization here but it requires attendance at the convention to get our representatives on that committee" said Mr. Aylsworth. There are 31 fairs in this district, but only 16 of them were represented at the meeting this afternoon, he pointed out. He trusted that in the coming year, those fairs would be urged to send a representative to see to it that they had delegates present at the next meeting. "If they do not come we do not know their grievances and cannot redress them," said the president. "We want them to come here and discuss any trouble. We are asking for more money and need it but what is the use to ask for this from the Minister of Agriculture if we have not representative backing?" continued Mr. Aylsworth. "I want you behind me and be assured of your backing for the coming year" he concluded.

"We are honored," said the new president in introducing the speaker of the afternoon, "in having with us at our annual meeting this year, the new Superintendent of Fairs in Ontario, coming with new ideas to position to a job held by Mr J. Lockie Wilson, who was with us at last year's gathering. You want to hear his address and this introduction will be of the briefest nature, fellow members. Mr. J. A. Carroll, Superintendent of our Ontario Fairs."

Superintendent of Fairs

It was a most favorable impression the accessor to J. Lockie Wilson made on his hearers Thursday afternoon. A speaker of magnetic and pleasing personality he has a fine delivery and has brought to his new office an enthusiasm that permeates his remarks. He also clearly sets forth his earnestness and interest in things agricultural were exemplified in his remarks to the Central Ontario Fairs Association yesterday. "I will omit the usual trifle of congratulation and so forth as the hour is late," said Mr. Carroll in his opening remarks, "and discuss at once the affairs of agricultural societies.

"There are 220 agricultural societies in Ontario and all fairs are held within a period of six weeks so it is impossible for me to attend them all but last year I did attend thirty of them, large and small. I would like to review first some of the work of my first year in office and my observations on the way fairs are run. Some fairs were poorer, others good," said Mr. Carroll. "One of my first impression, what a fair is going to be like. More desire to get the money of a fair on its Board of Directors and Secretary than anything else. You can't have a good fair with poor officers. You can't run a fair successfully by putting in friends as directors who are not fair men and that is something to remember at your annual meetings. Every fair should have a manager or managing director and this is not possible in a society that duty should be assigned to its secretary," the O'Donnell met at Question of Attractions

The question of "attractions" is to receive a prominent part in discussion at the next convention a month. And here the speaker cited incidents he had known of at fairs he had attended. "A fair to pay be run successfully without gambling devices. Make your prize fees too often," said Mr. Carroll, "the encouragement of what happens at a fair rests with its directors."

Questions regarding finances had been asked many societies through the speaker's office and at next month's convention this matter would be put to the forefront with representation from his department.

Provincial Grants

Mr. Carroll at some length explained the matter of the grants made by the Ontario Government to agricultural societies. A number of A fair will not receive a government grant unless a speaker is sent unless a grant is made it from its municipality or shall it receive more than 50% from municipality the total of the grants made it by municipalities. In no case is more than $800. Since 1918 $85,000 was the amount appropriated by the Department of Agriculture for this purpose but for necessary economy it was cut down year to $60,000. A resolution later passed increased the figure for 1923 but as grants stood for the present year they would be $60,000. He had certain recommendations to make regarding special grants, so that no society would lose through the amendment.

Societies whose fairs had suffered by wet weather at the time of their fairs, had to be given 50 per cent. of their gate receipts losses had been paid them from the Fair Weather Insurance" fund. A committee will report on this matter at the convention. He wanted to see the "wet weather provision" remain as one of the rules governing fairs.

Field Crop Competition

The question of field crop was when a grant will again be made for Field Crop Competitions. He felt they were a good thing to continue and part of the agricultural society's work. When the grant was cut off most societies dropped them. He urged that they be carried on even with smaller prizes. "If you want to get back this grant don't help yourselves and prove your earnestness", said Mr. Carroll.

The number of directors on a Fair Board was discussed by Mr. Carroll. He advocated nine directors with its three officers as sufficient. Committees would be appointed if further aid in work was necessary. Younger people as clerks at a fair instead of using directors as such was another of the suggestions he put forth for the consideration of hi hearers.

For the Department of Agriculture is theoretical vein, the new Superintendent of Fairs concluded his address, with an outline of what he thought an agricultural society should accomplish. Many societies had gone far from their original purposes. Certainly fairs had done much to improve agriculture but the fair was not the whole purpose of an agricultural society. Clubs should never have a fair yet do good work. The aim to see the agricultural societies again come to be the governing body in all things agricultural in the districts they served. Work with the agricultural representative and be with them. Societies have a work to do and it is to further their influence and work that I am in the position I am today," said the speaker. "I am a new man on the job. I want to get your reactions to my suggestion, your advice and helpful suggestions. I am looking forward to very happy relationships with Inwards.

agricultural societies of this province and their representatives," said Mr. Carrol in terminating his address.

The tendering of a vote of thanks by the president to Mr Carroll, on motion of Mr. W. F. Hill and Mr. C. W. Varcoe concluded the meeting.

WAR PENSION ESTIMATE IS CUT SLIGHTLY

No Reduction However on The Pension Rates

DEBATE MONDAY

Leader of Opposition Will be Heard, When Debate is Opened

Ottawa, Jan. 27 (CP)—Of 43 classifications under which the estimates for 1934-35 are listed, only two show increases, two remain as last year and 38 are decreased. Appropriations were introjuced in the House of Commons yesterday to cover expenditures for the coming fiscal year amounting to $343,-449,275, which was a decrease from the current year of $17,089,507.

The department of National Defence and the Soldier Civil Department are the only two whose estimates are greater than those for the current fiscal year, subsidies to provinces and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police remain at their former figure. All others are reduced.

The increase in defence amounts to $295,000 for civilian replacements, and in marine to $1,128 650 for dredging at the entrance of the St. Lawrence.

The largest cut is in Public Works (chargeable to income), amounting to $5,420,531. This item included construction and maintenance of public buildings, wharves, breakwaters and the like. Last year the amount voted was $13,482,562. This year it dropped to $8,187,000.

War pensions, for which $47,092,-321 was appropriated last year, are reduced to $44,112,227. The explanation given is that the peak of pensionary was voted than was actually required, and in the current year the department feels it can get along on the smaller amount. The reduction has no bearing on any project for the diminution of pension rates.

Post Offices Reduced.

Post office estimates are reduced by $697,706 to $29,621,682 and trade and commerce by $92,258 to $4,265,-669. The reductions continue in the large amounts all down the line, to the smallest, which is one of $9,-700 for steamboat inspection.

The government established a precedent when the estimates were introduced yesterday, the day after the opening of parliament. Ordinarily they are not brought down till these are tabled. Indicative of the governments's hope to get down to business early in the session was also the announcement that the greater part of governments legislation will be introduced during the House next week.

The rapidity with which progress is made depends greatly, however, on how long it takes the Commons to dispose of the Address in reply to the Throne, debate on which begins on Monday.

Following that certain days of the week are set aside for private members in the course of which the various resolutions standing in the order paper are discussed and either voted on or withdrawn, thus leading to the disposition of their sponsors and the temper of the House.

Much attention will, at this session the government lops off the private members' days and gets on until they disappear entirely and disappearance of the danger of the winding up of the session.

Following the usual second reading of the address in reply to the Governor-General's speech moved by Sam Gobeil (Cons., Compton) and H. J. Barber (Cons., Fraser Valley) respectively, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the opposition, will be the first speaker.

COUNTY MUSEUM OPENED

Full of Devilry but Hits Sawdust Trail after Attending a Revival

Carterville, Ill., Jan. 27 (AP) — The wickedness of Little Oak Grove Church south of here never knew Ben Coram, preacher sent into Corum McGee thinking up new devilry.

Once a hired fiver into the church, McGee whiped out his pistol and shot. The fine was $50. Another time he started a watermelon and fight.

Then his brother rode a horse into church, but everyone said Corum was responsible.

The finale came when two of the McGee boys and two others burned up the church organ. The deacons already had sent for Corum.

It was unanimously agreed six years ago that Corum was an incurable roughneck.

"Corum McGee will never mend his ways," they said.

There's a big revival now at the Little Oak Grove church and folks come nightly for miles around. 80 already have hit the sawdust trail.

The master of the trail is—Corum McGee, revivalist.

Estimates Highlights

Ottawa, Jan. 27 (CP) — The following is a summary of the highlights in the main estimates for 1934-35 tabled in the House of Commons.

No provision made for restoration of 10 per cent cut in civil service salaries established at beginning fiscal year.

HORSES BOLT, SLEIGH THROWN AGAINST TRAIN, TWO INJURED

Walter Fox Sustains Broken Leg And Sam Gunter Back Injury

Trenton, Jan. 27 (Special)—Walter Fox, 65, a farmer residing just outside Trenton on the Wooler Road and Sam Gunter, 42, of Pilm Street, Trenton, were rushed to the Belleville General Hospital, late yesterday afternoon in N. N. Mahaffy's ambulance after they were thrown from a sleigh against a moving train on Stanley Street. George Gunter, 16, son of the injured man, escaped uninjured

The three men were riding south on Stanley St. along the track, on a sleigh loaded with hardwood and driven by a team.

The Picton-Belleville train was backing into Trenton when the team bolted throwing the sleigh against the moving train.

The two injured men were thrown on the track being missed only by inches by the wheels of the train. The sleigh was almost demolished while the horses were uninjured.

The injured were taken to nearby residence, and Dr. J. P. Hall was called. Fox suffered a broken left leg while Gunter received a fractured back and leg injuries. The two were later removed to the Belleville Hospital.

The train, No. 353, was in charge of Conductor Geo. L. Schenck of Trenton, and Engineer Thorton Wilson of Belleville.

ONE KILLED TWO INJURED

Auto Truck, Crash on King's Highway Near Thamesville

Thamesville, Ont., Jan. 27. (CP)—Edwin Hewson, of Camden township was killed, Fred and John Noudo, Wheatley, were injured here and Joseph Taster, also of Camden, seriously injured and confined to the General Hospital here, as the result of a motor truck crash on King's Highway number two, about half way between here and Thamesville early today.

According to the reports available, Hewson and the young men in the hospital were returning from a party in Harwich township in the former's car, which is alleged to have been driven without lights and crashed with a Martin transport truck, driven by Martin Van Sickle of St. George, Ontario. Hewson died on the highway.

Edward Hewson was unmarried and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hewson.

Charge Story Made Up by John Factor

Chicago, Jan. 27 (AP)—A charge that John Factor made up his kidnapping story in an attempt to evade prosecution in England on a charge of issuing worthless checks, appeared today as a major part of the defense plan to save Roger Touhy and three reputed associates from the electric chair.

Touhy's attorney, William Scott Stevart laid the foundation for this attempt yesterday when he began his cross examination of Factor after he had testified that he personally identification of Touhy and two other defendants as members of the gang that carried off his ransom to free him last July.

"It's a good story, if it's true," said Stewart, who charged that Factor had "swindled widows and orphans in England out of their life savings and that "someone in authority" in that land "had to believe the United States Supreme Court's order for the extradition would not be carried out if he identified the defendants.

FIRST DUEL OVER SCANDAL

Rivals Fire Shots But Miss One Another at Paris

Paris, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Four pistol shots echoed through an empty football stadium here at three days Princes on the outskirts of Paris today as Deputy Andre Hesse and Count John Brincla, a lawyer fought the first duel to materialize from the Bayonne Bank scandal.

The two men met in the middle of the huge athletic field in the midst of 20,000 empty benches in a biting cold wind, each firing two shots from "lightly loaded' pistols, without aiming.

The bitterness of their quarrel, supposedly, was an article Brincla wrote criticizing Hesse for his activities as a lawyer for Serge Stavisky in the latter's trial before a number of Deputies, was not settled by the "satisfaction of honor". Slavisky founded the fallen Bayonne pawnshop.

Expressing dissatisfaction at the result, the men walked off the vacant field with their attendants.

Although the duel took place in the centre of a huge, deserted athletic ium which cash week echoes to the shouts of spectators, the four shots exchanged resounded against the tiers of empty seats to startle only the adversaries, four seconds, two doctors and director Jean Joseph Renaud present.

CANADIAN PLACES FIGHT

Oslo, Norway, Jan. 27.—(CP Cable) Miss Mary of London, Ont., piled fifth in the 500-metres speed contest, this afternoon, the first competition in the International Skating Tourney that commenced today.

FIREMEN ARE OVERCOME BY BITING FUMES

Chief and Men Choked by Smoke and Fumes at Three Rivers

3 VATS ABLAZE

Huge Wood Pile Takes Fire From Burning Vats

Three Rivers, Que., Jan. 27 (CP) —Coughing and choking from the biting fumes, city firemen today fought three fires, including one in three huge digester vats at the St. Lawrence Paper Company mill on the outskirts of the city. Three firemen overcome by the fumes of the acid in which the blazing wood pulp was soaking were revived by artificial respiration, while six more were treated for minor injuries local to their eyes caused by the fumes.

Over 20 cords of wood shredded to a pulp and soaked in acid vats containing a powerful acid solution caught fire. Forced from the building by the dense clouds of smoke and fumes, the firemen were forced to fight the flames from the tops of ladders set against windows. Three streams of water, 1,900 gallons a minute at the flames. The firemen worked in relays at the hose.

BUDGET MAY BE BALANCED

Province Will Not Impose New Taxation is Forecast

Toronto, Jan. 27 — A balanced budget for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1934—to be attained without imposing a single cent of new taxation—will, it is understood be forecast by Hon. Col. H. Henry, Prime Minister and Provincial Treasurer, when he makes his formal financial presentation at the forthcoming session of the Ontario Legislature.

For three years running, the government has been collecting additional revenue from influential sources that it should seek to bolster revenue by placing a small 2% sales wait hour tax on all generated electrical energy consumed. Such a provincial income practiced by many municipalities. Introduction of such legislation may come some time, it is said as a means to an annual perceptible reduction of the provincial debt, but certainly not this year.

There is no chance, either, it is understood of any reduction in taxation this year—either during the session or before the next election promise. The government has said its finances are well conditioned, the situation, and to feel that until the point in provincial recovery is reached where departmental expenditures may be met out of normal size, taxation will remain as it is.

The provincial budgeting committee, for whose establishment the late Provincial Treasurer, Hon. Edward A. Dunlop, was chiefly responsible, has been working to its economy program, although over the past few years, retrenchments have been trimmed to the bone. The sterility of this economy is manifest, for instance, in the fact that the expenditure on sessional indemnities may be even smaller than last year.

Discussion Among Members Follow Submission of Verbal Report

In the report of the special committee of Hastings County Council appointed to check the report recently made to the Ontario Municipal Board by Mr. R. Neal, accountant, Reeve E. C. Metcalfe, chairman of the committee, stated: "We have had the auditor's report which will be submitted to this council, we feel that no action is necessary in the matter."

The committee was composed of Reeve Metcalfe, Reeve William West of Tyrone, Reeve Burke, Sidney, and Reeve Jas. Bronson, of Marysburgh.

Warden George Jordan remarked:

"In view of the report of the special committee, in which I concur, I do not see that any useful purpose will be served by attempting to answer or deal with such reports.

"We have given the auditor's report presented at this session, which is the usual one, for the county as of December 31, 1933, amounting to $49,833.93, and do not consider it necessary to call for corrections thereof. Apparently the overdraft is not an excessive one in view of the difficulty prevailing at the present time collecting taxes. We show a surplus instead of a deficit.

"The time is opportune for me to congratulate previous councils of this county on the careful manner in which they have conducted the affairs of the county."

Extra Members Explained

Following the answer by Warden Jordan to the report of the Special Committee appointed to examine the recent auditors' report of Hastings County Council, Deputy Reeve Dalton Clarke, Hungerford, asked: "Does that just deal with the auditor's report, Mr. Metcalfe?" "It deals with the auditor's report," answered the chairman of the committee.

"In view of the many false reports of the county circulating around, we feel that it wasn't necessary to go further," Reeve Bronson of Marysburgh, reported.

Mr. Clarke: "Thank you."

Reeve Ketcheson of Mayo: "There would be considerable benefit derived if the public paid attention to some remarks in the report. One was that the Ontario Council, or a committee which visited Toronto, I've been in this council for seven years and I never saw anything wrong here. Regarding that question, I know some things about it. For example the Warden did not get any extra remuneration. I was on it.-We were appointed to go to Toronto to interview the Ontario Government in regard to roads. We didn't have sufficient members on the committee to get a quorum, which, so the committee added a couple of more members.

45 Acres of Land Optioned Near St. Lawrence for Stone Quarries

Brockville, Ont., Jan. 27 (CP)—In the belief that the Waterways Treaty will be ratified in Washington and the actual construction in the international section of the St. Lawrence will be undertaken at an early date, Toronto interests have taken an option upon 45 acres of land in the vicinity of Iroquois owned by James Leisert for the development of stone quarries. The consideration is in the neighborhood of $100 per acre. Negotiations are under way for additional acreage in the same section.

Beware of 'Worry Monger' or All Will be Insane in 2139 Says Psychologist

Chicago, Jan. 27 (AP)—Everybody will be insane by 2139 A.D. if the present increase in insanity is maintained, the Erutives Club was told by David Seabury, New York psychologist.

"Insanity is yesterday, asserting that statisticians had reached the conclusion that there has been a steady increase in insanity during the last 10 years.

He described worry as an one of the first steps toward insanity and warned his audience against the "worry monger."

"Beware," he said, "of the worry monger. Half of the worries of the world are started by people of this sort. Their advice should not be heeded."

Among the identifications for the "worry monger" the speaker gives this:

A gossip, critic or "chieler."

Timid, despondent, parasitical person.

The arrogant, fanatical obstinate melancholy and self-piteous.

Jealous, envious and angry person.

The painfully good.

Those who are always looking on the gloomy side.

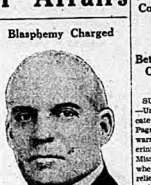
Complaint of Rev. J. C. Cochrane Urges Church Action

IN N. ONTARIO



Better Distribution in Church Demanded by Missionary

SUDBURY, Ont., Jan. 27.—(CP) Unless steps are taken to educate children of settlers in the north Pagan communities would spring up warned Rev. J. C. Cochrane, superintendent of the United Church Missionaries in Northern Ontario when he returned from a visit to 126 points and workers between New Liskeard and Hearst.

The young settlers, according to the missionary, were "like young animals running wild" and did not have the opportunity of attending either day or Sunday schools.

"Now I'd like to lay the burden on the whole church," he stated. "It is useless for the church to talk about a better condition in the state unless there is a better distribution in the church. We ought to have three new charges in the Temiskaming field for the people who have come in from all parts of the country, desperately anxious to get the new start in a new country."

Mr. Cochrane stated school inspectors had told him settlers had to agree on the location of schools and that in some cases they had not been able to do so, as schools could not be built. "I cannot satisfy myself that children should suffer because their parents are low, foolish and too much obsessed with foolish rivalries to agree on anything," he added.

TEN THOUSAND DIE IN FLOOD

Men, Woman, Children Drowned, Frozen or Missing in China

Shanghai, Jan. 27—(CP)—Seven local Chinese reports claiming 10,000 men, women and children have been drowned, frozen to death or are missing in Hopei and Honan provinces along the rising Yellow River, appeared in vernacular newspapers today.

The dispatches, which relief organizations and other sources here considered exaggerated, stated that additional thousands were homeless in the inundated districts with freezing weather adding to their sufferings.

The reports portrayed a vivid picture of the terrible conditions in the flood area. It was said that tens of thousands were sitting in the raging currents endangering rescuers and hampering relief work. Several boats carrying clothing, medicine an supplies have been smashed by the ice, it was added.

QUEST FOR NAKED MAN IS GIVEN UP

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 27 — (CP)—Organized search for the naked man reported seen in a car with a little girl at St. Davids Thursday morning has been stopped, although the Provincial police are on the job for any new of them. It is believed the man mus have been the child's father because of the fact no child has been reported missing. There is a possibility the driver was drunk and now is home and sober and keeping quiet.

EGGS DOWN TO 25 CTS DOZ.
Plentiful Supply of Fowl Seen on Local Mart

Belleville's Saturday market was the largest, of this year, both buyers and vendors turned out in large numbers despite wet falling snow. Eggs were the chief offering on the inside market, and the uniform price was 25 cents a dozen; a few could be had for 23 cents, and extra select were 30 cents a dozen. Butter was 25 cents a pound with a few sellers quoting 2 pounds for 55 cents. There was a plentiful supply of fowl priced from 35 to 50 cents, each according to size and quality. Chickens sold from 50 to 75 cents each, and a meagre showing of ducks sold at 60 and 90 cents and $1.00 each.

There was no change in the price of apples or vegetables from last Saturday; potatoes continue at $1 a bag. A few mud-cats were on sale at 15 cents a pound. Several loads of hay were offered at $14 and $15 a ton. Plenty of wood was on sale at $8 a cord for hardwood, split and cut in stove-lengths, and $7 for soft wood. In 4 foot length hardwood demanded $7 a cord and soft, wood $6.

$800 CLAIM TO BE PAID
Magistrate Casement of Madoc to be Re-imbursed For Expenses

A claim of some $800 requested by Magistrate Casement of Madoc for payments on office furniture made by himself and fees as Magistrate at the December session and referred to the January session will be paid upon the advice of the County Solicitor C. A. Payne, K.C. The following is the text of the findings:

"I have considered the correspondence left with me in regard to the above mentioned claim by Mr. H. S. Casement, one of the police magistrates of the County of Hastings, together with By-law No. 1053 of the County, wherein it is enacted that Mr. Casement, police magistrate be paid the sum of $175.00 payable quarterly in lieu of all claims for office rent furniture, stationery and other accommodation. The police magistrate to have been prompted with the several police magistrates within the County of Hastings to pay them a certain definite sum instead of absorbing it as recited in the Act.

It would appear to me from a consideration of Sec. 37 of the Police Magistrates' Act, R.S.O. 1927, Chapter 111, that the Corporation of the County is obliged to provide a suitable office, furniture, stationery and other accommodation for a Police Magistrate having jurisdiction over a County, and I further believe that the County cannot neglect or fails to provide the accommodation, etc., mentioned in this section and that it can be compelled by mandamus to provide the Police Magistrate therewith; further, under the decided cases it appears that a Magistrate has good cause for action against the County for the amount a Magistrate is obliged to disburse for an office, furniture, stationery and other accommodation, which the County should provide. It would appear that Mr. Casement is entitled to be paid out of the County since the date of his appointment, as Police Magistrate for any and all sums disbursed by him to procure such office, furniture, stationery, etc., as in the section mentioned."

PUBLIC WORKS

Federal estimated expenditures for public works as allocated to the provinces are as follows:

L.U.A. HOLD ANNUAL MEET

Albert Monck Will Head Organization For Coming Year

The annual meeting held on Friday, January 26th, showed a fully paid membership of twenty-five which is an increase of 25 per cent. over last year. In the absence of Mr. McEwen, the president, through removal to Toronto, the vice-president, Mr. Albert Monck read the report of the year's activities. Although only three regular meetings had been held the executive met regularly and were able to report satisfactorily on several complaints received of unethical practices during the year. A social club was formed in preparation for the first year C. U. examinations and there is a prospect of greatly increased interest in this class. Arrangements are being made to hold one meeting for the wives of members covered by this association to stimulate interest on the part of the representatives, who are now members.

Following are the names of the new officers for the Life Underwriters Association for 1934.

President, Mr. Albert D. Monck; vice-president, Mr. D. C. Walker; secretary-treasurer, Mr. M. W. Sparling; executive, Mr. L. Milne, Mr. R. E. Meredith, Mr. S. R. Burrows, Mr. H. W. Ward.

EASTERN STAR

MINERVA CHAPTER 138

By initiating ceremonies at a Minerva Chapter O.E.S. 138, a new regime took office with Mrs. Charles Hyde, who honoured by the chapter as Worthy Matron and Mrs. Wilbur Coles as Patron for 1934. The retiring Matron and Patron, Mrs. Vassar and Mr. E. Rainbird, before the installation of investiture, extended a hearty welcome, thanking the officers and members for their co-operation during the year and asking their allegiance to the newly elected. Mrs. McGuire presented Mrs. Hyde with a gavel and Mr. Tom Rainbird had the honour of presenting his son with the P.W.P.'s jewel who also received interesting gift from his parents.

The dignified and impressive ceremony was in charge of P.G.M. Sister Anna G. Boyd of Belleville, who in her gracious way gave the close-up scene of the old indelible impression on the minds of these present. Mrs. Matthews was W.G.P. The other officers assist, Mrs. Ellis, Associate Matron; Mr. Robtin, Folwell, Mr. Singer. The five star points were beautifully worn by members of Belleville Chapter No. 55, each carrying the gift of the Chapter, a rare handkerchief to match her star point. Mrs. Hyde, the new Worthy Matron were from Past Worthy Patrons, Mrs. Ellis presented a beautiful mantel clock; from the W.P. a pair of candle and from members, a telephone desk and chair, the present slate of officers:

W.M.—Mrs. Chas. Hyde; W.P.—William Coles; Associate M.—Mrs. A. E. Wonsavell; Associate P.—L. Cooper; Secretary—Mrs. M. A. Moorman; Treasurer—Mrs. M. A. Weymuck; Conductress —Mrs. M. Rosebury; Associate Conductress —Miss A. Browning; Chaplain—Mrs. M. Parsons; Marshal—Mrs. C. Reed; Organist—Mrs. H. Taylor; Aida—Miss V. Hare; Ruth—Miss Ruth Wrecker; Esther—Mrs. A. Hubbard; Martha—Mrs. F. Evans; Electa—Mrs. E. Cooper; Warder—Mrs. J. Tyndey; Sentinel—Mrs. Wm. Adams.

Many distinguished guests were present from all the surrounding districts making a happy throng of some three hundred guests. The presentation of gifts to Worthy Matron's speech from the throne, took precedence by none. She recited an original poem keeping to her slogan, "Service". The grand social was Mrs. Singer with Mr. Adams and Dr. Ellis assisting.

The sympathy of the whole Chapter goes out to Mrs. Rogers, P.D.D., of Ivan in recent sad loss. Mrs. Ingram and her company were the entertainers. The hall was bright with floor lamps, ferns and flowers.

Minerva Chapter Orchestra was augmented and gave some of the newest numbers for the dance that brought to a close an exceptional night of good fellowship.

'SELL' CANADA IN EUROPE

Dominion Government Will Spend $200,000 on Publicity

Ottawa, Jan. 27 (C.P.)—A drive to "sell" Canada in the United Kingdom and on the continent of Europe is indicated by an item of $200,000 for publicity and advertising in those countries, contained in the estimates tabled in the House of Commons yesterday. ICE FIELD IS BREAKING UP

Safety For 43 Men in Antarctic Expedition Feared

Bay of Whales, Antarctica, Jan. 26 via Amateur Radio (AP)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd expressed appreciation today for the safety of Pressure Camp and 43 men of the second Antarctic expedition marooned there by disintegration of the ice shelf covering the bay.

The flagship, which Byrd aboard was drifting in the bay, unable to berth against the inconstant, turbulent ice, was still 25 miles off from the camp, temporary supply base and a half mile beyond the edge of the ice, four others were in little Pressure Camp, off from the comrades.

With the temperature a little below freezing the ice was distinguishing everywhere. The whole front of the Ross Sea's edge, made across was crumbling. A million square yards have broken off since yesterday morning, the Admiral estimated.

After a reconnaissance flight the Admiral reported that what he saw convinced him there was grave danger to the whole flooring of the bay. Several hundred yards east of the ship a deep new crack extended south from the ice's edge, made a wide curve and bent back to the ice.

OBITUARY

LATE JOHN S. MOORE

Many returned men, as well as friends and neighbours, were in attendance, Friday afternoon, at the funeral of the late John Stephen Moore, which was held from the residence of his father, Charles B. Moore, 9 Grove street. The late Mr. Moore had an overseas service of three years, and in accord respect to the memory of a comrade, members of the Veterans' organization of the city attended his funeral in large numbers. As the graveside in the Belleville Cemetery the Last Post was sounded by Harry Penn. The Rev. H. R. Neal, pastor of the Holloway Street United Church conducted the service at the home and at the place of interment. Former comrades of the war, acting as bearers were: George Lancaster, Ben Hubble, B. Stewart, D. Lowe, Jack McGuire and R. Ferguson.

MRS THOMAS McCRACKEN

Sincerely regretted by a large circle of friends, the death occurred Thursday at her late residence, in Trenton, of Mrs. Nellie B. McCracken, beloved wife of Thomas McCracken. Mrs. McCracken had been in failing health for the past twelve months. Born in Castleton, 54 years ago, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warner. For 19 years Mrs. McCracken had lived in Trenton, became its last town from Havelock. She was a member of, and active in the affairs of the Trenton United Church, a member of the Ladies' Aid and Women's Missionary Society. The late Mrs. McCracken was popular and most highly respected in this community, and the sympathy of numerous friends goes out to those bereaved in her passing.

Surviving are the husband; one brother, Arthur Warner of Manchester, N.H., and sisters, Mrs. Charles Edwards in Wicklow; Mrs. J. Morgison of Cobourg, and Mrs. Charles Hoffman of Colborne.

LATE JAMES HUBBLE

Rawdon (Special)—The funeral of the late James Henry Hubble was held from the Methodist United Church on Thursday afternoon. His pastor delivered a comforting message from the text found in St. John, 6th chapter, 40th verse and thirty-eighth verse: "Other men laboured and ye are entered into their labours." Interment followed the deceased "O God Our Help in Ages Past", "Jesus Saviour, Pilot Me," and "Forever with the Lord," were sung by the choir. The choir sang an anthem, "Father Lead Me," and Miss Olive McGinnis sang the solo, "Lead Kindly Jesus Comes." The bearers were Fred Hubble, Ernest Hubble, Norman Hubble, George Weaver, Ross Hoard, John Hubble and Frank Hubble. Besides the bereaved two sons and two daughters and his loving widow the late Mr. Hubble leaves to survive, namely, Grant and Edna Hubble, Mrs. Ernest Hubble, one brother, Mr. David Hubble of Consecon, and two sisters, Mrs. Dempsey Tyler of Consecon, and Mrs. Ella Hoar of Mount Pleasant. Relatives from a distance in attendance at the obsequies were: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hubble of Tweed, Mrs. Louis Taylor, Cobourg, Mrs. Frank Hubble, Mrs. Ross Hubble, Mrs. Dempsey Tyler of Consecon, Mrs. Ella Hoar of Mount Pleasant, son, Mr. George Hubble of Havelock, brothers-in-law, Mr. Thomas Hubble of Belleville and Mr. Albert Wrightmyer of Peterborough, a brother-in-law, Mr. Mack Hubble and son Mr. Lee Holden of Frankford, Mr. Everett Hubb and Mrs. Hubble, Ellis of Woodley, Mr. and Mrs. Sandford Hubble, Mr. Lawrence Hubble, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hubble, Westover, of Belleville.

Beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and were:

Pillow—From the Family, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tucker, Tweed.

Pillow—Mr. and Mrs. Louis Taylor, Cobourg.

Sheaf—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hubble, Detroit.

Sheaf—Mr. David Hubble and Miss May Hubble.

Sheaf—Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Cutler, Detroit.

Wreath—The staff of Outler Hubble and Hubble, Inc., Detroit.

The body was interred in Mount Pleasant Union.

JOHN SNARR

Rawdon, Jan. 27 (Special)—Following several months of illness, a prominent and highly respected resident of this district passed away this (Saturday) morning, at his late residence at Wellman's Corners, in the person of John Snarr, in his 75th year. The late Mr. Snarr was a member of the Wellman's Corners United Church, and one of its most active workers until ill-health incapacitated him for active interment. He was a member of Wellman, I.O.L. No. 172 and took a prominent part in things pertaining to the welfare in his section of the county. His death is deeply regretted by friends and neighbors and their sincere sympathy is extended to the wife who mourn his loss.

Surviving are the widow, previous to marriage Miss Helen Hamilton; two brothers, Fred and Thomas at Wellman's and four sisters, Mrs. John Judd in Chicago, Ill., Mrs. Emmanuel Mayle at Wellman's and Mrs. Thomas Bedford, and Mrs. John Bailey of Rawdon township.

The time of the funeral had not been decided on when this paper went to press.

Watson Family Settled in Belleville One Century Ago

Great Grandson of Settler Wm. Watson, Practices Architecture Here

WINS DISTINCTION

One branch of the Watson family celebrate this year their centennial in Belleville, for in 1834 William Watson settled in Thurlow and the family has been represented in Belleville by several members ever since that year.

William Arthur Watson, great-grandson of the original settler is practising architecture at 25 Bridge Street East. He was born in Belleville and received his secondary and university education in Toronto, graduating from the School of Architecture in the University of Toronto with the Degree Bachelor of Architecture he won distinction in design by being awarded the Architectural Guild medal for Architectural Design. In the following year a competition was held to select an architect for the beautification of the northwest entrance to Hamilton and Mr. Watson, associated with R. B. and L. A. Dunnington - Grubbe, landscape architects, was placed second in a Dominion-wide aggregation of architects. After two years in architects' offices in Toronto Mr. Watson for nine months travelled and studied in Europe, part of which was spent in an architect's office in London, England. On returning to Canada he re-entered the University of Toronto for a year as post-graduate student and research assistant and gained his Master Degree in Architecture. In all Mr. Watson spent over four years in the study and practice of his profession and has been for six years an Associate of the Ontario Association of Architects.

PROCEEDS OF MINSTREL SHOW TURNED OVER FOR RELIEF

Concert Exceptionally Good And Attendance Large

Trenton, Jan. 27 (Special)—One of the finest three hours of entertainment was enjoyed by a large audience in the Capitol theatre last night when the H.N.S. Minstrels were played.

The program was varied giving the customers a splendid cross section of entertainment consisting of songs, dances, instrumental and vocal and laughs by the wise-cracking end-men.

The whole proceeds were turned over to the town for relief. During intermission Mayor H. R. Cory thanked all those who took part and those who turned out for such a worthy cause. The mayor appealed to the gathering for their assistance in these times of distress. Today in Trenton there are 407 families on relief or approximately 25 per cent. of the total population. His Worship asked citizens to gather up all old clothing as it would be greatly appreciated wherever it is to be given.

The first part of the program was the old-fashioned minstrels with Harry Le Clair as interlocutor. The end-men endeared themselves with their gaudy dress were Charlie Allore, Bob Wemyss, Maurice Pearsall, Lorne Foster, Fraser Fairman and Joe Macaulay. The balladists included Messrs. McDonald, Wibberly, Bishop, Roy, Allore, Lemoire, Hennessey, Forsyter and Delisle.

Real Old Tunes Sang.

Real old tunes were brought back with a fine chorus. The soloist rendered "Gee I Wish I Had a Sweetheart" by Prand'homme, "Shine On Harvest Moon" by Lorne Foster, "River Stay Away From My Door" by Bishop, "Tomorrow" by Wilfred Allore, "Susie" by Maurice Pearsall, "That Wonderful Mother of Mine" by Rene Roy, "Honey Stay In Your Own Back Yard" by Eddie McBeth aid, "Can't You Hear Me Calling Caroline" by Bob Wemyss, "Chick, Chick, Chicken" by Fraser Fairman, "O'er the Hillsey Fee" by Fred Wemyss, "Dina" by Charles Allore, "Here Comes Miss Hanna" by Joe Macaulay, and Jimmie Lamoire did a fine step dance.

Between each number the end-men handed out the laughs with their wise-cracks and jokes.

During intermission Don Garrison had his Paradise Hawaiian Quintette rendered several fine numbers.

Dan Fairman and his Commanders played several selections with Joe Macaulay as soloist.

Sergt.-Major Wibberly and his Sergeantettes presented a musical number, "The Sergt.-Major is Single," which was most picturesque. The chorus consisted of Misses E. Greenburg, E. Asts, A. Smith, D. Foster, H. Hess, M. Green, J. Richmond, M. Cobley, C. Powers, A. Powers, G. Armstrong, G. Wibberly.

Joe Macaulay was master of ceremonies and introduced the numbers, songs and skits. Those assisting were H. L. Clair, B. Hennessey, C. Allore, with Thomas Victoria and Margaret Delisle and Rose Marie Lemoire.

The whole cast joined in the grand finale. The pianists of the evening were Miss M. Robinson and Mr. E. Hackett.

FINE PROGRAM AT I.O.O.F. HALL

Stirling Lodge Entertains Friends at Social Evening

Stirling, Jan. 27—Members of the Stirling I.O.O.F. entertained their friends at a social function in the lodge rooms on Wednesday evening. Over one hundred men were present, each member bringing a guest. The banquet was held for the celebration of the birthday of one of the founders of Oddfellowship in America, Thomas Wilder.

Mr. Earl Sipe, N.G., was chairman of the gathering at which the proceedings were followed by Community singing with Mr. R. A. Patterson as song leader.

Orchestra selections by Floyd Ketcheson, banjo; Gerald Snider, pianist; Major Fraser, trap; the three being members of the Frankford I.O.O.F. lodge.

Address "Why We Are Here" delivered by Mr. Harry Hulin in which he splendidly set forth the definition of the real spirit of the Oddfellows.

Musical number by the orchestra "Jeanette" and "Mamee in the Cold, Cold Ground" by the quartette composed of Rev. A. Penfend, Ted Hildebrandt, Sid Murphy, R. A. Patterson with Chas. Allen as accompanist.

Selection on sinclabrp and mouth organ by R. A. Patterson and Russel Pitman on the guitar.

Address "A Gentleman" by Mr. R. T. Dunlop in which the speaker set forth the requirements for a gentleman as he saw it.

Piano medley by Chas. Allan.

Address by Rev. J. A. Koffend in the place of Rev. R. T. Merrian of West Huntingdon who was unable to be present.

Skit by Mr. Alex Parks.

Address by Mr. Thos. Montgomery, Sr.

Vote of thanks moved by Mr. A. E. Noble and endorsed by Mr. R. T. Dunlop.

Impromptu speeches by a number of men were enjoyed with Mr. A. E. Dobbs acting in the capacity of master of ceremonies. The speakers were Messrs. C. Lloyd, F. Ketcheson, W. H. Patterson, Milton Bird, Jos. Wilson, Bert Bedford, Harmon Rollins, A. S. Mumford, Matthew Sine, E. W. Ormiston, Edgar Mercer, Harry Lovibond, T. Mc Gee, Clifford Baker, Alex. WEST LAKE L. A. HOLDS MEETING

Mrs. W. J. Furze is Hostess to Members

West Lake, Jan. 27.—The meeting of the Ladies' Aid at Mrs. W. G. Furze's home on Thursday afternoon was largely attended and a successful meeting enjoyed. About twenty-seven ladies were present including a few visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Cox of Picton were Sunday visitors at Stanley McCormick's.

At the afternoon service on Sunday Rev. Mr. Blanchard took as his text the glorious words, "they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength, they shall mount up with wing as eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint." The sermon was much enjoyed.

Alfred Kleinsteuber with his sawing outfit is piling up great heaps of wood for the men' folk around here.

Mr. Currie was called to attend Mrs. Ryan one day last week. The aged lady is suffering from bronchitis and other complications.

At the annual Sunday school meeting at the United Church on Sunday Mr. C. Furze was elected superintendent for the coming year. The teachers of the various classes were left as before.

The roads are in a very icy condition again and all other places, so we have to watch our step.

COMMISSION MAY BE NAMED

Overlapping of Administrations Serious Problem Says Henry

Montreal, Jan. 27.—(CP)—Canada today faced a serious problem in the overlapping of Dominion and Provincial Governmental Administrations and the matter would have to be given considerable attention, Premier George S. Henry of Ontario stated in addressing the Conservative Association of Montreal last night.

Mr. Henry said he believed eventually a commission would have to go into the matter. He did not think the present time opportune, however. "It should not be under, taken until normal times return and until our vision is clearer."

The Ontario Premier reviewed at length Provincial affairs in Province to reduce unemployment. The payment of "Dole" was regarded as much inferior to a plan of public works and he looked for a large amount of such works to be constructed in 1934. The Government had been reduced in Ontario by some 120,000 between March 1934, and the end of 1933.

Tribute to the late Hon. E. A. Smith, Provincial Treasurer, as a man responsible for the system of budgeting under which Ontario had converted an anticipated deficit of $3,000,000 in 1932 to a balance of $400,000, was paid by Mr. Henry. He also spoke highly of Hon. J. D. Monteith, Minister of Public Works and Labor, who had worn himself out in handling relief problems.

The Premier gave a cordial invitation to Quebecers to attend the celebrations this year of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the City of Toronto.

WEEKLY NEWS OF BONARLAW

Bonarlaw— Miss Leola Pollock and Miss Gwen Swayne spent the week end in Montreal returning to Bonarlaw Monday morning via Belleville.

Mrs. Isaac Brown and daughter Iva and Mrs. Jno. E. Brown returned on Tuesday from a trip to Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bone and Miss Georgina Brown returned from Coldwater on Monday where they were attending the funeral of Mrs. Bone's mother.

Mrs. Jack McLaren has been away for several days doing special nursing duty for Dr. Lilway on the K. & P. Division. He returned to Bonarlaw Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Jno. McKeown who recently underwent an operation in Belleville Hospital for appendicitis is doing splendidly. He has had a number of calls from friends of this vicinity. His mother, Mrs. John McKeown is also quite ill.

Word has been received that Mrs. Ernest Eastwood in a Kingston Hospital is very critical condition.

Mr. Mel Pitzgerald who has been in Peterboro Hospital for some days is improving in health and is expected home the latter part of this week.

Mr. Wm. Jones has been very poorly lately.

The youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Stocky has been sick with a severe cold for several days. It was feared the child had pleurisy but his condition was some improved yesterday.

NEGRO CHILDREN TRAPPED

Greenville, N.C., Jan 26—(CP)—Trapped in an attic three negro children were burned to death near Hookes early today as fire destroyed their home.

Officers launched an investigation, expressing belief the blaze was of incendiary origin.

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

"Constant Woman"

Eugene O'Neill, whose genius gave the stage and screen such outstanding dramatic masterpieces as "Strange Interlude" and "Anna Christie," is the author of the play, "Reckleseness," on which is based the current talking picture, "The Constant Woman" coming to the Capitol Theatre on Monday night.

Conrad Nagel, as all times restrained and quietly effective, turns in a brilliant performance as Wall, the tent-show manager; Leila Hyams again proves herself a dramatic actress of unusual power and wins the audience's sympathy with a fine characterization as the "other woman," whose desire it is to keep the manager and the boy from drifting apart. Claire Windsor, as the wife, is excellent as well as lovely to look at. Tommy Conlon as the boy deserves mention for a heartwarming and appealing portrayal.

Other interesting presentations on this program include a funny comedy, cartoon, Surprise reel, and News.

Monday and Tuesday, as "gifts" nites.

"White Woman" and "Horse Play," double feature bill ends tonight, and those who have seen this program claim that it is the best entertainment in months, excitement, mystery, and some thrills in one and all laughs in Slim Summerville's "Horse Play." Charlie Laughton, (Bluff King Hat) teams up with Carole Lombard in a tale of the tropics which pulls the audience out of their seats in excitement.

AT THE BELLE

"CRADLE SONG"

"ALICE IN WONDERLAND"

Paramount merits more than passing commendation for its production of the charmingly beautiful "Cradle Song" now at the Belle Theatre with the lovely Dorothea Wieck making her first American appearance.

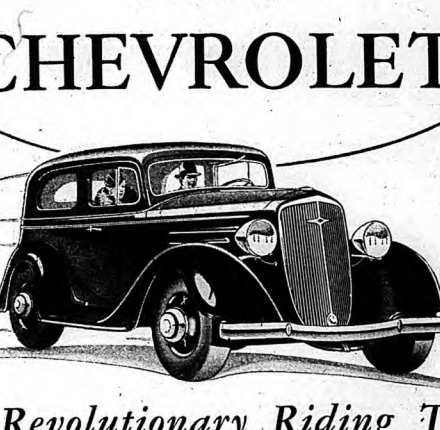
The picture is completely out of the path of usual, stilted entertainment. It is a sensitive, touching, emotional drama adapted for the screen by Miss Courtney, author of "The Pulitzer prize-winning play, "The Green Pastures."

Bringing to the role all the charm and beauty displayed as the school teacher in "Maedchen in Uniform," Dorothea Wieck reveals herself as a star of outstanding dramatic understanding, and as the director of effective, touching scenes. Under the direction of Marion Gering, she has surrounded the entire production with the characters are sharply and individually etched. Dorothea Wieck brings to the screen a haunting beauty that promises much for the future. Sir Guy Standing is one of the principal roles gives a warming and delightful performance. As the mother Louise Dresser is excellent. Handsome Kent Taylor has an opportunity to again reveal his clever qualities. Evelyn Venable, the girl is refreshing and charming.

Paramount deserves considerable praise for quality and unusualness of this production. As an example of the finer things that em come from Hollywood, it is unsurpassed.

"Alice in Wonderland"

Many novels from the classics to present-day books, have been made into films by Hollywood studios, but no picture ever followed the original as closely as does Paramount's "Alice in Wonderland," the second feature attraction on the Belle screen. Combining the best-known and best-liked scenes from "Wonderland" and "Through the Looking Glass director Norman McLeod followed exactly every incident, every bit of dialogue and every character without deviation. The characters themselves are made-up to look exactly like the drawings by Sir John Tenniel in the original edition of Alice's adventures. The department copied the same drawings even down to minor decorations.



Charlotte Henry, who plays the leading role was selected from among more than 7000 candidates, the "ideal Alice type"

25 Screen Stars

More than 25 first rank screen stars are featured in the picture, including Richard Arlen, Reecee Ates, Gary Cooper, Leon Errol Louise Fazenda, W. C. Fields, Skeets Gallagher, Cary Grant, Raymond Hatton, Ernest Everett Horton, Roscoe Karns, Baby LeRoy, Mae Marsh, Polly Moran, Jack Oakie, Edna May Oliver, May Robson, Charlie Ruggles, Alison Skipworth, Ted Sparks and Ford Sterling.

Commencing today the popular Paramount Current Newsreel will be exhibited every Saturday and Monday. The last complete show will commence at 8.30 tonight and Monday.

Drive this NEW CHEVROLET

Three Revolutionary Riding Thrills!

WHEN a car takes First Place at the Motor Shows—and first place in sales—that's reason enough why you should see it and drive it before spending a single penny on any new automobile. There's simply no question about it when the new Chevrolet, that very same car, introduces the three outstanding low-priced car advancements of 1934!

FIRST OF ALL, of course, is THE FLOATING RIDE—the result of Knee-Action front wheels that abolish jar and bump and bounce, give feather-light steering, and wheel "shimmy" and increase front-end strength.

SECOND—an advanced new design of Chevrolet's famous, proved engine. Featuring an entirely new, high-efficiency Blue Flame cylinder head that gives more horsepower—faster acceleration—higher speeds—high compression without "knock"—increased smoothness—and better cooling—at even lower cost for gasoline and oil!

THIRD—the new, girder-built "YK" frame. Actually a frame-within-a-frame; with greater resistance to twisting, weaving strains; built so it cannot "sag"; lengthened to permit bigger and more spacious bodies; and cushioned from both body and engine by soft, live rubber.

With these great exclusive advancements—with bigger brakes, roomier Fisher Bodies and improved No-Draft Ventilation—is it any wonder that Chevrolet is Canada's most popular automobile? You'll agree, too—it's wise to drive a Chevrolet first before buying any new low-priced car!

Stomach Ache DIARRHOEA

One of the greatest discoveries for stomach and bowel troubles is Nerviline, a remedy whose fame extends far and wide. Ten or fifteen drops of Nerviline taken internally with water is an instant relief to cramps and colic—stops the pain immediately. Nerviline possesses a marvellous influence over pain, especially pain that is caused by some disarrangement of the stomach and bowels.

NOTHING TO COMPARE WITH BUCKLEY'S FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

G. Billings of Colonsay, Sask., ought to know, for he has taken BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE for years. He writes: "There is nothing on the market to equal it. Its flash-like action is a sudden death to a cold."

No matter how stubborn or long-standing your cough or cold may be, try BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE. You will be amazed at the instant relief it affords. The very first sip relieves the cough, and in no time at all clears up the deep-seated congestion soothes and heals the tender, inflamed membranes and fortifies them against future attacks.

Buckley's acts like a flash—A single sip proves it.

THE NEW TRADE

How real is the new achievement of exchange of trade between Wales and the Belleville district? Can be realized by study of a letter from the head of a British colliery company who has been in negotiations with Mr. W. E. Schuster, the founder and organizer of the Central Ontario Commerce Crusaders. Reading between the lines and knowing what has already been done in the way of shipments to and from Britain, producers of farm products in this section, can realize the opportunity which has been worked up for them. All that is needed is their co-operation to bring about that exchange of produce which will be a great boon, not only to this section and Central Ontario but also to the entire province.

The letter from the British colliery representative says in part:

"We have sent you papers displaying articles in reference to reciprocity deal which we are now negotiating to bring Belleville produce to Swansea, and ship from Swansea, anthracite to Belleville.

"We do not know at all this side what is the best way of handling the coal end of the business, and have paid more attention to the reception here of the produce. The writer may probably be in Canada early in February when all these matters pertaining to the deal can be fully discussed and a basis for handling goods arrived at.

"We received from you press cuttings showing the tremendous amount of work which you have put into the scheme of opening up Belleville for direct trade with us. We feel sure that if cargoes of anthracite out and produce home can be arranged on the freight basis for the round voyage, it should give an advantage to the producer of farm produce in Belleville and the anthracite in Swansea.

"We have just recently concluded a deal with the Nova Scotian Government on the same lines, that is anthracite out and Pit Props home.

"We hope co-operation between Belleville and Swansea will show satisfactory results to all concerned and we are just endeavoring to get our fullest co-operation. The crux of the whole matter appears to be how the wholesale produce merchants will work with the proposal of direct shipments in what quantities they can handle the goods. We note that your idea is that about 25,000 tons of anthracite could be shipped to Belleville and district in 1934, provided suitable steamships could be obtained for this trade."

Mr. W. E. Schuster realizing what is being accomplished can see no reason why there cannot be developed a trade in pit props for the British mines and ventures the prediction that the north country will shortly become active in this new activity in lumbering.

The Mail and Empire has done much to create interest in the immense possibilities of the British market in trade for various districts in Canada. It has been upholding the idea of the Commerce Crusaders, no later than this week noting the considerable success which had been met with in the exchange of Canadian farm and other produce for Welsh coal. It remarks that the Swansea, Wales, Evening Post has recently announced the arrival of the steamer Vardulia with a consignment of Canadian apples, cheese, and canned tomatoes of well known brands and quality, and says: "This shipment is part of a new move for increased trade between Wales and Canada and it will benefit not only the Welsh anthracite industry but also the dockers and even the Welsh tinplate trade." The paper goes on: "As already known Welsh coal exporters are co-operating with the Commerce Crusaders of Belleville, Ontario, in promoting exchange of Canadian farm and other produce for Welsh coal. A beginning was made upon this project nearly a month ago, and it has already brought considerable results."

The Mail hails the announcement by the Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, regarding new service and aids to Canadian exporters of farm products, especially with regard to a special chamber for the handling of Canadian chilled and frozen poultry and meat products as a step in the growth of the greater trade with Britain.

A SPEECH OF HOPE

Better times ahead with business giving evidence of expansion, featured one of the happy notes sounded by the Speech from the Throne at the opening of Parliament. Though the Government recognizes the advent of better days which are already here, the burden of relief occupies a large place and hence the Government has laid out a vast plan of public building.

These words of the speech will inspire a feeling of greater contentment and a feeling of greater freedom by the people who can speed up the happier days of the greater freedom of trade and the flow of money.

The classes which have suffered most from the depression—those without means —will take hope again as they realize what the government is doing in the way of preparing work for them and in encouraging those of means to do their best not to stifle the spirit of recovery by withholding their support.

WINTER EVENING

Cool Evening came like a slender girl —
Across the smoke-white hills,
Bringing her shrifts of bouffant whirl,
Garnered from over the snow-swept world.

She came with her wild hair blowing free;
She slipped like a dream o'er field and tree;
She came on the wind as music comes;
Flew like a bird whose soft wings hum.

So softly, softly did she glide,
With just a slip of star beside.
That now caught all aware
In a filmy mesh of twilight hair!

His real estate holdings are assessed at $4,500,000.00, on which he paid in 1933 a tax estimated at $135,000. this year, on account of an increase in the rate, his tax bill is boosted $16,000—and Mr. Rockfeller gets less for his tax money than any other resident of Westchester County, for he maintains his own fire protection and police department, collects his own garbage, has his own water and sewage systems.

PARENTS AND THE TRAINING OF CHILDREN

Do Mothers or Fathers Train Children Better?

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D. Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Undoubtedly, the love relationship that exists between the child and its parents is the strongest tie that exists.

The love between mother and son is even stronger than that between father and son; while the father-daughter love is more powerful than that between mother and daughter.

At first though these statements may seem far-fetched. Families may come to mind where this rule does not seem to apply. We, although a cursory investigation might lead one to such a conclusion, deeper study and an emotional analysis of the individuals in question would undoubtedly bring to light the preponderating influence which has been exerted by the parent of the opposite sex.

Variations from the average do, however, exist. And in these cases one finds the strongest attachment paramount. Mother love, therefore, everything else may, be considered the most powerful of all loves; and from the child's, by and large, surpasses love for the father or for the husband.

There is a quality of love about the mother concept that is very interesting. It is also enormously idealized. It is ingrained from earliest childhood. It is a soothing, soothing and comforting kind of love. It is love that does not ask reason. Every boy or girl, man or woman, wants love, but wants it without the asking.

It is better, therefore, for the mother to supervise the teaching and training of children, whether or they be male or female? Or is it better for the mother to take charge of the son, and the father the daughter? Or do the opposite sex relationships enter in? Should we thoroughly than go the same sexes?

Questions such as these are certainly important in pedagogics and in the home. The love relationship of children have comparatively little to do with the influence they derive from teachers at school. But in the home this relationship does matter a great deal.

In the youngest years—let us say up to the years of age—mothers are undoubtedly the best caretakers in every case. Women teachers are also best for children of both sexes up to adolescence.

But fathers should take a hand in the home training both of their sons and daughters, and in active co-operation with the mother, up to the fifth or thirteenth year, if not anyway. After that girls should continue to be taught by women in school and should be specially supervised by the mother in the home. Boys should be taught by men in school and specially supervised by the father at home.

But in any case, the mother love influence can always be relied upon when other factors fail. No man or woman ever can lose entirely the mother attachment. Mother love is so deeply rooted that its unconscious thinking is that it amounts practically to an instinct.

A public meeting to discuss the paving of Front Street will be held on the evening of Feb. 6th.

About one hundred spectators witnessed a very dreary and uninteresting game at the arena last night when Bowmanville's fast intermediate team played the locals and were defeated by a score of 11 to 5. Bowmanville has a good team, but they were not in the same class as the Belleville boys who seemed to be able to score whenever they felt like doing so. They played their usual combination game and most of them were inclined to loaf. Belleville team was given considerable trouble and always there back-checking. The Belleville management tried out a new man for the defence, Gow-ler, and he showed up well, being fast and clever on his skates. The following composed the Belleville team: Northwood, Guinter, T. Brant, Dunning, Whalen, L. Brant and Fenton. Dr. Gilmert refereed the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

A curling match was played yesterday afternoon between the rinks in competition for a pair of stones presented by Mrs. A. D. Clarke. Following were the rinks and the results: H. Smart, P. J. McAnderson, E. H. LaRoche, J. V. Deakins, skip, 14. W. H. Ketcheson, Geo. Twining, Wm. Webster, Thos. Thomson, skip 12.

Last evening the Bay City's and the Quinte's played a hotly contested game of hockey on the skating rink. Honors were about even although the Bay City's were much the better team. The Bay City's goal was in danger time and again, but was relieved by the brilliant rushes of Hulme, who played a strong game and Cook did some effective work for the Quinte's at cover point. After about twenty minutes of up and down play, C. Armstrong made a clever rush and scored the first goal. No goals were scored during the rest of the game. For the Quinte's Twining, E. Mc. A. Nash, and R. Weller did effective work on the forward line; Armstrong and H. O. Powell for the Bay City's. The referees were Mr. Fraser, T. W. R. McRae, Jays, gave the game a draw, the time not having been played out. The following composed the teams in the match: Saldiff, G. Hulme, N. Hamilton, C. Armstrong, H. Armstrong, R. Weller, forward; W. A. Brown, Quinte's—Wolliver, Davy, Cook, Wills, Bogart, Twining, and R. Weller.

Dohertys Play Wide Open and Speedy Game to Down Cobourg 5-2 and Keep Pace with Leaders

Best Display of Team This Season And Fans Delighted

P. MORGAN INJURED

Crashed Into Boards But Luckily Not Seriously Hurt

Thrills and spills . . . .
Speed to burn . . . .
Hockey that was hockey . . . .

In the speediest and most wide open hockey game played in the Belleville arena in many moons, the Belleville D.A.C. intermediates kept pace with the group leading Campbellford Maroons by romping home to a 5 to 2 victory over the Cobourg Waverleys in a thrilling hockey game played before over 1,000 excited and cheering fans at the Belleville arena last evening. The ice was in beautiful condition, enabling the players to give the patrons a demonstration long to be remembered.

Although both clubs assumed a rather cautious attitude during the opening of hostilities they soon threw that caution to the winds and played the kind of hockey that thrills the fans and adds to the gate receipts. Incidentally the game was devoid of rough play as the players centred their activities to orthodox hockey, speed and a style of combination that was roundly applauded by those present.

Coach Wilf L'Heureux trotted out the identical same team in their usual positions that has worn the green and white all season. Rube Buskard again won the admiration of the fans in the local nets by his miraculous saves while Jim Ethier led the defencemen with Alex Weir out-shadowing Rigby, who went well defensively but failed to impress on the offence. That front line of "Ghost" Covert flanked by Carl and "Pete" Morgan carried speed to burn and looked much better than the second line of St. Denis flanked by H. Morgan and Jimmie McGuire owing to their experience and fleet-footedness. Covert's smoothness and gracefulness stood out.

McCoubrey Shines.

For the losers McCoubrey in the nets was by far the outstanding player of the night. His supernatural saves undoubtedly saved the Waverleys from a much worse defeat than was registered against them. The front line of Campbell flanked by Ibey and Freeman was much speedier than their second line of forwards with Freeman completely overshadowing his teammates with speed and superb stick-handling. Freeman was one of the outstanding stars of the night. Max Geraldi, the veteran of the Cobourg crew was somewhat obliterated by the excellent work of Staples on the defence, although the ex-Tweed puckster still carries plenty of punch.

Two exciting incidents were experienced, first when the Waverleys loudly protested a goal allowed the Dohertys by Referee Thompson. The goal umpire was removed and a new one substituted despite the fact that the puck was knocked into the cage by goalkeeper McCoubrey himself. The other was the injury sustained by "Pete" Morgan after he had been tripped by Geraldi and crashed headlong into the boards. Pete sustained a slight spinal injury but will be in the line-up on Monday for the return game.

The Play.

Despite the fact that the locals literally carried the play into the Waverleys' area for the first five minutes it was that long before a direct shot was registered on goal with Jim Ethier having the first opportunity. Freeman speeded in to be beaten by Buskard while on the return play Rigby completely missed Pete Morgan's pass out for a sure counter. St. Denis drew a minor penalty but returned to outfoot his opponents and lose his balance when in scoring position. Weir drifted one that hit the post but owing to the terrific speed at which both clubs were travelling they failed to get into proper scoring position in the initial frame.

Covert opened the second period by testing McCoubrey on two pretty individual plays that brought the fans to their feet, both times missing the open net by inches. After five minutes of play Covert and Pete Morgan combined the length of the ice for the prettiest goal of the night only to be followed by an individual effort by Harry Morgan when he weaved through the Waverleys to rifle one past McCoubrey between him and the goal post. The visitors went on a scoring rampage with Freeman and Ibey scoring two goals to knot the count in less than two minutes. Freeman scored on Ibey's pass out while Ibey scored on Geraldi's rebound after Maxie had soloed and tested. The local kid line swung into action and after some little forward passing Harry Morgan whizzed the rubber past McCoubrey on a play that saw McGuire, St. Denis and Harry complete some pretty combination work. Covert was through when Geraldi tripped him to save as the bell sounded.

The final frame saw the visitors entirely on the offensive and plenty of wide open hockey was seen. Ethier opened by testing while Campbell, Ibey and Freeman returned play for play with the locals. After eighteen minutes of real speedy hockey Jimmie McGuire took a well-timed pass from Jim Ethier, coasted in on McCoubrey and made sure of his goal by banging one into the upper corner of the net. One minute later Roy Covert gave the fans the thrill of the night by weaving through the entire Cobourg team and then beating McCoubrey, who he had at his mercy. The goal scored by Harry Morgan on a combination play with McGuire and St. Denis in the second period was loudly protested by the Waverleys. Referee Thompson, who officiated an impartial game, allowed the goal after being assured by the goal umpire it had entered the cage. Goalkeeper McCoubrey having knocked the rubber into the cage while clearing. The goal umpire was subsequently replaced, however.

Belleville — Goal, Buskard; defence, Rigby and Ethier; centre, Covert; wings, Carl and Pete Morgan; subs, St. Denis, H. Morgan, McGuire and Weir.

Cobourg — Goal, McCoubrey; defence, Geraldi and Staples; centre, Campbell; wings, Ibey and Freeman; subs, Gibson, Pearce, Parker and Lonsberry.

PRE-GAME PREDICTIONS

(By the Canadian Press)

Eddie Shore returns to hockey Sunday night. That fact will overshadow all the other four games on the National Hockey League's week-end program and make the meeting of first and last place teams in the United States division the highlight of two nights' battling.

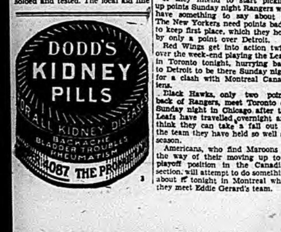
Suspended December 12 after he caused the injury which almost cost "Ace" Bailey, of Toronto Leafs his life, Shore has been out of the game since under the order of Frank Patrick, league managing director.

The Boston defence ace, one of the ranking stars of the game and a crowd-drawing performer, has played less than a month of hockey this season as he was a holdout for several games in November. He now has missed 16 games and been off skates for six weeks.

All eyes will be on the Saskatchewan farmer when he lines up with the Bruins against New York Rangers in Madison Square Garden. The fans wonder whether he can regain his old form, whether the nervous condition that attacked him after the Bailey incident has affected his playing.

His friends say his long holiday in Bermuda has brought Shore back to normal. He has been relieved of anxiety by the fact Bailey is at home on the way to recovery and that his financial future is assured. His play Sunday should provide an answer to the question whether the incident had affected his hockey.

Bruins have won only four games since Shore left their lineup and in the six weeks have picked up only 10 points.



They must improve quickly to make a playoff position in a division that includes Rangers, Detroit and Chicago and will need the best help Shore can give them.

If they intend to start picking up points Sunday night Rangers will have something to say about it. The New Yorkers need points badly to keep first place, which they hold by only a point over Detroit.

Red Wings get into action twice over the week-end playing the Leafs in Toronto tonight, hurrying back to Detroit to be there Sunday night for a clash with Montreal Canadiens.

Black Hawks, only two points back of Rangers, meet Toronto on Sunday night in Chicago after the Leafs have travelled overnight and think they can take a fall out of the team they have held so well all season.

Americans, who find Maroons in the way of their moving up to a playoff position in the Canadian section, will attempt to do something about it tonight in Montreal when they meet Eddie Gerard's team.

B.C.I. CAGERS DOWN PICTON

Juniors Win 28-15 While Seniors Take Pastime 21-16

Coach Geo. Laughlin's B.C.I. & V.S. basketball teams journeyed to Picton last evening and returned home with two victories to their credit when the local seniors downed the Picton C.I. seniors 21 to 16 with the tri-colored kidlets winning by a 28 to 15 score. The dual win gives both local collegiate cage teams undisputed leadership in the Bay of Quinte Group of C.O.S.S.A. basketball, neither squad having lost a game thus far in the group schedule.

Headed by Forster and Tobe the local juniors romped home to a 28-15 win over the Picton kids in a wide-open game, that saw plenty of combination by the locals. Defensively the tri-color went well, however, stopping the Prince Edward squad with the exception of Lockyer, who counted 10 of his team's 15 points. Expert shooting from seemingly impossible angles proved the tower of strength for the Laughlin-coached juniors.

In the senior game Art Cole at centre led the scoring of the night with 8 points. Hilton, Henry and Martin were next in line with Ostrom playing his best defensively. Mallet led the Picton seniors in scoring. Welsh and Hollingsworth followed in line in a game, that saw the tri-color seniors stage a last half rally to win 21 to 16 in a closely contested cage game.

Ewart "Bucky" Cather proved a capable official for both games.

The line-ups—B.C.I. vs V.S. Jrs.—Tobe 8, Langton 4, Forster 9, L'Heureux 5, Schrieder 2, Gold, Blaker, M. L'Heureux, Kikes and Cowain. Picton C.I.—Wannamaker 1, S. Lockyer 2, Lockyer 10, Brown 2, Yarwood, Burley, Kenney and Welsh.

B.C.I. & V.S. Srs — Faukner 2, Martin 4, Cole 8, Ostrom, Hilton 3, Henry 4, Temple and Countryman. Picton C.I. Srs.—Foley 2, Welsh 4, Mallett 6, Palmatier, Hollingsworth 4, Walters and Seeley.

Local collegiate cage teams are scheduled to play in Trenton next Friday, when they can cinch their respective groups by downing the intercollegiate basketeers from along the shores of the Trent with a dual victory.

PROTEST IS NOT ALLOWED

Hemlock Protest Against "Oilmen" is Thrown Out by League

Kingston, Jan. 27—Protest of the Hemlock Dairy team against the decision of the referee in the final City League game with Belleville Cities Service, was considered by the City League executive at their meeting Thursday evening and the decision was made that such a protest could not be considered.

It was pointed out at the meeting that it was a question of disputing the referee's decision, and the O.H.A. rules, under which the City League operates, distinctly say that the referee's decision shall be final and there shall be no appeal" as regards the scoring of goals.

The executive went into all angles of the matter and it was clearly shown that they had no alternative but to live up to the rules under which the league operates.

SENIOR O.H.A. GAMES SMART

By The Canadian Press

The Queen City's two Senior Ontario Hockey Association teams, Torontos and West Toronto Nationals, were bunched in second place today after a night of sparkling hockey. Nationals stepped alongside Torontos when they held Niagara Falls Cataracts to a 1-1 deadlock in Toronto last night while Hamilton were scraping out a close 3-2 victory over Torontos in the ambitious city.

Fast skating and smart stick-handling featured the Toronto battle with the two goalers performing brilliantly. Only three penalties marred the hectic struggle, the midget Large of Nationals receiving two of them. Nationals questioned Falls' tying goal four seconds from the end of the third period, claiming an offside but referee Johnny Mitchell allowed the counter on the grounds it had bounced from goaler Stein's chest before being batted into the net.

Wide-open hockey appeared when Hamilton Tigers clashed with Torontos. Winger Shill scored for Torontos on a solo two minutes from the opening whistle. Tigers tossed in two counters in the middle frame with Conich scoring on a pass from Farrell and Blake obtaining a counter, assisted by Bennett, the scoring coming in less than a minute.

Torotos threatened to deadlock the issue when Grivel combined with Shill to score the visitors second goal and peppered goaler Marsh on a series of attacks. Bennett made victory certain for Tigers, however, when he took Blake's pass to toss the winning counter behind goaler Drunan.

Campbellford Maroons Topple Trenton 6-3 to Lead in Group

Ferris Coached Team Had Too Much Experience For Trenton

Trenton, Jan. 27. — (Special)— Campbellford Maroons still hold the top rung of the local Intermediate O.H.A. group, when they defeated the local sextette 6-3 last night, in the Hydro town in their last scheduled fixture.

A perfect sheet of ice and a good crowd witnessed the game, which was fast throughout.

The Ferris-coached lads had a little too much experience than our re-arranged team. Ken Chambers graced the forward line after having spent several years in the net, while Bun Lott, of the Junior squad, was also used, Gord Bowen having severed his connections with the local club to take a place on the side lines.

Joe Gould in the local net was the outstanding star of the game. Fred Ingram and "Buster" Whitton looked the best for the Maroons each getting a pair of counters. Every Trenton player gave all he had and many a scar is being sported today. George Rosenplot netted two of our goals with Bill Miller getting the other, his first since the Campbellford game last year.

We just haven't got "that certain sumthin' " around the nets. Norm Johnson played his best game of the season and was a threat every minute he was on the ice. Roy Smith was giving out the bumps and getting in on his rushes but could not get one by Morton.

First Period

Johnson, Powers and Rosenplot combined from the face off to swoop down through the Maroons and Rosenplot beat Morton on a pass from Johnson just ten seconds after the opening bell. The northerners then put on the pressure and gave Joe Gould the most work for a few minutes, that he ever was called on to do, and they didn't score. Bill Miller put us two up, when he took a loose puck at his own blue line, and let it sail from the other blue line, as Fred Ingram closed in on him, to make the second one. Ken Davis started his team off when he beat Joe on a pass from McKay. Later McKay draw a penalty for slashing Rosenplot and he was still cooling off as the period closed 2-1 for Trenton.

Campbellford Go Ahead

The league leaders bore down on the opening with each man testing Gould. Every time the puck was cleared it came right back and finally Whitton evened the count. Fred Ingram had his shot workin' like a gun and was continually drilling them at Gould from all angles

Rosenplot Nets His Second

Bun Lott took the puck from his own net down to the opposing defence and left a trail of three Maroons on the ice. He passed to Rosenplot who drove it in the corner to even matters again.

The fair haired lad, Hendy scored two minutes later after Whitton gave him a pass out from the corner directly in front of the Trenton net. Fred Ingram was sailing in again, when Rosenplot tripped him getting a rest. The Maroons were bearing down heavy, when the period closed but the checking of Utronki, Miller and Chambers kept them from scoring.

The last stanza saw the locals pressing while the Maroons were on the defensive. Rosenplot and McKay started to settle a last season quarrel but Rosy got a trip to think it over by Referee Burtt. Whitton was running in on Gould, when Lott tripped him over to get a penalty and with a man short, Fred Ingram drilled the fifth counter past Gould.

Barney York and Smith both made fine rushes only to fall short on the shots. Norm Johnson was holding sway when he kept the play around Morton but could not get one by. "Vinny" Utronki and Smith combined but Roy missed the net wide open. With every man up and the dying moments of the game at hand, Whitton got a pass to the blue line to race in on Gould who was unprotected and he scored just as the final gong sounded.

We have just one more chance, a long shot at that, all we have to do is take the Doherty A.C. at Belleville and have them take Cobourg again and we will be setting pretty, tied for third position with the Waverley's. Might be done? LaBrash says so.

Trenton—Goal, Gould; defence, York and Smith; centre, Johnson; wings, Powers and Rosenplot; alternates, Utronki, Miller, Lott and Chambers.

Campbellford—Goal, Morton; defence, F. Ingram, and H. Ingram; centre, Davis; wings, Whitton and McKay; alternates, Hendy, Bush, Shannon and McWilliams.

Referee—Ross Burtt, Trenton.

Trenton Cagers Win

Victory—The Trenton High School Seniors trounced the Albert College basketeers last night by a wide margin. The final score being T.H.S. 33: Albert College 6.

The game was clean and fast but the Albert basketeers were lost on the small gymn and repeatedly hit the rafters on long shots. Many nice long shots were made by the local team and although Albert had it over them on combination plays they were unable to get in close enough to make their shots effective. Huffman, Harwitz, Wallace and Taylor played a good game and were in the limelight for the locals with Waring, Driscoll and Bishop standing out on the Albert quintette.

Box score—T.H.S. Huffman 12 points; Hurwitz 8 points; Wallace 4 points; Taylor 9 points. Albert—Waring 2 points; Bishop 2 points; Driscoll 2 points.

T.H.S.—Huffman, Hurwitz, forwards; Taylor, centre; Wallace and Staples, guards; Fox, Johnson, subs.

Albert—Waring and Dunnington, forwards; Bishop, centre; Driscoll, and Day Guards; Summus, sub.

Referee—F. Faulkner, Belleville.

After the game lunch was served with Miss Farley and Helen Kerr as conveners after which a dance was enjoyed, Mr. Geordie Mawson kindly furnishing the music.

Commercial Clubs Allowed to Play in Senior "B" of O.H.A.

Residence Rule May Be Changed From May to Sept. 15

Toronto, Jan. 27 (CP)—Commercial clubs will be allowed to join the Senior Ontario Hockey Association "B" titles next year if the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association approves the recommendation of the O.H.A. executive. The recommendation was made during a meeting of the executive here last night when three amateur stars, Dalton "Nakina" Smith of Sudbury; Harold Ingram of Toronto, and Billy Morrison of Oshawa, were given their playing certificates, effective February 1.

The certificates had been refused the players under the residence rule of the O.H.A.

The executive decided on a special general meeting on or about February 14 to consider the various changes suggested at last night's meeting, including a change in the residence rule from May 15 to Sept. 15.

If given entry, commercial clubs will be permitted to sign two players from outside places under the employment clause with the consent of the clubs the players are leaving. These players would take up their residence Sept. 15 which entail a change in the residence date.

The executive also proposed the junior series be divided into two sections. One for the larger clubs, according to population, location and ice conditions, and the other for the smaller clubs.

There would be two championships series for each section and a playoff. It was considered this step would give any small village or town a chance to win a Junior "B" championship.

RAWDON LOOP IS UNDER WAY

Mount Pleasant And Springbrook Tie While Bethel Wins

Stirling, Jan. 27 (Special) —In the second doubleheader of the Rawdon League Springbrook and Mount Pleasant battled out to a 1-1 tie, while Bethel took Bonarlaw into camp by a score of 8 to 1.

In the Springbrook-Mount Pleasant encounter, Springbrook opened the scoring in the first period when J. Ketcheson went through to tally on Bill Montgomery minding the Mount Pleasant net. The Springbrook nets were seriously threatened by the opposing squad and time and again Armstrong looked as if he might score but the period ended with the count 1-0 for Springbrook.

Springbrook missed several good chances to add to their one goal lead before open net but shot wide. Bailey went right through several times but failed to beat Montgomery. Mount Pleasant also, seemed likely to score but didn't even the count until the last of the period when Harold Hagerman came thru' to beat "Casey" Heath playing a good game in the Springbrook nets.

The third period was scoreless, Mount Pleasant playing four men up in their efforts to take the fixture and although they had the edge on the final play could not beat Heath in goal. Penalties were meted out to Gordon Bailey, Jim Linn and David.

The line-up:

Mount Pleasant—Bill Montgomery, goal; Clifford Holmes and Bill Jeffs, defense; Ira David, centre; Ken. Smith and Chas. Dunkley, wings; subs, Lester Hay, John Coggins, Harold Hagerman, Bert Jeffs, L. White, Herbert Higgs.

Springbrook—"Casey" Heath, goal; Gordon Bailey and Lorne Bateman, defense; Bill Heath, centre; Bill Bateman and Gerald Haslett, wings; subs, Tom McConnell, J. Ketcheson, R. Mason, Jim Linn.

Referee—Earl Wallace.

Bethel took Bonarlaw into camp for an easy win when they came out on the long end of an 8-1 score. From the start Bethel held Bonarlaw at bay with Sam Kirkey opening the scoring in the initial period when he batted in the puck from a scrambled melee of players in front of the Bonarlaw net. This was only the small beginning, Wallace scoring on a pass from Ackers, Leslie Benedict adding the third counter while Wallace once again on an Ackers' combination play beat the goalie, Knocker, for the fourth counter of the initial stanza.

The second period was scoreless and although the Bonarlaw lads tested Warren in the Bethel nets time after time, failed to beat him, the period ending with a 4.0 score.

Ackers opened the scoring in the third frame by scoring on a pass from Wallace. The Bethel co-stars skated right in on the defenseless Knocker who hadn't a chance to make a save. Jack Wellman tallied for Bonarlaw when he went right through the Bethel phalanx, scoring the lone Bonarlaw counter. Wallace of Bethel scored again on a solo play, Jim Kirkey on a lone rush and Wallace once again when he gave the final poke to the puck getting Ackers' rebound shot. The final score stood 8 to 1.

For Bethel, Wallace and Ackers stood head and shoulders above any players on the ice with their goal tender, Walter Warren, deserving plenty of credit. For Bonarlaw, J. Wellman, Cempbell, Campion, Donnelly and Linn were outstanding.

The line up:

Bethel —Walter Warren, goal; Jack Ackers and Earl Wallace, defense; Edwin Warren, centre; Bill Sutherland and Albert Dodwell, wings; subs, Sam Kirkey, Jim Kirkey, Leslie Benedict.

Bonarlaw—Dick Knocker, goal; George and Jack Wellman, defense; Harold Stiles, centre; Clarence Campion and Wilson Campbell, wings; subs, Jim Linn, Cliff McInroy, Reg Donnelly, George Lummiss, E. Grey, M. McKeown.

Referee—Jack Armstrong.

Mr. Robert Bush is seriously ill at his home here suffering from pleuro pneumonia. He is attended by his sister, Nurse Mary Vandervoort with Dr. E. A. Carleton the attending physician.

Miss Lulu Johnston of the Public School staff, accompanied by her father will take up residence in the west side of Mr. W. S. Martin's house on the first of February. Mr. Johnston is arranging for an auction sale of his stock and implements on his farm at Wellman's Corners.

Mrs. Ernest C. McKeel of Campbellford, is vacationing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wallace this week. Mr. McKeel who holds the office of Deputy Reeve of Campbellford, is attending County Council in Cobourg being held this week.

Mrs. W. C. Pitman had her tonsils removed on Wednesday morning at the office of Dr. W. H. Pedley.

Mr. Thos. Montgomery, Sr., has returned home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Price of Bowmanville during the past week.

Mrs. Earl Morrow attended the funeral of her uncle, the late Billa C. Salisbury of the 3rd. concession of Thurlow on Thursday afternoon.

The Chevrolet car owned and operated by Mr. Floyd Armstrong of Stirling left the Marmora highway early Thursday morning due to the icy condition of the roads. The car was taken to the garage for repairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morrow were host and hostess at a family dinner party of seventeen people on Tuesday evening held in honor of Mrs. Will Morrow of Seattle, Washington who spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Morrow. Guests present included Mr. and Mrs. George Morrow and family of Sidney; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morrow and family; Mrs. Mary Morrow; Mr. and Mrs. Reg Coombes and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morrow and family.

Ice cutting is at present the order of the day and residents of Stirling district are getting their ice this year both from the Stirling pond and Oak Lake. Last year all ice had to be taken from Oak Lake but due to the severe winter, the ice in the pond this year has been very good. The cakes are at the present time twenty inches thick.

DAY BY DAY

For the information of any local curlers interested in the art of "sweep'er down lads" we recently received notice of the annual bonspiel to be held in Oshawa on February 6th, 7th and 8th. Three fine trophies have been donated for this outstanding curling event of the season with other minor prizes also being donated. All curlers in the province are invited. Despite the fact, that the local curling rink is not in operation this winter 'tis rumored that a local rink may enter this tournament. Entries close Fri. Feb. 2nd.

* * * * *

Despite the fact we were recently taken to task for stating that there were five franchises held in the Ulster Stadium League we still repeat there are and have been five franchises held in the Ulster Stadium League. One was not utilized last season but, the club officers were active and operated all season. After a stormy session Pat Gannon was elected Vice President of that organization the other night when the application of the Oshawa Dukes was shelved. The Dukes are burning both ends against the middle and have entered into negotiations with the Ulster Stadium, Conboy Park, Western City, Viaduct League and all others they could come into direct contact with relating to the possibilities of a berth for 1934. "By the way where's the West Toronto loop getting off these days?"

* * * * *

It must be granted that the Dukes entertain a desired position insofar as Toronto leagues are concerned as an out-side baseball club would add considerable prestige to Queen City baseball. Despite the fact that all of the Toronto leagues look favorably upon the Oshawa application, none of them have definitely accepted their offer. Why? Your guess is as good as ours but, apparently something is holding up the proceedings as the Dukes have worked feverishly in regard to linking up with the Queen City ballisters.

* * * * *

In regard to that Kingston protest here's the wording pertaining to the play as copied from the C.A.H.A. rule book of 1934— "The referee decides whether or not it is a goal. The goal umpires report to the referees, when they believe a goal has been scored, but the referee has final decision and THERE IS NO APPEAL" (Perfectly plain, we'd suggest)

* * * * *

Let's see what's on the sports horizon for next week—Monday the local intermediates journey to Cobourg, Tuesday the Trenton juniors come to town, Wednesday the Kingston "Y" cage team play an E.O.A.B.A. game at the local Y.M.C.A. versus the Belleville intermediate basketeers. Friday the B.C.I. cage teams invade Trenton H.S. for a twin bill. Some time during the week the Trenton at Belleville intermediate O.H.A. fixture, that was postponed on Jan. 16th will also be played. This evening the Rhodes Aces, an outstanding basketball team from Toronto, meet the two local O.A.B.A. squads at the "Y".

* * * * *

At an impromptu conclave the foundation for the rejuvenation of the old Bay of Quinte Yacht Club was laid last evening, when a very representative gathering convened at the Y.M.C.A. Both old and youthful yachtsmen were on hand. The election of officers was left in abeyance but a slate of pro tem officers was pressed into service to mould together a constitution, and set of by-laws. The future of aquatics seems to have assumed a rejuvenated nature in Belleville. Members of the South End A. C. were on hand to strenuously object to the formation of the new organization and based their convictions on the fact, that they had pioneered the return of sailing to the waters of the Bay of Quinte. It is hoped that all interested in sailing and boating of any description can be brought together on a common level to iron out any difficulties that may have arisen and carry on together towards the uplifting of that ancient and honorable sport of yacht, sloop or punt racing. "United we stand, divided, well time will tell."

* * * * *

While Walter Patterson's charges were downing the speedy Cobourg Waverleys 5 to 2 last evening, the Campbellford Maroons turned it on and beat the Trenton intermediates 6 to 2. The Trentonians led the Maroons 2 to 1 at the end of the initial frame but their lead was apparently short-lived.

* * * * *

"Thrills and spills" would be a suitable title for last night's tilt over at the Arena. The game was undoubtedly the fastest yet played locally this season and saw plenty of combination, that was a treat to witness. McCoubrey in the Cobourg nets surely gave a creditable account of his night's endeavours, while Freeman along the left boards carried speed to burn, Archie Campbell was up to his old tricks and pulled the odd "fast one" on the boys but failed to get his bullet-like shot in operation. Our pick of the visitors was Freeman, he went well both ways.

* * * * *

Something must be said about the locals. Jimmie Ethier surely played his best game this season. His passing of the puck stamped him a true defenceman on the offensive. The way Roy Covert slid around in ghost fashion was increditable. Covert should have notched at least four counters had he borne down. Carl and "Pete" Morgan carried plenty of speed, while the Covert-Pete Morgan goal was perhaps the prettiest of the night. Incidentally the second line is improving rapidly.

* * * * *

Regarding that disputed goal—Referee Thompson did not actually see the puck cross the goal line because McCoubrey was between him and the rubber. Actually what happened—McCoubrey knocked the puck into the cage, with his glove, when he went to clear. Despite the arguments of the Waverleys we saw the rubber about three inches over the goal line. The entire trouble arose due to the fact, that the goal umpire was slightly slow in flashing the red light. As for "Pete" Morgan's injury, he sustained but a slight bruise to his spine and after receiving medical attention left the Arena O. K. The Dohertys now have to beat Cobourg on Monday night to keep pace with the Maroons.

* * * * *

It is some time since a better sheet of ice welcomed the gladiators at the Arena. The ice makers are to be congratulated for their efforts.

At the Yonge St. homestead known as Diskinton, in Ring township, near Newmarket, occupied by the Doane family for more than 125 years Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Doane, with their three daughters and four sons gathered about them, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage. Their son, David, who is farming the old homestead, is of the fifth generation of Doanes to occupy the farm. Mr. Doane is 82 and his wife 76. Mr. Doane is Quaker, Pennsylvania Dutch, United Empire Loyalist, and "a staunch Tory."

Mrs. Charles Doane is the young est daughter of the late Gilbert and Tabitha Purdy Jones, whose ancestors built their s home of logs on the banks of Bay of Quinte, after crossing into Canada, determined to remain loyal and for the unity of the British Empire.

Though few of the descendants remain in that vicinity and the changes of the years, the site of their home is still a favorite holiday spot and known by its original name "Jones Creek" on the Bay of Quinte just west of Deseronto.

Mrs. Doane is a graduate of the Quaker Seminary at Pickering and an enthusiastic leader in her community's welfare, an organizer, president and honorary president for the Womans' Institute in North York. Miss Chalmers from time to time has given through the press in photograph and word many bits of instructive and interesting groupings of the well preserved furnishings in the quaint and artistic old farm house on Yonge street. Mrs. Doane was married from her father's home at 100 Station street, just fifty years ago, when the Mono River was different than it is today. Prior to the acceptance of the Quaker doctrine the ancestors were Anglican in faith.

Mr. and Mrs. Doane are one of the two families now worshipping in the quiet Quaker meeting house near them on Yonge street. Their married daughters and sons are Anglican members.

Mr. Doane's cousins, two of whom were Bishops of the Mother Church in America. The late Bishop Charles Doane was the second Bishop of New Jersey; always had kept the family reunions in Canada.

Mrs. Doane has one sister living at Smithfield, Mrs. Jane Ann Farley also a very enthusiastic Institute worker and attended and addressed the annual area convention held in Bellerville last autumn, at Y.M.C.A.

David L. Jones of Trenton is the youngest brother, and still owns the old homestead in Murray Township.

Mrs. Doane is a member of the North York Historical Society and could not understand why so valuable a land mark as the home of Captain John Waldron Myers had been demolished: it was not only the home of one ancestor, but was the first brick house to be built in Upper Canada. The bricks were brought from Kingston in canoes thirty feet long, paddled by Indians an enviable possession for Belleville; an historical research in the Empire loyalist history reveals.

The many friends who knew Mrs. Doane as "Nettie Jones" join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Doane many years of continued happiness.

Weddings

LEWIS—WARD

A quiet marriage was solemnized at Moodie Cottage, Wednesday at 3 o'clock when Rev. Phillip Lewis, of 573 Princess Avenue, London, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Lewis, and Dolly Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Phillip Ward were united in Holy Matrimony by Rev. A. L. Geen. The witnesses were Silomon Roblin and Velma Loucks. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will reside in London.

MORRISON—CODE

On Friday, Jan. 19th, in St. John's Anglican Church, Smith's Falls, the marriage of Marion Berlye, eldest daughter of Mrs. H. H. Code and the late Mr. Code and Mr. Matthew R. Morrison, Ottawa, younger son of Mr. John Morrison, and the late Mrs. Morrison of Belleville, was solemnized by Rev. H. H. Waterman.

The bride and groom were unattended. Following the wedding dinner at the home of the bride's mother, 76 Cornelia street, the couple left on a short trip. On their return they will reside in Ottawa.

Owing to the serious illness of the bride's uncle the wedding was very quiet.

Both bride and groom are well known in the city, the former being previous to her marriage, a member of the staff of the Ontario School for the Deaf and Mr. Morrison is a graduate of Belleville Collegiate.

LIBRARY CORNER

The story of the Great War from a new angle, that of a newspaper man, is told by Lord Riddell in his volume "Lord Riddell's War Diary, 1914-1918." A prominent member of the Newspaper Proprietors' Association at the outbreak of the War, he gradually became the principal medium for publicity between the Press and the War Office, due to his intimate relations with Lloyd George. In this capacity he represented the British Press at the Peace Conference in 1919 and at all the important allied conferences ever since. He was raised to the peerage as Baron Riddell of Walton Heath in 1920. He is possessed of the qualities of a natural diarist, a zest for living and living things, an insatiable thirst for information, a well developed knowledge of human nature, a delight in recording those little things that impress bigger things on the memory, a sense of humour and a flash of satire. A privileged observer of the Home Front, Lord Riddell met everyone of importance. With them he exchanged views freely on every subject from shells to Shakespeare and the record of these momentous talks is the appeal of the Diary. Dr. George Locke, Chief Librarian of the Toronto Public Library has a recent visit to Belleville, referred to the volume as the publication book of the year (1933") and remarked it ought to be read by at least 100 people in Belleville."

"The Intelligent Man's Review of Europe Today" by G. D. H. Cole and Margaret Cole is a survey of the troublesome affairs of the various countries that comprise the continent of Europe. The authors have presented first, a brief historical outline of Europe from Medieval days, next a review of each of the countries, followed by a discussion of economic conditions and a comparison of the various political systems. The volume concludes with an account of European International relations and of the outlook for the future. "By common consent, while other continents are suffering grievously as Europe from the world-wide depression, it is in Europe that the causes of unrest are to be found and the accustomed course of recovery of life is being most profoundly disturbed," the authors remark in the foreword to their book. It is in this spirit of inquiry their readers a better understanding of the real causes of today's unrest and to create that international understanding without which peace is plainly no issue out of our pres. ent. "Intelligent Man's Review of Europe" by G. D. H. and Margaret Cole have presented such an abundance of food for thought.

Turning from books on war and rumours of war, we may read of men fighting that all-powerful enemy, disease. Paul De Kruif in his book, "Men Against Death" has written of a number of leading figures who discovered new cures and manners of treatment for all types of disease. His writes of Semmelweis, saviour of mothers; Strandberg and his war on Tuberculosis; Evans and death in milk; Milton and acemia; Banting and his discovery of insulin as a cure for diabetes and many others who revolutionized the field of medicine. Their stories of dangerous experiment are as exciting as any adventure tale and often more tragic for a number succumbed to the disease they were fighting. "Men Against Death" is a record of heroic deeds as brave as any warrior's.

Bride Honored by Shower

Thursday evening, January 25th, was the scene of a pretty shower when about 40 relatives and friends assembled to offer felicitations and good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell McLaughlin (nee Pearl Bowerman) at their home at 161 1-2 Front Street.

The room was tastefully decorated in snowbells suggestive of a wedding celebration. The evening activities commenced with euchre, progressive puzzles and checkers. Those winning prizes for euchre were as follows: ladies 1st, Mrs. Wilbert Mount, Cordova; 2nd, Mrs. Bowerman, 3rd, Mrs. M. Connell, Consolation, Mrs. Callaghan; Gents 1st Mr. Campbelle, 2nd. Mr. Frank Wims, 3rd. Mr. O'Connell, Consolation, Mr. O'Connor.

Dainty refreshments were served after which Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Laughlin was called to the centre of the floor and presented with the large baskets of gifts which will be found useful in their new home. The presentation was made with an appropriate speech by Mr. Mount and unwrapping the gifts several surprises was found for the bride and groom which caused much merriment. Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin after opening the parcels each made a graceful speech thanking their friends for the many beautiful and kind thoughts and a cordial invitation was given to all to visit them later.

During the evening Miss Perse Patterson and Mr. Willet Pitman, pupils of Mrs. McLaughlin, gave a dance which was much enjoyed and very much enjoyed.

The relatives and many friends of Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin all join in wishing them many years of prosperous and happy wedded life.

WELLMAN'S S. S. ELECTS OFFICERS

Mr. Carl Clancy Again Appointed School Superintendent

Rawdon, Jan. 27.—Wellman's Sunday School held their annual organization and the following is the 1934 slate of officers and teachers: Superintendent, Carl Clancy (re-elected); assistant, Mr. Chas. Montgomery; secretary, Mrs. Howard Wallace; treasurer, Mrs. Howard Wallace; pianist, Miss Mina Dracup; assistant, Miss Laura Hoover; superintendent of missionary department, Mrs. Wilbert Johnston; temperance department, Mrs. Israel Clancy; superintendent of cradle roll, Mrs. Howard Wallace; Robert Wallace; superintendent of cradle roll, Mrs. Ernest Wallace; teachers, Gertrude Seeley; assistant, Mrs. Paul Sharp; teachers, Mrs. Vance Clancy; assistants, Mrs. Walter Dracup and Mrs. Lloyd Johnston. Collectors are to be chosen later for the girls and boys; librarian, Miss Clarice Adair, Mr. H. V. Hoover; assistants, Mrs. C. U. Clancy and Mr. Charles Moonan; Bible class, Mr. George Heagle; assistant, Mrs. Israel Clancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reid of Ivanhoe spent Monday at the home of their son, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reid.

Rawdon friends were very sorry to hear of the illness of Rev. E. W. Rowland.

Chickenpox is making its rounds and a few of the older people have contracted the disease as well as the kiddies.

Miss Myrtle McKeown is holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Millner, Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scott were dinner guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murney Scott.

Folks here will be sorry to hear of the illness of Mr. James Cranston, popular drover for many years and well known to many Rawdon people.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hoard entertained a number of married couples to tea on Thursday evening.

Several Rawdonites attended the funeral of the late James Conley in Stirling on Monday.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, press secretary of the Rawdon Institute, held an executive meeting in the parlor of Bridge Street United Church on Thursday, January 4th. Despite the very treacherous condition of the roads there were seven ladies in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Hoover shipped a car load of choice apples from Rawdon Station this week.

The side roads are in a mass of slush in the main and many of the Rawdon hills are unsafe for traffic. Before the funeral on Thursday it was necessary to put a wheeling of gravel and sawdust on the hill on Mount Pleasant and around the church yard. Many folks hale sufferred severe falls and a few have almost broken bones. Motorists are finding it difficult to travel as some times they find themselves stranded in the opposite direction. During this winter we have been treated to more ice than we have had for several previous years. Those farmers who have to drive their cattle long distances to water are kept busy making new trails.

Miss Grace Dayman opened Wellman's Y.P.S. on Sunday evening and presided over the devotional service. During the business plans were made to entertain Mount Pleasant Y.P.S. The citizenship convener, Mr. F. Beckett then took charge. Mr. Howard Wallace read the Bible lesson and Mr. Albert Case gave a splendid talk taking as his subjec "Russia". Misses Nina and Luella Dracup delighted with a duet. Miss Lulu Hoover was heard in a novel reading, "The Little Black Sheep" in negro dialect. Mr. Byrril Goldsbelt sang "Home On the Range" with guitar accompaniment. Miss Leatha Hoover gave a very interesting paper on "Turkey". Messrs. Reginald McCie and Albert Case rendered a banjo duet. Miss Grace Dayman recited "Canadian Born". Rev Johnin in a brief address contrasted the previous year with present. Mr. Howard Wallace conducted the "Tree and Sting" contests.

"Dorothy — do stop whining! Awfully sorry, Edith — she's usually so well-behaved. But she's been cross all week."

"Don't scold her, Helen. She wasn't hungry. When my children act this way I've often found they need a laxative. Try Castoria tonight."

"See my happy little girl today, Edith! And she ate the finest lunch you ever saw! Thanks for suggesting Castoria—it's wonderful!"

"Thousands of mothers think so too, Helen. You see, Castoria is made especially for children. You'll find it splendid for stubborn cases of sour stomach. Often laxatives made for grown-ups are so strong that they are actually upsetting—but Castoria is mild and SAFE. It tastes good, too."

ARREST HIT AND RUN DRIVER IN WINDSOR

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 27.—City police arrested Floyd Coleman, 22, of Toronto on charges of theft of Canadian National Railway train here this morning, from Toronto, as the hit and run driver involved in the death of Reynold Reid, 11, in Toronto last night.

On information received from Toronto police who wired that the driver had taken a train to Windsor, the arrest was made.

Police said Coleman admitted he had been driving the truck which killed Reid. He will be taken back to Toronto.

PROVINCIAL GOVT. BONDS

The recent Province of Ontario 4½% bond issue was taken up by investors within a few hours. The Province of Quebec, whose credit is equally good, will probably be in the market any day now with a new issue. Ontario should be heightening its debt promptly, to ensure being filled. We also recommend the bonds of the Western Provinces which can still be purchased to yield over 6% interest.

BETTER DIET AFTER VISIT

Washington, Jan. 27. — Because Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt made a surprise visit to school lunch rooms here, the children's diet in the federal relief funds will have a better balance.

Happy L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, emphatically said today a change would be made quickly. He explained the relief administration was not satisfied with the quality of food served and he would appoint a capable dietician to supervise the spending of relief funds.

Mrs. Roosevelt found children at one school lunching on a bowl of soup and a half sparely spread with peanut butter.

UNITED KINGDOM BACON MARKET

Ottawa, Jan. 27—Imported bacon on the United Kingdom market this week was firm and a further price increase of 6 shillings was registered, says a report received Friday from the Department of Agriculture. Canadians made from 85 to 90 shillings; English, 86 to 102 shillings; Irish, 90 to 104 shillings; Swedish, 78 to 94 shillings; Dutch 87 to 92 shillings and Baltic, 84 to 90 shillings.

Canadian hams also shared in the advance and sold from 90 to 94 shillings.

POLICE COURT

No session of the local police court was held before Magistrate Mikel this morning, as no arrests were made by either local police departments during the past 24 hours.

Chas. Day, Patterson Street, reported the loss of his bicycle to the police department last evening. The youth informed the sergeant that the wheel could have been stolen from Queen Alexandra school while he had been in his class room.

Police are investigating.

Chief Constable Alexander Kidd notified the various hotelmen who sell beer in their respective districts that 1934 license to cut meat. Practically all have complied but previously procured their butcher's license. Those not having the proper license were ordered to procure one at once.

What is thought to be a precedent was set locally this week when not a single major automobile accident was reported to the police. Traffic officer, while motor accidents in the city have been at the minimum of late.

SAVED FROM SCRAP HEAP BY BODY EXPERT

HOW IS THE BODY OF YOUR CAR?—If it requires attention in any way Ross Irwin is the DOCTOR! That you should consult. He knows all about the bodies of cars and he is very expert in putting them in sound condition and proper appearance. He learned the trade of a carriage maker years ago and the knowledge he acquired has been of great service to him in repairing motor car bodies which business he has been engaged in for a considerable time. If the fenders of your car are bent or dinted, the top broken or torn or the doors not in proper working order he can rectify all these defects and turn the car over to you in good condition at a very moderate charge. Run you car into his garage which is situated at 44 Moira Street East, and let him look it over. He will tell you just what he can do with it and if you give him the job you will be well satisfied. Many wrecked cars have been saved from the scrap heap by the excellent work done at Ross Irwin's garage. If necessary he will send for your car—his phone number is 2134.

FACING FACTS THAT FIT THE FUTURE

Many young men and women are concerned as to their future—as well they might be. Hope springs eternal in the human breast, especially with the young, but business conditions during the past five years give the young folks cause to think. With a world seemingly crammed, jammed full of workers, professional and otherwise, with a mass of applications for every situation vacant, the outlook is not altogether encouraging.

Conditions are bound to improve, but the rule of the survival of the fittest still holds good—stronger than ever before. The best positions are won by the most fit, and that is why that group of earnest and thoughtful young people are studying so hard at the Ontario Business College so that their services will be in demand in the business world through sheer force of ability and promise.

BIG EATS AT LITTLE PRICES

REPEAT BUSINESS IS WHAT COUNTS—And this can be obtained only by giving satisfaction in goods, price and service. Satisfied customers help to make new customers and this fact is well known by Chris. Scopis, the proprietor of the Scopis restaurant, and he is guided by it in catering to the large number of people who daily patronize his restaurant. That he succeeds in giving satisfaction is shown by the patronage he receives from many regular daily customers. Good food in large variety, carefully prepared, properly seasoned and cooked, is served in a manner to please the most exacting patrons and the service is prompt and pleasant. The environment, too, is pleasing, for the restaurant is well and attractively furnished and arranged. If you have occasion to eat away from home go to the Scopis restaurant and you will be pleased with the food and the moderate prices charged. In connection with the restaurant there is also a soda fountain and all varieties of soft drinks and ice cream may be obtained.

Tweed Horticultural Society Plans Season's Activities

Belleville Skating Club Program Is Enjoyed

Tweed—The Young People's Society met on Monday evening with an attendance of 40. The increased attendance indicates the increased interest being taken by the young people. The meeting was under the direction of Mr. John Campbell, convener of the Citizenship Department. Lieut. Wood of the Salvation Army delivered a splendid address on "Making Good Citizens" a timely topic and very capably handled by the speaker. A delightful violin solo was contributed by Master John Locke who recently was successful in passing his Primary Violin Examination at the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

The first meeting of the new directorate of Tweed Horticultural Society was held on Monday evening in the Council Chamber, with the President Mr. S. H. Connor in the chair. Several important items of business were transacted. Canvassers, as follows were appointed to solicit memberships in the Society:

Mrs. D. W. Sills—River Street and across the river.—

Mr. O. A. Mekkeljohn—West Victoria.

Mr. S. H. Connor—Eas; Victoria and South Victoria.

Mrs. A. C. Blakely—Colborne St.

Mrs. Tumonni and Mrs. Ryan—Metcalfe St.

Mrs. Richardson—North Victoria Rural District—Mrs. H. Coulter Sulphide—Mrs. Drinkwater.

A committee consisting of the President and Rev. R. R. Nichol-son was appointed to revise the prize list. It was decided to hold the flower show on August 17th. A committee composed of Mrs. Blakely and Mrs. Drinkwater was named to prepare a list of options for members of the Society. The report of the delegate to the Convention will be received shortly after their return and a committee composed of Mrs. Kingston, Mrs. Porritt, Mrs. Arbey and Mrs. Badgley was named to make arrangements for a tea on that occasion.

Dr. W. A. Paul, Rev. R. R. Nicholson and S. H. Connor were named a committee to secure a place in which to hold the meeting. The secretary was instructed to write to both Mr. Clarke and Mr. Hall regarding delivering lectures on topics of interest, to members of the society. The latter will be secured at as early a date this spring as possible. Mr. Clarke will be asked to include Tweed in his itinerary in the fall. As the Society had considerable expenditure with a small deficit and as one of the chief reasons for its existence is for the purpose of making Tweed a more delightful place in which to live, it was decided to appeal to the village Council and to the Parks Board for donations.

Suggestions were made to hold a tulip and iris show in the spring. This matter will be considered more fully at a later meeting.

Skating Club Pleases

The management of Tweed Amusements, Ltd. under its energetic head, Mr. Fred Hindle, is sparing no effort to bring entertainments to the patrons of the rink in addition to the regular skating and hockey programmes. On Wednesday evening they presented to the public the Fancy and Figure Skating Club of Belleville. This club which has been in existence only one year revealed to the people of Tweed in no uncertain terms the beauty and grace with which it is possible to skim over the ice on your blades. The various numbers given by the different members of the club, were executed with the skill and ease of veterans in the art of fancy skating, and richly merited credit on the individual members and the Club as a whole. In this connection special reference should be made of Miss Stan Williams, the most finished skater, and vice-president of the Club, and Mrs. Hardy of the group of some twenty people who gave this demonstration entirely without cost to the management of Tweed Arena.

Mr. Wilbur Jamieson offered to come out to Tweed with one or more other members of his club at any time to assist in the formation of a club here and teach any who desire to learn this fine art of figure and fancy skating.

OBITUARY

LATE JAMES CONLEY

Stirling, Jan. 27 (Special)—The funeral of the late James Conley, whose death occurred on January 23rd, was held from his late residence on Thursday afternoon, January 25th, at 2.30 o'clock. Due to the illness of the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland of St. Paul's United Church, Rev. A. S. McConnell of St. John's Anglican Church was in charge of the service. Pall bearers were Messrs. W. J. Martin, James Lazenby, Henry Tulloch, Henry Bell, Fred N. McKee and Frank Stapley. Interment took place in the Stirling cemetery with Rev. McConnell officiating at the committal service. Floral tributes was a mute testimony of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Surviving are one daughter, Bessie M.; one son, Bertram C.; three sisters, Mrs. Hiram Bey of Belleville; Mrs. Wm. Bowles of Belleville, and Mrs. A. Watson of Aylmer, and two brothers, Jerome of Consecon and Three sister, Mrs. A. G. Benedict of Trenton; Mrs. Chas. Dewey of Springbrook, and Mrs. Roy Sirett of West Virginia possessed him of West Virginia. Two brothers, Alex. and Arthur who were killed in the Great War. Mrs. Cooke kindly nursed Mary McLean predeceased him some years ago.

LATE MRS. CATHERINE IVESON

Stirling, Jan. 27 (Special)—The death occurred at Fielding, Saskatchewan, January 8th of Catherine Iveson. Deceased was born near Stirling on March 17, 1844, and was the eldest daughter of the late John and Lucinda Brooks of Carmel. In 1873 she married George T. Iveson residing with her husband at Glen Ross until 1904 when with their family of three sons they removed to a homestead near Fielding, Saskatchewan. Left to mourn her passing are one daughter, Mrs. C. A. Dyon of Kingston, two sons, George E. of Fielding, Sask., and L. W. of Brandon, a brother, E. W. Brooks, of Carmel; one sister, Mrs. George Winter of Frankford; eleven grandchildren and ten great grandchildren. Her husband predeceased her over a year ago as well as a son, Harold, who died at Brandon in 1908. The late Mr. and Mrs. Iveson were pioneer settlers in the Fielding district.

BRILLIANT CEREMONY AS FEDERAL PARLIAMENT OPENS FIFTH SESSION

The fifth session of Canada's seventeenth parliament opened with characteristic colorful pomp and ceremony. Brilliant costumes, splendid gowns and glowing speeches created an atmosphere of prosperity as Ottawa that seemed in keeping with the optimistic speech from the throne. The layout shows Governor-General, the Earl of Bessborough, taking the salute from the bodyguard as he arrived to officially open the session. Top centre shows the Governor-General and his aide entering the House to make his way to the Senate chamber for the awaited speech from the throne, which he reads as the King's representative in Canada. Lower centre shows the Governor-General's bodyguard, always colorful, but particularly brilliant on "opening" in their gay-colored plumage and uniforms.

LATE MRS. H. HARRIS

Stirling, Jan. 27 (Special)—The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Harris was held at Harris, Saskatchewan on Wednesday, January 3. Deceased, formerly Ada Elizabeth Butler, married Harry Wesley Harris and resided in Stirling. In 1908 they removed to Saskatchewan settling in the Harris district. Three days after his wife's death, Mr. Harris passed away succumbing to the shock of his wife's unexpected death. Harry Wesley Harris was a member of the Stirling Oddfellows' Lodge, as well as of the Masonic order. Surviving are two children, Mrs. Hughes (Ada) of Minneapolis, and Charles L. B. of Hagen, Sask. Both will be interred in Minneapolis.

LOVE'S LOTTERY

by

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

He was stacking toward Florence and apparently he did not hear. His face looked extraordinarily set and English-men she had learned, had the capacity of being beautifully insulated at some moments, and this one was insistent as all moments are.

"Sir Terrill," she said, coldly. "I spoke to you."

"I did not care to hear that answer," he confessed, and he added, as if chiding a child, "Such a silly bitch as; I'm not going to slope with you. It's not a bad connection. I've been told; and if at the Roman theatre you wish to brood over the past and so poison your present, I shall not interrupt your emotional orgy. Ah, well I remember those and how I loved by agonies!"

She had been quite white and he turned to see it. Suddenly he was afraid. "Florence," he said, "Poor, dear child!" he broke out, instantly remorseful. "Florence, is that it as bad as that?"

She nodded, unable to speak; he saw one big tear slip down her cheek. He felt in his pockets for a handkerchief and with it wiped away that tear, she interrupt your emotional orgy.

"No end useful," he admitted; "I've since discovered that a woman only knows how many brals; moved tension when some man has needed of for spin-the-pan—you don't go to for the handkerchief in this States do you? You should, it's good because it's refreshingly sane and simple and now I'm ready to help you with silence, or an alert ear; and then, my child, speak. And you're what? Eighteen, nineteen, twenty-one? Quite the age-old thing of women's ages in these days of universality—but still a very universal message."

"Twenty-one," Cicily answered.

"Ah, you'd better be looking about for a wheel chair!" he advised, and—"How the heart may differ!"

His wiping away her tears, after his calling her "a silly little ass," had levelled her defense; now she laughed, easily, although not quite evenly, at the idea of hunting a wheel chair. As Hilda said, he was amusing.

A moment later and they were strolling up the hill together and toward the Roman theatre, where they settled in the warmish autumnal sunlight to indulge a stretch of quiet. She could be quiet with him.

She turned to look at him. His profile was fine, strong; his lips, even; the lower one not the lip of a Puritan, but far too, from the over. full lip of the sensualist.

"Am I?" he asked her, looking at her with a wide smile, after she had borne her scrutiny for some few seconds.

"Yes, I, do," she admitted.

"I think I'll resent it!" he said slowly. "I've been considering the doing of that to you—then!"

"Terry," she said, "You are a fool!" It was the first time she had called him that, but her heart missed a beat and after it, beat hard. The thing, he decided, was to get her to call him Terry naturally and easily;—from that step (everybody to "dear" and then perhaps, with the working Paris enough, she would some wholly beautiful and world-shaking day for him, be able to "forever" without the pain and still it. He was a lot older, he knew, but he knew, too, that which they had: tastes that were same, music, perhaps, predominating here; a regard for silence; an ability to laugh with and across the same measurements for people and values.

"Frightfully hit," he was, he admitted; he had never dreamed any man could be "bowled over".

CHAPTER 16

Terry's falling in love had been sudden and convinced, and it had happened during his thing day as a guest of Hilda. Cicily that day had been almost incredibly and very sweetly patient with her aunt's attack of conversation, which had been even more severe than most. Miss Hilli had babbled of Florentine history, Paris styles, an attack of heuritis she had suffered in 1917, which had brought in the World War, and the "dear boys who fought to save humanity! And this had taken Miss Hilli to her work at the Red Cross rooms, and a very well connected woman from the South she had met there, who had from a child, suffered from warts—and on.

Cicily had smiled a little at Terry; then her face had softened, and she said to the aunt, "I adore you!" Her eyes sprang to Terry at the same moment, "Laugh at her in my presence, if you dare!"

He had said bluntly, "We all love your aunt, Miss Cicily," and she had believed him, to know he understood the warmth of heart that was beneath the verbal vacuity.

From that day on he had seen much of Cicily to plunge him more deeply in love. He knew there was no one fighting for it, but that was to fight it. He wanted that which he had: flawless sight, an open spirit, dreams of her that made him unsteady; and hopes of making her happy that were more than he had ever been before.

Suddenly as she sat there she sat looking down into the Roman Theatre, "Terry," she said, "tell him all Gretchen." "I kept hoping things would change," she said, after her tale.

"Things," he said slowly, "don't change, dear child. People can, if they will. Unfortunately most of the time, they won't."

"Oh—I know. That is true. I planned to be—so much that he could never understand. A good wife and mother, without, of course being sloppy about it—It helps to talk of this."

"It takes two," he pointed out, "to make a success of that and he didn't make any suffering bearable. It is the thing mortals bear alone that makes madness. The world's peace is an Arctic cabin, don't go cackoo in it."

"Up to this moment," she confessed, "I've been alone in a large cold night."

"Thank you, my dear child," he said humbly, warmly, "for that implied compliment—the highest I have ever had! Any service I can render, I shall render, I promise you—and with all heart."

She slipped her small hand in his to give it a hard squeeze. He heard he did not show that which he felt—that love to him, and with a deft a deep apology for the emotion she had put in him; to feel as was cheating her; because she did not know of it. And as yet—he dared not—he would not—he forgot. "I loved. "Steady now!" he thought to himself, steering on, to himself, the necessary dose of caution.

"Terry," she said, in mystery; telling of her love for him. More than once Terry felt the twist of a knife, as he thought of Hilda, and Cicily could never love me in that way, of course," he told himself, "because I could give her—a sort of contentment, a shelter, perhaps, but not love."

"What are you going to do about it?" he asked her, suddenly, in a morbid survey of the waste behind you? Or—determinedly set out to build something in the new tomorrow?"

She considered that for some time. "I am going to forget," she she vowed suddenly. "I think I can't help but forget him—in time—with the trying as I am to do so!"

"Ah, my dear," he said thought, that a too eager trying to forget is akin to the same order of trying to remember. "My dear," he said—"meet your pain in the open. You can't vanquish a hidden foe. There is absolute truth which I tell you because I want to help you."

"I think you are helping me," she consented slowly.

"Good! Another thing for you, child. Study the shortness of life a bit. Realize that you should fill your hours with a synthetic sweetness if you cannot get the real. Pre—after life—who knows what?

It was all very obvious, she realized, yet, as is always the case with the obvious, it was wholly new.

"One must forgive or forget," he went on; "the coupling of them he is asinine, for one never needs do both. You have decided you cannot forgive—then forget—and—I—you wish any happiness—forget. And for a start, tonight instead of skulking in the shadows of the open, and so running a half risk of catching a case of influenza, why not play dress with me? Your aunt says you used to play the piano. Get busy then. She's been extremely troubled."

"I suppose I've been a frightful pig."

"All suffering youth is porcine," he admitted. "They want to make their agonies a community affair! Jolly generous, you know, if you don't, as you say, 'care what you say!'"

It was true she knew, his accusation, although she had "tried"; she felt the effort unsuccessful.

"I will be good!" she promised, "or I will try to be, and your help, if you'll give it, will help me. Will you help me?"

He did not answer immediately; after a somewhat frantic interval he promised, "Brethren!" in a tone that offered a trifle from the voice that was unutterably his. "All I want—" he thought, "all I'll ever ask of God, or from life—is to help you."

She stood up, drawing her flowing cloak more closely around her. The sun had dropped behind an Other Tuscan hill and the purple-gray shadows were chilling.

And that night, to Miss Ella's tremendous happiness, Cicily sat down before the piano, and Terry leaned upon it, looking at her. "What's that?" he asked casually.

"Sending's 'Silhouette'," she answered.

"No end topping; like it awfully. Can you play anything by your eccentric Ornstein?"

"One thing—I like his things."

"So do I."

"Do you know the 'Rhapsody in Blue'?" he asked in the pause that it. Terry nodded. She played beau, lifting, her hands with that strength and softness of touch that is usually only a man's.

She was, she realized, enjoying the music she had thought she would never again have the heart to make; and Terry was helping her, adroitly, and for a purpose, doing. Later they played duets. Miss Ella sat in a shadowed corner of the great salon, wiping her eyes, which were moist with gratitude, and saying her prayers.

That night had been the week before, and since then the days had been packed with social and musical diversions all made by Terry. They had explored the roads that ran—like ribbons—over and down the hills. They had disagreed about art during a long morning in the Uffizi; they had hunted old church, and at the tomb of Dante they had linger in them as the average tour. let rangy pilgrims.

And now— but seven days after her meeting with Terry in the Roman Theatre and her asking him to help her forget—Cicily turned away from the window that looked toward Fiesole, a cluster of houses, like a place to pray, set upon the crest of a step hill; and she turned away quickly because Terry was waiting for her—Terry, with a party up the sleeve in which he tucked his handkerchief.

"What sort of party?" she had asked with an interest that his skilled touch had revived in her.

"Now, now!" he said in his crisp English voice. "What a question! Once up a time, some fella tells tales to children. Cicily and that is the proper prologue for them) I visited in a house in the States where there were no end of beds and there was forever making themselves rackety and disagreeable by shouting, 'Santa, what's for dessert?' Jove, they rejoiced! Like a couple of empty tins rolling down a stair, you know! I never had any sense of that sort of wonder, I shall—"

"It shall be good, after his excitement, looking down at her, smiling down at her and warming her with his smile—" he thought, "to take you in my arms and to hold you there!"

He said. "That's a no-end ripping hat, child!"

Miss Ella had admired it a moment before; this admiration had called forth a dutiful and dull "Thank you so much dear. Now they said, 'no, dear, you like it, Terry, really?' and with a vibrancy in her voice.

"Oh, no end!" he answered; he stifled a sharply indrawn breath that had roots of passion. He must not shown her—yet. Time—time was needed; a younger man would have beat his palms to bleeding upon the gates of the chill fortress but Terry thought more of her behalf—Patience—and he used it. "Father, her peace was his need.

"You are a dear, Terry, to make so many pleasant plans for me!"

"A dear," when making her happy was all that he wished to be! God or life; the ability to do it; the opportunity to do it!

"One has to do something, you know, he murmured.

"Ripping day—"

"Isn't it, Terry?"

TILLIE THE TOILER

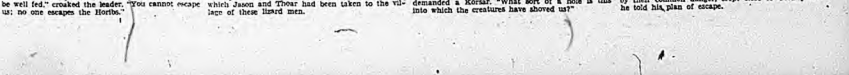
BRINGING UP FATHER



By George McManus

TARZAN AT THE EART H'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan of the Apes was trapped. Surrounded by the armed creatures who had just destroyed the mighty and ferocious Gyor, the ape-man was ordered to lay down his weapons and surrender But he was not inclined to give himself and The Red Flower of Zoram to an unknown fate without putting up a fight. "What do you intend to do with us?" he demanded. "Take you to our village where you will be well fed," croaked the leader. "You cannot escape us; no one escapes the Horibs."

Still the ape-man hesitated. The Red Flower moved closer to his side. "Let us go with them," she whispered. "We cannot escape now; they are too many. Perhaps later we may find our chance." Tarzan nodded. Then he turned to the Horib, saying: "We are ready." Mounted on the necks of Gorobors each in front of a Horib warrior, they were carried across the Gyor Cres into the same gloomy forest through which Jason and Thoar had been taken to the village of these Hard men.

And as Tarzan and Jana were borne along the River of Darkness, hundreds of miles away, Jason Gridley sat upright in the cozy nest of a cave. To his vast surprise, as his eyes became accustomed to the gloom, he saw no! only Thoar there, but the whole of the river. Perhaps we have been dragged into some such place." For a moment he sat in deep thought. "We can't swim out for they would see us, but I have an idea." The men, now made friendly by their common danger, crept close to Gridley as he told his plan of escape.

"Search me!" said Gridley, "Maybe it's like a crocodile's nest. In the world from which I come, they build them in the banks of rivers, above the water line. But the only entrance leads down below the surface of the river. Perhaps we have been dragged into some such place." For a moment he sat in deep thought. "We can't swim out for they would see us, but I have an idea." The men, now made friendly by their common danger, crept close to Gridley as he told his plan of escape.

Mr. G. M. James Describes Scenes During Vacation Tour of the United States

(From Our Special Travelling Representative, MR. G. M. JAMES)

ARTICLE II

Our visit to Detroit on the way south was made very pleasant through the courtesies of a firm with whom we have done much business during the past few years. The manager took us on a sight-seeing tour around the city for the greater part of a day. Among many others we visited the Fisher Building which is over twenty stories in height and contains a theatre and stores on the ground flc r and many business offices above. The building cost sixteen million dollars and is finished throughout in the most beautiful polished marbles. We saw nothing so beautiful or grand in Europe. There are five brothers, who instead of paying income taxes on their vast fortunes, just put this money in buildings which is permissible. We had dinner at the magnificent apartment where the aforesaid manager resides. This building cost six million and it is the most beautiful, dreamlike, human abode we ever entered. The building of course contains many such apartments as we saw.

After all this grandeur we were beginning to feel like real aristocrats but after three delightful days it was time to continue our journey to Florida. So on January 16 we left by bus for Cincinnati, a distance of 274 miles. The highway was perfect, the country (Ohio) was very level, the sun shone cheerfully and there were only slight traces of snow in hollows. We passed through many small towns and a few large cities like Dayton where we buy merchandise. Every place was clean and the homes and stores indicated prosperity quite equal to our own.

The chief crop in Ohio must be corn judging from the corn stalks stacked in almost every other field. We also passed a few oil wells and huge oil tanks. This oil district occurred south of Toledo.

Prominent signs "Lunch-Beer" or "Beer on Tap" may be seen at frequent intervals all along the highways in this country.

In the State of Ohio we saw many large flocks (of about one hundred) of splendid sheep and a few cows, mostly Jersey. One farmer was ploughing.

Our thermometer is beginning to show signs of warming up. At Belleville and Toronto, when we left, the outside temperature showed 30° above, at Detroit there was a cool breeze but it reached 35° and at Cincinnati 40°. Our hotel rooms everywhere are 75° to 80°.

Cincinnati appeared to us to be as large and beautiful as Toronto but we saw it chiefly at night as we arrived there at 7.30 and left the next morning at 8.00. All American cities and towns are beautifully lighted at night; sometimes we were reminded of Paris.

On January 17 we left Cincinnati by bus south for Chattanooga, a distance of 330 miles and this day was destined to bring us more than one big surprise. As we left Cincinnati we crossed the Ohio River by a magnificent bridge which reminded us of the famous Brooklyn Bridge, New York. The moment we crossed that bridge we had left the State of Ohio and entered wonderful old Kentucky. We were on historic ground. The Ohio River constitutes the Mason-Dixie line which divided the North and the South in the American Civil War. Ohio was one of the Northern States which wished to free the slaves and Kentucky was one of the Southern States which wished to retain them and their free labour. Although slavery started the dispute, it was not the chief cause of the war. The Confederates, as the Southerners were called, were so determined to retain their slaves that they decided to break away from the Union and form a Confederacy of their own. Abraham Lincoln fought more desperately to maintain the Union unbroken than to free the slaves although the latter was always very dear to his big kind heart.

For a hundred miles through northern Kentucky the land is gently rolling and our bus was constantly gliding upwards and then downwards giving us the thrill of coasting in winter. Then for another hundred miles through southern Kentucky and northern Tennessee we passed through mountains which for height, romance and grandeur put the famous Trossachs to shame. The splendid highway winds in and out like a serpent, with hair-pin curves, until you reach a height of over a thousand feet, where you can see the landscape for many miles, only to gradually descend and repeat the thrills again and again. Often you look up 500 feet to the right and down as far to the left, and you feel that it would just be too bad if steering gear or brakes failed at that critical moment. You hold your breath but your supreme desire is to be right there. Fortunately traffic was not heavy that day.

White markers with black letters and figures along the road show the State and the number of the highway such as "Kentucky, U. S. 25". Yellow markers with black indications similar to ours show the nature of the road you are approaching such as a curve, cross-road, etc.

Kentucky showed evidences of much corn but also tobacco. We passed many loads of both, some in trucks and some on wagons. All work in Ohio and Kentucky is done by mules.

Kentucky is famous for several things. Those great, towering, lonely mountains have been the source of "Moonshine Whiskey" for ages and the government rarely locates them at which no one would wonder after seeing them. Then there is the blue grass which for some unknown reason refuses to grow elsewhere. This grass has a wider leaf and is excellent food for horses and cattle. As a natural consequence Kentucky raises the finest race horses in the world and we saw many of these slender, graceful animals in the fields. The blue grass like the ocean is not the colour that we would expect. It has a very fresh appearance but is more green than blue, perhaps a bluish-green would describe it better. Last but not least Kentucky gave Lincoln to the American Republic.

Then came the rare treat of the day which afforded much amusement to many passengers. As we entered the small town of Williamstown, Ky., our driver drew in to the curb, stopped but never moved. We began looking around for the cause and finally beheld a little lady leisurely descending some uneven, broken, stone steps that led up to a tiny, shabby cottage. This little lady (about 45) wore a loose outer cloak that touched the ground and a small cloth cap. She carried in one hand a cardboard box that originally contained puffed rice and a satchel like a doctor's handbag but the missing handle was replaced by a common cord. Everything about the little lady including her old clo[illegible] gloves, hat, face, cloak, carton and satchel were frightfully dirty yet she kept that driver and crew waiting with the dignity of the Queen of Sheba who was born to be waited on. At last she was on board. "Late this morning?" as one accustomed to command at the same time take the emergency seat beside the driver as the bus was full. "Only five minutes and it's such a nice morning," replied the kindly indulgent driver. "Nevertheless business is business" came the final rebuke in a tone that knew how to be kind and considerate. Then she sat rigid, looked straight before her but with eyes that saw not as she was planning and thinking for the day before her. This little lady who would not weigh one hundred pounds in her sock feet and pyjamas (if she had them) owned eight hundred acres of the best land in Kentucky about twenty miles out of Williamstown. For many years she had gone to and fro in this way to supervise her big farm with its fine horses and stock. Her carton and satchel would be empty in the morning but would contain eggs, bacon and milk at night. On a rainy day she wore five cloaks, one over the other and would remove them on entering the bus. "Just business" describes Her Highness, dirt and all. If I desired a big magazine story, I would find out just why and how she was launched on such a lonely, loveless life, because everything about her said that she was very, very busy but not truly happy. The writer once wrote to this paper from England that Money with a capital M was the only thing everybody wanted because he was impressed with the large amount of destitution he came in contact with daily. This is true as far as material things go but in the spiritual realm which is much higher Love is craved by every human being and they do not attain their highest and best without it.

We saw many baby lambs learning to walk and the expression on their faces was not any too optimistic.

Some who read these lines will be interested, I am sure, to learn that we passed through Georgetown, Ky., and that it is a very fine, beautiful city.

On this journey we met a distinguished Republican gentleman who had lived in Cincinnati all his life. The following is a synopsis of our conversation:

Q. How is your President getting along?

A. I did not vote for him but like many other Republicans I am pulling for him for all I'm worth.

Q. What commends him to your judgment?

A. His great sincerity, patience, courage and perseverance.

Q. How will he rank with previous Presidents?

A. Undoubtedly the greatest President we have ever had.

Q. Do you understand his gold policy?

A. Not fully, perhaps, but enough to have faith in it. Our country has four billion dollars in gold. By buying a few million more gold at $40 or $50 per ounce we increase in the same ratio the other four billion which cost us only $20 an ounce.

Q. That looks like shrewd business but what will be the effect outside of the United States?

A. It will work out equally helpful to all who are in debt to us. By doubling the value of gold it at the same time reduces the value of the American dollar by one-half. We now accept American money in payment of debts to us so a six million debt to us can be paid by three million American currency.

The writer had similar answers from some of Detroit's leading business men. Is it any wonder that such a wonderful Leader like President Roosevelt is hailed as a superman in such a time of great need by political friends and foes. We may discover more news in this connection soon.

Everyone we meet believes that business is slowly on the upgrade and point to the large increase in the number now travelling like ourselves.

Ever since we entered Kentucky we have heard that melodious, soothing, southern dialect so beautiful and at the same time so unlike any other speech in the world. The people are easy to approach and will hold you in conversation as long as you can stay. They seem to be just plain, simple folk with a cheerful and kind disposition. Of course you meet the negro everywhere engaged in almost every occupation but chiefly in the capacity of servant. We like their manner and service much better than some we met in Europe.

The State of Kentucky is on central time like Chicago so we had to put our watches back an hour. When we reach Florida we will be on Eastern Standard Time again and must then advance our watches.

Tennessee is famous for its beautiful pine trees which cover its thousand hills like a soft green mantle. We passed one large saw-mill deep in the mountains thundering away and surrounded by hundreds of huge piles of lumber. But these numerous hills of Kentucky and Tennessee will never be good for anything but trees and these States should be replanting them on a large scale as we are doing in Ontario. It requires fifty years or more to bring a pine tree to maturity. The homes throughout this great region are widely scattered and are mere shacks. It was in such a home that Lincoln was born in Kentucky and truly it would seem a miracle that a great man known and loved throughout the world should spring from such a source.

Finally we reached our destination, the great, grand city of Chattanooga, amid the full flare of gaily lighted streets for it was early evening. Since we visited Paris we have been inclined to think that it led the world in electric lighting effects but this estimation is gradually changing since we have seen the wonderful cities on this tour for we are now one thousand miles from home. We have visited the post office here and we have agreed that it is one of the finest in the world. It is new and is built of some very hard white stone and covers a block. There are separate wickets for every detail and the immense sorting room, a model of precision and perfection, is fully visible from the corridors. The visitor is impressed by its beauty and perfect arrangement. The fire department had a ryn and it closely resembled our own. You cannot go a block without being accosted by a man out at the elbows and down at the heels: "Pardon me, sir, but could you help me a little, etc.?" We always feel embarrassed because it is impossible to help so many. On several occasions I have mentioned our predicament to representative Americans. "These same people would not work when times were good. They get enough to eat from door to door and then get a dime from you on the street for cigarettes or a show." This is the reply we receive.

Chattanooga resembles Pittsburg in that it is surrounded by hills and is very smoky due to its fifteen hundred industries. When we were in Pittsburg we found that coal dust penetrated into our bedroom and got into everything we had. We find it is just the same here; it is even in our hair. The stores are large and up-to-date and quite equal to those in Toronto or Montreal. All wearing apparel is at least twenty per cent. cheaper.

Across the street from our hotel is a "National Re-employment Office" and before it stand about fifty men waiting for the call to work. We often saw this sight in Europe. Just think, a man wants to work and is able to work but there is nothing for him to do.

The writer went into a barber shop at Chattanooga, Tenn., to get a hair cut and while that operation was in progress by a white man, a negro was polishing his dusty shoes. This shop had eight chairs and on the looking glass before each chair hung a framed certificate, "Board of Barber Examiners, etc. Thomas Graham, Registered Barber" or some other name.

"Must every barber in this State have such a licence?" I inquired. "Yes," was the reply, "it is a protection in health and other particulars to the public."

I then explained that Ontario was falling in line too.

At 8:30 in the morning, January 19, 1934, we leave Chattanooga for Jacksonville, Florida, and will write again when we get settled as we intend to remain there a week or ten days before proceding farther south.

LIBRARY BOARD SHOWS BALANCE

Ten Thousand Volumes in Circulation During 1934

Marmora, Jan. 27—The annual meeting of the Marmora Public Library Association was held in the library on Monday evening with Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth presiding.

The financial statement presented by Mrs. F. N. Marett showed that a satisfactory year closed with a balance of $137.00. The association had a membership of 103. The total circulation of books during 1933 exceeded ten thousand, constituting a record.

Hitherto the library has been open on Tuesday and Saturday afternoon and Saturday evenings. It was decided to also keep open on Thursday evenings from 7 until 9 for reading purposes only.

Members of last year's board were re-elected for 1934 as follows: Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth, Messrs. D. E. Bell, H. W. Sabine, E. C. Prentice, Mesdames F. N. Marett and W. T. Bowen and Misses M. Savage and M. Hudgins.

The board re-elected Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth as chairman, and Mrs. F. N. Marrett as secretary-treasurer and re-appointed Miss J. Connor as librarian.

BRITISH ARMS VIEWS SENT TO ENVOYS

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Philadelphia, Jan. 29—(CP)—Jonah, the horse which pulled the waffle wagon, is to be blamed for running away. The wagon caught on fire and promptly rushed to combat the blaze. But no one thought of Jonah as his side got hotter and hotter. Finally they bolted, carrying volunteers down the street on a blazing wagon. A policeman headed the runaway, rescued the firefighters and saved Jonah from pedestrian feedings.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 29—(CP)—All the lads were out in white sweaters and caps for the Multnomah and Portland Hunt Clubs' fox hunt Sunday. They couldn't let the fox get away. He chased so they hag imported a coyote.

The coyote was loosed from a box. The hounds gave chase. The coyote took a drink and went back to his box, the hunters went home.

North Sydney, N.S., Jan. 29—(CP)—Hurriedly established as a supply base, the rugged little fishing village of Sydney Mines is the scene of busy activity today as residents looked to stocks of food and provisions for distressed neighboring communities.

Brantford, Ont., Jan. 29—(CP)—Keeping up the record set last week, when it was in force every day, starting with $7.70 and ending with $8.35 on Friday, the last day the ceiling was set, the day recorded here at $8.58 a 20-cent grain, as compared with $8.25 a year ago today. The premium of 6c delta additional for selects is also being paid.

Stratford, Ont., Jan. 29—(CP)—From now on Canada farmers will have more weed to worry about. Henry Jeffreycraze, with cord-like cord called "witch weed," difficult to eradicate, has made an appearance in the province within the last 12 months according to the Dominion Seed Branch in co-operation with the Provincial Departments investigations are being undertaken in an effort to find its source and a method of eradication.

London, Ont., Jan. 29—(CP)—An irate young hockey fan, disgruntled because he was not found admittance to a game, went to the dressing room and called police. He called them to the river bank, where, he said a child had fallen through the ice. Both firemen and lifeboats police arrived to find the riverbank deserted.

Aylmer, Ont., Jan. 29—(CP)—When the fire whistle, set driving during the week-end, stopped their activities in an effort to find fire gasoline, it was found that Mrs. Ira Newell was dead. She had succumbed to a heart attack.

Saint John, N.B., Jan. 29—(AP)—A freakish combination of elements struck the C.P.R. Docks of York and injured a number of her crew, when a fire, for days out of Greenock bound for Saint John, it was learned when the ferry docked on Tuesday. A hurricane broke out over the liner on Tuesday morning and tossed her about for the greater part of the day. The crew encompassed, members of the crew said, by three huge waves which completely swept the vessel.

Washington, Jan. 29—(AP)—Several members of the Roosevelt Cabinet were reported today by the Washington Post to be discussing the sudden charging by unidentified persons of about a dozen vessels to long ministries in Chile for delivery to unnamed ports. The nitrates were presumably bound, however, the paper said, for Russia and Japan.

Judge J. F. Wills Dies Ill for Some Time but Seriously Only 3 Days

Hastings Junior Judge Passes Peacefully Away

NOTABLE CAREER

Record in Board of Education, Council, at Bar And on Bench

Thus (Monday) morning at 6:30 o'clock, Belleville lost one of its leading citizens and one of its widely known residents, when John Franklin Wills, K.C., Junior Judge of the County Court of the County of Hastings and Judge of the Surrogate Court, passed quietly away at his late residence, 38 Queen street. The Judge for many months has been in precarious health and Friday last a more serious condition developed to which he succumbed early this morning. Judge Wills was a native of Belleville, but his passing will not only be sincerely regretted by his hosts of friends here but by friends throughout the County, Province and Dominion, widely known his diversified interests brought him in contact with a host of outstanding personages throughout Canada. The sympathy of all goes to those bereaved in his death.

Native of City.

Born in Belleville, the son of the late Thomas Wills, Treasurer of the County of Hastings and the late Anna Maria (Levescomb) Wills, John Franklin Wills had been a resident of this city all his life. Following his education in the schools of Belleville he was articled to study law with the late Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, the late George D. Dixon and the late Hon. R. M. Wills, and following his course at Osgoode Hall started the practice of law in Belleville with a branch office in Tweed. In 1908 he was made King's Counsel and on the retirement of the late Judge E. B. Fraleck was elevated to the Bench, April 21st, 1916, as Junior Judge of the County Court of the County of Hastings, and Judge of the Surrogate Court. He was created Companion of the Order of Belleville Rotary Club and was a member of the Belleville Public Commission. He always took a leading part and interest in the Belleville Old Boys' Association since their inceptions and was president in 1919 and 1920. He was looking interestingly forward to the Old Boys' Reunion of had always been very much interested in the work of the Belleville General Hospital and his valuable advice and counsel will be missed because she insisted her husband should not. Mrs. Wills is still not returned.

Residents of the district are amazed by the strange actions of the Bow, Jump and Run Indians stands are aware of Mr. Buchanan's body is unburied but they do not desire to handle the body in exact details.

In fact inquiries in-to details of the Indians' strange behaviour have known of this for some time—the Indians were taking the waller out of the canoe, "but as far as I know nothing has been done by the authorities."

Flagship of Byrd Expedition Forced to Leave Moorings from Crumbling Ice

Bay of Whales, Antarctica, Jan. 27 (Delayed)—(via Sackay Radio) (AP)—The flagship of the second Byrd Antarctic expedition is in a race with time today in a search for a firm unbroken dock.

With three days of fair weather and a good mooring place needed to complete the job of unloading supplies, the flagship was driven from its dock early today when great masses of ice crumbled while unloading was in full swing.

Quick action saved both the ship and her crew from possible serious consequences.

But the situation remained critical because the three-day approaching the deadline set for oil consumption in these waters. She must depart by this month soon.

Set back in the work of unloading and transporting the supplies to Little America by this third mishap in the last few days, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd said:

"If the ice keeps going out at this rate, Little America may yet to be at the waters edge. . . . In the whole 20 miles of coast in this bay there is apparently not a single stable place."

NO ACCIDENTS ARE REPORTED IN 2 WEEKS

Drivers Use Every Precaution Slippery Roads

What is considered to be a precedent for all time winter motoring has been established in this district, when not a single major automobile accident has been reported in this district for over a period of two weeks. When queried on the subject Motorcycle Patrol Officer Byers stated this morning that during the past and present sub-zero weather, and especially when icy ruts and snow covered the highways, motorists were much more cautious. There were no accidents reported to him, or perhaps missing part of Belleville over the week end.

This outstanding accomplishment also holds good for the city; no accidents of any size being reported in two weeks. Numerous crack-ups of fenders, etc., were reported, all following sidelong on the part of one or both parties concerned.

HARROWING TRIALS WHEN TRUCK UPSETS

Burlington, Ont., Jan. 29.—(CP)—Thirteen years old, Gordon Hamilton, had a rather harrowing experience early Friday when a truck in which they were closely packed overturned on Toronto-Hamilton Highway 2 miles east of here. Although none in the party were seriously injured all suffered greatly from the cold.

The party had attended a meeting Sunday evening in the Slovak National Club Building, Toronto, and had left about 2 a.m. for their homes when the truck skidded on a few miles further on they ran out of gas. With the mercury registering ten below zero and the party not properly clothed for such weather, the Hamilton-ites were in a very bad way until given a tow by a truck owned by Fred Orvell of Toronto. All went well until the tow chain broke and the truck turned upside down in the ditch.

BODY IN TENT AT HAVELOCK

Widow of John Buchanan, Dead Some Months, Awaits Son

Havelock, Ont., Jan. 29 (CP)—Dead for some months, the body of John Clark Buchanan is still unburied here. It has been packed in a tent in the yard of the Buchanan home, two miles north of this village. His widow keeps close to and under the tent and refused to allow interments to be taken because she insisted her husband should rest there until her son returned.

Residents of the district are amazed by the strange actions of the widow. Jump and Run Indians stands are aware of Mr. Buchanan's body is unburied but they do not desire to handle the body in exact details.

In fact inquiries in-to details of the Indians' strange behaviour have known of this for some time—the Indians were taking the waller out of the canoe, "but as far as I know nothing has been done by the authorities."

DIES IN BED AFTER CRASH

Brampton Man Walked Quarter Mile After Accident

Brampton, Ont., Jan. 29.—(CP)—One man was killed and two injured when a car, driven by Joseph Henderson, Toronto, skidded into a telephone pole beside the icy highway.

Stanley Dychala, 27, of Brampton was hurled through the door of the machine, struck his head on the pavement and suffered a fractured skull which carried fatal a few hours later.

Jennie Gumley, Brampton, another passenger, escaped with a shaking up as the driver held her from being hurled through the door.

Picking himself up from the road in a stunned condition, Dychala told the others he felt all right. He walked a quarter of a mile to his home, washed the blood from his cuts and retired. When called early today he failed to respond and it was found that he had died during the night.

Dr. W. H. Brydon was called and stated death was due to a fracture at the base of the skull. Consultations had set in owing to lack of proper attention, he stated.

WATER IS LET OUT OF CANAL

Hope to Find Body of Child Drowned on Saturday

BRANTFORD Ont., Jan 29—(CP)—The City Engineers Department today was letting the water out of the Brantford Canal at the locks, some three miles from the heart of the city in an effort to locate the body of Leonard Berry, six-year-old son of Jr. and Mrs. Charles A. Berry, 22 Rose Ave., missing since Saturday afternoon.

He was last seen near the Alfred Street bridge over the canal. Wire, weighted with heavy iron pieces, has been stretched across the canal at a point considerably below the bridge, and with the water going down it is felt that this will hold the body should the lad have been drowned, of which there is not the slightest sign. It will be two days to clear the water out of the canal.

New York, Jan. 29 (AP) — Dr. Albert M. Lythgoe, noted Egyptologist who was among those present at the opening of the inner chamber of King Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb in 1922, died today in Boston, officials of the Museum of Art were informed. He was 65 years old.

TIME TO GIVE ARMS VIEWS

British Envoys Abroad to be Informed by Memorandum

London, Jan. 29 (AP)—Sir John Simon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, told the House of Commons today that the government views on disarmament have been embodied in a memorandum sent to British envoys abroad for submission to the government's chief conferees.

He said the government had arrived at a decision that the time has come for it to make known its attitude on disarmament negotiations. These have been carried on through the diplomatic machinery since Germany withdrew from the Disarmament Conference at Geneva.

Accordingly, said Sir John, the British stand will be made public when interested governments have had the opportunity to consider the memorandum, possibly within the next two days.

He also said the government has taken the view that reformation of the League of Nations is necessary to and dependent upon the urgent question of disarmament.

This view, he declared he was glad to say, has been confirmed by Italian and French governments.

P. E. LENNOX LIBERALS WILL PICK CANDIDATE

Picton will be the scene of the nomination convention of Liberals from the various polling sub-divisions in the electoral district of Prince Edward-Lennox on Wednesday afternoon when a candidate will be made of a candidate to contest the riding in the next Provincial election. If it is deemed advisable by the officials, a candidate will also be chosen to represent the Liberal cause in the next Dominion election. The delegates will convene at 1.30 p.m. and following their deliberations, the meeting will be thrown open to the general public at 3.00 o'clock when results will be announced and addresses given.

DEPUTY ATT'Y GENERAL DIES SUDDENLY

Edward Bayly, K. C., is Victim of Heart Attack

CAREER AT BAR

His Widow is Former Miss Florence Campbell of Belleville

Toronto, Jan. 29—(CP)—Edward Bayly, Deputy Attorney General of Ontario, died suddenly at his home here today from a heart attack.

Mr. Bayly's sudden death came as a shock to associates in the Ontario government and other friends. He has served for a number of years under Attorney-General W. H. Price.

Mr. Bayly had recently been identified with the trial of Martin J. Insull, Chicago utilities operator in his fight against extradition.

Born in 1865

Born in London, Ont., Oct. 25 1865, Edward Bayly was the son of William Bayly and Susan J. Bayly, daughter of Hon. John Wilson. He was sent to Trinity College School, Port Hope, for his early education and there, besides showing himself as an outstanding scholar, he took a keen interest in athletics which he pursued long after he had left preparatory school.

From T.C.S. he entered University of Toronto and while there, in conjunction with a heavy course preparing him for the law, he carved out a career for himself, made a name for himself on the campus and in football circles. He was called to the bar in 1890.

Even after he had entered the field of law Mr. Bayly retained his active interest in sports and one year after he had been called to the bar he was half-back, captain of the Toronto Rugby Team. 1892 saw him a member of the crew which won the International Cup for yachting and to the following year he was appointed Secretary of the Toronto Hunt Club. This position he occupied for two years.

Mr. Bayly was elected president of the Canadian Rugby Union in 1898, a post he held for a year.

Mr. Bayly achieved early success in the legal profession. Six years after graduation he was examined for call to the Society of Upper Canada and served in that capacity until 1899. In 1907 he became a solicitor for the Department of the Ontario Attorney General and the following year was made a King's Counsel. He remained as the department's assistant until 1914.

Mr. Bayly was as widely known to barristers practising in the courts as "seniors" and justices' high "to the legal profession.

He was an expert conversationalist and would talk at length on educational matters. There have been few subjects on which he could not be heard, he was a familiar figure about the halls of Parliament Buildings while in office.

Belleville, Mrs. Bayly is a story of Mrs. Minnie Campbell, widow of Mr. Edward Campbell of Belleville.

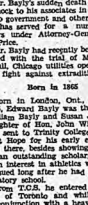
Divers Suits Freeze Up in Vain Attempt to Recover Nuns' Bodies

Waterlooh, N.Y., Jan. 29. — Two Ogdensburg divers, handicapped by freezing temperatures and sub-zero, descended into the icy waters of the Barge canal at Lockport three times this morning in an effort to find the automobile in which four nuns and a driver went to their deaths last night.

The divers, George Fisher and Edward Rouching, reported the valves of their diving suits froze so fast it was impossible to stay in the water more than a minute or two at a time. They found no sign of the car in the first attempts.

Grappling hooks failed to catch the car and the gates to drain the canal were ordered from Albany. The position of the automobile, which tore through a stretch of guard rail yesterday and rolled down an embankment into a twenty feet of water, was located by oil rising to the surface.

The four nuns, all of them members of the faculty of the Augustine Academy at Carthage, left the mother house of the Sisters of St. Joseph here at 4 p.m. on a trip that should have taken less than an hour.



The driver of the automobile was Martin O'Keefe of Carthage.

COLD GALES FAN NUMEROUS FIRES

Two Sleeping Men Burned In Troy, New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(CP)—Cold gales fanned numerous fires today in widely-separated places of the United States. Three persons were burned to death. Many were injured. Damage estimated run to seven figures. The extreme cold felt throughout the north, ravaged fire-fighters.

At Troy, N.Y., the Club House of the veterans of foreign wars burned down, killing two sleeping men, persons in a dormitory of the club.

ARCTIC WINDS LASH EASTERN ONT. SECTION

Gripped in One of The Most Intense Cold Snaps of Winter

QUITE GENERAL

Cold Wave Will Continue Over Tuesday is Forecast

(By the Canadian Press)

Arctic winds, sweeping high over the lower Mackenzie Valley, landed across the eastern section of the Dominion today, steeping Ontario and Quebec in one of the most intense frigid snaps of the current winter.

Early in the week-end the cold wave started its southeast course across the continent hitting Winnipeg at 40 degrees below zero after having a 44 below temperature, the lowest in Canada, at The Pas, Man.

Working east the Arctic wave relied across Western Ontario striking Kenora, coldest spot in Canada, to the tune of 38 below, White River at 32 below and Cochrane at 28 below. As Eastern Ontario felt the advent of the cold surge, the mercury in Ottawa fell to 16 below and nine below in Toronto. Montreal shivered under a temperature of 14 degrees below the zipper.

According to the Meteorological Service Bureau in Toronto, the Atlantic seaboard, now basking in comparatively moderate conditions will be swept by a northwest blizzard today. The wave would continue, it was forecast, throughout the night and well into tomorrow. Probalities were that the weather would continue cold.

In several Ontario points the mercury dropped as much as 50 degrees within a few hours as the cold snap moved in. Peterboro and Owen Sound both recorded 20 below early today, Guelph reported 12 below and Kitchener 10 below. Other centres were Brantford, five below, Niagara Falls and St. Thomas two below.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, Jan. 29. —(CP)— Strong winds and gales have prevailed throughout Eastern Canada and light to moderate snowfalls have occurred in Quebec and Ontario. Fair and very cold weather is forecast today and tomorrow for the Maritime provinces.

Minimum temperatures: Sydney 14, Yarmouth 12, Toronto 9, Kamloops 8 below, Prince Rupert 6 below, Edmonton 4 below, Calgary 2 below, Swift Current 4 below, Prince Albert 20 below, Winnipeg 30 below.

Forecasts:

Maritime—Fair and very cold today and Tuesday.

Quebec and Upper St. Lawrence—Light to moderate winds, decreasing in force on Tuesday; fair and very cold tonight and Tuesday.

Lake Superior — Fresh winds, becoming light; fair and very cold, followed by light snow in west portion.

Manitoba—Partly cloudy and decidedly cold today, followed by rising temperature and light, local snow.

Saskatchewan—Partly cloudy and milder; snowflurries.

Alberta—Partly cloudy and mild.

Why Should London Dictate Precedence? Asks Premier Taschereau

Montreal, Jan. 29 (CP)—There is no reason why London should dictate to Canada in matters pertaining to precedence at important governmental ceremonies," Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec, declared here today.

Premier Taschereau was discussing the incident last week when Lieut.-Governor H. M. Mullins declined to attend the opening of par. liament, allegedly as a result of difficulties over precedence.

FRACTURED ANKLE IN HEAVY FALL

Mrs. (Rev.) Harold S. Neal met with a painful accident, Friday evening last, when she broke her ankle. Mrs. Neal had attended the annual congregational banquet of the Holloway Street United Church; she had gone to the parsonage for some articles and was returning to the church, when the accident occurred. Dr. McCreary reduced the fracture and Mrs. Neal is resting at her home.

TRANSIENTS STAY OFF OPEN ROAD

The sudden cold snap, that visited this community on Sunday apparently kept all transients from the open road as but two weary travellers applied at the local Police Station for a night's lodging on Sunday night. The night previous, Saturday, eleven transients were afforded warm sleeping quarters for the night. Owing to the sub-zero weather, that has been in vogue thus far this winter the number of transients, to register at the local police station for a night's lodging, diminished considerably from previous years. The number harvested at the police station thus far this year is far below the figure of one year ago

FORECASTERS THINK FLOOD WILL COME

Riverside dwellers along the Moira are eyeing the rising of the river somewhat nervously during the past few weeks, while considerable uneasiness prevails as the ice further to the bottom of the river. At the present time, it is pointed out that the ice has thinned down, that only narrow channels between the ice and the river bottom of the river allow the little water now running to trickle through.

"Get the life boats ready," warns an old resident of the city who has been checking up on past performances of the Moira. "There's going to be a real bust up and lots of water when the spring break-up does come."

From the footbridge to the lower bridge at the present time, it is stated, the ice has frozen almost to the bottom of the river, while succeeding thaws flood the top of the present time steadily adding to the

POLICE COURT

Two individual charges of reckless driving laid against Roy Woodcock of Stirling and M. Sharpe of Windsor were dismissed by His Worship Magistrate Mikel in Monday's police court proceedings.

The charges, which were laid by the Highway Traffic Department followed an automobile accident that happened south of Stirling, Jan. 17th last, when the two cars driven by the respective defendants collided. Some little damage was reported at the time and the charges were laid after the case had been thoroughly investigated. Both charges were dismissed.

Monday morning, Court of Sessions Day, Paterson St., that was reported missing on Friday night was found secluded in a clump of bushes on the C. Agnes Manor grounds by the police on Saturday. The bicycle was returned to the original owner none the worse for wear.

Not a single arrest was made by local police or Provincial Police over the week end, activities pertaining rather quiet and serene in and about the city for the past 48 hours. Monday morning's police court was held in the local Master's office, the regular police court of which Mr. Mikel, K.C., local Crown Attorney informed the court of the untimely death of His Honor Judge J. F. Wills, Mr. Donovan suggested, that all county and county officials attend the funeral of the late Judge Wills in a body to which Magistrate Mikel concurred.

SCIENCE AND CHURCH AGREE SAYS RECTOR

Science Progressive as Creation is Never Finished

AT CHRIST CHURCH

Even Evolution Theory May be Abandoned With New Facts

Science is approaching more and more the view of a non-material origin of the universe, said Rev. C. O. Wright at Christ Church on Sunday morning preaching the sermon for Septuagesima Sunday, the third before Lent. The Old Testament lesson of the morning was the first chapter of Genesis.

The rector observed that science is progressive and that what is a hypothesis today is based upon a series of facts, may have to be abandoned in the light of new facts. Even the theory of evolution which may explain most of the facts of life may have to be abandoned if new knowledge appears.

Church, Science Allies

Religion is beginning to recover from the fear (a viewpoint of genes) alons ago which set up science against the church. Mr. Wright used the modern attitude toward Genesis to show how much literal interpretation was disastrous to the church and to the public mind for some generations past. But, he said Genesis is true with its statement that God was the beginning of all Creation.

Genesis is written from a characteristically eastern viewpoint, differing from western viewpoint. The great stories were the method of telling the truth, which is the kernel of the story. Genesis, originally oral, was written, nomad tribes wandering through the desert of great oral tradition-camp-fires, said Mr. Wright, and the story which they told of the beginning of creation is true. Today people have said it is scientifically incorrect, which is not true.

Scientific Hypothesis

"But behind it a story of God as Creator, given with an eastern hunt, as if it were addressed to us, we should tell it with a western hunt, but the kernel is the same," he said.

"Unfortunately the West took the story of Creation in the Genesis and as literal something the eastern story teller did not think of. This led to misinterpretation and conflicted with science and it was not science which was wrong, but literal record was not authentic. Now science itself is changing and with it Science itself is built upon a succession of theories, but what it states is true. Science points to the human mind these theories are taken for facts and we have had the history of evolution. This is probably what happened, but it is not the whole truth of life as we know it. But nevertheless there may come a time when even this theory may be abandoned with the coming of new facts and theories."

Moral Responsibility

With that modern view that the Bible and science conflicted there came a philosophy that there was not moral responsibility, that there surroundings were to blame for their conditions, that the church which has stood the church with the sense of responsibility for sin, Mr. Wright declared by the characteristic philosophy of the day.

There has been a tendency to point to man as all self-sufficient. Man was not the master of his fate, sailles when men trying to settle difficulties left even the memories of the Deity out of the document. Now man says that he can not put aside to solve the troubles of today alone.

But the general outlook of man is self-sufficient. Religion is all but gone. Mankind is not quite so sure of itself as he five years ago.

Jesus, the noted scientist, states that today there is a wide consensus of opinion among scientific men that the stream of knowledge is being traced back to a non-material origin. The universe begins to look more like a giant plot than a great machine. This, said Mr. Wright, is the characteristic eastern world hush containing the story of Creation, and that the church turning to what the church has been emphasizing, that God is back of Creation, and that the church and science are allies in the quest for truth.

Creation Not so Long Ago

The church has learned from science that God's creation is never finished and is a moving reality. Wells said not long ago the creation was the work of ages, science is now beginning to see that the beginning was not so remote as once thought.

The preacher saw a menace today in the paganism built upon a pseudo-science, for paganism is godlessness not heathenism. But, "thank God we have come to the stage where it is not reproducing itself," commented the rector. "There was once a day when if people heard a man was going into the ministry he was laughed at, but that day is past and today the church is claiming some of the best minds of the age.

"It is a wonderful thing that the old antagonism between religion and science has gone. If you want to represent the true spirit of this time you must fasten yourself upon the person of the eternal God in the lives of every one of us."

The thought of God personified in Jesus Christ is the greatest fact in history.

13 BELOW IS POINTREACHED

Biting Cold Attended With Strong North-west Wind

A searing north wind which whipped the city and district throughout the night Sunday and early Monday morning brought one of the coldest days of winter to abhorring residents.

It was freighted with temperatures of 13 degrees below zero, the lowest point recorded early Monday morning following a 24 degree drop in temperatures during the twenty-four hours between eight o'clock Sunday morning and eight o'clock Monday. Both exact registrations were taken from the city pump house recording thermometer and one of the same type at the local Dominion Entomological Laboratory. Highest point for the day Monday was just 5 below.

Despite the sudden and unlooked for plunge of thermometers outside activities in civic departments were hampered but little by the cold. Relief workers employed on Zwick's Island, braving the biting blasts of winter, and the sub-zero temperatures, carried on at the job with the only concession made to the weather being a shift in the hours to the more sheltered sides of the island.

Garages again reaped a harvest of frozen and stalled cars whose motors were powerless to cope with the added demands of the sudden wintry onslaught. Towing cars were busy throughout the late evening Sunday and Monday morning. Parking space in the heated garages was at a premium.

Doctors in the city failed to report any serious frost bitten cases, although nipped fingers and ears on Monday were commonly treated.

SETH PARKER SERVICE HELD AT BRIDGE ST.

Large Congregation Sings Hymns of Gospel Message

PARKER'S FAITH

Dr. Semple Decries Use of Sensationalism in Religion

"I utterly detest sensationalism in religion," declared the Rev. Dr. James Semple at Bridge Street United Church Sunday evening as he opened both services of the meeting which was marked by the singing of hymns sung by Seth Parker and his group over the radio and by a sermon on the subject of Seth Parker and comments upon "the Parker Faith" by Dr. Semple.

One of the largest congregations which Dr. Semple has had the privilege of worshipping in the church last evening. It was at the very opening of the services he warned the congregation that "I am thinking the Church is getting too far away from the people". He told of a large collection taken in Toronto recently and dollars and cents with matches which contains about one hundred worshippers in the city of Toronto. "People are afraid to go into it. Now the Church is the place to go to, to sing old hymns and I hope it will be all interest, abounded the preacher.

Among the hymns sung were: "Rock of Ages", "Nearer My God to Thee", "Throw out the Lifeline"; "Shall we Gather at the River"; "Blest Be the Tie That Binds"; and "Yes", the junior choir sang "There's Four In My Way To Glory"; "Seeking Jesus Is My Neighbour" and a quartette of Mrs. Bert Houston and Bankier, sang "Abide".

Seth Parker (the stage name of Philip Lord), is the son of a minister of the Congregational Church and has found his place in holding a message to humanity in his age as one of the greatest moral forces in the world, according according to a U.S. Senator, said Dr. Semple.

Disciple sat, "Why do so many ministers' sons go, wrong? Not so with Seth Parker, he remained with the minister. But why set up a different standard between minister's sons and others? That will explain the apparent difference." Dr. Semple said the Seth Parker group contained persons, all country-bred, three of whom were ex-choir leaders and one who traced descent from a minister.

They chose their message from real life and stories of real life from Seth's own experience and from tales of the New Englanders. There was the religious background of simplicity so contrasted with the mood of the modern, hurried, worried men of cities.

There is very suspicious of the professing Christian who is not humble and it is unfortunate that the church has stubbornly resisted exploitation. Mr. Parker's work in Jamaica, where help giving to the relief of the needy. He is no meddler, he minds his own business and he is one of the most difficult things in the world to do. Mr. Parker, like the native state regards him as the greatest moral force."

Seth Parker is a young man with a mighty message for humanity, a perusal of his writings and through poverty in New York to find his way to the top. He is also a talented singing school after repeated requests.

Touching on the joyousness of religion, Dr. Semple told how the Parker group Dr. Semple said, "Most of us would be ashamed to acknowledge how little joy we have in life. No one looking at some of us would think we had joy in our religion.

"Unless we have a place for joy in our religion we have not the spirit of Jesus Christ. I want to tell you the joyful Spirit of Christ the world is the Lord Jesus Christ. What did they call Him? A joyful imbiber. What did He think of His disciples and followers? as members of a bridal party. Even the early Christian Church there was happiness. Even in jails they were forced to sing. St. Francis of Assisi was called "the Troubadour of God". Martin Luther, the great spirit of the Reformation, gave a new impetus to music in the German Church and he first thought of the Christmas carol not content with his evil children at Christmastide. The Welsh Revival movement in England if left to the great preacher Whitfield would have not been what it was. He set out to be. The songs of John and Charles Wesley stirred England to new life. There was the great evangelist Moody who sang people into the kingdom of God.

"We have some evangelists today. But most of them, I am afraid, are low in my pulpit. They have not the sanity of Moody.

"Then there is the Salvation Army Band, the idea of General Booth. Then the Welsh revival with their preaching and song, sing-ing and prayer. Dr. Semple told how 15 players of Wales playing in Ireland stood on the corner of the field and sang "The Glory Song" before 30,000 people.

"We have our town and cities filled with religious halls and sects. I have this to say of organized religion. If we had been giving the people what they want we would not have so many halls and so many religious sects."

Dr. Semple told of going into a church where the evangel was preached. A huge organ and two pianos led the vast congregation in joyful singing.

"We have grown too formal in religion. We have scared the people from our churches. We have to be careful. It is by giving too much time and attention to ritual that the liturgical service that we have neglected these."

Seth Parker aims to get better acquainted with the Lord, "is that my object?" asked Dr. Semple. He also aimed to say to the people, "Jesus is My Neighbour". Are we trying to be worse and better than our neighbour or Jesus, Christ is a human Christ. He shares your life and as He shares it He wants you to be your neighbour. This I contend is the religion of Seth Parker."

GOSLEIGH IS WORKERS HEAD

Trenton Organization Now Totals 410 Members

Trenton, Jan. 29 (Special)—The Trenton United Workers, who now has an enrolment of 410 members, held their annual election of officers with the following men to guide the destinies of the unemployed for 1934.

President—Fred Gosleigh.
Vice-President—J. Gregson.
Treasurer—L. Silsson. (acel.)

Car Ditched, Driver Unhurt

Mr. V. H. Finkle, local representative of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. narrowly escaped serious injury on Thursday morning last when his car slipped off the North Trenton road near the C.N.R. subway.

The wreckage, however, could not bring the car back owing to the very slippery condition of the highway but with the assistance of several men who gathered around the car was righted with but slight damage being done.

Lale Mrs. E. Payne
The funeral of the late Mary Campbell, widow of the late Richard Payne, was held from her residence on Ward street Saturday with interment in Lakeview Cemetery, Bancroft.

The late Mrs. Payne was in her 80th. year, at the time of her decease. The deceased was born in Tyendinaga, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Langdon and had resided in Trenton for the past 13 years.

Extended for Last Round-up

The local hockey fans are on edge till after the Doherty A.C.-Cobourg game tonight in the semi-finals, to see if all goes well with Walt. Patterson's D.A.C.'s.

If the Dohertys win then Trenton won't even get the trip to Belleville. On the other hand if the Belleville representatives take the game then Trenton will have to take them on in their arena some day later in the week.

The local Intermediates have lost all their games by a small margin, but if they go over the week-end for a playoff position things will maybe be better. Lately he has not been on their side this year.

The team may be rearranged if they meet Belleville York, Thursday and likely "Sir" Thompson of the Juniors will be the next guard to protect Joe Gould-in the net. The front line of Johnson, Fevens and Rosenplot are all right and the second line may see Roy Smith, sharpshooting defenceman, on the same line with Frank Bohan and Bill Gosleigh with this team get clicking they'll likely be heard from.

Other items are all ready for Eddie Thomas' kids on Tuesday; so we'll be seeing you, anyway.

USUAL GRANTS PASSED BY COUNTY COUNCIL

MANY GRANTS PASSED AT LAST SESSION

School Library Grants : Cut to $75 After Some Discussion

MEET JUNE 12

By-laws Covering The Borrowing For Current Monies Passed

Just previous to the passing of the Bylaw authorizing the borrowing of $229,479.00 for current expenses for the coming year by Hastings County Council on the last day of the January session, Reeve Wm. West of Stirling, addressed the Warden.

"Does the passing of this bylaw mean that we are tied up to the same basis and will be tied up to it after we pay it off?"

Warden Geo. Jordan—"We can't very well change our arrangements with the present bank until we pay them up, Mr. West."

"That's reasonable, Your Honor, but after that what can we do about it. I mean, supposing we wanted to change?" asked the Stirling Reeve.

"Well, we could rescind the bylaw," pointed out Warden Jordan.

"Yes, that's right. Now I'm content Mr. West.

The bylaw as a whole was carried without further discussion.

Grants Passed

Included in the bylaws which were passed at the same time as the above was one which authorized the payments of $50 to the Quinte Seed Fair which will be held this year at Napanee. A membership fee of $25.00 will be paid to the Municipal Association. A grant of $75 each will be paid the School Libraries of Tweed, Frankford and Deseronto High Schools. Other bylaws passed were: A bylaw to provide for expenditures on the system of county Highways in the County of Hastings as approved by order-in-council 1039; a bylaw fixing the salary of the County solicitor; a bylaw to appoint ten members of the County Council on the Board of Management of the House of Refuge and Industrial Farm; a bylaw to appoint a Publicity Committee, and to provide the necessary appropriation to cover expenditures for the year 1934; a bylaw to appoint auditors of the Administration of Justice and certain High School Trustees; a bylaw to appoint a local Authority Commission for the County of Hastings, in accordance with Chapter 73, 19 to 1932; a bylaw to establish the Village of Marmora as a High School district.

In the matter of the grant to the School Libraries mentioned, Reeve J. C. Metcalfe had questioned whether the motion, seconded by Reeve W. H. Sayers, of Tweed village, that a grant of $100 be paid.

In reading the motion Mr. Metcalfe called the attention of councillors to the stated fact of himself that the grant was "a reasonable and just one." "We have no library in the school at Deseronto, and we believe that we should have some support on this," commented the Reeve.

"I supported Mr. Metcalfe for $100 last year," remark 1 Reeve Henry Larkin of Tyendinaga. "This year, however, I think that we should whittle a little off that amount."

Tweed In Same Position

"Tweed is in the same position," pointed out Reeve Sayers. "Our high school is in very bad condition. We feel that we should get more this year."

F. Carr, Dep. Reeve of Rawdon—"Stirling is in just the same condition as Tweed."

Judson Gunter, Reeve of Bancroft Village—"I've just got an inspection, too. We're in the same boat on there . . ."

"You must remember," reminded Mr. Metcalfe, "We have no library of our own. We have to go back in the place."

"Well, my two children going to high school at Stirling have to go to the public library for books," stated Deputy Reeve Phillip Carr, of Rawdon.

"We have a good library at Stirling and we're proud of it, but what are these costing the municipalities? It cost us over $600 a year," stated Reeve West.

Reeve L. E. Neal, Marmora and Lake—"I think that if they run this grant a little—use them all the same —that we could do something."

Reeve Metcalfe—"Our grant to the Deseronto Public Library is $400 a year. That's a lot, and we need some help on this."

"Let's let it over until the June session,' suggested a member in the back.

"Were having such a hard time with both ours that we mightn't have a library in June," retorted Reeve Sayers. "When you look at it right you can see the need of this grant. There are other expenditures this year which perhaps do not seem as necessary as this grant. We have the corn borer and so on, yet when it comes to education, it appears that this is going to be neglected."

Warden Jordan—"The Reeve of Tyendinaga has suggested that they cut this grant in half.) My suggestion is that this grant be left as it is, then we'll cut it in half again."

"Why we cut it in half I have never ever presented it to council," stated Reeve Metcalfe. "We were going to ask for $200."

"I'd like to move an amendment to the bylaw to cut the grant. With My amendment would would cut the grant to $75," declared the Warden.

And I'll immediately move an amendment to the amendment that the sum paid be $75," stated Reeve McCabe.

"I don't know what to think of all this," broke in Reeve Wesley Gray of Thurlow. "It seems that the north is getting all the grants, while down here in the south we haven't a thing. Thurlow seems to be left out.

Seconded by W. H. Sayers, the amendment to the amendment moved by Reeve Metcalfe, that the sum of $75 be paid was carried when put to vote.

"Now, do you want me to tell you something?" questioned Assistant School Inspector for South Hastings, Mr. H. J. Bowen, of Belleville here has a library grant of $400.00 and the city pays a grant of $5,000 a year. It doesn't cost the taxpayers a cent for the use of the books."

"Yes, but where did the city get the money?" was the reasoned asked Reeve Metcalfe.

The bylaw passed by the late Mr. Corby," stated Mr. Clarke.

Next Meet June 12

With the final discussion closed, Reeve L. E. Neal of Wollaston, moved that County Council adjourn until June 5th.

"Oh, that's too early," commented Reeve James Moore, Elzevir. "Let us make it a week later, anyhow."

"What do you say to the 12th of June?" asked Reeve Judson Gunter of Bancroft.

Reeve Gilroy—"I'll change it to the 12th."

Seconded by Reeve James Sprackett of Tudor and Cashel, the motion that County Council resume on June 12th. was carried.

ITALIAN PLANE FOUND BEACHED

Long Overdue And Believed Some of Crew Are Lost

Portalegre, Brazil, Jan. 29 (AP) — The great tri-motored land plane of Commander Francis Lombardi was found destroyed today on the beach 12 miles north of Portalegre. An all-night search had been conducted for the plane in which the commander and three other Italian fliers were long overdue at Natal on a flight from Dakhara. French West Africa.

A Pan-American Airways plane searching for the Italians discovered the great ship, lying in a state of destruction on the beach.

At least part of the crew is believed to be alive.

Portalegra is the capital of the state of Ceara and is situated about 200 miles north of Natal.

The fliers were last heard from at 11:30 o'clock Eastern Standard Time this morning when one of their radio messages was intercepted.

The message was weak and this led many to believe that the plane might have strayed off its course since it was then long overdue in Natal.

It was reported here a few minutes before this message was picked up that a plane had been heard near Portalegra.

UNITED STATES NAVY STARTS BUILDING U P NAVAL STRENGTH

The United States Navy starts building up naval strength as the Naval Treaty expires in 1935, and observers believe that the powers will increase their strength after that date. Meanwhile, the United States has appropriated some $43,000,000 for the navy. The ABOVE layout shows how they are rebuilding. Under the power is to be increased to 70,000 to 92,000 with a reserve in case of war to 112,000. The government has authorized the building of 23 new ships, including an aeroplane carrier, eight heavy cruisers, nine light cruisers, and two submarines. The U.S. navy department is concentrating on making the youth of the land navy conscious and making well-educated young men, hitherto unemployed are turning to the navy.

Indian Reserve Added Territory for Inspection

County Council Again Reappoints Corn Borer Inspector

The Mohawk Indian Reserve in Tyendinaga will be new territory under the jurisdiction of Chas. H. Marvin reappointed Corn Borer Inspector for the County of Hastings for the coming year, under a motion made by Reeve E. C. Metcalfe of Deseronto at the closing session of Hastings County Council. The motion that this new territory be included which was seconded by Reeve J. L. Churcher of Dungannon, was unanimously passed by council, and a copy will be sent the Department of Indian Affairs, at Ottawa.

"There is no use in leaving isolated regions infested with the borer, which are only serving as undiscribed breeding places," pointed out Reeve Metcalfe in moving the resolution. "As I understand it, some of those borer moths can fly for a distance of some fifty miles in new grounds."

"I won't oppose the reappointing of a corn borer this year, but is one necessary?" asked Reeve Gray of Thurlow, when the motion for his reappointment was made. "I understand, that Prince Edward County didn't have one last year, and won't have one this year. Do we really need it?"

Sign on Condition

"The Inspector is very important to this district," replied A. E. Burke, Reeve of Sidney. "If we don't have one we are faced with thousands of dollars loss this coming year from the canning factories. As I understand it, this year the canners are signing contracts with farmers on condition that a borer inspector is appointed."

Prince Edward County had a borer inspector many years before we did in Hastings," stated Deputy Reeve Earl Denyes, of Thurlow. "They've managed to get pretty good control of the borer pest there by releasing parasites throughout the county. These parasites now breed in the corn stubble left standing, and an inspector is not necessarily to make the farmers plow the stubble under."

"The canners may cancel a lot contracts with the farmers throughout this section if we don't have a borer inspector," warned Reeve Metcalfe of Deseronto.

"I think, that Reeve Gray and Reeve Metcalfe's explanations as to why we should have an inspector are sufficient" commanded Reeve J. D. Penfock of Carlow. "I think we need an inspector."

Reeve Metcalfe: "Who does the inspector take orders from?"

"Professor Caesar of the Department of Entomology," stated Reeve Burke.

"I might say, that this year he should be a little more active than he has been. If the borer can be kept down, it will certainly help the farmers. I guess I was one of the first canners in this county and I think it very important, that an inspector be appointed. I'd like to see the Agricultural Department get right after this matter. The borer is making great inroads. He's even changing his habits in the country. It used to be that he wouldn't eat anything except sweet corn, but now he'll tackle any of it. I'd say by all means let's have one."

Reeve Bronson: "It's very essential, that we do have one. There are two applications on the table for the job. One of them is from the former inspector, and the other one is from a Mr. F. J. White. What are we going to do about it?"

On the motion of Reeve Jas. Bronson, seconded by Geo. E. Thompson, Reeve Weadon, Chas. H. Marvin was reappointed for the coming year.

FINISH FIGHT AGAINST NAZIS

Fascist Leader of Hungary Lines up With Chancellor

Vienna, Jan 29—(AP)—The arrested Fascist Movement in Austria by the Government of Chancellor Englebert Dollfuss today in an announced "finish fight" against the Nazis.

Rallied to the cause by Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg, leader of the Heimwehr or Home Guard, members were enjoined:

"Every Heimwehr man to the last man must henceforth immediately avenge every Nazi attack. If Nazi authorities fail to mete out justice take the law into your own hands.

"There is only one law in the Heimwehr—I command and you obey.... My command is that effective leaders of the Heimwehr must go actively into the offensive."

There was little to indicate that Heimwehrmen need less authorities would not "mete out justice," for Vice-Chancellor Emil Fey was quoted to approve the Prince's order.

BLIZZARD IN WEST TAKES HEAVY TOLL

Five Known Dead And Scores Injured by Biting Cold

FIND THREE

Started Out in Storm And Took Wrong Turn in Road

Winnipeg, Jan. 29—Discovery of three bodies in the Waterhen district near Winnipegosis on the western shore of Lake Manitoba today sent the death toll of last week's prairie blizzard to five and left injury to scores in its wake.

Three persons were in hospital fighting for life as a result of the blizzard and consequent cold wave that followed a brief lull in the storm of subzero temperatures that five had narrowly escaped death. Others were recovering from minor frostbites.

Joseph Chatrand, 75, retired rancher; his daughter, Mrs. Fred Marion, 42, and her son by a former marriage, Johnny Liquett, five, were frozen to death in the Waterhen district last week-end, it was learned the bodies of Thomas Andrewski and 14-year-old Alex Jaki were found in the Yorkton district of Saskatchewan.

Lost 24 Hours.

At Humboldt, Sask., George Bauer, 10, was fighting for life after being lost for 24 hours in the blizzard. In Regina, Mrs. John C. Killoch of Lemberg, Sask., was in hospital after lying on a street several hours following the storm, and three lose their legs through amputation because of being severely frozen.

Word from the isolated district of Winnipegosis today told how Chatrand, accompanied by his daughter and her son, set out from their ranch home to visit Archie Marion, son-in-law of Chatrand, with a team of horses. The storm, just starting when they left, broke with fury before the team had made much progress on the four-mile journey. In the blizzard they took the wrong turn on the road and were lost.

Despite his age, Chatrand left Mrs. Marion and her son in the sleigh and started on back track in an attempt to get help.

He never reached the farm house, succumbing to the frost and strong wind with the temperature 25 below zero. He died by the roadside while Mrs. Marion was frozen to death a few yards 'away from the wagon. The body of her five-year-old son was found on the wagon.

Mountain Lynx is Shot in Tennessee

Has Terrorized Community For Past Two Years

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 29 — (AP)—A 50-inch mountain lynx, Biblical Mountain ended in the killing of a large long-legged mountain cat believed to be the "scourge" that terrorized the Hamburg community near South Pittsburg, Tenn.

Four mountain hunters brought the animal here Sunday. Their hunt ended early yesterday when two of the men, Mitchell Ducker and Eli Sloan fired buckshot into the animal as it crouched in a tree on Signal Mountain, about 10 miles from South Pittsburgh.

PREPARE FOR SCHOOL WITH ADVENTURE OVER

Tells Playmates of Ride Across Prairies on Horseback

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 29—(CP) Thirteen-year-old Norman Cass who interested a continent in his daring ride from Willow Bunch, Sask., to Letellier, Man., prepared today to go back to school, his youthful adventure and mercy-dash finished for the time being at least.

Envious playmates paid court to Norman today, as he told them tales of the golden west and of his 500-mile canter across the wide prairie plains. The ride ended, by the way, when he was placed aboard a train after numerous people had tried to obtain his true indentity, for he insisted upon staying to finish his name was Roland Ranville.

CONGRESS OF JEWS OPENED

Louis Rosenburg, Regina, Principal Speaker on Sunday

Toronto, Jan. 29—(CP)—Pacing a crowded day's agenda, delegates to the first Canadian Jewish congress met again today to discuss problems confronting their race.

The congress opened yesterday, with Louis Rosenburg of Regina, the chief speaker, in a much-cheered speech. Mr. Rosenburg declared while it is true that Jews have split as much right to have among themselves simple social ailments as well as other people, we are not in a position to tolerate such luxuries, or luxuries they be." He appealed to Canadian Jewry to put their own social and economical houses in order and thus remove the grounds for anti-Jewish attacks. Too, he said immediate steps must be taken along educational lines to combat a rising tide of anti-semitism in Western Canada.

"Jews are among us, who may be tempted from time to time to violate the line of least resistance for their own profit must have it sharply brought to their attention by the combined weight of Jewish public opinion, that they cannot tolerate such 'diversions', he declared. "We must require from all those Jews who are public honors in our Jewish communities a line of conduct, which will bring deserved respect and honor not only from the Jewish community but from all mankind."

THURLOW FIRST TO GET RELIEF

Reeve Gray Puts 20 Men to Work on Mud Cat Lane

Thurlow is the first of Hastings' townships to take advantage of Federal relief measures for unemployment. Saturday last Mr. Jamieson, Reeve West Ward County Roads Committee turned the first sod with another member of that committee, Reeve Gray of Thurlow, and Sim Fox, road superintendent for Hastings present. This morning 20 men, residents of Thurlow commenced work on Mud Cat Lane in the 7th concession.

Reeve Gray, who was in charge of the welfare of his township to the fore, was the active agency in pushing this matter to a finish, and it was only after he had urged it for weeks that the arrangement was successfully culminated.

Tyendinaga is expected to follow the lead of Thurlow Township in the matter of providing work-relief under the new Federal scheme when it is believed that Sidney Township is preparing to commence work soon on the hand grading of their highways.

NOTICE OF TAX SALES

Municipal officials have often given thought to the regulation in the provincial statutes which compels a municipality selling lands for arrears of taxes to advertise a complete list of these sales in the Ontario Gazette for four weeks and also the publication of the list in certain newspapers published in the county or in adjoining counties for thirteen weeks, or in lieu of bare notice that the list of lands for sale for arrears of taxes has been prepared and published in the Ontario Gazette or may be seen at the office of the treasurer of the municipality.

Now the fact is that the municipality to keep the costs down to a minimum publishes the bare notice locally and those interested in the sale have to look for the Gazette. Where shall they find it? —In certain offices only. It is a safe venture to state that very few persons in Belleville have ever seen a copy of the Ontario Gazette. If they don't see it and do not go to the office of the treasurer how are they to know what lands are for sale for arrears of taxes?

The people of the municipality are the people for whom the list of lands for sale in the municipality ought to be in the most convenient place—the local newspaper which everyone reads or can read, not a publication which goes only to municipal offices, and a few other offices, where the general public never sees them.

It is to the interest of a municipality to have the list of lands as widely known as possible in the town or city or village or township involved. It may be to the interest of some few persons to have it published in a publication that nobody sees except probably one in a thousand, so that there may be few to show an interest in a property and so cause its sale for "a mere song" at an adjourned tax sale.

In the interest of the unfortunate citizens whose lands are to be sold, in the interests of the citizens at large who want every possible interest manifested in the sale so that the amount of taxes involved at least will be recovered, the advertising should be local.

What is the use of publishing in the Ontario Gazette except that the municipality has to? So much money wasted!

Throughout the province there is a strong feeling that the Assessment Act should be amended to allow the municipal councils the right to advertise in the local or county newspapers without recourse to the Ontario Gazette.

Premier Henry who had his attention drawn to this matter personally on several occasions would be given to the question of a change in Act at the opening of the Ontario Legislature, but councils ought to take some stand in urging upon the Government the advisability of making the change. The Ontario Gazette, a Government publication, makes a nice sum out of this form of advertising but when it is doing so little good to the municipality the Government should make the required amendment.

As a Western Ontario newspaper says: "A local newspaper is the only proper medium for such advertising." Surely councils will agree with this attitude and would advertise in local newspapers if they did not have to advertise in the Ontario Gazette.

GIRLS AND WOMEN LEAD

Girls and women outnumber the boys and men of Belleville at the time the last Dominion census was made. The girls and women total 7,124, and the male population 6,666.

Another interesting fact is that the largest groups are those of five to nine years of both males and females. There were one man and four women from ninety-five to ninety-nine when the census was made.

By five year groups the total population of Belleville runs:—0 to 4—1,177; 5 to 9—1381; 10 to 14—1221; 15 to 19—1235; 20 to 24—1184; 25 to 29—995; 30 to 34—989; 35 to 39—1012; 40 to 44—991; 45 to 49—772; 50 to 54—698; 55 to 59—567; 60 to 64—491; 65 to 69—387; 70 to 74—326; 75 to 79—168; 80 to 84—120; 85 to 89—56; 90 to 94—12; 95 to 99—5; 100 and over—0.

In Trenton girls and women outnumber men and boys 5,194 to 5,082.

By the census in Quebec province the proportion of those under twenty years ranges from 39.18 per cent. to 46.76 per cents, whereas in Ontario cities the percentage in this group varies from 32.02 to 36.65 per cent. In the Maritimes the percentage is 38.67 to 46.33 and in the Prairie Provinces it is 35.09 to 38.45. The Pacific province rate is 31.14 to 35.03.

JOURNEY

Loved little gardens,
Where people go
First thing in the morning.
Eager to know
What went on in the night
In each place of delight.

Green-shadowed distances
Brew a trees tryst;
Elm trees holding
Each drapery in place,
And a glimpse near and cool
Where ferns dipped to a pool.

Outlines of hills
By green evergrown—
One tree in a field
Musing alone—
How blest man must be
Who shares a lone tree!

But of all marvels
Each year come back
Are wind-sown gardens
By rail-w.i track—
Flower, bracken and leaf,
In wealth pas belief.

ANOTHER LYNCHING in the South, this one in Kentucky, goes to show that the feeling of the Old South has never died out. The victim of this lynching hit a white man so he got what was coming. The Old South feeling is that the negro should be treated always as a servant and a chattel—treated kindly on that basis, just a shade above the treatment and affection bestowed upon a thoroughbred horse although sometimes less. When a colored person gets uppity in the South some white man is going to bang him down, sure. When a negro assaults or kills a white man, no matter what the provocation, only the negro's life will pay in full for that—but when the man of color lays as much as a hand on a white woman, the feeling of the Old South is that burning at the stake is too good for him. And these white people are as sane as you and I, as kindly as the best of us, ordinarily, and will treat a negro better than northerners will, up to a certain point—and there's the dead line. The South with its Jim Crow cars, its rules which exclude people of color out of hotels and restaurants, and other efforts to meet on the same social plane as the white race, is still the Old South.

x x x x

In Washington the question has been raised in Congress where at least one negro representative sits, shall the House restaurant be for white folks only? The management of the House restaurant refused to serve two negro members recently and laid that down as a rule. Congressman Oscar DePriest, from Chicago, himself a negro, proposed to raise the question on the floor of the House as to whether negro patrons can be excluded from the House restaurant, or any public restaurant. But the Old South, steeped in slavery day legends, living in a past of grandeur, mint juleps and Golly, Massa! servants, will ever be a restraining influence upon the upward climb to social recognition of the colored race.

TELEPHONING CHANGES THE PERSONALITY

Tendency is to be Less Natural When Telephoning

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., F.R.D. Famous Authority on Health and Psychology.

(Copyright 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

If you are at all introspective and analytical you will have observed what a difference it makes whether you are talking to someone face-to-face or over the telephone. Almost certainly does make a difference and in some persons a constant difference which can always be noted.

For instance many people are not as polite over the telephone as when they actually see them. Others but they, I'm afraid, are exceptional—are more polite.

A few become affected in speech and mouth their words when talking over the wire. They pose with their voice. Others, again, talk in a casual, slovenly, off-hand manner as though they were bored to death. By far large, however, the telephone gives rise to

When you do not see the one you are speaking to you don't realize the reactions of what you say, you are placed at an advantage.

Often times you say "I wouldn't like to act such a fool but thru the telephone," and you do. They really realize how much easier it is to be fresh and difficult that way. The telephone undoubtedly cuts embarrassment down to a minimum. This works to the advantage of both sexes, equally.

There are people who find it impossible to say "no" over ordinary relationships but who experience no difficulty whatever when telephoning. Its the absence of visual reactions. When we look another in the eye, not only are we affected by those subtle and intangible reactions which form part of personality, but the other person is also affected by personality stimuli flowing from us to him.

The personality effect is really a combination of the forces constituting personality are thereby grouped out, the telephone personality is bound to be different than the actual one.

We may not always and actually realize it in just these terms, but undoubtedly when we telephone we feel that our personality is changed as well as that of the one we are conversing with.

The whole tendency, therefore, is to be less natural. And often, this is not deliberate and purposeful but simply part and parcel of the condition.

The cutting out of several personality factors accounts likewise for the stress we put upon voice over the telephone. The voice becomes much more important than in ordinary social relationships. The voice sort of makes up for the other personality deficiencies. It is logical that we should say "the voice with the smile wins," should have grown out of telephone usage.

The voice that sounds like a smile is also—like the personality cheerful, happy voice—surely has a better chance of being that than the sad, nasty, irritable or unmusical voice, and that is true at any time under any circumstances. Over the telephone, however, it becomes extraordinarily important. People do well to practice smiling with the voice.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Persons who suffer an attack of acute indigestion after eating are wise if they shift their diet and take only milk and crackers or weak tea. Water may drink in moderation but no liquid should be iced or heated. Only a pint to a quart more milk diet for a day is excellent practice about once a month for everyone, except children and the aged.

Mrs. Snuck's topic, Resolved, Prejudice is the root of all evil, but Mrs. Snuck is the most unpopular member of the club and nobody hesitate to vote for her suggestion because, I don't like to encourage prejudice but I don't think I have anything good yet, Willyum?

Well, pop started to say,and ma said. But after all why shouldn't I stick to my own topic. Resolved the white races and the colored races are all human beans. That's just what I'm going to do, and let the fuss and feathers fall where they may. Thanks for your advice, Willyum, it was just what I needed, she said.

Ask me something else some time, said.

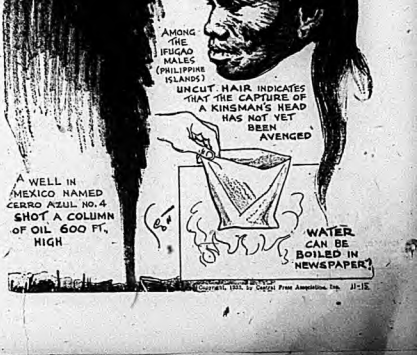
LONDON BROKERS HAPPY AT REAPING RICH PROFIT

With smiles of joy upon their faces, members of the stockbrokers of the London, Curb market make notations of the day's profits after the close of the exchange, following an exciting session during which gold shares soared. The interest in all financial centres of the world, and gold-holders will attempt to unload their gains here in the United States to obtain the high prices offered by that government.

MAYBE THEY'RE STILL DISCUSSING "DER TAG"

The above may bring our thoughts to the dark days of the war when these two, now aged generals, were the most feared-of men by the allies. On the LEFT is Field-Marshal Von Hindenburg, now president of Germany, and on the RIGHT is Field-Marshal von Mackensen. It will be noticed that both are dressed in their new uniforms with no visible sign of Hitler's Nazi emblem. Mackensen is wearing the uniform of the famous "Death Heads", the regiment of the Crown Prince. This was made at the Sports Palace in Berlin, where the two attended the sixty-third celebration of the founding of the German Reich.



CHURCH MEETINGS

St. Thomas Church

The annual vestry meeting of St. Thomas' Church was held yesterday morning at the close of Matins. The Rector, Rev. H. Beauchamp Payne, presided and Mr. Chas. H. Kerr acted as secretary. The financial statement and the reports of all the organizations were considered as being very satisfactory and showed an improvement over the preceding year. An expression of appreciation was given of the excellent manner in which the retiring wardens, Mr. W. O. Adams and Dr. N. E. Edwards had discharged their duties during the five years they held office and votes of thanks were extended to all the organizations for the work done by them during the year. Mr. Geo. A. Germain was appointed to the vacancy as his warden and Major Lionel M. Jones was unanimously elected over the retiring warden, Mr. W. O. Adams. Messrs. G. A. Germain, E. R. Legge, H. C. Thompson, A. E. Facer, Chas. H. Kerr, Dr. M. J. Ponton, Geo. Geen and Ald. Wm. Geen elected to compose the executive council. Messrs. G. A. C. Irvine, A. Hirtz, F. W. Davison, W. O. Adams, N. E. Edwards, F. W. Geen, E. R. Legge, H. C. Thompson, A. E. Facer, Chas. H. Kerr, Dr. M. J. Ponton, Geo. Geen and Ald. Wm. Geen elected. The following were appointed sidesmen: Messrs. B. F. Jennings, T. H. Chalmers, J. G. Reicher, R. Brown, M. Davidson, J. McFee, W. Lindsay, L. C. Patrick, A. B. Quick, W. Bird, Chas. Andrews, Auditors, Messrs. G. A. C. Weir and J. W. Davison.

CANADIAN DAIRY INDUSTRY LAGS FAR BEHIND SISTER DOMINIONS, FIGURES REVEAL

But National Council at Ottawa Points Out Many Obstacles Blocking Progress Made— Conditions Admittedly Poor Throughout The Country

REFORMISTS TAKE ISSUE WITH OTTAWA

By WILFRID EGGLESTON
Central Press Canadian Writer

Ottawa, Jan. 29—The average Canadian cow gives only 161 pounds of butter a year, while her sister in New Zealand averages 448 pounds and her Danish cousin is good for 276. These figures come from the Canadian dairy commissioner and may be accepted as authentic.

In what what's wrong with the dairy industry in this country today?

Some dairy experts say it is; others deny it.

Large factories produce both butter and cheese more cheaply and efficiently than small ones. A survey of Ontario and Quebec cheese plants found some of the large ones making cheese for as little as a cent and a half a pound, while the small wasteful ones took as much as four cents.

Is there some bearing between this and the fact that the average Danish plant is twice the size of the Canadian, New Zealand plants seven times, and the New South Wales no less than 20 times larger than the Canadian? Is this what's wrong with dairying in Canada?

Again the experts disagree.

Something Is Wrong

That something is wrong everyone is sure. One of the dairy farmers giving evidence at the milk inquiry last spring showed that after the average milk producer had met all his fixed charges he had about $25 left to show for a year's work—a miserable wage today!

Realizing that the dairy industry was facing a critical situation, the Canadian section of a Dominion conference of dairy experts to consider conditions and recommend remedies, began to rectify it. A report was drawn up, and a group of representatives appealed to Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce to do something about it.

That was in April, 1932.

What did they do? Mr. Weir and Stevens do?

On these specific points, I cannot discover here at Ottawa that they did very much at all. They did bring in a "stabilization fund" to offset the depreciated British pound, which was costing the dairy exporter a lot of money.

But nothing was done to increase the production of Canadian cows, or to amalgamate the inefficient factories into larger efficient ones.

Why not?

When J. F. Singleton, dairy commissioner, was asked why the department had not brought about these things, he replied in substance was this:

"We started dairy-testing 30 years ago, and we have been educating the dairymen of Canada in that direction ever since. We have no power to coerce farmers into testing if they are not willing. Nor to coerce factories into installing unprofitable boarders.

"Even if our secretarial work we come near treading on other's toes at times. Dairying is a very jealous of their rights and warn us off.

"The same is true of amalgamation of factories. They are privately owned, and of any government has any jurisdiction over them it is the provincial, not the federal."

Mr. Singleton does not believe that New Zealand, in spite of her larger factories, can produce better cheese or butter than Canada. "Our figures are better than theirs by a cent a pound," he declared.

"Exportable Surplus" Lost

As for encouragement: of the farmer to improve his herds and get cows which yield more butter and cheese, Mr. Singleton mentions the "bonus" scheme by which dairymen wishing to obtain a grade cow may get a loan of $30 from the federal government.

Just at this moment, oddly enough, a sudden increase in the efficiency and production of our herds would be disastrous, he claims.

Why? Because we have lost our "exportable surplus" and are on a "domestic basis." Butter is ten cents a pound higher at Montreal than at London, England. Hence we have lost New Zealand, Australia, or United States. "As compared with Montreal quotations around 25 cents, London has been quoting 15. The only thing which saves us from a great wave of foreign butter is our high tariff and our dump provisions.

In a few weeks (whisper it and don't let the customs department know) we may have to import a few pounds.

That means, according to Ottawa authorities, that while Toronto, Jan. 29. — Advocates of sweeping reform in Canadian dairy industry dispute statements and arguments made by J. F. Singleton, dairy commissioner at Ottawa in a dispatch from the capital.

To Mr. Singleton's statement that dairy-testing was started by the government thirty years ago to educate Canadian dairymen, one prominent authority replied that there have been insufficient funds appropriated to carry on this work properly.

The same authority claimed that Canada's dairy industry was international in aspect. Mr. Singleton declared that the matter was provincial, not federal.

"When Mr. Singleton says Canadian figures are better than those of New Zealand by a cent a pound, he does not take into consideration the fact that totally inadequate depreciation is charged against Canadian factories.

Allan C. Fraser, secretary of the National Council, also comes under the fire of the reform advocates.

Mr. Fraser's remark that New Zealand cannot be compared to Canada because of its smallness is met with the argument that Australia has two centres of population in a country the size of the United States and with less the population of Canada.

In an effort to prove that conditions in Canada are deplorable, the reformists produce the following official government figures on comparative production:

Butter.

New Zealand, 1922-1933, an increase of 82 per cent.

Australia, 1922-1933, an increase of 343 per cent.

Canada, 1923-1933, an increase of 33 per cent.

Cheese.

Canada, 1923-1933, decrease of 25 per cent.

New Zealand, 1923-1933, increase of 79 per cent.

Australia, 1923-1933, increase of 61 per cent.

certain limits, we can control for a few weeks at the most prices.

Whereas, if our present herds were producing as much butter as the Danish cows are, the price of butter would be 15 cents instead of 25.

Of course that's no excuse for wasteful and inefficient factories.

"The product of fewer and better cows, processed in fewer and better factories, and distributed with less overlapping and duplication, would place the dairy industry in a better position than that which it now occupies," Such is the opinion of a former president of the National Dairy Council.

Confronted with apparent proof that the Danish and New Zealand dairyman is more efficient, a defense is made by such Ottawa officials as Allan C. Fraser, secretary of the council.

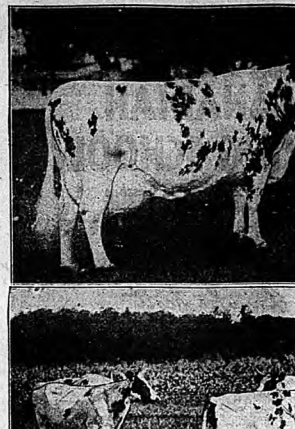
Claims Conditions Differ

"The problem in New Zealand cannot be compared with the problem in Canada," he remarked. "The whole dairy area of the Dominion of New Zealand is less eastern Ontario from Lanark county toward Montreal. The climate is different. They are free of to intensify. The dairying of Ireland is done in fields of two miles and is a sideline with farmers.

"I would not indiscriminately advise cows bred or upgrade stock for the average farm," he added. "A ten-thousand pound a year cow would be degenerate into a four thousand pound a year cow if improperly handled."

W. J. Forster has a suggestion which he believes will help to improve the efficiency of dairy factories. He would amalgamate cheese and butter factories, on a dual operation, for a few months from the first of May until the end of August, and close down the rest of the year. Mr. Forster, who is the president of the National Dairy Council, and an operator of St. Hamilton, believes that this would give factories and farmers alike a "year-round revenue" which would materially lower their production costs.

STATEMENTS WILL BE RENDERED MONTHLY



Administration of Justice Committee in Charge

Statement of accounts from the Committee of the Administration of Justice will be rendered quarterly hereafter Hastings County Council were advised at the closing day of the January session by Reeve J. J. Pennock of Carlow township, appointed on the board for the year.

"These accounts can be rendered to County Council quarterly," stated Reeve Pennock. "It will be quite possible for us to bring in the first one of the year at the June session of this council."

The new appointee drew attention of Councillors to the fact that this was "one of the most important committees pertaining to county business."

CANADA NEED NOT LAG BEHIND WITH HERDS OF CATTLE LIKE THIS

Recent figures from official circles in Ottawa show a surprising increase of Canadian dairy production as compared with her sister dominions, Australia and New Zealand. Officials, it is claimed, much is being done to raise the standard of the dairy industry in Canada, but, advocates of a sweeping reform point out, where the government would effect such changes as would, they claim, place Canada on a par with such dairy producing countries as Australia, New Zealand and Denmark. Above are samples of prize bulls which, reformists claim, would be the result of following their plan of reorganizing the whole structure of the industry by concentrating on large, scientifically operated plants. The figure for all TOP females is 23,254 pounds of milk, 921 pounds of fat, average test 3.96, at the age of ten years The Ayrshire is owned by F. F. Gyllenne of Wetherford, Ont. The fine herd below is that of W. J. Schneider of Waterloo county, Ontario.

FIRE SUSPECT IS PROTECTED

Harold Hunsley Taken to Jail After Being Roughly Handled

TILLSONBURG, Ont.—Jan. 29.—(CP)—Officials of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department were expected to arrive here today to conduct further investigation into three fires on the ninth Concession of Dereham. Harold Hunsley, 29, is in Woodstock Jail, held for questioning in connection with a fire which broke on Saturday night in the barn of Fred Pettman. The blaze was extinguished before any damage was done, but an angry mob of farmers accused Hunsley of being responsible for the fire and tried to attack him. Arrival of Chief of Police B. Reynolds of this town resulted in the dispersal of the mob.

All three fires were reported about the same time on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday nights. In the first blaze, John Graves lost barns, implements and hay. Friday night, Victor Pettman, brother of Fred, lost his barns and implements, two silos, cattle, 50 chickens and all his farm implements.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pettman were milking, when they heard a noise and ran down to find a man seen dashing out from the upper barn floor. Footprints, as yet unidentified, led in the direction of the Hunsley farm. Hunsley was seen at the fire and questioned by the Chief of Police, but was allowed to go. Later the mob went to his home but was asked to leave by the Chief and there was no disorder.

Hunsley was taken at once to Woodstock for further investigation.

HEADACHE, BACKACHE?

Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just the vegetable tonic needed. Mrs. Elizabeth Dickson of 321 Simcoe St., London, Ont., says: "When nursing a family of five children my health broke. I slept poorly, had weight, and sleep with it. Pierce's Favorite Prescription helped me when others failed, down me and. After taking the first bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I noticed a big improvement in my health—I felt stronger, my appetite became good, I slept well and I gained weight."

W. HUNTINGDON IN 1ST PLACE

Bethel Moves Out of Cellar Berth Due to Win

Stirling, January 29.—(Special)—Friday night's doubleheader in the Cavies league rained Bethel from the bottom rung of the ladder, by virtue of their 3-2 win over Evergreen into fourth position, while West Huntingdon defeating Minto in a close game, by a 2 to 1 score, took a more secure grip on the first place.

Both games were keen fixtures, fast and too close for the comfort of either team. Bethel came through to turn in the first win of the season when despite injuries sustained by two of their players Cronkright and Cranston they managed to come out Evergreen in the last few minutes of the play.

The first period was scoreless. Rodgers for the Evergreen nets and Sills in the Bethel goal making some great saves. The only penalties of the period went to R. Dickey and Cranston. For Evergreen, Maurice McGee and Don Rodgers were the most effective while in the Bethel forward line of Dickey, Fargey and Dickey functioned in fine style.

In the first minutes of the second frame, Cronkright on the Bethel defense was out on the chin by the puck shot off an Evergreen man's stick. He was out of the game from then on, stitches being required to close the wound on his chin. Soon after, Evergreen opened the scoring when Maurice McGee beat Billie Sills' Bethel goal to the significant tune of the game. The Bethel team worked madly on but were unable to even the score.

The third period was a read thriller opening with Evergreen adding to their one goal lead by McGee repeating his previous scoring performance. The Bethel boys were anything but downhearted at their opponents' lead and simply bombarded the Evergreen net where Rodgers handled the fusillade of shots like a veteran goalie. Fargey started things for Bethel when on a lovely solo flight, he beat Rodgers who, hadn't a chance to save. Spurred on by this and although McGee watched the Bethel checking so close to them as the Siamese twins, Fargey poked in Bethel's equalizer on a rebound from R. Dickey's shot. Bethel went with a bang after this, left the whole Evergreen team behind shooting at will, and with Rodgers boards twisting his ankle, This kept the Evergreen net in play where Cranston seems particularly unfortunate in having shots on net check in last Tuesday night's game.

Lineups:

Bethel—Goal, Sills; defense, Cranston, and Cronkright; centre, Dickey; wings, Fargey, Earl Dickey; subs—R. Hudgins, Bill Hudgins, Cranston.

Evergreen—Goal, Rodgers; defense, Cameron and C. McGee; centre, Don Rodgers; wings, Bill Fargey, Bill Hatch; subs—Maurice McGee, K. Stapley, McMullen.

Referee—Earl Wallace.

The second game saw West Huntingdon maintain their first place position in the league by coming on Minto although the latter held the West Huntingdon squad very close strengthened by the addition to the team of Ed. Erickson and Jimmy "Curly" Gibson and more than kept the Huntingdonites guessing. Gibson, speedy young man on the Huntingdon team and the veritable dynamo of the latter's forward line to get away by his usual style and constantly shot the orange and black of it until the final period.

For Minto, Ed. Barto and Mann doing their dancing and singing stuff. Other famous Brearley personalities are Shannon Seely, Teras Guinan and Abe Lyman and Ted Lewis.

"Jimmy and Sally"

Skilful, tuneful and delightful: That's "Jimmy and Sally" a highly diverting and entertaining comedy romance with music, that is announced as the second feature attraction on the same program.

And the story strikes us as being ideally suited for James Dunn as the comedy hero who are featured in this up to the minute picture for Fox and Winnie Lightner. In fact both principals are excellently cast, and do justice to their particular roles.

Two Features Tonight

Something entirely new and novel in the entertainment field was offered screen lovers at the Capitol on Friday, "Alice in Wonderland" has been brought to the screen by Paramount, in astonishingly real fashion. With Charlotte Henry playing the title role, the film offers Lewis Carroll's immortal classic with such surprising realism that the fantastic figures seem to be alive. Pictorially the picture is perfect. Costumes and sets have been copied exactly from the drawings in the first edition of Alice. The cast includes more than 25 well-known names. Lovely Dorothea Wieck and Roland Young are featured in "The Cradle Song" the second feature attraction on the same program. It is a beautiful picture. Both will be presented tonight for the last times.

Minto took the lead in the second round when Gibson brothers, George and Jack went up to beat the West Huntingdon defense. Early in the third of the game, The play became faster but no further scoring was registered by either side. Penalties went to Tom. Gibson, Erickson and Barto, the latter for throwing his stick and thereby losing a goal.

Shortly after the gong sounded for the third period, McGowan scored on a pretty play, after a beautiful shot from centre ice, and the Huntingdon team set the pace as if the boys had chalked up their win before the game. Unimpressed Mott broke away skating through the entire Minto team and Tanner for the winning goal. Penalties were meted out to Henderson and Mott.

Line-ups:

West Huntingdon — Goal, T. Searles; defense, Fred Murray and Mott; centre, Ed. Mott; wings, Chas. Wright and Stuart Kerby, Subs—Don Gee, Elmer Gee, Murney Wright, Jim Bray.

Minto—Goal, M. Tanner; defense, Harold Henderson and N. Tomlinson; centre, George Gibson; wings Jack Gibson and Don Reid; Subs—"Curly" Gibson, Jack Erickson, Phillips, Graham.

The remainder of the schedule for the present and is as follows:

January 30—West Huntingdon vs Bethel; Minto vs Evergreen.

February 2—Minto vs Evergreen; Canniffon vs Zion Hill.

February 6—Zion Hill vs Evergreen; Canniffon vs West Huntingdon.

February 8—Bethel vs Canniffon; Minto vs West Huntingdon.

February 13—Canniffon vs Evergreen; Zion Hill vs Bethel.

February 16—Evergreen vs Minto; West Huntingdon vs Zion Hill.

February 20 — Bethel vs Evergreen; Zion Hill vs Canniffon.

"Broadway Thru a Keyhole" Walter Winchell, Broadway columnist whose today's gossip is tomorrow's scandal, is author of the story "Broadway Thru a Keyhole" the 20th Century production starring Constance Cummings, Russ Columbo, Paul Kelly, Texas Guinan, Blossom Seely, Abe Lyman and his band, Harry Hatoff, Eddie Foy, Jr., and Frances Williams, coming to the Belle tomorrow (Tuesday) and Wednesday, matinee daily.

"Broadway Thru a Keyhole" has a background of night clubs and shows how a sweet and innocent girl rose to fame, was befriended by a handsome young racketeer and finally became the wife of a famous night club owner.

Because of the night club background of the yarn, the picture was filmed as a musical with a large dancing chorus and such musical comedy and vaudeville stars as Frances Williams, Eddie Foy, Jr., and Barto and Mann doing their dancing and singing stuff. Other famous Broadway personalities are Shannon Seely, Texas Guinan and Abe Lyman and his band.

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Constant Woman"

Because so many of the scenes in "The Constant Woman," the current KBS-World Wide feature now playing at the Capitol Theatre, were to be played in and around the different parts of a tent theatre, the story of a regular show with an audience in attendance, back-stage scenes, dressing-room scenes, scenes in the wings and in and around the tent itself, it was decided by the studio executives that the best way to make the picture authentic would be to build a complete theatre on one of the huge sound stages.

This "set" as it is called in motion picture language, is seen in the picture which features Conrad Nagel, Claire Windsor, Lella Hyams, Tommy Conlon, Stanley Fields as a travelling tent-show people.

Cut in front were built seats to accommodate an audience of two hundred persons. The orchestra pit and even the orchestra itself, the stage with its settings and lights; and in back the individual dressing room's arranged about the wings with the attendant paraphernalia of scenery baggage, etc., created as realistic an impression that to step onto stage "6" at the California-Tiffany to anyone who had ever attended one of these travelling shows would be like stepping into the tent itself.

Safe in such a two-reel comedy; cartoon, surprise reel and newsreel fine bill. Monday and Tuesday are gift nights for the Ladies, "Royal Princess Dinnerware".

Diamond Wedding Anniversary of Well-Known Madoc Couple

Former Residents of This City Observes Jubilee

An interesting event took place in Madoc on Sunday, January 28th., when Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Connor celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary at their home. The event was celebrated quietly, with the members of the family who reside in or near Madoc being present, owing to the fact that Mrs. Connor is not in the best of health at the present time, but has been confined to her bed for the past six weeks.

MR. AND MRS. M. W. CONNOR

Mrs. Connor, who is in her eighty-second year, was born in County Kent, England on May 10th., 1852, and came to Canada with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marsh, when she was but seven years of age. She still recalls incidents of the ocean voyage which required a much longer time than is necessary today. Her parents and their children settled at Holloway, where she continued to reside until her marriage to Matthew Wilson Connor in 1874. Following her marriage she went to live in Belleville, where her husband was in the employ of C. P. Smith as a tinsmith.

Mr. Connor was born in Thurlow Township on January 17th., 1853, later moving to Belleville with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Connor. At an early age circumstances made it necessary for him to leave school and go to work. He learned brick-making and the baking-business and finally in 1870, at the age of 17 he entered the employ of the late C. P. Smith, as a tinsmith. He remained with Mr. Smith until 1887 when he moved with his family to Madoc, to go into business for himself. He has always retained a high regard for his former employer, Mr. Smith, and holds him in respectful and grateful remembrance. On coming to Madoc he went into the hardware business with different partners, finally in 1899, taking his eldest son, William E., into partnership with him. Since that time the firm his been known by the name of M. W. Connor and Son.

Thirteen children of whom ten are still living, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Connor, eight sons, William E., of Madoc; Charles P., of Vancouver; Albert L. (Bert) of Madoc; Alfred L. of Healey Falls; John W., of Kingston; George, (deceased); Howard S., of Tweed; Russel M., of Waterford and five daughters: Mrs. Wm. Marshall, (Alice, deceased) of Sault Ste. Marie; Nellie (deceased), Mrs. W. A. Reid (Florence)—of Millbrook; Mrs. (Dr.) N. P. Truemner (Lora) of Arthur, Ont., and Miss May at home. There are also twenty-one grandchildren and six great grand-children living.

Mr. Connor has always, and is, at the present time, enjoying remarkably good health in spite of his 81 years. He still works at his trade and may be seen at his bench on six days of the week. He is an ardent bowler and since the introduction of lawn bowling into Madoc has been an enthusiastic member of the Club and a regular visitor to the green. He is a staunch Conservative and takes a keen interest in the affairs of the village and the country. At a carnival held at Madoc rink two years ago, Mr. Connor donned his skates and skated around the rink a good many times. He was awarded the prize for being the oldest skater to do so unassisted.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Connor are members of the United Church and, until very recently, were seldom absent from their places on Sunday, for many years the former has been a member of the Official Board of the Church. Old friends include Mr. Frank Orr, Mr. Fred Smith, Mr. Frank Mills, Mr. John McCarty and the late Mr. Wm. Givens of Belleville and Mr. Joe Mills of Tweed and Mr. John Barlow of Thurlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Connor were the recipients of congratulations and gifts from friends and relatives. Five sons, Will, Bert, Alfred, John and Howard, with their wives and two daughters, Mrs. W. A. Reid and Miss May were at home for the event.

LESSON 3—BISCUITS

There are two kinds of dough—just as there are two kinds of batter. SOFT DOUGHS use three cups of flour to 1 cup of liquid, generally speaking. (For example—tea biscuits and bread.)

STIFF DOUGHS use about 4 cups flour to 1 cup of liquid. (For example—cookies and pastry.)

Biscuit dough, and all the things we make with mixtures like it, belong to the Soft Doughs.

I am going to teach two ways of making biscuit dough in this lesson—and a number of ways to vary them.

1. Using flour, salt, baking powder or substitute, shortening and liquid.
2. Using a prepared biscuit flour to which we only add liquid.

Standard Flour Method.

Biscuit dough is mixed by a method entirely different from that we use for batters.

1. Sift flour once, measure it, mix other dry ingredients with it, and sift into bowl.

2. Measure hard cold shortening, and cut it into dry ingredients with a knife, two knives, a steel-pronged fork, or a wire pastry blender. Use a quick, short, chopping motion until all the fat is in small particles.

Of you may rub the fat into the dry ingredients with chilled finger tips, but this does not make such light biscuits because of the warmth from the fingers.

3. Add liquid—milk or water is used, or sour milk or buttermilk (with which baking soda is used to replace some of the baking powder); an egg may be part of the liquid for fancy tea biscuits, etc., but is not used in plain biscuits.

Sprinkle the liquid all over the surface of the flour, mixing it quickly and lightly with a knife or fork; work dough as little as possible—too much mixing makes biscuits tough, because it develops the gluten in the flour. Add enough liquid to make a dough which is only stiff enough to handle, as a soft dough makes light, tender biscuits.

4. Turn out dough on slightly floured board or canvas and toss it to coat lightly with flour.

5. Knead dough with 3 or 4 light, easy, kneading motions—very little, remember; it is better not to knead at all than too much.

6. Pat dough with palms of hands or roll with covered rolling pin to required thickness.

7. Shape with cutters dipped in flour, or cut in squares with a floured knife.

8. Do not re-roll left-over dough—just gather it together without lifting from board, and stamp out rest of biscuits.

SHORT-CUT—Instead of 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, make dough just a little softer—add milk until dough is soft enough to drop from a spoon. Drop by teaspoonfuls (or a little bigger when desired) on well-greased pan. We call these Drop Biscuits.

9. Bake in a HOT oven, 450° F.

AND KEEP THESE THINGS IN MIND.
The softer the dough, the better the biscuits.
Mix quickly, handle lightly, bake quickly.

Foundation Recipe, Using Flour.

2 cups flour	4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt	2 tablespoons or more shortening

2/3 cup liquid (you may require more or less)

Mix and bake exactly as I have described.

Prepared Biscuit Flour Method.

It is now possible for the child of 6 or for the woman who has never been able to make good biscuits, to turn out beautifully light and fluffy biscuits in 2 minutes—and to know that every time they will be perfectly successful.

This quick way of making either white or whole wheat biscuits, calls for the use of one of the new prepared biscuit flours, which you buy in an exceptionally well-sealed package containing the finest flour, the salt, the baking powder and the shortening. They are all carefully measured and mixed.

1. Measure prepared biscuit flour straight from the package in the amounts directed; (do not sift because of the fat in it, which makes it gather in little clumps).

2. Measure prescribed liquid, using milk or water, whichever is handier; add all at once to prepared biscuit flour, mixing in quickly and lightly with knife, for just 30 seconds.

3. Scrape out dough on floured board or canvas or paper, and knead lightly with finger tips for 10 seconds.

4. Pat or roll out to desired thickness and shape with cutter or knife.

SHORT-CUT—Instead of kneading, rolling and cutting dough, as in 3 and 4, make it softer by using 2 tablespoons more liquid, and drop from spoon on greased pan.

5. Bake in a VERY HOT oven—hotter than for biscuit dough we make with plain flour; 475° F. to 500° F. makes best white biscuits, and 475° F. is ideal for whole wheat biscuits.

Many Kinds of Biscuits.

Once you have learned to make excellent plain biscuits, using either the standard flour method or the prepared flour method, there is no end to the kinds of fancy biscuits you can make. Here are some examples.

DROP BISCUITS—The quickest kind, as described in Foundation Recipes for both biscuit methods. Make the Foundation Dough with enough extra liquid to make dough soft enough to drop by teaspoonful (or larger) on greased pan. Bake same as rolled biscuits.

RICH and SWEETENED BISCUITS—(a) Using standard flour method, add 2 to 4 tablespoons sugar to dry ingredients and increase shortening to 4 tablespoons; if you want to add egg, use 1 beaten egg as part of the liquid, and about 2 tablespoonfuls less milk.

(b) Using prepared flour method, add 2 to 4 tablespoons sugar to 2 cups prepared biscuit flour; if you want to add egg, use beaten eggs as part of the liquid and about 2 tablespoonfuls less milk or water.

RICHER DOUGH—(a) Using standard flour method, increase fat to 4 tablespoonfuls.

(b) Using prepared flour method, chop 2 tablespoons hard cold shortening (butter, lard, or any solid neutral-flavoured white commercial shortening) into prepared flour before adding liquid.

LEMON or ORANGE SWEETHEARTS—Grate a little rind into some lemon or orange juice to steep while you make biscuit dough. Have ready some small diced sugar—the tea-cube size; or break large lumps of sugar in four pieces. Using either method, make Foundation Dough or Richer Dough, or "Richer and Sweetened Dough". Shape small biscuits.

When biscuits are ready, dip a small lump of sugar for a moment in fruit juice, and press it, point down, into centre of biscuit. Bake as usual. The biscuit will puff up around and over the sugar during baking.

CHEESE BISCUITS—Add 2/3 cup grated cheese to dry ingredients in Foundation Recipe, using either method; and for very quick and easy results, just make the Drop Biscuits, instead of rolling and cutting dough.

DATE POCKETS—Using either method, make Richer Dough, unsweetened. Roll out to ¼ inch thickness and shape with large cutter. Put a spoonful of date or other fruit filling (see Lesson 10) on each piece of dough, keeping it to one side, and fold the other half of the dough over to enclose it; moisten edges of dough and pinch together, like a turnover tart. A soft pitted date, rolled in fruit sugar, may be used instead of cooked filling.

BUTTERSCOTCH BISCUITS—Using either method, make Foundation Richer Dough and roll out to ¼ inch thickness, keeping shape as square as possible.

Spread with 1/3 cup butter and 2/3 cup brown sugar, that have been well creamed together; add a little spice if you like. Roll up dough like a jelly roll, then cut in slices about ¾ inch thick; place cut-side down, and bake in a greased pan. Tiny muffin tins are ideal for these biscuits, as they save the sugar mixture from running out.

Maple sugar, finely shaved, instead of brown sugar, gives an unusual flavor.

FRUIT PIN-WHEELS—Using either method, roll out sheet of dough as for Butterscotch Biscuits. Spread with creamed butter and sugar, then with a mixture of finely-chopped raisins and candied citron and orange peel; or with currants and peel; or sultana raisins and a small amount of shredded, candied ginger; or equal parts currants and sugar, with ½ teaspoon cinnamon; or thick paste of stewed, sweetened dried apricots with few drops almond flavoring, or better still, a few finely shredded almonds. Use about 1/3 cup combined filling. Roll up, slice and bake same as Butterscotch Biscuits.

SOUR MILK BISCUITS—Using standard flour method only, substitute sour milk or buttermilk for sweet milk, using only 2 2/3 teaspoons baking powder and with it 1/3 teaspoon baking soda. Crush lumps from soda and sift it and the baking powder with the flour. Will make plain or richer doughs and can be used in all the same ways. White, Graham or Whole Wheat flours may be used.

SODA BISCUITS—Same as Sour Milk Biscuits.

SCONES—Using either biscuit method, add 2 or 3 tablespoons sugar to dry ingredients, and replace about 2 tablespoons milk with 1 beaten egg, adding milk to egg and using as liquid. A richer dough makes delicious Scones—you can use up to 1/3 cup shortening in standard flour dough or add up to 3 tablespoons hard cold shortening to prepared flour dough before mixing with liquid.

CURRANT or RAISIN SCONES—Add ¾ to 1 cup washed and dried currants or sultana raisins to Scone Mixture—either the light Foundation Dough or the Richer Dough, just mentioned above.

SOUR MILK SCONES—Using standard flour method only, substitute sour milk or buttermilk for sweet milk, mix the egg with it, reduce baking powder to 2 2/3 teaspoonfuls and add 1/3 teaspoon soda, to dry ingredients. These scones may have extra richness and fruit added as just described.

Quick Brioche.

Roll either plain flour or biscuit flour dough to 1/6 inch thickness, keeping shape as nearly rectangular as possible. Spread with melted butter, sprinkle lightly with brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll up like jelly roll. Slice down ¼ inch thick, place cut-side down on a greased baking sheet. Sprinkle with cocoanut, bake as usual.

To Glaze Biscuits.

1. Brush top with milk, before baking.
2. Brush with beaten egg diluted with milk or water, before baking.

SHORTCAKE

As soon as you can make good biscuits, you can make wonderful shortcake. Real old-fashioned biscuit-type shortcake is just made with rich biscuit dough.

Just as in making biscuits, there are two ways of making shortcake.

Standard Shortcake.

2 cups flour	2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt	1/3 cup hard cold shortening
4 teaspoons baking powder	2/3 cup milk.

PARTIES SETTLE SLIGHT MISHAP

A slight accident happened on Front Street late Saturday afternoon when an automobile driven by Charles Smith R.R. No. 2, Frankford, collided with a bicycle ridden by Thomas Morrison, 49 Geddes St. Mr. Smith was driving south at the time and as he was about to pass another car backing out from the curb his vehicle skidded slightly on the icy ruts, caroming into the oncoming bicycle. Plainclothes Constable Isard investigated and found the incident to be entirely of an accidental nature. The trouble was amicably settled between the parties concerned, no serious damage being reported

CURRENT SPORT

After seriously considering the Quinte Dairy protest from all angles the executive of the Kingston Curling Association has overruled on the objection. After all it is their duty and they are the ones active in the matter if the rules are considered to have been observed to. The Belleville Cities fraternity are still holders in the Quinte district. Skip Jack Chapman and Cecil Cosgrove has always ruled the organization in a fair and impartial head and continued to do so in the case of the protest regarding the hearing of the protest.

At a recent sub committee meeting of the O.H.A. two new entrants were introduced. The Toronto Marlboros have to be divided into two groups, A and B, thereby the smaller centres will have an opportunity to compete in a category of their own and not have to be continually eliminated by the Toronto, Hamilton, Peterboro and other larger centres. The same move does not seem quite so much needed on the senior sport-ing side is concerned. It was decided that the Toronto series be split by and the champion a sport is commanded the other sport in the game is obliterated. They even go so far as to say that there will be even an extended residence rule for the Toronto district senior players playing in this series should be compared with their companions in the Toronto district. The Toronto towns and village will also benefit from the new residence rule.

Negotiations are being made to endeavor including a post-season series of games between the champions of the Allan Cup series in Canada and the champions of the senior hockey league of Great Britain. Some years ago the late Lord Stanley donated a hockey trophy for international amateur hockey competition. The trophy can be dug up again. Perhaps we could get it back for a little finish around the nets. Fred McCulla and Morris Dickinson will throw up and coning left wingers. Dal will play defence with Don Lee is fast improving at centre. Harvey Jones will be the man still packs his terrific shot.

The local basketball scene seems headed towards a better season than has been enjoyed by a local team for many years. Many of the calibre of hockey dished up by these kids of the Bay City should.

JUDGE J. F. WILLS DIES AT HIS HOME

good old days of sailing craft. Judge Wills was commodore of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club and a past president of the Canoe Club. Captain of the Lake Yacht Racing Association and the Bay of Quinte a few years ago were brought here much through his enthusiasm and work. He took an active interest in the punt club of this city, formed a couple of years ago, and last summer his members made a cruise to visit him at his summer home on the bay, off the Trent Road.

The judge was a member of the Belleville Curling Club, and one of its past presidents, even after he had stopped active participation in the sport, he was a constant visitor in the club-room to watch the games. At the time of his death he was an honorary member of the Curling Club. He was a member of the Methodist church for a long period of time and enjoyed the game thoroughly. He was a member of the Belleville Golf Club, and had been a president of that organization, and one of the founders during trying times in its existence.

Ardent Conservative

John Franklin Wills was an ardent and outspoken hearted Conservative, and previous to his elevation to the Bench a most active worker in the Conservative cause in East Hastings County, particularly in the riding of West Hastings. He was a past president of the Belleville Conservative and Hastings Conservative Associations. For many years he was chief lieutenant of the late John Bell, and was a friend that beloved citizen of Belleville after a long and bitter political battle in West Hastings. Since Senator Bell's passing it had been the yearly custom of Judge Wills and other friends to place a wreath on his grave on the anniversary of his death.

Judge Wills served with the old XV. Battalion, Argyll Light Infantry for a couple of years, and retired with the rank of captain. At the time of his death he was the junior side of the marshal picture today and prince, secretary-treasurer of the Veterans' Memorial building and of the 39th. Battalion (C.E.F.) Association.

Fraternally he was a member of the Masonic order of Tuscania, a member of the Scottish Rite, King Baldwin Chapter, No. 8, Mystic Chapter, No. 7, R.A.M. and Moira Lodge, No. 7, A.F. & A.M. Judge Wills was a member of St. Thomas Church, and for several years was one of its Wardens.

Surviving are the widow, previous to marriage Miss Edith M. Yarwood, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Yarwood, of Belleville; one son, Alderman and Barrister Thomas Y.; one daughter, Mrs. Douglas Bowerman, both of this city; an elder brother, H. T. Wills, of Belleville, Ontario, and a sister, Miss A. R. Wills, of London, England.

With the passing of John Franklin Wills, Belleville loses an outstanding citizen, whose life had been faithful to its history; a man, who had high ideals and lived up to them. Honorable and fair in all his dealings, a citizen has passed whose memory will be cherished by hundreds of his friends for many years. An estimable citizen has passed on.

TRIBUTES

R. C. Donnan, K.C.

The following is the tribute of R. C. Donnan, K.C., to the late president of the Hastings Law Library Association, and a friend of the whole city:

"In the passing of His Honour John Franklin Wills the Bench of Ontario has lost one of its most outstanding members and the Bar has lost one who has always been a true friend and counsellor to the bench before him.

"Mr. Wills always took particular pleasure in aiding young lawyers and was also a friend to the whole community."

Hon. Geo. O. Tice

"It is with deepest regret that I learned of the passing of the morning passing on of a former Chief Magistrate of Belleville. It had been my privilege to be acquainted intimately with the late Judge J. F. Wills and know of his estimable and lovable qualities and his true worth. He had earned the high esteem and his generation will. The sympathy of citizens of Belleville from all walks of life is extended to those bereaved by his death."

Flags Half-Staff.

Flags are flying today at half-staff on the County Buildings and City Hall in respect to the memory of the late Judge Wills. Judge and Division Courts, called for the first of this week, have been postponed until after the funeral Wednesday afternoon next.

Eddie Shore of Bruins Back after Long Suspension but Bruins Lose to Rangers 4-2

Incidentally Played One of The Best Games of Career

LEAFS SLUMPING

Earn Only Tie in Two Games Played Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Eddie Shore, the old boss of Boston, came back to the National Hockey League wars last night and found fans have forgiven him for his part in the injuring of Ace Bailey, Toronto Maple Leaf star, whose skull was fractured when he was knocking to the ice by Shore, on Dec. 12.

After a 16-game suspension, Shore came back in the Boston Ranger game last night. A tremendous ovation greeted him as he skated out.

Every move he made was greeted by cheers and applause. He received no penalties, and he turned in one of the finest games of his career.

But nothing Shore could do, not even the new life he injected into his jaded team-mates, could help Boston to win the game, and the Rangers walked off the score, 4-2.

Leafs Tie And Lose

The week end hockey results have some practical endings. Maple Leafs are still perched on top of the standings, but their opponents are showing signs of strain at last. They managed to tie a tie by Detroit Saturday night and lost last night's encounter to Chicago Black Hawks 3-0, their second defeat of the season and their first at the hands of the Chicago crowd. Montreal Canadiens are still plugging along in second place by polling behind the league-leading Leafs while Maroons were looking at the cellar from one point behind their interclub rivals. Americans are in indisputed possession of fourth place while Ottawa is in the cellar.

The American section is still furnishing the fireworks as three teams battle it out. New York Rangers are holding first place, but the Detroiters are just one point behind, while Boston only need to win one game outright to tie the Rangers. Bruins are in last position, but with Shore back should settle to go places.

Maroons Nose Out Amerks

Montreal managed to nose out the Americans in a Saturday night encounter by the smallest possible margin, Ward scoring in an overtime session to break up the game and give his team a 2-1 victory over the Amerks. Strangely enough, the Americans had all the best of the going until the extra period. They had tied the score in the second, after Robinson opened the scoring with a goal in the first period, but Ward broke it up when he went down with Robinson and Trottier with less than five minutes to play.

The encounter between the Leafs and Detroit Saturday night was a game of close lines, but Charlie Conacher was responsible for the tie, scoring a pair of goals in a fast and furious second period which had found the Leafs outchecked and to a considerable extent outskated. Scoring for the Goodfellow pair had been registered for Detroit. In addition to Conacher, Wilf Cude took honors for his shining performance in the Detroit nets.

The Saturday night encounter scrambled things up a trifle. Detroit led Canadiens in the last five minutes on a sortie by Aurie, Goodfellow and Company and then held the Flying Frenchmen scoreless in the extra session. The teams fought all the way, first one and then the other taking the lead. The chief marks for the performance, however, went to young Cude and the phlegmatic Lorne Chabot in the openning nets, both playing outstanding hockey throughout.

Paul Thompson took the palm in the Leaf-Chicago game last night when he scored both the Black-hawk goals. The game was a fast and clean affair, but the weary Leafs had a hard time keeping up with the speeding Hawks. The famous "Big line" of Primeau-Jackson-Conacher was held in check by Thomnes, Thompson and March, but the Leaf second-line of Clapton, Blair and Doraty caused Gardiner plenty of trouble. In the Saturday night Detroit-Leaf affair, the major reverse was the use, for the "Big line" was "on" and the second line was not.

Sth Shutout For Gardiner

While Charlie Gardiner scored his eighth shutout of the season and is leading the entire league in holding opponents scoreless, shut-out-minding honors for the seven-teng went to young Cude, even though both goalies were in the affairs. Wilf is going great guns, and is in no mood for even the oldest and most experienced goalies to hold down the Big Head Kid's Canadiens to successive ties.

Ottawa Senators, who, which must participate in the weekend firing, swings into action Thursday night when they entertain the Chicago togetter.

Incidentally, it is understood the Stanley Steamer will be with the Maple Leafs meeting an all-star aggregation from the rest of the league will be played at Toronto Feb. 14. President Frank Calder of the league will visit Toronto today to complete arrangements. It is expected the game will draw around $30,000. Recently a game played in Toronto by the same purpose yielded approximately $6,000.

Leafs will be unable to play hockey for at least two years, and, in fact, may never again appear on the ice.

LONDON TECS LEAVE BOTTOM BERTH OF LOOP

By The Canadian Press

Week-end battle of the International Hockey League found Buffalo Bisons in third place today, showing Window into fourth position, while London Tecumsehs showed themselves tired of bottom place by downing Windsor Bulldogs to climb into second last position over Cleveland Indians during the week-end.

Tecumsehs beat Windsor 3-0 in London Saturday night while Buffalo was whipping Syracuse Stars 2-1 at Port Erie. Syracuse, however clung to second place by holding the league-leading Detroit Olympics to a 2-2 overtime deadlock at Syracuse Sunday night.

MAGNIFICENT RECEPTION GIVEN TO EDDIE SHORE

Madison Square Garden Rocked With Cheers as He Skates Out

(By George Maguire, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Jan. 29 (CP)—Eddie Shore, 185 pounds of hockey color and playing splendor, had made his return to league league hockey today following a 16-game exile meted out to him, but Irvin "Ace" Bailey Toronto's star wingman, was critically injured in Boston on December 13th.

Eddie made his return in a bedlam of cheering, foot-tinging and whirling in Madison Square Garden last night as the Bruins met Rangers and lost 4-2. More than 18,000 fans roared a spontaneous welcome to Shore as Buddy Rogers, after facing off the puck, asked Referee M. J. Rodden of Toronto, to introduce him to the Boston star.

As the prominent actor and band leader gripped the hockey star's hand, doctors, lawyers, newspaper men, society women, stenographers, housemaids and what not, all rolled the steel clad roof from its pinnings with their roaring shouts of welcome to the Bostonian.

Quite Nervous

Trembling with nervous apprehension before he went out on the ice for a pre-game practice, the Bruins remade Eddie. He had not been certain of himself. Before he left his dressing room he read telegrams from back home—from Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Calgary, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, and from Boston, Detroit, Chicago and many other places.

The one from Regina was typical of the words of encouragement and confidence that filled Eddie's mind.

It said: "Come on, Eddie, we are all with you!"

It was signed "From your Western Canada friends."

But even all these left Shore a bit dubious. Even to a hockey veteran such as he, the thoughts of facing a hostile crowd after the unfortunate experience he had gone through worried him no little.

But once the game had started and Shore realized the fans were with him he rewarded them with an exhibition of defensive skill and offensive power that only the Saskatchewan wheat farmer can display.

He engineer both Boston's scoring plays. He took severe punishment.

He was rocked time and again by Earl Seibert and Chiny Johnson, bulky Ranger rearguards, but he kept going at top speed until the end.

In the final session he was badly dazed when he crashed into the boards with Murray Murdock, Ranger forward. As helping hands lifted him up the crowd again let a spontaneous roar of "welcome one Shore."

Generally he is a large; for much booing and hissing by New York fans. But last night Shore's every move was cheered.

After the match Shore admitted he was pretty tired. He thought it would take three or four games before he got back in shape.

The welcome he received Shore termed one of the greatest thrills of his life. He said he was fast regaining the weight he had lost and that he now felt more cheerful about his return to the Boston Garden on Tuesday.

AS TWO IRON MEN HONOR EACH OTHER

Mutual admiration between the "iron men" of baseball and the "iron man" of hockey is demonstrating as Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, holder of baseball's consecutive game record, presents a ring to Murray Murdoch, of the New York Rangers. Presentation took place in Madison Square Garden, New York, before Murdoch's 400th consecutive game.

RHODES ACES BEATEN TWICE

'Y' Team Only One Point Ahead But Deacon A.C. Runs Wild

The Rhodes Aces, an all star basketball team from Toronto, dropped two cage games to local fans on Saturday night at the Y.M.C.A., when the Belleville "Y" team downed them by a 33 to 31 score and then the Deacon A.C., a local junior organization fared somewhat better, in downing the Toronto team by a 36-19 score.

In the opening game between the local "Y" squad and the Aces from the Queen City, Ralph Morden's charges went on a scoring rampage the first half to eamass 20 points to their opponents 4. The second half, however, saw the visitors outscore the locals 27 to 12 and fall but one point of playing them a tie game.

Led by Smith, Faulkner and Page the local intermediate squad played a stellar game with Shiers and Newman the best scorers for the visitors.

The line-ups:

Belleville — Smith 8, Faulkner 12, Page 6, Wickerson 2, Weir, Mitton 2, Cather 2, Burley 2, White, Atkins and Davison.

Rhodes Aces — Martin, Shiers 16, Anderson, Newman 10, Moore, Sinclair 2, Fisher 2, Horton 2.

Referee—Geo. Laughlin.

In the second game played the Deacon A.C. kids rah rah in the first half to score 23 of their 36 points, while the Toronto cagers were scoring but 9 of their 19 counters in the second.

Martin led the local scorers with Colbron and Faulkner following in line. Shiers, Newman and Irwin again starred for the losers. Both games were hang fought with the latter always in doubt as can be seen by the closeness of the scores. The Rhodes Aces are reputed to be one of the best intermediate cage teams in Toronto.

The line-ups:

Deacon A.C.—Cowan, Martin 14, Faulkner, Cole 4, Cairom 7, Cunningham 1, Henry 2, Tobe.

Rhodes Aces — Martin 3, Shiers, 4, Anderson, Newman 3, Moore 2, Irwin 3, Taylor, Horton 3.

Referee—Ralph Morden.

COOPER TAKES SMART GAME

Eldorado is Defeated 4-2 Due to Many Penalties

Eldorado, Jan. 29 (Special)—In a fast, keenly contested seventy minute hockey game, Cooper defeated Eldorado by the score of 4 to 2 before a goodly number of interested spectators. Penalties militated the numerous chances towards victory.

The Parks' brothers proved the heroes of the game by each scoring goals in the seventeen period played.

Line-ups:

Cooper — O. D. Wright goal, Cliff Bailey and Ken Rollins, defence, Art Parks, and L. Graham, wings, Bob Rollins, centre, Subs, B. Moore-stock, E. Parks and C. Bailey.

Eldorado — L. Empey, goal, Ab Shaw and H. Parnell, defence, Hagerman and Roland Vallieres, wings, McAdams, centre, subs, D. Bailey, Blakeley and K. Chambers.

Referee—Alex Hunter.

N. H. L. STARS

By The Canadian Press

Earl Robinson, Montreal Maroons, who scored the goal and an assist in the game against New York Americans.

Walter Larochelle of Canadiens who got one goal and one assist in the Detroit game.

Paul Thompson of Chicago who scored Black Hawks' two goals in the victory over Maple Leafs.

Charlie Conacher, Toronto, who scored both Leafs' goals in the 2-2 deadlock with Detroit.

Wilf. Cude, Detroit, goalie, who helped Detroit in the 2-2 tie with Leafs in the face of a heavy bombardment.

Herbert Welland of Detroit who assisted two of his teammates to score against Canadiens.

Carlie "Chuck" Gardiner, Black Hawks' goalie, who collected his ninth shutout of the season, when he held Leafs scoreless.

BOATING CLUB IS ASSURED

Harry Moore, of Courier Advocate at Trenton Speaks in Behalf

Boating enthusiast, Harry Moore, editor of the Trenton Courier-Advocate, has the following to say in a recent issue of that weekly regarding the formation of a local yachting club:

A yachting and boating club, which will encompass all ports on the Bay of Quinte is a certainty. A meeting for the purpose of laying the foundation for such an organization will be held in Belleville on Friday evening of this week. Interested sportsmen from Napanee, Deseronto, Picton, and Trenton with join the Belleville boating enthusiasts and make the necessary arrangements. We do not know who will be present from Trenton because there is no organization of any such nature here, but we presume somebody will represent this town. Napanee is expected to send Percy Laidley, ex-Mayor Alex Rieveley, Frank Gibbard and probably "Buller" Robinson. Mayor Kingston and Maurice Dellow of Deseronto may be on hand. From Picton there will come such good sports as Freddy Vandusen and several others whose names cannot be recalled at the moment. The above information was given out by Trenton Tommy Mason of Belleville who has been travelling over the district and meeting the boating and yachting men and pointing out to them the benefits of such an organization. Many of his enthusiasts were confident that such an organization will go over big. It is planned to hold regattas at various places along the bay this coming summer—sort of continual round of pleasure for those who like the water and water sports. We may just add here that the formation of some such organization has been on our mind for several years. Indeed, plans had been made to organize at Belleville a few years ago when the sea flea races were held off the Confederation Club, but due to the unsatisfactory weather for the sea flea races, the fact that they could not be run off until evening after many of the district sportsmen had returned home, nothing came of it. Tommy Mason has now taken up the matter at a good time. There is no doubt that he can carry through his organization plans, no doubt that the new club will be a success from the start.

GRILLS GARAGE DEFEATS TWEED

Day, Walsh and Semark Play Good Hockey For Winners

TWEED, January 29.— (Special) —The second clash between Grills' Garage and the local representatives in the Central League on Friday night resulted in a clear cut victory for the invaders by a score of 5 to 2 and they earned the decision. The locals got a very bad game of hockey out of their systems. They did not seem to be able to do anything right and Thompson was given very little protection at times. The two Cannings, Day, Walsh and Semark were the best of the visitors. With Davies in goal doing all that was required of him, which wasn't much until the middle of the third period, Orr, Rashotte and Meraw of the locals tried hard, while Gerald and LaFontaine showed flashes of form.

Belleville had by long odds most of the play in the first period, the game was barely under way when J. Canning broke in on first goal. He carried the puck around the net, passed it out to one of his team mates and it was deflected into the goal off Fontaine's skate. Thompson stopped a rush of Orrs from the angles as the two Cannings and Day got into through or around the defense repeatedly. Tweed's best chance came when Orr and Rupert speeded things up when they came in on the play and some things interesting for Davies for a time. Orr was particularly good on the rushes but could not have scored his team's second goal on a perfect pass from J. Canning in eight minutes. Meraw missed a good chance when he shot into Davies' pads after taking Rashotte's pass. A moment later Thompson and Walsh drew the first penalties for slashing. Day also went well in this period back-checking hard and coming back fast to overtake the opposing puck carrier.

The second period began slowly but Fontaine got a chance to show off of the form displayed in former games and scored Tweed's first goal from a scramble. A moment later Rupert just missed the rebound of Clarke's shot. Both teams speeded up the play and both goalies were kept busy. Walsh and Day right through the defense to put his team two up. Ridley drew a penalty for a trip into the boards to be followed a moment later by Gunn and the advantage of the odd man was lost. Canning, irrepentenman, looked very good in this period.

Only in the final period did Tweed boys show any real form. Thompson made a beautiful stop on what seemed a sure goal when J. Canning broke in from the corner to H. Canning. Almost immediately Rashotte was the cause of another. Davies was called upon to duplicate Thompson's work. Walsh missed the fourth goal on a nice shot following Seamark's perfect pass. Semark drew a penalty for throwing the puck during a prolonged scramble in front of Belleville's goal and during his absence Quinn notched the second and final goal for the locals. This counter rejuvenated the entire team and for several minutes they bombed a shower of rubber off Davies' pads but could not penetrate his defence. The pressure became so great that Belleville was forced to adopt the time-honored custom of shooting the puck down the ice to relieve it and a very annoyed crowd gave vent to their annoyance by prolonged booing. While Tweed was playing every man up, Seamark broke away and drew Thompson to one side to lodge the puck in the twine. Gerald and Walker drew penalties for mixing things in the closing minutes. C. Rashotte scored from a scramble just after the gong sounded but the goal was not allowed and the game concluded with the visitors' victors by a score of 5 to 2.

The line-ups:

Grills' Garage—Goal, G. Davies; Defense, Henn and Blaker, centre, H. Canning; wings, J. Canning and H. Day. Subs—Ridley, Walsh and Semark.

Tweed—Coal, Thompson; defense, A. Gerald and LaFontaine; centre Rashotte; wings, Meraw, Gunn. Subs Orr, Rupert, Clark, Crotty.

Referee—George Geraldi.

Wings Nearly Derail Maple Leaf Express

The Red Wings swooped into a lead worth some tremendous beating.

The limping Leafs then tied it up in answer to much pleading.

And after that things grew so quiet we caught up with our reading.

Which was not surprising, as the dashing Detroiters seemed satisfied to hold a tie and the tattered Toronto team were doing well to hold themselves together with team spirit and tape. So they sat the last two numbers out.

Conacher, Young and Day were the stars of this match. The score demonstrated that the Wings have improved and that the once-roaring Maple Leaf Express is starting to resemble the wreck of the Ninety-Seven.

For the Mapleos have played so many tie games lately that all hands have a drawn look.

LOVE'S LOTTERY

by

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

"I like that folly cape thing you're wearing," said Peggy Ann, when she'd been matched with grace, but rotten timing on tall old ladies. Want to take this bag-thing?"

"Oh, yes! Please!"

Biding toward Florence she said: "You, Terry, would make an ideal husband—and father, some day."

Terry was forever surprised that Peggy seems to grow where it should, does it? For even if you did love once as of course you don't, I could not love you, and I do love this man of whom I told you—who lacks all—all that I could want, and he is here—and all you have." It's funny isn't it? Or—perhaps, tragic?"

"Tragic rather better expressed it," he agreed sweetly. "Tragic is, I think, quite certainly more sweet."

Suddenly, and for a second, she saw him as old; his face had gone gray and strain was on it. She wondered what, besides the cold, ailed him; perhaps, he was not quite well. The thought weighted her heart. She was growing more independent upon him, she realized.

He thought, when Ella waited it and thinks it will be." Hilda had said, "You're a wise devil, Terry; you'll get her and it will be a good thing all round." But Hilda had taken on a high color, bearing Hilda, and she laughed, seeing the gray "I'm making fun of it," he had admitted, understanding her laugh. "I'm as head for a long growth of beauty, but—with this difference —with me it will last."

Cicily was so lovely, so rarely lovely; her beauty was not skin deep. He adored her wholly, heart, mind, and body.

In Florence and near the Arno they made his chauffeur stop and marvel from the car at the scene. The day was gently warm, and Florence was stretched out in Latin indolence and love of indolence. All ages squatted in the sunlight and turned black by the contrast with sunlight; and they in turn made with their scent made languor in the air. A street singer who strummed a guitar paused beneath the balcony to carol of love, beautifully.

For a moment Cicily and Terry saw as bad as so gaunt a face could grow. It was through this sort of enchantment that she had dreamed of wandering . . . with Geoffrey. . . How often each day must she think of him! She had so dreamed of him the night before, too, on his knees before her; raised face pressed against her bosom; begging her—to come back to him! She had heard his voice clearly, and in perfect, therefore tragic echo. "Forget—if us—is fully alive —apart!" the voice had said, breaking. . . She had waked, to cry stormily. And only when a theatrical dawn was touching the Tuscan sky had she, in a misery of purple and silver and blue, could she forget enough to sleep, and then because sheer physical weariness was stronger than the old dead well known ache of heart.

There was no peace in the world as she knew it now; she must, in some way, change the world or bear it resembled nothing that she had ever known: she must wander a world she had not dreamed of wandering with—Geoffrey. And then—there perhaps would be a little peace now must substitute happiness for her.

Terry had led her into one of the small alleys that crept away from the Arno. It wandered its twisting way between tall palaces and no sunlight lit its gloom. Cicily found an enchantment in the hush, the gray and the coolness.

"Hilda and Aunt Ella will never see this," she said.

"I think," he agreed, "that it is not generally 'seen'. I like it it because it is little touched; the passing does not make not, here as chipped the angles. Cellini and the wicked Lucrezia knew this place almost as we see it today—and that starts a dream in the mind that bans them away."

"Yes," Cicily answered. A man with a barrow in front was a fruit cart, pushed close. Terry drew two cents, and waited for the man to count out pears. In his hand under his rounded arm. He closed his eyes a moment. "How I love you," he thought lovely, "love you!"

When he opened them he squared his shoulders, and in a voice that was even more casual than usual, he said: "There's a bit of wine shop in front of us, that only the well-seasoned tourist knows. . . We might buy a square of cake at the next corner, talk back and reminisce the cake's arriving, dragging of Italian vermouth. What say?"

"I love the idea, Terry."

"Docile child! I adore dragging women into pubs. Makes me feel devilish devil!"

She laughed; she murmured, "Terry, my friend," and it was much of any man who would be more distinguished. "Terry, my friend, turn into the wrong sort of smiling."

"It's a nasty-looking small bake shop, he said. "You'll like it no end. I've been going there now, more years than you can remember.

She did like the small, gloomy place with its dark walls, its smell of crumbly sweet bread, to go with the wine. Terry and she sat down where men and women were sitting at little tables. Terry and Cicily settled at one near the front, that was by the window, with the great iron shutter that made the wall by night having been run up.

"I've traveled a bit much," she said after a moment of silence, during which she had looked around, noted secretly and during which Terry watched her face so that he would not interrupt her, "so much," she repeated, "that I've seen all there never would have seen this without you, and there is an air here, that would not flourish in the heart of Florence bruised by tourists' slaver. An air that I feel to be of the real Florence. And—I love it!"

"You know exactly, we like the same things; we have many tastes in common," he said easily, but he watched her keenly as he said it. "And those," he went on after a sip of Vermouth, "we could incidence against growing bored."

She looked startled, almost frightened for a moment. But he added, "I like to realize our startling of tastes; it make me feel we will be friends for—oh, perhaps as many years as I'm last."

He had not hurried his appendix, and had not realize that he had caught a glimpse of her fright. And he thought she felt flat and sad. "He probably never thought of marrying me or of wanting to"; she decided; "what a fool I am!" She studied him across the bare colored table; he was remarkably, noticeably, handsome. They had many same tastes, as he had said; certainly his friendship was a discrimination, and how strange to feel about thing almost approaching resentment because of his manner pressed that he did not want to "bother" her. "Hat way!"

"Terry, why were you trimpled" she questioned after a silence. That he had been wise enough to leave to itself.

"Docile" he answered.

She laughed delightedly. So many men, she thought, indeed most men, would have led a little pompously and grandly upon such opening.

"Made a bally lot of money educating the masses in the fine art of washing behind the ears, you know. And—one gives what one should of course there are so many places now where money is needed in Eng. land; and all that counts—as I presume it should. Some who should have don't. Not that I my bally back. I wanted to give —here there."

"You're a very generous person, Terry."

"Thanks awfully."

"And—kind."

"Not here, young woman, you're making me frightfully posh!"

She attacked English slang then, as meaningless: he came back hotly. If she had been with Geoffrey, she realized, a short time later, he would have said, "Have your way, darling! Kiss me—"

And she liked intellectual battle and real talk between men and wo, men. She would talk with Terry, and he would her to.

She was suddenly white and silent. Why had she had to think of what Geoffrey would have said and the end of it?

"Time to be on," stated Terry who had seen the change.

CHAPTER II

"Terry," Cicily said suddenly, as they drove homeward one evening. "I like you better than I have ever liked any other man."

"That is something," he admitted. "Thanks awfully, you know."

She laughed; so many men would have been thrown in their knees by such admission from her! And Terry thanked her awfully.

"I've loved today," she said sobering.

"Jolly!" he agreed.

Again, they were silent.

"Now, I'll miss you when I'm on my way!" he broke out this time.

"You're not going, Terry," she spoke impulsively and she turned to look up at him, quickly, anxiously.

"Don't know," he admitted. "Have a good deal I should do—at home. I have a feeling that my manager doesn't do quite all he should for the people round about, you know."

He was wholly sincere, and once and again she had seen he who loved a lot. Always plenty to do—

"Frightfully bromidic, I know," she uttered reflectively, "but I imagine the real peace does come to those who serve—in some manner."

"I'm certain of it, child."

There was a corner where she would be really useful, she mused. . . "I hope you'll be soon!" she said warmly.

"Have to somehow," he answered. Arms folded across his chest, face relaxed, he gave her now and again through a slanted glance which grave him pain. She was feeling the spread of his going; she was considering usefulness as an anodyne for pain. Terry's point as a specific she was; a flawless crystal, and she would be so sorry for the day he might say, "Terry, that was an abstract opinion of hers!" And meantime, if she said no more than "Terry, I love you," he would have more than had any other man on earth. And—married to him she would have no reason to revoke that; he promised her this and himself.

At the end of another week Cicily turned from her window; Hilda had followed her into her room. Hilda spoke in her usual manner, as she settled, rigidly, on the edge of a chaise longue.

"What are you going to do if you refuse Terry, Cicily?" Hilda softly questioned. "Have you any plan?" Ashish all your days? The funeral eyes for widow is rather good out, you know, Cicily. Nowadays women think at all, consider where they will be most useful. . . Cicily's brain caught! . . . I know that: she wished Hilda had not—had it. She did not want to be selfish or shocked. "Go-God-ly freyr!"

"I can't —seem to decide, Hilda."

"If the young man had had any stamina, any real love for you, he would have followed you, recaptured you, long ago, Cicily."

Cicily had felt that too; she wished, again, that Hilda had not said it.

Complexion Curse

the thought no one has yet called why in her complexion is so much worse than it was a year ago. Many women are realizing that pimples and blemishes are resulting from poisons in the blood. Constipation poisons circulating the system. Keep the bowels regular with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and watch your complexion improve. Play for rich, healthy blood. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are mild, dependable, all-vegetable.

How Women Escape PERIODIC PAINS

Much depends upon avoiding Constipation says Dr HAMILTON

Womanly ailments are usually accompanied by backache, cramps, headache, nervousness and the "blues." These symptoms indicate that you need the gentle assistance of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Certain in action, yet very mild, these tiny sugar-coated pills are quick to regulate and cleanse the system. Quick results follow the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which are well adapted to the delicate constitution of girls and women.

Hilda, waiting the answer that did not come, saw with relief that Cicily was thinking of her young; Hilda's tightened lips relaxed a little.

"Kind," said Hilda, "so very kind! He's the kindest person on earth, I think!"

"Oh—I know!" Cicily admitted wearily, desperately.

"I wish I had your chance!" Hilda flung out.

"I wish you had!" Cicily thought. She said, not quite audibly, but "my" thought was quite audible, "You can—go down—and tell —Aunt Ella —I am coming my way in Terry" and that —I know—I should."

"Child!" Hilda stated briskly. "That is talking house sense, as we say back home. I'm glad you've come to your senses at last. You're too young for twilight and this endless gardening. When are you going to tell poor Terry He's out on the terrace waiting? Shall I run to the roots! He cares—rather dreadfully, Cicily."

"I know. . . I'll tell him—tonight I promise."

"Good!" Hilda exploded, but she left the room frowning. Scientists say that Cicily was wholly made by her own stupidity or not—see matter pathetic." Hilda, who had buried an errant husband with great relief, could not understand it.

TILLIE THE TOILER

By Russ Westover.

BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

After assuring himself that no Hard-man lurked, listening, in the shadows, Jason Gridley suggested the five prisoners dug a tunnel. "It is our only hope of escape," he said. "Even that depends upon whether we guess right as to the direction we dig." The plan met with enthusiasm and immediately all started at the difficult task. Working like beavers they had only their fingers for tools and the job proved slow and laborious.

While some of them backed away at the earth, the others took the dirt removed and spread it about, the mud floor of the long and narrow cave. This was done so that no pile of fresh earth would arouse suspicion if a Horib came. After considerable effort a tunnel three feet wide and ten long had been made, when Jason unearthed several large shells. With these the process of excavation went faster. Yet it seemed an endless job.

Horibs came with food for their prisoners. At such times the men could hear their bodies splash as the Horibs dove into the lake to reach the prisoners underground entrance. The five men would cease digging and group themselves in front of the entrance so that the lizard-men never suspected what was going on. At last Jason uncovered some tree roots, and he knew they had luckily dug beneath a forest growing alongside the lake.

Gridley hoped they would soon find the earth's surface—and freedom. And while the five men dug the ground beneath the distant forest of the Horibs, a great ship rode majestically high in the air above the Mountains of the Thipdars. "They never could have come through this country alive," its captain said to his first mate. "We will have to give up the search in this direction." Yet scattered, unseen, beneath the ship, were all the men they sought.

FRED HINDLE HEADS TWEED HYDRO COMM.

Delegates Appointed to Annual Meeting in Toronto

Tweed—Tweed Hydro Commission at its inaugural meeting elected Mr. Fred Hindle as chairman for the year 1934. The rejoining chairman, Mr. S. B. Rollins was tendered a vote of thanks for his splendid services in that capacity during the year just closed. The matter of loading a metre at the Gordon Steel Works Ltd. to replace the one destroyed by fire a year ago was laid over until further information can be obtained from the Ontario Hydro Commission with respect to costs of installation, etc. The annual convention to be held in the King Edward Hotel next week will be attended by Messrs. F. Hindle, chairman of the local commission, W. H. Sayers, Reeve, and Manager Rose.

Tweed Agricultural Society held its annual meeting for the transaction of business and election of officers on Friday afternoon. Secretary C. H. Brown read the minutes of the previous meeting and the financial statement was given by T. C. Graham, showing receipts of $1041.35 and expenditures of $1240.71. Mr. C. R. Brown, who had served the society in the capacity of secretary for several years, tendered his resignation which was regretfully accepted and a vote of appreciation for his efficient services was passed.

The election of officers for 1934 was proceeded with and the following were elected:

Hon. President—T. S. McCrea.
President—J. W. McGowan (re-elected).
1st. Vice-Pres.—M. Coulter.
2nd. Vice-Pres—Chas Rush.
Treasurer—J. W. Kingston
Secretary—not decided on.
Hon. Directors—W. E. Thomson, M.P.; Reeve W. H. Sayers; George H. Stokes; George Jordan.
Directors—Dr. F. T. Bowlby; Geo Brown; W. H. Craig; Dennis Flynn; Jog. W. H. Hall; A. Mouck; Fred Blakely; D. H. Morrison; E. R. Rollins; W. K. McCaw; H. Varty.
Lady Directors—Miss V. Brown; Mrs. J. L. Newton; Mrs. J. W. Kingston; Mrs. H. Countryman; Mrs. A. F. Blakely; Mrs. M. Drinkwater.
Auditors—T. C. Graham and A. B. Allen.

On Thursday, January 25th, Patrick Brennan passed away after an illness of many weeks at the age of 72.—He is survived by his widow, formerly Sarah Spring, and a family of nine. Mr. Brennan was born in Ireland and came to Canada as a young man. A few years ago he retired from his position in connection with the maintenance department of the Canadian National Railways. The deceased was a Liberal in politics, a member of the Holy Name Society and a general member of St. Carthagh's Roman Catholic Church. Mr. John Brennan of Tweed is a nephew. The funeral was held at 8.30 on Saturday morning from his late residence to St. Carthagh's Church where Re. quiem High Mass was sung by Very Rev J. P. O'Riordan.

Try a "Hospital-Tested" Remedy

Normal health and energy are possible only when the haemoglobin content of the blood is normal. That is because it is the haemoglobin that distributes vital oxygen from the lungs and nutriment from the digestive organs to build body cells and clear the system of poisons.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills long recognized as an efficient blood-builder—were recently put to another authoritative test of their power to increase haemoglobin in the blood-streams of run-down, nervous people. Forty thin-blooded, "tired out" students were "blood tested" before and after a five weeks' treatment at a leading Canadian hospital. The authentic records of the test proved that these pills are remarkably valuable in restoring strength and vigor.

Almost without exception the patients—male and female students—showed notable increases in haemoglobin, ranging as high as 22 per cent. They declared that they felt greatly improved in energy and vitality. The doctor in charge of the clinic was surprised by the extent of the improvement in so short a time.

Many thousands of benefitted users have Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to thank for restoring them to general health. The same happy experience can be yours. Try a month's treatment. Children and young women in many cases need this "test proven" remedy as much as adults do. Your Druggist can supply—50 cents a package.

Individual reports on these 40 patients certified by the hospital pathologist, are on file.

Edouard Daladier Agrees to Form French Cabinet after Two Refuse Offer

Minister of War in Cabinet That Resigned Saturday

FOR DEFENCE

Will Have to Turn to Centre of Chamber For Support

PARIS, Jan. 29—(AP)—Edouard Daladier agreed today to attempt to form a new cabinet supplanting that of Camille Chautemps, which resigned Saturday amid rioting and demonstrations in all parts of France as a result of the Bayonne Bank scandal.

Daladier, Minister of War in the Chautemps Government and a former Premier, was summoned to the Elysee Palace by President Lebrun early today after two others had declined to accept the Premiership.

Seventy-one year old Gaston Doumergue, former President, declined to accede to the President's request yesterday. He said he was too old.

Then Lebrun turned to Jules Jeanneny, but he refused to accept the request to form a government which could restore political tranquillity, called by the President because of ill health.

Daladier is referred to by his admirers as a "bulldog silent" man. He inspired confidence, especially in connection with the army, which many hailed as his shoy of good common sense as Minister of War.

He has been strong for Frontier Fortifications and wants to extend France's so-called "iron ring" along the Belgian frontier. Daladier has also been pleaded for more funds with which to strengthen the defences.

Wanted Non-Political Man

At first Lebrun had hoped to bring in some big non-political figure, somebody dominating personality and prestige might allay the nationwide agitation as a result of the collapse of the $40,000,000 Bayonne Institution and resultant charges of official implication.

He had to abandon this idea, however, when both M. Doumergue and M. Jeanneny refused.

In connection with Daladier's selection instead of the veteran of Verdun fame, Edouard Herriot, mentioned previously, it was pointed out the former is stronger, than Herriot in the centre.

Daladier will have to turn to the centre in the Chamber of Deputies for support, because of his recent sharp break with the socialists. It has been said frequently that a centre coalition government sooner or later appeared inevitable and many predicted the careful, calculating Daladier would head it.

Charged With Murder

This is the latest and best portrait of Dr. Sarah Dean, comely gynecologist, who is on trial at Greenwood Miss., in connection with the death of her former colleague, Dr. John F. Kennedy. District-Attorney Jordan has indicated he will make a dying accusation alleged to have been uttered by Dr. Kennedy, the keynote of his case against Dr. Dean. The defence intends to show, it was stated recently, that Dr. Kennedy was under opiates at the time the declaration is alleged to have been made and that he was incompetent, to make an accusation.

DECREE SLAUGHTER OF MALE CHICKS

Will Sex Chicks at Birth to Raise Price of Broilers

Bellingham, Wash., Jan. 29 (AP)—The old "law" of supply and demand has, in the opinion of a group of Whatcom County hatcherymen, decreed the slaughter of male chicks. Organization of a chick sexing company by the hatcherymen was announced today by R. D. Young, president of the Poultrymen's Hatchery, past president and now a director in the International Baby Chick Association. It will be the first unit of its kind in the United States.

Poultrymen have obtained the services of two Japanese experts to determine the sex of the chicks, separating the baby pullets from the cockerels at a cost of from 1 to 1½ cents a chick. The group produces about 1,500,000 chicks annually.

Young declared the plan will result in untold benefit to poultrymen explaining that if they sex pullets and destroy roosters, broilers will immediately advance in price.

Because the Japanese experts are excluded from operating in this country under immigration regulations, a sexing depot had been established on the Canadian side of the international boundary line at Blaine, B.C.

Young said sexing of chicks now is 98 per cent. perfect. The practice was developed by Japan.

FORMER MADOC RESIDENT DIES

Madoc—Word was received by Mr. James Watson of the death of Mr. Sidmore Ross of Fullerton, California. The deceased with his wife and daughter were former Madoc residents. Mrs. A. H. Watson and Miss Alice Watson are nieces of Mr. Ross.

Mrs. Russell Lewis and Mrs. C. Anderson have returned from the Belleville hospital. Both are progressing favorably.

Madoc playing a return game in Bancroft were defeated by a score of 4-2. This is Bancroft's first win over the locals. Some of the Madoc regulars were not able to make the trip.

The Star Bridge, Euchre and Dance was well attended on Thursday evening. Mrs. Melbourne Caverly and Mr. Chorney Whyrick won the bridge prizes and Mrs. Frank Smith and Mr. Wilfred Smith the euchre. A local orchestra consisting Miss West, Mr. Mulhall and Mr. Pinkham and Mr. Kincaid supplied music for a dance that was enjoyed by all.

PLAINFIELD Y. P. L. HAS MEETING

Plainfield, Jan. 29—The Sunday night service was fairly attended. Rev. Reeves gave a talk on the Devotional part at Winter School on Friday night. Miss Ruth Dunning gave a talk on what she saw at the School for the Deaf, Belleville, on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Evenson spoke on "The Message of Jesus" for today.

League on Tuesday night Jan. 16 was under the leadership of Mrs. W. Elliott' of the Missionary Department. League was opened by hymn 95. Devotional by Miss Annie Hamilton. Prayer, hymn 78. Topic by Miss Mary Marshall "Would Christ send Missionaries where they are not wanted?" Chorus by the boys "All the World for the King". Life of Robert Bundle by Miss Ruth Dunning. Collection. Hymn 101. Benediction by Mrs. C. Ball.

A large number of league workers are in Belleville on Tuesday night so it made the league attendance smaller.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Denyes spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parks, Hay Bay.

Mrs. Ed. Evenson and Mrs. G. Collins spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. C. Hall.

Mrs. E. Denyes spent Wednesday in Belleville with Mrs. Harry Redden.

Mrs. Clarence Hall entertained her adult Bible class Wednesday evening.

League on January 23 was under the leadership of Mr. Bill Doran. The roads were icy and heavy wind kept many at home but for those who came there was prepared a good programme.

Report of Winter School was given by Miss F. Bailey. Mr. Doran took charge of the program. Scripture reading was given by Mr. R. Rollins after which he gave an interesting talk on it.

Topic was given by Miss Kole Hamilton on "What is your attitude to poverty and Wealth."

Interesting paper on "Citizenship" by Mr. Sherman Parks was given. Duet by Miss F. Bailey and Mr. Hamilton "Breathe on me Breath of God." Reading by Mr. F. Prindle. Rev. J. Y. Evenson closed with prayer. Attendance 17. Collection. We are joining the league and paying 25c so that they do not take up collection only on missionary night.

SKATERS ENJOY SPORT AT GILEAD

Gilead—Skating seems to be the order of the day in this locality. Skating parties are out every night.

Mrs. Robert McLaughlin of Tamworth, is spending a few days with her sister, Miss Grace Balcanquel.

Rev. Ben Goodman, of Quebec, spent a day with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swan.

Mr. William' Yorke spent a few days with his cousin, Clayton Hall, Plainfield.

Mr. Chas. Huffman and sons are busy hauling ice to the Bronk Cheese Factory.

Mr. Arthur Balcanquel spent Saturday in Toronto where he attended the Motor Show and hockey game.

Mrs J. B. Leavens spent a few days with her son, Mr. E. M. Leavens.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Weese entertained Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Balcanquel and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Leavens and baby Carl to dinner on Friday night.

Mrs. Ernest Huffman is suffering with a broken rib.

Mrs. Mr. Merrick called at the home of Mr. Ernest Leavens on Sunday.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1934

NEW STRATOSPHERE RECORD MADE IN RUSSIA

NEWS BRIEFS AND OTHERS

Berlin, Jan. 30—(AP)— Adolf Hitler, Chancellor of Germany, described his Nazi movement as Democracy's bulwark against Communism in a speech today signalizing the first anniversary of his assumption of power.

Washington, Jan. 30—(AP)— President Roosevelt will sign the dollar devaluation bill at 3.30 p.m. E.S.T. today, and promptly move to take over the United States gold supply.

New York, Jan. 30—(AP)— The play in which Maud Adams went to have come back to Broadway had its premier tonight but without the gold star of "Peter Ibbetson." Although Philip Barry had written "The Joyous Season" particularly for Miss Adams, she decided at the last moment not to appear in it and went with Lillian Gish in the leading role, that of a nun. The first night audience received it with mild enthusiasm.

Montreal, Jan. 30—(CP)— On Feb. 4, 1934, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Gallagher will have married in Sapanca, Que., and they came to Montreal for the winter carnival. Exactly they will celebrate their golden wedding here when they have resided since 1897.

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 30—(AP) — A band of men early today lynched Robert Raymon Conner, 21, wanted for investigation for an alleged attack on a white woman.

Ottawa, Jan. 30—(CP)—A series of questions dealing with the Welland Ship Canal system have been placed on the order paper by Sir Henry H. Cameron, Dr. J. K. Blair, Lib., North Wellington. He asks how many men are employed on the system, how much they are paid, the tonnage moved, the revenue from the government and the expenditures on the canals since 1925.

Brantford, Ont., Jan. 30—(CP)— Fire in the barn of Fred Irwin, Brant County, cut his goat this morning. Seventy head of pure bred livestock were taken out of the barns, and the goat was the only one trapped. Loss, $10,000, partly covered by insurance.

Toronto, Jan. 30—(CP)— Hon. Charles McCrea, Ontario Minister of Mines, today received a request by a delegation of representatives of Western Ontario municipalities who requested amendments to the Natural Gas Act.

McGregor, Ont., Jan. 29—(CP)— Government veterinaries report that quarantine has been lifted from the majority of farms placed under control last fall when hog cholera was discovered in Anderson Township. For some weeks the disease has been under control and it is expected all quarantines will be lifted shortly.

Washington, Jan. 30—(AP)—The Vinson-Trammell bill authorizing construction of the navy up to full treaty strength was approved today by the Senate Naval Committee as the House prepared to pass it, possibly within a few hours.

Toronto, Jan. 30—(CP)— Bacon hog quotations in Ontario points today remained the same basis of, the past week and stood at $5 with packing establishments paying $1 extra for "selects."

Washington, Jan. 30—(AP) — Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh today was awarded the Hubbard gold medal by the National Geographic Society for her "deftness as secretary, radio operator, aerial navigator and co-pilot."

She is the first woman to receive the medal. It has been conferred on aviators, including Mrs. Lindbergh's husband, Charles A. Lindbergh, with whom she recently made an extensive air journey.

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 30—(AP) — Three members of the John Dillinger gang of outlaws lay at the law's grip in court here today while officers hunted the leader race toward Indiana where the fatal trio first murdered.

Fighting and protesting, Dillinger was carried out of Arizona in a swift aeroplane manhunt last night ahead of a Hebers Corpus writ that would have delayed his departure at least another day. Then Wirtz Ray Hamilton, Russell Clark and Charles Makley were whisked by train midnight as officers prepared to start with them for Indiana by train.

RESCINDING OF BY-LAW IS TO BE ASKED

Ald. Harker Gives Notice of Motion After Motion Being Ruled Out

LITTLE BUSINESS

Various Cities Congratulate Belleville on its Centennial Year

After a notice of motion given at the last meeting by Alderman John Harker respecting the collection of taxes in new installments and omitting before the council at the meeting on Monday evening, had been ruled out of order by the Mayor as a bylaw had already been passed respecting the collecting of taxes, Alderman Harker again gave notice of motion that he would at the next meeting move "that the bylaw passed for the collecting of taxes be rescinded."

Due to the extreme cold weather the City Council and their regular session in the committee room instead of the council chamber and there being but little business to transact,the meeting was of short duration. Laurie Lewis appeared before the council with reference to the record of contracts after tenders were received for typewriters and artificial limbs for the City Hall and after the discussion, the council was unanimous in leaving the contracts as given. The contract for the purchase of the typewriting machine at a price of $37.50. The Unemployment Association and the Salvation Army were granted the use of the City Hall auditorium free and the South End Athletic Club were granted the use of the auditorium for three nights during the winter at a price of $7.50 each night, the club to arrange for cleaning the hall and heating it on the same state as when found. In the near future an Advisory Relief Board will be appointed to check over the rearranged relief requirements.

Concur in Centennial

The council will forward a resolution to the Centennial Committee of the coming Centennial celebration of the Corporation of Belleville in a police village and will also allow the use of the auditorium of the City Hall for any purpose in connection with the same. A number of cities of Ontario have sent congratulations to this city on its attainments of 100 years of corporation and these were read at the meeting and will be found in another column.

A letter was received from the City Engineer with respect to the work in connection with Zwirk's Island and the same will be left to Mr. Moore, landscape artist. Alderman Donovan wished to know what arrangements had been made with Mr. Moore as it was impossible to carry out all the work that he had planned. The same Alderman wished to know the cost to the city for Mr. Moore and he was informed it would be for the cost to the city for plans but that the council was not obligated in any way to carry out the full scheme.

Alderman McCrea says "Is that the limit of our responsibility?"

Mayor Tice—"Yes."

Ald. McCrea—"If you accept services you must pay."

Ald. McCrea—"I would see, Mr. Mayor, that the cheque is endorsed 'for full services rendered.'"

Enquiries Made

Under the head of enquiries, Alderman Donovan asked if the stenographer had been appointed for the relief job and the answer in the affirmative was given. Frank Rayfield has been given the job at $100 per month for a short time. Alderman Poley inquired if anything had been done with regard to the Stephens-Adamson account and the Alderman was informed that no move had been made in the matter.

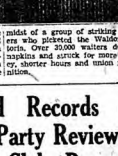
There being no one of which was only given its second reading as the bylaw will have to be approved by the Municipal Board before council can finally ratify it were introduced and read through the various stages. A bylaw to continue the provisions of a bylaw in force respecting the civic salaries was passed and the same stands until the fiscal year until February 1st, 1935. The assessment made and revised in the year 1933 will be the assessment for 1934. A bylaw to borrow $40,000 from the Bank of Montreal to carry on the Corporation's program for relief purposes was given its second reading.

STRIKES SIDE OF TRAIN

Toronto, Jan. 30—(CP)—Driving into a snowplow that had stalled on a Canadian Pacific Railway train at a level crossing south of here today L. V. Stephens, 36-year-old war veteran of Long Branch, narrowly escaped death but suffered injured knee, face lacerations and shock.

It was thought that Stephen's vision was blocked by snow which had collected on the windshield.

JENNIE DIDN'T W ASTE ANY TIME



Right off the boat and into the middle of a strike was the unusual step that marked the arrival in New York of Miss Jennie Lee, wife of Aneurin Bevan, member of the British parliament, who is shown in the middle of a group of striking waiters as she picketed the Waldorf-Astoria. Over 20,000 waiters downed napkins and aprons in protest against cuts, shorter hours and union recognition.

Policies and Records of Conservative Party Reviewed at Thurlow Club Banquet

J. Earl Lawson, M.P. is Special Speaker of Evening

MEMBERS PRESENT

Reeve And Deputy Reeve of Thurlow Tell of County Affairs

J. EARL LAWSON

Bitterly cold, blustery sub-zero weather prevented the anticipated large attendance at the 4th. annual banquet of the Thurlow Conservative Club in the Orange Hall, Cannifton, Monday evening. Last year 225 residents of Thurlow and visitors from nearby communities enjoyed the hospitality of the club and accommodation had been arranged last night for 200 diners. With half the cars in the district frozen up, and the remaining operating half ready and likely any minute to be, only some 130 were present at the banquet.

Those who forsook the comfort of their own firesides and visited Cannifton last night were rewarded with a splendid dinner excellently prepared by the matrons of Thurlow township and admirably served by the younger Conservative womanhood of the community. They heard an aggressive and illuminative address delivered by J. Earl Lawson, M.P., for West York, and speeches from the riding's representatives at Toronto and Ottawa from the reeve and deputy reeve of the township and remarks from several of the club members. The musical entertainment was cut to a minimum to make it a night of speech making. James D. Bankler (Continued on page ten) of Belleville, with Leo B. Biggs as accompanist, led the community singing. Miss Ann Brown contributed a solo and Harry Harrison, president of the Thurlow Conservative Association, entertained with one of his droll stories relative to machinery.

President Geo. Rigdon of the East Hastings Conservative Association and Frank M. McKeown, president of the Belleville Conservative Association were present to pay their respective organizations recognition of the 4th. annual dinner of the Thurlow club. About half those from Belleville who had anticipated going to Cannifton Monday evening were in attendance while a large delegation from Sidney had to cancel its trip owing to the severity of the weather.

Bruce Martin, president of the club, was toastmaster and as is his custom, filled his position admirably in a few words introducing the chief speaker of the evening, Mr. Lawson, M.P., for West York, and also the speeches from the riding's representatives at Toronto and Ottawa from the reeve and deputy reeve of the township and remarks from several of the club members. The musical entertainment was cut to a minimum to make it a night of speech making. James D. Bankler

"Life of Christ" by Dickens May Shortly be Issued in London

London, Jan. 30—(CP Cable)— The "Life of Christ" by Charles Dickens may appear in book form after all. The manuscript, written by the celebrated novelist when a child at the disposal of his grand-children, following the recent death of the novelist's last surviving child, Sir Henry Dickens, is being eagerly sought by publishers.

The offers of publishers were received today by the six grand-children at a meeting held last night but it is understood the manuscript may be sanctioned off. An offer of 10,000 pounds was made some years ago to Sir Henry but he preferred to leave the question of publication to be decided after his death.

Incidentally it was learned that "Life of Christ" by Sir Hall Caine, completed shortly before his death some years ago, may also be published soon.

The grand-children of Charles Dickens are Admiral Dickens of the Naval Intelligence staff, Harold well known barrister, Philip Dickens, a director of the Imperial Chemical Trust, Mrs. Robert Shuckburgh, wife of the solicitor, public trustee, Mrs. Hankley, wife of the solicitor to the late Princess Royal and Mrs. Alex Wayley.

67,585 FEET REACHED INTO STRATOSPHERE

Soviet Aviators Now Making Descent to Ground

BITTERLY COLD

Break Record of Piccard And Settle Made Short Time Ago

(By Stanley P. Richardson)
(Associated Press Foreign)

MOSCOW, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A Soviet Civil Aviation dirigible balloon which took off on an unannounced ascension today was reported in a message from its crew to have reached the record altitude of 67,585 feet, or 20,600 meters.

The balloon, known as the "Osoviakhim," attained that altitude at 11.50 a.m. Moscow time 4.29 a.m. E.S.T., and shortly after word of the bag said a descent was being started immediately.

At that position, the crew reported the temperature outside was between 36 and 45 degrees below zero, centigrade (33 and 49 below zero Fahrenheit) and 20 below was inside.

The message "All is well" was flashed from the balloon and to be followed with the additional word, that officials say was to prove the crew could not determine their exact position.

It was added that they were unable to say where or at what time the balloon would land.

Airplanes were dispatched from the Moscow Civil Aviation to help the Stratosphere crew reach safety.

The balloon swung aloft at 8:40 a.m. Moscow time (3.30 a.m. E.S.T.).

At 11 o'clock local time (3.30 a.m. E.S.T.) the balloonists reported by radio, that they had reached a height of 16 kilometers (12 1-2 miles).

From Private Aerodrome

Today the flight was started at the private aerodrome of the Osoviakhim, a civilian aviation society for which the big bag was named.

The crew was composed of Fedoz-tenko and M. Cunyakin as pilots and M. Yazdovsky, navigator of the Stratostat U.S.S.R., in which three Soviet balloonists ascended to a reported height of more than 20,000 feet September 30.

The "Osaviakhim" is similar to the Stratostat U.S.S.R., an army balloon, which recently took, however, it was claimed it was the highest flight in the world.

Lieut.-Commander T. G. W. Settle of the United States set the present recognized Stratosphere flight record September 4, 1933, he and MaJor Chester L. Pondroy reached a height of 18,663 meters (61,237 feet.)

The Settle balloon took off from Akron, Ohio, and landed near Bridgeton, N.J.

The record previously had been held by Professor Auguste Piccard at 57,579 feet.

Three Soviet balloonists in the Stratostat U.S.S.R. a year ago, reached a height of 19,000 meters, but have ascended more than 62,000 feet September 30.

The Soviet Union however, is not represented in the International Aeronautical Federation which approved the Settle mark. Hence the Russian height was not considered for the record.

CANON VERNON DIES AGED 63

Toronto, Jan. 30 (CP) — Rev. Canon C. W. Vernon, General Secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada, died here today.

Canon Vernon, who was also President of the Social Service Council of Canada, was in his 64th year. He was born in England and was a graduate of King's College, London, Eng., and he was a classmate of the late Rev. Dr. Norwood, who died in Toronto in September, 1932.

Canon Vernon had been ill since last October, suffering from heart trouble, following an attack of influenza. He was recently reported to be improving.

Born in London, England, in 1871 C. W. Vernon, after his early education in that country and pursued the occupation of a farmer in Sussex County for several years before coming to Canada. He then farmed in Nova Scotia for three years before entering King's College, Windsor.

Canon Vernon was in Belleville last year on a visit to the congregations of St. Thomas and Christ Church on special services.

"He "dealh will be a very distinct loss," commented Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, vicar of St. Thomas' Church.

Senator Little and Two Brothers Charged with Fraud in Business Deal

True Bills Returned by Grand Jury at London Following Collapse of W holesale Drygoods Firm of Robinson Little and Company

WARRANTS TO BE ISSUED

Senator And Brothers Wi ll Appear in Court Before Justice Kerwin Whe n Charges Will be Read—Trial Likely to go Ov er to Spring Assizes

London, Ont., Jan. 30—True bills naming seven charges involving theft, conspiracy and fraud were returned by the Winter Assize Grand Jury today against Senator R. S. Little and Arthur T. Little, of London, and Waller Little of Winnipeg. The two lad named are brothers of the Liberal Senator.

The charges follow the collapse of the large wholesale drygoods firm of Robinson, Little and Company three years ago.

Senator Little, of Victoria, Somersville, B.C., announced warrants for the arrest of all three would be issued, but said the warrants would not be executed. Senator Little and his two brothers will appear before Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin in Supreme Court here Thursday, W. B. Henderson, K.C., their counsel announced today. The charges will be read, said Henderson, and the accused will be released on bail fixed and the case, according to court officials, traversed to the Spring sittings.

The charge of the Grand Jury charges the three brothers with conspiracy to defraud shareholders of the Robinson, Little Company; the latter is also charged with conspiring to sell the property of the company. All three are further charged with "making, circulating or publishing statements and accounts which they knew to be false in material particulars with intent to deceive or defraud" members, shareholders or creditors of the company.

Waller Little is charged with theft of $80,000, E. S. Little with theft of $150,000, and Waller H. Little with theft of $80,000, the property of the Robinson, Little Manufacturing Company, it is alleged.

The last count is that against R. S. Little, alleging that he received from the Holeproof Hosiery Company of Canada, Ltd., $80,000 "under terms requiring him to account for or pay the same to the Robinson, Little Company," and that he had fraudulently omitt to account for the same or pay it and thereby did commit theft."

WARNING TO AUSTRIA FROM ADOLF HITLER

First Anniversary of Hitler's Arrival of Power

TRIBUTE TO ENGLAND

Thanks Voiced to England For Efforts Towards Understanding

(By Louis P. Lochner)
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Berlin, Jan. 30, —(AP)— Adolf Hitler, Chancelor of Germany, signalled the first anniversary of his assumption of power today by declaring that now humbility has entered upon a period of "searching for timely ideas and realizations that might give humanity a new well being".

His declaration was made in the course of an address to the Reichstag and a crowd of foreign diplomats packed into the Kroll Opera House where Germany centred its celebration of the first anniversary of Hitler's ascension to the leadership of the Reich.

"The German Government's great regret," said Hitler, "its relations with the present Austrian Government are not satisfactory.

"The fault is not ours. The assertion that Germany plans to violate Austria is absurd and fantastic of proof.

"No revolutionary ideas were ever stopped at the frontiers as the French Revolution proved.

"If the present Austrian Government thinks it necessary to oppose this movement forcibly it is its own affair but it will have to bear the consequences.

"Austria cannot expect Germany guests if the latter are looked upon as unwelcome—no more than Germany could expect Austrian or British guests if they were to have their national emblems and flags torn down while they were visiting Germany.

"Germany cannot tolerate such humiliating treatment."

Hitler also expressed thanks that the British Government had assisted its sevices toward creating friendly relations between France and Germany. He said the British Disarmament Plan, submitted to Berlin yesterday, would be examined with the best will and friendly spirit.

Mass Buying Probe is Launched by Government

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Mass buying by department and chain stores and its effect upon retail trade, labor conditions and manufacturing, was made the department and chain stores; the relation between the flour milling industry and the wheat section in Canada; and the methods prevailing in the marketing of livestock, will be probed in a sweeping investigation which the government will institute at the next session of parliament.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett gives notice on today's order paper of the House of Commons that he will move to appoint a committee consisting of eleven members of the House to investigate the matters.

For some little time the government has been directing its attention to the matters covered in the resolution. Recently, in Toronto, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, made an address in which he referred to mass buying by department and chain stores and dealt with possible injurious results from such business to small retailers and manufacturers.

His speech produced a small-sized flood of letters from persons and organizations for the most part endorsing his remarks. At that time Mr. Bennett waited upon the Minister and supported the statements he had made.

6,000 Balls Will Mark 52nd Birthday of Pres. Roosevelt

75,000 Send Greeting Cards to The White House

MILLIONS ATTEND

(By Ken Clarke, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Jan. 30 (CP)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, 52nd President of the United States, over the destinies of 130,000,000 Americans than any President in history, today celebrated his birthday anniversary.

Celebrating with him were the 75,000 who sent greeting cards to the White House, the darkies down South, the sourdoughs mushing in to Fairbanks, Alaska, for the party and the patients in the Warm Springs, Georgia, Sanitarium for Infantile Paralysis. The place where the President himself struggled back to health and strength.

More than 6,000 balls will be held in the United States and its possessions tonight in honor of Mr. Roosevelt. Eleven of the balls he himself will go to assure the future of the Warm Springs Foundation. "Fun in Georgia "Sun" today small packets in their wheel chairs for the square dance for the President after they have eaten his birthday cake and ice cream. He will make a speech in behalf of crippled children.

Will Cut Cake

The President himself in the White House at Washington will cut a large cake decorated with 52 candles and have a party with his child friends, those who were with him in the 1920 Vice-Presidential campaign, three of whom are now Cabinet members: Louis M. Howe, Marvin H. McIntyre and Stephen Early. Mrs. Roosevelt will be present.

The most stately ball will be in the Capital attended by government officers; the most unpretentious at Cherry Valley, Ill. Fifteen couples will attend.

The biggest ball will be in New York at the Waldorf-Astoria where the President's mother will have box number one.

ROUTINE WORK AT HATCHERY

"Just routine work," stated Mr. G. K. Manore, superintendent of the local Dominion Fish Hatchery, when questioned today regarding activities at the hatchery.

At present the work of Mr. Manore and attendants is confined mostly to the culture of whitefish eggs, which are being hatched in the big tanks. Later the fry will be liberated in the Bay of Quinte and lake waters. The lake trout are also being reared for restocking northern lakes in the province.

FRACTURES LEG WHILE COASTING

Tumbling from the sled with, which she had been coasting down a steep hill near her home; at Crookston with two other companions, Mary Mullett, five year old daughter of Harry Mullett, Crookston, received a fractured leg. Carried to her home by her companions, with the sled, the compound fracture was reduced by Dr. Eagleson of Madoc who was summoned.

NOT MUCH TROUBLE WITH WATER PIPES

In spite of the sub zero weather of the past few days, which made added demands on other civic departments, water department officials failed to report any unusual number of frozen water pipes in the city. The few that did have frozen pipes outside the lot line of local residents have been far below average this year, and have been quickly treated by the electric thawing machine now in use by the department. Laying a new service at a greater depth below ground, when found, helped the department greatly in combatting the frost.

MEN CALLED OFF WORK FOR SHIN HEAT

Although a few nipped fingers and toes were reported by workers engaged on the relief improvement scheme on Monday, Monday's actual frost bites were reported at a minimum around the workers by foreman and officials in charge. Work was continued throughout the day in spite of the biting winds and low temperatures, although gangs worked in the more sheltered sections of the island, with short periods of thawing out a "must" beat." The full force of workers was still employed today.

DISTEMPER ATTACK NOW ON THE WANE

Virulent distemper which took its toll among the ranks of the canine population in other centres of this central area and made a brief visit here a week or two ago is now on the wane, according to local veterinaries. Although the attacks of the epidemic were sharp and disastrous, only a few animals in this city were said to have been affected.

RIGHT ARM IS FRACTURED

Falling on the ice covered roadway Mrs. M. Zacharish of Shannonville fractured her right arm early yesterday. Mrs. Zacharish was afforded first aid by Dr. Richardson of Shannonville before being taken to the surgery of Dr. J. J. Robertson of this city where the fracture was X-rayed. Following the X-ray it was found that the fracture was of a comminuted immediate attention. The injured woman was later taken to the Belleville General Hospital, where the fracture was reduced by the surgeon above mentioned.

MOOSE DANCE A SUCCESS

V.O.N. Joins With Lodge in Providing Pleasant Evening

Characterized by the same sparkle and glitter of past previous successes, the annual euchre and dance of the Royal Victorian Order of Nurses in Belleville held under the auspices of the Royal Order of Moose 1004 and Ladies' Chapter 435 in the Moose auditorium Wednesday evening was added to current list of distinctive entertainments. In spite of the fact, that silence was out down somewhat by the last snow-storm, the Moose hall was comfortably filled with the gay and merry throng which thoroughly tripped the light fantastic, until an early hour this morning.

Two door prizes donated by Alderman Benjamin Smith and Alderman Arthur Imlah for the occasion were won by Mrs. Lorne Burke, and Mr. Ted Wilcox.

Euchre winners all of whom turned in high scores were announced as follows: Ladies, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Storey; Miss Dee Burke and Mrs. Mossman. Gentlemen, Mr. J. Brush, Wm. Lancaster, R. Burke and J. Bush.

A note of appreciation is expressed by officers of both chapters of the local Order of Moose and by the officers of the Victorian Order of Nurses for the generous donations for the euchre and ex-Alderman Imlah, to Past President Miss Dee Burke and the V.O.N. for his generosity in providing needed equipment for the local branch of the Army and Navy Veterans' in Canada, for their friendly gesture in deferring their usual weekly euchre and dance scheduled for the same evening to a later date.

Special orchestral numbers were furnished during the evening by the Commodores' orchestra.

3 YEAR TERM GIVEN GREEN

Seven Previous Convictions Against Deseronto Youth

Leo Green, 30 of Deseronto, was sentenced to three years in the Portsmouth Penitentiary after being found guilty of breaking, entering and theft before His Honor Judge Deroche in the County Court this morning.

Green was charged with breaking entering and stealing a quantity of groceries, cigarettes, candy, fruit and other small articles from Trefan's grocery store in Deseronto on the night of December 20th last. The accused man claimed to have visited the premises for the highway but, during the evidence submitted by the Crown, Constable Ross who investigated and later arrested Green, it was disclosed that Green had confessed to the officers that he broke in without entering the building, by breaking a glass in the front door. It is the culmination of the evidence submitted His Honor Judge Deroche said:—"There is no need of hearing counsel's argument in this case as the accused is clearly guilty from the evidence submitted."

"I don't know what to do with you Green, you've had numerous chances in the past and were determined not to right your ways," added His Honor after being assured that Green had been seven times previously convicted on similar counts and had served a previous penitentiary sentence.

"I am giving you what I can do give you a more severe punishment, although I do not like to see a young man go to prison, I'll have to pass a three year term in the penitentiary on you," continued His Honor as the prisoner reremanded the prisoner.

During the trial evidence was submitted by the Crown to show that Green had sold the stolen goods near Trenton. He was arrested by the Provincial Police early in the morning of last Friday. Following his arrest Green took the Provincial Police to a wooded spot south of Trenton where some of the cached goods were found. It stated he burned the rest of the stolen articles in the fire of detection. At the time of arrest Green was employed at the Trenton Airport relief project No. 28.

R. C. Donnan K.C., local Crown Attorney, prosecuted the case while the accused man was defended by Ormond Dunker, local solicitor.

FIREMEN HAVE WESTSIDE CALL

Members of the local fire department on the alert since the first day of the cold snap again raced time to the third fire of the week to the home of Mr. Jas. McDonald, 35 Geddes Street shortly after nine o'clock this morning. No damage was occasioned by the chimney fire caused by overheated pipes.

HE DIDN'T WIN CANADIAN TITLE LIKE THIS

We wonder if Joe Kirkwood (ABOVE) could have won the Canadian open golf title last year if he had worn such an outlandish costume and carried such a ridiculous club. But here were no tricks to Joe's fine major tournament victory last year. The famous Australian is seen here demonstrating his form on the links at Santa Monica, Calif.

New Deal in Cheese Industry in Ontario

Some months ago Ontario's Minister of Agriculture announced a dairy program for the province of a far-reaching character. A five-year plan for the farmers, it was called, to recapture the British market for Ontario cheese and reorganize group by group all the dairy farmers throughout the province so as to restore Ontario's milk production to health and prosperity.

"Instead of any real surplus of milk in this province," said the Honourable Thomas L. Kennedy, "we expand our milk production almost indefinitely if we only reorganize our marketing, production and distribution methods. Because our cheese export has fallen to nearly nothing its former dimensions we have an artificial surplus and distress on our butter, city milk and manufacturers' milk markets.

"This should quickly disappear when present unfavorable conditions are corrected. The basic difficulty has been the less-than-cost-of-production returns for cheese which has forced this milk onto city milk and butter markets. This situation can be corrected only by the farmers themselves.

"Already the Whole Milk and City Milk Producers have organized and brought about improved methods and understanding between themselves and the distributors with very beneficial results. Now the Cheese Patrons have completed after months of untiring effort county by county, an organization which has recently been co-ordinated into an Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association, and promises to restore our cheese exports and largely increase domestic consumption and production."

"The program embarked on by the Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association is sound. It has the unanimous approval of the government which has agreed to assist in the earlier stages. Every agricultural representative in the province, every dairy instructor, the whole energies of the Ontario Marketing Board and the Dairy Branch are to be thrown behind the movement."

The plan, in brief, is outlined by Colonel Kennedy is one that has originated with the farmers, will be carried through by them and financed by them on a basis of assessing all cheese patrons 5 cents per 1,000 pounds of milk turned into the cheese factory. A trifling amount to each farmer per year but owing to the magnitude of the industry will provide ample funds to finance cheese production and to maintain their own commercial representative on the overseas markets.

The old Cheese Board system is to be overhauled and antiquated methods of marketing and production abandoned. Central collecting cold storage, and grading plants may be established, competition in cheese during restored and a plan to increase the domestic consumption of cheese undertaken.

Central offices will be established in Belleville under the management of the Secretary-Treasurer of the Association, Mr. J. L. Joss, of that city. The province is divided into five districts under the charge of five members of the Association Executive who will each be regarded as a governor of his district. A commercial representative of the industry is to be established in Great Britain to open up direct relations with the trade overseas and increase the preference for Ontario cheese and expand our exports at fair prices.

Production costs are to be reduced through cow testing, better bull policy, factory improvement and other economies. Collective purchase of supplies already undertaken by associations promise large results.

A Big Domestic Market Possible.

The consumption of cheese per capita in Canada is very low, 3½ pounds per person compared with 11 to 13 pounds in Great Britain and 15 to 20 pounds in other countries. That is the challenge of five members of the Association Executive who will each be regarded as a governor of his district. A commercial representative of the industry is to be established in Great Britain to open up direct relations with the trade overseas and increase the preference for Ontario cheese and expand our exports at fair prices.

READINGS OF TEMPERATURE

Thirteen and Half Degrees Below Zero Recorded at Belleville

It was cold throughout this century section during the night Monday and Tuesday morning. Temperatures! Brrr!

Here are a few as given by the local office of the Canadian National Railways on Tuesday morning:

Brockville 10
Ottawa 16
Lindsay 17
Cannifton, closer home reported to below; Pontiac, 18 and Cobalt 22, the comparatively balmy temperature of 15 below was registered.

Throughout the northern township of Hastings from 20 to 30 below was variously recorded.

In the city:

North Station—10 below.
City Pump House—13.
Dominion Experimental Labors.—13-1-2.

Coldest early morning ones.

X marks the spot today in front of numerous downtown thermometers where hurrying footsteps of pedestrians were momentarily halted briefly through the late hours last evening and early this morning as the mercury registered the position of a downcast mercury just how cold it was.

It was very cold along the business section of the city last evening even if no two thermometers did register exactly alike under the icy exact reading. Only a few straggling wayfarers braved the chill blasts through which a biting wind kneed. Only a few deserted streets. Few and far apart the policeman walking his frigid beat from station to A Division and Front Streets were deserted while the mercury stood stripped to bitter ten degree below shortly before midnight. But in the chill sweep of the flats at Bridge Street, Station, frosty taxi drivers and passengers from the trains were willing to agree that it was quite a lot colder than that.

But still no relief is in sight. On the third day of the third cold wave of winter, according to forecasts by the weather man at least, no relief from the bitter temperatures may be experienced. After that no optimistic forecasts are made regarding a "break" although the local weather office signs in that section of warming up were given.

In the meantime plumbers, garage men fuel dealers, and other tradesmen were preparing for the aftermath of the trail of damage and annoyance left by the cold wave.

Ice dealers at work harvesting the season's record crop of ice said the material thickness has been added to daily. An average thickness now of 30 inches is now reported in the Bay of Quinte.

OBITUARY

LATE JUDGE J. F. WILLS

In the obituary of the late Judge J. F. Wills which appeared in the Monday issue of this paper mention was not made of his connection with the Belleville Club. The Judge was a member of the club since and past president of it, and one of the club's upholders when there seemed a chance of it going out of existence.

Also as a son, mourning the passing of the Judge, is his nephew Mr. Philip E. Wills of this city.

MRS. McGARRITY

During the past week the Marysville district lost by death a very highly esteemed lady in the person of Mrs. Lucy A. McGarrity at the age of seventy-three years. St. Michael's Church of Marysville lost a very devout member by her passing. She died in the Kingston Hospital on Wednesday, had been ill in both hospitals for two years.

The remains were brought to her home and the funeral, which was very largely attended, took place on Friday morning to St. Mary's Church with Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery. Owing to the illness of Rev. Father Desormeaux, parish priest of St. Mary's Church, the service was conducted by the Rev. Father E. M. Leacy of St. Vincent de Paul Church, Deseronto. Requiem High Mass for the repose of the soul was sung and there were numerous spiritual offerings and mass cards.

The deceased was a daughter of Alex Anderson and Catharine Kilmory and was born at Marysville, where she spent her early years and where she received her education.

A devout member of her church while residing in the west, she took an exceptional interest in the Catholic Women's League, the Altar Society and other organizations in the church, and during the past few years she regretted very much that owing to illness, her activities in the church had to be curtailed to quite an extent.

Her many friends in the Marysville district greatly regretted the dearth of her death, and came to the funeral in large numbers to pay their tribute of respect. The pallbearers were Jack Carry, Michael McAlpine, Arnold Porte, Richard Kennedy, Joseph McGurn and Joseph McCambridge.

She leaves to mourn her loss, one son, Arthur McGarrity of Marysville and one daughter, Miss Mary C. McGarrity, Reg.N., There are three sisters, Mrs. A. J. Hills, Belmont; Mrs. Annie E. Kane, Le Duc, Alberta and Sister Mary Carmelita, of Nauvoo, Ill., also one brother, Alex. Anderson, Minneapolis.

JOHN F. SPRAGUE

For a number of years a well known and highly respected resident of Foxboro, and for the past two years, a resident of New York City, John F. Sprague, passed away on Monday at Oneonta, N.Y. after a short illness. Born near Foxboro Post Office, 82 years ago, he was the son of the late Stephen and Patience (Thompson) Sprague. The late Mr. Sprague was a member of the Foxboro United Church and Moira Lodge No. 11 A.F. and A.M.

Surviving are four sons, George of Oneonta, N.Y., William of Cooperstown, N.Y., Alba in Detroit, Mich., and Allen at Coe Hill; two daughters, Mrs. Allen Decker of Pond Eddy, N.Y., Mrs. I. P. Eggleston at Foxboro, and Mrs. George Jehl and Mrs. Francis Tappan of Detroit, Mich.; and a sister-in-law Mrs. (Dr.) William Sprague of Toronto and formerly of this city. He also children and a great grandson also remain.

The funeral will arrive in Belleville on the noon train, Wednesday and be conveyed to the residence of his daughter, Mrs. I. P. Eggleston, Foxboro, where services will be held at the time of the funeral, Thursday afternoon next.

ARE SHOWERED WITH PRESENTS BY COMMUNITY

Mr and Mrs. Harry Pack Are Honored

Eldorado—On Tuesday evening January 23 about one hundred friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Pack to spend a social evening in honour of their son Harry and his bride, formerly Miss Mary Cross of Deloro, who were recently married and to present them with a miscellaneous shower. The evening was very enjoyably spent in cards and dancing. About eleven o'clock, the gathering was called to order and Miss Mary Stewart read the following address:

Eldorado, Ont.
January 23, 1934

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pack

Dear Mary and Harry:

We your friends are gathered here this evening to take this opportunity of congratulating you on your recent marriage and to wish you much happiness in your future life together.

We hope that your journey along life may be a happy one and filled with sunshine and that the showers that may fall on your way be as happy as this one tonight. You will both meet with obstacles and trials as you go along life's pathway but the little things when conquered make us enjoy the big successes and truly every cloud has a silver lining.

May these gifts stand as a remembrance of the friends and neighbors you have in this community and may they also convey to you our sincere wishes for a long, happy and prosperous married life.

Signed on behalf of your many friends, Everard Cross and Murray Enger.

Harry thanking those present on behalf of himself and his wife and requested that each and everyone pay a visit in the near future, Mr. and Mrs. Pack then unwrapped the many presents which were given them and the evening lasted until the wee sma' hours.

Eldorado and Union P.T.S. met in the basement of Ivan's United Church on Wednesday, January 24th. The President, Mrs. Vincent McClure opened the meeting. The Scripture lesson was read by Merton Wright, taken from Romans 2: 11-16. The roll call showed 23 members on the old side and 15 on the white side. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. This was followed with prayer by Miss A. Holmes. The meeting was then handed over to Mr. Gordon Pigden, convenyr of the literary department who gave the devotional topic, after which Miss Gladys Wright led in prayer. Mrs. Leslie Robinson gave the topic entitled "The Literary Heritage of Scotland". Mrs. McClure spoke briefly on the life of Sir Walter Scott, famous Scotch novelist and poet. She referred each and every one to Scotch poems in our books to find real inspiration. She closed by reading a story from Dr. Norman McLeod's book "The Starling". Miss Annie Thorpe favored by reading two Scotch poems by Burns, "For he was Scotch and so was she," and "We Mousie". Mr. Pigden calling on the white side to sing and afterwards the red side.

The meeting closed by repeating the Mizpah Benediction, after which a contest, consisting of a stump speech by each member of not more than two minutes on subjects furnished by the convener. Needless to say, there were many hearty laughs.

Meeting of Mission Society of Belleville Presbyterial

Executive Receives Reports of All Phases of Work

Meeting of Mission etc.

Devotion by Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Presbyterial Press Secretary.)

Despite the very treacherous condition of the roads due to the glazed ice, sixteen members of the executive of the Belleville W. M. S. ventured forth with courage and faith to attend their meeting which was held in Bridge Street United Church on January 25th. This meeting was called to pass the reports before sending them on to Branch officials and plan for the coming Presbyterial which will be held in Napanee, at Trinity United Church on Wednesday and Thursday March 14th and 15th.

Mrs. Corkill opened with Prayer and welcomed the president Mrs. Anderson presided over the two sessions. Greetings from the Branch president, Mrs. W. L. Smyth of Pen rose were read The various secretaries and vice-presidents gave a resume of their reports.

Mrs. Knox 81 Auxiliaries reporting with a membership of 2434, meetings held 961, subscribers to Missionary Monthly 969, Christmas greetings were sent to Miss Caul and Japan. Missionaries would be delighted to receive personal letters from auxiliaries at any time.

The home of Mrs. Bruce Finlay, of Strathcona was submitted for the nomination to Branch for Mission Band and Baby Band Secretary.

The finances are not all in as yet but Mrs. Corkill hopes to remit to branch fifteen thousand six hundred dollars. She reported twelve new Mission Bands and the six baby bands sent her $12.42.

In the absence of Mrs Greer her report was read, to date she has received fifty copies of Christian Stewardship. She hoped Auxiliaries would consider their subscription as an incentive not an assessment. Two Auxiliaries Ebenezer and Queensboro have found it necessary to disband.

Mrs. Palmatier has 20, C. G. I. T. groups an increase of five and 274 members an increased of 54. 69. The fall rally is the big event of the year and a great stimulus to winter study.

Some discussion took place in the earning for the foreign population in Canada and hoping from 6cl out home in this island.

Several members of the W. C. T. U. served a delicious luncheon which was duly appreciated.

Mrs. Bailey reported thirty-four bands replying and urged a conference for band leaders.

Mrs. Hearn has 193 associate helpers who take 61 monthlies and eleven have accepted active service in their auxiliaries and these women contributed $154. 79. One regular meeting will be set aside in 1934 for the associate Helpers Department.

Mrs. Hooper told of various auxiliaries who have staged splendid "Peace" programmes during the year and urged that a copy of Influence be purchased from the "League of Nations" Office for a quarter. The little playlet "So this is Geneva", is quite good.

Mrs. MacMullen has received replies from 23 Auxiliaries 3 W. A.'s, 6 Circles, 6 C. G. I. T. groups and 19 Mission Bands are now organizations she has sent in to the fifteen newspapers 1933 Items of Missionary interest. The work is steadily growing and the local press secretaries throughout the Presbyterial.

Mrs. Robbins received 79 parcels of clothing valued at $1441.61. The need was been great, children and more so boys' and girls of 7, 8 and 9 yrs. of age will be greatly appreciated this year. Letters of appeal from local ministers are to be sent direct to Mrs. Reddick, not to the Auxiliaries.

Mrs. Empey received 52 replies and a large number of strangers have been welcomed and sick visited.

Mrs. Williams received 42 replies, 109 study books taken being 6 C. G. I. T. and 24 Band Study books. She outlined the new reading contest sponsored by the Board.

It was decided that the Presbyterial accept the Costen and that fiv dollars be donated to purchase books for the award to the Auxiliary with highest percentage. The nominating committee to keep track of all missionary books read and then pass on to the literature secretary.

Mrs. Hooper and Mrs. Knox were appointed to attend the Convolution to Geneva.

The five vice presidents all reported the various activities in their particular section.

In the absence of four secretaries, no reports were heard from Temperance, Young Women's work, Baby Bands, Missionary Monthly and Life friends.

Considerable discussion took place on various items of our work and the programme committee composed of the officers met at the close to arrange for the Presbyterial Annual meeting.

An encouraging note ran through the day's proceedings and it is hoped that every individual member in every local organization will assist the executive in their efforts by five members as we are hoping to increase by at least five hundred.

There will not be any branch meeting this year but a full branch executive will convene early in March to close their year's work.

The day closed with a fervent prayer that all would reach home safely and be divinely guided in their various departments. Auxiliaries are asked to remember the "World's" Day of Prayer on February 16th.

Members present were:—

Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Corkill, Mrs. Hearn, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Dafoe, Mrs. Switzer, Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Haggerty, Mrs. Palmatier, Mrs. Reddick, Mrs. Hoare, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Empey, Mrs. MacMullen, Mrs. Knox and one visitor Mrs. E. Farnsworth.

Respectfully submitted by Florence E. MacMullen
Presbyterial Press Secretary

KING ASSAILS GOVERNMENT

Premier Bennett Promises to Answer All Criticisms

Ottawa, Jan. 30 (CP)—Facts and figures to show Canada is moving towards prosperity and is moving faster than some other countries are promised House of Commons today when Prime Minister R. B. Bennett takes the floor to answer the lengthy attack made on his government last night by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader.

The Liberal leader's attack was made in the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne and ended with the proposing of an amendment declaring the Government had lost the confidence of the House and the people.

Failure Charged

He charged the Government with failure in all its undertakings, failure to meet the unemployment problem, failure to relieve the farmers, failure in the foreign trade. Then he accused it of autocratic action, of ignoring parliament and ignoring the request will of parliament and the people. In this connection he mentioned the recent bestowal of titles on Canadians at New Year's and the volunteering of a loan of $60,000,000 to the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Titles Scored

Introduction of titles was only one score raised against the Government by the Liberal leader. He labelled the Government's unemployment relief record, trade and agricultural policies as failures. The unemployment is for not negotiating a reciprocity treaty with the United States, while Washington was anxious. The world wheat agreement, of which Canada was a signatory was handed a retrograde step because, in effect, it means increased production in the west.

The Government was accused also of attempting to create an illusory state of prosperity based on manipulated statistics. This false picture was created, he said, in employment reports issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics which were not correct because they included those out of men on unemployment relief works.

Canada should have a National Unemployment Insurance scheme, suggested Mr. King. Immediate relief should be short-term and intermediate loans for farmers and liberation of trade through lowered tariffs.

Autocracy Charged

All through the Liberal leader's speech it was a charge the Government was attempting to legislate without parliament. This was said was exemplified in the restoration of titles after parliament, in 1919, passed the Nickle ban which had been deemed binding on succeeding administrations and had never been rescinded.

Titles, said Mr. King, were abhorrent to Canadian minds. They created exclusive social classes which were not wanted in Canada. But his argument was limited to the bestowal of honors. He charged the Government with going in the face of constitutional propriety with "back door methods" and defying the wishes of the people and their parliament.

The only possible explanation was that the Prime Minister recommended Canadians for titles before Parliament could express its order to make the question one of confidence in the administration and solicit the votes of Conservatives in the House.

THE LATE JUDGE WILLS

In the late Judge J. F. Wills the County of Hastings and the City of Belleville had a native son who grew up to serve them in the most unmistakable manner. Believing that a citizen's duty is to make some contribution to the municipal life and the community, Judge Wills showed the way himself by his election to the public causes, by his services on the Board of Education and the City Council, by the services he rendered on innumerable bodies, and by his career at the Bar and his distinguished position as a judge of the county court, as well as by his interest in healthy sport as yachtsman and golfer.

So often the native in this western world leaves the work to the newcomer but His Honor Judge Wills believed that the natives of Hastings and Belleville had a contribution to make to the place of their nativity. In a new age and a new world with developments coming thick and fast it is a healty sign to find such faith in the people of the city and district.

He was loyal to Belleville and Belleville's past and to the district.

Judge Wills was possessed of an affable manner which made him popular with all classes of citizens.

He will long be remembered in Belleville with which his whole life was so closely associated.

YOUNG THESPIANS

Young Thespians of Belleville will compete in the regional competition on February 8, 9, and 10 at Kingston in the Dominion Drama Festival under the terms of the Bessborough Trophy. "The spirit of a nation if it is to find full expression must include a National Drama," the Earl of Bessborough recently said and this purpose is animating the various groups throughout Canada which have entered in this year's competition.

Measuring up against the best amateur actors in Canada two Belleville groups last winter gave creditable productions in the regional festival. This year one company will take part, directed by Miss M. J. Merry. The vehicle chosen for their appearance is "They Refuse to be Resurrected," by M. K. Smith, an interesting Pierrot and Pierrette play.

Belleville and the surrounding district must encourage in every way that is possible the Young Thespians in their efforts to create a living drama spirit in our midst. As His Excellency has pointed out no nation can be great without dramatic expression. Great nations of history have not failed to have their eras of dramatic development, which have not only expressed national and international ideals but have also glimpsed the future.

Groups such as the Young Thespians are doing a work for this district and the Dominion of Canada in undertaking a play to compete in the forthcoming trials.

Every actor as well as every technician is learning something which will be of the greatest value in later life.

Those who have witnessed the recent local presentation by the Thespians know what a development has been shown by these young people.

The final presentation of the Young Thespians will be waited with great interest by citizens who have taken a marked interest in the young actors' group.

WEATHER PROPHETS CONFOUNDED

It is definitely established to the satisfaction of most persons that those who believed that winters had changed to mild-er winters for good are proven weather prophets of no account.

To make very clear to the people that the weather prophets are not worth listening to, nature started in a winter of abnormal storm in late October and has held the reins since not for a moment letting the poor gussers have a chance.

The trouble is that the amateur weather prophet just happened to guess aright for a mild winter. Now there are such men who have for this winter made a mess of their guesses just as there are those who might be able to offer suggestions on the weather and yet do not do so. As usual the poor prophet attempted too much, something which Mother Nature herself did not know.

By the time the genial spring comes back this winter ought to have cleared out the defeated prophets who have been fooling the people without the slightest remorse by patting themselves on the back and saying like the little boy in the nursery rhyme:

Little Jack Horner sat in a corner
Eating his Christmas pie
He put in his thumb
And pulled out a plum
And said "Oh! what a good boy am I!"

They were good boys when the storms just suited them and like most men who predict soft easy winters because it is natural to want them soft and mild.

THE PRAIRIE

Here one may gaze, and sleep, a thousand miles;
And sleeping dream; and dreaming gaze again;
And find no change where heaven happily smiles
On quiet homesteads and their growing grain.
No startled life invades the level scene;
No changing turmoil mars by night or day;
Still solitude lies draped in browning green
Where one lone coyote turns and slinks away.

How teill this vast interminable sod:
Unwatered bed of some forgotten sea;
This silence in the symphony of God;
This sacrament of life's eternity . . .
This unbound hope, this sombre soul's duress!
This hungering, alluring loneliness.

"WORK OF ART" is Sinclair Lewis' latest novel, that being the name of the book, not a description, although it is more or less a work of art, like all other Sinclair Lewis stories, giving an insight into some exemplhase of life hitherto more or less hidden from the general gaze. "Work of Art" goes into the development of the modern hotel from the cross-roads tavern to the skyscraper, "home away from home" and "supercities" caravansaries of the cities. The story deals with every phase of the hotel business from the kitchen to the bull-room, and from the lighting and heating to the roof garden. Evidently the author got his inspiration from "Grand Hotel" or not he has produced a work which is both interesting and informative.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS of the day to Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States on this his birthday. Celebrations of the event will be held all over the United States to collect funds and aid for the support of the sanitarium for infantile paralysis and other ailments at Warm Springs, the President's favorite philanthropy, and the place where he regained his health after being crippled for years by infantile paralysis. There will be much music, much laughter in many cities of the United States tonight in honor of the President's birthday, and incidentally a whole lot of money will be raised for the crippled children of the land to the end that they may be able to throw away crutches and become useful citizens in a world full of love, light and laughter to those whose vision is not obscured by pain and deformity.

A vaudeville act was provided by a trio of Japanese acrobats. One of them was balancing on his feet a number of small ladders fixed together to form a continuous zigzag ladder reaching almost to the roof above the stage. Another of the trio, climbed to the very top, and while swaying precariously high above exclaimed: "Happy New Year to you all."

And a voice from the stalls replied: 'Same to you, 'Erbert, but you ain't dahn yet."

"Oh, dear," said the lady. "Come round to the kitchen door, the grass is longer there."

SOME TYPES OF UNDEVELOPED BRAIN POWER

Morons Can Earn Living Under Favorable Conditions Only

The term "feeble-mindedness," often employed and considerable confusion exists as to what, exactly it means. Literally, it implies "mind that is enfeebled, not because of old age (senility) but because of actual organic brain defects existing from birth or from an early age.

A more accurate term is "amentia," signifying without a mind, although one should emphasize at the outset that amentia can possess no high a degree of brain development that only expert methods of mental testing and diagnosis are capable of discovering that mind defects really exist.

These highest types of "amentia" are known as morons. They are the "almost-normal" in mental age, according to the famous Binet-Simon Measuring Scale of Intelligence, is from eight to twelve years, irrespective of what their physical chronological age may be.

Morons are capable of earning their own livings, under favorable circumstances, but they cannot compete on mental terms with their normal fellows, nor can they manage themselves or their affairs with ordinary prudence. It often takes specialists to detect this comparatively slight degree of mental defect. We can all recognize an imbecile at a glance. Between the two extremes lies the moron.

Morons are deceptive in other ways. Often their language ability far outstrips their mental capacity. They may talk glibly and well. They may cover a wide field of other defects through such verbal gifts. They are the most difficult of all the varieties of amentia to detect.

Imbecility is the next lowest grade of amentia and is more than that is idiocy. These types are easily recognizable, although in every case mental tests should be employed to confirm the suspicion.

It is a popular but erroneous idea that amentia can be cured. Improved, yes. But to "cure" amentia, even one of so high a grade of moronity as to be only a border-line of normality, would be a miracle.

The reason for this misconception is that there are many children who are merely retarded in their mental development — they learn slowly at first and do a little worse than the average—and it has been noted that often, sooner or later, these children "pick up" and turn out to be normal adults.

A vast difference, however, exists between amentia and mental retardation. In mental retardation organic and functional defects exist which hold back mind development. Among such defects are adenoids, enlarged tonsils, malnutrition, chronic illness, uncorrected and defective vision, disturbances of the endocrine glands, St. Vitus dance, speech defect, a nervous make-up, etc. Remove the cause—the organic or functional brake which is holding back the mind's progress—and the child's mentality is accelerated with miraculous speed.

Not so with amentia, however. In this state there is something radically wrong with the brain itself. Its structure is not normal. The brain cells of amenta are deficient in number and distorted in shape. Even operative interference on the brain itself is useless.

Dr. Bleh's Daily Diet Hint

Persons who are apt to develop (Urticaria "Hives) should eat bland, non-irritating foods such as milk and should avoid spices, condiments, highly-seasoned as well as made-over dishes. Persons afflicted Hives in a susceptible person may come from eating fish or shell fish especially if these are not absolutely fresh. But most any kind of food may produce the condition. Therefore those who suffer repeated attacks should have themselves tested for various food reactions.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was looking at the evening paper and he started to read one of the avvertisements out loud, saying, The Finkham Furniture Co. has any pipe. No intelligent man would fill his skiem with nickerson when he is offered a Way Out by such a trifling sum of 50 cents. Smoke took my smoke, the Finkham man way. By golies that sounds good.

Now William do you mean to tell me you are going to throw away money after bad to add another nimmick to your forgotten collection? ma said, and pop said, I seek it some time. O well, one less experiment, one more unsatisfied desire. What do you think I have changed your perfume? he said.

No, Mr. Mandy Lewis has and I'm torn 2 ways about it so Mand kindly invited me to make myself at home with her bottle, ma said. I don't like to be left with a bottle before investing in a bottle, she said, and pop said, You're with it all rite. What's the name of it. Mandylewis Nite Knockout? Or perhaps it's One Punch Shelk he said.

Dont be silly, it's called Irresistible Blonde and it's Jolx Dupree's masterpeice. It's marvellous how the French have an inborn gift for capturing the sole of beauty and making it live forever, or at least so long as a drop remains in the specially designed bottle, ma said.

Yep, Mand. Home run with this distilling moonshine going to ret you rich.

It's not expensive for what it is, I mean for what others are, ma said. It's only 16 dollers a half an ounce, she said, and pop said, Yee gads, that's nimmick. I'm going to write for a Finkleman Filler.

With he went to ma's desk and did.

Under the auspices of the officers of the 15th. Regiment, a smoker was held at the armories last night and it proved to be an enjoyable affair. The first event on the programme was a basketball match between teams representing the Belleville Hardware Company and B. Company of the regiment. It was a close and exciting game and resulted in victory for the latter team by the final score being 28 to 26. P. O. Pitney made a capable and impartial referee. The following officers composed the teams: Hardware Company—Parks, Hogan, Goyer, Hagerty and Brenda. B. Company—Adamson, Hamilton, Varley, A. Hitchon and M. Hitchon. Following this match boxing bouts were conducted in which the following took part: "Peanut" Petrarer and Jas. Varley; Roy Wilson and Alec. Stewart; Harold Mason and Wm. Logue; "Dummy" Moore and A. Shreed; Mr. J. A. Mackie made a capable referee.

The January thaw has arrived. Yesterday afternoon in Bridge St. Methodist Church, Capt. Nellie Ryerson, who has been in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army for some little time, became the bride of Capt. Ludgate. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Shaw, pastor of the local Congregational Church. Many army officers and soldiers were present from Kingston, Napanee and some from points in the United States. The church was filled to capacity and a great crowd remained outside the church. After the wedding a ramptious repast was served in the city hall. It is estimated that over five hundred people were present at the supper. Many citizens contributed food in great variety for the supper. Capt. and Mrs. Ludgate will go to Syracuse, N.Y.

BREAK DUE IN COLD WAVE

Chicago Hardest Hit of Big Cities in The U. S.

(By the Canadian Press)

A break in the frigid weather that enveloped much of the United States apparently was in sight today.

Temperatures were already moderating in the northwest. More moderate readings were predicted for parts of the Central States for today, and for the east the end of the cold snap, and some 13,484 homeless men seeking relief from it here, when weather had been driven into shelters operated by the Illinois Relief Commission.

Elsewhere there were a few additional deaths in the list of persons whose deaths were blamed on the cold.

Three died in Pennsylvania; one in Indiana; 2 in Michigan, and one in Minnesota, where the mercury had sunk to as low as 18 below zero.

Moderate weather was on the Atlantic seaboard from Atlantic City, N.J., to Bastport, Maine.

CHEESE FACTORY PATRONS HELPED

Col. Kennedy Announces Government Aid to This Branch of Industry

Cheese-marketing methods in Ontario will be revolutionized under the plans announced Monday by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture.

Complete modernization of both production and marketing is the aim of the newly formed Ontario Cheese Farmers' Association, which according to Colonel Kennedy's statement "promises to restore our exports and largely increase domestic consumption and production."

Months of organization have preceded formation of the Farmers' Association, said Colonel Kennedy. Financial assistance will be given by the Government in the early stage, and all local officials of the Agriculture Department will be instructed to co-operate in organizing district branches. Financing will be extended through an assessment of 5 cents per 1,000 pounds of milk delivered at the cheese factory. Payment of this amount, Colonel Kennedy believes, will be paid cheerfully by the dairy farmer in the advantages obtainable from the system. Headquarters of the Farmers' Association will be in Belleville under the management of J. L. Joss, Secretary-Treasurer. The dairying section of the Province will be divided into five districts, each supervised by an executive member of the association.

THREE HOTELS BURNED AS MOB RUNS WILD

Fallows Death of Man in a Hotel Bar

Kalgoorlie, West Australia, Jan. 30—(AP)—Three hotels, 13 houses and two boarding-houses were burned by a mob today following the death of a man in a hotel bar and the arrest of the foreign bartender on a charge of manslaughter.

The mob attacked foreign-owned hotels and shops, looting, firing and battering.

The men then commandeered tram cars and motor cars and went to hotels owned by the attacks renewed.

Police there were overwhelmed and firemen tried to quell the throng but the hose was cut.

BRONCHITIS BANISHED AFTER 30 YEARS TORTURE

The amazing case of Mr. Thomas Gill, Hamilton, Ont., is the talk of everyone who knows him.

His complete relief almost overnight from bronchitis of thirty years standing is regarded as nothing short of a miracle by friends and neighbours. Read what Mr. Gill says:

"From the time I was a small boy until the age of thirty-three I was never free from a hacking cough night and day. Doctors told me I was a victim of chronic bronchitis—that there was no permanent relief. One day I saw an advertisement for BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE. The next bronchitis attack we had we purchased a bottle. It gave immediate relief. I bought two more, and my cough left me completely. That happened six years ago, and the cough has never returned."

BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE will give you the most instant relief from the disgusting torture of Bronchitis, and it acts like a charm on coughs, colds and flu. Why not get a bottle today? Buckley's is sold everywhere. Refuse substitutes!

CHURCH MEETINGS

Trenton, Jan. 30 (Special) — St. George's Church, Trenton, held its annual vestry meeting in Canniff-Murray Hall, on Thursday evening.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the rector, Rev. F. A. Smith, after which the minutes of the last vestry meeting were read by the vestry clerk, Mr. H. Frost, and passed.

The rector in a short address expressed his satisfaction for the manner in which all church organizations conducted their work during the past year and expressed his heartfelt thanks for the excellent support and friendship shown to himself, and his family by the officers and congregation of the church. Special reference was made to the executive, council and the church wardens, and his deep appreciation of their splendid condition of the church.

After the reports tendered by the various organizations had been presented and adopted, the election of officers took place, resulting as follows:

The rector, Rev. F. A. Smith, re-appointed Mr. J. H. Kinney as rector's warden, Mr. Gordon Flynn was elected People's Warden, Mr. W. G. Belcheson was elected lay delegate to the Synod, with Messrs. E. Aimes to be Mr. E. Massey continuing.

Vestry Clerk, Mr. J. H. Tinney; Auditors, Messrs. W. Frost and R. M. Armstrong.

The Executive council, Messrs. C. W. Lott, Dr. T. S. Farncomb, J. Hill, R. M. Armstrong, Dr. Canon Weir, A. Wood, L. Long, F. Bolton, W. J. Tinney, Mrs. Galna, E. J. Tinney.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the rector and his wife by Dr. Farncomb for his fine work during the past year. Votes of thanks were also tendered to the heads of the various organizations. Rev. Canon Smith and his wife, the Executive Council and the choir closed the meeting.

King St. United Church Balances Budget

King Street United Church Parishioners were filled with members of the congregation Wednesday evening on the occasion of the Annual Congregational meeting. Rev. A. E. Due to Redistribution Many Members Sitting For Last Time

Toronto, Jan. 30 (CP)—The final session of the 18th Legislative Assembly of Ontario neared today. Hon. Herbert A. Bruce, Lieutenant Governor of the Province, will formally open the Legislature Parliament tomorrow with all the colorful ceremony of State. Sir Henry Pellatt gowns will enliven the historic Chamber. The Speech from the Throne will read by Hon. Bruce. Then the decks will be cleared for what is expected to be a bitter fight for Government and Opposition before the Dominion Day Hepburn's election results, therefore, many features will be held over, ing when the 19th legislature opens in 1935.

Just what the Speech from the Throne will contain aroused considerable speculation among party members who were already at their desks. The Government has made no definite statement with regard to sale of the old wire fence on Glass, although Premier George S. Henry and Hon. Peter Heenan intimated there would be a "loosening up" in the Liquor Control Act.

PLEADS GUILTY TO BIRTH CONCEALMENT

Niagara Falls Ont., Jan. 29.—(CP)—Wayina Pushkedo, 23, of Stamford Township, pleaded guilty in police court here today to a charge of concealing the birth of her child, which was found wrapped in a bag in a tree in Stamford Township on May 1, 1933. She was remanded for a week. The girl said that the child was born on the morning of January 15. She was alone in the house. When she regained consciousness the child was dead. Early in the evening she wrapped the body in a bag and placed it in a hole in the tree a short distance from her home.

DOG BRAVES STORM TO SAVE HURT COW

Pete Barks and Barks as Cow on Street Proves Too Much

London, Ont., Jan. 29 (CP) Last night when Pete, a dog owned by Peter Collie dog belonging to Harry Durkin, near Byron, did his duty as he saw it. Pete saw Bess, a cow with a broken leg to the barn.

Pete was "fetching up the cows" from the grazing land late yesterday afternoon when one of them limped into a hole and broke a leg.

Broken legs did not come under Pete's grazing rules, but ever and around and barked and barked. Long and dark he was found and the neighbors were attracted by his and hoarse, but still trying to "fetch up the cow."

The cow almost dead from exposure, had to be killed.

F. A. Bapty Again President Marmora Liberal Association

Dr. J. A. Faulkner Addresses Gathering of District Liberals

Marmora, Jan. 30 (Special) — Marked enthusiasm prevailed at the annual meeting of Marmora and District Liberal Association, held at the White Hall on Friday.

Officers of the Association were elected for the ensuing year as follows:

President, F. A. Bapty; First Vice-president, Hugh Maloney; second Vice-president, W. W. Sahine; secretary-treasurer, D. E. Bell.

Following introductory remarks by the chairman, Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Liberal candidate for West Hastings-Peterboro constituency at the next election, explained himself in favor of the monthly meetings, where timely topics could be discussed and educational programmes given. A cleverly worded eulogy of Mitchell Hepburn, he likened the young Liberal leader to Napoleon, as a politician and reform in the Motherland had brought peace and prosperity there. The speaker said he could not see where any just criticism of Mr. Hepburn could come from the people of the province. Howard Ferguson, on went into power over the promise of whiskey legislation, and Hepburn on the platform seeking election on a liquor issue.

Organization Revived

Dr. Faulkner also touched on the Belleville-Marmora plans which had been adopted by the Liberals in the riding of West Hastings. "The Liberal riding of West Hastings will be proud of its organization" he predicted. He then told of of incidents relating to the house meeting organized in Belleville, at which the meetings many Conservatives attended upon invitation of their neighbors and had become interested in the discussion, some to the extent of desiring a change of government. Mr. Faulkner explained the policy of cleanness in politics. His final remarks were directed against the present administration.

Harold Holton, Liberal organizer for Hastings-Peterboro, explained the active life Dr. Faulkner had been living since accepting the candidature and further outlined the new mode of organization—the holding of house meetings in the rural polls. He also drew attention to the fifth edition of the Liberal club rooms at Belleville which are to be opened on February 12th, for which all labor had been generously donated and the only cost being that of materials. The concluding speaker was Mr. Holton, who referred to the Conservative for 48 years, attacked the hydro system, giving the figures of what the cost of Hydro had been to him over a period of years, in refutation of the claim made by the Hon. J. S. Martin that Hydro was now costing the patron less.

Reeves P. N. Marett and L. E. Neal, ex-Warden C. B. Aylsworth and ex-Reeve B. E. Bonder of Marmora and Township, and Reeve S. B. Wright and Mr. Ed. Wright of Belleville, attended the funeral of the late William Nugent at Marmora on Thursday afternoon.

A large euchre party was held at the White Hall on Thursday evening under the auspices of St. Paul's Men's Club. Fifteen tables were in use. The following were winners: Ladies' prize, Mrs. Neal; Lady's, Mrs. E. Brady; player with most lone hands, Mrs. E. Brady. Following the contest dancing was enjoyed with Bruce Mahoney and Jack French furnishing music. Refreshments were served at midnight.

Mr. Ernest Auger of Campbellford, visited at his home here over Sunday.

A number from town attended the Campbellford vs. Trenton hockey match at Campbellford on Friday evening, as well as the Belleville-Trenton game played at Belleville the same evening.

Marmora High School team played Tweed High School team on the ice here on Friday night. Due to the snow and poor ice conditions the game was not as good as was expected. The result was a 1-1 tie. After the game, Mr. R. Crowe, principal of M.H.S. assisted by Misses E. Scully, E. Inkster and P. Wilson ate the boys a banquet in the Royal Hotel which was much enjoyed by all.

Miss Gertrude Lumsden visited in Toronto over the week-end.

Gordon McWilliams, Wm. Shannon and a couple of others who were attending Albert College, were home on Monday night. They were returning from Belleville in Shannon's car when William Rae's car came along and struck them on the corner of Trent Canal, on the Frankford road. The car left the road and Mr. Shannon stopped with the back wheels just on the edge of the canal. It was at about the same spot that the fatal accident occurred last year.

Mr. Jas. Tubbs, who has been managing the Shoe Repair Shop, owned by the late Norman Mitchell, for the past number of months, has now purchased the entire stock and will continue to run the business under his own supervision.

Council Pays Tribute to Memory of Late Judge Wills

The following resolution was passed at the session of the city council held Monday evening in memory of the late Judge J. F. Wills.

"Whereas in the passing of His Honour, John Franklin Wills, Junior Judge of the County Court of the County of Hastings and Surrogate Court Judge, a Shadow of gloom and mourning has been cast upon the citizens of the City of Belleville.

"Therefore the members of the City Council in session assembled this 29th day of January 1934 sadly and mournfully record the death of a native son of Belleville; a man of strong character and sterling qualities; a man beloved and respected by all classes and creeds for his admirable qualities of mind and heart; a man who has given generously of his time and talents in the service of the public.

"As an alderman he served as Alderman and later as Mayor and in 1916 as a Police recognition of his integrity and ability in his profession and his valued services he was appointed to the Bench of his native county on the retirement of the late Judge Deroche. With his appointment to the Bench his services on Boards of Commissioners for charitable, patriotic welfare and public purposes were even more eagerly sought and quite as freely rendered.

"No man could have given more freely than he in the re-organization of the Belleville General Hospital Board and it was he who was responsible for the organization and formation of the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital upon which he served faithfully until impaired health forced his retirement.

"As a citizen he was beloved by all for his sympathy, kindness and uprightness; as a public servant, he was respected for his steadfastness to his convictions, his impartiality and his qualities of loyalty and patriotism and as a Judge for his humanity, his approachability, his leniency, his Judicial temperament, his devotion to duty and his unequivocal treatment, of the subject matter of his decision.

"By unanimous resolution the sympathy of the Members of the Municipal Council of the Corporation, of the City of Belleville, representative of all citizens, is respectfully tendered to the bereaved widow, Mrs. Wills, the deceased's daughter, Mrs. McMillan and to the deceased's son, Alderman Thomas E. Wills, of their sincerest sympathy in their irreparable loss; and that a copy of this resolution be spread upon our Minutes and copies sent to each of said deceased relatives."

Cities of Province Send Greetings to Belleville on Its Hundredth Anniversary

Hamilton, Jan. 30th, 1934

His Worship, Mayor Tice,
Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Mayor:—

I note with pleasure that March 16th, 1934 will be the 100th anniversary of the incorporation of Belleville by the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada as a police village.

It is pleasant to note that your development and growth has been substantial. On the few occasions that I have had the privilege of visiting your city in past years, I have been impressed with the progress not only your business section, but also in the residential districts.

I sincerely trust, now that the depression is over, that your city will continue to grow and develop and Belleville always one of Canada's bright spots.

Yours very truly,
H. E. WILTON,
Mayor

Niagara Falls, Jan. 23, 1934

Mix shortcake dough by exactly the same rules I gave you at the beginning of this lesson for biscuit dough made with ordinary flour.

Cut dough in half for large shortcake. Roll out to ½ inch thickness, and put into shape to fit pan.

Spread first piece of dough with softened butter, place second piece on it.

For individual cakes, roll out dough, shape with large biscuit cutter, and put together in pairs with butter between.

Bake the rich shortcake mixture with a little less heat than plain biscuits—425° F. This is still a hot oven.

Biscuit Flour Method.

For the richer dough that most people expect in shortcakes, just chop finely 2 or 4 tablespoonfuls of hard cold shortening (butter or any unflavored pure white fat) into prepared biscuit flour before adding liquid.

Shape the dough in one large cake—two pieces with soft butter between, so as to split easily—or in individual large biscuits.

Like all other prepared biscuit flour mixtures, shortcake made with this ingredient requires more heat than the corresponding mixture with ordinary flour; use a temperature of 450° to 475° F.—just a little lower heat than we give to biscuits made with prepared biscuit flour, because of the added richness.

Don't keep shortcakes for strawberry time—have them every month in the year! Besides fresh strawberries, raspberries, peaches and so forth, we can use many of the canned fruits for shortcake. Canned peaches and apricots, flavourful canned pears too, make excellent shortcake. The cooked filling made with dates and other dry fruits (see Lesson 10) will also make a delicious shortcake. So also will stewed dried fruits such as peaches and apricots.

Make shortcakes for your meat or fish course, too. Put diced cold cooked meat or fowl or flaked cooked or canned fish, into a good cream sauce of medium thickness, such as you learned in Lesson 3, (using 1 cup solid to 1 cup sauce), and serve between the layers and over the top of very hot shortcake-biscuit.

Cream (either the rich pouring kind or whipped cream) can be served with the dessert shortcake; or you can use evaporated milk, plain or whipped. Sometimes you may like a little almond flavouring extract in your cream or milk. You can also serve with your sweet shortcakes a hot pudding sauce flavored with lemon, orange, vanilla, etc.

Dumplings.

There are two kinds of dumplings—those we steam and those we bake.

Both steamed and baked dumplings may be made with ordinary drop-biscuit dough, following either the standard method or the prepared flour method.

Dumplings to serve with a meat stew, stewed chicken, etc., can be cooked in the steamer over rapidly boiling water (the steamer must have a tight fitting cover); or the dumplings can be placed right in the stew pot so that they will rest on the solid meat and vegetables and cook in the steam of the stew; in this way, they absorb the delicious flavor from the cooking itself. The cover must fit closely on the stew pot.

Give dumplings 15 minutes to cook without raising the cover from steamer or stew pot; raising it would be like holding your oven door open when a cake is rising—it would chill the mixture, so that it would fall and be heavy. Trust your dumplings when you give them plenty of steam; they will be all right.

Standard Dumplings.

Make exactly the same dough that you make for the drop type of Foundation Biscuits, using the standard flour method, but use only 2 teaspoons fat for dumplings instead of the 2 tablespoons fat used in the biscuits.

Mix the dough quickly and drop in pieces about the size of a small biscuit over your stew or into your steamer. Cover closely and cook 15 to 20 minutes.

Biscuit Flour Dumplings.

2 cups prepared biscuit flour ¾ cup milk, or ¾ cup water

Stir all the liquid at once quickly and lightly into prepared flour, and drop small dumplings over surface of stew or into steamer. Cover closely and cook without disturbing 15 or 20 minutes.

Dessert Dumplings.

Apple dumplings and other fruits cooked the same way, make excellent desserts.

Make shortcake dough either by the standard flour method or by the biscuit flour method.

Roll either dough out in a sheet ¼ inch thick.

Cut in squares big enough to enclose a pared or cored apple; for smaller dumplings, use part of an apple or a canned half peach or pear. Sprinkle fruit with sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg, or mixed pudding spices.

Dampen the edge of the piece of dough and fold it over to enclose the fruit completely.

Dumplings Steamed or Baked

Place the dumplings in the steamer and cook over rapidly boiling water long enough to cook the dough and make the fruit tender. Serve with a hot pudding sauce, flavoured with lemon—or a butterscotch or syrup sauce, or a custard sauce.

These same dumplings may be baked plain, or with a sugar-and-water syrup (½ cup sugar, ½ cup boiling water, some grated lemon rind), poured over them and used to baste them often while baking.

These are just a few of the things you can do with biscuit dough. You will find more suggestions when you reach Lesson 13 on Desserts, and you will think up many more after studying this lesson and "getting your hand in" on biscuits. I hope you will never feel that the serving of hot biscuits (or any of their infinite and interesting variations) need be a burden. Not only have we first-aid in the form of excellent methods and materials, but we also have the convenience of being able to prepare our biscuit dough some hours ahead and stirring it, covered, in the well-chilled ice-box until baking time. Left-over biscuits may be served as fresh-baked by putting them in a paper bag, closing it carefully and placing in a hot oven, 450° F., until warmed through. (This, too, may be done with the bread rolls.) Tea biscuits are also delicious split and toasted.

Just how far these biscuit-doughs will go in helping you to concoct interesting, even distinguished, little dishes, will be delightfully shown in Planning the Party.

INTRODUCES NEW FLORAL COIFFURE

ANNA STEN

A new vogue, taken from an old-fashioned hairdress, is displayed by Anna Sten, Russian girl, who attained stardom in Hollywood. The coiffure consists of an elaborate arrangement of curls banded with a wreath of hibiscus blooms. The same type of flower on the shoulder adds to the charming effect.

OLD CLOTHES AND STOVES WANTED

Sub zero weather of the past few days, which has brought misery to some sections of the city, has also taxed the resources of the Central Relief department in caring for the city's needy, it was stated by officials of the Bureau today. At present an acute need is for stoves and warm clothing which may be donated to a few cases, where actual want exists. Other articles, which may be used to stem the tide of cold weather will be also gratefully received. Donations, which are asked for from the citizens may be left at the City Hall, on receipt of a phone call at 69W, the articles will be called for.

PROVINCIAL GOVT. BONDS

The recent Province of Ontario 4½% bond issue was taken up by investors in a few hours. The Province of Quebec, whose credit is equally good, will probably be in the market in a few weeks. Orders should be telephoned in to us promptly, to ensure being filled. We also recommend the shares of the Western Provinces which can still be purchased to yield over 6% interest.

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 30 (AP)— Stocks slipped into light post today and their upward trading trunk in the early hours attained a momentum equal to some of the fast members of the 1933 Spring-Summer revival.

Led by the rails and industrials, most share groups were pushed ahead 1 to 3 or more points before profit taking cut down some of the extreme gains. The advance was variously attributed to final Congressional action on the President's gold bill, inspiration in the 1935 hours exceeded 2,000,000 shares. Bonds were mildly irregular.

Shares of Santa Fe, N.Y. Central, Union Pacific, and a number of other carriers were up 1 to around 2 points. American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Public Service of New Jersey also recorded gains of 1 to more than 2.

Canadian stocks did not respond so well to the advance in the main body of shares on the big board. Dome and Hollinger yielded fractionally along with the easier tendencies displayed by metals generally.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 30—Mining shares of companies holding gold, silver and nickel properties were the leaders on the Standard Stock exchange today, issues registered moderate gains while the general market trend was firm.

Nickel sold up to 22.70 and was holding at 22.60 for a net gain of 35 cents at noon. Noranda was off 10 cents to 34.25 while Hollinger gained 20 to 9.60.

The big gold producers were quiet with exception of Teck and Hargraves which continued very fair volume and unchanged prices. Hollinger gained 5 to 12.26, Lake Shore 10 to 43.25 and Sherritt 5 to 11.00. Dome was unchanged at 9.00.

Despite the bullish note in the industrial market generally, mining shares continued their sluggish tone with only the base metal shares showing any tendency towards better prices. Nickel climbed to $23.70, supported by a New York bear market but dropped part of the advance this afternoon. Noranda, Hudson Bay, Sherritt Gordon and Sudbury Basin were narrow.

Senior gold shares had as many recessions as gains and trading was quiet but some of the scarcely gold issues were active with few price variations.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 30—The Toronto Stock Exchange market plodded along towards the week-end today, headed by Ford A., the Brewing Corporation issues, Steel Canada, Canada Cement, Nickel, and the oil stocks, these shares all trading in quiet fashion.

Considerable profit taking came along in Ford A. but in most cases absorbed and the price stood ¼ higher at 22 at noon. Other industrials issues were higher including Steel Canada, up 20-60, Brazilian up ¼ to 12¼ and C.P.R. up ¾ to 16½.

Heavy buying developed in the Brewing Corporation issues with the preferred up ¾ to 74 and the common ¼ at 10. Other brewery issues were firm in trading in the back. Distillery shares sagged lightly after a strong opening but Canada Malting sprang back to 53¾ where it was unchanged. Industrial Alcohol dropping ¼ to 18¼ and Canada Breweries dropping ¼ to 23¾.

Sentiment was on the side of the advance from the opening and encouragement was drawn from the cheerful tone of the New York market, passage of the U.S. Gold Bill and a lower U.S. dollar.

With few exceptions the market leaders were higher in good fractions this afternoon. Ford A. was called upon to absorb much profit taking. The stock's healthy rise in recent weeks was given considerable attention but the price held well and was off only ¼ this afternoon. Other interlisted issues were higher up side though part of the morning rise had been lost by early afternoon.

UNITED KINGDOM DAIRY PRICES

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—The United Kingdom butter market was steady last week, according to a report received today from the Department of Agriculture. Cheese was quiet.

Quotations: Butter, New Zealand, 98 shillings per cwt. (14.72 cents per lb.); Australian 93 to 94 shillings per cwt. (14.06 to 14.28 cents per lb.); cheese, New Zealand white, 60 shillings per cwt. (8.92 cents per lb.); colored, 62 shillings per cwt. (9.37 cents per lb.); Canadians were unchanged from 85 to 92 shillings per cwt. (10.25 to 11.80 cents per lb.).

PRODUCE PRICES IN MONTREAL

Butter prices at Montreal advanced yesterday here during the first of the winter season. Wholesale levels for cartons or 1-c.l. lots, of No. 1 pasteurized regarded, ranged from 25 1-2 to 26c per lb., up 1-2c from last week's close. The new prices were the highest seen since last winter. Receipts, 600 boxes. Cold weather, low production, and improvement in demand, were factors sending the price up.

The egg market held unchanged at last week's closing levels, the 24c, however, being firm. Graded shipments in cartons or c.l. lots were 29c for A-large, 27c for A-Medium and 26c for A-Pullets. Receipts, 1,422 cases.

The cheese market was steady at 19 1-2 for current make Ontarios. Receipts, 97 boxes. The potato market continued at 5c, to $1 per 90-lb. bag.

COURSE FOR BUSINESSMEN

Professional Men Also Interested in C. of C. Course

Claimed by local business and professional men to be excellently adapted for, and to fill a great need among all classes of workers, a series of business courses has been arranged after considerable negotiation by the local Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with W. A. Mackintosh, M.A., Ph.D., director of the Department of Commerce and Administration of Queen's University, now assumed.

The lectures, intended primarily for members of the local Chamber, but to which invitations are now being issued, may also be attended by non-members for a minimum fee. They will be given in the M.C.A.A. rooms and will start promptly at 8 o'clock one evening in each week for the next five weeks.

The first lecture, entitled "Merchandising" will be delivered by Dr. W. A. Mackintosh on Tuesday evening, February 6. Then will follow on Tuesday, Feb. 13, "Fundamentals in Business Law" by Prof. C. E. Walker, Queen's University. On Tuesday, Feb. 20 "Plan for Security" by Prof. J. McDougal, Queen's University. On Tuesday, Feb. 27, "Accounting Results as an aid to Management", by Prof. H. G. Smith, Queen's University, and on Tuesday, March 6, "Sales Records and Reports" by Prof. F. A. Knox, Queen's University.

The fee for the entire course of five lectures has been placed at only one dollar, for non members of the Chamber of Commerce. For members it will be entirely complimentary. This is believed to be the most thing anything of its kind has been attempted in Ontario, and considerable interest has been evidenced by both employer and employee, and large numbers of reservations have been made.

Further reservations may be made by telephoning the Chamber of Commerce at 621.

POLICE COURT

No session of local police court was held today before Magistrate Mikel. Activities proved rather quiet in this city, and except for accident no arrests being made during the past 24 hours.

Owing to the sub-zero weather, which has been in vogue during the past two days a falling off in business at the local Salvation Army station for a night's lodging has been observed. Only six applied for lodging during the night. Apparently the cold snap has kept the weary travellers off the highways and by-ways.

Another accident was reported to the police yesterday afternoon when a truck, driven in reverse rear, hooked into a hydro pole opposite the Bridge Street Church. Damages, breaking it off about four feet from the ground. The truck was owned by Constables Officer Izard, who investigated, that the sun had bothered him as he was backing the truck up. He did not see the pole owing to the strong rays of the sun, he stated. The local hydro repairmen replaced the pole.

CARNERA IS RECOVERED

Shaggy Pup Leads Owner Wild Chase Down Alleys

"Carnera", shaggy Newfoundland pup, all feet and soft pleading eyes, is safe with his boss again after having been responsible for a lengthy hold up of a car containing a touring party from the east, and also the object of a concerted search which lasted for at least two hours in this city late last evening.

The shambling-gaited pup, whose age judging by its gigantic six-month's-old size, jaws, chased after a car which contained Mayor Mills and, got lost until a local hotel attendant found him and restored him to his anxious owner.

The party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Levitt of Montreal, together with his brother-in-law and wife, entered the city late last evening from Toronto. They parked in front of a garage on the city. "Carnera" was invited to alight and stretch. He did so and ran out on standing at the entrance to a downtown gang way as he left the car, and with a "bow-wow" that shook nearby windows, and galvanized the whole block into action in pursuit with the ludicrous gallop of a startled calf in a pasture, the pup disappeared, all heels into the blackness of the passageway.

Ensued a hunt that was thorough and lengthy. Back alleys of Front Street were the first running pup whose size should have made the search easy, but it was not until at least two hours later that "Carnera" was discovered by reporter, calmly snoozing in front of a stove in an uptown hotel.

"He just came to the door, bunted it open, walked in, flopped down and went to sleep" explained the hotel attendant as the search party caught up with the quarry.

"I thought at first it was somebody's rail wandering around when it first came in the door."

CATTLE IN FINE SHAPE

District Has Cattle That Are Practically Immune From Tuberculosis

Constant checking and testing of cattle throughout Ontario central area is producing a super breed of animals as far as immunity to tuberculosis is concerned, is the opinion of the statement of Dr. O. Reed of this city, provincial veterinary.

"We've been all over the whole district and have made tests of every testing, in the counties including Prince Edward, Hastings, Lennox, Addington, and have never seen such healthy cattle. Each county showed that a considerable time had been made," stated Dr. Reed.

"Possibly Hastings County and Prince Edward County show the best record", he added.

"Here the tuberculin tests show that the animals are in almost perfect condition. We found for example in Hastings, that the cows are testing less than one per cent. tuberculin, while in Prince Edward it is in the neighborhood of one half of one per cent.".

CAMPBELL STARS

Locals/Had to Come From Behind to Win Contest

Coming from behind the Belleville D.A.C. intermediates slapped a third period rally to even the count with the Cobourg Waverleys and then went on to score the winning goal in an overtime O.H.A. fixture staged at Cobourg last evening, when the local pucksters kept pace with the pacesetting leading Campbellford Maroons by defeating the Waverleys by a 5 to 4 score, in a spirited affair before some 400 fans, who braved sub-zero weather to witness the tussle.

After Carl Morgan raced the length of the ice to knot the count Covert and Pete Morgan combining for the winning goal in the second overtime period thereby blasting the hopes of the Waverleys of cinching third place in the group last evening. A defeat at the hands of the Dohertys of the Trenton intermediates here on Thursday night will now elevate the locals into first place tied with the Campbellford Maroons while the Cobourgities will then be assured of third position.

Feelings Ran High

Before a biased and rabid crowd of fans the locals battled back in the face of defeat to turn what looked like an assured reverse into victory by a tag, minute spurt, that left the Waverleys all but out on their feet. Feeling ran quite high from the opening and culminated in a small fistic encounter late in the third period after Joe Pete Freeman, Waverley left winger, elected to "fight it out" with Cliff Powell after the local centre "ghost" has thwarted his continuous efforts around centre ice. The entire battery of both clubs joined the melee, that was eventually quelled without damage being reported by Referee Trumpour, who handled unestatly handling an impartial game before a rabid crowd.

Despite the fact, that four goals were scored against "Tubby" Loath and the local custodian turned in a stellar effort and was afforded the best line of defence yet at this season by the united efforts of Jim Miller, "Hidge" Higley and Carl Weir. These boys all went well both ways and added considerable strength to the local team. The first line of Carl and Pete Morgan outdistanced their younger brethren time with Pete and Roy repeatedly carrying the play into the enemy territory. Covert with two goals and two assists led the scorers of the team.

Led by Archie Campbell, the ex-Belleville flyer, the Waverleys started out to avenge the defeat of last Friday, when they unexpectedly assumed the lead late in the initial frame. Campbell was by far the best player to wear a black and red uniform and literally outdid himself in combination by his repeated efforts especially on the defensive, proving good and all night and returned...in the overtime play after sustaining an injured ankle to again assume the hero role for the losers. Freeman, who played his usual stellar game in Belleville last Friday was far below his previous form, but continually graced the penalty box through foolish infractions of the rules. McConvey followed Campbell as a stalwart and repeatedly thwarted the locals' scoring efforts with his miraculous saves. Lorraine and Staples proved capable defencemen while they played spotty hockey.

THE PLAY

Carl Morgan opened the fracas by tesing only to have—Freeman bring Buskard to his knees with a hard bar drive. Due to over anxiousness both teams missed numerous scoring possibilities until Covert raced up centre, drew the defence to the boards and slipped the puck to—"Pete" Morgan who raced in and bulged the issue. Toward the end of the period Freeman knotted the count, when he pushed in Campbell's rebound during a scramble around the local net only to have Campbell score a penalty goal, when he picked up his own rebound, raced around the net and scooped the puck into the unprotected corner to make the score 3 to 2 for Cobourg at the end of the initial frame. Although the locals carried the play for the greater part of the middle canto, it remained for Campbell to run the scoring by tearing in and picking the far corner for a pretty goal. Carl Morgan, Cobourg centre, set the count at 4-2, when he raced in to push Geraldi's rebound past Buskard, the local goalie having beaten Mike's scoring attempt. Following this Covert and Freeman mixed it with all players taking part, they drew down five minute penalties. Following this Carl Morgan again knotted the count when he raced the entire length of the rink to score as Staples tripped him. After about nine minutes of play in the overtime, Covert scored the winning goal on a pass from P. Morgan. The play was of the combination nature the length of the ice. The locals carried too much speed and hockey ability.

Lineups:

Belleville—Goal, Buskard; defence Rigby and Elder; centre, Covert; wings Carl and Pete Morgan; subs, Harry Morgan, St. Denis, McGuire and Weir.

Cobourg—Goal, McCoubrey; defence, Lemberry and Geraldi; centre, Campbell; wings, Day and Freeman; subs Gibson, Pearce, Staples and Parker.

B.C.I. DEFEAT ALBERT 8-0

Hockey Team From School Much too Good for College Boys;

Out-classing their rivals in every department the B.C.I. & W.C. hockey team defeated the Albert College puckstars by the score of 8 to 0 in the opening interscholastic hockey game of the season played in the Bay of Quinte group of C.O.H.A. hockey at the local arena yesterday afternoon.

Jack Fitzsimmons, McGrath, their stellar defensemen who notched four of the collegiate's counters, the Shiels's coached clan from the local seat of knowledge literally smashed past the "Albert" victory. The front line of Hannh flanked by Fitz and McGrath operated altogether too much speed and experience for their college rivals to not noticeably lacked hocky finish especially in their opponents defensive corps. L'Heureux proved the best alternate for the 1st-color unit in the absence of Driscoll who were the best for the losers.

The collegiate puckstars bagged four goals in the initial frame, three in the second and one in the third period, when victory was assured and the locals were home to stay and won with. While the Shells-coached outfit rest the Albert College hockey team and their second interscholastic game on Wednesday afternoon.

McGrath scored four with McCoul, Hannh, centre, Hanna; wings, L'Heureux bagging one goal each. Line and McCreary; subs, Liddle, Mattis, L'Heureux, Blaker and Allen; College—Goal, Ault; defense Day and Grigg; centre, Driscoll; wings, Gibson and A. McDonald; subs Robe—Warren and Barnard.

The game was handled by Les "Stub" Barrett.

Canadian Championship Ski Meet to be Held in Three Rivers This Month

February is the month for ski championships, and the first major event will take place this year in Toronto. This is the second time that Toronto has been honored with a meet of this kind, the lack of snow usually being the reason. This year they plan to freight snow from the north if none is available. So the other meet will follow in Montreal with the final for the Dominion championships at Three Rivers, Quebec. In the above layout is shown LEFT, a skier getting a bird's eye view of the earth as he sails at 90 miles an hour through the air. UPPER RIGHT, Arthur Gravel, of Montreal, noted Canadian skier, takes a small jump. LOWER CENTRE, H. T. Cliff, head of the Toronto Ski Club, under whose auspices the Ontario championships will be staged. LOWER RIGHT, Hannah Taylor, Vancouver, former world's skijumping champion, who is already organizing to get together a real Canadian team for the 1936 Olympics.

SKIERS TO HOLD CHAMPIONSHIPS AT THREE RIVERS

Ontario Meet at Toronto, Feb. 10, For First Time in History

LOOK TO OLYMPICS

By W. M. GLADISH
Central Press Canadian Sports Writer

Toronto, Jan. 20.—In the winter of 1896 customs examiners at Ottawa regarded with considerable curiosity and no little suspicion a strange shipment from Norway. It consisted of long narrow pieces of spruce, birch and carved at one end. The importer, a former Scandinavian, explained they were intended for sliding on snow—a statement that was received with derision. The fashioned planks were not taken out of customs and they were sold at auction practically for the price of firewood. One pair fell into the hands of Major Bill Lawless who tried them on, thus becoming the first native skier. The second enthusiast was J. A. D. Holbrook of Ottawa, a friend of Lawless, and his equipment was made at a planing mill in the capital, the original pair being used as a pattern. Thus the sport of skiing was born in Canada.

The 1900 skiing had become a recognized pastime in the Ottawa Valley and the pioneer devotees included Jackson Booth, P. D. Ross, Joseph MacDougall, A. C. Grant, E. J. Kenny, William Stewart and Fred Burpee. Skiing became a real sport in 1909, however, when three Norwegians arrived on the scene, Sigurd Lockeberg, Hans Lockeberg and Paul Iverson. Their exploits became the topic of conversation in Eastern Ontario and Quebec, particularly when the news spread that they were jumping over 40 feet. They were followed to Ottawa by Alex. Olsen, a countryman, and he astounded the local enthusiasts with a jump of 125 feet. And a climax was reached the year before the war when Reznar Omtvedt came out from Norway and leaped 145 feet without difficulty.

Many Clubs Formed

In 1910 Canada saw a real start with ski-racing as well as renewed jumping. The Montreal Ski club, the Ottawa and Cliff-side clubs of Ottawa and the Toronto Ski club were among those which became centres. Races of seven, ten and fifteen miles were featured, men east and Ed. Condon and George Audette of Ottawa were among the early champions in cross-country competitions. The Canadian Amateur Ski Association was organized at Montreal and the first Dominion ski championships were held there in 1926 the second annual meet being held in the Canadian capital a year later in conjunction with a winter carnival. The sport has grown to such an extent that in Montreal the Visteranadal Ski club has been formed with Alistari Grant of Montreal as president and officers in both eastern and western Canada and in various cities of the United States.

Furthermore, Nels Nelson of Vancouver, former world's champion jumper and president of the Western Canada Amateur Ski Association, has launched a movement for the selection of an all-canadian ski team for the Olympic games in 1936.

The Ottawa Ski Club has boasted of a membership of 4,000 seniors and juniors and has developed many of the best substantial group is C. E. Mortimer, whose name is a by-word among the winter fans. The Toronto Ski Club, organized in 1922, has a membership of 1,100. H. T. Cliff, a veteran of the trails, is president of the Toronto club.

Hold Meet at Toronto

For the first time in history official ski championships are to be conducted under the auspices of the Toronto Ski Club, which is the Ontario titular events of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, which are to sport feqiures of the Toronto organization's celebration. The provincial jumping competitions are scheduled to be held Feb. 10 and the cross-country and relay the following day. The Quebec championships are scheduled to be held in the Montreal area on Feb. 17 and 18. Both the Ontario and Quebec meets are preliminary to the Dominion championships at Three Rivers, Que., on Feb. 24 and 25.

Many and various claims have been made for records in skijumping, but a public ski prospect can be found, in so far as the sport is concerned, to compare in the last Olympic winter games at Lake Placid, N.Y., where the winner accomplished a leap of 226 feet. The victor was Hjalmar Hud of Norway and following him were Heck of Germany, Sperry of Canada and Eriksson of Sweden; Olmen of the United States and Kaufmann of Switzerland. There was 24 contestants, representing 10 nations, in the event, thus indicating the wide interest in the sport. The leading Canadian was R. S. Lymburne, who finished 13th, with R. Hamel of Quebec in 20th place. Canadians should and could do better in 1936, it is believed, but it must be taken into consideration that skiing was a recognized sport in Norway 75 years ago.

To devotees of the sport across the dominion the proper pronunciation of the word "ski" is "shee," but Canadians for about some years ago in Europe.

Current Sport

DAY BY DAY

After successfully launching a drive towards the rejuvenation of boxing in this immediate vicinity about one year ago the South End A. C. fired the hopes of all interested in the art of self-defence to a point where the future of the game seemed very bright indeed, but the missionary work ceased. We are not pleading ignorance to some little difficulties that arose between the fighters and the promoters, but, have been wondering of late if the work of rejuvenation was not dropped in its infancy.

The moment some mitt-slingers see a good turn out of fans to a bouting show their "legitimate exigencies" are sky high and naturally they kill the goose that lays the golden egg, before it really has an opportunity to surface the surface. On the other hand the sponsors of the sport really bounded to the fore much nor rapidly than they personnes should have after waging one or two successful local shows they started in to import outside leather pushers. The fans were, and still are, quite satisfied to watch local boxers so long as the competition is keen and half way evenly matched, but the moment something an outside ring celebrity might be alright but, it is not necessary to bring in a whole girl of foreign fighters to make a local bouing show a success.

At present the South End A. C. are staging fortnighly impromptu bouts among the younger members of their club with some marked success. These bouts are presented at their club rooms but do not seem to carry the same atmosphere as a card presented at the City Police Armouries. With the hockey season on the wane and spring just around the corner (as's quite optimistic this winter) the season for bouting should be nearly ripe. The local sponsors of the ring game will undoubtedly bring out a number of new faces during their winter activities so perhaps an all-Belleville card could be arranged and staged with success late next month. Then again as another added attraction the matchmakers could include a preliminary or two, and Jack Langman, the recently reinstated local professionals, on their first card.

A Prince Edward County reader queried us relating to what happened to their thirty-odd citizens receiving the O.A.C. Hall of London, Ont., and to be hurled at the old Ontario branch of the A.A.U. of C. We have no information as to the fate of the aforementioned over materialized from prepared oration. Of course the breach between the new southwestern organization and the old branch is not to be open and shut affair, but may a flare-up most any day. Perhaps those questions will come up then. (?).

Manager Walter Patterson announced yesterday that the postponed game of the Senior Intermediate O.H.A. series with Peterboro would be played on Thursday night of this week. After last night's overtime win at Cobourg the greens and white can pull up even with the Campbellford Maroons by downing Benny Bowen's charges. At present there are so many angles to the play-off race in the local intermediate group that it would take a couple of Philadelphia lawyers to solve the possibles.

Although it took the Dohertys 70 minutes to pull the trick they came through in the final period to even the score and then went on to demonstrate their superiority by pulling the game out of the fire at the last moment. In passing we'd like to say that had all the Waverleys played the brand of hockey displayed by Archie Campbell perhaps a different tale might have been told. The ex-Trenton, ex-Belleville blueshirter was by far the best for the homesters, both going and coming while few, if any, of the locals showed him the way home.

The pugnacious attitude shown by various members of the Waverley militated their chances of victory as they repeatedly drew down rests in the "goose-gow" for slashing and tripping that was most unwarranted. Referee Thompson Trumpour was the target for many words of abuse at the hands of the rabid Cobourg fans and merely because he was calling the play as he saw fit and not for the home crowd. Freeman, who played such a stellar game here in Belleville last week, capped his evening's endeavours off by taking a "poke" at Roy Covert, as the latter skated by him while the two were before they met. A general melee followed with all players concerned taking part, no particular damage being reported, however.

It was a pleasure to see the local defencemen turn in such a creditable performance. In passing we might make mention of the fact that R. "Bucky" Thompson was accompanied by same last night informed us that he played hockey in Cobourg over thirty years ago and in the same rink that he witnessed last night's tilting. The ice surface in Cobourg had the local speedsters at a continued disadvantage all night as it's about two lengs and wide here long. Besides leading the locals in penalties, Covert led the "oilers" in scoring points with two goals and two assists.

PLAY GAMES AT SCHOOL

Two Cage Games Will Give Fans Plenty of Thrills

The two games of Basketball which were to have been played at the Y.M.C.A. gym tomorrow evening will be played instead at the B.C.I. Gymnasium. The transfer in playing location was made in order to take advantage of the larger floor and also the greater accommodation for spectators.

Tonight's doubleheader of mid-week games will provide one of the best basketball programmes of the season when the fast travelling Senior Collegiate team under the direction of Coach Laughlin, will endeavor to prove to the Y'anare Collegiate Trwn and E.O.A.B.A. entry, that the basketball as played in this city is of a higher grade than that of the Eastern town.

Following this game the local Y.M.C.A. squad will take on the Kingston "Y" quint in an Intermediate E.O.A.B.A. fixture. With no less than four former senior Intercollegiate players on their line-up the "Y" team from Limestone city are considered the class of the Eastern Ontario League and the local players under Coach Mordens would like nothing better than to take a fall out of the visitors here Wednesday.

PRE-GAME PREDICTIONS

(By the Canadian Press)

There'll be a merry scramble for points in the American section of the National Hockey League tonight for two games will have an important bearing on the leadership. Thrilling game on the schedule with little or no difference in the Canadian section, for Toronto Maple Leafs are so far in front they can lose half a dozen and still be ahead.

Chicago meets Ottawa in one of the crucial encounters, while the second finds Rangers visiting Boston—and Eddie Shore in fact one mean something.

Rankers are leading their group with 36 points. Chicago is in third place, just two points back of the New Yorkers. A victory for the Blackhawks over Ottawa, which doesn't seem too unlikely, and a defeat for Rangers, which is also well within the bounds of possibility would tie the first-place grouping but would still leave Detroit in second place, one point behind. The Detroiters are idle tonight, but will tackle Boston Friday.

Of the two encounters, Rangers seem to have the hardest assignment for with Shore back in action the Boston squad may play an entirely different game. Chicago has been playing at home nicely in the last few weeks, while Ottawa has been able to get out of the Canadian-section cellar.

LOVE'S LOTTERY

by

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

On the main floor she stepped to a widow and opened window to signal Cicily who came forward hesitantly. Guest-cook was a frill that needed a genius of a genius.

"It's going to be all right, Terry," she said. He mopped his brow. "Got to be," he muttered. "Can't afford to lose me, Hilda.... that's the thing that counts now." You didn't overwork yourself, too?" he said anxiously.

"I? Certainly not!"

"I wished" afterward, I hadn't spoken; she must not be influenced beyond her will."

"You'll save her life.... if you want to do that!"

"Rather!" he whispered, but with not his usual glib quickness. "Shall, sir, Hilda!"

Geoffrey, in New York, studied the calendar while stood on his desk. November was written there.

He was thinking of Cicily, her shy, sharp, nervous, uncertain motion. Cicily, who needed him, who would be lost without Cicily could be, but he did not know it. Still it had to be said. It had recently been. He felt that "with a little let-up of work," he could have said it. "Now," he could say over—join her wherever she was, to "try it."

He had tried to get away time after time, but there was something in each case the tightening tentacl. of the city of business. Business had pulled him into the seething depths, to hold him there.

He had accomplished a great deal during the seven months because he had been "undivided" in it. "A silver lining to every cloud," he realized, but "Lord," he "got here!"

She was his girl, all right; he realized he had missed it.

He had planned to write her and to write her as he had never written to any living soul; to bare his soul to her as he told her how much he missed her, needed her, wanted her, but Sunday after Sunday found him "too dog-tired to do anything" and—to plan a little for the struggle that was before him in the week to come.

The stretch had made Geoffrey considerably older; less certain of those which had once been his bedrock certainties, gentler with others harsher with himself. His one real certainty now lay in his "weakness," that his had been, the unpardonable sin; that he deserved no less than the hell he was getting and that he loved Cicily as he had never loved before, and that he would love her always and with a fierce that he had never felt for even his mother.

He thought sometimes that if she knew how he cared she would forgive anything. Then again—going over his slights of her in the past; slights he had then seen as trifles, some time-saver—he felt she had been too gentle; that she should, for her good, have written him cruel—by instead of having written him as she had—awaiting his letters!

Now further down in with the mail; a long habit made Geoffrey scan it eagerly as he had his breath. But—of course—she hadn't written.

Luther drew a deep breath. "Little Migs and Jim had a fight," he began.

"That so? I hope it's fixed up—"

He was stirring around at his desk. Luther "That meant "Get out."

"Sure, it's fixed!" the incorrigibly impertinent Luther said loudly. "Dagnan's got horse sense! She was nothin' huffy, couldn't see him through her high-hat stare. Not he treated her rough. They ain't a one of 'em don't like that, Mr. Field! And she come around.....

Dagnan he says—he was right out in the office, you couldn't help but hear—he says, 'You can cut this out, see? You're my girl (Sweetheart) he says, and he looked at her terrible ugly. She bawled, and he like pulled her right afore old Blesker, and Blesker he says he was lovemaking around home alls time with his girls and he wish he could have 'em right some somewheres. But if your should happen to a girl, I'll you can get anyone of 'em if you follow 'em and—let 'em know who's boss."

"When did you get your B.A., Luther?"

"I ain't so dumb as you'd think, Mr. Field."

"That will be all, Luther—"

Luther vanished. Geoffrey sat staring at his bleak desk. The noon he booked passage for Cicily and on a day during the next day. He was curiously shaky and weak, finishing his business. "If I keep a lot now—get knocked—again—" he thought, but he could not finish it.

He could tell her, finding her, how much he had wanted. In the seven months: "Finding her," made him close his eyes.

That night he wandered his living room, to and fro; and his feet were the echo of two others which, across the world, and a few hours before, had paced a corner on the Rue de Fleurie.

He would tell her, Geoffrey decided, finding her, that he would woo her for years, if need be, and in any manner she stipulated, if she would give to him the second chance.

CHAPTER 19

Cicily was shy about going to Terry, who had been her trusted friend. But the fear of standing by the box hedge her shyness vanished. He was going to be very gentle, she was; perhaps he wanted no more than gentleness? Differing, as Geoffrey, whose gentleness had been made by his strength. Geoff—

"I hear—" he was saying in his usual lightness, "that you are waiting to hear that a young lady will marry you."

"I have—hoped so!" he admitted in a whisper, shoulders bent a little. He had not moved; he stood; tall, straight, and fine, in the grey twilight hush, looking down at her.

"Is he going to say that he'll be waited, trembling; not as she had ever trembled from the thought of Geoff's kiss. But—she only perceived a bit closer, to lay a hand on her cloak.

"Warm enough " he asked; "you know its been cold—"

"Quite—thank you, Terry."

"Is he going to tell her, Vernon, child," he said next. She looked.

"Always," he said softly. "You will be like a little light, for me, a little misted, and far, and no matter how close you are, and how until that day, if it may be, when you can have me close to you, always."

"It may have to be enough and forever," I can't be alone in Paris."

"No, nor about anything.... I'll tell you about it now. I feel—if you are happy, I shall be. That's all I ask. Only I'm not going to run through him, child—or rather wont—"

She glanced up at him through his; a moment and his hand closed around hers, strong, protecting, protected, long gentle.

"Very happy—I am...." he said shortly and with a break of voice.

"I'm glad," she said, and her voice level. "I want to make you really happy—if I can. I shall try—and I can do it now."

His hand tightened abruptly and almost grightened upon hers. "Cool —child, don't!" he begged; he laughed shortly; she felt the muscles around to be his ballast pole across an unsteady course.

"Want to keep my feet on the terrace" he explained, "feel it seems a young lady who thinks—who seems to think—my heart is a cold storage plant! Let's don't. I hope it's too cold for you—pausing here to chat, dear—"

Arm in arm they walked the terrace. "Terry, you are afraid" she whispered softly.

"I don't want you to be afraid of me in anyway, dearest." He pressed her arm closer against his side. "Oh—Cicily!" he said, voice rough.

Hands on her shoulders, he turned her to him, staring down through the thickening gray at her. She could not help her stiffening which he felt. "Rather not?" he question. ed evenly.

"No—it's not— I can't explain. I'm touchy—edgy—"

He dropped his hands.

"Please," she appealed, "I'd rather you would—"

"Want to get it over?" he questioned. "Cicily" he went on, "my kissing you isn't going to be at all like having a tooth out. It's going to be quite a casual matter to You—and heaven to me. And I'm going to kiss you now and again, and mainly now and then again, because you will come back to normal when love ceases to be, for you, a symbol of pain. We'll be friends, child. Love failed you. Love has failed me. You will some day give me respect and affection; never an echo of the love I bear you—consuming, dear, but it will never consume you, nor in anyway harm you. I vow! And thus, out of love that has hurt us both, let us try to find a sanctuary, which will have its beauties. What say?"

"I think—it is what Hilda would term 'horse sense.'"

"Bless-bless—I'm going to kiss you. Do you want gas?"

She laughed suddenly; he stooped, to raise his face quickly and after his bared touch of her lips.

"I thank you—"he managed to whisper with fair steadiness. He added, taking her arm again, to tread the terrace with her, "Next time we'll do better, perhaps, child."

The next morning finding Terry at the fireplace with his breakfast on a tray beside him Cicily settled on a footstool by his feet.

"Terry—" she began, uncertainly.

"Yes, beloved? Very sweet, while you wait. Wonderful starter for courage, bacon! What's on her mind?"

"I can't help—thinking of Geoffrey Field—and I shouldn't be—kissing him—all that. I—I went to my room to lie down in the dark last night—just after I left you....and I—woke—dreamed of him—and dreamed of him! The way—he kissed me."

He lost color suddenly, but he answered bravely.

"Tonight," he said, "for you, my dear, but—let us have a thought to our sanctuary. Let me kissed forward to take her hand and to hold it closed tightly. "I believe in it. "What shall we do today? Let's go exploring—in the car? Shall we? ch?"

"If you like—I like!"

"Right-o! Now, no more brooding over these—an—imaginings you can't help. I, my dear, have some of my own I can't help and I spoil—going to you for those!"

"You're so damned decent, Terry!" she said with a smile and a return to the patrols of her free-speaking young self.

"A man who is wholly in love," he confessed, "wants to —be—trim with all his strength to be."

The evening before Geoffrey was to sail, he felt a growing conviction that he would have another chance. He was sitting with Terry and Cicily of him; aware of it as he had never been aware of her, his eyes grew moist. He alternately paced his floor, or sat, sagged in a deep chair near a glowing fire, a willing captive to comfort.

In his office was turmoil....The Fleet crowd .... "Fleet and his cargo" had got under a financial surface which had seemed perfectly level and enough strong to bear any pressure, to make all settlements cracks, deep pits, quicksands for the unwary. Geoffrey "got busy"; men of his "crowd" came shouting into his office, callers, hale and hearty. One boy who had been shouting himself hoarse on the floor of the Exchange, came in to sit down by Geoffrey's desk where he wept noisily, cursing his luck, pounding out the tale of his being beaten!

"By God, nothing left—but desks for me!? he said, almost screaming. Geoffrey said how he tried, about what sounded glance. When the world was squeezing you out, you squared your shoulders, "Stiff upper lip!" And wini Lord, if Cicily could see this—she would never stand! If—the weeper could not right, of course he had better die—he was right about that! A fight to the finish was the only way to—and as Geoffrey measured men.

"Rotten streak of yellow," he said in undertone to a contemporary who was surveying the whimpering wreck.

"It's got too weak a chin for the street," his friend agreed; "ought to live in Paris with women."

This, and with scorn, they dismissed him, the door-slam of which, as he slunk off, who could have pained, but whose was wished money; the boy who had received weekly by Geoff's desk.

"Sorry, Ter, but I'm not running a hospital here," said Geoffrey. The fellow realized him and he could not be weakened! Tugged in every direction by this infernal, formidable scent-spoor he himself—by exploions!

"Have a drink," Geoffrey prescribed, pulling open the lower right desk drawer, to give into Tex James' palsied hands a flask.

"Pull yourself together," Geoffrey added as the boy drank, spattered and coughed. He thought, "Poor damned fool couldn't even drink like a man!

Luther came in, bearing a cablegram. Geoffrey read: "Want to see you will you come over please most particularly Cicily Fleet."

He set his strong teeth on his lower lip. His eyes blurred suddenly; he was "dog-tired"; he "needed him" to cable Florence late this after—noon. And Hilda would—"Tell him to cancel my reservations on the steamer."

Parks came swinging in, eyes bright, running his hand of a man who is chuck or made through his tortured hair. "God, we got 'em!" he said in his jubilant "knock" way.

He sank to the chair that young Tex, a nonentity, had dragged himself from. "Had my house on it myself, Geoff—damned thing," he confessed, his voice breaking. Geoffrey again opened his cheque-book—and the cleared. Parks drank heavily and long, wiped his lips, refused a cigar; and he did not cough.

Geoffrey read that night, in a pile edition of The Journal having been mowed down by a motor; he had stepped, collapsed, and dragged path without a glance. He was now dying at the Mercy Hospital.

"Blind man" Geoff thought unconsolingly, yet, the boy hadn't been "dog-tired" which would have saw as "life".

Cicily, not many hours away from that hour, read Geoffrey's cable;

CHAPTER 20

During their quest of the hills and the far-away, Terry had spoken to Cicily of that which, he felt, for her sake, she should not hear. He spoke he thought that never before had she been so beautiful as she was at that moment. Terry set his chin hard and looked suddenly away.

"Do I understand, Terry, that you advise my seeing Geoffrey?" she asked breathlessly.

BRINGING UP FATHER

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Captain Zuppner swung the nose of the giant dirigible to port and she sailed out over the plains of Pellucidar. A slight turn of the wheel would have carried the O-228 southeast across the dismal forest through which Tarzan and Jana were being borne to a horrible fate. But the captain did not know. And so the airship from the outer earth continued searching for the missing members of her crew, while the ape-man and the beautiful Red Flower of Korsoba rode silently toward their doom.

When the lizard-men entered the inner world's forest, Tarzan knew he could have escaped. He might have swung from his hideous mount to one of the lower branches that erased their heads as they passed beneath. Once in the trees, he knew no Horib could catch him. But he could not desert Jana. Nor could he ever get close enough to her to whisper his plans. So in silence they rode along, the ape-man hoping the chance would come when he could take The Red Flower and leap to safety.

From the Horibs' conversation Tarzan learned they were almost at their destination. His nerves and muscles were on the alert and he chafed with impatience. He was about to make a desperate break for liberty, trusting the unexpectedness of his act would catch the Horibs off guard. This would give him all the necessary few seconds to throw Jana to his shoulder and spring forward. But at the last moment he checked his impulse and brought to his nostrils a scent-spoor he had thought never to know again.

He knew what was somewhere ahead of them and he thought and acted quickly. It seemed impossible for himself and Jana to escape at once, but there was another way—Numa! Tarzan twisted his chance and soon it came. Low before him swung the branches of the dismal forest. He leaned forward, his hands resting lightly on the Gorobora's neck. When just beneath the branch he had selected, the ape-man leaped lightly to his feet and almost at the same mo-

Policies and Records of Conservative Party Reviewed at Thurlow Club Banquet

Reeve of Thurlow

"Sometimes," said Reeve Gray, "it is well for us as citizens of this country to review these past four years of depression, of trouble, and see how much more of prosperity we have enjoyed than citizens of other lands." Bank failures have not occurred in Canada, or no great calamities have fallen to our lot as elsewhere, to bring wholesale death to our people and widespread destruction of property. Canada is possessed of a race of people full of courage and energy, who have maintained sanity through a trying time. They have built up a country in the forefront of the world. Leaders of all governing bodies have passed through a period of appreciable suspense in guiding the destinies of those whose will it was they were in office. Premier R. B. Bennett, Premier Henry and their cabinet ministers had piloted the ship of state safely and surely during troubled waters. Conservative leadership, with Conservative policies and traditions behind them, had placed Canada in the enviable position it was in the eyes of the world today. "It was to Conservative leadership it had to look for the hope and help of its future," concluded Reeve Gray.

W. E. Tunnacon, M.P.

After paying his customary respects to the members of the club, and complimenting the lady members on the excellence of the dinner provided, the Federal member for the riding of Hastings Division devoted the big limited remarks in reigning to the town, to the changing conditions of the first third of the present century had witnessed. "It is now a month or two," said Mr. Tunnacon, "till we meet the two-third mark of this century. On April 1st, next, 33 1-3 per cent. of it will have passed—a time period that has been the most eventful in the history of the world. It will be recorded in the future of this country. And not only this country but that of the British Empire and the Empire's destinies. Think of changes in the map of Europe; think of the countries of Europe, once the centre of world affairs and how they have changed since we went to school. All in the first third of this century.

This Canada of which we form a part, a nation of ten million has come to play an important part in world affairs. And we, ourselves can say that came by chance. The first third of the century has seen an evolution of a nation playing its part in world affairs. Other countries are today looking to Canada to see what stability it is going to take or going to do.

Improved conditions have begun. The definite upward trend is not far distant. We can now look back and get a clearer view of the conditions we have come through and realize to a great extent the responsibility of those on whom responsibility rested. Township, County, Provincial and Dominion Governments have faced both the trials and troubles of the past few years. "No people stand higher in the estimation of people of the world than those of Canada," said Mr. Tunnacon in closing.

Thurlow's Deputy Reeve

To Earl Deacon, deputy Reeve of the township of Thurlow was deputized the proposal of the toast to "Province of Ontario" and in so doing he made reference to a statement in the Province of Toronto of the 14th. inst. relative to the finances of the County of Hastings. "Somebody," said Mr. Deacon, "who did not wish to say anything good of the county had produced a report had been the instigator of the article." April 1st., 1917, the county had issued 20 years debentures amounting to $150,000. June 4th, 1913 an issue was made for the same amount, for a like period of time. November 30th, 1915, there was a 20 year issue of $20,000; and December 5th, 1916, a $30,000 issue for 20 years, a total of $250,000. All had been paid at the present time but $100,000.

An overdraft of somewhat over $40,000 had accumulated during the four years of depression. This year there is no overdraft. It was Deputy Reeve Denyes' opinion that the finances of the county were in a healthy condition.

J. F. Hill, M.P.P.

In his response to the toast, the member of the local legislature for East Hastings spoke of the recent first convention of the Young Canada Conservative Clubs in Toronto on the 20th. of the present month. It had been a good meeting with plenty of enthusiasm and no time for reading, and to the chief speaker of the evening, Earl Lawson, he paid a tribute to the manner of that eventful gathering.

The time was soon near when we would have to talk politics, Mr. Hill pointed out. Conservative Clubs would you turn out the present government. The Social services of the province had been maintained at high standard throughout the years of depression. The first of last year a deficit of $3,000,000 had been anticipated for 1933, instead the Henry Conservative Government had been able to show a surplus of $500,000. That shows that the government of this province is looking after its finances and its welfare. Quebec, without a social service to upkeep in Canada, and with a large source of revenue not available in this province, had shown a deficit of six million dollars in a like period of time.

The present government at Toronto had not as an opposition the Liberal party but an opposition of many heads. The leader of that opposition had been recently barred from office. Mr. Sinclair had put the people of this province in advance ahead of party and had tried to help them. The government and when measures futhering the province's welfare were at stage. Mr. Hill believed that Mr. Sinclair was guilty of treason to the Liberal. He had been kicked out of the Liberal party by opposition of many heads. The leader of that opposition had been recently barred from office. Mr. Sinclair had put the people of this province in advance ahead of party and had tried to help them. The government and when measures futhering the province's welfare were at stage. Mr. Hill believed that Mr. Sinclair was guilty of treason to the Liberal. He had been kicked out of the Liberal party by a crowd from Ottawa and had been given the first time ever, that the people would not let him last out the last session of the present Legislature. A number of people in Ontario would think what had been done by Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Hepburn disloyal of it before marking a ballot for Premier Henry administration. The speaker urged all to seriously consider the present government's accomplishments when they next went to the polls.

J. Earl Lawson, M.P.

To W. E. Tunnacon was allotted the pleasurable duty of introducing his Ottawa colleague, the speaker of the evening, J. Earl Lawson, Federal member for the riding of West York.

"I had had number of years' acquaintance with Earl Lawson," said Mr. Tunnacon, "before he came to the House of Commons in a by-election in 1926. We sat then during organization work for the wel-fare of the Conservative party. Mr. Lawson was returned in the general election of 1930 and represented his riding in the parliament of 162,000. He has made a name for himself as an able speaker in the House of Commons and is one well able to take care of himself and never let it," said Mr. Tunnacon. "We have been friends since 1926. We sat at the same place during sessions of parliament. I have learned to appreciate his worth and I feel it a personal honour in his coming here to address you tonight," said the member for South Hastings in concluding his presentation.

The member representing West York in the Lower House made a most favorable impression on those who had the good fortune to hear him speak. In his young days, forties, he is brimful of magnetic vitality. He finishes one part of his subject thoroughly before venturing on another; he is a convincing speaker, and his remarks reflect thoughtful preparation. His welcome will be such as he speaks in this district, and the welfare of the Conservative cause will be furthered by having him often on the public platforms in the counties of South Hastings.

On the program of the evening to propose the toast of "Our Club" Mr. Lawson in his opening remarks said, "It is the first time I have been privileged to speak in the constituencies of this period of time," he mention. I see I am to propose the toast to the Thurlow Conservative Club. I am always glad to propose and to a club that represents the best sense of their responsibility to the country of their birth or the country of their adoption. We are those associated with a political club. Those who serve as well as those in Canada what it is. You serve as well as Mr. Hill or Mr. Tunnacon serve," continued the speaker. "Because of our form of democratic government we have responsibility. We must aid in serving most the good of the country.

"The young of today have fire and enthusiasm through the Conservative party they can make it an instrument with which to serve Canada. In that party they will find the great broad principles of constitutional government, aligned with consistent adherence to the British Empire. That good hold true to, but loop off any mouldering dream and the principles of good government. The present government has not accomplished everything it had hoped for, but what met it when it came into power in 1930? Through the wild days of prosperity not only in Canada but felt in every country of the world a new order of things had been set up. The ingenuity of science had built up advancements in instant communication with all parts of the world. "All were part and parced of one great brotherhood of mankind. Science had made the production of materials as never before. What affected one country affected all. In 1930 in this country goods were over-produced when everything that ever could be made at the same condition was found in every other country; an enormous surplus of goods. Then there were only two countries not debtor nations. Prior was no object to get rid of those surpluses, dump them at any price, if that influx had been permitted to enter Canada there would hardly have been a factory open to relieve distress today. The Bennett government increased the tariffs to keep out that dumping from foreign markets. I do not advocate high tariffs, they cannot build up international trade but those tariff walls were built as a protective measure," said Mr. Lawson. "The finest markets for the natural dairy farmers of Ontario are the hungry mouths of city workers who still have a pay envelope and where would such workers be without a tariff protecting them. The government built a tariff wall to protect a consumptive market.

Results of Ottawa Conference.

"The Opposition had sneered at and belittled R. B. Bennett's efforts at the Economic Conference in London in 1931, but from that conference had come the Ottawa Conference in 1932 which resulted in the most trade balance. In 1930 Canada was buying $2,000,000 more than it was selling; in 1931 this unfavorable balance had been cut to $9,000,000; in 1932 there was a favorable balance of $14,000,000, and in 1933 Canada had increased that favorable balance to $109,000,000."

The principles of the C.C.F. the speaker described as "illusionary planning not to be taken as politic enough to nibble thereon. The idea that what's work."

"The republication of debts was but a breaking of contracts entered into recently by both parties concerned. This nation is nothing but an aggregation of individuals," pointed out the speaker. "What individual with decency and respect will repudiate his obligations? So with our pledged government. Canada the nation is responsible for their interest and redemption.

"Some say the biggest holders of Canada's bonds are the large insurance companies. Dominion and provincial insurance acts provide that those companies must have reserves of so much for every dollar they take in, by policy holders' premiums. Actuaries have ascertained the amounts, so that liabilities be paid. Policy holders be protected. It is shallow thinking when one says to cancel the bonds, that it matters to those insurance companies. Not only to the policy holders' interest but to protection of the beneficiaries of the insured is jeopardized.

Taxation.

"There are three principles governing the policy of the government in the matter of taxation: (1) every-body contribute something, (2) everybody capable of paying to pay according to his ability, (3) luxuries. Seven-eighths of all Dominion Income Tax payers pay on the first thirteenth of the moneys collected. Corporations pay according to the evidence that the burden of tax falls on the consumer. Would I feel it a personal honour in his coming here to address you tonight," said the member for South Hastings in concluding his presentation.

"Hepburn and Woodsworth say the real friends are the friends of the "big interests". You know Jim Hill, you know Earl Lawson, do you say they are friends of such? Those two men are representative of we others at Toronto and Ottawa. We are all politicians. Yes I have to be one to job so but we can.

"It has taken four hundred years to build up our government as we have it today and we refuse to hand it out to the first comer, or the unreasoned scheme. Russia has tried her experiment and is the worst country at today? The Conservative party will make changes to suit changing conditions, and abuses will be wiped out.

"The natural producers of this country are faced with difficult problems today. Pre agriculture prices through the depression in Canada have been better than in any other country of the world.

"The country is not passing $60,000 more are employed today than a year ago, and the revenue of the country are picking up. There is a slow steady progressive trend upward throughout the country. Have fortitude, maintain love of country, love for peace, law and order and maintain your faith in mankind.

"The party that has led us through these troubled years will lead still to a happy day for all in this country of ours. Prove your belief in that party by expressing it at the ballot way by again electing it to office and power," concluded Mr. Lawson.

Replying to the toast, Mrs. Ernest Chambers and Mr. H. Nolan ably entertained the club's thanks to him and the others who had lent their hands in making the night memorable in the annals of the Thurlow Conservative Club's history. Following a few remarks by Mr. Frank Hicks, the splendid evening was terminated with the singing of the National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne.

PICTS, SCOTS ANGLES AND ILKA ITHERS

Melting Pot of Europe And Several Nations Produced Best of Each in All Scots

"Scotland and Bobbie Burns," was the subject of an interesting address given by P. C. MacLaurin before the Belleville Rotary Club on Monday. Scotland's history from the early days was sketched by the speaker, who said that there was a blank in Scottish history from 600 B.C. until 600 A.D. Scotland has never been conquered and the speaker traced the long line of royal kings from the Scottish kings, down through the years to the throne which is now filled with James VI of Scotland and James I of England, one and the same person.

Robert Burns

Early history of Scotland was sketched very interestingly showing that the Scots were the first people in the north of Ireland; that the Norsemen came up out of the sea and settled on the west coast of Scotland and islands which are forever part of Scotland. The Shetlands with fifty-two islands, the Shetlands over one hundred islands and the Hebrides. The tale of the dark, chequered history of Scotland from the out of Africa, passed through Spain and Ireland, describing their mark forever upon the race, was told. Then the Picts with their artistic flare and love of the sun. Angles from Germany carrying the Teutonic blood mingling with the great and lasting impression upon the race.

Where Gaelic Came From

Gaelic brought over from Ireland by the Scots from Scotia is still spoken by leaders who come up out of Africa, passed through Spain and Ireland, describing their mark forever upon the race, was told. Then the Picts with their artistic flare and love of the sun. Angles from Germany carrying the Teutonic blood mingling with the great and lasting impression upon the race.

Where Gaelic Came From

Gaelic brought over from Ireland by the Scots from Scotia is still spoken by leaders who come up out of original form that Gaels from Ireland and Scots from Scotia, British brethren understandingly.

Gaelic is such a musical country, said the speaker, that it could be put to music. The Scots in Ontario between Port Hope and Montreal, and north forty to sixty miles from the St. Lawrence River.

Scotland's beautiful cities and industrial centres were briefly referred to by the speaker, also the lakes and hills, mountains and valleys of the south and rugged romantic countryside.

Scotland Never Conquered

Scotland was never conquered and from the battle of Bannockburn in 1314 at which time Robert the Bruce manhandled their proud independence was established as a free sovereign nation in the union of the British Isles. In 1707 the Parliament of Scotland is an independent kingdom, having the same status as England and is represented in the Mother of Parliaments at London by a number of members. Then came Burns.

Religious history from the days of St. Columba and other saints who laid the foundation stones of Scotch religion, to the Roman Catholic era which more than anything else served to produce a United Scotland. Then the Reformation and John Knox and Presbyterian as the established church of Scotland, formed another factor in Scotland's interesting chapter in the development of Scotland's interesting evidence to the almost incessant flitting of Scots over the face of the globe as a vital and interesting part of the history.

Education from the early days when the youth of Scotland was sent to France to study, until the university era beginning with the establishment of the University of Edinburgh and other grand universities culminating in Edinburgh town.

Scotland's Bard

Closing with an eloquent and earnest tribute to the memory of Scotland's immortal bard, Robert Burns, Mr. MacLaurin said that any shadows cast on the personal character of Robert Burns were the result of his own downright honesty in confessing his sins and that all men might hear. He was too honest to attempt to conceal even his own failings, and judged by the average man of his day Robert Burns led as good a life as any of us. His early years spent in Edinburgh when he was the toast and toast of Lords and Ladies was briefly described, and the influence of his poems upon Scotland's character. Burns was born 175 years ago, January 25, began writing when he was ten years old and had his first poem published at the age of twenty-seven, and died at the age of thirty-seven, his life outside of Scotland being spent in Dumfriesburgh" being full of pain, sorrow and poverty, with much joy mixed with it. Death claimed him as a young man, but he still lives in the hearts of his countrymen and his poems which described so well the life of Scotland will live after.

Scotland may be a mixture of many nations, but Burns and every scoterkie has retained the best each and all selected the best and that is why the Scot of today is so well bred, concluded the speaker.

ITALY FAVORS RE-ARMING OF GERMANY

Abolition of Chemical Warfare Advocated by Italians

MILITARY EXPENSE

Prohibition of Bombing of Civilians to be Applied

Rome, Jan. 31—Italy came out in favor of the rearmament of Germany as the only practical solution of the armaments question, in an official memorandum issued today. This memorandum, under the Italian plan, would be based on status quo for other powers on the principle aspects of their armaments.

The following limitations, however would be applied:

1. Abolition of chemical warfare.
2. Prohibition of bombardment of civil populations.
3. Limitation at present levels of military expenditure, under the treaties in force.
4. Limitation to its present size of terrestrial equipment of these powers.

Public opinion of the world is convinced that the capital and practical question is no longer to impede German re-armament," the memorandum says, "but to see that this should be effected outside the sphere of regulation and control."

ZWICK'S ISLAND PROJECT EXPLAINED BY MR. MOORE

Horticulturists Gather For Banquet at Queen's Hotel

The first dinner to be sponsored by the Belleville Horticultural Society was that held in the New Queen's Hotel, Tuesday evening, and it proved a delightful innovation. When it is said the event was the first of its kind, the statement must be qualified to the extent that it was the first any of those who enjoyed the affair had ever taken part in. The dinner attended the idea, Tuesday evening, and from every point of view was unqualified satisfaction. Over 50 members and friends of the society and of the city were in attendance, an excellent repast, splendidly served was enjoyed and then, with the tables cleared, the guest speaker, gave a most interesting address. Following the evening Miss Anna Lafferty entertained in the vocal field by giving two solos. "The House with Nobody in It" and "Mother Machree."

Mrs. George A. Bonisteel, president of the Belleville Horticultural Society, was in the chair and occupied the chair for the evening and in her usual pleasing manner and hospitality handled Mrs. Bonisteel referred to the success of the event and Mr. Goode associated with the activities of the society over which she has so ably presided for a number of months. She trusted the evening would prove the forerunner of many dining as well as entertaining. The toast to the guest of the evening was in the way of dinners and she felt sure that it was a most delightful undertaking. Mrs. Bonisteel then charmingly introduced Mr. W. A. Moore.

Merriman Woodley as senior member of the City Council, responded to that toast in the unavoidable absence of Mayor Ponton. Mr. Woodley said the work that had been done by the Horticultural Society about Belleville was not only appreciated by the council but by the citizens of Belleville as a whole. He said what a united organization could accomplish. Referring to the flower section another truck was moving that had been utilized with a profit impact.

George Combs and Howard Grant were duly before they reaching Mr. Wesley Hospital. Fire Turners, Assistant Superintendent Walter Brindley, his skull fractured, died today from injuries received in the fire. Therefore, Wesley Grandmaster, and Mrs. Brindley.

MAN IS HELD AFTER DEATH

Woman Found Unconscious And Room in a Shambles

Montreal, Jan. 31.—(CP)—Her skull fractured by blows from a dull instrument and with numerous bruises and cuts about the head, Mrs. Sara Enright, 35, Winnipeg, died in hospital here today.

Lead screams attracted police to an apartment house on Stanley Street early today. They broke into the apartment and found it in a shambles. Blood was spattered over the furniture, chairs were broken and screens and curtains were lying on the floor.

In a corner of the room say Mrs. Enright, unconscious, bleeding from several wounds about the head and face. After summoning an ambulance, they took Kelly in charge. He was in the room at the time and his clothes were covered with blood stains, and Kelly is claimed by police to have admitted striking Mrs. Enright during a quarrel.

The woman died in hospital without regaining consciousness.

London and Welsh Press Extols Two-Way Trade as Produce Ship Arrives

Vardulia's Arrival Heralded in Newspapers of Motherland as Finest Gesture of Reciprocity Between Canada And The United Kingdom

BELLEVILLE IS MENTIONED

Welsh Colliery Owners And Shipping Companies See Future Development and Note With Pride How the Commerce Crusaders Carry Their Slogans Into Business Across The Sea

The British press describes the Leeds-Daily Mail, the London Daily Express, the South Wales Western Mail, the South Wales Liverpool Daily Post, all carry well-displayed articles on the Canada-British trade deal, and the Welsh Council of the Central Ontario Commerce Chamber, and Belleville and other Canadian cities are mentioned.

The press mentions the fact that the Vardulia is the first of the Bristol-Belleville Ontario farm products on its outbound trip, the effect of one of the other Belleville commercial travelers, Mr. Scarth and the province in this manner, it will go a long way toward building up for them a proper conception of Canada's commercial and financial stability from a proper desire for peace.

Every effort is made to give the ship a welcome in the port that it would be pleasant to remember. Our visitors will be entertained and it is believed that the reciprocity in trade will bring back the exportable cheese trade.

The Central Ontario Commerce Chamber is built to industries at Belleville are all delighted with the establishment in spending the channels of trade between Canada and the United Kingdom. Belleville is to be in full swing before long.

The Vardulia is a fine ship, but as an Empire trade monument it stands alone. Handsome enough will endure and unchanging in the history of this country.

Combined with the Vardulia, British newspapers found

STRATOSPHERE BALLOON CREW FOUND DEAD

Bag Breaks Away as Gondola Hits The Earth

KILLED LANDING

Scientific Instruments, Data Are Completely Destroyed

Moscow, Jan. 31 (AP)—All three members of the crew of the Soviet stratosphere balloon "Osoaviakhim" were killed between 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. yesterday, several hundred kilometres southeast of Moscow, near the village of Potlakyonteva.

The disaster was announced officially today by the Soviet Civil Aviation authorities after 24 hours of unconfirmed reports and rumors while a search went on for the three who vanished when the "Osoa" had reached an altitude of 67,585 feet.

The official announcement said the crew was killed while attempting to land the great balloon.

The balloon had broke away from the gondola at 10,150 feet, moving in a hard landing. The force of the concussion killed the three occupants of the gondola and destroyed all the scientific instruments aboard.

Following the crash the bag tore away from the gondola and disappeared into the clouds.

Nothing had been heard from the balloon since last night when it sent a wireless message that it was turning for a landing place in a heavy fog.

Aeroplanes, sent to direct the balloonists to safety were unable to find the great bag and its cargo of men who ascended yesterday to a height they reported as being higher than any before reached by man.

New Peak in Hydro Consumption Sign of Improvement

(By Jack Hamilton Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Jan. 31 (CP)—Providing for Provincial control of milk, and forecasting operations in the construction and maintenance of highways to provide employment, the Speech from the Throne was read at the formal opening of the Ontario Legislature today by Hon. Herbert A. Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of the province. There was no indication in the speech as to the government's policy with regard to sale of beer and wine by the glass.

Twelve bills paid to two cabinet ministers, Hon. E. A. Dunlop and Hon. J. D. Monteith, and to other members of the government who have died since last session.

Markets By Province

Payments of the Dominion and Province for relief of unemployment are to be continued for the present year and will be employed largely in providing work with the aim of eventually curtailing the direct relief system. Reviewing the work of the past year, the speech declared the progress made in building up and extending markets for the products of Ontario farms had been gratifying. With the Federal Department of Agriculture, the Provincial Department is co-operating in efforts to improve the quality of beef cattle and to increase the yield of dairy cows.

The Ontario power development will soon be paying its own way, the speech forecast. With regard to the Hydro Electric Commission, the speech declared a $3,000,000 loan added to the public utilities reserve, bringing the total reserves up to $69,000,000.

Deeds of Loyalists.

The deeds and services of the United Empire Loyalists were referred to by the speech, in connection with celebration of the 150th anniversary of their landing in Quebec, which will be held this summer. "It is eminently fitting these deeds of loyalty should be recalled to succeeding generations," said the speech.

Strikes and disputes in Northern Ontario mine, pulp and lumber camps were mentioned in the speech when it said "the conditions existing in many hundreds of operations and bearing in camps in the north country have led to calls for official investigation and appearance from time to time."

HIGHLIGHTS

Highlights of the speech from the throne read by Lieut.-Governor at the Ontario Legislative Session yesterday afternoon:

Absence of any reference to sale of beer and wine by the glass, or even an announcement of Government policy as expected this session.

Going of Hydro Electric Commission operations at a profit, in spite of the trend of industry, with increase of $3,000,000 in the public utilities reserve to total more than $69,000,000.

City and District News

CLEAN SNOW FROM ALL CITY STREETS

Twenty-six extra men employed by the city works department spread throughout the city today in an effort to clean the walks and crossings of the drifting snow which had been piled by the wind since early morning. Other routine work being carried on by the department was the digging of deep channels in the thick ice of the roads at the curb sides in expectation of a sudden thaw and the consequent flooding of sidewalks on the residential streets.

TOO BLUSTERY TO WORK AT ISLAND

Blustery winds and flying snowflakes which whipped the island during the morning, creating conditions worse than those experienced during the sub zero weather of Monday and Tuesday, caused a cessation of work today at Zwick's Island and compelled approximately two hundred men to pack their tools and leave for home. It is expected that work will be resumed on Thursday when conditions are not so severe.

HAND BLOWN OFF BY DYNAMITE CAP

With his right hand completely blown off, and both arms badly mangled by a premature explosion of dynamite caps which he had been preparing for rock blasting at the Eagle Hill cut near Denbigh where the Belleville highway workers are now stationed, Eberf Akey of Tweed district was rushed to the general hospital at Perth where an amputation of the right arm was made below the elbow. Although the left arm was also badly lacerated and torn, it is believed that the injured member will be saved. Nearby workers, several of whom were Belleville boys, were unhurt by the flying fragments following the explosion.

CLARE MALLEY MAY BE MAGISTRATE

Word was received at the county building today that the name of Mr. Clare Malley of Deseronto, well known ex-Reeve of Hastings County Council has been forwarded to the Ontario government for the appointment of police magistrate for the town of Deseronto, succeeding G. P. Palmer, who tendered his resignation some time ago. It is expected that announcement of his appointment will be made in the course of a few days.

Mr. Malley is a life long resident of Deseronto and an ex-service man. Besides having considerable municipal experience in the town of Deseronto, he has also served with distinction in the County Council, having held the chairmanship of finance during the year 1932. He is a Past Master of Craig Masonic Lodge.

Men Miss Mail-bag Holding Up Carrier

Cobourg, Jan. 31—W. Roberts, mail carrier, was held up on George Street early yesterday morning by two men who were operating an automobile and had stopped directly in front of Mr. Robert's mail car. He pulled to the side of the road to get by the hold-up men, but they jumped on the running-board of the mail car and ordered Roberts to "stick 'em up." They asked where the mail sacks were and Mr. Roberts told them they were in the back of the car. One of the men ransacked the mail bags, but the locked bag Mr. Roberts had hid under his front seat. It is stated by the Postmaster, Mr. Hewson, that apparently nothing is missing due to the good judgment of the mail carrier in concealing the locked bag. Police are endeavouring to apprehend the hold-up men.

APPOINTED CHAIRMAN

Campbellford, Jan. 31. — Holding its first meeting in 1934, the Campbellford Board of Health yesterday morning appointed John Gay chairman for the current year, a position he has held for some years.

Invite Pastor to Remain For Another Term

Marmora, Jan. 31—The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's United Church took place in St. Andrew's Hall on Thursday evening with the pastor, Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth in the chair. The minister's report was given, showing 29 young people were received into the church during the past year as follows: St. Andrew's 20, Zion 8, by letter 1. Twenty-four persons were baptized and three weddings were carried out. The membership of 146 was an increase of 20 over the previous year. The pastor referred to the intention to open up Young People's work next week and also stressed the value of church attendance.

The Sunday School report presented by H. W. Sabine showed an enrolment of 128, with an average attendance of 93 for the year. Of $197.07 raised, the year ended with a balance on hand of $39.45.

W. A. Sanderson gave a brief but favorable report of the activities of the choir.

Miss M. Brown gave a most comprehensive report of the activities of the Women's Association. This association held eleven regular meetings and six special meetings. Of the year's receipts amounting to $405.00 two hundred dollars had been transferred to the Church Board funds.

G. B. Airhart in giving the financial report, showed that monies received from the various sources compared favorably with previous years. He also, in common with Arthur Sweet, gave figures on the Renovation Fund.

D. E. Bell followed with the report of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund, stating that the returns had been good when the times were taken into consideration.

Elders Re-elected

The session of elders were re-elected as follows: G. B. Airhart, P. S. Pearce, W. A. Sanderson, H. W. Sabine, H. O. Loveless, H. D. L. Curtis.

The Board of Stewards for 1934 was elected with only one change: W. E. Gould replacing Dr. D. Thomson who has left the district. The Board is composed of the following members: W. Billings, A. Wallbridge, W. J. Pack, F. R. Wells, D. R. Haacke, G. B. Airhart, F. N. Marett, D. E. Bell, T. E. Laycock and W. E. Gould.

Routine business suspended for the while with the re-election of G. B. Airhart as treasurer; and refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation.

Resuming business H. W. Sabine, president of the Men's Association, spoke of the activities of the organization in 1933, and outlined some of the program for the ensuing year. Mr. Sabine was re-elected as representative of the association to the Presbytery.

A vote of thanks to the choir and a hearty invitation to the pastor to remain another year with a report of the activities of the Women's Association by its secretary, Mr. E. C. Prentice wound up the meeting.

Rev. Father Terrion of Smith's Falls, visited his mother, Mrs. E. Terrion on Monday.

Mr. W. H. Fowler of Cochrane, is in town on Monday.

Mr. T. Warren and Miss Grace spent the week end in Peterboro.

Mr. Geo. Dunn of Peterboro was in town on Monday.

A very successful euchre and bridge party was held in the Separate School on Monday evening with a good crowd in attendance. Seven tables of euchre and seven tables of bridge were played. Miss Hadler of Deloro and Mr. Jack Maloney of town won at bridge and Mr. and Mrs. P. Brophy at euchre. A choice lunch was served at midnight after which dancing was enjoyed for a couple of hours.

Mrs. F. Proust and Mrs. E. Shannon of Deloro were called to Trenton on Monday owing to the illness of their mother.

Dick Barthelmess in "Heroes For Sale," coming to the Capitol, Thursday.

WATERCOLOR OF NEW CHURCH

In a display window of Adams the Shoeman, Front Street, is on view, a very fine water-color of the nearly completed Anglican Church of St. Marks at Bonarlaw. The artistic conception is the work of Mr. J. Arnold Thomson of this city, who was architect of the edifice. Building started last summer and the cornerstone was laid in September last. Dedication is to be made some time in February.

Trinity Y. P. S.

On Tuesday, January 29th, the regular weekly meeting of Trinity Y.P.S. was held in the basement of the church with the president, Miss E. MacDiarmid in the chair. Following the singing of Hymn No. 205, Mr. Rivers led in prayer. The Lord's Prayer was then repeated in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted and the offering received by Kelvin Kincard and Bryden Lowery. Following the singing of one verse of Hymn 239, Mr. Grey Rivers took charge of the meeting. Hymn No. 276 was sung. The Scripture Lesson, 13th chap. of Romans was read by Albert Sagar. Mr. Horace Reddick sang a solo. The event of the evening was a travelogue given by Rev. Mr. Trumpour of Eldorado.

The substance of his lecture was his visit to Mesopotamia and the characters he met at the Wayside Inn of Life. The address was very interesting and instructive. Mr. Trumpour exhibited souvenirs of the places that he had visited.

A poem "Suppose" was read by Richard McMurray. A vote of thanks to Mr. Trumpour was moved by Mr. Rivers and seconded by Mrs. Wellman. The meeting was brought to a close with a prayer by Rev. Mr. Trumpour.

Madoc High School Literary Society held their last meeting for January in the assembly room on Friday afternoon. The programme which was furnished by the Second Form pupils was opened by a chorus by the boys and girls consisting of a medley of Old Favourites which all enjoyed.

Gladys Martin gave a splendid monologue, "Two Visitors At a Baseball Game" which was very well rendered. Jean Nickle gave a piano solo, "Amaryllis" a French air. The High School Paper, edited by Laura Ross, was read by the President, Alec Bread. After a period of community singing, a play, "The Woodcutter and the Princess" was presented with much success by the following cast:

The King—Murray Irwin.
The Queen—Frances Blue.
The Princess—Margaret Moon.
The Woodcutter—Kelvin Kincaid.
The Princes—Malcolm Bassett, Russel Foster and Richard McMurray.

Attendants—Marion Hamm, Jean Nickle, Hazel Genereaux, Lorna Roberts, Jack Smith, Warren Hill, Jim Meraw.

MAY MARRY ASTOR

LEBRUN RHINELANDER

While young John Jacob Astor, 3rd, maintains a sphinx-like silence regarding the dramatic end of his engagement to Eileen Gillespie, society gossips are speculating as to whether Lebrun Rhinelander won't take her place in the Astor scheme of things. She is a granddaughter of Major T. J. Oakley Rhinelander.

POWER COST UP, CHARGED

Dr. J. A. Faulkner Speaks at Liberal Gathering in Toronto

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Charges that power cost for "ordinary domestic service to a workingman's home" in Trenton had increased 307 per cent. after the Trenton Waterpower and Electric Light Company had been taken over by the Ontario Hydro Commission, and that a petition signed by 300 consumers of the power had "not even received the courtesy of a reply from the Hydro" were made Monday night of Dr. J. Albert Faulkner, Liberal candidate for West Hastings.

Speaking before a meeting of Ward Five Liberals, which nominated Ernest C. Bogart by acclamation to the Liberal candidacy in Bracondale, Dr. Faulkner made a slashing attack upon the $18,000 salary paid Hon. J. R. Cooke, Hydro chairman, who, he claimed, was qualified for his position by "being a farmer;" on the $10,000 salary paid an unnamed retired farmer of Mr. Cooke's township as a Hydro official, and on "the whole line-up of salaries for which the men with callouses on their hands are not going to stand at the next election."

Dr. Faulkner shared speaking honors with Sam Factor, M.P., and A. W. Roebuck, Liberal candidate in Bellwoods, who assailed Premier Henry's "vacillating and politically

CLEAR WATER FOR ISLAND

New Well Being Dug At Zwick's Island by Workers

Crystal clear water of the Bay of Quinte, filtered through the thick gravel beds of Zwick's Island, will be furnished visitors to Zwick's Island and next summer following the completion of a well which is now being dug in the location of the former well once used.

Today the final work of clearing out the deep excavation made on the site of the new well is being carried on, and it is expected that the huge concrete pipe, which will be used for lining it will be placed on Friday. It is expected that one or two pumps of the approved type will be placed in the well to provide sufficient water for drinking and other purposes.

Even at the present time, with the well only half completed, the flow of water is excellent, and of the clearest quality, according to workmen who excavated the site.

FELLED TREE CUTS HOUSE

Tree Ends Fall on Floor of First Story of Dwelling

There's a knack in felling a tree the right way that even a beaver must learn, as Hyman Burns, resident near Plainfield, north of the city, can now tell you.

Burns, living alone in a tiny house by the side of the road near that village, hied forth on Monday with his trusty axe to chop down a large dying maple just a few feet from his doorstep. Two things actuated him in the deed. The heavy dead limbs of the tree threatened his house with every wind. Second he needed firewood.

Lustily Hyman chopped, deepening the gash in the butt opposite the first notch cut on the other side to guide the fall. On the left stood a small clearing, where the tree was intended to drop. On the right stood Hyman's house, squatting insignificantly under the towering maple.

Hyman hummed as he worked. And as the blade of the axe bit deeper into the wood, the maple shivered with each successive blow. Came an ominous crack, and Hyman, with a glance upward, dealt the final blow. Then he stepped back and eyed the clearing expectantly.

With a rending sound that was heard for a mile, and a magnificent sweep that was heart-rending to see, the huge maple started downward with a force that was irresistible. But it did not drop toward the clearing. It canted towards the east. It fell directly and heavily across the trembling roof top of the little house. The tree ended its fall on the floor of the first storey.

Today Hyman is boarding with a kind-hearted neighbor until he can gather sufficient help for a wood-cutting bee, and assistance in repairing a house which is cleaved wide open to the zero weather.

PEACE GARDEN IS DESCRIBED

Canada Holds Key to World Peace, Kiwanians Told

The International Peace Garden established in the Turtle Mountain district of Manitoba and across the boundary in the United States comprising 3,000 acres, when completed, will be a lasting monument to long existent friendship between Canada and the States, said H. J. Moore, superintendent of this vast garden, to members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon on Tuesday. It was one of the most instructive addresses on peace, that has been given before the Club in some time and at the conclusion the Club went on record on sponsoring the peace project outlined by Premier Bennett, W. L. Mackenzie King and J. S. Woodsworth with a rider of also approving of the Peace Garden.

Sandy Lummiss, president and manager of the Harris Bread Company, was the booster of the day and fittingly introduced by Eddie Logan, chairman of the committee. Sandy was born at Millbridge in Hastings County and the first thing he learned to do was to carry a gun and he has followed the deer trail on many occasions. An ardent sportsman, all round good fellow, Sandy is well liked in the club and a good Kiwanian. His samples of whole wheat bread, manufactured in this city, were a treat and probably more customers will be the outcome. President Eddie Shapiro was in the chair, George Lee was song leader, and Ernie Finkle collected the fines. The meeting was well attended and all were reminded of the big dance to be held on February 12th at the Johnstone Academy.

Mr. Moore, who is a landscape artist from Islington, was introduced by George Griffin and Kiwanian appreciation was expressed by J. O. Herity. The speaker traced the development of the garden showing the prominent men and women of Canada and United States at the head of the enterprise and the methods, that were to be employed to raise the necessary funds. Mr. Moore told of the dedication of the garden in 1932, when 75,000 were in attendance in 18,000 motor cars, it being expected not more than 15,000 would attend. All this, said the speaker, has been attained without ballyhoo or circus and all in the interests of peace. He further stated, that Canada held the key to the world peace with the League of Nations holding a prominent part. The address was most instructive and the garden will most likely be the beauty spot of the entire world, when completed.

ADDED REST ROOMS AT NEW QUEENS HOTEL

New Smoking and Writing Room for Travellers

Most attractive in its new settings and furniture is the new writing and smoke room at the New Queen's Hotel, opened Tuesday for the first time. The room occupies the old quarters used for a quick-lunch counter and which previous to that was the old bar room of the hotel. Newly decorated and with a bright linoleum covering the floor, the new writing room will appeal strongly to the commercial guests of the house, and this latest innovation of the hostelry's excellent management appreciated by them.

The change provides also larger dining-room accommodation which allows of better, quicker and more satisfactory service in that department of the hotel. Catering at the New Queen's Hotel is once more back to the high standard set by its former beloved proprietor, the late T. J. P. Powers.

WOMAN SHOT IN QUARREL

Young Miner From Timmins Held on Attempted Murder Charge

Toronto, Jan. 30 (CP)— Gordon David Coleman, 28 year old miner of the Timmins, Ont., district, was in jail today awaiting trial on a charge of attempted murder. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Mabel Shaw, 43, is in hospital undergoing treatment for a bullet wound in her left hand and Coleman's wife, Mrs. Adeline Coleman, is suffering from shock and frost-bitten feet.

Coleman is alleged to have shot and wounded his mother-in-law with a .45 calibre revolver when the woman objected to his presence in her home. It is alleged Coleman broke down the door of the Shaw home when he was refused admittance. Police said he had arrived in Toronto in hopes of effecting a reconciliation with his wife, who is said to have left him recently, coming to stay with her mother here from Timmins.

According to police Coleman was under the influence of liquor when he arrived at the Shaw home. When Mrs. Shaw attempted to call police, Coleman is alleged to have fired three shots at her, one of them striking her in the left hand and knocking the telephone receiver out of her hand.

Mrs. Coleman, in bed when her husband arrived, jumped upon the roof in her night attire. She was found two hours later by police, suffering from shock and frost-bitten feet.

Sisters Intervene

Intervention of two sisters, Margaret and Ruth Coleman, resulted in the young man's capture, police said. Coleman was reported to have fled to the attic with Dorothy, 8-year-old adopted daughter of Mrs. Shaw when police arrived. Officers declared he refused to surrender and is claimed to have threatened to shoot the child if the police ascended the attic stairs.

His sisters, however, finally succeeded in their pleadings for their brother to surrender and Coleman marched down the stairs, handed his gun to the officers and was taken to the police station.

DEFENCE LEAGUE HEAD INDICTED BY CROWN

Charged With Seditious Utterances Against Premier

Toronto, Jan. 31—(CP)—A. E. Smith, Toronto, head of the Canadian Labor Defence League, was under indictment today on a charge of seditious utterance. A grand jury yesterday indicted Smith for allegedly having said Premier R. B. Bennett had ordered the murder of Tim Buck, Toronto Communist leader, during riots at Kingston Penitentiary on Oct. 17, 1932.

Smith, known best on the coast for his efforts to secure release of Buck and seven other Communist leaders from the penitentiary, was said to have made the offensive remark in a recent speech. He is known also for his agitation for repeal of section 98 of the Criminal Code under which Buck and his colleagues were sentenced.

In his speech, the crown claims, Smith referred to a Communist play, "Eight Men Speak" which was banned here in Toronto, and said he deliberately that Bennett gave the order to shoot Tim Buck in his cell in cold blood with intent to murder him. Comrades, I say it was no accident, it was an order given from Bennett to Guthrie, to Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice) and from Guthrie to the Warden. They were only carrying out their orders and they meant to kill Buck."

BLOCKED LINES BEING RETURNED TO NORMAL

Snow Causes Blockade And Maroons Over 400 Passengers

Montreal, Jan. 31—(CP)—Normality gradually returned to the snowbound Matapedia Valley today after the worst storm in Eastern Canada in 25 years had blocked the main line of the Canadian National Railways between Matapedia, Que., and Campbellton, N.B., for more than 24 hours and marooned 400 passengers.

The first break in the white tangle came last night when two eastbound trifling finally nosed their way into Campbellton through deep snowdrifts. Both were hours late but passengers were overjoyed at their release from the hard-packed snow. Over the old Transcontinental line through New Brunswick two other trains were being rerouted.

Meanwhile a hastily gathered army of railway workers were using every means at their disposal to clear the tracks so other traffic could push through the storm area.

A NEW FRENCH REVOLUTION—AND ALL OF ONE FAMILY

A striking picture, made in front of the Chamber of Deputies, Paris, as grandmama and detectives forcibly removed a family of mother, father and five children who picketed the building shouting: "Down children at LEFT who refuse to be with government. Give us back our dad!" All members of the family seem to be putting up a fight. Note struggling father at RIGHT and two children at LEFT who refuse to be separated. This is just one of the many happenings that took place last week following the resignation of Premier Chautemps and the French cabinet.

PREMIER BENNETT DEFENDS ACTION OF GIVING TITLES

Bourassa Pleads For Moratorium to Solve Problems

Ottawa, Jan. 31 (CP)— Forward-looking action rather than political controversy will be Parliament's watchword this session if appeals from the widely differing quarters of the House of Commons are heeded.

"Let us go forward, let us advance," urged Prime Minister R. B. Bennett in the House of Commons last night as he made a spirited defence of his Government's record and announced this was not the time for a general election as the public people wanted to get on with a solution of pressing problems.

From the opposite side of the House, Henri Bourassa, veteran white-bearded statesman and one time storm-centre of Quebec politics pleaded for a moratorium on political bickerings and a combined effort of all parties to solve the economic and social problems of the day.

Mr. Bennett spoke at length yesterday afternoon and last night and replied in detail to charges levelled against his Government the day before by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King. He declared the 1919 resolution of the House of Commons banning titles had no legal effect and defended his action in naming Canadians for titles in the New Year's honor list.

Wheat Plan Endorsed

Trade, employment and industrial statistics were cited by the Prime Minister to show Canada was in the van of the nations moving towards economic recovery. The wheat production curtailment plan initiated at the London wheat conference was endorsed by the Premiers of the Prairie Provinces, he said. They were the ones best qualified to determine what was good for the great growing areas of Canada.

An unusual move by Robert Gardiner, leader of the Farmer-Labor group, coupled with the official Liberal Opposition in a motion of want of confidence in the government. The day before Mr. King had moved an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the Throne to declare the government had lost the confidence of the House and the people. Mr. Gardiner's motion would include the original opposition.

Mr. Bourassa who represents Labelle as an Independent had voted in recommendation both for Mr. Bennett and the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. Mr. Bennett, he said, was the strongest-willed leader the country had ever had, his subtle spirit could not be questioned, he was capable of thought and strong of action.

OBITUARY

LATE JOHN SNARR

Rawdon—Despite the very severe weather Wellman's United Church was filled to the doors on Monday afternoon as relatives and friends gathered to pay their deepest respect to an honored member of Rawdon Circuit. Deceased had for years been connected with the church being an honored steward, class an honored elder and a member of the various church boards as well as a loyal and active member of L.O.L. 172, Wellman's. Members of that body were present at the obsequies and filled the side aisle on the east and they took charge of the impressive burial service at the graveside in Wellman's cemetery.

His pastor, Rev. F. G. Joblin chose his text from Isa.-2-Corinthians 15: 55, "O Death where is thy sting? O grave where is thy victory?"

He was assisted by a tribute, Rev. Harold B. Neal of Belleville, who read the Bible lesson and Rev. W. R. Allen of Shannonville, a former pastor who paid tribute to the deceased's valued assistance in all forms of church and community endeavours and of his faithful and efficient service.

As an organ of Wellman's choir were relatives the choir of Bethel and their pianist came over for the occasion and the choir rendered "Some One Who Knows." During the singing of the Misses Mabel and Annie Elliott sang an appropriate duet, "The End of the Road," with Mrs. Harold Elliott as accompanist The congregational hymns were "Nearer with the Lord," and "Hark! Hark My Soul."

The bearers were Messrs Edward Todd, Charlie Morton, John Rainbie Clifford Carey, Wilfred Sine and Walter Scott.

Deceased was a son of the late Mr and Mrs. John Snarr of Rawdon the old homestead being where Mr and Mrs. Fred Snarr now resides. Beautiful floral tributes covere the casket and were:

DUELLING

Two Frenchmen with a sense of honor dating back to the time of "The Three Musketeers" had to duel over the crash of the banking house in Paris recently wherein by the government and the people lost millions of francs. They fired at one another but four bullets missed their billets and two men were satisfied.

Wherein was the satisfaction? That they had carried out an old time custom, though they did not intend to kill, as doubtless they did not desire to do, for they would have fallen into the hands of the law. Or did they know that the bullets would be fired without aim? Did one trust the other to do no harm to him? Or did they find satisfaction in knowing they had risked their lives?

The only explanation is that it is the French way. It would not be a British or United States way. Possibly the French style does less harm than an ocean of vituperation poured forth in the Parliament or other places, played up by the press which would really cause more trouble than a senseless firing of a bullet, the course of which is misdirected.

The two Frenchmen must have received the compensation of believing that in returning to the old French way they had proven themselves true Frenchmen. A Canadian might call it all fake and bunk, but not to those who are the very essence of courtesy and of honor.

Now two more Frenchmen want to fight, one on behalf of his wife and the other for himself.

SEASONAL LAY-OFF DECLINES

The seasonal lay-off of workers after Christmas was the smallest on record in Canada, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Trade and Commerce. The twelvel year record of employment maintained in the bureau shows that activity has invariably declined at the beginning of January, the average lay-off of workers being 69,900. This year the lay-off was only 10,387, slightly more than half the average per year for the past twelve years. This decline was also the smallest on record for mid-winter.

821,518 workers were employed by 8,460 firms on January 1 as compared with 851,518 on December 1. On January first one year ago 7,947 firms reported 721,308 workers engaged.

These are good signs—and they indicate an improvement in conditions.

WATCHING TAXES

Never in decades have taxes been so closely watched as they are at this time. Not only councils but the citizens generally are studying budgets and are going to study budgets with more and more interest than ever.

There is a feeling that business will speed up more rapidly but for the burden of taxation. It is admitted that business is heavily burdened by the drains of taxes made upon it.

The newspaper commenting on the cost of recovery in the United States says the cost will be staggering and will have to be borne by the people. Governments are naturally to be expected will be held back by reason of the tax load resting upon them, for the capital which would go into extension of trade goes into the government treasury to pay the cost of administration. This is true in Canada and elsewhere.

Montreal Gazette says that while Canada has no NRA to build up a heavy debt in the effort to recover prosperity the same principle is at work, namely that taxation, if excessive, will defeat its own ends. It commends the Ottawa government for the steps taken to reduce the cost of government but is doubtful if the present plans will reduce the cost to the taxpayer greatly.

The Citizens' Research Committee of Montreal is urging that the contemplated expenditures in 1934 do not exceed the total collection of taxes in 1933. That is a way of "playing safe," though it is doubtful if all municipalities can adopt that suggestion. But it is, it will be a great step forward. It is realized that before the former taxpaying power of the citizens is restored the recovery will have had to be in progress for some time and be thoroughly established.

1933 saw collections municipally have been below those of 1932—an ominous sign to the financial wizards who manage our cities and towns, villages and rural municipalities. This means citizens cannot stand higher levies, and those municipalities which raise taxes may jeopardize their entire financial structure and their future. No municipality can afford to do this—something which many individuals did in 1929 to their sorrow for the rest of their born days.

Physical death is an incident, a transfer from inconveniences of the human personality to the permanence of the Divine personality.—Masson.

LOCH NESS has its prehistoric monster, despite the jealous sneers of British Columbia, Lake Okanogan, California and other places boasting sea monsters of lesser importance. If more convincing proof was needed "The Northern Chronicle and General Advertiser for the North of Scotland" published at Inverness, Wednesday, December 27, 1933, publishes a picture of Loch Ness with Urquhart Castle, in the vicinity of Temple Pier, with the caption "The Haunt of the Monster." An article follows below the cut with a three-line single column heading, using not larger than twelve point type, giving the stories of five eye-witnesses who had seen the monster the day previous. These witnesses included John Kirton, M.D., of Oakbank, Port Augustus. Accompanying the doctor were his son, Ian, and a schoolmate. The monster was observed sporting in the water of Loch Ness and as described by the doctor was at least twelve feet in length and with a raise of nearly three feet out of the water. When the monster moved which it did in leaps, the water was lashed into great commotion. Several other citizens arrived, while the monster was disporting and they corroborated the doctor, says the Chronicle. Dr. Kirton asserts that he saw the monster last November when its head and neck seemed to be raised about six feet out of the water. The Lock Ness mystery is not played up by the Scottish paper as a sensation, but quietly tucked into one corner of page five and concludes with various theories as to what kind of an animal is breaking the historic calm of Loch Ness's mysterious side. It is supposed to have come in from the sea via the Caledonia canal. Thanks for the Inverness Chronicle referred to is due to a friend of the Intelligencer staff who keeps us posted on things that be a bit out of the ordinary in the Land O' the Leal.

VAST FLEETS OF MOTOR CARS, in all the new designs are being feverishly manufactured by armies of workingmen at automobile making centres in Canada and the United States to fill the demand expected between now and spring, as indicated by the attendance and enthusiasm manifested at the metropolitan automobile shows of the new models. Detroit sends an optimistic forecast of three million five hundred thousand motor cars and trucks to be sold in 1934, which would mean as big a year as 1927 or 1930, one and a half times as good as 1931, two and a half times as good as 1932. So, it may be that we are going to ride into prosperity in a new stream-lined or other new-fangled idea car, which would be very appropriate for such an important occasion, and most appropriate after wrestling most of the time for the past several years trying to locate that corner around which prosperity disappeared.

This course should be eagerly availed of by business men young and old, whether proprietors, clerks or students, in an effort to keep up with the fast moving march of modern business.

FEAR LOSING PERSONALITY IN MARRIAGE

Forget Your Ego And Don't Fear to Take a Chance

(By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.)
(Famous Authority on Health and Marriage)

(Copyright 1934 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

People are actually afraid of marriage.

This fear is usually more common among younger people although one finds it also among adults who ought to know better.

There are young women who marry and vow that the one thing they simply won't do is spoil their husbands. They are determined that no woman should be a slave to any man.

There are young men who marry and also make vows. That is, they too decide quite seriously and firmly what their future conduct is going to be. One thing they won't submit for, they decide, is being made a fool of by any woman.

Brides and grooms don't always make these assertions in just so many words. Often they keep them to themselves. Nevertheless hundreds feel that way—or they heroically take a stand on some similar proposition. What is common to them all is fear. They are exceedingly fearful of losing their individuality and independence!

Grieter, and married life will smile, of course. They know the difference between threats and extortion. They realize that it is heroic to come up against the real thing.

But why cannot young people realize that marriage means neither fear nor slavery, but love—or to either of the contracting parties? Why are they so afraid of submerging their personalities completely? Do they always think they will be the outstanding exceptions to the rules of the game of matrimony?

The answers to these questions lie in the nearness of adolescence thru' which they have but recently passed.

For it must be remembered that from fourteen to eighteen or twenty, all is doubt and uncertainty in the adolescent's mind, with emotional topsy-turvydom paramount. Young girls are born don't know what they want; they're all mixed up.

Finally, of course, adolescence does come to rescue, for an adult is a person who knows what he wants and has a plan of life. He has learned to assess the determination to put it into effect.

But one can understand why the young people are not likely to want to give up the individuality and independence they have had so recently won. They are afraid. They're just about taken their bearings, as it were. They are "feeling their oats."

The fear of losing one's personality in marriage, however, is exceedingly foolish. Sooner or later, in fact, it is remain in love after marriage we actually must fall in love outside upon our right-hand partner!

It is, of course, a well known fact that the unknown is likely to conjure up fears. Also, many unhappy marriages are continually being reported that people naturally become shy and afraid of forging out all sorts of excuses and reasons why this or that marriage did not turn out better.

The ego takes care of that and the ego promises itself further that it will not make the mistakes others have. It won't allow itself to be caught under any circumstances.

Forget your ego, however, when you marry! And don't be afraid to take a chance.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Although rice is polished to keep out insects and to prevent the oil of the rice germ from becoming rancid, such polishing nevertheless removes from the grain valuable vitamins as well as mineral constituents. It is said that rice forms the chief article of diet for about half the people of the earth. It is especially popular, of course, in the Orient. Brown rice is the more nutritious and its popularity is growing.

London and Welsh Ports Extols Two-Way Trade

"Another advantage of the scheme is the benefit it is likely to have on the South Wales timplate industry. If the market for Canadian canned goods expands, it is likely that more tin plates will be required for canning purposes."

LONDON DAILY MAIL:

Swansea, Jan. 31.—"A new system of trade at the port of Swansea will be inaugurated tomorrow when the Donaldson Line steamer Vardulia arrives from Canada with apples, cheese and tinned goods.

"This is a new move towards trade reciprocity between Wales and Canada, which, it is hoped, will benefit not only the anthracite industry, but also the dockers and the timplate trade.

"Last year shipments of Welsh anthracite to Canada amounted to more than 1,000,000 tons. Valuable assistance to the trade was given by the Canadian government's embargo on Russian anthracite, and its duties on German and United States anthracite.

"If full support is forthcoming for this reciprocity venture with Canada, specially constructed steamers will be chartered by Messrs. T. T. Pascoe, Ltd., to take anthracite to Canada, returning with Canadian farm produce.

"Both buyers of the respective products would, it is claimed, benefit by low rates and regularity of supplies."

SOUTH WALES EVENING POST, SWANSEA:

"Tomorrow (January 10) a vessel from Canada will dock at Swansea and will inaugurate a new system of trade at the port. The steamer Vardulia will land a consignment of Canadian apples, cheese, and canned tomatoes, all well known brands and qualities.

"This is a new move towards reciprocity of trade between Wales and Canada, and it is hoped will benefit not only the anthracite industry, but also the dockers, and even the Welsh timplate trade."

"Messrs. T. T. Pascoe, Limited, as an established firm of coal exporters at Swansea, and among the pioneers of the Welsh anthracite trade in Canada, state that they have been carrying on negotiations for some time past with their Canadian houses to secure Canadian food items for Welsh anthracite exports. These negotiations have also been extended to Canadian friends at Belleville shipping by the Vardulia which is to discharge in Swansea, a consignment of Canadian apples, cheese, canned tomatoes, etc. Welsh timplate merchants are very anxious to make a market for this produce in Swansea and surrounding districts, and Welsh anthracite is anxious and hopes they may feel that, in buying Welsh anthracite coal, the Welsh miners reciprocating by buying Canadian farm produce.

"Samples of the goods will be open for inspection by wholesale provision merchants on the third floor of the Exchange premises.

"If this mutual exchange of Empire goods is supported by a demand for Canadian products where requirements cannot be satisfied in Empire countries, it is hoped that a minimum of a million pound of Canadian produce consumed by them means more Welsh anthracite for Canada.

"If full support is forthcoming for this venture, specially constructed steamers will be chartered by Messrs. T. T. Pascoe to take anthracite coal out and bring Canadian farm produce home.

"By arranging a complete round voyage with coal and cargo homewards, thus avoiding ballasting, Welsh anthracite and the Welsh buyer of Canadian farm produce, it is claimed, would benefit by low freights and regularity of supplies. The trade is also hoped by the direct importation of Canadian goods, that Swansea labor would be employed to the extent of 1,000 tons weekly.

"It is considered that if this trade is fostered, it will mean that Canada with an expanding population will require more anthracite, and as many of these are packed in cans made from Welsh timplate, the trade will have a beneficial effect on the timplate industry in South Wales."

SOUTH WALES EVENING POST, SWANSEA.

"Meanwhile, it is emphasized that there is not in the deal the slightest intention of attempting to eliminate the wholesale grocers, or consign Canadian produce through the usual channels of business.

"The coal will be handled through the usual channels and the goods through the wholesale grocers.

"In the Ontario press the other side of the deal is being urged in the past few years, particularly since the Ottawa Conference, coal boats have been used on the homeward trip for the conveyance of Canadian timber.

"In addition, during the past season, Newfoundland timber has been coming over in large quantities, thus helping the production of substantial qualities of it to our satisfaction.

"Negotiations are now going on for Nova Scotia timber to come over in addition to wood in our collieries and a very interesting innovation for last season is the use of our coal for the kilning of seasoning of red wood, the first consignment for use in this country.

"My opinion is that this method of coal conveyance will be found handy as the coal is there and when it is at present."

Mr. H. J. Thomas the Initiator.

"The present Canadian Minister of Labour, Mr. H. Thomas, on his visit to Canada on which I accompanied him three or four years ago, proposed this very scheme. He was enthusiastic also for the idea for the Ottawa Conference. I am quite sure he is still doing his utmost to extend this movement, as we are ourselves doing.

"The coal consignments to Canada are exceptionally good friends of South Wales, as the substantial quantities of Welsh coal we send over testify.

"I am sure that we residents in Wales appreciate the valuable assistance which the Canadian timber trade has given us and will not be found wanting in showing that in a practical manner by consuming Canadian goods.

Canadian Apples.

"As to Canadian apples, I myself, got them over and so did some of my directors, and they are among the best I have ever come across. One thing about them is that they keep splendidly, and we have had them quite late, although the last consignment was a couple of months ago.

"Let us adapt the old adage so that it may run: 'A Canadian Apple a Day Keeps the Doctor Away.'"

Mr. Gwilym Arron Thomas.

Mr. Gwilym Thomas said:

"It ought to be obvious that anything that is going to increase the connection between the anthracite industry has formed in Canada is so much to the good.

"Anything one more trade on these lines of reciprocity, it is well worth doing, though it is obvious that there will be a problem in the relative weights of cargoes.

"Every little bit helps, and it should be recognised that the Canadian trade is absolutely essential to us. Without it, we would be worse off than if there was no trade."

LONDON DAILY EXPRESS:

(Daily Express Correspondent, Vancouver, B.C.)—"Canada exports to Britain have increased 16 per cent; to Australia, 40 per cent; and the combined increase for the Empire is 20 per cent; and to the world, 4 per cent.

These figures were quoted by Mr. Bennett, the Prime Minister, addressing the Board of Trade here tonight, and referring to the results of the recent Ottawa Conference between the Empire Governments.

"Speaking of Russia, Mr. Bennett said he fully supported the policy enunciated by Mr. Mackenzie King, when in power, that Canada would have no truck with the Soviet so long as it continued its policy of Communistic propaganda in the countries of the Empire.

"I feel sure," he added, "that Canada's lumber trade with Britain will not be frustrated by the Soviet."

"A new step towards trade reciprocity between Wales and Canada has been taken in Swansea," says the "Daily Express" correspondent in that town. "A consignment of Canadian apples, cheese and canned tomatoes will be landed in Swansea today in exchange for Welsh anthracite coal. Should this venture prove satisfactory, specially constructed steamers will be chartered to take out Welsh anthracite and bring home Canadian produce."

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JAN. 31, 1914

Mr. J. R. Cook, M.P.P. has been appointed valuator and right of way man for the Bay Shore Electric Power Company. The position was made vacant by the death of J. S. Deroch.

Mr. James Cummins, one of Belleville's best known and most respected citizens passed away at an early hour this morning. His demise was a great shock to his many friends as two days ago he was about the streets, although not in good health. He had reached the age of 80 years, having been born in Ireland in the year 1834. At the age of 19 years he came to Belleville and had always resided here. He was a member of the assistant chief of the city's fire brigade.

In the interesting O.H.A. game at Bowmanville last night Belleville badly defeated Bowmanville, the score being 21 to 1.

30 YEARS AGO

JAN. 31, 1904

The fourth annual banquet which takes the place of the old-time initiation rites was held at Albert College and was a great success. The new system is very welcome to the freshmen after the ordeal. After the banquet a splendid program of toasts, instrumental and vocal music, readings and recitations was carried out. Among the guests were Mayor Chown and Mrs. Chown and Mr. W. H. Cordue, Bursar of the college, and Mrs. Gordon. At the conclusion of the program a short memorial service was held which was much enjoyed by the students.

Good boy January. Here's hoping the balmy zero weather goes with you.

40 YEARS AGO

JAN. 31, 1894

Snow drifts in town are three feet in depth in places.

Street surveyor Hulme has men with teams engaged in cutting and packing the snow on Front and Pinnacle streets which before it will be carried and a level surface obtained.

The hotel company directors have received a number of offers to trade Hotel Quinte, but as yet the matter has not been settled. It is understood that the new hotel men are negotiating for the hotel.

As a result of the recent snow making good sleighing, wood is coming into the city freely to-day. The price ranges from $2.00 per cord for superior soft wood to $4.00 per cord for good hard wood.

Mr. Geo. Yerex will leave tomorrow for New York.

The annual meeting of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce has been called for the Ontario branch of the bank.

Mr. Harry Pride has returned to the city from Toronto.

50 YEARS AGO

The roads are in a very bad condition and it is very difficult to get over them on them.

It is now difficult to reach the bay on the ice as in many places it is covered with water.

A checker, chess and whist club has been organized in this city and had a suite of rooms in the Bogart Block on Bridge Street. The members are now ready to receive challenges.

Two of the four candidates who passed the civil service examinations at Belleville in November last namely Messrs. H. A. Lazier, and Moses Lefebvre are graduates of the Ontario Business College.

At the last meeting of the Murchison Society Mr. A. Vandervoort read an article on "electricity—what is it?" The discussion on the president's paper which was read at a previous meeting on "diseases of memory" proving a long and interesting one was as the subject matter was not exhausted, it was laid over until December when Mr. Secretary reported the presentation of the following articles to the museum: Great horned owl by Mr. W. H. Gordon; rabbit's nest by Mr. Jas. Taylor; Indian copper relic by Mr. McGregor, and Indian flints and other relic specimens of minerals Prof. Fellowstone Park by Mr. D. Ackerman.

MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION ISSUES STATEMENT ON HYDRO

Relation of Hydro Municipalities to Hydro Commission Explained

In view of the fact that the Ontario Municipal Electric Association is holding its Annual Convention in Toronto next week, a statement about Hydro affairs, which appears elsewhere in this issue, will be of general public interest.

A popular misconception about the great public utility, known as the Hydro-Electric System, is that familiarly as "Hydro," is that it is owned by the Province of Ontario, or the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. Under the caption "Who Owns Hydro?", this announcement makes it clear that the Government nor the Commission own the Hydro System. While generous assistance is afforded by the Commission acting in the capacity of trustee, the Hydro System is really owned by the Hydro municipalities purchasing power in "blocks" from the Commission and distributing it to their local series. The Government enters the picture only as bearer of the Commission. In other words, Hydro is the property of the people of the municipalities, as the contract forms, presented by the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, show.

After declaring that municipalities have been made and published with respect to the Hydro System of Ontario that are not in accordance with the facts," the resolution requesting publicity, embodied in the Association's announcement, states:

"The Municipalities of Ontario are the owners of the Hydro System by which they have been instrumental of some three hundred millions of dollars and anything which would tend to create distrust in the minds of the people as to the proper and efficient conduct of this great Public Utility would tend to impair the value of the investment in the Municipalities in the Hydro System."

In pursuance of this resolution, it is understood that the Association will publish further announcements from time to time, setting forth the facts about Hydro and what Hydro ownership has accomplished for the people of Ontario.

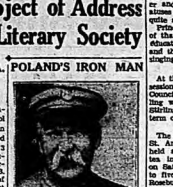
"Turkey" Subject of Address to S. H. S. Literary Society



H., B. Desbrowe, B. A. Tells of His Trip There

Stirling—The outstanding feature of the Stirling High School Literary Society meeting held in the parlors of St. Paul's United Church on Friday evening at 8 o'clock was an illustrated and illuminating address on "Turkey" delivered by Mr. H. B. Desbrowe, B. A. of the Science Department of the High School. Mr. Desbrowe spent several years in Turkey where he was a member of the teaching staff of a private school and has gained much information on that little known country. His pictures are practically all taken by his own camera, and constitute a rare collection of gems.

In the absence of the President, Fred Jolliffe, John Munro was in the chair and called upon the Misses Ruby and Pearl Stapley to open the program with a guitar duet, "Hawaiian Love Song" and "Hawaiian Melodies" accompanied at the piano by Miss Alice Calver, B.A. Mr. Desbrowe then was called upon for his discourse on Turkey and it could not be treated with special reference to the ancient famed cities of Greek and Roman influence which are now being excavated from their ruins by archaeologists.

"Turkey is one of the most interesting of the newer countries and is in not well known. Although it is comparatively old in historical sense, the present day Turkey with its democratic form of government consisting of a president or in truth a dictator and a parliament is entirely different and quite out of keeping with the days of the Sultan, plural marriage and the veiled women which extended up to the time of the World War. Since the declaration of Turkey as a republic ten years ago, that backward country has made rapid strides towards modernism, almost incredible progress in the short period of ten years.

"Situated as it is in the Anatolian Peninsula, it is here found the moulding influence of the old city states where the Greeks were once active. The most ancient of these is Ephesus which was occupied by the Greeks and later administered by the Romans, who in their era, laid the famous Roman paved highways which are still in an excellent state of preservation permitting the tourist to rattle over their surface in his Ford touring car at the rate of forty-five and fifty miles an hour. The Greeks were also famed as athletes and here in the site of one of the most magnificent amphitheatres of all, constructed entirely of the very finest of marble work, seats also and spouts of that stone as well as the woodwork. The famed library of Ephesus as it appears today and containing the treasure of the written knowledge, of that period was shown although much of its ancient statuary has been removed to museums. The last glimpse of Ephesus was the ruins of the old Christian Church of St. John. The Divine with its marble pulpit, original fonts and series of columns.

Marshall Joseph Pilsudski

New dictatorial powers granted the president of Poland, Ignace Moscicki, foreshadows his resignation in favor of Marshall Joseph Pilsudski, patron's strong man. Moscicki took office with understanding Pilsudski would replace him.

Sardis, the ancient home of King Croesus and the first place in which money was coined, bears evidence as one time of its Greek and Roman periods of occupation. Several Greek colonnades were shown, the most antiquated of these columns having the top shifted due to earthquakes. In ancient times when Christians were banned, they used to disclose their identity by tracing the form of a fish in the sands. These same figures have been likewise been traced and chiseled in slabs of stone which survive even to the present day. Turkey is not yet beyond the reach of railways and transportation is by means of small Turkish ponies which, although of rather miniature stature are exceedingly tough, their weight being their tender mouths.

Slides were also shown of the Turkish peasant in his gala attire while the Yuruks, a wandering nomad people were also pictured in their colorful costumes. An interesting slide was that of the Macander River which alters its course frequently and from which the English word "meander" is derived.

Ferries are operated across the river and are drawn by covered apparatuses running on cables which are quite noticeable in their operation.

Principal Lawlor moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Dsbrowe for his exhaustive and instructive lecture and the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Board Appointed

At the conclusion of the January session of the Hastings County Council, Mr. Chas. F. Linn of Stirling was appointed trustee to the Stirling High School Board for a term of three years.

Mission Band

The Maple Leaf Mission Band of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held a most successful afternoon tea in the basement of the church on Saturday afternoon from three to five. The President, Margaret Rosebush presided over the program which consisted of two choruses and a Missionary Play, "Mother Goose and her Missionary Children" Jean Dafoe introduced the play after which Helen Murdoff sang a solo, "Jesus wants me for a sunbeam". Mother Goose, Eileen Chassberg gathered her children under her which each child in turn introduced himself or herself in the following order: Jack Horner, Don Murdoff, the Wise Boy, John Rosebush, Little Miss Muffet, Beverley Ormiston, Little Piggie, Jean McIntosh, Pat-a-cake Man, Dick Rodgers, Mary had a little lamb, Dorothy Gay, Jack and Jill, Billy and Lila Chambers, Little Bo Peep, Barbara Bridgewer, Leslie Redmond, Glen Eggleton, Glen Whitehead and Jackie Chambers completed the list. Each child told his mission story tale how that one cent of every ten was henceforth going to help children across the sea. After the program lunch was served by the senior girls. The home cooking table was well patronized. The Mission Band are deeply indebted to James Ward and Harold Baker for their assistance in the preparation for the tea.

Fractures Thigh

Mr. Charles Vance of the fourth concession of Ameliasburg suffered an unfortunate accident on Friday evening when he fell while skating, fracturing his thigh. Mr. Vance with a party of friends were skating on a sheet of ice in a field on Mr. Fred Richardson's farm when he some unknown reason, he took a tumble fracturing his right thigh and inflicting a cut over his right temple. The injured man was removed to his home where Dr. E. A. Carleton was summoned and after closing the wound over the temple with three stitches, Mr. Vance was taken to the Belleville General Hospital in the ambulance. Here the fracture was reduced and the patient is now resting with the injured right thigh in the required plaster splints.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Meikleljohn were host and hostess at a charmingly arranged bridge party on Friday evening, the prizes fo, the highest score being won by Mrs. Mae Nolan and Dr. J. S. Deforest.

Mr. and Mrs. W. LJ Anderson entertained a party of friends at bridge on Thursday evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. A. S. Murdoff and Mr. R. W. Meikleljohn.

Scarlet fever is once again been in our midst, the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Eggleton being so far, the only victim. Dr. J. S. Demorest is the attending physician.

Miss Gertrude Callahan of Bell Telephone staff, accomplished quite the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Whitehead.

Friends of Mrs. John West are very sorry to hear of her critical illness at Quinte Sanatorium.

Miss Grace Murray was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital on Friday where she underwent a successful operation for appendicitis. Her sister, Miss Isobal Murray, Reg. N. and Miss Margaret Anderson, Reg. N. are in attendance.

Miss Alice Calow, B.A. has been engaged for the Christmas season at a severe cold.

Mr. Clinton McGee, Jr. of Marmora spent the week end at his home here.

Many friends of Rev. E. W. Rowland, pastor of St. Paul's United Church are sorry to hear of his continued illness and hope for a rapid return to good health.

Rev. J. A. Koffend is in Ottawa for a few days attending a conference of the Presbyterian Church to which he has been sent as commissioner of this Presbytery.

Mark Anniversary

An extract which is of interest to many Stirling residents appeared in the Monday, January 29th edition of the Toronto Globe relative to Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Koffend, parents of Rev. J. A. Koffend who is next Sunday conducting the twenty-first anniversary service of the founding of Evangel Hall, Toronto. The extract reads as follows:

"Twenty-one years ago Rev. R. J. and Mrs. Koffend arrived in the city ready to begin an evangelistic centre in down-town Toronto. There was nothing of that nature in the scheme of things being done by the Presbyterian Church. Evangel Hall on Queen Street West was the place chosen as the ideal centre for such a work. That the choice was a wise one has been amply justified through the passing years. Literally hundreds of men and women have found Christ in the little hall on Queen Street, where Rev. R. J. and Mrs. Koffend are still carrying on a noble work among the needy.

The twenty-first anniversary of the founding of Evangel Hall will be observed on Sunday, February 4, when Rev. J. A. Koffend, an early convert in Evangel Hall, now pastor at Stirling, Ont., will speak."

Friends of Mrs. John Tanner are sorry to hear of her serious illness at her home here.

Mr. Robert Bush is still in a critical condition suffering from pleurapneumonia. Two doctors and three nurses are in attendance.

Mrs. Alma Bailey was in Lakeport, N.Y. the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Weaver over the week end and attended her daughter, Doris' wedding on Saturday to Mr. Allan Bishop of Lockport, N.Y.

Interesting Wedding

A wedding of interest to residents of Stirling and community is that of Mr. George Heasman, son of Mr. William Heasman to Eva, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McIntosh of Toronto. The marriage ceremony was performed in Toronto on Wednesday. The bride along with her parents formerly resided in Stirling where Mr. McIntosh, B. S. A. was a former agricultural representative for this district. A brother, Mr. Dodden McIntosh also lives in town.

Is Injured

Mr. Eric Lovell who is employed on the Marmora-Madoc Highway was injured when his truck skidded on Thursday when, standing on a rock and lifting another boulder on to a truck, he slipped, falling on an iron bolt projecting from the side of the truck. At first Mr. Lovell overlooked the incident but as the side continued to bleed he consulted a doctor and learned that he had fractured his seventh rib.

Picton and Prince Edward County

By Our Own Correspondent

Picton, Jan. 31 (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Price and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Demille motored to Belleville to see Eddie Cantor in "Roman Scandals."

On Thursday morning Mr. Shepard, who represents the Maleigh Products was driving west on Main Street directly behind another car. The other car stopped suddenly in front of the Royal Hotel, Mr. Shepard tried to apply his brakes to stop too, but owing to the icy roads they would not work. He smashed into the other car, taking off both lights and smashing in the radiator on his own car, without damaging the car ahead.

Mrs. Will Hicks, Bowery Street, is able to be about again after a three weeks' illness.

Mrs. Ackerman of Toronto, is now the guest of her grandson, Mr. Morley Ackerman, Bloomfield.

Mr. Gerald Baille, formerly of Picton, has been appointed to the office of an oil company at Pamdenia, Calif.

The auction sale at the Myers farm on Wednesday afternoon drew a large crowd and some of the chattles sold very low. Wood sold very much below the market price.

Mrs. Will Burford and two children of Toronto, are the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tripp.

On Thursday night the young people of St. Gregory's Church held a very enjoyable dance at Bayside Park. Over two hundred attended, and enjoyed dancing to music furnished by Harry Rose's orchestra. Those responsible for the successful carrying out of the affair gare Jack Davis, Walter Hurley, Harry Doyle, Grace Goodwin, Kathleen Micklaind and Catherine Reid. There were many novelty dances. The most clever prizes were won by Arthur Goodwin and Keith Gilmore. The "Paris Shelf" catered for the affair.

Large crowds coming from all parts of the county took advantage of the many bargains featured by the Picton merchants in connection with the Poultry Show and Winter Fair on Friday and Saturday. One day money given with each fifty cents purchase was eagerly collected.

Beating Billy Petrolle, the old "Fargo Express", badly enough to earn his veteran ringman retirement is just a snap for Barney Ross. Ross is lightweight champion, for here is the Chicago flash star, a few hours after his battle, enjoying a dance with Miss Nina Vernille in a New York night club.

NO GLANDERS HEREABOUTS

Recent Case in West Cited by Dr. O. Reed

Glanders, dreaded disease among horses, is known there is little hope of recovery, and upon which the eyes of the veterinary world throughout Canada would be focussed if an outbreak were discovered, has practically no place in the list of ailments, according to Dr. O. Reed, provincial veterinary of this city, questioned today.

The attention of Dr. Reed was drawn to a news dispatch from Montreal where a slight outbreak of the disease had recently broken out but had been swiftly brought under control when infected animals were killed and other drastic measures adopted.

"We haven't had a case of glanders in this district for the past ten or twelve years," Dr. Reed was answer.

Further compilation of records by him revealed that the last case discovered in Canada had been in Saskatchewan between 1932 and '33. During that time, also a total of 1219 horses, which were suspected of harboring the latent germ or which had revealed symptoms of the disease had been treated.

"It is a disease peculiar to logging camps where the animals are quartered closely together, and there is little chance of treating them with the most approved methods of prevention. The germ is generally present in such places and the remedy or suggestion is that the horses are imported, disinfected of the germ.

Two weeks ago Dr. Reed was called to Thurlow where a resident believed that his horse had contracted the disease, but it was just a bad case of mallin, or bronchial trouble.

"Glanders if watched more carefully than ahy other disease by the veterinary doctors", stated Dr. Reed. "When it is discovered there is little that can be done except dispose of the afflicted animal before the contagion spreads."

Battle Against Scurvy Ends For Sick Trapper

Cranberry Portage, Man., Jan. 30 (CP)—A 10-weeks battle against scurvy, dread disease that sapped the strength of Canada's 17th century settlers—was ended today for Dick Tessier, trapper, as he received medical attention here, after an arduous trip from his cabin, on Reindeer Lake, 400 miles north of this Man.

A paddling trapper found him ill in his northland shack on Reindeer Lake. The traveller left him what little food he had and sent his partner Jimmy Petersen to him. Tessier out to Nelson House on New Year's Day. Twenty days of mushing brought Petersen and Tessier to the trading post and there and aeroplane took the stricken trapper to the RPO of steel, a 110-mile flight to Sherritton.

FACTS ABOUT HYDRO—No. 1 of a series of official announcements by the Ontario Municipal Electric Association (O.M.E.A.), representing the Municipalities who own the Hydro-Electric System of Ontario.

ONTARIO MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION

Who Owns Hydro?

The great public service enterprise known as the Hydro-Electric System, or simply as "Hydro", while operated and administered by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario acting in the capacity of trustee, with the Government of Ontario acting as banker, is the property of the people of the associated Hydro municipalities.

Hydro-Electric power is distributed, through the agency of the Hydro municipalities, to the citizens who use this low cost electric service.

The Ontario Municipal Electric Association (O.M.E.A.) is an organization constituted to represent its member municipalities—the owners of Hydro—and to make representations to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the O.M.E.A., held in the City of Toronto on October 31, 1933, a Publicity Committee was appointed "to collect and disseminate information in respect to Hydro facts". At a subsequent meeting, held on November 30, 1933, the Executive Committee individually endorsed and unanimously passed the following Resolution regarding Publicity.

WHEREAS, from time to time, statements have been made and published with respect to the Hydro System of Ontario that are not in accordance with the facts, and which, if allowed to go unanswered, tend to create doubts in the minds of the public, and more particularly that section of the public which is not sufficiently interested, or will not take the time, to look into matters carefully enough to secure the information for themselves;

AND WHEREAS the Municipalities of Ontario are the owners of the Hydro System, in which they have an investment of some three hundred millions of dollars; and anything which might create distrust in the minds of the people as to the proper and efficient conduct of this great Public Utility would tend to impair the value of the investment of the Municipalities in the Hydro System;

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED:—THAT the Executive Committee of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association endorses the report of the Publicity Committee;

THAT we believe, with them, that the time is now opportune to carry out the repeated requests and resolutions which have been made from time to time by our Associations;

THAT a campaign of publicity be carried on so that the people of Ontario, who have been responsible for the outstanding success of this great Public Utility during its twenty-five years of existence, shall be given from time to time all necessary information as to the administration and operation of the Hydro System and its branches in all parts of Ontario . . . . . .

In pursuance of this Resolution, the Publicity Committee of the O.M.E.A. will publish informative statements which will set forth, clearly and simply, what Hydro ownership has done for the people of this Province. The facts about Hydro speak for themselves.

Weddings

HEASMAN—McINTOSH

Stirling, Jan. 31.—(Special)—The marriage took place at the home of Rev. W. A. Maltby, the officiating clergyman, Toronto, who had also conducted the ceremony for the bride's parents thirty-three years ago, of Eva Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McIntosh, and George William Heasman, son of Mr. William Heasman of Stirling and the late Mrs. Heasman. The bride, who was in a long white crepe dress with small velvet hat, wore a corsage of carnations. The attendants were Miss Gertrude Heasman, sister of the groom, and Joseph McIntosh, brother of the bride. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride travelled in a delphinium blue dress with hat to match. The couple will reside on the ground's farm near Stirling. The bride was a former resident of Stirling where her father, Mr. G. D. McIntosh was a member of the agricultural representative for this district.

NAPANEE GIRL TO WED IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 31. — Frank H. Littlefield, 67, a vice-president of Canadian Oil Company, residing at 11 Lyiton Boulevard, Toronto, and Miss Lillian A. EUCHRE, BRIDGE, DANCE, SUCCESS

Women's And Men's Branches of Conservative Club Stage Affair

The Women's and Men's branches of the Belleville Conservative Association, jointly, Tuesday evening staged one of the largest and most successful of euchre, bridge and dancing parties of the season, some 300 guests answered the public invitation of President Mrs. Hope McGinnis and Mr. Frank M. McKeown and enjoyed the evening in the Oddfellows' spacious rooms in the K.-O.-D. Temple, and two-step-ped 'till shortly after 10.30 o'clock, and following the serving of delicious refreshments dancing started just before midnight. The floor of the lodge room was filled with happy dancers and interested onlookers and all enjoyed the excellent and tuneful music of Charlie Goyer's orchestra.

To Mrs. McGinnis, president of the Women's Conservative Club, of this city and the enthusiastic and capable members of her committees goes much of the deserved credit for the success of the affair. The women's organization had the heartiest co-operation from President P. M. McKeown and the men of the Belleville Conservative Association. The thanks of the ticket committee in both bodies and their members go to those who contributed the prizes for the occasion, and to those, who by their presence, lent their aid in promoting the affair and making it such a noteworthy and successful occasion. Mrs. Gilmour, now resident in Belleville, widow of the leader of the renowned Gilmour's Band, donated the ladies' first prizes for bridge and euchre; the gentlemen's prizes for euchre work and design. Mr. W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., provided the music for the dancing and Mr. C. A. Tummon, M.P., and Mr. C. A. Payne, K.C., made the donations for the prizes as did the Conger Lehigh Coal Co. Chairman of the prizes were donations of individual members and friends. Committees:

Winners in Euchre were: Ladies—Mrs. W. Jordan, Miss Mabel Henderson and Miss Ella Sine. Men—J. Clarke, Charles Aikens and Wm. Begeres.

In Bridge, winners were: Ladies—Mrs. E. Taylor and Mrs. Jos. Wegmark; consolation, Mrs. G. W. McCarthy. Men—Geo. Weymark; 2nd, E. Leggett; consolation, Mr. Adams.

The door prize went to Mrs. Harry Gordon.

The helpful assistants of Mrs. McGinnis as heads of committees were: Prizes, Mrs. Peter; euchre, Mrs. Byrnes and Mrs. A. Lasier; bridge, Mrs. Broadrib and Miss Bertha; refreshments, Mrs. F. M. McKeown; while the services so capably looked after was governed by Miss Warren, Mrs. Pritchard and Mrs. Adams.

The first Conservative party in the city for 1934 was a distinct success throughout, and those responsible for it can feel assured that a repetition of it will be eagerly looked for by guests who attended Tuesday night's affair.

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE BELLE

"DESIGN FOR LIVING"

And so it came to pass that the little lady loved two handsome men ..... and they lived happily ever after.

Sounds like adult entertainment, and it is. Ernst Lubitsch's "Design for Living" which Paramount transferred to the screen with Frederic March, Gary Cooper, Miriam Hopkins and Edward Everett Horton in the cast, brilliantly directed by Lubitsch, comes to the Belle tomorrow (Thursday) for two days, matinee daily.

The film is an adaptation of the brilliant Broadway comedy success of the same name in which daughter alternates with drama in distance and that has no rival for originality in cinema annals and it may be safely said that it is the plot that will be copied extensively for the next film season.

Charlie Chase introduces a spree of rivid laughter in comedy "I'm Cracked Ice Man," an interesting Grant Rice Sportlight and a Mickey Mouse will be exhibited on the same program.

Treasure Night

An exciting "Minnaster" is announced as the major prize for presentation at the Belle weekly Thursday night bank night event Thursday evening. Nine other useful prizes will be given away at the same time.

Two Features

Walter Winchell, Broadway columnist, author of the story of "Broadway Thru a Keyhole" that delighted a large audience at the Belle last night, Constance Cummings, Russ Columbo and Paul Kelly head a brilliant cast of stars that includes Blossom Seely, Lyman and his band, Gregory Ratoff, Texas Guinan, Eddie Foy Jr., and Frances Williams.

"Jimmy and Sally" the second feature attraction on the same program is wholeheartedly recommended by the writer. This comedy romance with music features Jimmy Durante and his new vocal heart, beautiful Claire Trevor. Both these excellent attractions will be repeated again for the last time. The last complete show starts at 8.30.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Heroes for Sale" and "My Wife's Mother" ...

The reek of a prison camp. An interlude of love and home-life and then—Capitol Theatre, flote, hell! With rising interest you will follow Richard Barthelmess thru this enthralling series of adventures, waiting to see what happens at the end. But see the picture! There are surprises in store at the Capitol Thursday.

"Heroes for Sale" is a tale of action and real life. Here we have the profoundly ironical story of the coward who is acclaimed a hero, and the hero who comes home to disgrace and ruin. We have the onlooking story of the struggle of an individual against circumstances, all painted on a richly human background of love and devotion, of father-love and mother-love.

"Heroes for Sale" is a picture of vivid human interest. Richard Barthelmess himself, the anarchistic inventor, the child, the mother who dies of a broken heart because her son is a dope-fiend, the devoted wife. See Loretta Young and Aline MacMahon as the women in Tom, the hero's life. And Richard Barthelmess himself, as the hero, in the most sympathetic and varied role of his career. The actor who became world famous in "Tarnish David" do you remember it?) and reached such heights in "The Dawn Patrol," here appears as both soldier and civilian. Soldier, civilian, husband, father, leader ... in every way a hero! And in all sides of this exacting role, he more appealing than ever.

My Wife's Mother

Brilliantly directed and enacted this pre-marital farce concerns the tribulations of a young lad to be married. Angela, whom he is to marry, and Pili, who is mentioned to mention George's future mother-in-law and the man she married.

The bridegroom-elect, the night before his wedding receives a visit from a fair neighbor who has been accidentally locked out. Clad only in pyjama and drenched by the storm, she insists on taking a hot bath meantime Angela, the prospective bride, arrives. The piquant situalities which ensue will leave filmgoers helpless and weak from laughing.

Supporting Gene in these complicated and joyous absurdities are Camilla Horn, the lovely German actress, as the pert Pili; Nancy Burne, an attractive newcomer to films, as the bride-to-be, and Amy Veness, who will be seen once more as Gene's she-strapon of a mother-in-law. It is the funniest farce you've seen in many a day.

Last times tonight of "The Conquerors" with Conrad Nagel, Lella Hyams, plus other short subjects.

ZWICK'S ISLAND PROJECT

noe in the establishment of the reat International Peace Garden. he Rev. Mr. Reid presented Mr. foore as a "great preacher of the ospel of peace."

H. J. Moore

Mr. Moore has spoken several imes to Belleville audiences, and who have heard him know of his a forceful and eloquent delivery on subject in which he is interested. e is equally interested in the two bjects which he brought to his ppers' attention Tuesday evening, s heretofore presented them this confidence manner. Mr. foore drew the plans for the laying ut and beautification of Zwick's sland, and the explanation of them ad a mental picture of what might e made of that property occupied e first part of his address. The ater portion of his remarks were evoted to a subject very near his eart, international peace and the International Peace Garden lying between the South Canada and the nited States. Mr. Moore is upstinent of that now developing n the minds of the people of North America.

On conclusion of the guest peaker's remarks a finely worded otion of thanks to him was moved Mr. Chas. J. Symons, chairman of elleville Parks Commission, and the gathering closed with the inging of the National Anthem.

Zwick's Island Project

Mr. Moore spoke at the Kiwanis ub luncheon, Tuesday noon, on e International Peace Garden, nd report of his address today will found in another column of this ue. In his talk therefore on the rick's Island project he only noted ewards. Mr. Moore said an enrmous report had gotten about the y that he was paid $250 for the rk he had done in that connec- n. He was to be paid $25 for the awing up of the plans, and his penses in visiting Belleville at arious times regarding the work d been some $50. This was his ire charge relative to Zwick's Isl- nd.

"No greater compliment could be id me," said Mr. Moore in open- ing his address, "than that paid me by my introducer in referring to me as a preacher of the gospel of peace. Zwick's Island is your project and I'll therefore speak of it first." By looking at the surrounding lakes of a home, Mr. Moore said he could tell the kind of people that lived in it. Beauty was the property urged Mr. Moore and "make liveable that, in that house in which you abide." The character of people residing in a house was influenced immediately by the surroundings of that home. Flowers are no longer a luxury but have become essential. In beautifying your own premises you were not only doing it for yourself, but for your fellow citizens as well. If there is no beautification of your city, the certain data pass it by. Civilization cannot live on without beautification of our cities and towns.

Her Every Citizen

The park at Zwick's Island or Belleville's other parks are in fact for tourists, only but for every citizen of Belleville. And in its making, even the first step in preparation was benefitting the city. "It was a great thought," the speaker said the speaker. Men, citizens of Belleville, were working there who otherwise the city would have to support. Men and boys were working for money again, making a decent living and spending the money they earn among the merchants of the city, paying their taxes. "Work and Wisdom" as Zwick's Island would return a thousand fold, predicted the speaker, something that will always repay."

Mr. Moore then predicted the prospect as developing and what the full development would realize. The Island with its bathing beach, its parking and recreation grounds, its ornamental shrubs, trees and flower beds, and the driveway about the shoreline. This all was not contemplated completion at once, the plans called for a gradual development. The money cost would not be excessive, plans were along naturalistic lines and laid out in such a way that there will be a minimum amount of expense. Mr. Moore said that visited the island that afternoon, the first step in the work there was pretty near accomplished and grading would doubtless be finished in two or three weeks.

In concluding the first portion of his address Mr. Moore referred to the organizations behind the project as "doing better than they know, they are building for the years to come."

PRODUCE PRICES IN MONTREAL

Butter and egg prices rose higher on the Montreal dairy and produce market yesterday, while other lines remained unchanged. The butter market had a wide range, with quotations ranging from 30c and 36½c a pound for cartols or less of No. 1 regraded pasteurized, a net gain of 1½c over Monday's levels and the highest prices touched so far this winter. Receipts totalled 100 boxes.

The egg market was generally a cent a dozen higher. Graded shipments in cartols or less of Ontario eggs sold for 30c a dozen for "A" large; 28c for "A" medium, and 27c for "A" pullet. A total of 1,419 cases was offered for sale during the day.

Current Ontario cheese was unchanged at 19½c a pound, with arrivals amounting to 204 boxes.

Quebec potatoes brought 90c to 95c per 80 lb. bag in New Brunswick Mountains, 90c to $1.00 for similar quantities. Prince Edward Island Mountains sold in 90 lb. bags brought $1.15-to $1.20.

POULTRY STOCKS IN STORAGE

The first report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics covering cold-storage holdings in Canada on the first of the year gives stocks of poultry in storage at that date as 11,640,760 lbs., as compared to a five-year average on the same date of 10,118,240 pounds. The storage holdings of poultry among the various provinces on December 1 stocks are approximately 2,500,000 pounds; Ontario stocks, 2,500,000 pounds; Manitoba, 2,000,000 pounds, while in Saskatchewan and Alberta the stocks are approximately 2,250,000 pounds.

NORWAY OFFERS HONEY MARKET

Norwegian agents of Canadian exporters of honey state that honey imports into Norway have always shown an advance from 1.3 metric tons in 1928 to a record 1.93 tons in 1932 to something over 2 tons in 1933. The trade in Norway, says the Canadian Trade Commissioner, requires only liquid honey, free from all glucose or other foreign matter, and of uniform consistency and color. Several types of packing are employed, the most usual for table honey being 5 kilo tins, or pails, while for baking honey a wide variety of sizes and types of containers are in use. On account of the difficulty of handling them, the large casks favored by many French exporters are not as acceptable to the Norwegian trade as the can of 30 to 50 pounds capacity used by exporters from Canada and other countries.

THE BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

Idleness of Toronto's Maple Leafs last night failed to oust their Charlie Conacher from leadership of the National Hockey League's scorers. Joe Primeau of Toronto and Frank Boucher of New York Rangers remain tied for second place. Aurel Joliat, little iron man of the Canadiens, and Harvey Jackson of the Leafs stay in fourth place.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Conacher, Toronto	23	12	35
Boucher, Rangers	10	20	30
Primeau, Toronto	8	22	30
Joliat, Canadiens	14	10	24

For the first time in the memory of the oldest inhabitant of any big league bleacher seat the playing managers of the major baseball circuits will outnumber the bench pilots this season—nine to seven. Five will be in the National league—Frank Frisch, Jimmy Wilson, Bob O'Farrell, Charley Grimm and Bill Terry—and four in the American—Joe Cronin, Mickey Cochrane, Lew Fonseca and Rogers Hornsby. Chicago and St. Louis will have two each.

Amerks Provide Upset by Downing Maroons and Bruins by Defeating Rangers 2-1

Ottawa Could Not Get By Hawks, Gardiner Being Too Good

SHORE CHEERED

Made First Appearance on Boston Ice Since Suspension

(By the Canadian Press)

Little Rabbit McVeigh found himself cast in a hero's role again today as the New York Americans he inspires made it plain Montreal Maroons must be very, very good to beat them out of a playoff spot.

The veteran Kenoran, sparkplug of the American attack, scored a goal on Dave Kerr last night with less than five minutes to play and gave Joe Simpson's men a 3-2 victory over the team that forms their chief stumbling block to extra-session money.

Amerk's win brought them within three points of Maroons and, combined with Chicago's 2-0 shutout of Ottawa, gave the New Yorkers a four point lead over Senators.

Back Hawks jumped into a tie with New York Rangers for the leading position in United States division as Les Patrick's team were beaten 2-1 by Boston in the first game Bruins have played at home since Eddie Shore returned to the line-up.

Maroons lost a chance to move into second position in the Canadian division by dropping their contest with Americans. Only a point behind Canadiens, they could have jumped ahead of their intra-city rivals with a win.

With half the third period played Amerks were trailing by the odd goal in three and their only counter was a gift affair, Irving Frew, Maroon defence man, kicking it into his own net. Dave Trottier had beaten Roy Worters in the first period and Baldy Northcott had got Maroons' second in the middle frame.

Then Art Chapman turned the tide with his tying goal, getting in behind Kerr after the goalie had dropped to the ice. McVeigh's goal was a flashy bit of play. Eddie Burke fired a long shot that bothered Kerr and the Rabbit weaved through the entire Montreal team to get the rebound and whip it home.

Sellout in Boston

More than 16,000 Boston fans, the first sell-out crowd of the season, turned out to cheer Shore's return to Boston ice but Tiny Thompson stole most of the limelight. The Bruin goalie kicked out 30 shots, most of them dangerous drives by the sharpshooting Rangers.

Bruins found the crowd inspiring and joined with Rangers to make the game the most thrilling Boston has seen in several years.

Babe Siebert, working with Dit Clapper and Marty Barry scored the first Boston goal in 67 seconds before the Rangers had settled down to serious business. Joe Lamb got the second goal with less than a minute of the first period to play, lashing in a shot from the right boards.

Butch Keeling duplicated Siebert's trick when the second opened, scoring in 35 seconds, but the Rangers couldn't get another even when Les Patrick threw on five forwards in the last 10 minutes.

As Thompson stood out in Boston, Charlie Gardiner captured the glory in Ottawa. Senators commanded the play for the greater part of the game but couldn't get past the Chicago netminder, who chalked up his ninth shutout of the season.

Mush March and Doc Romnes were the scorers, with March tallying in the second period and Romnes in the third.

GOALER HAD TO BE CARRIED TO POSITION

(By the Canadian Press)

John Ross Roach, once one of the hardest goalers to beat in the National Hockey League, might be down but he's far from out. His teammates carried him to his position in the nets at Syracuse last night and John stopped 51 shots to help his Syracuse youngsters blank Buffalo 1-0. The veteran was unable to skate because of a knee injury but the crippled goaler leaned against the post to give one of the best goal tending performances ever witnessed in Syracuse, or other centres of the International Hockey League.

While Roach's star was shining in Syracuse to keep his team in second place Detroit Olympics were stretching their point total at the top of the league by fighting to a 1-0 win over Windsor Bulldogs in a fast battle.

Harvey Bats in Winning Counter Against Trenton and Juniors Cinch First Place

Ten Minutes Overtime Required to Win 5-4

PERFECT ICE

Locals Showed Too Much Experience Although Outplayed in Spots

Jack Harvey's goal in the second overtime period on a passout from Done Lee gave the Belleville juniors a 5 to 4 win over the Trenton kids in a 70-minute junior O.H.A. struggle staged at the Belleville Arena last evening. With the score all knotted up at the end of the regular playing time both teams threw caution to the winds and played wide open hockey in the overtime to give the 500-odd fans repeated thrills.

The win gives Belleville undisputed lead in their group, and asurres them of first place regardless of future games, and they have yet to be defeated. Four times during the contest last night the locals went into the lead only to have the visitors knot the count and force the issue into overtime.

Although the local boys carried excess speed the combination plays of the Trenton club were far superior to that of Belleville. "Stewie" McElrath, Bob Greer and Cy Barriage led the homesters with "Shud" Ethier garnering the most number of scoring point, two goals and an assist. McGuire and Greer went well both ways with Lee and High improving as the game progressed. The weather is thought to have kept the attendance down.

For Trenton Cottrell in the nets, repeatedly saved his team with miraculous saves, while Thompson on the defence assumed star role thru-out. Alan Lemore and Jack Kidd were the pick of the forwards with Lott and Fox following in line. Lack of finish around the nets spoiled many chances. Their combination plays were roundly applauded.

The Play

Decked out in their new red and white uniforms the locals opened the tilt by forcing the play despite the fact that they did not seem to utilize the new forward pass rules. Both teams were inclined to ramble a little too much with the result that the first period proved rather uninteresting.

McElrath opened the scoring late in the first on a solo effort from end to end. Ethier then took a nice pass from L'Heureux and made it 2-0 two minutes later. Their lead was abortilved however when Lott cuffed the rubber past Sinfield on a pass from Fox at the end of the period.

Three minutes after the second period opened Lemore coasted up the left boards and sank the rubber behind Sinfield on a nice wing shot to even the count. High was thru' for what appeared to be a sure goal when Thompson tripped him for which he drew a penalty. Ethier put Belleville in the lead again on a nice combination play with Greer. Kidd again knotted the score on a pass-out from Lott.

Cy Barriage scored early in the third period on a pass from Ethier. Thompson made it 4-4 when he dirfted a long one past Sinfield.

Both teams tore into the fray during the overtime and after nine minutes of play High hoisted a high one and Lee dashed in and grabbed the rebound near the Trenton goal. After a scramble Lee passed to Harvey and the game was all over.

The game was one of the cleanest seen here in some time;; seven penalties being handd out by Referee Green, all for minor infractions. Trnton drew down four of these.

The line-up:

Belleville—Goal, Sinfield; defence, Greer and McElrath; centre, Barriage; wings, Ethier and L'Heureux; subs, Lee, High, Harvey and McGuire.

Trenton—Goal, Cottrell; defence, Thompson and Mitchell; centre, Lemore; wings, Leal and Burrt; subs, Fox, Kidd, Lott and Jones.

Referee—Bill Green, Belleville.

CATARACTS OUT OF SENIOR RACE

Defeated by Westonats 2-1 in Fast, Clean Contest

(By the Canadian Press)

Port Colborne Sailors were out of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association picture today, toppled from a playoff threat by West Toronto Nationals who rested in second place behind Hamilton Tigers. Nats entertained Sailors at Toronto last night and emerged with a 2-1 win over the visitors after a fast, clean hockey struggle.

The victory pushed Nats over Torontos into second place, four points behind Hamilton who lengthened their lead by whipping Varsity at Hamilton 3-2. McNeil, Nationals' sub-wingers, scored the winning goal against Sailors.

The Toronto tussle was a battle of goal tenders, Moore in Sailors' net and Stein, Nats' guardian, handling the rubber like veterans. From the outset both goalers were forced to block difficult shots that seemed marked as goals when they flashed from the sticks.

TWEED WINS FROM MADOC

Second Time This Season Madoc Has Bowed to Same Team

Madoc, Jan. 31 (Special)—Gerald Quinn's lads again defeated the Tale Towners by a score of 5 to 3. Madoc apparently had the game in hand when with less than 5 minutes to go they were leading by a score of 3 to 2. Over anxiousness caused the defeat of the locals. With less than a minute left in the first period Tweed shoved in two goals in quick succession. Madoc retaliated in the second by tying up the score. In the third period Madoc appeared to have the edge gaining a one goal advantage about 5 minutes after play began.

The first line of Ware, Henderson and Akey went very well but the second line was far off color. The kid line have been playing too much hockey. The Madoc defence was not as airtight as it might have been.

For Tweed Kelly and Rupert was outstanding while Rashotte, Meraw and McGuire played well. Thompson the Tweed goalie received a nasty crack on the temple when he was struck by a hard shot from Akey.

The league is displaying some keen competition as the standing of the teams indicate. Tweed and Belleville being tied for first place and Madoc right behind.

Two referees, George Geraldi and Don Whytock were used and a fast clean game was the result.

The scoring:

1st Period—
Tweed—Quinn.
Tweed—Rupert (Meraw).
2nd. Period—
Madoc—Henderson (Akey).
Madoc—Akey (Henderson).
3rd Period—
Madoc—Henderson (Akey).
Tweed—Meraw.
Tweed—Rashotte.
Tweed—McGuire.
Final score: Tweed 5 Madoc 3.

Lineups:

Tweed—Thompson goal, Lafountaine and Geraldi defence, Rashotte centre, Meraw and Quinn, wings, subs. Rupert, Orr, and McGuire.

Madoc — Nickle goal, West and Rupert defence, centre Henderson, Ware and Akey wings, subs. Armstrong, Embury and Alexander.

FINAL GROUP GAME THURS.

Fresh from victories over Campbellford and Cobourg the Belleville D.A.C. intermediates play their final group scheduled game with the Trenton intermediates at the Belleville Arena on Thursday night when they can finish the group a tie with the Maroons by defeating the Bowen-coached outfit.

Facing elimination, if defeated, the Trentonians will be at full strength to try and finish in the money by medium of a victory over the L'Heureux-coached "green and white" clad pucksters. Ken Chambers, who for years proved a capable goalkeeper for the black and white-clad crew, recently turned up in a new role of centre forward. Chambers surprised his teammates by turning in a stellar performance against the Maroons recently and now cavorts about on the first front line. Roy Smith, who played junior O.H.A. hockey for the Toronto Danforth Juniors last season, teams on the defence with Bernie York to make a hard hitting pair of defencemen, Vinny Utronki, of local baseball fame, filling in as an alternate. Normie Johnson, who needs no introduction to a local crowd is travelling faster than ever this season and is reputed to be one of the speediest forwards in the group. Rosenplott and Gord Powers are the other front linemen worthy of note.

Skipper Patterson will have his Dohertys at full strength against the Trentonians as the locals must win to keep pace with the group leading Maroons. The Trentonians forced the locals into overtime before they could defeat them 3 to 2 in their previous meeting in Trenton and on the larger local ice the visitors always seem to be seen at their best.

A win for the Trenton club will place them a tie with Cobourg for third position while a loss will eliminate them and elevate the locals into first place a tie with the Maroons. The usual spirited Belleville-Trenton game is assured tomorrow night.

DAY BY DAY

The local Ki-Y League scored another triumph and added to their laurels following the victory of the local B.C.I. pucksters over the Albert College hockeyists on Monday afternoon. Every player wearing the tricolor had received early training in the Ki-Y League with the exception of Morris L'Heureux, who recently came here from Port Arthur.

* * *

As a matter of fact there are Ki-Y League graduates playing junior and intermediate O.H.A., as well as with the Collegiate. For some years past we have upheld the Ki-Y League and endeavored to boost it whenever possible as it has more than proved a producer of hockey talent in this city of recent years. At present there are about fifteen teams entered in the four groups to range themselves under the banner of the Ki-Y League. This means that practically 150 young Canadians are receiving an early training and tuition in the great Canadian game of hockey alone. The heads of this organization are to be congratulated on the most prolific manner in which their once small organization has blossomed into a producer of champions.

* * *

Coach Ralph Morden informs us that the Kingston "Y" cage team, who meet the local squad here tonight are about the speediest quintette seen in Eastern Ontario for some years. Coach Morden, who also thinks highly of his own cage charges is moving the game to the local collegiate floor tonight so as to have more floor space for the E.O.A.B.A. fixture. To test the relative strength between the two Eastern Ontario junior basketball groups Napanee juniors and the local Deacon A. C. kids meet up in an exhibition game before the regular intermediate fixture.

Although basketball is a major sport in the United States it seemingly cannot get a firm grasp on Canadian sport fans. Recently at a college cage game between Iowa State and Northwestern 10,000 fans jammed their way into an auditorium to witness the struggle. Basketball is a fast, keen game, that should appeal to all sport lovers. One of the features of the game is the fact that the fans can witness a game without freezing to death in the bitter cold, as all games are played in nicely heated buildings. (That's something of note these days at least.)

* * *

When Benny Bowen's Trenton intermediates make their 1934 initial bow before a local crowd tomorrow night they will be on the well known spot as a loss for the black and white will spell elimination for them from further O.H.A. competition this season. On the other hand the Dohertys are equally as well on the "spot" as a defeat for them will obliterate their chances of finishing a tie with the group leading Maroons. Of late the Dohertys have been scoring more goals than here-to-fore inasmuch that Coach L'Heureux changes their style of attack to reap the best possible results for their efforts while on the attack. If one method of offensive does not prove successful Coach L'Heureux is not adverse to changing his team's style until he finds a more prolific one.

* * *

Down at the South End A. C. they are staging one of their fortnightly boxing bouts tonight. All participants on the card are up-and-coming kids who are fast learning the art of self defence. Incidentally we understand that Freddie Parry officially received his green colored, or is it blue, amateur card yesterday and is anxious to get a bout as soon as possible.

* * *

Eddie Thomas' pets assured themselves of first place in their respective junior group last night by eking out a 5 to 4 win over the Trenton kids in a seventy minute game that should have been all over and in the bag long before the sixty minute bell sounded. On the night's play the combination plays used by the Bowen-coached crew completely overshadowed the locals' efforts in that department. Lack of team play by the locals was quite noticeable. The Belleville kids must learn to pass the old boot heel, especially under the new rules in vogue.

* * *

It was like old times to see a local team decked out in red and white. Incidentally the new uniforms nearly carried their usual jinx of defeat. The ice was in excellent condition, as a matter of fact it proved slightly too fast for some of the boys. The local crew follow the rubber about altogether too much and their style of play demoralizes speedy combination. Of course it must be taken into consideration that the local team are practically a new club and have done exceptionally well, considering it is their first season together. Coach Benny Bowen has whipped together a real classy band of pucksters with the play-off between them and the locals being a toss-up. George LaBrash was on hand to encourage his pets last night.

ELDORADO IS BLANKED 3-0

Cooper Much The Best on Ice None Too Good

Eldorado, Jan. 31.—(Special)—In a fast skating game Cooper downed Eldorado here on Monday night by the score of 3 to 0. Due to the subzero weather the ice became rather chipped, making good hockey impossible as the game progressed.

Both goalies turned in stellar performances with Wright registering a shutout to his credit. Rollins, Graham and Parks were the goal-getters of the night with all four defencemen turning in excellent accounts of their endeavours under such trying circumstances.

The game was impartially handled by Alex. Hunter.

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 30—(AP)—Three members of the John Dillinger gang of outlaws tug at the law's grip in court here today while officers with their leader race toward Indiana where he faces trial for murder.

Fighting and protesting, Dillinger was carried out of Arizona in a swift aeroplane maneuver last night ahead of a Habeas Corpus writ that would have delayed his departure at least another day. Writs for Harry Pierpont, Russell Clark and Charles Makley, were served just before midnight as officers prepared to start with them for Indiana by train.

RESCINDING OF BY-LAW IS TO BE ASKED

Ald. Harker Gives Notice of Motion After Motion Being Ruled Out

LITTLE BUSINESS

Various Cities Congratulate Belleville on its Centennial Year

After a notice of motion given at the last meeting by Alderman John Harker respecting the collection of taxes in three installments and coming before the council at the meeting on Monday evening, had been ruled out of order by the Mayor as a bylaw had already been passed respecting the collecting of taxes, Alderman Harker again gave notice of motion that he would at the next meeting move "that the bylaw passed for the collecting of taxes be rescinded."

Due to the extreme cold weather the City Council held their regular session in the committee room instead of the council chamber and there being but little business to transact, the meeting was of short duration. Laurie Lewis appeared before the council with respect to the recent award of contracts after tenders were received for typewriters and adding machines for the City Hall and after the discussion, the council was unanimous in leaving the contracts as given. The council also purchased a cheque cancelling machine at a price of $37.50. The Unemployment Association and the Salvation Army were granted the use of the City Hall auditorium free and the South End Athletic Club were granted the use of the auditorium for three nights during the winter at a price of $7.50 each night, the club to arrange for cleaning the hall and leaving it in the same state as when found. In the near future an Advisory Relief Board will be appointed to check over the rearranged relief registration.

Concur in Centennial

The council will forward a resolution to W. C. Mikel concurring in the coming Centennial celebration of the Corporation of Belleville as a police village and will also allow the use of the auditorium of the City Hall for any purpose in connection with the same. A number of cities of Province have sent congratulations to this city on its attainments of 100 years of corporation and these were read at the meeting and will be found in another column.

A letter was received from the City Engineer with respect to the work in connection with Zwick's Island and the coming visit of H. J. Moore, landscape artist. Alderman Donahue wished to know what arrangements had been made with Mr. Moore as it was impossible to carry out all the work that he had planned. The same Alderman wished to know the cost to the city by Mr. Moore and he was informed it would be $25 for the drawing of the plans but that the council was not obligated in any way to carry out the full scheme.

Alderman McCreary—"Is that the limit of our responsibility?"

Mayor Tice—"Yes."

Alderman Donahue—"If you accept services you must pay."

Ald. McCreary—"I would see, Mr. Mayor, that the cheque is endorsed "for full services rendered."

Enquiries Made

Under the head of enquiries, Alderman Donahue asked if a time keeper had been appointed for the relief job and an answer in the affirmative was given. Frank Rayfield has been given leave of absence for a short time. Alderman Foley inquired if anything had been done with respect to the Stephens-Adamson account and the Alderman was informed that no move had been made in the matter.

Three bylaws, one of which was only given its second reading as the bylaw will have to be approved by the Municipal Board before council can finally ratify it were introduced and passed through the various stages. A bylaw to continue the provisions of Bylaw No. 3114 respecting the civic salaries was passed and the same salaries will prevail until February 1st, 1935. The assessment made and revised in the year 1933 will be the assessment for 1934. A bylaw to borrow $40,000 from the Bank of Montreal to carry on the Corporation's program for relief purposes was given its second reading.

STRIKES SIDE OF TRAIN

Toronto, Jan. 30—(CP)—Driving his automobile into the side of a Canadian Pacific Railway train at a level crossing south of here today L. V. Stephens, 36-year-old war veteran of Long Branch, narrowly escaped death. He suffered a fractured knee, face lacerations and body bruises.

It was thought that Stephen's vision was blocked by mist which had collected on the windshield.

JENNIE DIDN'T WASTE ANY TIME

Right off the boat and into the middle of a strike was the unusual step that marked the arrival in New York of Miss Jennie Lee, former Labor member of the British parliament, who is shown in the midst of a group of striking waiters who picketed the Waldorf-Astoria. Over 30,000 waiters downed napkins and struck for more money, shorter hours and union recognition.

Policies and Records of Conservative Party Reviewed at Thurlow Club Banquet

J. Earl Lawson, M.P. is Special Speaker of Evening

MEMBERS PRESENT

Reeve And Deputy Reeve of Thurlow Tell of County Affairs

Bitterly cold, blustery sub-zero weather prevented the anticipated large attendance at the 4th. annual banquet of the Thurlow Conservative Club in the Orange Hall, Cannifton, Monday evening. Last year 225 residents of Thurlow and visitors from nearby communities enjoyed the hospitality of the Club and accommodation had been arranged last night for 300 diners. With half the cars in the district frozen up, and the remaining operating half ready and likely any minute to be, only some 130 were present at the dinner.

Those who forsook the comfort of their own fireside and visited Cannifton last night were rewarded with a splendid dinner excellently prepared by the matrons of Thurlow township and admirably served by the younger Conservative womanhood of the community. They heard an aggressive and illuminative address delivered by J. Earl Lawson, M.P., for West York, and speeches from the riding's representatives at Toronto and Ottawa, from the reeve and deputy reeve of the township and remarks from several of the club members. The musical entertainment was cut to a minimum to make it a night of speech making. James D. Bankier of Belleville, with Leo B. Riggs as accompanist, led the community singing. Miss Ann Brown contributed a solo and Harry Harrison, president of the Thurlow Conservative Association, entertained with one of his droll stories relative to married life.

President Geo. Kingston of the East Hastings Conservative Association and Frank M. McKeown, president of the Belleville Conservative Association were present to pay their respective organization's recognition of the 4th. annual dinner of the Thurlow club. About half those from Belleville who had anticipated going to Cannifton Monday evening were in attendance while a large delegation from Sidney had to cancel its trip owing to the severity of the weather.

Bruce Martin, president of the club, was toastmaster and as is his custom, filled his position admirably and to the satisfaction of all, and to the gratification of his fellow club members. At his proposal the Royal toast was saluted with "God Save the King," after which he called on Reeve Wesley Gray of Thurlow, to propose the toast of "Our Country."

"Life of Christ" by Dickens May Shortly be Issued in London

London, Jan. 30—(CP Cable)—The "Life of Christ" by Charles Dickens may appear in book form after all. The manuscript written by the celebrated novelist which is now at the disposal of his grand-children, following the recent death of the novelist's last surviving child, Sir Henry Dickens, is being eagerly sought by publishers.

The offers of publishers were considered by the six grand-children at a meeting here last night but it is understood the manuscript may be auctioned off. An offer of $50,000 was made some years ago to Sir Henry but he preferred to leave the question of publication to be decided after his own death.

Incidentally it was learned the "Life of Christ" by Sir Hall Caine, completed shortly before his death some years ago, may also be published soon.

The grand-children of Charles Dickens are Admiral Dickens of the Naval Intelligence staff, Harold, well known barrister, Philip Dickens, a director of the Imperial Chemical Trust, Mrs. Robert Shuckburgh, wife of the assistant public trustee, Mrs. Hankley, wife of the solicitor to the late Princess Royal and Mrs. Alex Wayley.

67,585 FEET REACHED INTO STRATOSPHERE

Soviet Aviators Now Making Descent to Ground

BITTERLY COLD

Break Record of Piccard And Settle Made Short Time Ago

(By Stanley P. Richardson)
(Associated Press Foreign)

MOSCOW, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A Soviet Civil Aviation Stratosphere balloon which took off on an unannounced ascension today was reported in a message from its crew to have reached the record-breaking height of 20,600 meters (67,585 feet).

The balloon, known as the "Osoaviakhim", attained that altitude at 11.50 a.m. Moscow time (4.29 a.m. E.S.T.) a radio message from the bag said a descent was being started immediately.

At that position, the crew reported the temperature outside was between 36 and 45 degrees below zero, centigrade (33 and 49 below zero Fahrenheit) and 20 below inside.

The message "All is well" was flashed from the balloon only to be followed with the additional word, that visibility was so poor the crew could not determine their exact position.

They added that they were unable to say where or at what time the balloon might land.

Airplanes were dispatched from the Moscow Military Airdrome to help the Stratosphere crew locate themselves.

The balloon swung aloft at 8:40 a.m. Moscow Time (1.10 a.m. E.S.T.)

At 11 o'clock local time (3.30 a.m. E.S.T.) the balloonists reported by radio, that they had reached a height of 20 kilometers (12 1-2 miles).

From Private Aerodrome

Today the flight was started at the private airdrome of the Osaviakhim, a civilian aviation society for which the big bag was named.

The crew consisted of M. Fedoseienko and M. Ousyskin as pilots and M. Vasenko, constructor of the Stratostat U.S.S.R., in which three Soviet balloonists ascended to a reported height of more than 62,000 feet September 30.

The "Osaviakhim" is similiar to the Stratostat U.S.S.R., an army balloon. The military craft however, is larger. It was claimed it was the largest in the world.

Lieut.-Commander T. G. W. Settle of the United States set the present recognized Stratosphere flight record November 20, when he and Major Chester L. Fordney reached a height of 18,665 meters (61,237 feet.)

The Settle balloon took off from Akron, Ohio, and came down near Bridgeton, N.J.

The record previously had been held by Professor Auguste Piccard at 53,153 feet.

Three Soviet balloonists in the Stratostat U.S.S.R. claimed to have ascended more than 62,000 feet September 30.

The Soviet Union however, is not represented in the International Federation Aeronautique which approved the Settle mark. Hence the Russians' flight was not considered for the record.

CANON VERNON DIES AGED 63

Toronto, Jan. 30 (CP)—Rev. Canon C. W. Vernon, General Secretary of the Social Service Council for the Church of England in Canada, died here today.

Canon Vernon, who was also President of the Social Service Council of Canada, was in his 64th year. He was born in England and was a graduate of King's College, Windsor, N.S., where he was a classmate of the late Rev. Dr. Norwood, who died in New York in September, 1932.

Canon Vernon had been ill since last October, suffering from heart trouble, following an attack of influenza. He was recently reported to be improving.

Born in London, England, in 1871 C. W. Vernon received his early education in that country and persued the occupation of a farmer in Sussex County for several years before coming to Canada in 1898. He farmed in Nova Scotia for three years before entering King's College, Windsor.

Canon Vernon was in Belleville last year on a visit to the congregations of St. Thomas and Christ Church on social service work.

"His death will be a very distinct loss," commented Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, vicar of St. Thomas' Church.

Senator Little and Two Brothers Charged with Fraud in Business Deal

True Bills Returned by Grand Jury at London Following Collapse of Wholesale Drygoods Firm of Robinson Little and Company

WARRANTS TO BE ISSUED

Senator And Brothers Will Appear in Court Before Justice Kerwin When Charges Will be Read—Trial Likely to go Over to Spring Assizes

London, Ont., Jan. 30.—True bills naming seven charges involving theft, conspiracy and fraud were returned by the Winter Assize Grand Jury today against Senator E. S. Little and Arthur T. Little, of London, and Walter Little of Winnipeg. The two last named are brothers of the Liberal Senator.

The charges follow the collapse of the large wholesale drygoods firm of Ribinson, Little and Company three years ago.

Special Crown Attorney Norman Sommerville, K.C., announced warrants for the arrest of all three would be issued, but said the warrants would not be executed. Senator Little and his two brothers will appear before Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin in Supreme Court here Thursday, W. B. Henderson, K.C., their counsel, announced. The charges will be read, bail fixed and the case, according to court officials, traversed to the Spring assizes.

The finding of the Grand Jury charges the three brothers with conspiracy to defraud shareholders of the Robinson, Little Company; the three are also charged with conspiring "to steal the property" of the company. All three are further charged with "making, circulating or publishing statements and accounts which they knew to be false in material particulars with intent to deceive or defraud" members, shareholders or creditors of the company.

A. T. Little is charged with theft of $80,000, E. S. Little with theft of $150,000, and Walter H. Little with theft of $80,000, the property of the Robinson, Little Company, according to each count.

The last count is that against E. S. Little, alleging that he received from the Holeproof Hosiery Company of Canada, Ltd., $26,044.53, "upon terms requiring him to account for or pay the same to the Robinson, Little Company," and that he "did fraudulently omit to account for the same or pay it and thereby did commit theft."

Mass Buying Probe is Launched by Government

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Mass buying by department and chain stores and its effect upon retail trade; labor conditions in industries supplying such department and chain stores; the relation between the flour milling industry and bakeries in Canada; and the methods prevailing in the marketing of livestock, will be probed in a sweeping investigation which the government will initiate at the present session of parliament.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett gives notice on today's order paper of the House of Commons that he will move to appoint an investigating committee of eleven members of the House to conduct the probe.

For some little time the government has been directing its attention to the matters covered in the resolution. Recently, in Toronto, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, made an address in which he referred to mass buying by department and chain stores and dealt with possible injurious results from such business to small retailers and manufacturers.

His speech produced a small-sized flood of letters from persons and organizations for the most part endorsing his remarks. At least one delegation waited upon the Minister and supported the statements he had made.

6,000 Balls Will Mark 52nd Birthday of Pres. Roosevelt

75,000 Send Greeting Cards to The White House

MILLIONS ATTEND

(By Ken Clarke, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Jan. 30 (CP)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who wields more power over the destinies of 130,000,000 Americans than any President in history, today celebrated his 52nd. birthday.

Celebrating with him were the 75,000 who sent greeting cards to the White House, the Darkies down South, the sourdoughs mushing in to Fairbanks, Alaska, for the party and the patients in the Warm Springs, Georgia, Sanitarium for Infantile Paralysis. The place where the President himself struggled back to health and strength.

More than 6,000 balls will be held in the United States and its possessions tonight in honor of Mr. Roosevelt and the funds collected thereon will go to assure the future of the Warm Springs Foundation. In the Georgia "San" today small patients in their wheel chairs will do a square dance for the President after they have eaten his birthday cake and while waiting to hear his speech in behalf of crippled children.

Will Cut Cake

The President himself in the White House at Washington will cut a large cake decorated with 52 candles and have a party with his old friends, those who were with him in the 1920 Vice-Presidential campaign, three of whom are now his secretaries: Louis M. Howe, Marvin H. McIntyre and Stephen Early, and other intimates.

The most stately ball will be in the Capital attended by government officers; the most unpretentious at Cherry Valley, Ill. Fifteen couples will attend.

The biggest ball will be in New York at the Waldorf Astoria where the President's mother will have box number one.

Far up under the Aurora Borealis, they will celebrate tonight with one of the most gorgeous settings the world has ever known.

They call it night, but it's night all the time right now in northernmost Alaska, and the shimmering crimson and violet northern lights will illuminate parties.

At Fairbanks, Juneau, Ketchikan, Cordova and other cities they are holding dances and at each point a sell-out is indicated. Hardy Alaskans are mushing behind dog teams over the frozen snow to reach the crowded halls.

The birthday candes burned today, too, for other Americans.

They burned for Moses Mendel Penn, who was 57 years old on the day Mr. Roosevelt was born.

Penn, recovering at a hospital from a paralytic stroke, celebrated his 109th. birthday anniversary today with a modest party "and an extra cigar or two."

His friends told the Centenarian-plus that it was the birthday anniversary of President Roosevelt.

Moses Mendel Penn expressed no interest in that.

He had never heard of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Today is the birthday, too, of Dr. Walter Damrosch, the musician, who is 72 years old. He had something to say, among other things, about crooners.

"Crooners," he stated, "ought to be boiled in oil."

WARNING TO AUSTRIA FROM ADOLF HITLER

First Anniversary of Hitler's Arrival of Power

TRIBUTE TO ITALY

Thanks Voiced to England For Efforts Towards Understanding

(By Louis P. Lochner)
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Berlin, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, Chancellor of Germany, signalled the first anniversary of his assumption of power today by declaring that now humanity has entered upon a period of "searching for timely ideas and realizations that might give humanity a new well being".

His declaration was made in the course of an address to the Reichstag and a crowd of foreign diplomats packed into the Kroll Opera House where Germany centred its celebration of the first anniversary of Hitler's ascension to the leadership of the Reich.

"To the German Government's great regret," said Hitler, "its relations with the present Austrian Government are not satisfactory.

Fault Not Germany's

"The fault is not ours. The assertion that Germany plans to violate Austria is absurd and incapable of proof.

"No revolutionary ideas were ever stopped at the frontiers as the French Revolution has shown.

"If the present Austrian Government thinks it necessary to suppress this movement forcibly it is its own affair but it will have to bear the consequences.

"Austria cannot expect Germany guests if the latter are looked upon as unwelcome—no more than Germany could expect Americans or British guests if they were to have their national emblems and flags torn down while they were visiting Germany.

"Germany cannot tolerate such humiliating treatment."

The Chancellor expressed thanks that the British Government had offered its services toward creating friendly relations between France and Germany. He said the British Disarmament Plan, submitted to Berlin yesterday, would be examined with the best will and friendly spirit.

QUEBEC HOTEL IS DESTROYED

Quebec, Jan. 30 (CP)—Fire which broke out early today in the Manoir Montmorency destroyed that hotel, damaged the haberdashery store of N. E. Papillon and for a time threatened St. Baptiste ward by a conflagration which was only averted by several hours' of hard labor. Early estimates placed the damage at $400,000.

Five firement were seriously injured and rushed to hospital when the roof and walls of the hotel fell in. About ten other firemen were hit by falling bricks and debris but their injuries did not require hospital treatment.

Most critically injured was Fireman Hector Chevrette. Doctors could not say this morning whether or not he had a chance of recovering. First reports from the scene of the fire had stated he was dead. Less critically hurt were Dore Belanger, Denis Normile, Adjutor Cloutier and Joseph Lemay.

NOT MUCH TROUBLE WITH WATER PIPES

In spite of the sub zero weather of the past few days, which made added demands on the city's water departments, waterworks department officials failed to report any abnormal number of frozen water pipes in the city. Calls for thawing out frozen pipes outside the lot line of local residents have been few below average this year, and have been quickly treated by the electric thawing machine in use by the department. Laying the new service pipes, a few inches above ground, when installed has helped the department greatly in combatting the frost.

MEN CALLED OFF WORK FOR SHIN HEAT

Although a few nipped fingers and toes were reported, no disaster resulted from the relief improvement scheme on Zwicks Island, Monday, actual frost bites were reported in a minimum among the workers by Foreman Bert Clifford in charge. Work was continued throughout the day in spite of the biting cold and low temperature, although all groups were given more shelter facilities on sections of the island, with short periods of time out for a "shin heat." The full force of workers was still employed today.

MOOSE DANCE A SUCCESS

V.O.N. Joins With Lodge in Providing Pleasant Evening

Characterized by the same sparkle and glitter of past Moose dances, the annual dance under the auspices of the Royal Victorian Order of Nurses in Belleville held under the joint auspices of the Royal Order of Moose, 1006 and Belleville Parlor 439 in the Moose auditorium Monday night, was added to current list of distinctive entertainments. It was one of the best, that attendance was cut down somewhat by the snow storm, but the large hall was comfortably filled with the card players and the dancers, whether they were attracted by the usual annual gaiety hour following the games.

Two handsome prizes donated by Alderman Benjamin Safe and ex-Alderman Joseph Smith for the decoration were won by Mrs. Lorne Burke, and Mr. Wm. Bain.

Euchre winners all of whom turned in high scores were announced as the ladies, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Sherry, Mrs. Irene Carter and Mrs. Bain, and the gentlemen, Mr. J. Bush, Wm. Lancaster, R. Burtt and J. Bain.

A note of appreciation is expressed by the ladies and directors of the local Order of Moose and by the officers of the Victorian Order of Nurses for the generous support given by Mayor Wills and ex-Alderman Imlah, to Past President Fred Murphy in providing needed printing, and to the local branch of the Army and Navy Veterans' in Canada for their friendly action in lowering their usual weekly scales and dance programme for the same evening, to a later date.

Special orchestral numbers were furnished during the evening by the Commodores' orchestra.

3 YEAR TERM GIVEN GREEN

Seven Previous Convictions Against Deseronto Youth

Leo Green, 20 of Deseronto, was sentenced to a three year term in the Portsmouth Penitentiary after pleading guilty and breaking, entering and theft before His Honor Judge Deroche in the County Court this morning.

Green was charged with breaking entrance of the premises of a quantity of cigarettes, tobacco, candy, gum and other articles from the Green Tea Room's grocery store in Deseronto on the night of December 18th last. The accused man claimed to have found the articles during the night-way but, during the evidence submitted by Provincial Police officer who investigated and later arrested Green, it was stated to the officers in the manner in which he entered the building by forcing a door in the front door. At the termination of the evidence submitted His Honor Judge Deroche said:—"There is no need of further considering a sentence in this case as the accused is clearly guilty from the evidence submitted."

If I don't know what to do with you Green, you've had numerous chances in the past and seem determined to carry on in your ways," added His Honor after being advised that Green has been convicted seven times previously convicted on similar counts and had served a two year penitentiary sentence.

"The only thing I can do is give you a more severe punishment, although it is the last thing I like to send a man go to prison. I'll have to pass a three year term in the penitentiary on you," concluded His Honor as he further reprimanded the prisoner.

During the trial evidence was submitted by the Crown to show that Green had cashed the stolen goods near Trenton. He was arrested by the Provincial Police early this morning, during trial by Judge. Following his arrest Green took the officers to a point in a secluded spot south of Trenton where some of the articles were found. He admitted he burned the rest of the stolen articles for fear of detection, at the time of his arrest. Green was employed at the Trenton Airport, Deseronto, No. 2.

R. C. Donnan K.C. local Crown Attorney, conducted the case while the accused man was defended by Clement Wills, local solicitor.

New Deal in Cheese Industry in Ontario

Some months ago Ontario's Minister of Agriculture announced a dairy program for the province of a far-reaching character. A five-year plan for the farmers, it was called, to recapture the British market for Ontario cheese and reorganize group by group all the dairy farmers throughout the Province so as to restore Ontario's milk production to health and prosperity.

"Instead of any real surplus of milk in this province," said the Honourable Thomas L. Kennedy, "we can expand our milk production almost indefinitely if we only reorganize our marketing, production and distribution methods. Because our cheese export has fallen to nearly one-fourth its former dimensions we have an artificial surplus and distress on our butter, city milk and manufactured milk markets.

"This should quickly disappear when present unfavorable conditions are corrected. The basic difficulty has been the less-than-cost-of-production returns to the farmer for cheese milk which has forced the milk to the city milk and butter markets. This situation can be corrected only by the farmers themselves.

"Already the Whole Milk and City Milk Producers have organized and brought about improved methods and understanding between themselves and the distributors with very beneficial results. Now the Cheese Patrons have completed after months of uniting effort county by county, an organization which has recently been co-ordinated into an Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association that promises to restore our cheese exports and largely increase domestic consumption and production."

"The program embarked on by the Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association is sound. It has the unanimous approval of the government which is ready to assist in the earlier stages. Every agricultural representative in the province, every dairy instructor, the whole energies of the Ontario Marketing Board and the Dairy Branch are to be thrown behind the movement."

The plan, in brief, as outlined by Colonel Kennedy is one that has originated with the farmers, will be started through the farmers and financed by them on a basis of assessing all cheese patrons 5 cents per 1,000 pounds of milk turned into the cheese factory. A trifling amount to each farmer per year but owing to the magnitude of the industry will provide ample funds to finance help over-seas organizations and to maintain their own commercial representative on the overseas markets.

The old Cheese Board system is to be overhauled and antiquated methods of marketing and production abandoned. Central collecting, cold storage, and grading plants are to be established, competition between exporters is to be eliminated, the Dominion Government will be strongly retained and a plan to increase the domestic consumption of cheese undertaken.

Central offices will be established in Belleville under the management of the Secretary-Treasurer of the Association, Mr. J. L. Jose, of that city. The province is divided into five districts under the charge of five members of the Association Executive who will each be regarded as a governor of his district. A commercial representative of the industry is to be established in Great Britain to open up direct relations with the trade overseas and increase the preference for Ontario cheese and expand our export trade.

Production costs are to be reduced through cow testing, better bull policy, factory improvement and other economies. Collective purchase of supplies already undertaken are some promise large results.

A Big Domestic Market Possible.

The consumption of cheese per capita in Canada is very low, 3½ pounds per person compared with 11 to 12 pounds in Great Britain and 15 to 20 pounds in other countries. The Association's plan is to correct this situation. A consumer campaign of advertising is being considered.

Consumer Grades.

Some say that Canadian consumption of cheese is so low because consumer cannot get cheese in a form they desire. Greater grades of cheese flood the market and the consumer goes off cheese because of the unsatisfactory quality. Under this new plan, the farmer and buyer has no standards by which to discriminate. Consumer grading of Ontario cheese is an objective. All Canadian cheese is strictly graded for export purposes which accounts for a great deal of its popularity in the Old Country.

A Drive to Complete Organization.

Already fourteen out of the twenty major cheese-producing counties in Ontario have more or less actively organized behind the scheme and committed to it financially. The Association's executive is launching a campaign to complete the provincial organization within the next month. The cheese industry as a whole participate in the benefits of the plan without coming in through its county association.

READINGS OF TEMPERATURE

Thirteen and Half Degrees Below Zero Recorded at Belleville

It was cold throughout this central section during the night Monday and Tuesday morning. Temperatures follow:

Here are a few as given by the local office of the Canadian Pacific Railways at Tuesday morning:

Brockville 10
Ottawa 16
Lindsay 6
Hamilton, clear home reported 18 below; Toronto 8 below and at Picton the comparatively balmy temperature of 18 below was registered.

Throughout the northern townships the range was from 30 to 36 below was variously recorded.

Dr. Bigg's Report.

North Station—10 below.
City Limits—6 below.
Dominion Entomological Laboratory—13 1-2.

Tuesday early morning once.

It marks the spot today in front of numerous downtown theatres where hurrying footsteps of pedestrians were suddenly arrested briefly through the late hours last evening and early this morning as the fists of the unfortunate bore testimon of a downcast mercury just how cold it was.

It was very cold along the business section of Front street during even if no two thermometers did agree, and everybody was doing the exact reading. Only a few straggling wayfarers braved the chill blast, each with a biting north wind keened. Only a few deserted cars left the curb and only a lone policeman walking his frigid beat was visible in the downtown area. Streets were deserted while the cafes did a rushing business in tendering coffee shortly before midnight. But in the chill sweep of the fists at the North Station, frosty taxi drivers and passengers alike the latter not willing to agree that it was quite a lot colder than last night.

But still no relief is in sight. On the third day of the third cold wave of winter, according to reports by the weather bureau, with one more day of sub zero temperatures may be experienced. After that the weather bureau can be made regarding a "break" although the last cold wave which gave this section of warming up were short.

In the meantime plumbers, garage men and other tradesmen were reaping the benefit of the trail of damage and annoyance left by the frigid spell.

Ice dealers at work harvesting the season's record crop state that the material thickness has been added to daily. Average thickness now is 30 inches is now reported in the Bay of Quinte.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 30—(CP)—Early this morning Frank Bowcock, 39, of this city, was struck by a half-frozen automobile on Stanley Street here. He is in hospital for his injuries. His condition is reported serious.

OBITUARY

LATE JUDGE J. F. WILLS

In the obituary of the late Judge J. F. Wills which appeared on Monday issue of this paper mention was made of his long association with the Belleville Club. The Judge was an honorary life member and past president of it, and one of the Club's most loyal members, as well as a chance of it going out of existence.

MRS. McGARRITY

During the past week the Marysville district lost by death a very estimable lady in the person of Mrs. Lucy A. McGarrity at the age of 83 years and 6 months. The Methodist Church of Marysville lost a very devoted member in her passing. The deceased, who died in the Kingston Hospital on Wednesday, had been in ill health for the past few years.

The remains were brought to her home and the funeral, which was very largely attended, took place on Friday morning to St. Mary's Church with interment in St. Mary's Cemetery. Owing to the illness of Rev. Father O'Connor, parish priest of Mary's Church, the service was conducted by the Rev. Father E. M. Lauer of St. Vincent de Paul Church, Deseronto. Requiem High Mass for the repose of the soul was sung and there were numerous spiritual offerings had mass cards.

The deceased was a daughter of Alex. Anderson and Catherine Kilmery and was born at Marysville, where she spent her early years and where she received her education.

A devout member of her church while residing in that town she was a member of the Ladies' Aid and Women's League, the Altar Society and other organizations in the church, and during the past few years she regretted very much that owing to illness, her activities in the church had to be curtailed to quite an extent.

Her many friends in the Marysville district greatly regretted to learn of her death, and came to the funeral in large numbers to pay their tribute of respect. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Percy Clancy, Michael McAlpin, Arnold Porte, Richard Kennedy, Jas. McCormick and Joseph McChesterfield.

She leaves to mourn her loss one son, Arthur Wills of Marysville and one daughter, Miss Mary C. McGarrity, Reg. N., at home, and three sisters, Mrs. A. J. Hills, Belleville; Mrs. Agnes E. Kane, Lake Dore, Alberta and Sister Mary Cornelette, of Hazenia, Ill., also one brother, Alex. Anderson, Minneapolis.

JOHN F. SPRAGUE

For a number of years a well known and highly regarded resident of Foxboro, and for a time a member of the staff of New York State John F. Sprague, passed away on Monday morning, Jan. 29, after a short illness. Born near Bowmanville 78 years ago, he was the son of the late Stephen and Patience Thompson Sprague. The late Mr. Sprague was a member of the Foxboro United Church and the Metra Lodge No. 11 A. F. and A.M.

Surviving are four sons, George of Cascade, N.Y., William of Jamestown, N.Y., Alba in Detroit, Mich., and Allen Lee, Cox Hill; two daughters, Mrs. Allen Decker of Pond Hill, N.Y., Mrs. I. F. Eggleston at Foxboro, and Mrs. George Judd at Mex. Francis Tupper of Foxboro, is a brother and a sister is Mrs. (Dr.) William Sprague of Toronto and formerly of this city. Nine grandchildren and a great-grandchild also survive.

The remains will arrive in Belleville on the noon train, Wednesday, and proceed to the residence of his daughter, Mrs. I. F. Eggleston, Mink Hollow, where they will rest till the time of the funeral, Thursday afternoon next.

ARE SHOWERED WITH PRESENTS BY COMMUNITY

Mr and Mrs. Harry Pack Are Honored

Eldorado—On Tuesday evening January 23 about one hundred friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Pack to spend a social evening in honour of their son Harry and his bride, formerly Miss Mary Cross of Delorp, who were recently married and to present them with a miscellaneous shower. The evening was very enjoyably spent in cards and dancing. About eleven o'clock, the gathering was called to order and Miss Mary Stewart read the following address:

Eldorado, Ont.
January 23, 1934

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pack

Dear Mary and Harry:

We your friends are gathered here this evening to take this opportunity of congratulating you on your recent marriage and to wish you much happiness in your future life together.

We hope that your journey along life, may be a happy one and filled with sunshine and that the showers that come your way may be as happy as this one tonight. You will both meet with obstacles and trials as you go along life's pathway but the little things when conquered make us enjoy the big successes and truly every cloud has a silver lining.

May these gifts stand as a remembrance of the friends and neighbors you have in this community and may they also convey to you our sincere wishes for a long, happy and prosperous married life.

Signed on behalf of your many friends, Everard Carman and Murray Empey.

Harry thanked those present on behalf of himself and his wife and requested that each and everyone pay a visit in the near future. Mr. and Mrs. Pack then unwrapped the many beautiful gifts. Lunch was then served and dancing lasted until the wee sma' hours.

Eldorado and Union P.Y.S. met in the basement of Fox's United Church on Wednesday evening, January 24th. The President Miss Violet McCann opened the meeting. The Scripture lesson was read by Merton Wright, taken from Romans 2: 11-16. The roll call showed 23 members on the red side and 15 on the white side. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. This was followed with prayer by Miss A. Holmes. The meeting was then handed over to Mr. Gordon Pigden, convener of the Literary Department who gave the devotional topic, after which Miss Gladys Martin led in prayer. Mrs. Leslie Robinson gave the topic entitled "The Literary Heritaye of Scotland". Mrs. Robinson spoke briefly on the life of Sir Walter Scott, famous Scotch novelist and poet. She referred each and every one to read Scott's works in order to find real inspiration. She closed by reading a story from Dr. Norman McLeod's book "The Starling". Miss Annie Thorpe favored by reading two Scotch poems by Burns. "For he was Scotch and so was she," and "Wee Mousie". Mr Pigden called on the white side to sing and afterward the red side.

The meeting closed by repeating the Mizpah Benediction, after which a contest, consisting of a stump speech by each member of not more than two minutes on subjects furnished by the convener. Needless to say, there were many hearty laughs.

Meeting of Mission Society of Belleville Presbyterial

Executive Receives Reports of All Phases of Work

Meeting of Mission etc.
(Written by Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Presbyterial Press Secretary.)

Despite the very treacherous condition of the roads due to the glaring ice, sixteen members of the executive of the Belleville W. M. S. ventured forth with courage and faith to attend their meeting which was held in Bridge Street United Church on January 25th. This meeting was called to pass the reports before sending them on to Branch officials and to plan for the coming Presbyterial which will be held in Napanee, at Trinity United Church on Wednesday and Thursday March 14th and 15th.

Mrs. Corkill opened with Devotional and then the president Mrs. Anderson presided over the two sessions. Greetings from the Branch president Mrs. W. L. Smyth of Pembroke were read The various secretaries and vice-presidents gave a resume of the past year.

Mrs. Knox 31 Auxiliaries replying with a membership of 2434, meetings held 961, subscribers to Missionary Monthly 969. Christmas greetings were sent to Miss Caul and Japan. Missionaries would be delighted to receive personal letters from individual members or auxiliaries at any time.

The name of Mrs. Bruce Finla, of Strathcona was submitted as the nomination to Branch for Mission Band and Baby Band Secretary.

The finances are not all in as yet but Mrs. Corkill hopes to remit to Branch fifteen thousand six hundred dollars. She reported twelve new life members and the six baby bands sent her $12.42.

In the absence of Mrs Street her report was read, to date she has received fifty replies on Christian Stewardship. She hoped Auxiliaries would consider their allocation as an incentive not an assessment. Two Auxiliaries Ebenezer and Queensboro have found it necessary to disband.

Mrs. Palmatier has 20, C. G. I. T. groups an increase of five and these girls contributed $64.69. The fall rally is the big event of the year and a great stimulus to winter study.

Some discussion took place in the caring for the foreign population in Canada and helping them feel at home in a new land.

Several members of the W. C. T. U served a delicious luncheon which was duly appreciated.

Mrs. Bailey reported thirty-four bands replying and urged a conference for band leaders.

Mrs. Hoare has 203 associate helpers who take 61 monthlies and eleven have accepted active service in their auxiliaries and these women contributed $154.79. One regular meeting will be set aside in 1934 for the associate Helper's Department.

Mrs. Hooper told of various auxiliaries who have staged splendid "Peace" programmes during the year and urged that a copy of Independence be purchased from the "League of Nations", Ottawa for a quarter. The little playlet "So this is Geneva", is also good.

Mrs. MacMullen has received replies from 72 Auxiliaries 3 Y. W. A.'s, 6 Circles, 6 C. G. I. T. groups and 19 Mission Bands and these organizations have sent in to the fifteen newspapers 1830 items of Missionary news. The work is steadily growing due to the loyal press secretaries throughout the Presbyterial.

Mrs. Reddick received 79 parcels of clothing valued at $1441.61. The need has been great. Clothing and shoes for boys and girls of 7, 8 and 9 yrs. of age will be greatly appreciated this year. Letters of appeal from local ministers are to be sent direct to Mrs. Reddick, not to the Auxiliaries.

Mrs. Empey received 52 replies and a large number of strangers have been welcomed and sick visited.

Mrs. Williams received 43 replies, 109 study books taken besides 6 C. G. I. T. and 24 Band Study books. She outlined the new reading contest sponsored by the Branch.

It was decided that the Presbyterial accept the Contest and that fiv dollars be donated to purchase books for the award to the Auxiliary with highest percentage. Each individual member to keep track of all missionary books read and then pass on to the literature secretary.

Mrs. Hooper and Mrs. Knox were appointed to draft resolution to Geneva.

The five vice presidents all reported the various activities in their particular section.

In the absence of four secretaries, no reports were heard from Temperance, Young Women's work, Baby Bands, Missionary Monthly and World Friends.

Considerable discussion took place on various items of our work and the programme committee composed of six members met at the close to arrange for the Presbyterial Annual meeting.

An encouraging note ran through the day's proceedings and it is hoped that every individual member in every local organization will assist the executive in their drive for new members as we are hoping to increase by at least five hundred.

There will not be any branch meeting this year but a full branch executive will convene early in March to close their year's work.

The day closed with a fervent prayer that all would reach home safely and be divinely guided in their various departments. Auxiliaries are asked to remember the "World's" Day of Prayer on February 16th.

Members present were:-

Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Corkill, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Dafoe, Mrs. Switzer, Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Haggerty, Mrs. Palmatier, Mrs. Reddick, Mrs. Hoare, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Empey, Mrs. MacMullen, Mrs. Knox and one visitor Mrs. E. Farnsworth.

Respectfully submitted by Florence M. MacMullen
Presbyterial Press Secretary

NERVES GOOD . . . FEELS HEALTHY NOW . . . SAYS FRUIT-A-TIVE USER IN SWORN STATEMENT!

To benefit others who are always tired and nervous, Mrs. Burrows voluntarily tells of her happy experience with Fruit-a-tives . . . in a sworn statement so that you may be sure of its truth. She states:—

Mrs. Marietta Burrows
London, Ont.

"I do Solemnly Declare that for some years I was absolutely miserable with a 'tired-nervous' feeling . . . cranky and cross with the children. Then a friend suggested Fruit-a-tives. I tried them and now I am never irritable. My nerves are good and I feel strong and healthy all the time."

KING ASSAILS GOVERNMENT

Premier Bennett Promises to Answer All Criticisms

Ottawa, Jan. 30 (CP)—Facts and figures to show Canada is moving towards prosperity and is moving faster than some other countries are promised House of Commons today when Prime Minister R. B. Bennett takes the floor to answer the lengthy attack made on his government last night by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader.

The Liberal leader's attack was made in the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne and ended with the proposing of an amendment declaring the Government had lost the confidence of the House and the people.

Failure Charged

He charged the Government with failure in all its undertakings, failure to meet the unemployment problem, failure to relieve the farmers, failure to develop foreign trade. Then he accused it of autocratic action, of ignoring parliament and ignoring the expressed will of parliament and the people. In this connection he condemned the recent bestowal of titles on Canadians at New Year's and the guaranteeing of a loan of $60,000,000 to the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Titles Scored

Introduction of titles was only one score raised against the Government by the Liberal leader. He labelled the administration's unemployment relief record, trade and agricultural policies as failures. He criticized it for not negotiating a reciprocity treaty with the United States, while Washington was anxious. The world wheat agreement, of which Canada was a signatory was branded a retrograde step because, in effect, it meant acreage reduction in the west.

The Government was accused also of attempting to create an illusory state of prosperity based on manipulation of statistics. This false picture was created, he said, in employment reports issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics which were not correct because they included lists of men on unemployment relief works.

Canada should have a National Unemployment Insurance scheme, suggested Mr. King. Immediate legislation for short-term and intermediate loans for farmers and liberation of trade through lowered tariffs.

Autocracy Charged

All through the Liberal leader's speech was a charge the Government was attempting to legislate without parliament. This he said was exemplified in the restoration of titles after parliament, in 1919, passed the Nickle ban which had been deemed binding on succeeding administrations and had never been rescinded.

Titles, said Mr. King, were abhorrent to Canadian minds. They created exclusive social classes which were not wanted in Canada. But his argument was limited to the manner of restoring them. He charged the Government with going beyond the realms of constitutionality with "back door methods" and defying the wishes of the people and their parliament.

The only possible explanation was that the Prime Minister recommended Canadians for titles before Parliament expressed its views in order to make the question one of confidence in the administration and solicit the votes of Conservatives in the House.

THE LATE JUDGE WILLS

In the late Judge J. F. Wills the County of Hastings and the City of Belleville had a native son who grew up to serve them in the most outstanding manner. Believing that a citizen's duty is to make some contribution to the municipal life and the community, Judge Wills showed the way himself by his devotion to the public cause, by his services on the Board of Education and the City Council, by the services he rendered on innumerable bodies, and by his career at the Bar and his distinguished position as a judge of the county court, as well as by his interest in healthy sport as yachtsman and golfer.

So often the native in this western world leaves the work to the newcomer but His Honor Judge Wills believed that the natives of Hastings and Belleville had a contribution to make to the place of their nativity. In a new age and a new world with developments coming thick and fast it is a healthy sign to find such faith in the people of the city and district.

He was loyal to Belleville and Belleville's past to the last district.

Judge Wills was possessed of an affable manner which made him popular with all classes of citizens.

He will long be remembered in Belleville with which his whole life was so closely associated.

YOUNG THESPIANS

Young Thespians of Belleville will compete in the regional competition on February 8, 9 and 10 at Kingston in the Dominion Drama Festival under the terms of the Bassett-Young Trophy. "The spirit of a nation if it is to find full expression, must include a National Drama," the Earl of Athlone has recently said and to that purpose is animating the various groups throughout Canada which have entered in this year's competition.

Measuring up against the best amateur actors in Canada two Belleville groups last winter gave creditable productions in the regional festival and this year one company will take part, directed by Miss N. F. Merry. The vehicle chosen for their appearance is "They Refuse to be Resurrected," by M. K. Smith, an interesting Pierrot and Pierrette play.

Belleville and the surrounding district must encourage in every way that is possible the Young Thespians in their efforts to create a living drama spirit in our midst. As His Excellency has pointed out no nation can be great without dramatic expression. Great nations of history have not failed to have their eras of dramatic development, which have not only expressed national and international ideals but have also glimpsed the future.

Groups such as the Young Thespians are doing a work for this district and the Dominion of Canada in undertaking a play to compete in the forthcoming trials.

Every actor as well as every technician is learning something which will be of the greatest value in later life.

Those who have witnessed the recent local presentation by the Thespians know what a development has been shown by these young people.

The forthcoming presentation of the Young Thespians will be waited with great interest by citizens who have taken a marked interest in the young actors' group.

WEATHER PROPHETS CONFOUNDED

It is definitely established to the satisfaction of many persons that those who believed that winters had changed to mild-er winters for good are proven weather prophets of no account.

To make very clear to the people that the weather prophets are not worth listening to, nature started in a winter of abnormal storm in late February and has held the reins since not for a moment letting the poor guessers have a chance.

The trouble is that the amateur weather prophet has happened to guess aright for a mild winter. Now there are such men who have for this winter made a mess of their guesses just as there are those who might be able to offer suggestions on the weather and yet do not do so. As usual the poor prophet attempted too much, something which Mother Nature herself did not know.

By the time the genial spring comes back this winter ought to have cleared out the defeated prophets who have been fooling the people without the slightest remorse by patting themselves on the back and saying like the little boy in the nursery rhyme:

Little Jack Horner sat in a corner
Eating his Christmas pie
He put in his thumb
And pulled out a plum
And said 'What a good boy am I!'

They were good boys when the storms just suited them and like most men who predict soft early winters because it is natural to want them soft and mild.

SIDELIGHTS

GRAVE and GAY

(reported by The Lamplighter)

THE PRAIRIE

Here one may gaze, and sleep, a thousand miles;
And sleeping dream; and dreaming gaze again;
And find no change where heaven happily smiles
On quiet homesteads and their growing grain.
No startled life invades the level scene;
No clanging turmoil mars by night or day.
Still solitude lies draped in browning green
Where one lone coyote turns and slinks away.
How tell this vast interminable sod:
Unwieldy bed of sons forgotten ere
This silence in the symphony of God;
This sacrament of life's eternity . . .
This unbound hope, this sombre soul's unrest;
This hungering, alluring loneliness.

"WORK OF ART" is Sinclair Lewis' latest novel, that being the name of the book not a description, although it is more or less a work of art, like all other Sinclair Lewis stories, in giving an insight into some one phase of life hitherto more or less hidden from the general gaze. "Work of Art" goes into the development of the modern hotel from the cross-roads tavern to the skyscraper, "home away from home" and the "Grand Hotel" of the cities. The story deals with every phase of the hotel business from the kitchen to the ball-room, and from the lighting and heating plant to the roof garden. Whether the author got his inspiration from "Grand Hotel" or not he has produced a work which is both interesting and informative.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS of the day to Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States on this his birthday. Celebration of the event will be held all over the United States and funds raised thereby for the support of the sanitarium for infantile paralysis and other ailments at Warm Springs, the President's favorite philanthropy, and the place where he regained his health after being crippled for years with infantile paralysis. There will be much music, song and laughter in many cities of the United States tonight in honor of the President's birthday, and incidentally a whole lot of money will be raised for the crippled children of the land to the end that they may be able to throw away crutches and become sturdy citizens of a world full of love, light and laughter to those whose vision is not obscured by pain and deformity.

A tramp entering the gates of a suburban villa knelt down on the lawn and began to eat the grass. The old lady who lived in the villa, noticing the pathetic performance, came out on to the doorstep and said: "My good man, are you hungry that you are obliged to eat grass?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied the tramp.

"Oh, dear," said the lady. "Come round to the kitchen door, the grass is longer there."

SOME TYPES UNDEVELOPED BRAIN POWER

Morons Can Earn Living Under Favorable Conditions Only

The term "feeble-mindedness" is often employed and considerable confusion exists as to what it really means. It means, literally, it implies a mind that is enfeebled, not by the cause of old age (senility) but because of actual organic brain defects existing from birth or from an early age.

A more accurate term is "amentia," signifying without a mind, although one should emphasize at the outset that amentia can possess as high a degree of basic development that only expert methods of mental testing can discover, and are capable of discovering that mind defects really exist.

These highest types of amentia are known as "morons." They are the "almost-normal." Their mental age, according to the famous Binet-Simon measuring rod of some forgotten science, is from eight to twelve years, irrespective of their development in chronological age may be.

Morons are capable of earning their own livings, under favorable circumstances, and can successfully compete on equal terms with their normal fellows. They can and often do age themselves or their affairs with ordinary prudence. It often takes specialists to find out their comparatively slight degree of mental defect. Yet, once their defect is pointed out, it appears quite obvious.

Morons are deceptive in other ways. Often their inferiority exhibits far outshines their other capabilities. They may be quite bad at arithmetic. They may cower and hide their other defects through such verbalisms as "I am no good at figures," but all the varieties of amentia to decline.

Imbecility is the next lowest grade of amentia to that of morons. that is idiocy. These types are easily recognizable, although in very rare mental tests should be very careful to make no suspicion.

It is a prevalent but erroneous idea that amentia can be cured. Improved, yes, but cured, no. Even one of so high a grade of morondy as to be capable of earning his own livelihood normally, was ever cured.

The reason for this misconception is that there are many children who are merely retarded in their mental development — they learn slowly and develop at a slower pace than the average—and if last been noted that often, some of these late, these children "pick up" and turn out to be splendid adults.

A vast difference, however, exists between amentia and mental retardation. In mental retardation organic and functional defects exist which hold back mind development. Among such defects are adenoids, enlarged tonsils, malnutrition chronic illness, undernourishment and defective vision, disturbances of the endocrine glands, St. Vitus dance, deafness, a nervous make-up, etc. Remove the cause—the organic condition—and what is holding back the mind's progress—and the child's mentality is accelerated with miraculous speed.

Not so with amentia, however. In this state there is something radically wrong with the brain itself. The structure is not normal. The brain cells of amentia are deficient in number and distorted in shape. Even operative interference on the brain itself is useless.

Dr. Rieh's Daily Diet. What Persons who are apt to develop (Urticaria) "Hives" should eat and avoid. Non-irritating foods such as milk and should avoid spices, condiments, highly-seasoned as well as made-over dishes. An attack of hives is usually unmistakable, proceeding from eating fish or shell fish, especially if these are not absolutely fresh. But now any kind of food may produce the condition. Therefore those who suffer repeated attacks should have themselves tested for various food reactions.

Super-clean HARD COAL

Why Burn Makeshifts when READING HARD COAL costs no more

Famous Reading Anthracite goes into your bin washed clean by a special process. It stays clean, because its super hardness prevents crumbling during handling. From the first scoopful to the last it gives 100% heating results with a minimum of furnace tending.

Easy to control, it slumbers quietly under checked drafts, but springs into instant action the minute you open up.

Clean, hard Famous Reading Anthracite means clean fires, a clean home and safety from flarebacks and spontaneous combustion. Because it burns longer Famous Reading Anthracite costs no more than makeshifts, so why experiment?

BREAK DUE IN COLD WAVE

Chicago Hardest Hit of Big Cities in The U. S.

(By the Canadian Press)

A break in the frigid weather that enveloped much of the United States apparently was in sight today.

Temperatures were already moderating in the northwest. More moderate readings were predicted for parts of the Central States for today, and for the east tomorrow.

In Chicago, apparently the hardest hit of the big cities, seven deaths had been attributed to the cold snap, and some 11,484 homeless men seeking relief from 7 below zero weather had been driven into shelters operated by the Illinois Relief Commission.

Elsewhere there were a few additions to the list of persons whose deaths were blamed on the cold.

Three died in Pennsylvania; one in Indiana; 2 in Michigan, and one in Minnesota, where the mercury has sunk to as low as 19 below zero. [illegible] warnings remained on the Atlantic seaboard from Atlantic City, N.J., to Eastport, Maine.

CHEESE FACTORY PATRONS HELPED

Col. Kennedy Announces Government Aid to This Branch of Industry

Cheese-marketing methods in Ontario will be revolutionized under the plan announced Monday by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture.

Complete modernization of both production and marketing is the aim of the newly formed Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association, which according to Colonel Kennedy's statement "promises to restore our exports and largely increase domestic consumption and production."

Months of organization have preceded formation of the Patrons' Association, said Colonel Kennedy. Financial assistance will be given by the Government in the early stages, and all local officials of the Agriculture Department will be instructed to co-operate in organizing district branches. Financing will be effected through an assessment of 5 cents per 1,000 pounds of milk delivered at the cheese factory. Payment of this amount, Colonel Kennedy believes, will be paid gladly by the farmer, in view of the advantages obtainable from the system. Headquarters of the Patrons' Association will be in Belleville under the management of J. L. Joss, Secretary-Treasurer. The dairying section of the Province will be divided into five districts, each supervised by an executive member of the association.

THREE HOTELS BURNED AS MOB RUNS WILD

Follows Death of Man in a Hotel Bar

Kalgoorlie, West Australia, Jan. 30—(AP)—Three hotels, 13 houses and two boarding-houses were burned by a mob today following the death of a man in a hotel bar and the arrest of the foreign bartender on a charge of manslaughter.

The mob attacked foreign-owned hotels and shops, looting, firing and killing.

The men then commandeered tram cars and motor cars and went to Boulder City where the attacks were renewed.

Police there were overwhelmed and firemen tried to quell the throng but the hose were cut.

GRANT IS GIVEN

The County Council of Prince Edward in session on Thursday, on motion of T. G. Bowerman, passed a grant of $750 for the Prince Edward County Hospital. BRONCHITIS BANISHED AFTER 30 YEARS TORTURE

The amazing case of Mr. Thomas Gull, Hamilton, Ont., is the talk of everyone who knows him.

His complete relief almost overnight from Bronchitis of thirty years standing is regarded as nothing short of a miracle by friends and neighbours. Read what Mr. Gull says:

"From the time I was a small boy until the age of thirty-two, I was never free from a hacking cough night and day. Doctors told me I was suffering from chronic bronchitis—that there was no permanent relief. One day I saw an advertisement for BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE. The word bronchitis arrested my attention. I purchased a bottle. It gave me relief. I bought two more, and my cough left me completely. That happened six years ago, and the cough has never returned."

BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE will give you the same instant relief from the strangling torture of Bronchitis, and it acts like a flash on coughs, colds, or 'flu. Why not get a bottle today? Buckley's is sold everywhere. Refuse substitutes.

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE CONSTANT WOMAN"

"Strange Interlude" and "Anna Christie" created history on the American screen, and acquainted the nation's movie-goers with the genius of their foremost playwright Eugene O'Neill. Hence the announcement that another of the O'Neill dramas serves as the base for a talking picture is greeted with the enthusiasm that an event of such importance in film annals deserves.

"The Constant Woman", based on a play by O'Neill, is the feature attraction now at the Capitol Theatre. It is a photoplay of power, beauty and genuine dramatic intensity. Enacted by a stellar cast, among whom are Conrad Nagel, Leila Hyams, Tommy Conlon and Claire Windsor, "The Constant Woman" is a picture not to be missed.

Told against a colorful background of tent-show and circus life the picture is skilfully directed by Victor Schertzinger with a lavish hand.

AT THE BELLE

"BROADWAY THRU' A KEYHOLE"

Walter Winchell, the only man to out-peep Samuel Pepys, is giving the public a squint at "Broadway Thru' a Keyhole" in his story of that title, produced by 20th Century Pictures, and showing today and Wednesday at the Belle.

It has been said that today's gossip in Winchell's column is tomorrow's front page scandal. In "Broadway Thru' a Keyhole" he [illegible]

Here is a feature that will hold your interest from the start until the finish—an excellent story by a well known and reputable playwright—the cast ideally suited to their individual characterizations. In addition there is a highly amusing comedy; a cartoon; Belle News depicting the well known headlining artists; Capitol [illegible] of the moment. Tonight is "Gift Nite" of dinnerware for the ladies.

[illegible] the romance of a night club dancer who is loved by a racketeer and by a famous radio singer. These three roles are played respectively by Constance Cummings, Paul Kelly and Russ Columbo.

Also appearing in the picture, playing the roles of themselves are Texas Guinan, famous night club hostess and coiner of the phrase "Give this little girl a big hand", Abe Lyman and his Band, Eddie Foy, Jr., and Frances Williams, Blossom Seely, Gregory Ratoff, Hugh O'Connell, Hobart Cavanaugh, C. Henry Gordon and Helen Jerome Eddy also play important roles.

"JIMMY AND SALLY"

America's boy friend finds a new sweetheart! James Dunn whose many successes have made him one of Miss America's 'boy friends' and Claire Trevor who is rapidly gaining an equally important position in the hearts of the fans, are teamed in the new rippling romance set to music "Jimmy and Sally", that is the second feature attraction on the same program.

Two of the country's foremost song-writers, Jay Gorney and Sidney Clare are responsible for the song numbers, "It's the Irish In Me" and "You're My Thrill" which are featured in this comedy with music.

The popular current Belle News and a clever Novelette will be exhibited on the same program. The program will be presented daily at 2.30, 7.10 and the last complete show will commence at 8.30 p.m.

CHURCH MEETINGS

Trenton, Jan. 30 (Special) — St. George's Church, Trenton, held its annual vestry meeting in Canterbury Hall, on Thursday evening.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the rector, Rev. F. A. Smith, after which the minutes of the last vestry meeting were read by the vestry clerk, Mr. J. H. Tinney.

The rector in a short address expressed his satisfaction for the manner in which all church organizations conducted their affairs during the past year and expressed his heartfelt thanks for the loyalty, support and friendship shown to him, and his family by the officers and congregation of the church. He also expressed his thanks to the executive, council and the church wardens, and his deep satisfaction at the financial condition of the church.

After the reports tendered by the various organizations had been presented and adopted, the election of officers took place, resulting as follows:

The rector, Rev. F. A. Smith, reappointed Mr. J. H. Kinney as rector's warden, Mr. Gordon Flynn was elected People's Warden, Mr. W. G. Ketcheson was elected lay delegate to the Synod, with Messrs. E. James and W. H. Heaney continuing.

Vestry Clerk, Mr. J. H. Tinney.

Auditors, Messrs. J. H. Tinney and R. M. Armstrong.

The Executive council, Messrs. C. W. Lott, Dr. T. S. Farncomb, J. Hill, R. M. Armstrong, J. North, E. Weir, A. Wood, L. Long, F. Bolton, W. H. Waldorf, W. Gains, J. H. Tinney.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the rector and his wife by Dr. Farncomb for his fine work during the past year. Votes of thanks were also tendered to the heads of the various organizations, Rev. Canon Smith and his wife, the Executive Council and other officers of the church.

King St. United Church Balance Budget

King Street United Church Parlours were filled with members of the congregation Wednesday night on the occasion of the Annual Congregational meeting. Rev. A. K. Edmison, pastor, officiated as chairman and spoke briefly of the events of the year since he first came to Trenton to take over the pastorate formerly held by Rev. A. E. Jones. During the evening Mr. W. J. Potts, treasurer, presented his report of the financial condition of the church showing it to have a balanced budget. The report is as follows:

General Fund	$4,541.00
Missionary & Maintenance	1,333.09
Women's Association	735.05
Mission Band	50.00
Young Women's Auxiliary	183.22
Women's Missionary Society	323.23
C.G.I.T.	[illegible]
Men's Club	[illegible]
Sunday School	[illegible]
Choir	[illegible]
	[illegible]
Current for all purposes	[illegible]
Missions from all sources	[illegible]
	[illegible]

Satisfaction was expressed in respect to all matters with the exception of the Missionary and Maintenance Department. It was felt that the amount should be increased another $300.00.

The secretary, Mr. W. H. Finkle, tendered his report and in his remarks paid tribute to the work of Rev. Mr. Edmison and his gracious lady, Mrs. Edmison, since they came to Trenton. He expressed his pleasure at seeing so many present that evening and declared that it was one of the most enthusiastic congregational meetings held in some years. Election of officers of the Official Church Board was held as follows:

Stewards

Messrs. J. F. Cox, J. R. Little, E. R. Smithrim, R. F. Jaque, elected for four years.

Messrs. O. M. Newton, C. A. [illegible]worthy, Dr. G. F. Wright and Arthur Blakely elected for three years.

Messrs. W. Potts, H. J. McNabb, George Spreadall and J. E. McK[illegible] elected for two years.

Messrs. Victor Little, George H. Cobley, Dr. J. W. Farley and Arthur Cuff elected for one year.

Members of Session

Messrs. J. C. Gillian, H. S. Langdon, George L. Johnson and Harry Crewes elected for four years.

Messrs. J. Berry, D. [illegible], A. C. Twiddy and John Scott elected for three years.

Messrs. D. R. Purdy, W. H. Finkle, E. L. Fraser and [illegible] Crenshaw elected for two years.

Messrs. J. E. [illegible], F. W. Fairman, Wilfred [illegible] and W. Gainforth elected for one year.

At a meeting to be held on Wednesday night next week the Official Board will form their committees and elect a Recording Steward and Treasurer. At the conclusion of the meeting a dainty repast was served by the ladies of the church.

The following resolution was passed unanimously:

Whereas we have noted with satisfaction the inspiring sermons and efficient service of our pastor and the resultant awakened interest in our cause as evidenced by increased financial position; therefore, it be resolved that we place on the church records of this meeting an expression of our sincere and hearty appreciation, loyalty and co-operation as together we endeavour to enthrone the spirit of Christ in the hearts of men and women both at home and abroad.

HOUSE READY FOR OPENING

Due to Redistribution Many Members Sitting For Last Time

Toronto, Jan. 30 (CP)—The final session of the 18th Legislative Assembly of Ontario neared today. Hon. Herbert A. Bruce, Lieutenant Governor of the Province, will formally open the Provincial Parliament tomorrow with all the colorful ceremony of bygone years. Brilliant gowns will enliven the historic Chamber. In contrast will be the subdued business dress of the Legislators and the resplendent uniforms of His Excellency's Aide-De-Camps. The Speech from the Throne will be read by Dr. Bruce. Then the decks will be cleared for what is expected to be a bitter fight for Government and Opposition before the impending election. It will be the last session for many of the Legislators. Under the Redistribution Act of 1933, the 112 seats will be reduced to 90. Regardless of election results, therefore, many familiar faces will be missing when the 19th legislature opens in 1935.

Just what the Speech from the Throne will contain aroused considerable speculation today among members who were already at their desks. The Government has made no definite statement with regard to sale of beer and wine by-the-glass, although Premier George S. Henry and his Ministers intimated there would be a "loosening up" in the Liquor Control Act.

PLEADS GUILTY TO BIRTH CONCEALMENT

Niagara Falls Ont., Jan. 29.—(CP)—Wasyina Pushkedro, 23, of Stamford Township, pleaded guilty in police court today to a charge of concealing the birth of her child, which was found wrapped in a bag in a tree in Stamford Township in Jan. 14. She was remanded for a week. The girl said that the child was born on the morning of January 10. She was alone in the house. When she regained consciousness the child was dead. Early in the evening she wrapped the body of the baby in a bag and put it in the tree a short distance from her home.

DOG BRAVES STORM TO SAVE HURT COW

Pete Barks and Barks as Cow on Way From Pond Breaks Leg

London, Ont., Jan. 29 (CP) — Last night while the storm raged, Pete, collie dog belonging to Henry Durkin, near Byron, did his duty as he saw it and tried to "fetch" a cow with a broken leg to the barn.

Pete was "fetching up the cows" from the drinking pond late yesterday afternoon when one of them slipped into a hole and broke a leg.

Broken legs did not come under Pete's department so he just trotted around and barked and barked. Long after dark he was found amid the swirling snow, cold, weary and hoarse, but still trying to "fetch up the cows".

The cow almost dead from exposure, had to be killed.

Backache is Sign of Kidney Trouble

Backache is Nature's warning that there is something wrong with your Kidneys. Never neglect it. Backache, if not corrected, is often followed by more serious forms of Kidney trouble such as Rheumatism, Dropsy or even Bright's Disease. At the first sign of Kidney trouble, such as Backache, turn unhesitatingly to Dodd's Kidney Pills—which for over three generations has been the favorite Kidney tonic and Remedy. 35

F. A. Bapty Again President Marmora Liberal Association

Dr. J. A. Faulkner Addresses Gathering of District Liberals

Marmora, Jan. 30 (Special) — Marked enthusiasm prevailed at the annual meeting of Marmora and District Liberal Association, held at the White Hall on Friday. F. A. Bapty presided in a very able manner.

Officers of the Association were re-elected for the ensuing year as follows:

President, F. A. Bapty; First Vice-president, Hugh Maloney; second Vice-president, H. W. Sabine; secretary-treasurer, D. E. Bell.

Following introductory remarks by the chairman, Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Liberal candidate for West Hastings addressed the meeting. At the outset he explained himself in favor of the monthly meetings, where timely topics could be discussed and educative results ensue. In a cleverly worded eulogy of Mitchell Hepburn, he likened the young Liberal leader to William Pitt the Younger, whose reform in the Motherland had brought peace and prosperity there. The speaker said he could not see where any just criticism of Mr. Hepburn could come from the people of the province. Howard Ferguson went into power over the promise of whiskey legislation, and again the Tories were seeking election on a liquor issue.

Organization Revised

Dr. Faulkner also touched on the new organization plans which had been adopted by the Liberals in the riding of West Hastings. "The Liberal riding of West Hastings will be proud of its organization," he predicted. He then told of of incidents relating to the house meeting organization at several polls. At these meetings many Conservatives attended upon invitation of their neighbors and had become interested in the discussions, some to the extent of desiring a change of government. He personally advocated the policy of cleanness in politics. His final remarks were directed against the present administration.

Harold Holton, Liberal organizer was the next speaker. He described the active life Dr. Faulkner had been living since accepting the candidature and further outlined the new mode of organization—the holding of house meetings in the rural polls. He adso drew attention to the fitting up of the new Liberal club rooms at Belleville which are to be opened on February 12th, for which all labor had been generously donated and the only cost being that of materials. The concluding speaker was Wm. Weese, who claimed to have been a Conservative for 48 years, attacked the Hydro system, giving the figures of what the cost of Hydro had been to him over a period of years, in refutation of the claim made by the Hon. J. R. Cooke that Hydro was now costing the patron less.

Reeves F. N. Mafett and L. E. Neal, ex-Warden G. B. Airhart and ex-Reeve R. E. Bonter of Marmora and Township, and Reeve S. B. Wright and Mr. R. A. Elliott of Deloro, attended the funeral of the late William Nugent at Belleville on Thursday afternoon.

A successfu euchre party was held at the White Hall on Thursday evening under the auspices of St. Paul's Men's Club. Eleven tables were in use. The following were winners: Gents', William Neal; Lady's, Mrs. E. Brady; player with most lone hands, Mrs. E. Brady. Following the contest dancing was enjoyed with Bruce McInroy and Jack French furnishing music. Refreshments were served at midnight.

Mr. Ernest Auger of Campbellford, visited at his home here over the week end.

A number from town attended the Campbellford vs. Trenton hockey match at Campbellford on Friday evening, as well as the Belleville-Cobourg game played at Belleville the same evening.

Marmora High School team played Tweed High School team on the former's ice on Friday night. Due to the snow and poor ice conditions the game was not so good as was expected. The result was a 1-1 tie. After the game, Mr. R. R. Cranston, principal of M.H.S. assisted by Misses E. Scully, E. Inkster and P. Wilson gave the boys a banquet in the Royal Hotel which was much enjpoyed by all.

Miss Gertrude Lumsden visited in Toronto over the week-end.

Gordon McWilliams, Wm. Shannon and a couple of others who were with them in a car had a bad scare on Monday night. They were returning from Cobourg, where McWilliam had been playing hockey and while driving along beside the Trent Canal, on the Frankford road, the car slid around on the ice and stopped with the back wheels just on the edge of the canal. It was at about the same point as the fatal accident occurred last year.

Mr. D. Stephens, who has been managing the Shoe Repair Shop, owned by the late Norman Mitchell, for the past number of months, has now purchased the entire stock and will continue to run the business under his own supervision.

Council Pays Tribute to Memory of Late Judge Wills

The following resolution was passed at the session of the city council held Monday evening in memory of the late Judge J. F. Wills.

"Whereas in the passing of His Honour, John Franklin Wills, Junior Judge of the County Court of the County of Hastings and Surrogate Court Judge, a shadow of gloom and mourning has been cast upon the citizens of the City of Belleville.

"Therefore the members of the City Council in session assembled this 29th day of January 1934 sadly and mournfully record the death of a native son of Belleville; a man of strong character and sterling qualities; a man beloved and respected by all classes and creeds for his admirable qualities of mind and heart; a man who had given generously of his time and talents in the service of the public.

"At an early age he served as Alderman and later as Mayor and in 1916 as a fitting recognition of his integrity and ability in his profession and his valued services he was appointed to the Bench of his native county on the retirement of the late Judge Fraleck. With his appointment to the Bench his services on Boards and Commissions for charitable, patriotic welfare and public purposes were even more eagerly sought and quite as freely rendered.

"No man could have given more freely than he in the re-organization of the Belleville General Hospital Board and it was he who was responsible for the organization and formation of the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital upon which he served most faithfully until impaired health forced his retirement.

As a citizen he was beloved by all for his sympathy, kindness and uprightness; as a public servant he was respected for his steadfastness to his convictions, his impartiality and his qualities of loyalty and patriotism and as a Judge for his humanity, his approachability, his leniency, his Judicial temperament, his devotion to duty and his unequivocal treatment of the subject matter of his decision.

"By unanimous resolution the sympathy of the Members of the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, representative of all citizens, is respectfully tendered to the bereaved widow, Mrs. Wills, the deceased's daughter, Mrs. McNairn and to the deceased's son, Alderman Thomas Y. Wills, our esteemed colleague in their irreparable loss; and that a copy of this resolution be spread upon our Minutes and copies sent to each of said deceased relatives."

Cities of Province Send Greetings to Belleville on Its Hundredth Anniversary

Hamilton, Jan. 30th, 1934

His Worship, Mayor Tice,
Belleville, Ontario,

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I note with pleasure that March 6th, 1934, will mark the one hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of Belleville by the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada as a police village.

It is pleasant to note that your development and growth has been substantial. On the few occasions that I have had the privilege of visiting your city in past years, I have been impressed with the beauty of not only your business section, but also the residential areas.

I sincerely trust, now that the depression is over, that your city will continue to grow and develop and maintain always one of Canada's bright spots.

Yours very truly,
H. E. WILTON,
Mayor

Niagara Falls, Jan. 23, 1934

His Worship,
Mayor George O. Tice,
Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Sir:

His Worship the Mayor and members of the Council of the City of Niagara Falls wish to extend the heartiest congratulations to the City of Belleville on its Centennial year.

May we also offer our congratulations to you on having the honor to be Mayor of this splendid city in its Centennial year.

Yours truly,
H. E. GODDARD.
City Manager

Woodstock, Jan. 23, 1934

Mayor George O. Tice,
Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

At the regular meeting of the City Council held last evening the following resolution was passed:

"Moved by Alderman J. A. Saunders, seconded by Alderman M. Nesbitt, and resolved that the Council of the City of Woodstock send their hearty congratulations to the Mayor, Aldermen and citizens of the City of Belleville on its Centennial which takes place on March 6th, 1934. Also that the city may grow and prosper as it has done in the past one hundred years which, it is said, are the hardest, and also that you may have many happy returns of the day."

Yours very truly,
A. B. LEE.
City Clerk.

Mix shortcake dough by exactly the same rules I gave you at the beginning of this lesson for biscuit dough made with ordinary flour.

Cook dough in half for large shortcake. Roll out to ¼ inch thickness, and put into shape on pie plate.

Spread first piece of dough with softened butter, place second piece on it.

For individual cakes, roll out dough, shape with large biscuit cutter, and put together in pairs with butter between.

Bake the rich shortcake mixture with a little less heat than plain biscuits—425° F. This is still a hot oven.

Biscuit Flour Method.

For the richer dough that most people expect in shortcakes, just chop finely 3 or 4 tablespoonfuls of hard cold shortening (butter or any unflavored pure white fat) into prepared biscuit flour before adding liquid.

Shape the dough in one large cake—two cakes with soft butter between, so as to split easily—or in individual large biscuits.

Like all other prepared biscuit flour mixtures, shortcake made with this ingredient requires more heat than the corresponding mixture with ordinary flour; use a temperature of 450° to 475° F.—just a little lower heat than we give to biscuits made with prepared biscuit flour, because of the added richness.

Don't keep shortcakes for strawberry time—have them every month in the year! Besides fresh strawberries, raspberries, peaches and so forth, we can use many of the canned fruits for shortcake. Canned peaches and apricots, flavourful canned pears too, make excellent shortcake. The cooked fillings made with dates and other dry fruits (see Lesson 10) will also make a delicious shortcake. So also will stewed dried fruits such as peaches and apricots.

Make shortcakes for your meat or fish course, too. Put diced cold cooked meat or fowl or flaked cooked or canned fish, into a good cream sauce of medium thickness, such as you learned in Lesson 1, (using 1 cup solid to 1 cup sauce), and serve between the layers and over the top of very hot shortcake-biscuit.

Cream (either the rich pouring kind or whipped cream) can be served with the dessert shortcake; or you can use evaporated milk, plain or whipped. Sometimes you may like a little almond flavouring extract in whipped cream to vary the usual vanilla flavour. Or you may like to add your cream or milk. You can also serve with your sweet shortcakes a hot pudding sauce flavored with lemon, orange, vanilla, etc.

Dumplings.

There are two kinds of dumplings—those we steam and those we bake.

Both steamed and baked dumplings may be made with ordinary drop-biscuit dough, following either the standard method or the prepared flour method.

Dumplings to serve with a meat stew, stewed chicken, etc., can be cooked in the steamer over rapidly boiling water (the steamer must have a tight fitting cover); or the dumplings can be placed right in the stew pot so that they will rest on the meat and vegetables and cook in the steam of the stew; in this way, they absorb the delicious flavor from the cooking itself. The cover must fit closely on the stew pot.

Give dumplings-15 minutes to cook without raising the cover from steamer or stew pot; raising it would be like holding your own door open when a cake is rising—it would chill the mixture, so that it would fail and be heavy. Trust your dumplings when you give them plenty of steam: they will be all right.

Standard Dumplings.

Make exactly the same dough that you make for the drop type of Foundation Biscuits, using the standard flour method, but use only 1 tablespoonful for each cup instead of the 2 tablespoonfuls called for in the biscuits.

Mix the dough quickly and drop in pieces about the size of a small biscuit over your stew or into your steamer. Cover closely and cook 15 to 20 minutes.

Biscuit Flour Dumplings.

2 cups prepared biscuit flour	¾ cup milk, or ¾ cup water

Stir all the liquid at once quickly and lightly into prepared flour, and drop small dumplings over surface of stew or into steamer. Cover closely and cook without disturbing 15 or 20 minutes.

Dessert Dumplings.

Apple dumplings and other fruits cooked the same way, make excellent desserts.

Make shortcake dough either by the standard flour method or by the biscuit flour method.

Roll either dough out in a sheet ¼ inch thick.

Cut in squares big enough to enclose a pared or cored apple; for smaller dumplings, use part of an apple or a canned half peach or pear, canned apricots, pitted and augared dates with a few drops of lemon squeezed over them, or other fruit. Sprinkle raw fruit with a little sugar and dust lightly with spice you like best—cinnamon, nutmeg, or mixed pudding spices.

Dampen the edge of the piece of dough and fold it over to enclose the fruit completely.

Dumplings Steamed or Baked

Place the dumplings in the steamer and cook over rapidly boiling water long enough to cook the dough and make the fruit tender. Serve with a hot pudding sauce, flavoured with lemon—or a butterscotch or syrup sauce, or a custard sauce.

Then same dumplings may be baked plain, or with a sugar-and-water syrup (¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup boiling water, some grated lemon rind), poured over them and used to bake them often while baking.

There are just a few of the things you can do with biscuit dough. You will find more suggestions when you reach Lesson 12 on Desserts, and you will think up many more after studying this lesson and "getting your hand in" on dough. I hope you will never feel that the serving of hot biscuits (or any of their infinite and interesting variations) need be a burden. Not only have we learned in the form of excellent methods and materials, but we also have the convenience of being able to prepare our biscuit dough some hours ahead and storing it, covered, in the well-chilled ice-box until baking time. Left-over biscuits may be served as fresh-baked by putting them in a paper bag, closing it carefully and placing in a hot over, 450° F., until warmed through. (This, too, may be done with the bread rolls.) Tea biscuits are also delicious split and toasted.

Just how far those biscuit-doughs will go in helping you to concoct interesting, even distinguished, little dishes, will be delightfully shown in Planning the Party.

PROVINCIAL GOVT. BONDS
The recent Province of Ontario 4¼% bond issue was taken up by investors in a few hours. The Province of Quebec, whose credit is equally good, will probably be in the market any day now with a new issue. Orders placed by telephone to us will be promptly, in advance being filled. We also recommend the bonds of the Western Provinces which can still be purchased to yield over 6% interest.

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 30 (AP)— Stocks slipped into high gear today and the upward trading rush in the early hours attained a momentum equal to some of the fast sessions of the 1933 Spring-Summer revival.

Led by the rails and industrials, most share groups were pushed ahead 1 to 2 or more points before profit taking cut down some of the extreme gains. The advance was variously attributed to final Congressional action on the President's gold bill. Trading in the first two hours exceeded 2,000,000 shares. Bonds were wildly improved.

Shares of Santa Fe, N.Y. Central, Union Pacific, and a number of other carriers were up 1 to around 2 points. American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Public Service of New Jersey also recorded gains of 1 to more than 2.

Canadian stocks did not respond so well to the advance in the main body of shares on the big board. Dome and McIntyre yielded fractionally along with the easier tendencies displayed by metals in general.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 30—Mining shares of companies holding copper and nickel properties were the leaders on the Standard Exchange today, these issues registered moderate gains while the general market tone was firm.

Nickel sold up to 23.70 and was holding at 23.60 for a net gain of 35 cents at noon. Noranda was off 10 cents to 34.25 while Hudson Bay gained 20 to 9.60.

The big gold producers were quiet with exception of Teck and Hargreaves which turned over in fair volume and unchanged prices. Hollinger gained 5 to 12.25, Lake Shore 10 to 42.85 and Pioneer 10 to 11.60. Dome was unchanged at $34.

Despite the bullish note in the industrial market operations, mining shares continued their sluggish tone with only the base metal shares showing any tendency towards better prices. Nickel climbed to $23.70, supported by a firm New York market but dropped part of the advance this afternoon. Noranda, Hudson Bay, Sherritt Gordon and Sudbury Basin were narrowly higher.

Senior gold shares had as many recessions as gains and trading was quiet but some of the secondary gold issues were active with few price variations.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 30—The Toronto Stock Exchange market plodded along towards higher ground today, led by Ford A., the Brewing Corporation issues, Massey Harris, Canada Cement, Nickel, and the oil stocks, these shares all trading in heavy volume.

Considerable profit taking came along in Ford A but it was readily absorbed and the price stood ⅛ higher at 23 at noon. Other interlisted issues were higher including Nickel, up 35 cents to 23.60. Brazilian up ⅛ to 13¼ and C.P.R. up ⅜ to 16⅜.

Heavy buying developed in the Brewing Corporation issues with the preferred up ⅝ to 24¼ and the common ⅛ at 10. Other brewery shares were just holding at noon. Distillery shares sagged lightly after a strong opening. Walker's common going back to 52⅜ where it was unchanged, Industrial Alcohol dropping ½ to 18½ and Distillers Seagrams dropping ⅛ to 23⅜.

Sentiment was on the side of the advance from the opening and encouragement was drawn from the cheerful tone of the New York market, passage of the U.S. Gold Bill and a lower U.S. dollar.

With few exceptions the market leaders were higher by good fractions this afternoon. Ford A. was called upon to absorb much profit taking. The stock's healthy rise in recent weeks having invited liquidation but the price held well and was off only ½ this afternoon. Other interlisted leaders were on the up side though part of the morning rise had been lost by early afternoon.

COURSE FOR BUSINESSMEN

Professional Men Also Interested in C. of C. Course

Claimed by local business and professional men to be excellently adapted for, and to fill a great need among all classes of workers, a series of business training lectures, arranged after considerable negotiation by the local Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, M.A., Ph.D., Director of the Department of Commerce and Administration of Queen's University, are now assured.

The lectures, intended primarily for members of the local Chamber, and to whom invitations are now being issued, may also be attended by non-members for a minimum fee. They will be given in the Y.M.C.A. rooms and will start promptly at 8 o'clock one evening of each week for the next five weeks.

The first lecture, entitled "Modern Merchandising" will be delivered by Dr. W. A. Mackintosh on Tuesday evening, February 6. Then will follow on Tuesday, Feb. 13, "Commonsense in Business Law", by Prof. C. E. Walker, Queen's University. On Tuesday, Feb. 20 "Investing For Security" by Prof. J. L. McDougal, Queen's University; on Tuesday Feb. 27, "Accounting Results as an aid to Management", by Prof. R. G. Smails, Queen's University, and on Tuesday, March 6, "The Roosevelt Recovery Program" by Prof. F. A. Knox, Queen's University.

The fee for the entire course of five lectures has been placed at only one dollar for non members of the Chamber of Commerce. For members the course is entirely complimentary. This is believed to be the first time anything of its kind has been attempted in Ontario, and considerable interest has been evidenced by both employer and employee, and large numbers of reservations have been made.

Further reservations may be made by telephoning the Chamber of Commerce at 621.

POLICE COURT

No session of local police court was held today before Magistrate Mikel. Activities proved rather quiet in and about local police circles, no arrests being made during the past 24 hours.

Owing to the sub-zero weather that has been in vogue during the past two days a falling off in transients applying at the police station for a night's lodging has been observed. Only six applied for a warm bed last night. Apparently the cold snap has kept the weary travellers from the highways and by-ways.

A minor accident was reported to the police yesterday afternoon when a transport, in reverse gear, backed into a hydro pole opposite the Belleville General Hospital, breaking it off about four feet from the ground. The driver assured Plainclothes Officer Isard, who investigated, that the sun had bothered him as he was about to back up. He did not see the pole owing to the strong rays of the sun, he stated. The local hydro repairmen replaced the pole.

CATTLE IN FINE SHAPE

District Has Cattle That Are Practically Immune From Tuberculosis

Constant checking and testing of cattle throughout this central area is producing a super breed of animals as far as immunity to tuberculosis is concerned, it is revealed by the statement of Dr. O. Reed of this city, governmental veterinary.

"We've been all over the whole district on the work of tuberculin testing, in the counties including Prince Edward, Hastings, Lennox, Addington, and have never seen such healthy cattle. Each county showed that a considerable gain had been made," stated Dr. Reed.

"Possibly Hastings County and Prince Edward County show the best record", he added.

"Here the tuberculin tests show, that the animals are in almost perfect condition. We found for example in Hastings, that the cows are testing less than one per cent tuberculin, while in Prince Edward it is in the neighborhood of one half of one per cent.".

CARNERA IS RECOVERED

Shaggy Pup Leads Owner Wild Chase Down Alleys

"Carnera", shaggy Newfoundland pup, all feet and soft pleading eyes, is safe with his boss again after having been responsible for a lengthy hold up of a car containing a touring party from the east, and also the object of a concerted search which lasted for at least two hours in this city late last evening.

The shambling-gaited pup, whose apt name fits his gigantic six-month's old size, just chased after a cat last evening in playful fashion, and got lost until a local hotel attendant found him and restored him to his anxious owner.

The party, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Levitt of Montreal, together with his brother-in-law and wife, entered the city late last evening from Toronto. They parked in front of a downtown cafe and "Carnera" was invited to alight and stretch.

He spied an alley cat standing at the entrance to a downtown gang way as he left the car, and with a playful "whoosh" that shook nearby windows, and galvanized the bristling cat into instant action, with the ludicrous gallop of a startled cow in a pasture, the pup disappeared, all heels into the blackness of the passageway.

Ensued a hunt that was thorough and lengthy. Back alleys of the city were combed for a missing pup whose size should have made the task easier. But it was not until at least two hours later that "Carnera" was discovered by a reporter — calmly snoozing in front of a stove in an uptown hotel.

"He just came to the door, bunted it open, walked in, flopped down and went to sleep" explained the hotel attendant as the search party caught up with the pup.

"I thought at first it was somebody's calf wandering around when it first came in the door."

Livestock

Toronto, Jan. 30 (CP) — Cattle prices held firm under active trading at the opening of the Toronto Livestock Market today. The calf market opened strong, with hogs, sheep and lambs unsettled.

Receipts as reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle 680, calves 160, hogs 350, sheep and lambs 830.

Weighty steers ranged from $4.00 to $6.00 cwt. Good butcher cattle brought $4.75 to $5.00 with a few choice at $5.25. Butcher cows sold from $2.25 to $3.50 according to quality.

Produce Market

Toronto, Jan. 30 (CP)—Wholesale prices on produce delivered at Toronto as supplied by the United Farmers' Co-Operative Co., here today were: Eggs, extras, doz. 24-26c; Firsts, doz. 22-24c pullet extras, doz. 19-21c; seconds (cracked), doz. 17-19c; Churning Cream, No. 1 lb. 25c; No. 2, lb. 23c; Butter No. 1, solids, lb. 25¼c; No. 2, solids, lb. 24¾c.

Ontario Cobbler potatoes, per bag 95c.

Dealer's price on hand-picked white beans, in carlots, F.O.B. at point of shipment $1.10 bushel.

UNITED KINGDOM DAIRY PRICES

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—The United Kingdom, butter market was lower last week, according to a report received Monday from the Department of Agriculture. Cheese was quiet.

Quotations: Butter, New Zealand, 66 shillings per cwt, (14.72 cents per lb.); Australian 63 to 64 shillings per cwt. (14.06 to 14.28 cents per lb.); cheese, New Zealand white, 40 shillings per cwt. (8.92 cents per lb.); colored, 42 shillings per cwt. (9.37 cents per lb.); Canadians were unchanged from 46 to 52 shillings per cwt. (10.25 to 11.60 cents per lb.).

PRODUCE PRICES IN MONTREAL

Butter prices at Montreal advanced yesterday to new highs for the winter season. Wholesale levels for carlots or l.c.l. lots of No. 1 pasteurised regarded, ranged from 25 1-2 to 26c per lb., up 1-2c from last week's close. The new prices were the highest seen since last winter. Receipts, 680 boxes. Cold weather, low production, and improvement in demand, were factors sending the price up.

The egg market held unchanged at last week's closing levels, the tone, however, being firm. Graded shipments in carlots or l.c.l. lots were 29c for A-large, 27c for A-Medium and 26c for A-Pullets. Receipts, 1,422 cases.

The cheese market was steady at 10 1-2 for current make Ontarios. Receipts, 97 boxes. The potato market continued at 90c. to $1 per 80-lb bags.

Dohertys Score 5-4 Win Over Cobourg in Overtime to Keep Pace with Leaders

Roy Covert Nets Winning Goal on Combination With P. Morgan

CAMPBELL STARS

Locals Had to Come From Behind to Win Contest

Coming from behind the Belleville D.A.C. intermediates staged a third period rally to even the count with the Cobourg Waverleys and then went on to score the winning goal in an overtime O.H.A. fixture staged at Cobourg last evening, when the local pucksters kept pace with the group leading Campbellford Maroons by defeating the Waverleys by a 5 to 4 score in a spirited affair before some 400 fans, who braved sub-zero weather to witness the tussle.

After Carl Morgan raced the length of the ice to knot the count late in the third period with Roy Covert and Pete Morgan combining for the winning goal in the second overtime period thereby blasting the hopes of the Waverleys of cinching third place in the group last evening. A defeat at the hands of the Dohertys of the Trenton intermediates here on Thursday night will now elevate the locals into first place tied with the Campbellford Maroons while the Cobourgites will then be assured of third position.

Feelings Ran High

Before a biased and rabid crowd of fans the locals battled back in the face of defeat to turn what looked like an assured reverse into victory by a last minute splurge, that left the Waverleys all but out on their feet. Feeling ran quite high from the outset and culminated in a small fistic encounter late in the third period after Joe Freeman, Waverley left winger, elected to "fight it out" with Roy Covert after the local centre "ghost" had thwarted his continuous efforts around centre ice. The entire roster of both clubs joined the melee that was eventually quelled without damage being reported by Referee Tommy Thompson, who incidentally handled an impartial game before a rabid crowd.

Despite the fact that four goals were scored against "Rube" Buskard the local net custodian turned in a stellar effort and was afforded the best line of defence yet set up this season by the united efforts of Jim Ethier, "Mase" Rigby and Alex Weir. These boys all went well both ways and added considerable strength to the locals. The first line of Carl and Pete Morgan outshone their younger brethren front line with Pete and Roy repeatedly carrying the play into the enemy territory. Covert with two goals and two assists led the scorers of his team.

Led by Archie Campbell, the ex-Belleville forward, the Waverleys started out to avenge the defeat of last Friday, when the homesters assumed the lead late in the initial frame. Campbell was by far the best player to wear a black and red uniform and literally worked himself into exhaustion by his repeated efforts especially on the offensive. Campbell stood out all night and returned, in the overtime play after sustaining an injured ankle, to again assume the hero role for the losers. Freeman, who played such a stellar game in Belleville last Friday was far below his previous form as he continually graced the penalty box through foolish infractions of the rules. McCoubrey followed Campbell as a stalwart and repeatedly thwarted the local's scoring efforts with his miraculous saves. Lonsberry and Staples proved capable defencemen while Ibey played spotty hockey.

THE PLAY

Carl Morgan opened the fracas by testing only to have Freeman bring Buskard to his knees with a hard low drive. Due to over anxiousness both teams missed numerous scoring possibilities until Covert raced up centre, drew the defence to the left and slipped the rubber to "Pete" Morgan who raced in and bulged the twine. Towards the end of the period Freeman knotted the count, when he pushed in Campbell's rebound during a scramble around the local net only to have Campbell score a pretty goal, when he picked up his own rebound, raced around the net and scooped the puc kinto the unprotected corner to make the score 2 to 1 for Cobourg at the end of the initial frame. Although the locals carried the play for the better part of the middle canto, it remained for Campbell to open the scoring by racing in and picking the far corner for a pretty goal. During a scramble in front of the Cobourg net Alex Weir pushed the puck past McCoubrey after Covert had taken a shot. To open the third frame Covert took a well-timed pass from Carl Morgan to make the count 3 all but Ibey put the homesters one up, when he raced in to push Geraldi's rebound past Buskard, the local goalie having beaten Max's scoring attempt. Following this Covert and Freeman mixed it with all players taking part, they drew down five minute penalties. Following this Carl Morgan again knotted the count, when he raced the entire length of the rink to score as Staples tripped him. After about nine minutes of play in the overtime, Covert scored the winning goal on a pass from P. Morgan. The play was of the combination nature the length of the ice. The locals carried too much speed and hockey ability.

Line-ups:

B.C.I. DEFEAT ALBERT 8-0

Hockey Team From School Much too Good For College Boys

Out-classing their rivals in every department the B.C.I. & V.S. hockey team defeated the Albert College pucksters by the score of 8 to 0 in the opening interscholastic hockey game of the season played in the Bay of Quinte group of C.O.S.S.A. hockey at the local Arena yesterday afternoon.

Led by "Stew" McElrath, their stellar defensemen who notched four of the collegiate's counters, the Shield's -coached clan from the local seat of knowledge literally coasted home to an easy victory. The front line of Hanna flanked by Ling and McCreary carried altogether too much speed and experience for their Albert College rivals, who noticeably lacked hockey finish especially in their opponents' defence zones. L'Heureux proved the best alternate for the tri-color. Ault in the Albert nets and Driscoll were the best for the losers.

The Collegiate pucksters bagged four goals in the initial frame, three in the second and one in the final period, when victory was assured and they but coasted home to an easy win. While the Shells-coached outfit rest the Albert boys journey to Trenton for their second interscholastic game on Wednesday afternoon.

McElrath scored four with McCreary, Kokesh, Hanna and L'Heureux bagging one goal each.

The line-ups—B.C.I. & V.S. — Goal, Thompson, defense, McElrath and Kokesh; centre, Hanna; wings, Ling and McCreary; subs, Liddle, Mattis, L'Heureux, Blaker and Lee. Albert College—Goal, Ault; defense Day and Grigg; centre, Driscoll; wings, Johnson and A. McDonald. Subs—Warren and Barnard.

The game was handled by Lea "Stub" Barrett.

Canadian Championship Ski Meet to be Held in Three Rivers This Month

February is the month for ski championships, and the first major event will take place this year in Toronto. This is the first time that Toronto has been honored with a meet of this kind, the lack of snow usually being the reason. This year they plan to freight snow from the north if none is available. Another meet will follow in Montreal with the final for the Dominion championships at Three Rivers, Quebec. In the above layout is shown LEFT, a skier getting a bird's eye view of the earth as he sails at 90 miles an hour through the air. UPPER RIGHT, Arthur Gravel, of Montreal, noted Canadian skier, takes a small jump. LOWER CENTRE, H. T. Cliff, head of the Toronto Ski Club, under whose auspices the Ontario championships will be staged. LOWER RIGHT, Nels Nelson of Vancouver, former world's ski-jumping champion, who is already organizing to get together a real Canadian team for the 1936 Olympics.

SKIERS TO HOLD CHAMPIONSHIPS AT THREE RIVERS

Ontario Meet at Toronto, Feb. 10, For First Time in History

LOOK TO OLYMPICS

By W. M. GLADISH

Central Press Canadian Sports Writer

Toronto, Jan. 30.—In the winter of 1896 customs examiners at Ottawa regarded with considerable curiosity and no little suspicion a strange shipment from Norway. It consisted of long narrow pieces of spruce, tipped and curved at one end. The importer, a former Scandinavian, explained they were intended for sliding on snow—a statement that was received with derision. The fashioned planks were not taken out of customs and shortly they were sold at auction practically for the price of firewood. One pair fell into the hands of Major Bill Lawless who tried them out, thus becoming the first native skier. The second enthusiast was J. A. D. Holbrook of Ottawa, a friend of Lawless, and his equipment was made at a planing mill in the capital, the original pair being used as a pattern. Thus, the sport of skiing was born in Canada.

By 1900 skiing had become a recognized pastime in the Ottawa Valley and the pioneer devotees included Jackson Booth, P. D. Ross, Joseph MacDougall, A. C. Grant, E. J. Kenny, William Stewart and Fred Burpee. Skiing became a real sport in 1909, however, when three Norwegians arrived on the scene, Sigurd Lockeberg, Hans Lockeberg and Paul Iverson. Their exploits became the topic of conversation in Eastern Ontario and Quebec, particularly when the news spread that they were jumping over 40 feet. They were followed to Ottawa by Alex. Olsen, a countryman, who astounded the local enthusiasts with a jump of 125 feet. And a climax was reached the year before the war when Ragnar Omtveldt came out from Norway and leaped 145 feet without difficulty.

Many Clubs Formed

In 1919 Canada saw a real start with ski-racing as well as renewed jumping. The Montreal Ski club, the Ottawa and Cliffside clubs of Ottawa and the Toronto Ski club were among those which became realities. Races of seven, ten and fifteen miles were featured down east and Ed. Condon and George Audette of Ottawa were among the early champions in cross-country competitions. The Canadian Amateur Ski Association was organized at Montreal and the first Dominion ski championships were held there in 1925 the second annual meet being held in the Canadian capital a year later in conjunction with a winter carnival. The sport has grown to such an extent that in Montreal the International Ski club has been formed with Alistari Grant of Montreal as president and officers in both eastern and western Canada and in various cities of the United States.

Furthermore, Nels Nelson of Vancouver, former world's champion jumper and president of the Western Canada Amateur Ski Association, has launched a movement for the selection of an all-canadian ski team for the Olympic games in 1936.

The Ottawa Ski Club has boasted of a membership of 4,000 seniors and juniors and the perennial leader of this substantial group is C. E. Mortureux, whose name is a by-word among the winter fans. The Toronto Ski Club, organized in 1922, has a membership of 1,100. H. T. Cliff, a veteran of the trails, is president of the Toronto club.

Hold Meet at Toronto

For the first time in history official ski championships are to be conducted under the auspices of the Toronto Ski Club, these being the Ontario titular events of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, which are to be sport features of the Toronto centennial celebration. The provincial jumping competitions are scheduled to be held Feb. 10 and the cross-country races the following day. The Quebec competitions are scheduled to be held in the Montreal area on Feb. 17 and 18. Both the Ontario and Quebec meets are preliminary to the dominion championships at Three Rivers, Que., on Feb. 24 and 25.

Many and various claims have been made for records in ski-jumping, but a guide in this respect can be found, in so far as the amateur sport is concerned, in the last Olympic winter games at Lake Placid, N. Y., where the winner accomplished a leap of 226 feet. The victor was Birger Ruud of Norway and following him were Beck of Norway; Wahlberg, Norway; Eriksson of Sweden; Olmen of the United States and Kaufmann of Switzerland. There were 34 contestants, representing 10 nations, in the event, thus indicating the wide interest in the sport. The leading Canadian was R. S. Lymburne, who finished 19th, with J. B.Landry of Quebec in 20th place. Canadians should and could do better in 1936, it is believed, but it must be taken into consideration that skiing was a recognized sport in Norway 75 years ago.

To devotees of the sport across the dominion; The proper pronunciation of the word "ski" is "she." The writer found this out some years ago in Europe.

Current Sport

DAY BY DAY

After successfully launching a drive towards the rejuvenation of boxing in this immediate vicinity about one year ago the South End A. C. fired the hopes of all interested in the art of self-defence to a point where the future of the game seemed assured, then suddenly the missionary work ceased. We are not pleading ignorance to some little difficulties that arose between the fighters and the promoters, but, have been wondering of late if the work of rejuvenation was not dropped in its infancy.

The moment some mitt-slingers see a good turn out of fans to a boxing show their "legitimate expenses" soar sky high and naturally they kill the goose that lays the golden egg, before it really has an opportunity to scrape the surface. On the other hand the sponsors of the sport really bounded to the fore much mor rapidly than they perhaps should have. After staging one or two successful local shows they started in to import outside leather pushers. The fans were, and still are, quite satisfied to watch local boxers so long as the competition is keen and half way evenly matched. A feature bout including an outside ring celebrity might be alright but, it is not necessary to bring in a whole gist of foreign fighters to make a local boxing show a success.

At present the South End A. C. are staging fortnightly impromptu bouts among the younger members of their club with some marked success. These bouts are presented at their club rooms but do not seem to carry the same atmosphere as a card presented at the City Hall or Armouries. With the hockey season on the wane and spring just around the corner (we're quite optimistic this winter) the season for boxing should be nearly ripe. The local sponsors of the ring game will undoubtedly bring out a number of new faces during their winter activities so perhaps an all-Belleville card could be arranged and staged with success late next month. Then again as another added attraction the matchmakers could include Freddie Parry and "Beans" Langman, the two recently reinstated local professionals, on their first card.

A Prince Edward County reader queried us relating to what happened the thirty-one questions recently prepared by N. C. Hart of London, Ont., and to be hurled at the old Ontario branch of the A.A.U. of C. For the reader's information we might say that nothing ever materialized from prepared oration. Of course the breach between the new southwestern organization and the old branch is still wide open and one may witness a flare-up most any day. Perhaps those questions will come up then. (?).

Manager Walter Patterson announced yesterday that the postponed game of Trenton intermediates at Belleville of January 16th would be played on Thursday night of this week. After last night's overtime win at Cobourg the green and white can pull up even with the Campbellford Maroons by downing Benny Bowen's charges. At present there are so many angles to the play-offs in the local intermediate group that it would take a couple of Philadelphia lawyers to solve the possibles.

Although it took the Dohertys 70 minutes to pull the trick they came through in the final period to even the count and then went on to demonstrate their superiority by pulling the game out of the fire at the last moment. In passing we'd like to say that had all the Waverleys played the brand of hockey displayed by Archie Campbell perhaps a different tale might have been told. The ex-Tweed, ex-Belleville intermediate was by far the best for the homesters, both going and coming while few, if any, of the locals showed him the way home.

• • •

The pugnacious attitude shown by various members of the Waverleys mitigated their chances of victory as they repeatedly drew down rests in the "hoose-gow" for slashing and tripping that was most uncalled for. Peferee Tommy Thompson was the target for many words of abuse at the hands of the rabid Cobourg fans and merely because he was calling the plays as he saw them and not for the home crowd. Joe Freeman, who played such a stellar game here in Belleville last week, capped his evening's endeavours off by taking a "poke" at Roy Covert, as "the ghost" was a mile too smart for him whenever they met. A general melee followed with all players concerned taking part, no particular damage being reported, however.

• • •

It was a pleasure to see the local defencemen turn in such a creditable performance. In passing we might make mention of the fact that S. R. "Sandy" Burrows, who accompanied the team last night, informed us that he played hockey in Cobourg over thirty years ago and in the same rink that he witnessed last night's tussle. The ice surface in Cobourg had the local speedsters at a continued disadvantage all night as it's about two jumps wide and three long. Besides leading the locals in penalties, Roy Covert lead the "oilmen" in scoring points with two goals and two assists.

PLAY GAMES AT SCHOOL

Two Cage Games Will Give Fans Plenty of Thrills

The two games of Basketball which were to have been played at the Y.M.C.A. Gym tomorrow evening will be played instead at the B.C.I. Gymnasium. The transfer in playing location was made in order to take advantage of the larger floor and also the greater accommodation for spectators.

Undoubtedly the mid-week games will provide one of the best basketball programmes of the season when the fast travelling Senior Collegiate team under the direction of Coach Laughlin, will endeavor to prove to the Napanee Collegiate Team and E.O.A.B.A. entry, that the basketball as played in this city is of a higher grade than that of the Eastern town.

Following this game the local Y.M.C.A. squad will take on the Kingston "Y" Quint in an Intermediate E.O.A.B.A. fixture. With no less than four former senior Intercollegiate players on their line-up the "Y" team from the Limestone city are considered the class of the Eastern Ontario League and the local players under Coach Morden would like nothing better than to take a fall out of the visitors here Wednesday.

There'll be a merry scram[illegible] points in the American section [illegible] the National Hockey League tonig[illegible] for two games will have an import[illegible] ant bearing on the leadership. Th[illegible] third game on the schedule w[illegible] make little or no difference in th[illegible] Canadian section, for Toront[illegible] Maple Leafs are so far in front the[illegible] can lose half a dozen and still b[illegible] ahead.

Chicago meets Ottawa in one [illegible] the crucial encounters, while th[illegible] second finds Rangers visiting Bo[illegible] ton—and Eddie Shore is back o[illegible] that Bruin rearguard which ma[illegible] mean something.

Rangers are leading their grou[illegible] with 36 points. Chicago is in thir[illegible] place. Just two points back of th[illegible] New Yorkers. A victory for th[illegible] Blackhawks over Ottawa, whic[illegible] doesn't seem too unlikely, and [illegible] defeat for Rangers, which is al[illegible] well within the bounds of possibility [illegible] would tie the first-place grouping [illegible] but would still leave Detroit i[illegible] second place, one point behind. Of the two encounters, Ranger[illegible] seem to have the hardest assign[illegible] ment, for with Shore back in actio[illegible] the Boston squad may play an en[illegible] tirely different game. LOVE'S LOTTERY

— by —

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

On the main floor she stepped to a widely opened window to signal Terry who came toward her, haggard-eyed, on a gait that approached a sprint.

"It's going to be all right, Terry," she said. He mopped his brow. "Got to be," he said, "and for her, not for me, Hilda.... that's the thing that counts now. You didn't —over-persuade her?" he ended anxiously.

"I? Certainly not!"

"I wished afterward, I hadn't spoken; she must not be influenced beyond her will."

"You'll save her life.... if you want to do that!"

"Rather!" he whispered, but without his usual glib quickness. "Rather, Hilda!"

Geoffrey, in New York, studied the calendar which stood on his desk. November was written there. He was thinner, more given to sharp, nervous, uncertain motion. He had learned with tragedy what life without Cicily could be, but he did not believe—that it had to be—as it had recently been. He felt that "with a little let-up of work and a chance to breathe," he could go over—join her wherever she was, to "fix it".

He had tried to get away time after time, but always ineffectually; in each case the tightening tentacles of the "Big Business" octopus had pulled him into the seething depths, to hold him there.

He had accomplished a great deal during the seven months because he had been "undiverted".... "A silver lining to every cloud," he realized, but "Lord," he "missed her!"

She was his girl, all right; he wished he had more time.

He had planned to write her and to write her as he had never written to any living soul; to bare his soul to her as he told her how much he missed her, needed her, wanted her, but Sunday after Sunday found him "too dog-tired to do anything" and—to plan a little for the struggle that was before him in the week to come.

The stretch had made Geoffrey considerably older; less certain of those which had once been his bed-rock certainties, gentler with others harsher with himself. His one real certainty now lay in his realization that his had been the unpardonable sin; that he deserved no less than the hell he was getting and that he loved Cicily as he had never loved before, and that he would love always and with a force that he almost prayed few men might feel.

He thought sometimes that if she knew how he cared she would forgive anything. Then again—going over his slights of her in the past; slights he had then seen as legitimate time-savers—he felt she had been too gentle; that she should, for her peace, have written him cruelly instead of having written him as she had —wanting his happiness!

Now Luther came in with the mail; a long habit made Geoffrey scan it eagerly as he held his breath But— of course—she hadn't written.

Luther drew a deep breath. "Little Miggs and Jim had a fight," he began.

"That so? I hope it's fixed up—"

He was stirring around at his desk. Luther saw. That meant "Get out!"

"Sure, it's fixed!" the incorrigibly impertinent Luther said loudly. "Duggan's got horse sense! She was actin' huffy, couldn't see him through her high-hat stare. But he treated her rough. They ain't a one of 'em who don't like that, Mr. Field! And she come around...... Duggan he says—it was right out in the office, you couldn't help but hear—he says, 'You cut this out! See? You're my girl! Understand?' he says, and he looked at her terribly ugly. She bawled, and he kissed her right afore old Bleaker, and Bleaker he says he has lovemaking around home alla time with his girls and he wisht he could have some peace somewheres. But— if you should happen to want a girl—you can get anyone of 'em if you follow 'em and—let 'em know who's boss."

"When did you get your B.A., Luther?"

"I ain't so dumb as you'd think, Mr. Field."

"That will be all, Luther—"

Luther vanished. Geoffrey sat staring at his bleak desk. That noon he booked passage for England on a ship sailing the next day. He was curiously shaky and weak, finishing the transaction. "If I hope a lot now—get knocked—again—" he thought, but he could not finish it.

He could tell her, finding her, how much he had learned in the seven months. "Finding her," made him close his eyes.

That night he wandered his living room, to and fro: and his feet were the echo of two others which, across the world, and a few hours before, had paced a terrace on the hill that leads to Fiesole.

He would tell her, Geoffrey decided, finding her, that he would woo her for years, if need be, and in any manner she stipulated, if she would give to him his second chance.

CHAPTER 19

Cicily was shy about going to Terry, who had been her trusted friend. But as she saw standing by the box hedge her shyness vanished. He was going to be very gentle, she saw; perhaps he wanted no more than gentleness? Differing, so from Geoff, whose gentleness had been made by his strength. Geoff—

"I hear," she began with an assumed lightness, "that you are waiting to hear that a young lady will marry you—"

"I have—hoped so!" he admitted in a whisper, which grated just a trifle. He had not moved; he stood; tall, straight, and fine, in the gray twilight hush, looking down at her.

Was he going to—kiss her? She waited, trembling; not as she had ever trembled from the thought of Geoff's kiss. But —he only moved a bit closer, to lay a hand on her cloak.

"Warm enough " he asked; "you know it's keen—the air."

"Quite—thank you, Terry."

"Look at the lights of Florence, child," he said next. She looked.

"Always," he said softly, "you will be like those lights for me, a little misted, and far, and no matter how close you are—always until that day, if it may be, when you can say you do more than—like me."

"It may have to be enough and forever; I can't lie about it, Terry."

"No, nor about anything.... I'll tell you this: It will not matter to me—how I feel—if you are happy, I shall be. That's all I ask. Will you slip your arm through mine, child—or rather not?"

She slipped her arm through his; a moment and his hand closed around hers, warm, strong, protecting, gentle.

"Very happy—I am...." he said shortly and with a break of voice.

"I'm glad," she answered with utter level. "I want to make you—really happy—if I can. I shall try—and in all ways!"

His hand tightened abruptly and almost grippingly upon hers. "God—child, don't!" he begged; he laughed shortly; she felt the mirthless sound to be his ballast pole across an unsteady moment.

"Want to keep my feet on the terrace" he explained, "lest I amaze a young lady who thinks—or who seems to think—my heart is a cold storage plant! Let's stroll....I fear it's too cold for you—pausing here to chat, dear...."

Arm in arm they walked the terrace. "Terry, you are a dear—" she whispered softly.

"I don't want you to be afraid of me in anyway, dearest." He pressed her arm closer against his side. "Oh—Cicily!" he said, voice rough.

Hands on her shoulders, he turned her to him, staring down through the thickening gray at her. She could not help her stiffening which he felt. "Rather not?" he questioned evenly.

"No—it's not— I can't explain. I'm touchy—edgy."

He dropped his hands.

"Please —" she appealed, "I'd rather you would—"

"Want to get it over?" he questioned. "Cicily," he went on, "my kissing you isn't going to be at all like having a tooth out. It's going to be quite a casual matter to you—and heaven to me. And I'm going to kiss you now and again, and mainly now and then again, because you will come back to normal when love ceases to be, for you, a symbol of pain. We'll be frank, child. Love failed you. Love has failed me. You will some day give me respect and affection; never an echo of the love I bear you——consuming, dear, but it will never consume you, nor in anyway harm you. I vow! And thus, out of love that has hurt us both, let us try to build a little sanctuary, which will have its beauties. What say?"

"I think—it is what Hilda would term 'horse sense'."

"Quite so—now I'm going to kiss you. Do you want gas?"

She laughed suddenly; he stooped, to raise his face quickly and after the barest touch of her lips.

"I thank you—"he managed to whisper with fair steadiness. He added, taking her arm again, to tread the terrace with her, "Next time we'll do better, perhaps—eh?"

The next morning finding Terry by the fireside with his breakfast on a tray beside him Cicily settled on a footstool by his feet.

"Terry—" she began, uncertainly.

"Yes, beloved? Have some bacon while you wait. Wonderful starter for courage, bacon! What's on her conscience?"

"I can't help—thinking of Geoffrey Field—as I shouldn't now—kissing him—all that. I—I went to my room to lie in the dark last night—just after I left you....and I—awake —dreamed of him and dreamed of him! The way—he kissed me."

He lost color suddenly, but he answered bravely.

"Rough," he said, "for you, my dear, but—let us have a thought to our sanctuary." (He leaned forward to take her hand and to hold it clasped tightly between his.) "What shall we do today? Let's go exploring—in the car? Shall we? eh?"

"If you like—I like!"

"Righto! Now, no more brooding over these—ah—imaginings you can't help. I, my dear, have some of my own I can't help and I apologise to you for those!"

"You're so damned decent, Terry!" she said bluntly and with a return to the patrols of her free-speaking young set.

"A man who is wholly in love," he confessed, "wants to be—tries with all his strength to be."

The evening before Geoffrey was to sail, he felt a growing conviction that he would have another chance. He was aware of Cicily's thinking of him; aware of it as he had never been before, and it turned his eyes moist. He alternately paced his floor or sat, sagged in a deep chair near a glowing fire, a willing captive to fragile echoes which were strangely, beautifully, poignantly, real...... He saw Cicily's eyes, suddenly soft; Cicily's face raised to his; he felt Cicily's tightening arms....She had had to stand on tiptoe in order to clasp her hands around his neck ....He had laughed always and tenderly over that—And now !

He woke early the next morning, made oddly unsteady for his usually firm-treading self by the thought of starting his quest.

He would have, he realized as he dressed, a full morning at his office before the necessity for a start to the dock. He began to think of "things" he had to 'get out of the way."

He hurried to the office, thinking of taking Cicily something from say Tiffany's. "I can't stop," he decided miserably; "I'll have to get Miss Miggs to do it;" the child had taste, he realized, and with a little comfort.

In his office was turmoil....The Fleet crowd .... "Fleet and his gang" had got under a financial surface which had seemed perfectly level and enough strong to bear any pressure, to make in it widening cracks, deep pits, quicksands for the unwary. Geoffrey "got busy". men of his "crowd" came shouting into his office, hatless, hair awry.. One boy, who had been shouting himself hoarse on the floor of the Exchange, came in to sink down by Geoffrey's desk where he wept noisily, steadily, as he whimpered out the tale of his being beaten!

"By God, nothing left—but death for me!? he said, almost screaming.

Geoffrey sent him a tried, somewhat scornful glance. When the world was squeezing you out, you squared your shoulders, to start again! And win! Lord, if Cicily could see this—she would understand! If—the weeper could not fight, of course he had better die—he was right about that! A fight to the finish or death alone, for men—as Geoffrey measured men.

"Rotten streak of yellow," he said in undertone to a contemporary who was surveying the whimpering wreck.

"He's got too weak a chin for the street," the friend agreed; "ought to live in Paris with mother——"

Thus, and with scorn, they dismissed him, the boy who had wanted to paint and who could have painted, but whose wife wanted money; the boy who sat sagged weakly by Geoff's desk.

"Sorry, Tex, but I'm not running a hospital here," said Geoffrey. The fellow weakened him and he could not be weakened! Tugged in every direction by this infernal, damnable emotional blowout—hysterical explosion!

"Have a drink,' Geoffrey prescribed, pulling open the lower right desk drawer, to give into Tex James' palsied hands a flask.

"Pull yourself together," Geoffrey added as the boy drank, sputtered and coughed. He thought, "The damned fool couldn't even drink like a man!

Luther came in, bearing a cablegram. Geoffrey read: "Want to see you will you come over please most important Cicily Eden".

He set his strong teeth on his lower lip. His eyes blurred suddenly.

"Miss Miggs," he said; "remind me to cable Florence late this afternoon. And Miss Miggs —you'll have to cancel my reservations on the steamer."

Parks came swinging in, eyes bright, running the hands of a man who is drunk or made through his tortured hair. "God, we got 'em!" he was shouting, "Got 'em!"

He sank to the chair that young Tex, a moment before, had dragged himself from. "Had my house on it—every —damned thing—" he confessed, his voice breaking. Geoffrey again opened his lower right-hand desk drawer. Parks drank heavily and long, wiped his lips, refused a chaser; and he did not cough.

Geoffrey read that night, in a late edition of Tex James' having been mowed down by a motor; he had stepped, onlookers said, into its path without a glance. He was now dying at the Mercy Hospital.

"Hard luck," Geoff thought uncomfortably, yet, the boy hadn't been built to cope with that which Geoff saw as "life".

Cicily, not many hours away from that hour, read Geoffrey's cable.

CHAPTER 20

During their quest of the hills and the far-away, Terry had spoken to Cicily of that which, he felt, for her peace, she should do. As he spoke he thought that never before had she been so beautiful as she was at that moment. Terry set his chin hard and looked suddenly away.

"Do I understand, Terry, that you advise my seeing Geoffrey?" she asked breathlessly.

BRINGING UP FATHER

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Captain Zuppner swung the nose of the giant dirigible to port and she sailed out over the plains of Pellucidar. A slight turn of the wheel would have carried the O-220 southeast across the dismal forest through which Tarzan and Jana were being borne to a horrible fate. But the captain did not know. And so the airship from the outer earth continued searching for the missing members of her crew, while the ape-man and the beautiful Red Flower of Zoram rode silently toward their doom.

When the lizard-men entered the inner world's forest, Tarzan knew he could have escaped. He might have swung from his hideous mount to one of the lower branches that grazed their heads as they passed beneath. Once in the trees, he knew no Horib could catch him. But he could not desert Jana. Nor could he ever get close enough to her to whisper his plans. So in silence they rode along, the ape-man hoping the chance would come when he could take The Red Flower and leap to safety.

From the Horibs' conversation Tarzan learned they were almost at their destination. His nerves and muscles were on the alert and he chafed with impatience. He was about to make a sudden break for liberty, trusting the unexpectedness of his act would catch the Horibs off guard. This would give him the necessary few seconds to throw Jana to his shoulder and swing upward. And then a faint breeze checked his impulse and brought to his nostrils a scent-spoor he had thought never to know again.

He knew what was somewhere ahead of them and he thought and acted quickly. It seemed impossible for himself and Jana to escape at once, but there was another way—now! Tarzan awaited his chance and soon it came. Low before him swung the branches of the dismal forest. He leaned forward, his hands resting lightly on the Gorobor's neck. When just beneath the branch he had selected, the ape-man leaped lightly to his feet and almost at the same moment sprang upward into the tree.

Policies and Records of Conservative Party Reviewed at Thurlow Club Banquet

Revue of Thurlow

"Second," said Revue Gray, "it is well for us as residents of this country to review these past four years of depression, and consider how much more of prosperity we have enjoyed than other countries. Many citizens have not concurred in Canada, or got started in business due to our lack of elevators, to bring wholesale duties to our people and widespread destruction of property. Canada is possessed of a love of liberty, of courage and energy, who have maintained sanity through a trying period. They have both been a power in the forefront of the world. Canada's credit abroad would have passed through a period of appreciable loss in the opinion of the countries of those whom will it was they were in debt. Premier Bennett, with Premier Henry and their cabinet ministers had piloted the ship of state and nearly piloted it through waters. Conservative leaders with Conservative policies and traditions behind them, had placed Canada in a position second to what was in the eye of the world today. "It was to Conservative leadership it owed the peace and prosperity it at this future," concluded Revue Gray.

W. E. Tummon, M.P.

After paying his customary respects to the members of the club, and expressing a hearty appreciation of the excellence of the dinner provided, the Federal member for the district, Mr. W. E. Tummon, made his limited remarks in replying to the toast to the charging conditions since that third of the present century had transpired. "It is only a month or two," said Mr. Tummon, "since we entered the third year of this century. On April 1st. next, 33 1-3 per cent. of it will have passed. Many things have been the most eventful in the history of the world. The most momentous in the history of this country. And not the least of these things that of the British Empire and the Empire's abilities. Think of the changes in the map of the world within the memories of Anyone, once the centre of the world, but they have not changed since we went to school. All in the first third of this century.

"This Canada, of which we form a part, a nation of ten million, has come to play an important part in the affairs of the world. No one who thinks can say that came by chance. The first third of the century has been the evolution of a nation playing its part in the world affairs. Other countries are today looking to Canada to see what leadership it is going to take or should take.

Improved conditions have begun. The darkest hour is just before the dawn. We can now look back over the past as a clearer view of the conditions we have come through and realize the full and complete responsibility of those on whom responsibility rested. Township, County, Provincial and Dominion governments have faced nobly the trials and troubles of the past few years. "No people stand higher in the estimation of the people of the world than those of Canada," said Mr. Tummon in conclusion.

Thurlow's Deputy Reeve

To Earl Dempsey, deputy Reeve of the township of Thurlow was deputized the proposal of the toast to Thurlow and County and in so doing he made reference to a statement in the Ontario Tourist Bar of the 14th. inst. relative to the Province of the County of Hastings. "Somebody," said Mr. Dempsey, "who did not wish to say anything good of the county of Hastings or myself had been the instigator of the article." April 13th., 1911, the county had issued 20 years debentures amounting to $100,000; June 6th., 1913 an issue was made for the same amount for a like period of time; November 30th., 1918, there was a 20 year issue of $50,000; and December 15th., 1919 a $40,000 issue for 20 years, a total of $250,000. All had been paid at the present time and $100,000. An overdraft of some-what over $40,000 had accumulated during the four years of depression. This year there was no overdraft. It is not beyond hope, stated the opinion that the finances of the county were in a pretty healthy condition.

J. F. Hill, M.P.P.

In his response to the toast, the member of the local legislature for East Hastings spoke of the Provincial affairs of the Province. Canada Conservative Club in Toronto on Tuesday night, Mr. Hamilton said it had been a good meeting with plenty of enthusiasm and no rich "panic," said to the chief speaker of the evening, Earl Lawson, in the absence of the premier of the Province of Ontario.

"Ontario has been most eventful during the past year, a nation of ten million has come to power in the United States of those whom will it was they were in debt. Premier Bennett, with Premier Henry and their cabinet ministers had piloted the ship of state and nearly piloted it through waters. Conservative leaders with Conservative policies and traditions behind them, had placed Canada in a position second to what was in the eye of the world today. In his response to the toast, the

Melting Pot of Years And Several Nations Produced Best of Each in All Scots

"Scotland and Bobbie Burns," was the subject of an interesting address given by C. Dand at the before the Belleville Rotary Club Monday. Scotland's history from the early days was sketched by the speaker, who said that there was a blank in Scottish history between 400 B.C. and A.D. Scotland was never been conquered and the speaker traced the long line of royalty from the Picts, Scots, Saxons, Danes, Normans, Stuarts, Hanovers, through the years to the throne of Great Britain, with James VI of Scotland and James I of England, one and the same person.

Irish Influence

Early history of Scotland was sketchy and interesting. It appeared that the Scots came from Scotia in the north of Ireland; that the Norsemen came up out of the sea and settled among the eight hundred islands which are forever part of Scotland; that Orkney with fifty-two islands, the Shetlands with over one hundred, and the Hebrides. This tale of the dark, short and sturdy invaders who came up out of Africa, passed through Spain and into Scotland, leaving their mark, bone, speech and blood behind. Then the Picts with their warfare and their cult to the sun-god from Germany carrying the Teutonic gods' names with them, and a lasting impression upon the race.

Where Gaelic Came From

Gaelic brought over from Ireland by the Scots from Scotia is still spoken by 300,000 people, the original form that Gaelic from Ireland can converse with their Scots brethren on both sides.

Scotland is such a small country, said the speaker, that it can be put down in that section of Ontario between Toronto and Montreal, and north forty to sixty miles from the Bay of Quinte.

Scotland's beautiful cities and industrial centres were briefly visited by the speaker, also the lakes and hills, mountains and valleys of the rough and rugged romantic countryside.

Scotland Never Conquered

Scotland was never conquered and from the battle of Bannockburn in 1314 to 1603, when James VI established their proud independence until mingling with the greatness of England, Scotland's English isles with Great Britain. Scotland is a democratic country, each having the same status as Canada, and it has a voice in the Houses of Parliaments at London by a stated number of members and peers.

Religious history from the days of St. Columba and other saints who formed the background of the Scottish Church and Presbyterianism which more than anything else served to make a United Scotland, on to the Reformation, with John Knox and Presbyterianism established church of Scotland, Episcopalian Church of Scotland, big chapter in the development of Scotland's history. Others added one to the almost incessant fighting which forms such an interesting part of its history.

Education from the early days when the youth of Scotland was sent to France to study, until the founding of Scottish universities establishment of St. Andrews, followed by Glasgow, universities climaxing in Edinburgh town.

Scotland's Bard

Closing with an eloquent and earnest tribute to the memory of Scotland's immortal bard, Robert Burns, Mr. Dand of Vancouver said he says shadows cast on the personal character of Burns, "shadows were the result of his own downright honesty in confessing to sins and faults which all men might bear. He was too honest to conceal anything. He was a man who lived and loved by the average man of his day Robert Burns was loved in life as any of them. His one grand year in English was 1786, when he was toast and toast of Lords and Ladies and was the favorite woman and the influence of his poems upon Scottish character dates from that time. Burns was born January 25, began writing when he was ten years of age, had his first volume published at the age of twenty-two and died at the age of thirty-seven. He was a person of that "one glorious year in Edinburgh," says Lockhart, "of fame and poverty, with hard work and little joy. Death calmed him as a young man, but he still lives in the hearts of his fellowmen and the poems which described so well the daily life of Scotland and after. Scotland may be a mixture of many nations but the national characteristics are those of Burns, one of each and rejected the worst and that is the best of the Scots and so well bred, concluded the speaker.

Bogalusa, La., Jan. 31—(AP) — Millard Carrier, a farmer, vouches for this fish story.

He said he rode his horse into Tickfaw River to water the animal. While the horse drank he removed his false teeth to wash them in the stream.

A fish struck his hand and swallowed the plate.

Carrier returned quickly for his fishing tackle and rifle.

He angled for the fish, but failed Soon there was another strike and he shot the fish.

It was a jackfish weighing about eight pounds.

Carrier said he split the fish open and recovered his false teeth.

ITALY FAVORS RE-ARMING OF GERMANY

Abolition of Chemical Warfare Advocated by Italians

MILITARY EXPENSE

Prohibition of Bombing of Civilians to be Applied

Rome, Jan. 31—Italy came out in favor of the rearmament of Germany as the only practical solution of the armaments question, in an official memorandum issued today.

This re-armament, under the Italian plan, would be based on status quo for other powers on the principle aspects of their armaments.

The following limitations, however would be applied:

1. Abolition of chemical warfare.
2. Prohibition of bombardment of civil populations.
3. Limitation at present levels of military expense, not bound by treaties in force.
4. Limitation to its present size of terrestrial equipment of these powers.

"Public opinion of the world is convinced that the capital and practical question is no longer to impede German re-armament," the memorandum said, "but to avoid that this should be effected outside the sphere of regulation and control."

MAN IS HELD AFTER DEATH

Woman Found Unconscious And Room in a Shambles

Montreal, Jan. 31.—(CP)—Her skull fractured by blows from a dull instrument and with numerous bruises and cuts about the head, Mrs. Sara Enright, 35, Winnipeg, died in hospital here today. Police are holding William Kelly, 54, of Montreal, pending the inquest.

Loud screams attracted police to an apartment house on Stanley Street early today. They broke into the apartment and found it in a shambles. Blood was spattered over the furniture, chairs were broken and several broken bottles were lying on the floor.

In a corner of the room lay Mrs. Enright, unconscious, bleeding from several wounds about the head and face. After summoning an ambulance, they took Kelly in charge. He was in the room at the time and his clothes were covered with blood, officers said. Kelly is claimed by police to have admitted striking Mrs. Enright during a quarrel.

The woman died in hospital without regaining consciousness.

ONTARIO HOUSE OPENS FOR BUSINESS

ONTARIO PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS

PREMIER GEO. S. HENRY

GEO. A. McQUIBBAN

The Ontario Provincial House opened its doors for business on Wednesday, Jan. 31 for the last session under the present regime. A stormy session is expected with Ontario Liberals showing signs of returning life, now that an election is forecast for the summer. The Liberals in Ontario House will be led this year by Geo. A. McQuibban, who has succeeded W. E. N. Sinclair in that capacity. Premier Henry and his cohorts, of course, have much up their sleeves in the way of government policy too.

ZWICK'S ISLAND PROJECT EXPLAINED BY MR. MOORE

Horticulturists Gather For Banquet at Queen's Hotel

The first dinner to be sponsored by the Belleville Horticultural Society was that held in the New Queen's Hotel, Tuesday evening, and it proved a delightful innovation. When it is said the event was the first of its kind, the statement might be qualified to read, it was the first that any of those who enjoyed the affair had ever heard of. To those who inaugurated the idea, Tuesday evening's happy event must have provided worthwhile satisfaction. Over 50 horticulturists and beauty-lovers of the city were in attendance, an excellent repast, splendidly served greeted the diners, and Mr. H. J. Moore, the guest speaker, gave a most interesting address. During the evening Miss Anna Lafferty entertained in an appreciated recitation, "The House with Nobody in it."

Mrs. George A. Bonisteel, president of the Belleville Horticultural Society, capably and charmingly occupied the chair for the evening. In her welcoming remarks, neatly and happily worded, Mrs. Bonisteel referred to all present as directly or closely associated with the activities of the society over which she was again this year privileged to preside. She trusted the evening would prove instructive and enlightening as well as entertaining. This was the first effort of the Society in the way of dinners and she thought it was a most profitable undertaking. Mrs. Bonisteel then eulogistically introduced Ald. W. A. Woodley.

Alderman Woodley as senior member of the City Council, represented that body in the unavoidable absence of Mayor Tice. Mr. Woodley said the work that had been done by the Horticultural Society about Belleville was not only appreciated by the council but by the citizens of Belleville as a whole; it showed what a united organization could accomplish. During the afternoon he had looked over the plans of the Zwick's Island project and was greatly pleased with them. He had always been favorable to a park there. He came tonight as a representative of the city not as a horticulturist or a speaker. Mr. Woodley trusted the evening would prove profitable and most enjoyable to all.

The pleasant duty of introducing the speaker of the evening had been assigned to the Rev. W. Harold Reid. Mr. Reid said introduction of Mr. H. J. Moore of Islington to a gathering of Belleville horticulturists was a perfunctory gesture. All who did not know him intimately, knew of him through the newspapers, his articles on horticultural matters and by his promin-

COPIES "CRY HAVOC" FOR ALL SCHOOLS

5,000 Copies of Abridged Edition Bought By Province.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Five thousand copies of a special abridged edition of "Cry Havoc!" Beverly Nichols noted denunciation of war, are, it is learned, being purchased by the Ontario Department of Education for distribution among all the schools of the province.

Premier Henry, as head of the department, has issued instructions that the edition be bought, and it will go on the printing press immediately, and will be made available with all possible speed.

The Prime Minister has taken a great personal interest in the book, it is said, and feels that by bringing it to the attention of the youth of the province in this manner, it will go a long way toward building up for them a proper conception of war, and consequently creating within them a proper desire for peace.

Every class of school will receive the book, it is said. Dr. George F. Rogers, chief director of education, is looking after the distribution of the edition.

FIRETRUCK IN FATAL CRASH

Grass Fire Indirectly Causes Four Men's Deaths

Trenton, N.J., Jan. 31—(AP)— A small grass fire indirectly cost the lives of four men last night. Three others are in the hospital.

The Slackwood Volunteer Fire Company responded to an alarm and the truck roared on toward the Brunswick Pike. Toward the intersection another truck was moving.

The truck collided with a terrific impact.

George Combs and Howard Grant were dead before they reached McKinley Hospital. Fred Turner, his chest crushed and Walter Penrod, his skull fractured, died today.

The others, injured, were John Moreton, Wesley Gromikowski and George Hancock.

The condition of Arthur L. Burke, Reeve of Sidney Township, who has been confined to his home through illness for the past several days, remains unchanged today according to reports from the home.

London and Welsh Press Extols Two-Way Trade as Produce Ship Arrives

Vardulia's Arrival Heralded in Newspapers of Motherland as Finest Gesture of Reciprocity Between Canada And The United Kingdom

BELLEVILLE IS MENTIONED

Welsh Colliery Owners And Shipping Companies See Future Development and Note With Pride How the Commerce Crusaders Carry Their Slogans Into Business Across The Sea

The British press including the London Daily Mail, the London Daily Express, the South Wales Western Mail, the South Wales Evening Post, all carry well displayed articles on the two-way trade plan and the work of the Central Ontario Commerce Crusaders of Belleville and are in favor of the plan being put into effect and point out clearly the great benefits that will arise to the British coal industry and the Canadian farmers. Ontario farm products are on exhibition in the offices of one of the oldest established coal operating companies in England.

No difficulties are presented in the fostering of the trade.

The British press carries the Commerce Crusaders' slogans and special reference is made to the fact that if suitable steamers are not available they will be constructed. Ontario cheese will receive special consideration and it is believed that this reciprocity in trade will bring back the exportable cheese trade.

The Central Ontario Commerce Crusaders with headquarters at Belleville are all delighted with the magnificent reception the shipments of cheese have received and because the plan in its fullest conception will be in full swing before long.

Belleville has shown the way in an Empire trade movement of great magnitude which will eclipse any undertaking in the history of this district, it is hoped.

Comments from various British newspapers follow:

WESTERN MAIL AND SOUTH WALES NEWS, SWANSEA, WALES:

"An interesting development on the lines of trade reciprocity will commence today by the arrival of a cargo of Canadian produce at the Swansea docks.

"T. T. Pascoe, Ltd., an old-established firm of coal exporters at Swansea, are responsible for the innovation, which it is hoped, will eventually lead to the regular importation of Canadian produce at Swansea.

"The cargo due to arrive today consists of Canadian apples, cheese and canned tomatoes. Canadian merchants are anxious to establish a market for this produce in the Welsh anthracite area in the belief that Welsh miners and their families, who are dependent to a certain extent on the Canadian anthracite market, will respond by patronizing their own customers.

"It is understood that if the scheme is fully supported there is a possibility of steamers specially constructed to deal with traffic in both directions being chartered. This would have the effect of lowering costs and prices.

Queen Sends Letter to Titmouses with Grateful Thanks for Ride

Cambridge, England, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Percy Titmous received a letter today. It was from the Queen.

Her Majesty expressed to the Titmouses her grateful thanks for their assistance Monday when the Queen's automobile broke down on the road between Cambridge and Ely.

On that occasion Mr. Titmous transported the Queen in his little sedan from the stalled royal limousine to the Queen's destination in Cambridge.

STRATOSPHERE BALLOON CREW FOUND DEAD

Bag Breaks Away as Gondola Hits The Earth

KILLED LANDING

Scientific Instruments, Data Are Completely Destroyed

Moscow, Jan. 31 (AP)—All three members of the crew of the Soviet stratosphere balloon "Osoaviakhim" were killed between 3:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. yesterday, several hundred kilometres southeast of Moscow, near the village of Potiskyostrog.

The disaster was announced officially today by the Soviet Civil Aviation authorities after 24 hours of unconfirmed reports and rumors while a search went on for the fliers who yesterday reported they had reached an altitude of 67,585 feet.

The official announcement said the crew was killed while attempting to land the great balloon.

The balloon bag broke away from the gondola as it hit the ground in a hard landing. The force of the concussion killed the three occupants of the gondola and destroyed all the scientific instruments aboard. They were found dead in their gondola at the village of Patinsky, U.S.S.R.

Following the crash the bag tore loose from the gondola and disappeared into the clouds.

Nothing had been heard from the balloon since last night when it sent a wireless message that it was trying to find a landing place in a heavy fog.

Aeroplanes, sent to direct the balloonists to safety were unable to find the great bag and its cargo of men who ascended yesterday to a height they reported as being higher than any before reached by man.

$70,000 BLAZE AT HAMILTON

Oldest Building in The Business Section Prey to Flames

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 31.—(CP)—One of Hamilton's oldest buildings today was gutted by fire that caused $70,000 damage to the Cunningham Block and forced firemen to fight for two hours before extinguishing the flames.

The fire broke out last night and spread rapidly. All available firemen and equipment were called to fight the flames. Water damage was done to the Pacific Telegraph the C.P.R. Ticket and the Canadian Pacific Express offices and wire service from the Telegraph office was disrupted for a short period.

The flames, it was believed, originated on the top floor of the Cunningham Building which housed the photographic studio of A. M. Cunningham and Sons. Flames were first noticed in the developing room. Valuable photographic equipment, photographs, prints and plates of Hamilton citizens fell prey to the flames.

Both upper floors of the building were gutted and the lower floor drenched with water.

CHEQUE ARTIST AT KINGSTON

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 31.—A bogus cheque artist has been at work in Kingston according to report made to police today and already it is known that two local grocers were defrauded of $27.45 and $17.45 respectively. A third case is reported and is under investigation. In both cases known to the police a man said to be a foreigner, visited stores in the morning and made purchases, paying cash. Later in the day he returned and made purchases, tendering cheques which were later found to be valueless.

THROWN FROM TOBOGGAN

North Bay, Ont., Jan. 31.—(CP)—Hurled from a toboggan while coasting down a steep hill near here, eight-year-old Grace McGaughey, daughter of Magistrate and Mrs. C. S. McGaughey, suffered a fracture of the leg. She was removed to hospital where her condition was reported satisfactory.

COMPLAINT UNJUSTIFIED

Sudbury, Ont., Jan. 31. — Complaints made by striking employes of the Brownlee Brothers' camps at Jackpine River, in connection with sanitary facilities there, were not justified, district sanitary inspector D. S. McKee of Sudbury has told the Ontario Department of Health.

Beer-Wine Policy Not Mentioned in Speech as Legislature Opens

Encouragement of Progress to Recovery of Business Noted

DAIRY PLANS

New Peak in Hydro Consumption Sign of Improvement

(By Jack Hambleton Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Jan. 31 (CP)—Providing for Provincial control of milk, and forecasting operations in the construction and maintenance of highways to provide employment, the Speech from the Throne was read at the formal opening of the Ontario Legislature today by Hon. Herbert A. Bruce, Lieutenant Governor of the province. There was no indication in the speech as to the government's policy with regard to sale of beer and wine by the glass.

Tribute was paid to two cabinet ministers, Hon. E. A. Dunlop and Hon. J. D. Monteith, and to other members of the legislature who have died since last session.

Markets For Produce.

Payments of the Dominion and Province for the relief of unemployment are to be continued for the present year and will be employed largely in providing work, with the aim of eventually curtailing the direct relief system. Reviewing the work of the past year, the speech declared the progress made in opening up and extending markets for the products of Ontario farms had been gratifying. With the Federal Department of Agriculture, the Provincial Department is co-operating in efforts to improve the quality of beef cattle and to increase the yield of dairy cows.

The Abitibi power development will soon be paying its own way, the speech forecast. With regard to the Hydro Electric Commission, the speech declared nearly $3,000,000 was added to the public utilities reserve, bringing the total reserves up to $69,000,000.

Deeds of Loyalists.

The deeds and sacrifices of the United Empire Loyalists were referred to in the speech, in connection with celebration of the 150th anniversary of their landing in Upper Canada, to be held this summer. "It is eminently fitting these devoted people should be remembered by succeeding generations," said the speech.

Strikes and disputes in Northern Ontario road-building and lumber camps were mentioned in the speech when it said "living conditions of men engaged in lumbering operations and boarding in camps in the north country are such as to call for official investigation and supervision from time to time."

HIGHLIGHTS

Highlights of the speech from the Throne read at the opening of the Ontario Legislative Session today included:

Absence of any reference to sale of beer and wine by the glass on which an announcement of Government policy is expected this session.

Citing of Hydro Electric Commission operations as an evidence of the trend of industry, with information that in December the actual peak power load carried by the various systems reached the highest point in the Commission's history.

Forecast that "contracts already made and others being arranged", ensure the Abitibi Power project will be self-sustaining "in the near future."

Hope that "proper guidance" will prevent recurrence of disputes and strikes in northern lumber camps; and assertion that living conditions there "call for official investigation and supervision from time to time." This will be the subject of legislation.

Mining

Prediction of increasing strength in mining, with a favorable outlook for still greater yields of gold; and reference to increased production of nickel and copper with the effect mines of the Sudbury region were "rapidly recovering the status of former year."

Announcement payments by Province and Dominion for unemployment relief will continue for the present year, largely in provision of work so that direct relief may be curtailed gradually.

Milk Control

Statement that Provincial control of milk distribution in the interest of health has been found necessary through observations of government officials. A Bill will be introduced. Notation of progress in extending reformative influence of penal institutions as evidenced by a continued reduction in committals.

Announcement that operations on construction and maintenance of highways will be undertaken in the coming session on a larger scale than last year, to provide employment, with continuation of special aid to counties and townships.

Plans for increasing consumption of Ontario fish. Forecast of surplus on ordinary revenue, and legislation to extend the Mortgagors and Purchasers Relief Act another year in respect to bus and truck transportation, and concerning inspection and grading of agricultural products.

ED. W. GRANGE PASSES AWAY

Napanee Man Dies in Ottawa Very Suddenly

Ottawa, Jan. 31—(CP)—With a suddenness which shocked his many friends, Edward Wilkinson Grange, General Manager for Canada of Reuters, Limited, died last night. One of the best known and most popular figures in parliamentary newspaper circles, Mr. Grange had been ill for only two days. He was 57 years of age and a native of Napanee.

On Monday last he was at his office attending to his duties, but feeling ill was forced to go home. As late as last evening he was able to take an interest in what was going on and give directions as to the conduct of his business. For the past two years, however, his health had been failing.

WEATHER

Toronto, Jan. 31.—(CP)—Light snowfalls have occurred in northern districts of Ontario and in Manitoba but elsewhere the weather has been for the most part fair. It has been decidedly cold throughout Eastern Canada, but temperature is now rising in the region of the Great Lakes. It has been mild in the West but is becoming colder again this morning in Manitoba and Northern Saskatchewan.

Northern Ontario—Strong southwesterly winds; milder with occasional snow. Thursday — Strong northwest winds; cloudy and colder with occasional snow.

Ottawa and Upper St. Lawrence Valley—Strong southwest winds; cloudy and milder with light local snow. Thursday—Strong southwest to northwest winds; cloudy and becoming colder again with light snow.

Lake Superior—Strong southwest to northwest winds; cloudy and mild, with occasional snow or rain; colder in west portion at night.

Kenora and Rainy River—Cloudy, with occasional snow, followed by strong northwest winds and becoming colder again.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan—Strong northerly winds; mostly cloudy and colder, with occasional snow.

Alberta—Mostly fair; colder in north portion and a little lower temperature in south.

City and District News

CLEAN SNOW FROM ALL CITY STREETS

Twenty-six extra men were put on the streets yesterday morning to spread throughout the city today in an effort to clear the walks and crossings of the drifting snow which had been piled by the wind and snow plowing machines. The work is being carried on by the department of the district of deep cleaning in the thick ice of the roads at the curb and is expected at a rate of ten days and the consequent finishing of sidewalks on the business streets.

TOO BLUSTERY TO WORK AT ISLAND

Blustery winds and flying snowflakes which whipped the island during the morning, existing conditions were than those experienced during the sub zero weather of Monday and Tuesday, caused the cessation of work today at Zwicky Island and completed approximately two hundred men to pack their tools and leave the bench. It is expected that work will be resumed on Thursday when conditions are not so severe.

HAND BLOWN OFF BY DYNAMITE CAP

With his right hand completely blown off, and both arms badly mangled by a premature explosion of dynamite on the farm he had been preparing for rock blasting at the Eagle Hill road near Tonge's where the Belleville highway workers are now stationed, Reed Alley of Tweed district was rushed to the general hospital at Perth where an amputation of the right arm was made below the elbow. Although the left arm was badly lacerated and torn, it is believed that the injured member will be saved. Shortly before six, several of whom were Belleville boys, were injured by the first fragments following the explosion.

CLARE MALLEY MAY BE MAGISTRATE

Word was received at the county building today that the name of Mr. Clare Malley of Trenton, formerly known as Haven of Hastings County Council, has been submitted to the Ontario government for the appointment of police magistrate for the town of Deseronto, succeeding O. F. Palmer, who tendered his resignation some time ago. It is expected that announcement of his appointment will be made within the course of a few days.

Mr. Malley is a life long resident of Deseronto and an ex-service man. Besides having considerable municipal experience in the town of Deseronto, he has also served with distinction in the County Council, having held the chairmanship of finance during the year 1932. He is a Past Master of Craig Masonic Lodge.

Men Miss Mail-bag Holding Up Carrier

Cobourg, Jan. 31—W. Roberts, mail carrier, was held up on Georgina road early yesterday morning by two men who were operating an automobile and had stopped directly in front of Mr. Roberts' mail car. He pulled to the side of the road to get by the hold-up men, but they climbed on the running board of the mail car and ordered "Roberts" to "step on up." They asked where the mail sacks were and Mr. Roberts told them they were in the back of the car. One of the men ransacked the mail bags, but the robbed bag Mr. Roberts had with under his front seat. It is stated by the Postmaster, Mr. Lee, that the apparently nothing is missing due to the good judgment of the mail carrier in concealing the bag. The Police are endeavouring to apprehend the bandits.

APPOINTED CHAIRMAN

Campbellford, Jan. 31. — Holding his first meeting in 1934, the Campbellford Board of Health yesterday morning appointed John Coy chairman for the current year, a position he has held for some years.

St. Andrew's Church, Marmora Holds Congregational Meeting

Invite Pastor to Remain For Another Term

Marmora, Jan. 31—The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's United Church took place in St. Andrew's Hall on Thursday evening with the pastor, Rev. C. W. Dunstan, in the chair. The minister's report was given, showing 28 young people were received into the church during the past year as follows: 6R. Andrew's 20; Zion 6, by letter 1. Twenty-four services were baptized and the weddings were carried out. The membership of 146 was an increase of 20 over the previous year. The pastor referred to the interest to open up Young People's work next week and also stressed the value of the attendance.

The Sunday School report presented by H.-W. Sabine showed an attendance of 178, with an average attendance of 85 for the year. Of $197.27 raised, the year ended with a balance on hand of $17.27.

W. A. Sanderson gave a brief but favorable report of the activities of the Ladies' Aid.

Miss M. Brown gave a most comprehensive report of the activities of the Women's Association. This association held seven regular meetings and one social during the year. Of the year's receipts amounting to $205.00 the sum of $100.00 has been transferred to the Church Board funds.

O. R. Airhart in giving the financial report, stated that receipts derived from the various sources compared favorably with previous years. $2.25 also, in connection with Arthur Sweet, gave figures on the Remembrance Fund.

D. E. Bell followed with the report of the Sunday School and Mission Band, stating that the returns had been good and that the times were taken into consideration.

Miss Hadley and Delsey and Mr. Jack Maloney of town, won at bridge, and Mr. and Mrs. P. Bowsby at euchre. A choice lunch was served at midnight after which dancing was enjoyed for a couple of hours.

Mrs. F. Feroet and Mrs. E. Shannon of Delsey were called to Ingersoll on Monday owing to the illness of their mother.

Dick Rathbonne in "Heroes For Sale," coming to the Capitol, Thursday.

WATERCOLOR OF NEW CHURCH

In a display window of Adams the Shoeman, Front Street, is on view, a very fine water-color of the nearly completed Anglican Church of St. Mark's and Rosarian. The artistic conception is the work of Mr. J. Arnold Thomson of this city, who was architect of the edifice. Building started last summer and the cornerstone was laid in September last. Dedication is to be made some time in February.

POWER COST UP, CHARGED

Dr. J. A. Faulkner Speaks at Liberal Gathering in Toronto

Tordonto, Jan. 31—Charges that power cost for ordinary domestic service to a workingman's home in Trenton had increased 307 per cent. after the Trenton Waterpower and Electric Light Company had been taken over by the Ontario Hydro Commission, and that a petition signed by 300 consumers of the Hydro system in Trenton was in course of circulation, were made by courtesy of a reply from the Hydro were made last night at a meeting of Dr. J. Albert Faulkner, Liberal candidate for West Hastings.

Speaking before a meeting of Ward No. 2 Liberals, which nominated Ernest C. Bogart as their candidate to the Liberal candidacy, in Bracondale Avenue Church, the slashing attack upon the $18,000 salary paid to Mr. R. Cooke, Hydro chairman, who, he claimed, was qualified for the job "only by being a farmer"; on the $10,000 salary paid an unnamed retired farmer of Mr. Cooke's township as a Hydro official; and on "the whole line-up of salaries for which the men with callouses on their hands are not going to stand at the next election."

Dr. Faulkner shared speaking honors with Sam Factor, M.P., and A. W. Roebuck, Liberal candidate in Bellwoods, who assailed Premier Hepburn's "vacillating and politically

CLEAR WATER FOR ISLAND

New Well Being Dug At Zwick's Island by Workers

Crystal clear water of the Bay of Quinte, filtered through the thick gravel beds of Zwick's Island, will be furnished visitors to Zwicks Island next year, according to the completion of a well which is now being dug in the location of the former well-house.

Today the final work of clearing the deep excavation made on the site of the new well is being carried on, and it is expected that the huge concrete pipe, which will be used for lining the well, be placed on Friday. It is expected that the two pumps of the approved type will be placed in the well by the efficient water for drinking and other purposes.

Even at the present time, with the well only half completed, the flow of water is excellent, and of the clearest quality, according to workmen who excavated the site.

FELLED TREE CUTS HOUSE

Tree Ends Fall on Floor of First Story of Dwelling

There's a knack in felling a tree the right way that even a beaver must learn, as Hyman Burns, resident in the district north of the city, can now tell you.

Burns, living alone in a tiny house in the side of the road from that village, hied forth on Monday with his trusty axe to chop down a large giant tree with a few feet from his doorstep. Two things intimated to him in the first few heavy dead limbs of the tree should fall away from the prevailing wind. Second he needed firewood.

Lastly Hyman chopped, deepening the gash in the butt opposite the first notch cut on the other side to guide the fall. On the last stood a small clearing where the tree was intended to drop. On the right stood Hyman's house, squatting unsignificantly under the towering maple.

Hyman hummed as he worked. And the blade of the axe bit deeper into the wood, the maple quivered with each successive blow. Came an ominous crack, and Hyman, with a presentiment of death like final blow. Then he stepped back and watched the tree crash majestically.

With a resounding sound that was heard for a mile, and a magnificent swoop that was heart-rending to see, the huge maple started downward with a force that was irresistible. But it did not drop toward the clearing. It canted towards the shack. It fell directly and heavily across the trembling roof top of the little house. The tree ended its fall on the floor of the first storey, where Hyman's frame is bearing with a kind-hearted neighbor until he can gather sufficient help for a woodcutting bee, and assistance in repairing a house which is cleaved wide open to the zero weather.

PEACE GARDEN IS DESCRIBED
Canada Holds Key to World Peace, Kiwanians Told

The International Peace Garden established in the Turtle Mountain district of Manitoba and across the boundary in the United States comprising 2,000 acres, when completed, will be a lasting monument to long existent friendship between Canada and the States, said H. J. Moore, ex-president of this rural garden, to members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon on Tuesday. It was one of the most instructive addresses on peace, that has been given before the club for some time and at the conclusion the Club went on record on sponsoring the peace project outlined by Premier Hepburn. W. Mott, Leslie King and J. S. Woodsworth with a rider of also approving of the Peace Garden.

Sandy Lummiss, president and manager of the Hayes Bread Company, was the booster of the day and fittingly introduced by Eddie Logan, chairman of the committee. Sandy was born in Wallbridge in Hastings County and the first thing he learned to do was to carry a gun and he has fulfilled the duty many occasions. An ardent sportsman, all round good fellow Sandy is well liked in the club and a good Kiwanian. His samples of whole wheat bread, manufactured in this city, were a treat and probably more customers will be the outcome. President Eddie Shapiro sent in his report. Gossip is no longer leader, and Ernie Finkle collected the fines. The meeting was well attended and all were reminded of the big dance to be held on February 12th at the Johnstone Academy.

Mr. Moore, who is a landscape artist from Islington, was introduced by George Griffith and Kiwanian appreciation was expressed by J. O. Herity. The speaker traced the development of the garden showing the prominent men and women of Canada and United States at the head of the enterprise and the methods, that were to be employed to raise the necessary funds. Mr. Moore told of the dedication of the garden in 1932, when 15,000 were in attendance in 18,000 acres. It is intended to build not more than 15,000 would attend. All this, said the speaker, has been attained without bullyism or strong arm methods. Canada and United States at the head of the enterprise and the methods, that were to be employed to raise the necessary funds. Mr. Moore told of the dedication of the garden in 1932, when 15,000 were in attendance in 18,000 acres. It is intended to build not more than 15,000 would attend. All this, said the speaker, has been attained without bullyism or strong arm methods. Canada and all in the interests of peace. He further stated, that Canada would be the key to the world peace with the League of Nations holding a prominent part. The address was received with applause and the garden will most likely be the beauty spot of the entire world, when completed.

ADDED REST ROOMS AT NEW QUEENS HOTEL
New Smoking and Writing Room for Travellers

Most attractive in its new settings and furniture is the new writing and smoking room of the new Queen's Hotel, opened Tuesday for the first time. The room occupies the old quarters used for a cafe-restaurant and is much the previous size that was the old bar room of the hotel. Newly decorated and with a bright attractive color scheme the new writing room will appeal strongly to the commercial guests of the house, and this latest innovation of the hostelry's excellent management appreciated by them.

The change provides also larger and more comfortable quarters and allows of better, quicker and more efficient service to the dining department of the hotel. Catering at the New Queens Hotel is to be held on back to the high standard set by the former beloved proprietor, the late F. P. Powers.

WOMAN SHOT IN QUARREL

Young Miner From Timmins Held on Attempted Murder Charge

Toronto, Jan. 30 (CP)— Gordon Hardy Coleman, 24 year old miner of the Timmins, Ont., district, was in jail today awaiting trial on a charge of attempting to murder his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mabel Shaw, 42. In hospital, receiving treatment for a bullet wound in her left hand and Coleman's wife, Mrs. Adelaide Coleman, is suffering from shock and frost-bite.

Coleman is alleged to have shot and wounded his mother-in-law with a .45 calibre revolver when the woman objected to his presence in her home. It is alleged Coleman broke down the door of the Shaw home when he was refused admittance. Police said he had arrived in Toronto in hopes of effecting a reconciliation with his wife, who is said to have left him recently, coming to stay with her mother here from Timmins.

According to police, Coleman was under the influence of liquor when he arrived at the Shaw home. When Mrs. Shaw attempted to call police, Coleman is alleged to have shot three shots at her; one of these striking her in the left hand and knocking the telephone receiver out of her hand.

Mrs. Coleman, in bed when her husband arrived, jumped upon the roof in her night attire. She was found two hours later by police, suffering from shock and frost-bite feet.

Sisters Intervene

Intervention of two sisters, Margaret and Ruth Coleman, resulted in the young man's capture, police said. Coleman was reported to have fled in the attic with the revolver. 8-year-old adopted daughter of Mrs. Shaw when police arrived. Officers declared he refused to surrender and is claimed to have threatened to shoot the child if the police succeeded the attic stairs.

His sisters, however, finally succeeded in their pleadings for their brother to surrender and Coleman stumbled down the stairs, handed his gun to the officers and was taken in to the police station.

DEFENCE LEAGUE HEAD INDICTED BY CROWN

Charged With Seditious Utterances Against Premier

Toronto, Jan. 31—(CP)—A. E. Smith, Toronto, head of the Canadian Labor Defence League, was under indictment today on a charge of seditious utterances. A grand jury yesterday indicted Smith for allegedly having said Premier R. B. Bennett had ordered the murder of Tim Buck, Toronto Communist leader, during riots at King-ston Penitentiary on Oct. 17, 1932.

Smith, however, was given the court for his efforts to secure release of Buck and seven other Communist leaders from the penitentiary, was said to have made the offensive remark in a recent speech. He is known also for his agitation for the repeal of section 98 of the Criminal Code under which Buck and his colleagues were convicted.

In his speech, the crown claims, Smith referred to a Communist play, "Eight Men Speak" which was banned here in Toronto, and said: "I say deliberately that Bennett gave the order to shoot Tim Buck in his cell in cold blood with intent to murder him. Comrades, I say it was no accident. It was an order given from Bennett to Guthrie (Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice) and from Guthrie to the men. They were only carrying out their orders and they meant to kill Buck."

BLOCKED LINES BEING RETURNED TO NORMAL

Snow Causes Blockade And Maroons Over 600 Passengers.

Montreal, Jan. 31—(CP)—Normality gradually returned to the snowbound Matapedia Valley today after the worst storm in Eastern Canada in 25 years had blocked the main line of the Canadian National Railways between Halifax, Nova Scotia, and Campbellton, N.B., for more than 24 hours and marooned 600 passengers.

The first break in the traffic tie-up came last night, when two eastbound trains finally nosed their way into Campbellton through deep snowdrifts. Both were hours late but passengers were overjoyed at their release from the hard-packed snow. Over the old Transcontinental line through New Brunswick two other trains were being rerouted.

Meanwhile a hastily gathered army of railway workers were using every means at their disposal to clear the tracks so other traffic could push through the storm area.

PREMIER BENNETT DEFENDS ACTION OF GIVING TITLES

Bourassa Pleads For Moratorium to Solve Problems

Ottawa, Jan. 31 (CP)— Forward-looking action rather than political controversy will be Parliament's watchword this session if appeals from the widely differing quarters of the House of Commons are heeded.

"Let us go forward, let us advance," urged Prime Minister R. B. Bennett in the House of Commons last night as he made a spirited defence of his Government's record and announced this was not the time for a general election. Let us people wanted to get on with a solution of pressing problems.

From the opposite side of the House, Henri Bourassa, veteran white-bearded statesman and one-time storm-centre of Quebec politics pleaded for a moratorium on political bickerings and a combined effort of all parties in solving the economic and social problems of the day.

Mr. Bennett spoke at length yesterday afternoon and last night and replied in detail to charges levelled against his Government the day before by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King. He declared the 1919 resolution of the House of Commons banning titles had no legal effect and defended his action in naming Canadians for titles in the New Year's honors list.

Wheat Plan Endorsed

Trade, employment and industrial statistics were cited by the Prime Minister to show Canada was in the end of the darkness moving towards economic recovery. The wheat production co-operative plan arrived at by the London wheat conference was endorsed by the Premiers of the prairie Provinces, he said. They were the men best qualified to determine what was good for the wheat growing areas of Canada.

An unusual move by Robert Gardiner, leader of the Farmer-Labor group, coupled with the official Liberal Opposition in a motion of want of confidence in the government. The day before Mr. King had moved an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the Throne to declare the government had lost the confidence of the House and the people. Mr. Gardiner's motion would include the official Opposition.

Mr. Bourassa who represents Lotbiniere, as an Independent has words of commendation both for Mr. Bennett and the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. Mr. Bennett, he said, was the strongest-willed leader the country had ever had, his public spirit could not be questioned. He was quick of thought and strong of action.

OBITUARY

LATE JOHN SNARR

Rawdon—Despite the very severe weather on Monday, the church was filled to the doors on Monday afternoon as relatives and friends gathered to pay their deepest respect to an honored member of Rawdon Church. Deceased had for many years been associated with the church, being an honored steward, then an honored elder, and a member of the various church boards as well as a loyal and active member of L.O.L. No. 1, Wellman's. L.O.L. members of that body were present at the obsequies and filled the side aisle on the east, and they took charge of the impressive burial service at the graveside in Wellman's cemetery.

His pastor, Rev. F. G. Joblin chose his text from Ist. Corinthians 15: 55, "O Death where is thy sting? O grave where is thy victory?" He was assisted by a nephew, Rev. Harold R. Neal of Belleville, who read the Bible lesson and Rev. Mr. Clarke of Shannonville, a former pastor who paid a tribute to deceased's valued assistance in all forms of church and community endeavours and of his faithful and efficient service.

As an organist Mrs. Wellman's choir were relative the choir of Bethel and their pianist came over for the occasion and the choir rendered "Some One Who Knows." During the service Mrs. Maude Mildred and Annie Elliott sang an appropriate duet, "The End of the Road," with Mrs. Harold Elliott as accompanist. The congregational hymns were: "Forever with the Lord," and "Rock Mark My Soul."

The bearers were Messrs Edward Todd, Charlie Morton, John Rainie, Clifford Clark, Wilfred Sine and Walter Scott.

Deceased was a son of the late Mr and Mrs. John Snarr of Rawdon on the old homestead being where the present Rawdon resides. Beautiful floral tributes covere the casket and were:

Gates Ajar—The Snarr Family; Pillow—Wellman's Church Board L.O.L. 172; sprays, Mr. and Mrs Clifford Clark, Thurlow; Mr. and Mrs. Will Hamilton, Sidney; Mr and Mrs. Floyd Armstrong and Mr and Mrs. Percy Armstrong, Rawdon.

Relatives and friends from a distance attending the obsequies were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson Frankford; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Armstrong, Rev. Harold R. Neal and Mrs. Roland Reid, Belleville; Mrs. Fred Mitchell, Thurlow; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morton, Stirling; Mr and Mrs. Jack Hamilton, Mr and Mrs. Leonard Sharp and Burnside; Mr and Mrs. Alex Reid and Mrs Will Hamilton and sons, Sidney; Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton, Thurlow; Mr. Perry Badgley, Deseronto.

MRS. MARY PAYNE

Trenton, Jan. 31 (Special)—Mary Campbell, widow of the late Richard Payne, passed away at her late residence on Bryce Street, after an illness of three weeks. The late Mrs. Payne was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell, and was born in Tyendinaga 80 years ago. She is survived by one son, C. C. Payne of Toronto and four daughters, Mrs. H. T. Rescator of Bancroft; Mrs. M. K. DUELLING.

Two Frenchmen with a sense of honor dating back to the time of "The Three Musketeers" had to duel over the crash of the banking house in Paris recently where by the government and the people lost millions of francs. They fired at one another but four bullets missed their billets and two men were satisfied.

Wherein was the satisfaction?. That they had carried out an old time custom, though they did not intend to kill; as doubtless they did not desire to do, for they would have fallen into the hands of the law. Or did they know that the bullets would be fired without aim? Did one trust the other to do no harm to him? Or did they find satisfaction in knowing they had risked their lives?

The only explanation is that it is the French way. It would not be a British or United States way. Possibly the French style does less harm than an ocean of vituperation poured forth in the Parliament or other places, played up by the press which would result in the same more trouble than a harmless firing of a bullet, the course of which is misdirected.

The two Frenchmen must have received the compliments of chivalry that is returning to the old French way they had proven themselves true Frenchmen. A Canadian might call it all fake and bunk, but not so those who are the very essence of courtesy and of honor.

Now two Frenchmen want to fight, one on behalf of his wife and the other for himself.

SEASONAL LAY-OFF DECLINES

The seasonal lay-off of workers after Christmas was not as great on record in Canada, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Trade and Commerce. The twelve year record of unemployment maintained in the bureau shows that activity has invariably declined at the beginning of January, the average lay-off being 78,000 and rising to 59,900. This year the lay-off was only 30,387, slightly more than half the average per year for the past twelve years. This decline was also the smallest on record for mid-winter.

821,518 workers were employed by 8,486 firms reported on January 1 as compared with 851,518 on December 1. On January first one year ago 7,947 firms reported 781,218 persons engaged.

These are good signs—and they indicate an improvement in conditions.

WATCHING TAXES

Never in decades have taxes been so closely watched as they are at this time. Not only councils but the citizens generally are studying budgets and are going to study them with more and more interest than ever.

There is a feeling that business will speed up more readily if not for the burden of taxation. It is admitted that business is heavily burdened by the drains of taxes made upon it.

One newspaper commenting on the cost of recovery in the United States says the cost will be staggering and will have to be borne by the taxpayers. Expenditures are naturally to be expected will be held back by reason of the tax load resting upon them for the capital which is invested into extension of trade goes into the government treasury to pay the cost of administration. This is true in Canada and elsewhere.

Montreal Gazette says that while Canada has no NRA to build up a heavy debt in this way, the recovery program has the same principle is at work, namely that taxation, if excessive, will defeat its own ends. It comments in the Ottawa government for the steps taken to reduce the cost of government but is doubtful if the present plans will reduce the cost to the taxpayer greatly.

The Citizens' Research Committee of Montreal is urging that the contemplated expenditures in 1934 do not exceed the total collection of taxes in 1933. That is the way of "playing safe," though it is doubtful if all municipalities can adopt that suggestion, but it will be a great step forward. It is realized that before the former taxpaying power of the citizens is restored the country will have to be in progress for some time and be thoroughly established.

1933 taxes—sections municipally have been below those of 1932—an ominous sign to the financial wizards who manage our cities and towns, villages and rural municipalities. This means citizens cannot stand higher levies, and those municipalities which raise taxes may jeopardize their entire financial structure and their future. No municipality can afford to do this—something which many individuals did in 1929 to their sorrow for the rest of their born days.

Physical death is an incident, a transfer from inconveniences of the human personality to the permanence of the Divine personality.—Masson.

BRIGHT DARKNESS

A man there was who learned that in a year
He must be blind; but in that year of
While vision yet remained he roved our sphere
To look his last on every lovely place
That might be longed to view, "Because," he said,
"All beauty I will take, that take I may,
Into the darkly against his will, for if he were free he would hike home immediately.
A word to the wise should be sufficient.

LOCH NESS has its prehistoric monster, despite the jealous sneers of British Columbia, Lake Okanogan, California and other places boasting sea monsters of lesser importance. If more convincing proof was needed "The Northern Chronicle and General Advertiser for the North of Scotland" published at Inverness, Wednesday, December 27, 1933, publishes a picture of Loch Ness with Urquhart Castle, in the vicinity of Temple Pier, with the caption "The Haunt of the Monster." An article follows below the cut with a three-line single column heading, using not larger than twelve point type, giving the stories of five eye-witnesses who had seen the monster the day previous. These witnesses included John Kirton, M.D., of Oakbank, Fort Augustus. Accompanying the doctor were his son, Ian, and a few schoolmates. The monster was observed sporting in the water of Loch Ness and as described by Dr. Kirton was at least twelve feet in length and with a raise of nearly three feet out of the water. When the monster moved which it did in leaps, the water was lashed into great commotion. Several other citizens arrived while the monster was disporting and they corroborated the doctor's story. Dr. Kirton, M.D., Kirton asserts that he saw the monster last November when its head and neck seemed to be raised about six feet out of the water. The Lock Ness mystery is not played up by the Scottish paper as a sensation, but quietly tucked into one corner of page five, and concludes with various theories as to what kind of an animal is breaking the historic calm of the Scottish mountainside. It is supposed to have come to the sea via the Caledonia canal. VAST FLEETS OF MOTOR CARS, in all the new designs are being feverishly put through the paces of workingmen at automobile making centres in Canada and the United States to fill the demand expected to blossom between now and spring, as indicated by the attendance and enthusiasm manifested at the metropolitan automobile shows over the new models. Detroit sends an optimistic forecast of three million five hundred thousand motor cars and trucks to be sold in 1934, which would mean an increase of a year as 1927 or 1930, one and a half times as good as 1931, and two and a half times as good as 1932. So, it may be that we are going to ride into prosperity in a new streamlined or other new-fangled idea car, which would be very appropriate for such an important occasion, and most fitting after walking most of the time for the past several years trying to locate that corner around which prosperity disappeared.

FEAR LOSING PERSONALITY IN MARRIAGE

Forget Your Ego And Don't Fear to Take a Chance

(By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.)
(Famous Authority on Health and Psychology)

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

People are actually afraid of marriage.

This fear is usually more common among younger people although one finds it also among adults who ought to know better.

There are young women who marry and vow they will not lose themselves simply won't do it spoil their husbands. They are convinced that no woman should be a slave to any man.

There are young men who marry and also make vows. That is they too decide quite seriously and firmly what their future conduct is going to be. One thing they won't stand for, they decide, is being made a fool of by any woman.

Brides and grooms don't always make these decisions in fun so many women do. Often they go so far as to make a pact between themselves.

Nevertheless hundreds feel that way—or they actually make a vow to that same peculiar proposition. What is common to them all is this: They are expecting to lose their identity in individuality and independence!

Older, and married folks will smile, of course. They know the difference between theory and execution. They know what it means to come up against the real thing.

But why should young people realize that marriage means neither give nor take—neither alone — to either the other or themselves approach. Why are they so afraid of submerging their own personalities? Why do they always think they will be the outstanding exception to the rules of the game of matrimony?

The answers to these questions lie in the neuroses of adolescence from which they have but recently passed.

For it must be remembered that from fourteen to eighteen or twenty, all is doubt and uncertainty in the adolescent mind, with emotional topsy-turvydom paramount. Young girls and boys don't know what they want. At least twelve feet in length and with a raise of nearly three feet out of the water. When the monster moved which it did in leaps, the water was lashed into great commotion. Several other citizens arrived while the monster was disporting and they corroborated the doctor's story. London and Welsh Press Extols Two-Way Trade

"Another advantage of the scheme is the benefit it is likely to have on the South Wales tinplate industry. If the market for Canadian canned goods expands, it is likely that more the plates will be required for canning purposes."

LONDON DAILY MAIL:

Swansea, Jan. 31.—"A new system of trade at the port of Swansea will be inaugurated on Thursday when the Canadian steamer Vardulia arrives from Canada with apples, cheese and tinned goods.

"This is the first of a new move towards trade reciprocity between Wales and Canada, which, it is hoped, will benefit not only the anthracite industry, but also the dockers and tinplate trade.

"Last year shipments of Welsh anthracite to Canada amounted to more than 1,000,000 tons. Valuable assistance to the trade was given by the Canadian government's embargo on Russian anthracite, and its duties on German and United States anthracite.

"If full support is forthcoming from this reciprocity venture with Canada, specially constructed steamers will be chartered by Messrs. T. C. Pearce, Ltd., to take anthracite to Canada, returning with Canadian farm produce.

"Both members of the respective companies would, it is claimed, benefit by low prices and continuity of supplies.

SOUTH WALES EVENING POST, SWANSEA:

"Tomorrow (January 18) a vessel from Canada will dock at Swansea and will inaugurate a new system of trade at that port. The steamer Vardulia will land a consignment of Canadian apples, cheese, and canned tomatoes of well known brands and qualities.

"This is a new move towards reciprocity of trade between Wales and Canada and it is hoped will benefit not only the anthracite industry, but also the dockers, and even the tinplate trade.

"Messrs. T. T. Pearce, Limited, the old established firm of coal exporters at Swansea, and among the pioneers of the Welsh anthracite trade for the past sixty years, have taken up certain negotiations for some time past with their Canadian houses to secure Canadian farm produce for which there is a ready market. The negotiations have resulted in Messrs. Pearce's Canadian friends at Belleville shipping by the Vardulia what is to discharge in Swansea, a consignment of Canadian apples, cheese, and canned tomatoes. The Canadian merchants are hoping to make a market for their produce in Swansea and surrounding districts where Welsh anthracite is mined and hope they may feel that, in buying Welsh anthracite coal, the Welsh miners, reciprocally will buy Canadian farm produce.

"Samples of the goods will be open for inspection by wholesale provision merchants on the quay this afternoon. Negotiations

"If this interchange of Empire goods is supported by a demand for Canadian products there requirements cannot be satisfied in Wales, buyers will have the satisfaction of knowing that every pound of Canadian produce consumed by them means more Welsh anthracite for Canada.

"If full support is forthcoming for this venture, specially constructed steamers will be chartered by Messrs. T. C. Pearce to take Welsh anthracite coal out and bring Canadian farm produce home.

"By reciprocity both countries would benefit with cargo and cargo homewards, both the Canadian buyer of Welsh anthracite and the Welsh buyer of Canadian farm produce. Both members would benefit by lower prices and continuity of supplies. It would also mean, by the direct importation of Canadian goods, that Swansea labor would be employed in the discharge of the cargoes.

"It is considered that if this trade is fostered, it will mean that Canada will become a regular market for Welsh anthracite instead of Canned goods, and as many of these are packed in cans made from Welsh tinplate, it will have a beneficial effect on the tinplate trade of South Wales."

SOUTH WALES, EVENING POST, SWANSEA:

"Meanwhile, it is emphasized that there is not in the deal the slightest intention to eliminate the wholesale provision merchant or conduct the matter through other than the usual channels of business.

"The coal will be handled through the usual channels and the goods through the wholesale grocers.

"In the Canadian end of the deal side of the deal is being urged in such phrases as "Welsh coal is the best product in the world." "Of course, anthracite is what we want." "Welsh Coal Markets in Wales for Ontario Farm Produce", and "Extend the Markets in Ontario for Welsh Coal."

Sir A. Cope and Reciprocity.

Sir Alfred Cope said today: 'Undoubtedly Welsh Anthracite trade with Canada is the means of developing reciprocal trade in Canadian goods to Great Britain, for the very simple reason that it provides the necessary shipping accommodation for return journey —coal out, Canadian goods back".

"The Vardulia is carrying Canadian fruit, etc, by the Vardulia is, of course, not the first shipment of Canadian goods to this country made in the reverse direction. Most of Welsh anthracite to Canada, for the past few years, and particularly since the Ottawa Conference, coal boats have gone to Canada, and returned with Canadian timber and Canadian wheat.

"In addition, during the past season, Newfoundland timber has been coming over, and in our anthracite collieries we are using substantial qualities of it to our satisfaction.

"Negotiations are now pending for Nova Scotia timber to come over for use as pit-wood in our collieries and a very interesting inquiry has been received from Canada as to the possibility of substantial quantities of Canadian gypsum for use in this country.

"My own opinion is that the possibilities of Canadian goods back' can be adopted to a far larger extent than it is at present.

"Reciprocity is the thing, and I am very sure that, given a fair surface obtained.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JAN. 31, 1914

Mr. J. R. Cook, M.P.P., has been appointed valuator and right of way man for the Hydro Electric Power Commission. The position was made vacant by the death of J. E. Dench.

Mr. James Cummins, one of Belleville's oldest and most respected citizens passed away at an early hour this morning. He was a great deal of a boy to many friends as two days ago he was about in a private capacity not in good health. He had reached the age of 70 years, having been born in Ireland in the year 1836. At the age of 19 he came to Belleville and had always resided here. For many years he was assistant chief of the city's fire brigade.

The International O.H.A. game at Bowmanville last night Belleville badly defeated Bowmanville, the score being 21 to 1.

30 YEARS AGO

JAN. 31, 1904

The fourth annual banquet which takes the place of the old time initiation rites was held at Albert College and was a great success. The new system is very welcome to the students. Principal Gandier, after the banquet a program of toasts, instrumental and vocal numbers and recitations was carried out. Among the guests were Mayor Chown and Mrs. Chown and Mr. W. H. Cowling, Bursar of the college, and Mrs. Gordon. At the conclusion of the program a short promenade social was held which was much enjoyed by the students.

Good bye January. Here's hoping the below zero weather goes with you.

40 YEARS AGO

JAN. 31, 1894

Snow drifts in town are three feet in depth in some places.

Street surveyor Hulme has men with teams engaged in levelling and packing the snow on Front Street. By this means plenty more snow and ice will be left on the surface obtained.

The hotel company directors have received a number of offers to lease Hotel Quinte, but as yet the matter has not been settled. It is understood that some local hotel men are negotiating for the hotel.

As a result of the recent snow storm very good sleighing would is coming into the city freely today. The price ranges from 25c per cord for superior soft wood to $4.00 per cord for good hard wood.

Mr. Geo. Yerex will leave tomorrow for New York.

Mr. Harold Armstrong of the Merchants' Bank of the Bank of Commerce has been appointed to the agency at Montreal.

Mr. Harry Price has returned to the city from Montreal.

50 YEARS AGO

JAN. 31, 1884

The roads are in very bad condition and it is difficult to draw loads over the hills.

It is now difficult to cross the bay on the ice as in many places it is covered with water.

A checker, chess and whist club has been organized in this city and has a suite of rooms in the Bogart Block on Bridge Street. The members are now ready to receive challenges.

Two of the four candidates who passed the civil service examination in this city in November last namely Messrs S. A. Lazier, Amy and Wallace Ponton have received appointments as clerks in the Inland Revenue Department at Ottawa.

At the last meeting of the Young Men's Social Club Mr. Vandervoort read an article on "electricity—what is it?" Mr. Vandervoort is the president's paper which was read at a previous meeting on "Science of mesmerism" proves a long and interesting one and in the absence of Mr. Vandervoort not exhausted, it was laid over for further discussion. Mr. Vandervoort reported the presentation of the following articles to the museum: Two Indian clubs by Mr. W. H. Gordon; water worn stone by Mr. Wm. Ponton; copper relic by Mr. McGregor, Wolfenden; flying squirrel and specimens of minerals from Yellowstone Park by Mr. D. Ackerill.

MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION ISSUES STATEMENT ON HYDRO

Relation of Hydro Municipalities to Hydro-Electric Commission

In view of the fact that the Ontario Municipal Electric Association is holding its Annual Convention in Toronto this week, and considerable interest in Hydro affairs, which appears elsewhere in this publication, is of public interest.

A popular misconception about the great public utility, known as the Hydro-Electric System, and more familiarly as "Hydro", is that it is owned by the Province of Ontario, or the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. As a matter of fact, the Ontario Hydro", this announcement makes it clear "Hydro" is not owned nor the Commission own the Hydro System, rather the property is owned by the Commission acting in the capacity of trustee, the Hydro System is really owned by the Hydro municipalities who have invested in "stocks" from the Commission and distributed to their consumers. The Government spokes the picture only in matter of taxation. In other words, Hydro is the property of the people of the Province. Further information will be presented by the Ontario Municipal Electric Association.

After declaring that "assessments have been made and published with respect to the Hydro System of Ontario that are not in accordance with the facts," the resolution requesting publicity, embodied in the Association's announcement, states:

"The Municipalities of Ontario are the owners of the Hydro System, in which they have an investment of several three hundred millions of dollars; and anything which would create distrust in the minds of the people as to the proper and efficient conduct of this great Public Utility would tend to impair the value of the investment of the Municipalities in the Hydro System.

"In support of this resolution, it is understood that the Association will publish from time to time, setting forth facts about Hydro which have not heretofore been accomplished for the people of Ontario.

"Turkey" Subject of Address to S. H. S. Literary Society

H. B. Desbrowe, B. A. Tells of His Trip There

Stirling—The outstanding feature of the Stirling High School Literary Society meeting held in the parlors of St. Paul's United Church on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock was an illustrated and illuminating address on "Turkey" delivered by Mr. H. B. Disbrowe, B. A. of the Science Department of the High School. Mr. Disbrowe spent several years in Turkey where he was a member of the teaching staff of a private school and has gained much information on that little-known country. His pictures are practically all taken by his own camera and constitute a real collection of gems.

In the absence of the President, Fred Joblin, John Munro was in the chair and called upon the Misses Ruby and Pearl Stapley to open the program with a guitar duet, "One, two, three, four" and "Aloha" accompanied at the piano by Miss Alice Calow, B.A. Mr. Disbrowe then was called upon for his discourse on Turkey which subject he treated with special reference to the ancient famed cities of Greek and Roman architecture which are now being excavated from their ruins by archaeologists.

"Turkey is one of the most interesting of the newer countries and is not well known. Although it is comparatively old in historical sense, the present day Turkey with its democratic form of government consistings of a president or in truth a dictator and a parliament is entirely different and quite out of keeping with the days of the Sultan, plural marriage and the veiled women which extended up to the time of the Great War. Since the declaration of Turkey as a republic ten years ago, that backward country has made rapid strides towards modernism, almost incredible progress in the short period of ten years.

"Situated as it is in the Anatolian Peninsula, in it are found the moulding ruins of the old city states where the Greeks were once active. The most ancient of these is Ephesus which was occupied by the Greeks and later administered by the Romans, who in their era, laid the famous Roman paved highways which are still in an excellent state of preservation permitting the tourist to rattle over their surface in his Ford touring car at the rate of forty-five and fifty miles an hour. The Greeks were also famed as athletes and here is the site of one of the most magnificent gymnasiums of all, constructed entirely of the very finest of marble with basins and spouts of that stone as well as the aqueduct. The famed library of Ephesus as it appears today and containing the treasure of the written knowledge, of that period was shown although much of its ancient statuary has been removed to museums. The last glimpse of Ephesus was the ruins of the Christian Church of St. John The Divine with its marble lined baptismal fount and series of columns.

Sardis, the ancient home of King Croesus and the first place in which money was coined, bears evidence at one time of its Greek and Roman periods of occupation. Several Greek colonnades were shown, the most antiquated of these columns having the top shifted due to earthquakes. In ancient times when Christians were banned, they used to disclose their identity by tracing the form of a fish in the sands. These same figures have likewise been traced and chiseled in slabs of stone which survive even to the present day. Turkey is as yet beyond the reach of railways and transportation is by means of small Turkish ponies which, although of rather miniature stature, are exceedingly tough, their weak spot being their tender mouths.

Slides were also shown of the Turkish peasant in his gala attire while the Yuruks, a wandering nomad people were also pictured in their colorful costumes. An interesting slide was that of the Maeander River which alters its course frequently and from which the English word "meander" is derived.

Ferries are operated across the river and are large covered apparatuses running on cables which are quite automatic in their operation.

Principal Lawlor moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Disbrowe for his educative and instructive lecture and the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Board Appointed

At the conclusion of the January session of the Hastings County Council, Mr. Chas. F. Linn of Stirling was appointed trustee to the Stirling High School Board for a term of three years.

Mission Band

The Maple Leaf Mission Band of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held a most successful afternoon tea in the basement of the church on Saturday afternoon from three to five. The President, Marguerite Rosebush presided over the program which consisted of two choruses and a Missionary Play, "Mother Goose and her Missionary Children." Jean Dafoe introduced the play after which Helen Murdoff sang a solo, "Jesus wants me for a sunbeam". Mother Goose, Eileen Chambers greeted her children after which each child in turn introduced himself or herself in the following order Jack Horner, Don Murdoff, the Wise Boy, John Rosebush, Little Miss Muffett, Shirley Ormiston, Little Piggie, Bob Tulloch, Old Woman in the Shoe Helen Murdoff, The Sailor, Thomas Foster, Little Boy Blue, Cameron Foster, Lucy Lockett, Helen Fitchett, Simple Simon, Don McIntosh Little girl who had a doll, Doris Jandrews, The poor singer, Jas. McCaughen, The Poor Boy, Donald Jandrew, Mary Quite Contrary, Mary Tulloch, Polly Flinders, Lilian Matthews, Baa-Black Sheep, Earl Dafoe, Rocka bye babies, Margaret Wilson, Doreen Fox, Mary Agnes Fox, Dora Rodgers, Jean McIntosh, Pat-a-cake, Frank Rodgers, Mary had a little lamb, Dorothy Gay, Jack and Jill, Billy and Lila Chambers, Little Bo Peep, Barbara Disbrowe, Leslie Eggleton, Glen Eggleton, Glen Whitehead and Jackie Chambers completed the list. Each child told his missionary tale how that one cent of every ten was henceforth going to help children across the sea. After the program lunch was served by the senior girls. The home cooking table was well patronized. The Mission Band are deeply indebted to James Ward and Harold Baker for their assistance in the preparation for the tea.

Fractures Thigh

Mr. Charles Vance of the fourth concession of Rawdon suffered an unfortunate accident on Friday evening when he fell while skating, fracturing his thigh. Mr. Vance with a party of friends were skating on a sheet of ice in a field on Mr. Fred Richardson's farm when for some unknown reason, he took a tumble fracturing his right thigh and inflicting a cut over his right temple. The injured man was removed to his home where Dr. E. A. Carleton was summoned and after closing the wound over the temple with three stitches. Mr. Vance was taken to the Belleville General Hospital in the ambulance. Here the fracture was reduced and the patient is now resting with the injured right thigh in the required plaster splints.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Meiklejohn were host and hostess at a charmingly arranged bridge party on Friday evening, the prizes for the highest score being won by Mrs. Mae Nolan and Dr. J. S. Demorest.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Anderson entertained a party of friends at bridge on Thursday evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. A. S. Murdoff and Mr. R. W. Meiklejohn.

Scarlet fever has once again been in our midst, the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Eggleton being so far, the only victim. Dr. J. S. Demorest is the atending physician.

Miss Gertrude Callahan of Bell Telephone staff, Campbellford spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Whitehead.

Friends of Mrs. John West are very sorry to hear of her critical illness of pleuro-pneumonia.

Miss Grace Murray was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital on Friday where she underwent a successful operation for appendicitis. Her sister, Miss Isobel Murray, Reg. N. and Miss Margaret Anderson, Reg. N. are in attendance.

Miss Alice Calow, B.A. has been confined to her bed suffering from a severe cold.

Mr. Clinton McGee, Jr. of Marmora spent the week end at his home here.

The many riends of Rev. K. W. Rowland, pastor of St. Paul's United Church are sorry to hear of his continued illness and hope for a rapid return to good health.

Rev. J. A. Koffend is in Ottawa for a few days attending a conference of the Presbyterian Church to which he has been sent as commissioner of this Presbytery.

Mark Anniversary

An extract which is of interest to many Stirling residents appeared in the Saturday, January 27th edition of the Toronto Globe relative to Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Koffend, parents of Rev. J. A. Koffend who is next Sunday conducting the twenty-first anniversary service of the founding of Evangel Hall, Toronto. The extract reads as follows:

"Twenty-one years ago Rev. R. J. and Mrs. Koffend arrived in the city ready to begin an evangelistic centre in down-town Toronto. There was nothing of that nature in the scheme of things being done by the Presbyterian Church and Evangel Hall on Queen Street West was the place chosen as the ideal centre for such a work. That the choice was a wise one has been amply justified through the passing years. Literally hundreds of men and women have found Christ in the little hall on Queen Street, where Rev. R. J. and Mrs. Koffend are still carrying on a noble work among the needy.

The twenty-first anniversary of the founding of Evangel Hall will be observed on Sunday, February 4, when Rev. J. A. Koffend, an early convert in Evangel Hall, now pastor at Stirling, Ont., will speak."

Friends of Mrs. John Tanner are sorry to hear of her serious illness at her home here.

Mr. Robert Bush is still in a critical condition suffering from pleuro-pneumonia. Two doctors and two nurses are in attendance.

Mrs. Anne Bailey was in Lakeport, N.Y. the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Weaver over the week end and attended her daughter, Doris' wedding on Saturday to Mr. Allan Bishop of Lockport, N.Y.

Interesting Wedding

A wedding of interest to residents of Stirling and community is that of Mr. George Heakman, son of Mr. William Heakman to Elva, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McIntosh, of Toronto. The nuptial ceremony was performed in Toronto on Wednesday. The bride along with her parents formerly resided in Stirling where Mr. McIntosh, B. Sc. A. was a former agricultural representative for this district. A brother, Mr. Sheldon McIntosh also lives in town.

Is Injured

Mr. Eric Lovell who is employed on the Marmora-Madoc Highway construction suffered a broken rib on Thursday when, standing on a rock and lifting another boulder on to a truck, he slipped, falling on an iron bolt projecting from the side of the truck. At first Mr. Lovell overlooked the incident but as his side continued to pain him, he consulted a doctor and learned that he had fractured his seventh rib.

POLAND'S IRON MAN

Marshall Joseph Pilsudski

New dictatorial powers granted the president of Poland, Ignace Moscicki, foreshadows his resignation in favor of Marshall Joseph Pilsudski, nation's strong man. Moscicki took office with understanding Pilsudski would replace him.

Picton and Prince Edward County

By Our Own Correspondent

Picton, Jan. 31 (Special) —Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Price and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Demille motored to Belleville to see Eddie Cantor in "Roman Scandals."

On Thursday morning Mr. Shepard, who represents the Raleigh Products was driving west on Main Street directly behind another car. The other car stopped suddenly in front of the Royal Hotel, Mr. Shepard tried to apply his brakes to stop too, but because of the icy roads they would not work. He smashed into the other car, taking off both lights and smashing in the radiator on his own car, without damaging the car ahead.

Mrs. Will Hicks, Bowery Street, is able to be about again after a three weeks' illness.

Mrs. Ackerman of Toronto, is now the guest of her grandson, Mr. Morley Ackerman, Union Street, after spending the past two weeks with relatives at Fairmount.

Mr. Gerald Bailie, formerly of Picton, has accepted a position in the office of an oil company at Passadena, Calif.

The auction sale at the Myer's farm on Wednesday afternoon drew a large crowd and some of the chattles sold very low. Wood sold very much below the market price.

Mrs. Will Burford and two children of Toronto, are the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tripp.

On Thursday night the young people of St. Gregory's Church held a very enjoyable dance at Bayside Park. Over two hundred attended, and enjoyed dancing to music furnished by Harry Rose's orchestra. Those responsible for the successful carrying out of the affair were Jack Davis, Walter Bond, Harry Doyle, Grace Goodwin, Kathleen McLelland and Catherine Bond. There were many novelty dances. The spot dance prizes were won by Arthur Goodwin and Keith Gilmore. The "Pantry Shelf" catered for the affair.

Large crowds coming from all parts of the county took advantage of the many bargains featured by the Picton merchants in connection with the Poultry Show and Winter Fair on Friday and Saturday. The play money given with each fifty cents purchase was eagerly collected.

The Fair itself drew interested crowds at the Armouries. Poultry, cats, dogs, rabbits, guinea pigs, pigeons, ferrets were shown. There were many interesting exhibits of quilts, rugs, thrift articles and fancy work in the women's section. Many of the new model cars were on display.

On Friday night the Armouries were filled for the splendid programme put on. There were boxing bouts, an "old time fiddlers" contest and a pie eating contest for boys. Picton's best fiddler was a woman—Mrs. Stewart, who carried off the first prize—Jake Wannamaker was second, Dave Douetta, third and John Douetta fourth.

Seven boys with their hands tied behind their backs, entered the pie eating contest, young Ben Hyderman was easily the winner, and carried off a large box of candy.

On Saturday night the armouries were packed to the doors for the auction sale of the very attractive articles which could only be purchased with play money. Each dollar of play money represented fifty cents spent by the customer. There was only one drawback. One had to be "among the millionaires" to be able to bid. Prices were high. Half tons of coal went at seven hundred and eighty dollars of play money—a set of dishes, card tables, coffee pots, etc., very high. At twelve o'clock the bags filled with samples of groceries finished the list at one hundred and ten play dollars each. Auctioneer Robert Jones was kept busy for three hours disposing of the merchandise, assisted by L. B. Calnan, Phil Browne and the Boy Scouts.

Sympathy is expressed for the family of Mr. George Sinden, whose death occurred on Wednesday, Jan. 24th at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Max Potter, just one month after the death of his wife. The funeral service was held at Mrs. Potter's home on Saturday afternoon and interment made in Glenwood cemetery. Mr. Sinden was in his seventy-first year.

Parties from Picton report a good time at the large dance held in the Forester's Hall, Wanpoos on Friday night. Log Cabin orchestra of Belleville supplied the music.

BARNEY ROSS DANCES

Beating Billy Petrolle, the old "Fargo Express", badly enough to make that veteran ringman retire, is just a snap for Barney Ross, world lightweight champion, for here is the Chicago fistic star, a few hours after his battle, enjoying a dance with Miss Nitza Vernille in a New York night club.

NO GLANDERS HEREABOUTS

Recent Case in West Cited by Dr. O. Reed

Glanders, dreaded disease among horses, for which there is little hope of recovery, and upon which the eyes of the veterinary world throughout Canada would be focussed if an outbreak were discovered, has become one of the rarest of ailments, according to Dr. O. Reed, governmental veterinary of this city, questioned today.

The attention of Dr. Reed was drawn to a news despatch from Montreal where a slight epidemic of that disease had recently broken out but had been swiftly brought under control when infected animals were killed and other drastic measures adopted.

"We haven't had a case of glanders in this district for the past ten or twelve years," stated Dr. Reed in answer.

Further consultation of records by him revealed that the last case discovered in Canada had been in Saskatchewan between 1932 and '33. During that time, also a total of 1219 horses, which were suspected of harboring the latent germ or which had revealed symptoms of the disease had been treated.

"It is a disease peculiar to logging camps where the animals are quartered closely together, and there is little chance of treating them with the most approved methods of prevention. The germ is generally present in such places and the reason for an epidemic is that the horses are imported, harboring the germ."

Two weeks ago Dr. Reed was called to Thurlow where a resident believed that his horse had contracted the disease, but it was just "a bad case of sniffles and bronchial trouble".

"Glanders is watched more carefully than any other disease by the veterinary doctors", stated Dr. Reed. "When it does occur there is little that can be done except dispose of the afflicted animal before the contagion spreads."

Battle Against Scurvy Ends For Sick Trapper

Cranberry Portage, Man., Jan. 30 —(CP)—A 10-weeks battle against scurvy—dread disease that sapped the strength of Canada's 17th century settlers—was ended today for Dick Tessier, trapper, as he received medical attention here, after an arduous trip from his cabin, on Reindeer Lake, 400 miles north of The Pas, Man.

A padding trapper found him ill in his northland shack on Reindeer Lake. The traveller left him what little food he had and sent his partner Jimmy Petersen to take Tessier out to Nelson House on New Year's Day. Fourteen days of mushing brought Petersen and Tessier to the trading post and there and aeroplane took the stricken trapper to the BPD of Steel, a 110-mile flight to Sherritton.

FACTS ABOUT HYDRO—No. 1 of a series of official announcements by the Ontario Municipal Electric Association (O.M.E.A.), representing the Municipalities who own the Hydro-Electric System of Ontario.

ONTARIO MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION

Who Owns Hydro?

The great public service enterprise known as the Hydro-Electric System, or simply as "Hydro", while operated and administered by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario acting in the capacity of trustee, with the Government of Ontario acting as banker, is the property of the people of the associated Hydro municipalities.

Hydro-Electric power is distributed, through the agency of the Hydro municipalities, to the citizens who use this low cost electric service.

The Ontario Municipal Electric Association (O.M.E.A.) is an organization constituted to represent its member municipalities—the owners of Hydro—and to make representations to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the O.M.E.A., held in the City of Toronto on October 31, 1933, a Publicity Committee was appointed "to collect and disseminate information in respect to Hydro facts". At a subsequent meeting, held on November 30, 1933, the Executive Committee individually endorsed and unanimously passed the following Resolution regarding Publicity.

WHEREAS, from time to time, statements have been made and published with respect to the Hydro System of Ontario that are not in accordance with the facts, and which, if allowed to go unanswered, tend to create doubts in the minds of the public, and more particularly that section of the public which is not sufficiently interested, or will not take the time, to look into matters carefully enough to secure the information for themselves;

AND WHEREAS the Municipalities of Ontario are the owners of the Hydro System, in which they have an investment of some three hundred millions of dollars; and anything which would create distrust in the minds of the people as to the proper and efficient conduct of this great Public Utility would tend to impair the value of the investment of the Municipalities in the Hydro System:

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED:—THAT The Executive Committee of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association endorses the report of the Publicity Committee;

THAT we believe, with them, that the time is now opportune to carry out the repeated requests and suggestions which have been made from time to time by our Association;

THAT a campaign of publicity be carried on so that the people of Ontario, who have been responsible for the outstanding success of this great Public Utility during its twenty-five years of existence, shall be given from time to time all necessary information as to the administration and operation of the Hydro System and its branches in all parts of Ontario . . . . .

In pursuance of this Resolution, the Publicity Committee of the O.M.E.A. will publish informative statements which will set forth, clearly and simply, what Hydro ownership has done for the people of this Province. The facts about Hydro speak for themselves.

EUCHRE, BRIDGE, DANCE, SUCCESS

Women's And Men's Branches of Conservative Club Stage Affair

The Women's and Men's branches of the Bellecity Conservative Association, jointly, Tuesday evening staged one of the largest and most successful of social, bridge and dancing parties of the season. Some 300 guests answered the public invitation of President Mrs. Hope McGinnis and Mr. Frank M. McKeown and enjoyed the evening in the Odd-Fellows' spacious rooms in the I.O.O.F. Temple. Cards were played 'till shortly after 10:30 o'clock, and following the serving of delicious refreshments, dancing was in just before midnight. The floor of the lodge room was filled with happy dancers and interested onlookers and all enjoyed the 'excellent and tuneful music of Charlie Chase's orchestra.

To Mrs. McGinnis, president of the Women's Conservative Club, of this city and the enthusiastic and capable members of her committees goes much of the deserved credit for the success of the affair. The women's committee had the hearty and excellent co-operation from President F. M. McKeown and the men of the Bellecity Conservative Association. The thanks of the chief executives of both bodies and their members goes to those who contributed the prizes for the euchre, and to those, who so willingly and readily lent their aid in promoting the affair and helping to make it a noteworthy and pleasant event. Mrs. Gilmour, now resident in Belleville, widow of the late Mr. Gilmour, of the renowned Gilmour's Band, donated the ladies' first prizes for bridge and euchre; the gentlemen's prizes of her stock were and design. Mr. W. H. Ireland, M.P., provided the music for the dancing and Mr. W. E. Tumson, M.P.P., and Mr. M. J. Payne, K.C., made liberal donations for the prizes and the Conger Coal Company Co. The balance of the prizes were donations of individual members of the organizations.

Winners in Euchre were: Ladies—Mrs. W. Jordan, Miss Mabel Henderson and Miss M. Orr. Men — J. Clarke, Charles Aikens and Wm. Rogers.

In Bridge, winners were: Ladies —Mrs. J. Bateman and Mrs. Fred Weymark; consolation, Mrs. G. W. McCarthy. Men—Mr. Peter and and F. Leggett; consolation, Mr. Adams.

The door prize went to Mrs. Harry Gordon.

The helpful assistants of Mrs. McGinnis as heads of committees were: Bridge, Mrs. Neate; euchre, Mrs. Byrnes and Mrs. A. Lester; Tables, Mrs. Broadrib and Miss Byrnes; refreshments, Mrs. F. M. McKeown, while the services so capably looked after was governed by Mrs Warren, Mrs. Pritchard and Mrs. Adams.

The first Conservative party in the city since 1934 was a splendid success throughout, and those responsible in it can feel assured that a repetition of it is eagerly awaited by those who attended Tuesday night's affair.

AT THE BELLE

"DESIGN FOR LIVING"

And so it came to pass that the little lady lover two handsome men and Super Bowl "happily ever after.

Sounds like adult entertainment, and it is. It's Noel Coward's "Design for Living" which Paramount transferred to the screen with Frederic March, Gary Cooper, Miriam Hopkins and Edward Everett Horton in the cast, brilliantly directed by Ernest Lubitsch. It opened at the Belle tomorrow (Thursday) for four days, matinee daily.

The film is an adaptation of the brilliant, broadway romantic comedy of the same name in which Coward mingles with drama in situations that have no matches for originality in cinema annals and it spent Lubitsch with a story of subplot that will be copied extensively in days to come.

Charlie Chase introduces a spree of fun in "The Constant Nymph" "The Cracked Ice Man," an interesting Pathe Dramatic Novelty. The coward, the anarchist inventor, the child, the miser who dies of heart break because her son is a dope fiend, the devoted wife. See Loretta Young and Alice MacMahon as the mother in the hero's life and Richard Bartholmess himself, as the hero, in the most sympathetic and human role of his career. The actor who became world famous in "Tol'able David" (do you remember it?) and reached such heights in "The Dawn Patrol," here appears as both soldier and civilian. Soldier, civilian, husband, father, leader — it's easy to say a hero! And to all sides of this exacting role, he

"Heroes for Sale" and "My Wife's Mother"

The reek of a prison camp. An interlude of love and home-life. And then—disgrace, betrayal, despair, jail! With rising interest, you will follow Richard Barthelmess thru this enthralling series of adventures, waiting to see what happens at the end. But see the picture! There are surprises in store at the Capitol Thursday.

"Heroes for Sale" is a tale of action and real life. Here we have the profoundly ironical story of the coward who is acclaimed a hero, and the hero who comes home to disgrace and jail. We have the astonishing story of the struggle of an honest man pitted single-handed against a richly human background of love and devotion, of father-love and mother-love.

"Heroes for Sale" is a picture of human character. The coward, the ward, the anarchist inventor, the child, the miser who dies of heart break because her son is a dope fiend, the devoted wife. See Loretta Young and Alice MacMahon as the mother in the hero's life and Richard Bartholmess himself, as the hero, in the most sympathetic and human role of his career. The actor who became world famous in "Tol'able David" (do you remember it?) and reached such heights in "The Dawn Patrol," here appears as both soldier and civilian. Soldier, civilian, husband, father, leader — it's easy to say a hero! And to all sides of this exacting role, he more appealing than ever.

My Wife's Mother

Brilliantly directed and enacted this pre-marital farce concerns the tribulations of the hero, who is to be married, Angela, whom he is to marry, and who, when he married, is to mention George's future mother-in-law and the man she married.

Hilarity and confusion reign right before his wedding receive a visit from a fat neighbor who has been accidentally locked out. Clad only in pyjamas and dressgown by the storm, she insists on taking a hot bath, sensitive Angela, the prospective bride, arrives. The piquant complexities which ensue will leave filmgoers helpless and weak from laughing.

Supporting Gene in these complicated and joyous absurdities are Camilla Horn, the lovely German actress, as the pert Pitt; Nancy Burne, an attractive newcomer to films, as the bride-to-be, and Jerry Verno, who will be seen once more as George Bigge-Smith, the mother-in-law. It is the funniest farce you've seen in many a day.

Last times tonight of "The Constant Woman" with Conrad Nagel, Leila Hyams, plus other short subjects.

ZWICK'S ISLAND PROJECT

ing his address, "than that paid me by my interpreter, who referred to me as a preacher of the gospel of peace. Zwick's Island is your project and it is made successful at the first." By looking at the surroundings of a home, Mr. Moore said he could tell the kind of people that lived in it. Beautify your property urged Mr. Moore and "make liveable life, in that house in which you have your home." The appearance of the residing in a house was influenced considerably by the appearance of that home. Flowers are no longer a luxury but have become essential. In beautifying your own premises you were not only doing it for yourself but for your fellow citizens as well. If there is no civic beautification for your city, the task pass it by. Civilization cannot be complete without beautification of our cities and towns.

Love For Every Citizen.

The park at Zwick's Island or Zwick's Island made a park is ideal for tourists only but for every citizen of Belleville. And in its making, even the first step in its preparation was benefitting the city. "It is a gem, a thing, a great idea," said the speaker. Men, citizens of Belleville, you are working there who otherwise the city would have to support in the form of relief. You are were working for money again, making a decent living and spending it among the merchants of the merchants of the city, paying their taxes, and saving during depression so did something worthwhile, something that will always repay."

Mr. Moore then predicted the project as developing and what the full development would realize. The island with its bathing beach, its boating, its tennis, its recreation grounds, its ornamental shrubs, trees and flower beds and the drive-ways about its shoreline. This all was not contemplated completion at once, the plans called for a gradual development. The money cost would not be excessive, plans were along naturalistic lines and laid out in such a way that called for a minimum amount of expense. Mr. Moore had visited the island that afternoon, the first step in the work there was pretty near accomplished and grading would doubtless be finished in two or three weeks.

In concluding the first portion of his address Mr. Moore referred to the progress made with the project as "doing better than they know, they are building for the years to come."

PRODUCE PRICES IN MONTREAL

Butter and egg prices rose higher on the Montreal dairy and produce market yesterday, while other lines remained unchanged. The butter market had a wide range, with quotations generally between 30c and 30½c a pound for cartons or less of No. 1s, regraded pasteurized, a net gain of ½c over Monday's levels and the highest prices touched so far this winter. Receipts totalled 100 boxes.

The egg market was generally a cent a dozen higher. Graded shipments in cartons or less of fresh Ontario eggs sold for 30c a dozen for "A" large; 28c for "A" medium, and 27c for "A" small. The total of 1,419 cases was offered for sale during the day.

Current Ontario cheese was unchanged at 19½c a pound, with arrivals amounting to 1,000 boxes.

Quebec potatoes brought 90c to 95c per 90 lb. bag, and New Brunswick Mountains, 85c to $1.00 for similar quantities. Prince Edward Island Mountains in 80 lb. bags brought $1.15 to $1.20.

POULTRY STOCKS IN STORAGE

The first report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics covering cold-storage holdings in Canada on the first of the month, gives stocks of poultry in storage at that date as 11,540,791 pounds, as compared to a five-year average on the same date of 10,118,497 pounds. The storage holdings of poultry among the various provinces are: Quebec stocks are approximately 2,500,000 pounds; Ontario holdings, 6,000,000 pounds; Manitoba, 2,500,000 pounds, with the Saskatchewan and Alberta the stocks are approximately 2,250,000 pounds.

NORWAY OFFERS HONEY MARKET

Norwegian agents of Canadian exporters of honey state that honey imports during the Christmas season show an advance from 1.3 metric tons in 1931 and 1.82 tons in 1932 to something over 9 tons in 1933. According to Foreign Agent Trade Commissioner, re-quires only Bottled honey, free from all glucose, good flavour, quality and of uniform consistency and colour. Every type of bottle can be employed, the most usual for table honey being 1 lb. jars, but also while for baking honey a wide variety of sizes and styles of containers are in use. On account of the difficulty of handling bulk honey, the large casks favored by many French buyers are not liked by the bakers as are the cans of 30 to 60 pounds capacity used by exporters from Canada and other countries.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—The lively action of yesterday's boom-time stock market gave way today to profit-taking operations which found profit taking quite popular.

The fast-moving equities of the previous session met little resistance to the cashing-in process during the early hours, but later in the day turned a little heavy later. At the same time, the volume of transactions dwindled appreciably on the declines.

Bonds were also subjected to moderate realizing.

Some of the utility and alcohol shares held small gains and Union Pacific and Douglas Aircraft got up about a point each. U. S. Steel, on the other hand, was off a point or more, as was Bethlehem, while Allied Chemical, Case, U. S. Smelting and Weaver and Studebaker lost 2 or more each.

Mild strength marked dealings in Canadian stocks. McIntyre and Canadian Malartic were fairly active but small reductions occurred in Dome and International Nickel, and the curb Hiram Walker eased a shade but Lake Shore Mines steadied.

Dominion Government issues were unchanged to slightly improved.

The Canadian dollar was ¼ cent lower at 99.13⅛ cents.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Profit-taking profits taking came into the Toronto Stock Market today to check the upward surge that prevailed during several sessions. Ford "A" was sold actively, also Industrial Alcohol, while the turnover was substantial in Hiram Walker's preferred, Massey Harris and Distillers Seagrams.

Industrial Alcohol was depressed apparently by the news of an exchange of stock whereby Seagrams carried the price back to 16¾ but later rallied to 17. Hiram Walker's Common and Distillers Seagram were off fractions.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Speculative enthusiasm was at low ebb in the Toronto Stock Exchange today and with few exceptions, prices were lower. Base metal issues were kept within narrow bounds. Chemical research proved the most fireworks by advancing up to 3.26, up 37 cents.

Interest in the big gold group was low. Dome eased back 30 cents to $33. Hollinger was unchanged at 13.15, Lake Shore was steady at 24.75, Malartic Gold Fields was off $40. Teck was unchanged at 5.80. Sherritts were off $2.00 and Bralorne up 20 cents at 11.25.

A moderately unsteady tone on the New York Stock Exchange failed to drift down a little, the price holding up well in the main by cents. Noranda lost 15 cents.

Senior golds were also again in low favor today and practically the whole group drifted lower. Losses were insignificant except for Dome which was off about $1.50 this afternoon. Recessions of 10 cents were boarded for Hollinger, Lake Shore, Kirkland Lake, Pioneer, Bralorne, Teck and Hargreaves.

A moderate sell-off on the New York Market and the buying spree by local Interlisted group. Nickel worked down to 22¾, off 30 cents and Noranda lagged about 20 cents.

LODGES

Oxford Lodge S.O.E.

At the January meeting of Oxford Lodge No. 1, Sons of England Juniors an evening of entertainments was provided over which by the Senior members.

Songs and recitations were given and were thoroughly enjoyed. During the evening a Past Presidents' Jewel was presented to the retiring President, Bro. E. Law, Bro. W. H. Adams, Past President of the Senior Lodge making the presentation. Refreshments were served at the conclusion and all agreed that an enjoyable time had been spent.

LES YEREX IS TOP WITH 838

Wins Monthly Bowling Prize at Trenton Alleys

Trenton, Jan. 31 (Special)—Les Yerex returned to his old form last night to roll a three string of 838, 297-284-257 to capture first place in the regular monthly tournament at Tripp's Bowling Academy.

Twenty-four bowlers rolled off for twenty prizes. Louis Lamore was second with 729 following the high single of the night of 336. Les Yerex won a three-candle lamp. Next Louis Lamore, 2, 25 piece ornate set, H. Barnes, 3, Lefleur, V. P. Carswell and H. Baker won a set of dishes each. Al. Stenburg, two dinner plates and Charlie Allen in eighth place won six ruby glasses. The last four names failed to win prizes: Les Yerex, 838, L. Lamore 729, Jim Burns 721, L. Lefleur 705, H. Barker 685, V. P. Carswell 688, Al. Stenburg 674, J. Yerex 666, H. Baker 665, Ray Nathan 648, A. Winder 644, G. Harrison 627, J. Alexander 627, H. Chambers 617, J. Blaschke 586, W. Taylor 580, T. For the first time in the memory of the oldest inhabitants of any big league baseball city, the playing managers of the major baseball circuits will outnumber the bench pilots this season—nine to seven. Five will be in the National league—Frankie Frisch, Jimmy Wilson, Bob O'Farrell, Charley Grimm and Bill Terry—and four in the American—Joe Cronin, Mickey Cochrane, Lew Fonseca and Rogers Hornsby. Chicago and St. Louis will have two each.

Amerks Provide Upset by Downing Maroons and Bruins by Defeating Rangers 2-1

Ottawa Could Not Get By Hawks, Gardiner Being Too Good

SHORE CHEERED

Made First Appearance on Boston Ice Since Suspension

(By the Canadian Press)

Little Rabbit McVeigh found himself cast in a hero's role again today as the New York American hockey team made it plain Montreal Maroons must be very, very good to beat them out of a playoff spot.

The veteran Kenoran, sparkplug of the American attack, scored a goal on Dave Kerr last night with less than five minutes to play and Lou Simpson's work in a 2-1 victory over the team that forms their chief stumbling block to extra-session money.

Amerk's win brought them within three points of Maroons and, combined with Chicago's 2-0 shutout of Ottawa, gave the New Yorkers a four point lead over Senators.

Though Hawks jumped into a tie with New York Rangers for the leading position in United States Division as Les Patrick's team were beaten 2-1 by Boston in the first game Bruins have played at home since Eddie Shore returned to the line-up.

Maroons lost a chance to move into second position in the Canadian division by dropping their contest with Americans. Only a point behind Canadiens, they could have jumped ahead of their intra-city rivals with a win.

With half the third period played, Amerks were trailing by the odd goal in three and their only contact was a gift effort. Irving Frew, Maroon defense man, kicking it into his own net. Dave Trottier had been on Roy Worters in the first period and Bailey Northcott had got Maroons' second in the middle frame.

Then Art Chapman turned the tide with his tying goal, getting it behind Kerr after the goalie had dropped to the ice. McVeigh's goal was a flashy bit of play. Eddie Burke drew the defence and then passed Kerr and the Rabbit wearied the centre Montreal team to get the rebound and whip it home.

Scliout in Boston

More than 16,000 Boston fans, the first sell-out crowd of the season, turned out to cheer Shore's return to Boston ice but Tiny Thompson of the latter's old time playing. The Bruin goalie kicked out 30 shots, most of them dangerous drives by the sharpshooting Rangers.

Bruins found the crowd inspiring and joined Thompson in trying to make the game the most thrilling Boston has seen in several years.

Babe Siebert, working with Dit Clapper and Marty Barry scored the first Boston goal in 67 seconds before the Rangers had settled down to serious business. Lorne Chabot got the second goal with less than a minute of the first period to play, lashing in a shot from the right boards.

Butch Keeling duplicated Siebert's trick when the second opened, scoring in 35 seconds, but the Rangers couldn't get another even when Les Patrick drove in five forwards in the last 10 minutes.

As Thompson stood out in Boston, Charlie Gardiner captured the glory for Chicago Shamrocks commanded the play for the greater part of the game but couldn't get past the Chicago netminder, who starred at his ninth shutout of the season.

Noah Mark and Doc Romnes were the scorers, with March tallying in the second period and Romnes in the third.

GOALER HAD TO BE CARRIED TO POSITION

(By the Canadian Press)

John Rose Roach, once one of the hardest goalers to beat in the National Hockey League, might be down but he's far from out. His teammates carried him to his position in the nets at Syracuse last night and then stopped 31 shots to help his Syracuse mates blank Buffalo 1-0. The veteran was unable to skate because of a knee injury but the crippled goaler hoped against the pain to give one of the best goal tending performances ever witnessed in Syracuse, or other cities of the International Hockey League.

While Roach's star was shining Ebenezer Hockey Club leaped to second place Detroit Olympics were knocked off their point total at the top of the league by losing to the fifth win over Windsor Bulldogs in a 4-1 victory.

Harvey Bats in Winning Counter Against Trenton and Juniors Cinch First Place

Ten Minutes Overtime Required to Win 5-4

PERFECT ICE

Locals Showed Too Much Experience Although Outplayed in Spots

Jack Harvey's goal in the second overtime period on a passout from Done Lee gave the Belleville juniors a 5 to 4 win over the Trenton kids in a 70-minute junior O.H.A. struggle staged at the Belleville Arena last evening. With the score all knotted up at the end of the regular playing time both teams began action to the winds and played wide open hockey in the overtime to give the 500-odd fans repeated thrills.

The city area Beehive forwards scored lead in their group, and scarred them off first place regardless of future games, and they have yet to be defeated. Four times during the contest last night the locals went into the lead only to have the visitors knot the count and force the issue into overtime.

Although the local boys carried the good play combination plays of the Trenton club were far superior to that of Belleville. Stewart, McGrath, Bob Greer and Cy Barrage led the forwards with Goalie Ethier garnering the most number of scoring points, two goals and an assist. McGuire and Greer were well both ways with Lee and High improving as the game progressed. The weather is thought to have kept the attendance down.

Play

For Trenton Cottrell in the nets repeatedly saved his team with miraculous saves, while Thompson on the defence assumed star role throughout. Also Lee and Jack Elliot were the pick of the forwards with Lott and Pat Greig in fine form. Lack of finish around the nets spoiled many chances. Their combination plays were roundly applauded.

Play

Decked out in their new red and white uniforms the locals opened the ice by forcing the play and with the fact that they did not seem to utilize the new forward formation both teams were flatlined to rumble the puck around the centre ice area that the first period proved rather uninteresting.

Midfield opened the scoring late in the first on a solo effort from Greig to end. Then then Greig drew a nice pass from L'Heureux and made a 2-0 lead when midway through the lead was shortlived however when Lott cuffed the rubber past Cottrell to pass from Price at the end of the period.

Three minutes after the second period opened Lennox coasted up the right boards and fired the rubber behind Sinfield on a nice wing shot to even the count. Then there was no what appeared to be a sure goal when Thompson tripped him for which he drew a penalty. Ethier put Belleville in the lead again on a nice combination play and Goalie Kidd again knotted the score on a pass from Lee.

Barrage scored early in the third period on a pass from Stewart, Thompson made it 4-4 when he drifted a long one past Sinfield.

Both goalies were the busy during the overtime and after nine minutes of play Harry Lee passed to Lee and Lee dashed in and grabbed the rebound and scored the game. After a scramble Lee passed to Harvey and the game was all over. Jack Harvey's goal in the second seen here in some time; seven penalties were handed out by Referee Green, all for minor infractions. Three were given to each club.

The line-up:

Belleville—Goal, Sinfield; defence, Greer and McBrath; centre, Barrage; wings, Ethier and L'Heureux. Alt. Goal, Kidd; defence, Lee and Goire.

CATARACTS OUT OF SENIOR RACE

Defeated by Westonats 2-1 in Fast, Clean Contest

(By the Canadian Press)

Port Colborne Sailors were out of the Senior Hockey Association picture today, toppled from a playoff berth by Westonats, who moved up into their point total at the top of the league by defeating the fifth win over Windsor Bulldogs in a 4-1 victory.

TWEED WINS FROM MADOC

Second Time This Season Madoc Has Bowed to Same Team

Madoc, Jan. 31 (Special)—Gerald Quinn's lads again defeated the Tweed Intermediates in the O. B. J. Madoc apparently had the game in hand when with less than 3 minutes to go they were leading by a score of 3 to 2, but Tweed succeeded the defeat of the locals. With less than a minute left in the first period Tweed showed in two good in quick succession, Madoc replied in the second by tying up the score. In the third period Madoc appeared to have the edge gaining a one goal advantage about 3 minutes after play began.

The first line of Ware, Henderson and Akey went very well but the second line was far off color. The Madoc defence was also in much hockey. The Madoc defence was not as airtight as it might have been.

For Tweed Kelly and Rupert was outstanding while Hendrix, Ware and McDuke played well. Thompson and Bell were the pick of the Madoc squad. Both teams were fielded to rumble the puck around the centre ice area that the first period proved rather uninteresting.

Midfield opened the scoring late in the first on a solo effort from Greig to end. Then then Greig drew a nice pass from L'Heureux and made a 2-0 lead when midway through the lead was shortlived however when Lott cuffed the rubber past Cottrell to pass from Price at the end of the period.

Current Sport

DAY BY DAY

The local Ki-Y League scored another triumph and added to their laurels in delivering the victory of the local B.C.I. puckster over the Albert College hockeyists on Monday afternoon. Every player wearing the triolor had received early training in the Ki-Y League with the exception of Morris L'Heureux, who recently came here from Port Arthur.

As a matter of fact there are Ki-Y League graduates playing junior and intermediate O.H.A., as well as with the local senior team. In the past we have lauded the Ki-Y League and endeavored to boost it whenever possible as it has more than proved a producer of hockey talent in this city of means that practically 150 young Canadians are receiving an early training and tuition in the great Canadian game of hockey alone. The heads of this organization are to be congratulated for which their once small organization has blossomed into a producer of champions.

Coach Ralph Murdoch informs us that the Kingston "Y" caps have also asked the local squad here tonight are about the speediest quintette seen in Eastern Ontario for some years. Coach Murdoch, who thinks highly of his crop says charge is moving the game to the local collegiate floor tonight so as to have more floor space for the K.O.A.S.A. fixture. To test the relative strength between the two Eastern Ontario junior basketball champions Hunters and the local Deacon A. C. kids meet up in an exhibition game before the regular intermediate fixture.

Although basketball is a major sport in the United States it seemingly cannot get a firm grasp on Canadian sport fans. Recently at a college cage game between Iowa State and Northwestern 10,000 fans thronged their way into an auditorium to witness the struggle. Basketball is a fast, keen game, that should appeal to all sport lovers. One of the features of the game is the fact that the players are not allowed to dribble the ball in the latter cold, as all games are played in nicely heated buildings. (That's something of note these days at least.)

When Benny Bowen's Trenton intermediates make their 1934 initial bow here a local crowd tomorrow night they will be out will known sport as a loss for the black and white will spell elimination for them from further O.H.A. competition this season. On the other hand the Dolerites are equally as well on the "spot" as a defeat for them will obliterate their chances of finishing a tie with the group leading Barrage. Of late the Dolerite have been scoring goals here-to-fore inasmuch that Coach L'Heureux changes their style of attack to reap the best possible results for their efforts while on the defensive the Dolerites does not prove successful Coach L'Heureux is not adverse to changing his team's style to suit the occasion.

Down at the South End A. C. they are staging one of their fortnightly boxing bouts tonight. All participants on the card are up-and-coming kids who are fast learning the art of fisticuffs. Incidentally we understand that Freddie Hall has not officially received his green colored, as it blue, amateur card yesterday and is anxious to get a bout as soon as possible.

Eddie Thomas' pets assured themselves of first place in their respective junior group last night by eking out a 5 to 4 win over the Trenton Intermediates in a seventy minute game that should have been over long before the sixty minute bell sounded. On the night's play the combination plays used by the Bowen-coached crew completely outclassed the visitors in this department. Lack of team play by the locals was quite noticeable. The Belleville kids must learn to pass the puck to their teammates instead of trying to be a one-man team.

It was like old times to see a local team decked out in red and white. Incidentally the new unies nearly carried their usual jinx of defeat. The fact was in existence inasmuch as the locals were fortunate to pull out the short end of the boys. The local crew follow the rubber about elbow-to-elbow and their style of play resembles that of a well-oiled machine. Taking into consideration that the local team are practically a new club and have done exceptionally well considering it is its first season together, the Quinte-Bowen team will be a formidable threat next season together. Quinte has always been a real classy band of pucksters with the play-off between them and the Belleville crew a toss-up. George Laibrah was on hand to encourage his pets last night.

ELDORADO IS BLANKED 3-0

Cooper Much The Best on Ice None Too Good

Eldorado, Jan. 31.—(Special)—In a fast game of hockey the locals defeated Eldorado here on Monday night by the score of 3 to 0. Due to the adverse weather the ice became rather slushy making good hockey impossible as the game progressed.

LOVE'S LOTTERY

— by —

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

of invisible dragons gives neither to you nor to me, nor—" his voice faltered a moment— "to him a chance to win. I want you to cable him from Florence when we get back, dear, to ask him to run over.. Then we'll have what his sort calls 'a conference'; we'll say, 'Cicily, here is the man who loves you and here is the man you love,' and we'll decide who will make you happiest—eh? And not a bad scheme, I think...."

"If you love me as much as you say you do, you're running a risk," she pointed out. He grew suddenly white, and his hands gripped the steering wheel until his skin was old parchment, strained over knuckles.

Yet he did not feel as she did; he felt it the safest course. And—had it not been—he wanted her to be sure; and he wanted her to be happy, even if her happiness made him greedy.

"Think up what you'll say sweetheart," he ordered, as the car sped on towards Florence.

Thus, she cabled. Geoffrey's cable came in return:

"YOU DARLING STOP HAVE BEEN IN HELL FOR SEVEN MONTHS STOP YOULL NEVER KNOW HOW I LOVE YOU STOP BUT MARKET PERILOUSLY UNSTEADY CANT GET AWAY NOW SIMPLY IMPOSSIBLE STOP AM WRITING WILL JOIN YOU LATER WHEREVER YOU SAY STOP ALWAYS YOURS DEAREST DARLING ONE GEOFF."

Terry read it; she had passed it to him to read.

"When do you wish to marry me, Terry?" she asked, quietly.

"Now," he answered.

She had not expected quite that. "I want to be married in New York, Terry," she stated......She felt the small cheat she was as she temporized.

"I see," he answered gently. And he did see.

He settled by her upon a small davenport that stood before Hilda's fire, which was now a necessity and more than a cheering decoration. He put an arm around her slender shoulders, to draw her against him. For only a moment she stiffened, then she relaxed, realizing that she was foolish, edgy and unnecessarily withdrawn.

"You need not be afraid of me, dear," he said "But my telling you won't help that. When time has told you, you will believe it, but time is slow about speaking. However, where do you want to go for your——" (He was going to say "honeymoon"; he stopped abruptly) "where do you want to wander with me—when we can wander without Miss Ella—or Hilda," he ended.

"Oh, I don't care, Terry," she answered, heavily.

He thought, drearily, and with a downward plunge of heart, "I know you don't—"

"How about a trip—a desert trip from Biskra?" he asked. "Camels, sand in the coffee, sunsets that make you think you have never before seen color ;attendants who will make you wish yo ufore a veil and—and make you look at me with scorn! Riding all day until you're so decently tired that you'll sink to sleep the moment you touch your pallet; strange foods and new noises——"

She had turned swiftly to him. "Oh, Terry, will you take me there?" she questioner, eagerly.

"I'll take you anywhere in the world you want to go," he promised, his voice low. "I'll do anything you want me to. I'll not do anything you'd rather not—have me do. I mean that—do you know how much I mean that? And how I mean it?"

"Yes— Terry", she answered, breathless.

"Good!" he said crisply and with a whole return to his usually every day manner. "Now lean back and stop acting as if I were Blue-beard in disguise. Cross my heart, dear, there are nothing but boots and tweeds and braces in my wardrobe."

She laughed suddenly, unsteadily, her head against his shoulder.

Why should she not love him? No one could be kinder, no one could be more attuned to her moods —to the needs of her moods! Geoffrey would join her anywhere she named (when the market steadied). Geoffrey would join her —anywhere he said....And she had just told—Terry—she would marry him—in New York. Six—or nine days crossing, governed by their choice of boat ....She would say she wanted—a slow trip. And——they could linger on here, a bit. And stop in Paris. Stopping in Paris for clothes would be logical, the natural thing to do. Perhaps she could manage to linger —a month—or six weeks—in Paris. Her palms had grown damp as her hard-clenched hands grew cold; she had realized suddenly that she must not cheat Terry, dear, kind, good Terry!

She felt his cheek against her hair. "What the devil is the matter now?" he questioned.

She was, suddenly, crying. "Terry", she confessed. "I think you're marrying a maniac."

"Darling, I have never differed in any manner from other men. I do not expect to now!"

"I knew Geoff for so many years, you know....I, always dreamed of marrying him.... and just now——I thought of how I could lengthen the time—getting my wedding things —and take a slow boat to New York. I know my peace will come from marrying you, but —I'm so—afraid."

He spoke then as she had never heard him speak. "I know all this," he said, "and how you feel. I know you, Cicily, better than you know yourself, and I know, too, that you will only prolong this misery of yours by a long engagement. Long engagements are for happy, certain lovers who fret at the stretch of days, not for temporarily unbalanced young persons who think —when alone and in dark and when sleepless—'Can I go through with it'."

She drew away in surprise. She had felt certain that she had hidden "all that"——her fright, her wild panic. He kissed the tip of her nose: he smiled down at her.

"Married to me, dear,' he promised, "you're going to think 'what was the matter with me?' ....and when things bother you, you will come to me, and when I bother you —I shall disappear and—I shall know—without a word—when I am not wanted!"

He always did know how she felt, she realized. She dropped her head against his shoulder once more, a broad shoulder. For a second her eyes smarted: "I'm no fool!" she decided....Terry was perfect, but——she didn't love him! She loved, instead a man whose only true lethe was in the market place, and for whom love was, and ever would be, an aside.

Her revery was broken by Terry's speaking. "Since you want to be married in New York," he said, "we will be married there, but you will not stop in Paris....I am sorry to be so autocratic, my dear, but we—Miss Ella, Hilda, you and I—are going to take passage on the first fast boat. And in New York—we'll be married straight off—see, dear?"

His square chin was set. He smiled down at her suddenly, and his chin thawed.

"It is for you I am doing this, Cicily." he stated. "You know that?"

"I know—you do most things for me."

"This most of all——Nothing will come of this mania of yours for the boy you've loved so long—but—more pain, more uncertainty. I am going to give you one certainty; that will be made by your being my wife. And through that certainty, I hope to give you, with opportunity and time, a little substitute for ——the thing ——you've lost."

Terry was staring down at her as he wondered whether she would ever know of his want to take her into his arms, to hold her close, hard, fast and forever. It might be, he reasoned, that she never would know, and that he would never have her, thus. The dream made his hunger keen and he stifled a deep drawn breath as he set his teeth on his lower lip.

"I've been looking up ships," he said. (He could not now, even dare , "dear". "We'll go to Paris and motor from there to Cherbourg and boat from thence to New York. Tomorrow I'll book passage."

"As you wish, Terry and——if it suits the rest." Cicily answered; she thought suddenly and with a rise of heart that it might not suit the rest.

"Quite pleases them; I spoke to them of it," he informed her, crisply.

"Are you always going to dominate in this way?" she questioned.

"Always when it is for your good."

"Will you always know what is for my good?"

"Well, only God knows that, and only God knows how much I hope ——I shall know what will make good for you from that which will make evil for you....But —you know" he tossed his cigarette into the fire——"but you know", he repeated. "I always had fair marks in my studies and I never had one that interested me as does this.. a study dearest, frankly, of neurosis; a neurosis grown of a too-long uninterrupted survey of a golden calf on a false altar."

"You are not too flattering!"

flatter; the real lover only tries to

"The lover does not flatter. The man who must pretend love—has to tell of the love he feels; his truth is, ever beyond any expression and his most extravagant words are understung."

He touched the top of her head with his lips, fleetingly lightly, then trying to speak lightly, said, "But you look tired. Suppose you trot off to bed? It's time for you to be there. And tomorrow we'll have our last party in Florence—for this time. Good night, dear!"

He kissed her pointed chin and then her cheek. She watched him looking after her as she mounted the stairs, and for the first time she felt a stir of heart from the way his eyes followed her.

Alone he sat before the fire to stare moodily into it and to smoke cigarette after cigarette....It was not going to be easy to give to her that which he had promised..peace comfort, the feeling of having always, a friend within reach of her sweet hand; but he could always say, "Trot off to bed——"when the fight grew too hard for him, when the hunger and emptiness of his arms and heart were apt to betray him.

CHAPTER 21

The voyage was exactly what Cicily had expected it would be, with Terry by her in a deck chair, alert to see that she was well wrapped in her steamer rug; amusing when she wished to be diverted; silent (knowing, somehow) when she wished silence. They read together talked and shared long, quiet intervals. He danced beautifully, she found; and found, flatteringly, that he would dance only with her.

Miss Ella, who at first sight had laid her heart at Terry's feet, was now close to middle-age mad about him.

"Never—never knew such a man!" she murmured; "the dearest, most thoughtful! And so modest, and the way he looks at you, Cicily—"

Cicily, by Miss Ella's side, stirred uneasily. She did not want to think of the way he looked at her—when she did not have to.

And then, one morning, the long slow days at sea were done with.

"I'm sorry this interlude is over!" she said as they hurried toward the street from the pier. "I've— loved it!"

"It wasn't too bad," Terry agreed. He pressed her arm. "I'll be along to see you, and before, perhaps, I shall be wanted!" he promised as they dropped him at a mid-town hotel where many of the English seem to gravitate.

Miss Ella and Cicily went on to their Park Avenue apartment. Benson opened the apartment door to them. It tightened a heart to reach "home", Cicily found, even when "home" stood for a shelter used, perhaps, for but two or three months of a year.

Miss Ella pattered into her small sitting room where the welcoming mail waited her. Cicily, bag swinging from her hand, wandered into the drawing room. Here she saw first, in a large silver vase on a low table, the sort of red roses Geoffrey had often sent to her, and then she saw him: Geoff! Geoff, standing by a window, arms crossed, head dropped; rigid from strain, but—smiling. She felt her knees begin to shake.

"Geoff—" she said, unsteadily.

To Stop COLDS QUICK!

A COLD is twice as easily relieved in the first, or Dry, stage. Don't waste precious time with half-way measures. Take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine quickly—it does the four things necessary. First, it opens the bowels. Second, it combats the cold germs in the system. It relieves that headache and "grippy" feeling and tones the entire system and helps fortify against further attack.

Ask for it by the full name, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine —and insist on getting it.

Look for "L.B.Q." on every tablet.

Grove's LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE

Indigestion, Worn Out

YOU lose vital nerve force if you allow your stomach to distress you. Acid stomach, indigestion, gas or biliousness, and "costiveness," cause the blood to be poisoned and will eventually destroy health and nerve force. This is what Mrs. Jesse Thompson of Route 2, Dorchester Station, Ont., said: "For years Mr. Thompson (see picture) suffered from indigestion and constipation. He was bothered with bloating in the stomach after eating. He used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for about three months. It has been a year now and he hasn't had the slightest sign of that trouble since. Why shouldn't I praise Dr. Pierce's remedies!"

New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. All druggists.

TILLIE THE TOILER

By Russ Westover.

BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan had vanished almost before the Horib guarding him realized it. When he did, he raised a cry of warning to those ahead, but neither by sight nor sound could they locate the fugitive, who was swinging rapidly through the upper terraces of the forest. Jana, riding a little in the rear of Tarzan saw his escape. Her heart sank as she realized she was now alone and unprotected among the lizard-men.

Brave as she was, The Red Flower of Zoram came as near to experiencing fear as she ever had in her life. She did not blame Tarzan for escaping when he had the chance. But she had felt safe in his presence and now she felt very much alone. She told herself that Jason would not thus have deserted her . . . Following the scent spoor that was his only guide, Tarzan of the Apes moved rapidly through the trees. He climbed high and here he found a new world.

It was a world of brilliant sunlight, luxuriant foliage and flowers. There were strange birds, flying beasts and gaudy moths. Not once had he doubted the origin of the scent he followed, though he could not imagine how it had come into this gloomy wood of vast Pellucidar. He moved rapidly, for he wished to reach his destination ahead of the Horibs. He hoped his escape would delay the lizard-men while they searched for him, and so it did.

The Horibs climbed the trees and searched about for the gilak prisoner who had broken away. When finally, thwarted in their search, they resumed their march, they were in an ugly mood which boded no good for Jana. Far ahead of them Tarzan had dropped to the lower terraces. Strong now in his nostrils was the scent spoor he had been following. It told him truer than words that he had but little farther to go to find those he sought.
